BABIES BENEFIT BY NEW SKIN DISCOVERY

Stops Itching Immediately, Soothes and Comforts the Little Ones.

A demonstration of the efficacy and entire harmlessness of poslam, the new skin discovery, is afforded when it is applied to the tender skin of infants who are tortured with rashes, chafings, scaly and crusted humors and other skin aggravations. Its effect is soothing, the itching stops at once, the skin heals and is quickly restored to normal condition.

In various forms of skin troubles in both infants and adults, poslam produces beneficial results from the first application. Eczema, acne, rash, herpes, tetter, etc., yield readily to its remarkable curative properties. Occasional applications will quickly banish pimples, blotches and complexion blemishes and will relieve and cure itching feet, scaly scalp, humors, etc.

Poslam can be had for fifty cents at any reliable druggist's, particularly the Lyceum Pharmacy and Abbett's in Duluth, and Holmberg's in Superior, who make a specialty of it. Or the Emergency Laboratories, No. 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York city, will send a trial supply free by mail to any one who will write for it. This is sufficient to show results in twenty-four hours.

After 25 Years

Of constant practice in Duluth—after thirty years of constant study of the ailments common to man, the Specialists of The Progressive Medical Association of Duluth have become so thoroughly convinced of their own ability to cure that they issue with each accepted case

A LEGAL GUARANTEE TO CURE!

Hundreds of unsolicited testimonials have been sent by grateful patients, many of them by men whose cases had been given up by other physicians

There is health for you—no matter what your ailment nor of how long standing. If The Progressive Medical Association agrees to take your case, they will absolutely guarantee to cure you!

Delays, however, are dangerous. Don't put it off—call today, or if it is not possible for you to call, write.

No one but your physician and yourself need know—all transactions are strictly confidential.

Although personal treatment is preferable, it is not absolutely necessary in all cases. If you cannot come personally, write for symptom blank.

ENGINEER IS KILLED

Pinned Under His Engine When It Jumps the Track.

Fireman Is Also Badly Scalded and May Die.

Amos J. Burton, a Northern Pacific engineer, was killed and David Gibson, a fireman, perhaps fatally injured in a wreck near Washburn, Wis., about 10 o'clock this morning. The details of the accident have not yet reached the city.

From what can be gleaned from meager reports, it is understood that the engine pulling a mixed passenger and freight train, left the rails at Lenawee, twenty miles out of Washburn.

A dispatch from Washburn this afternoon states that the coaches of the train did not leave the tracks, and that none of the passengers were seriously injured although several were badly shaken up.

The engine rolled into the ditch and the engineer was pinned under it crushing out his life. The fireman was badly bruised and was scalded with hot water. He was taken back to Washburn, where he is not expected to live.

It is understood that while the engineer was one of the oldest in the service of the road, this was his first trip over the Washburn division. He was in charge of Train No. 473, which left Washburn this morning.

The fireman, David Gibson, was the only member of the entire train crew that had ever been over this run before. District Attorney Alvord and Coroner Burns of Washburn left immediately for the scene of the wreck as soon as they were notified.

A J. Burton, the man who was killed outright, is a married man and lived with his family at 2127 West Third street. His body will be brought to Duluth for burial. David Gibson, the injured fireman, boarded at the Clarendon hotel.

CITY BRIEFS

Label League Meeting.

The Ladies' Independent Label league will meet tomorrow night. It is said that the question of a meat boycott will again be considered. A majority of the members, it is said, are opposed to a campaign such as has been started in other cities. The proposition was turned down at the last meeting.

Will Serve Tea.

Circle No. 5 of Young Married Ladies of St. Paul's church will serve tea at the rectory Saturday afternoon from 3 to 6.

Case Goes To Jury.

The case of Lillian Kaner against C. H. Thornton for $7,500 damages, which the plaintiff claims as the result of an automobile accident in which Mr. Thornton's machine struck Miss Kaner, went to the jury this afternoon.

Married at St. Paul's.

Miss Laura May Moffatt of Duluth and Dr. Clyde B. Hoffman of Kent, Wash., were married at St. Paul's Episcopal church at noon today by Dr. A. W. Ryan. Dr. Hoffman practiced on the range before going to Washington and his bride is a graduate nurse of St. Luke's hospital. They will live at Kent, where Dr. Hoffman has a practice.

Funeral of Mrs. Solz.

The funeral of Mrs. Palma B. Solz, 53 years of age, of 832 East Superior street, took place this morning from the Italian church at Eleventh avenue west. Mrs. Stolz has been in Duluth a number of years and was well known in the city.

Lame Shoulder.

This is a common form of muscular rheumatism. No internal treatment is needed. Apply Chamberlain's Liniment freely three times a day and a quick cure is certain. This liniment has proven especially valuable for muscular and chronic rheumatism. Sold by all druggists.

WANTS DIVORCE AND ALIMONY

On the grounds of habitual drunkenness and cruel and inhuman treatment, Julia Porter, 28 years old, has begun an action for divorce in district court against her husband, Edward M. Porter, 41.

She says in her complaint that they were married in Superior, September, 1899. There are five children. They range in age from 1 year to 9.

Mrs. Porter claims that in spite of the fact that her husband is a paperhanger and earns between $3.50 and $4 a day, she has not been supported in a proper manner. She claims also that he has at times struck and abused her in many ways. In his wrath, she claims that he called her vile names and took delight in breaking the furniture. She asks an absolute divorce, custody of the children and $30 a month as alimony.

DARIUS MILLER HEAD OF C. B. & Q.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—It was announced here today that Darius Miller has been elected president of the Burlington railroad at a directors' meeting in New York city. Mr. Miller was recently made vice president of the company in charge of traffic and operation, and his second promotion comes within about three months of the other action.

Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific railway, was made a director of the Burlington. Mr. Elliott today confirmed the election of Mr. Miller.

George T. Harris, who is succeeded by Mr. Miller, was elected chairman of the board of directors, and his time will be devoted to handling the financial part of the system.

COURT LENIENT WITH YOUTHS

Three youths, none of them of age, faced Judge Windom in police court yesterday afternoon. Two of them were accused of vagrancy and the third of disorderly conduct.

Those were the charges, but they had been arrested because they were suspected of having led a drunken man from a bowery saloon to a secluded spot under a viaduct to rob him of his money. They admitted that they had been drinking, and one of them declared that he couldn't see any harm in it, as he only took three or four glasses of beer a day.

They gave their names as Frank Brown, Ross Miller and Raymond Griffin. Brown didn't seem to care, but the other two were in tears when they left the courtroom. One of them burst into tears when the court read the boys a severe lecture, telling them that they had taken a step which might lead them shortly to the penitentiary.

Brown was accused of being the ringleader. The court found him guilty and imposed a fine of $30 and costs or thirty days, but enforcement of the sentence was deferred until nightfall, to give him a chance to get out of town. Sentence on the others was suspended.

Abner Oja entered a plea of not guilty in police court yesterday afternoon when arraigned on a warrant charging him with breach of the peace. His wife brought him into the police station. They had had a quarrel the night before and the two came to the station together. They made up in headquarters, but on the way home they quarreled again. Mrs. Oja brought her other half back, and he was brought into court on a warrant which she swore out. His trial was set for this afternoon.

Axel Berg was fined $25 and costs or thirty days for disorderly conduct. It seems that he thought it would be a fine stunt to do a bit of gum-shoeing, so he bought a pair of rubber shoes. In the meantime he accumulated a jag and was thrown out of a saloon. He couldn't kick the place down with his rubber shoes, so he went after a brick to do the job. The police caught him before he did much damage.

Emil Lindros, an employment agency clerk, pleaded not guilty to petit larceny. It was alleged that a laborer gave him a dollar for a job, but that the company refused to put him to work. The man wanted his money back and it was refused. He went to the authorities and a warrant was issued charging him with stealing the dollar. He will be tried tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Charles and Lena Jones, colored, were arrested this morning charged with enticing a white man into a room and robbing him of a small sum. The police are investigating the case.

GOES INTO PROPER FUND

Comptroller Issues Statement as to Use of Water and Light Bond Money.

To straighten out a misunderstanding relative to the use which is made of money received from the sale of water and light bonds, City Comptroller W. S. McCormick prepared a short statement this morning. It appears that some have thought that the proceeds of the bond sales have not been put in the proper fund and used for the right purpose.

The statement follows:

"To whom it may concern:

"We have received several requests for information relative to disposition made by the board of water and light commissioners of money received from bonds issued and sold for construction and betterment of the system.

"All vouchers passed by the board of water and light commissioners are forwarded to this department on the first of each month, each account being analyzed as to nature of expense. These vouchers are carefully examined, and if found correct are audited and forwarded to council, a record being made of each voucher as to expense for maintenance or construction, with the following result for the business of the department for the years 1907, 1908 and 1909:

| | Maintenance. | Construction. |
|---|---|---|
| Total ....... | $1,035,095.37 | $591,868.75 |

"During the year 1907 the department received from sale of bonds $245,-906.98. There have been no receipts from sale of bonds since that time.

"We have been informed that an impression has been created that money received from sale of bonds has been used in the maintenance of the plant, and this statement is made in justice to the board of water and light commissioners.

"W. S. M'CORMICK,
"Comptroller."

FRATERNAL ORDER SUED

Helen M. Cook has begun suit in the district court against the Modern Brotherhood of America to recover $1,000 alleged to be due on an insurance policy carried with the order by the deceased husband, John G. Cook. The company has refused to settle, she claims. In her complaint Mrs. Cook alleges that her husband, during his life, observed all the rules of the order, as well as paid the dues up to the time of his death.

FOOT CRUSHED IN ELEVATOR

As the result of an elevator accident in the Columbia building yesterday noon, Albert H. Bawdin, a dealer in timber lands with an office at No. 400 in the building mentioned, is today confined to his home with a badly crushed foot.

Mr. Bawden was on his way to lunch and was getting out of the elevator when the man in charge allowed the car to start upward, he claims. Mr. Bawden had one foot out, according to an eye witness, and the foot was caught between the wall and the elevator.

The man who was running the car brought it to a stop, reversed it and brought it down so that the foot could be extricated.

WANTS $1,000 FROM THE CITY

Irving R. Wagner has begun suit in district court against the city of Duluth for $1,000 injuries alleged to have been sustained as the result of falling over a pipe that projected above the sidewalk on Michigan street, near Lake avenue.

Wagner claims in his complaint that the accident happened during December, 1909. He says the pipe extended above the sidewalk and that he did not see it in time to save himself a fall.

As a result of the tumble he claims that his shoulder was dislocated and he sustained other painful injuries which kept him from his work one month.

CANDY COMPANY SUED FOR INFRINGEMENT.

Charging that Albert C. Winkler, Theodore Winkler and Carl Winkler, who conduct a candy factory in the West end under the name of Winkler Bros. company, have infringed on a registered box, which it has used for about four years, the Robert A. Johnston Company of Milwaukee, has filed suit in United States court for an injunction, and an accounting of the profits that have been diverted by the infringement.

The box, to which the Johnston company claims the exclusive right, is covered with a peculiar shade of paper, with raised red letters, and is tied with red ribbon of a peculiar shade. It is charged that the Winkler Bros. company have copied the paper, ribbon and seals, and that the box used by them is so close in appearance to the box used by the Johnston company, that profits are diverted.

TELEGRAPH OPERATORS AT WINNIPEG GO OUT.

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 1.—All telegraph operators on the grain exchange connected with the three telegraph companies walked out today. The grain exchange demanded that the companies pay the rent, but they declined and withdrew their operators. Confusion reigns on outgoing messages, but quotations are received as usual.

PIONEER GRAFTON, N. D., WOMAN CALLED BEYOND.

Grafton, N. D., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the pioneers of North Dakota, Mrs. Thomas Cooper, died at her home here Monday afternoon from pluerisy at the age of 59. Mrs. Cooper, with her husband, had resided in Grafton the last thirty years, coming here long before the railroad had been extended this far. Mr. and Mrs. Cooper were the proprietors of the first hotel operated in Grafton, and it was at Mr. Cooper's suggestion that the town now bears the name it does.

New Spring Creations Are Here Already

The S. & B. Co are always the first to show Fashion's new creations as they appear.

That is as it should be. The point this store wants to make, is this: By keeping in touch with style tendencies as they appear here, you are in a position—should you choose to migrate to Palm Beach—to shine as resplendant in Fashion's mirror as tho you hailed from the center of Gotham. This is just a foreword to fashionable folks.

New Spring Dresses

Welcome news to Duluth's 400 who are waiting these dresses for festive February Society affairs. Leaders of Fashion must be particular, as it is one of the "canons to their order" to appear always a la mode. These new creations were worth waiting for!

A pretty little dress of rough finisht silk, for as little as $24.50. Colors are mustard, rose and lavender.

An attractive accordion-pleated model with new cross-over front, made of taffeta, in pink, light blue, navy and black, at $35.00.

Little linen one and two-piece dresses—new Russian blouse and overskirt effects of best French linen—$16.50 and $18.50.

Waists—Redolent of Spring
New Spring Waists

Have wafted the first breath of spring thruout our Waist Stocks—not necessarily expensive either, as these will prove to you.

Waists of that popular messaline silk—greys, lavender and blues, with neck yoke soutache braided, same color, expense $9.50.

A fresh showing of filmy chiffon waists over coarse net in all colors. You would call them beauties at $10.00, for that is their regular price—special for Monday, $6.50.

New arrivals in hand-made lingerie waists, some are trimmed with Irish crochet lace and rosettes—all hand done with the new sleeves for 1910. Prices $4.50 to $18.50.

More new popular prict lingerie waists begin at $1.50 for dainty lawn waists trimmed with lace and embroidery and going up by easy stages to $4.75 for very elaborate all-over effects in lace and embroidery.

New Skirts, Spring Styles

A late Saturday shipment of black and white checkt Skirts—newest favorites of Fashion. Their numerous furbelows and curves defy description. Even tho we could paint them to the life, the picture would be dry reading—you'll have to see the skirts themselves to appreciate the quirts of newness that Fashion's wheel has woven into them. $8.50 purchases a very simple, striking model and prices range by easy steps as high as you care to go.

Superb Evening Gowns —A Sale

The way those $15.00 Afternoon Dresses hurried out yesterday was inspiring from an out-clearing standpoint. The reason was the dresses sold a high as $45.00—up to Saturday last. Tomorrow morning we place on sale at a tythe of their former prices a limited assortment of "Social Dresses" that are exclusive models—all copies of Paris gowns. The materials are the best the market affords. The color harmonies are strikingly beautiful and the prices—well let them tell their own story.

There is a pink and satin model, with silver tube and chiffon trimming—also a pearly grey satin, trimmed with old rose. Another an apricot satin, trimmed with chiffon and black satin trimming—jet, chiffon and dazzling cloth of gold—regular prices range from $67.50 to $72.50—Clearance.......... $27.50

A maize colored satin gown—yoke and sleeves of net and gold embroidery—trimmed with gold and pearl trimming, a $67.50 costume. Clearance.. $35.00

A black satin beauty, trimmed with jet and tuckt net—high neck and long sleeves—also a Catawba braided, yoke and sleeves of gold net trimming—a $67.50 model—Clearance.......... $30.00

Costumes of messaline satin—grey gobelin blue and another grey, trimmed with Persian bands and net yoke—high neck and long sleeves—regular price $52.50—Clearance.......... $25.00

CONCERNING WOMAN.

A special meeting of the Women's Council will be held Friday morning of this week at the clubroom of the library. The business to come before the members is the chosing of a president for the year. Mrs. W. H. Burris was chosen at the annual meeting in November but unexpected new duties made it impossible for her to retain the office and at the regular meeting in January. Mrs. Z. D. Scott was unanimously chosen president, but has been unable to accept the office. At Friday's meeting an effort will be made to secure a Duluth woman for the office who will be able to serve at least the remaining ten months of the year.

At Friday's meeting the details for the lecture by Mrs. Florence Kelly, secretary of the National Consumers' league will be decided upon. Mrs. Kelly will be on a Western lecture tour in March and has been engaged for a lecture here which will probably be given Friday, March 4.

Friday's meeting is an ipmportant one and all the members of the Council are urged to be present.

HALLOCK PROGRAM

To Be Presented Before Matinee Musicale.

Mme. Mary Hallock will appear in a piano recital tomorrow evening at the assembly room of the Y. W. C. A. under the auspices of the Matinee Musicale. The concert as usual will be for the members of the society and single tickets will be sold to out-of-town guests of members and to men. Any Duluth woman may become a member of the society.

Mme. Hallock has had a successful season and her work has proved most interesting. The program she will present tomorrow evening is as follows:

TO BE RECONCILED?

The Phipps Are Again in the Public Eye.

New York, Feb. 1.—Mrs. Genevieve C. Phipps and her two little daughters arrived here today from Pittsburg and were taken by an automobile to an uptown hotel, the identity of which the chauffeur was careful not to reveal to reporters who awaited the arrival of Mrs. Phipps.

Lawrence C. Phipps, her former husband, and member of the wealthy steel family, is in seclusion at the Hotel Manhattan, and it is understood in some quarters that a reconciliation is under way.

Howard Phipps, a cousin, is quoted as saying that Lawrence Phipps and the latter's wife and children will sail for Europe together tomorrow. Mrs. Phipps is quoted as saying in an interview:

"The subject of a reconciliation has never entered my mind. It is simply ridiculous; and another thing, it would not be any of the public's business if such were the case. I expect to make my permanent home in New York, and for that reason I am here. I shall remain an indefinite period, so far as I know now."

Wakeman Daughter.

Word has been received here of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Arnold S. Wakeman of Winnipeg, formerly of this city. Mrs. D. D. Murray of Duluth is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Wakeman.

Outing Parties.

Miss Ruth Schofield entertained at a skating party last evening at the Twelfth avenue rink. The chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Earl White and ten guests were entertained.

Health and Beauty Talks

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN.

E. R. S.: If you hair is splitting at the ends and becoming prematurely gray, it is a sure sign of neglect. What you need is a good, nourishing quinine tonic for your hair. Dissolve one ounce of quinzoin in one-half pint alcohol and add one-half pint cold water. Rub this well into your scalp twice a week and it will put new life and color into your hair in a short time. I have found this quinine tonic excellent for removing dandruff, irritation of the scalp and stopping falling hair. You will find it splendid to use during the winter months, as it evaporates readily. It makes the hair glossy and will prove very refreshing to the hair and scalp.

Bertha J.: You can't expect to have a nice, rosy complexion as long as you feel so lifeless and have a poor appetite. At this time of the year you ought to be feeling splendid and looking your best. I strongly recommend a good system tonic for you. The one I always found best is made by dissolving one-half teacupful sugar and one ounce kardene in one-half pint alcohol, adding enough boiling water to make a full quart. Take a tablespoonful of this good, old-fashioned tonic before each meal and before retiring. It will tone up your system and do away with that tired feeling, putting color and life into your face. It is fine for clearing a sallow complexion, removing pimples and other skin eruptions.

Mary E. A.: I have received so many requests for a reliable, greaseless complexion cream that will be entirely beneficial and not encourage growth of hair on the face, I will repeat the formula: Mix one ounce of almozoin with one-half pint cold water and add two teaspoonfuls glycerine. Stir and let stand for an hour or so. I have never found anything to equal almozoin jelly as an aid to beauty. It is excellent for reducing the size of large pores in the skin, for chapped hands and face, massaging, removing freckles, tan, wrinkles and blackheads. It cleans the skin from all dirt and makes it soft and velvety. Use very little soap on your face, as it dries out the skin too much. This cream will cleanse the skin much better than soap.

E. A. W.: I feel sorry for you. Where a person is as fat as yourself, it must make one feel miserable to think every one notices your extra weight. You can easily get rid of your excess fat, even though all of the remedies you have tried did no good. Get four ounces of parnotis from your druggist and dissolve it in a pint of hot water. Take a tablespoonful before each meal. It generally cuts down flesh rapidly and will not injure your health in any way.

G. E. A.: When you wear a veil, face powder will not help your complexion much, as it rubs off too easily. What you need is a good lotion that will not show on the skin. The next time you go to the drug store get four ounces of spurmax and dissolve it in one-half pint of hot water, adding two teaspoonfuls of glycerine. This lotion will clear up and whiten your skin, make it soft and velvety and give you a beautiful complexion. It will rid your skin of that shiny, greasy, sallow look and make it appear charming and youthful. I find this excellent for cold sores, freckles and pimples. It costs very little and will protect your face from the cold winds and prove a splendid beautifier.

Emma M.: A beautiful head of hair adds so much to one's appearance that I would caution you to be more careful of your hair hereafter. You would not have to use a hair net to make your hair stay up and look nice if you took better care of it. Try shampooing your hair every two weeks with a teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water and see how bright and fluffy it will make your hair. This shampoo lathers fine, cleanses the scalp thoroughly and stops all irritation. Canthrox makes a delightful shampoo and is especially good during the winter months, as it dries quickly. You can get a canthrox shampoo at most hairdressers' if you ask for it, or you can get canthrox at your drug store and prepare the shampoo yourself at a small cost. Don't use soap on the hair. It is dangerous, as the alkali in it tends to kill the hair and causes light streaks in the hair, which are so common.

A. B. M.: If your eyes lack brightness and expression, try dropping in each eye daily one or two drops of a tonic made by dissolving one ounce of crystos in a pint of water. This tonic will not smart the eyes and is excellent for weak and inflamed eyes. It strengthens the sight, while keeping the eyes clear and lustrous. This is a great help to those who wear glasses and is used constantly by many actresses and society women who pride themselves on their beautiful, sparkling eyes.

SUPERIOR

RECORDS ARE BROKEN.

Tax Receipts at Treasurer's Office Largest in City's History.

Yesterday was a big day at City Treasurer Alvord's office, nearly 400 taxpayers contributing their share to the support of the city, county and state. This number exceeds any other day in the history of the city by 20 per cent.

Over $50,000 was taken in, the largest taxpayer being the Northwestern Fuel company, whose taxes amounted to $19,901.72. After the close of business yesterday, a list of nearly 1,000 delinquent taxpayers was made out by the treasurer.

The rolls were today turned over to the chief of police, who will have the members of the police force make the collection. Five per cent will be added to the cost of collection. This amount will go to the police and fire department fund.

Elected Delegate.

Peter Sorrenson has been selected to represent the Superior Lodge No. 87, Danish Brotherhood of America, at the national meeting which will be held in Fresno, Cal., next fall. Mr. Sorrenson has been the president of the local organization of Danes for some time past.

Transfer Recorded.

A large deal in residence property was closed yesterday when J. J. Cullen, a Superior timber man, became the owner of thirty-eight lots in the normal school district, formerly owned by L. B. Royce of Jefferson county. The consideration is said to have been about $7,500.

Stole Raspberry Jam.

The Superior police have not yet apprehended the burglars who last night broke into two houses on Eleventh street and Holmberg's drug store on Twenty-first street between 7:30 and 11 o'clock in the evening. No articles of much value were missing from any of the places. In one of the houses the midnight marauder loaded up with several cans of raspberry jam, and canned goods he found in the cellar.

TOWN WAS "TOO SLOW"

Four Proctor Boys Leave Home in Search of Experience.

Leaving word with their friends that the town was "too slow" for them and they would rather live where there were more attractions, four Proctor boys, ranging from 17 to 15 years, ran away from their homes last evening. They have not yet been located.

The boys missing are: Earl Murray, 15 years old; Guy Murray, (not a relative), 15 years old; Joseph De Merche, 16 years old, and George Rossiter, aged 17 years. Friends of the boys think they have headed for Chicago.

Last evening, the police of West Duluth were notified to be on the lookout for the runaways. The trains leaving Duluth have been watched and it is very improbable that they could leave the city without being detected.

Only one of the boys was described to the police. He was Earl Murray. He wore knee pants, high rubbers and had on a light cap and red mackinaw, with yellow mittens.

It is thought that the boys did not have much money with them and that in a few days they will be home again, sick of their adventure. The four boys were all fast friends.

WITH THE CURLERS.

Playing in the Commercial Club Event Is Nearly Finished.

At the curling rink last evening three games were played in the West Duluth Commercial club event with results as follows:

|---|---|
| Crawford,Gilpin,Wakeman,Evered, skip—13. | Randall,Nelson,A. P. Sullivan,Buckley, skip—11. |

In this event there are six more games and three will be played off tonight between Miller and Method, Hewitt and Meldahl, Holland and Evered. Tomorrow night, play will begin in the Buckley event.

Besides the Buckley event there are four other trophies to play for, the Henderson cup, the newly donated Burns cup, and the Esterly and Bagley trophies.

TAKES HOTEL POSITION IN INTERNATIONAL FALLS.

Oliver Strandmark, formerly of West Duluth, who has been chief clerk at the Endion hotel at Cass Lake, has resigned and Monday will take up his duties as chief clerk at the new Koochiching hotel at International Falls. Mr. Strandmark was also formerly cashier and night clerk at the Hotel Superior in Superior.

COPPERS WEAK AND DEPRESSED

Public Is Holding Aloof From Market and Prices Sag.

The copper market was weak and depressed today, the only buying being from shorts in a few specialities. The interest was at a low ebb and the trading was only moderate. The professionals were inclined to wait until the bear forces had been dissipated and the public held aloof.

The local market was quiet but the trading was of a high order, the transactions being confined mostly to high priced stocks. There was some liquidation and this gave the market a spotty appearance. The feature of the market was Calumet & Sonora which sold up to $25.50 after an opening sale at $24.25. The closing sale was at $25.

The visible foreign copper is 110,808 tons, an increase of 1,726 tons for the month, not a very bullish report. The market was so depressed anyway that traders did not pay any attention to the report. They had enough bear factors at home to worry them without going abroad for more.

Amalgamated sold at $81.75 up ¼ point, down 1 point, and closed the same as the opening. Butte Coalition sold at $26, down ¼ point; Ojibway at $9.50, Superior & Pittsburg at $15, down ½ point; Calumet & Arizona at $73, down 1 point and back to the opening; Giroux, $10.62½, down ½ point; North Butte at $40, down ⅓ point; Greene at $9.87½, then down to $9.62½; and Steel common at $82.25 up to $82.37½ and down to $81.62½.

Butte-Alex Scott, part paid, sold at $4.50 and then at $4.62½, Butte-Ballaklava at $10.75, Denn at $3.25, Giroux on the local exchange at $10.25 down to $10.12½, Live Oak at $23.87½ up to $24 and down to $23.50, Red Warrior at $3.06¼, down one-sixteenth point; Superior & Pittsburg at $14.37½ on the local exchange, Walnut at 40 cents, Warrior at $13 and up one-sixteenth point, Zenith Lead at $1.37½, Butte & Superior at $2.75, Calumet & Montana at $1.50, Keating at $2.12½ down to $2.06¼.

Word was received here yesterday that D. C. Rees of Salt Lake City, Utah, general manager of the Grand Dominion property, adjoining St. Mary's, has returned to his home after a visit at the mine.

The latest strike was made in the bottom of a 60-foot winze put down from the tunnel level. The ore is high-grade chalcopyrite carrying values of $68.50 a ton. The ore is the same as that found in the raise, the distance between the two finds being 85 feet. The winze and raise from the main tunnel are following 18 inches to 2 feet of chalcopyrite averaging 27 to 29 per cent copper, 3 ounces to 10 ounces of silver, aggregating $68.50 a ton, according to reports sent to Duluth. The greatest depth of the workings is 160 feet.

It was said at the office of Hovland & Smith today that two churn drills have been put to work on the Savanna property which Mr. Hovland is inspecting now. One drill is down 125 feet. A drill at the Cordova is working in high-grade calcocite, and the showing is considered excellent. A drill has been put to work at the Warrior, but no reports on its operations have been received.

Secretary Gordon R. Campbell of the Calumet & Arizona company has made a detailed statement of conditions to the Boston Commercial, of which the following is a summary:

"The company has over $3,500,000 of surplus funds today. It has spent $1,000,000 in the development of outside properties that have been considered valuable and worthy of such development. Within the last three or four years the theory of the Bisbee ore deposits has been gradually changing to conform with actual conditions shown by development work in different parts of the camp. Even within the past six months developments in that district have been such as to again change the opinions of those who know most about the camp. The development of rich sulphide ores in the lower levels of our Oliver shaft gives reasonable basis for the hope that similar ores will also be found at greater depth in the Irish Mag claim. How deep these ores go, no man can tell. We are finding good ore now 1,000 feet deeper than it was believed to exist ten years ago. For aught anyone knows, we may find ore another thousand feet deeper than our present workings. The physical and financial conditions of the Calumet & Arizona company are better today, and its prospects for the future are brighter than at any previous time in the past five years. The company will continue to earn and pay dividends to its stockholders for many years to come. Like every other mining company, it will have its lean and rich periods. The past two or three years have been leaner than the early days, but the future promises that richer days are in sight."

BAD BLAZE IN BALTIMORE.

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 1.—A fire which quickly assumed dangerous proportions broke out at the Bennett pottery works, Canton and Eastern avenues, this afternoon. The blaze communicated to the lumber yard of the Eisenhauser-McLea Lumber company, containing more than 3,000,000 feet of lumber.

The Keegan Sons & Co.'s box factory caught fire and was in a fair way of being destroyed at 2:30 o'clock.

Four tanks of the Standard Oil company in Eden street, directly across from the burning lumber yard, were in imminent danger. The tanks contain about 600,000 barrels of oil.

At 3 o'clock it looked as though the fire was under control, and it was believed then that the total loss would be kept within $300,000.

PHIPPS FAMILY TO BE RECONCILED?

Both Husband and Wife Are in Pittsburg and Gossips Get Busy.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 31.—With a maid and a drayload of trunks, Mrs. Genevieve Chandler Phipps arrived here from Denver, Sunday, and has taken temporary quarters at a hotel. It is rumored that Mrs. Phipps' arrival at this time is indicative of a reconciliation with her husband, Laurence Phipps, who also is said to be in Pittsburg.

Recently Mr. Phipps sold his beautiful stone mansion in the fashionable residence section of Pittsburg, saying he was "done with the city for good and all." His presence here, however, denies his reported statement.

Mrs. Phipps today would not comment on her visit here.

FIND MILLIONAIRE WAS POISONED.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—Col. Thomas S. Swope, the Kansas City millionaire, the cause of whose death has been under investigation for several weeks, died from the effects of strychnine poisoning, according to a report given out here today as to the chemical analysis made by Doctors Hektoen, Halns and Vaughan.

Mr. E. A. Kelley, Belvidere, Ill., writes us: "I am an ex-engineer with 22 years active service to my credit. About three years ago my kidneys were affected so that I had to give up my engine. First I was troubled with severe, aching pain over the hips. Then followed inflammation of the bladder, and specks appeared before my eyes. A sample of Foley's Kidney Pills that I tried so benefited me that I bought more. I continued to take them until now I can safely testify they have made me a sound and well man." Sold by all druggists.

DIES IN ALBERTA.

Former Devils Lake Woman Passes Away in New Home.

Devils Lake, N. D., Feb. 1.—Mrs. John Lennon, a daughter of William Nixon of Hope township, and well known to many people of Devils Lake, died at her home near Calgary, Alta., on Wednesday, from an attack of erysipelas.

Deceased was about 32 years of age. She leaves a husband and one child, a daughter about 8 years of age.

She was a resident of Devils Lake until about five years ago when the family moved to Cando. They afterwards removed to Alberta, locating near Calgary, where they were improving a homestead and doing finely.

CULLUM IS DENOUNCED

Circular Letter of Democrat Picked to Pieces By Haven Supporters.

"Unworthy of Any Man Worthy to Head City," Says T. W. Hugo.

The last gun in the mayoralty campaign was fired from the Republican camp at a big mass meeting in Wade's hall, West Duluth, last night and the charge of oratory was turned on the last missives in support of M. B. Cullum's candidacy for mayor. A circular letter sent out from Democratic headquarters yesterday was picked to pieces by the speakers and stamped as cowardly, insinuating and "unworthy of any man worthy to head our city."

"In other words, Dr. Cullum would say that some one has done or has not done these things, as the case may be," said T. W. Hugo during his address. "Yet you cannot pin the letter down to saying anything specific. If he means to attack Mr. Haven and his administration, why in God's name doesn't he do it as any straightforward, manly man would? He cannot, because he knows he cannot prove it. And for that reason, he resorts to such a method."

The speakers at last night's meeting were Mr. Hugo, Mayor Haven and L. A. Barnes, candidate on the Republican ticket for alderman from the Eighth ward. All condemned Dr. Cullum's "gumshoe" campaign and argued that no valid reason had been shown why Mayor Haven should not be re-elected and many reasons had been shown why he should be.

In speaking of the circular mailed in Dr. Cullum's behalf yesterday, Mr. Hugo said he was in favor of the old style of politics which were practiced when the candidates for office went on the same platform, and stated their views. He said that the debates were sometimes heated and personalities were indulged in, but each candidate said whatever he had to say to the other's face.

"But Dr. Cullum's campaign has been of another stamp," said Mr. Hugo. "It is a 'greaser' campaign. It deserves nothing more than your severest condemnation. I believe it will receive nothing more."

"Among other things," said Mr. Hugo, "this circular, which, by the way, came to me just as I left my home for West Duluth, says 'I do not claim any credit for myself for anything that the council did when I was mayor. There was honor enough then to go around.'

"That insinuates—which is worse than charging—first, that Mayor Haven has been taking credit to himself for what he has not done, and, secondly, that there was more honor at that era in the city's history to go snooks on than there is now.

"It is cowardly. To speak of Mayor Haven in this manner on the eve of election, without giving him a chance to reply, is unworthy of any man worthy to head our city.

"The letter says again, 'I do not claim that you should vote for me because I treat all lawbreakers alike, instead of granting special favors to particular individuals.'

"Which is as much as saying that immunity has been granted to certain classes under the present administration. But the letter isn't honest and candid enough to openly charge such things. Dr. Cullum and his supporters know that such allegations, if made, could not be proven. They know it is a deliberate lie framed to entice your ote.

"'I am asking your support because I believe I can prosper the pocketbooks of all people, and not simply a special class or favorites,' continues Dr. Cullum in his leter; 'because I believe I can keep the city more orderly and cleanly than it has been kept, and can do it without fear or favor, and because I can give you an efficient administration of municipal affairs and not have to raise the taxes to do it.'"

Myor Haven, who spoke toward the close of the meeting, touched on the tax question. He said that though the tax rate in the city is higher this year than ever, it was due to the school, county and state taxes and not to the city taxes. He said Dr. Cullum is wilfully misrepresenting the facts.

WANT MARKET FOR PRODUCE

Farmers Near Molde Anxious to Ship Produce to Duluth.

A letter from Molde, St. Louis county, in the very heart of one of the best truck farming parts of the county, to the chairman of the public affairs committee, requests that the committee do everything in its power to assist the farmers' club of that industrious center finding a market for their produce.

The letter is from C. C. Augustine, who represents over forty farmers in that community, which is a few miles north of Knife River. Augustine suggests that the most practical way to bring the products to Duluth would be by the construction of a trolley line through the farming and truck gardening section around Molde.

Mr. Augustine says the farmers in that part of the county are vitally interested in the movement for the open market that has been agitated here. He says that they are heartily in favor of the plans that have been proposed, and that they will do everything in their power to boost the movement and make the market a success, should the plans mature.

The most serious concern of the Molde farmers and raisers of produce is to get their produce to Duluth. Mr. Augustine says the land around Molde is ideal for small farming and truck gardening purposes. He suggests that if the land were laid out in tracts of forty acres, enough produce could be raised in that section of the county to supply Duluth with fresh produce. The problem is: How is this produce to be brought to Duluth, with little delay and with little expense? That is the very question that the farmers of Molde, through Mr. Augustine, have asked the public affairs committee to assist in answering.

The farmers propose that a suburban line would be the best way to get the produce to Duluth.

Bordens Keep Price Up.

New York, Feb. 1.—Loton Horton, president of the Slawson, Decker company, conducting the Sheffield Farm dairy, one of the largest retail milk distributing companies of New York, has announced that the price of milk would be reduced from 9 to 8 cents a quart on March 1. The Borden Condensed Milk company is the only large concern which has not signified its intention to reduce the price.

DIRTY KIDNEYS CAUSE BACKACHE

A Few Doses Clean and Regulate the Kidneys and You Feel Fine.

A real surprise awaits every sufferer from kidney or bladder trouble who takes several doses of Pape's Diuretic. Misery in the back, sides or loin, sick headache, nervousness, rheumatism pains, heart palpitations, dizziness, sleeplessness, inflamed or swollen eyelids, lack of energy and all symptoms of out-of-order kidneys simply vanish.

Uncontrollable urination (especially at night), smarting, offensive and discolored water and other bladder misery ends.

The moment you suspect kidney or urinary disorder or feel any rheumatism, begin taking this harmless medicine, with the knowledge that there is no other remedy, at any price, made anywhere else in the world, which will effect so thorough and prompt a cure as a fifty-cent treatment of Pape's Diuretic, which any druggist can supply.

It is needless to feel miserable and worried, because this unusual preparation goes at once to the out-of-order kidneys and urinary system, distributing its cleansing, healing and strengthening influence directly upon the organs and glands affected, and completes the cure before you realize it.

Your physician, pharmacist, banker or any mercantile agency will tell you that Pape, Thompson & Pape of Cincinnati is a large and responsible medicine concern, thoroughly worthy of your confidence.

Only curative results can come from taking Pape's Diuretic, and a few days' treatment will make any one feel fine.

YEGGMEN'S DAYS ARE ABOUT OVER

Providing North Dakota Bankers Adopt Proposed Burglar Proof Safe.

Fargo, N. D., Feb. 1.—The days of the yeggmen are numbered. He is to be outdone by a burglar proof safe, which is really burglar proof. This was the important information given to the North Dakota Bankers' association executive council at their meeting here by Secretary Macfadden.

The report of Secretary Macfadden along this line was the most important feature of the meeting of the executive council there, as it means that one of the greatest problems which the bankers of this state had to solve is no longer a problem.

Mr. Macfadden has been making a study of this problem for years and he recently started an investigation. There are scores of so-called burglar proof safes on the market which when put to the actual test have proved to be defective. He wrote to the makers of safes and wanted to know whether they would put up a bond with the North Dakota Bankers' association absolutely protecting any bankers who purchased their safe from loss against burglars.

Use High Explosives.

As a result of this investigation Mr. Macfadden, and also the secretaries of the bankers' associations of South Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa and Wisconsin were given the privilege of taking any safe in the plant of a company located at Perth Amboy, N. J., to engage an expert on high explosives to try to blow it open. About two weeks ago Mr. Macfadden and these other secretaries took the company up and made such a test.

Fifteen charges of nitroglycerin were exploded in the safe. The first charge consisted of one-half ounce and each succeeding charge was increased until eight ounces were used in one explosion. From the fifteen charges the door was only forced out three-sixteenths of an inch at the top and one-half an inch at the bottom.

In addition to making this test the company offered to place a surety trust bond of $25,000 with each state association to protect the bank owner who bought their safe. In case any of their safes were blown open the company would make good the loss or damage.

Supreme Court Recess.

Washington, Feb. 1.—The supreme court of the United States has taken a recess until Feb. 21.

GETS NO AID FROM EUROPE

United States Is Alone in the Fight Against Traffic in Women.

Report Submitted to the Senate Says Treaty Is Virtually Worthless.

Washington, Feb. 1.—The treaty ratified by the senate March 1, 1905, providing for universal action of the powers toward the repression of the "white slave" traffic has been declared by Daniel J. Keefe, commission general of immigration to be "practically worthless."

The failure of this convention to accomplish the good expected is explained in a report of the commissioner general transmitted to the senate by President Taft in response to a senate resolution. In summarizing an exhaustive report, Mr. Keefe says:

"Practically no co-operation at present can be expected of the signatories as regards the enforcement of our immigration laws, with which some of the powers are found to be out of sympathy. The procuration of innocent women and girls for purpose of debauchery has seldom, if ever, come to the attention of the bureau, and as it is the purpose of the treaty to prevent such procuration, the treaty's usefulness ends there."

No General Co-operation.

After the ratification of the treaty the bureau of immigration sent letters to the proper officials in France, England, Germany, Austria-Hungary, Belgium, Spain, Russia, Portugal, Sweden, Denmark, Holland, Canada, Bermuda and Brazil to ascertain the degree of co-operation to be expected of the signatory powers. The net result of the replies was that no co-operation could be looked for except in specific instances.

An agent of the bureau reports that innocent women and girls are rarely imported into this country, the great bulk of the women coming in as the mistresses of individuals and subsequently adopting or being forced into a life of shame. Innocent victims, the report says, are selected by procurers in this country.

Discussing conditions he found in Europe, the United States agent says the large cities were found to be so infested with women of immoral tendencies, living in poverty and dire squalor, that they were only too eager to embrace the opportunity of living comfortably in a life of shame in this country.

Conditions in Europe.

Consequently, procurers who desire to procure fresh supplies of women for their resorts in the United States are not forced to seduce and debauch innocent women, when with much less exertion, expense and danger, numbers of women can be found ready to accept their terms.

Tales of easy life and riches awaiting alien prostitutes in the United States have much to do with the increase of prostitutes in this country, says the report.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the Most Popular Because It Is the Best.

"I have sold Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for the past eight years and find it to be one of the best selling medicines on the market. For babies and young children there is nothing better in the line of cough syrups," says Paul Allen, Plain Dealing, La. This remedy not only cures the coughs, colds and croup so common among young children, but is pleasant and safe for them to take. For sale by all druggists.

Pension fund of Cleveland police department, $6,900.

THE MEN AND WOMEN

Who Enjoy the Choicest Products of the World's Commerce.

Knowledge of What is Best More Important Than Wealth Without It.

It must be apparent to every one that qualities of the highest order are necessary to enable the best of the products of modern commerce to attain to universal acceptance. However loudly heralded, they may not hope for world-wide pre-eminence unless they meet with the general approval, not of individuals only, but of the many who have the happy faculty of selecting and enjoying the choicest products. Their commendation, consequently, becomes important to others, since to meet the requirements of the well informed of all countries the method of manufacture must be of the most perfect order and the combination the most excellent of its kind. After thirty years of general usage, Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is everywhere accepted as the best of family laxatives. Its quality is due not only to the excellence of the laxative and carminative principles of plants known to act most beneficially on the system, but also to the method of manufacture of the California Fig Syrup Co., which ensures that uniformity and purity essential in a remedy intended for family use. It cleanses and sweetens the system effectually, when a laxative is needed, without any unpleasant after effects. To get the beneficial effects of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, buy the genuine only; the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—is printed on the front of every package. Price, 50 cents per bottle.

I Cured My Rupture

I Will Show You How To Cure Yours FREE!

I was practically helpless and bed-ridden for many years from a double rupture. I wore innumerable different kinds of trusses and appliances. Some of them were tortures, some positively dangerous, and none would hold the rupture in its proper place. The doctors told me I could not expect to have it entirely healed unless I would consent to a surgical operation. I fooled them all, however, and cured myself completely and permanently by a simple method which I discovered. Anyone can use it, and I will gladly send the cure free by mail to anyone who writes for it. Fill out the coupon below and mail it to me today. I will send the cure by return mail, postpaid.

THREE ARRESTS IN MURDER CASE

New York Police Seek Slayer of Moses Gootman in That City.

New York, Feb. 1.—Spurred on by the mandate from headquarters that the murderer of Moses Gootman, the shirtwaist manufacturer, must be caught, the police last night made two arrests in connection with the crime, and today landed another suspect.

Today's arrest was that of Thomas Valenti, a pearl button maker. He is accused of burglary, but the detectives say that his description tallies in many respects with the man wanted for the Gootman murder. The other prisoners are Harry Meyers alias the Chicago Kid, and Morris Flegerheimer, both men with prison records.

WONDERFUL HOW IT CURED

Says Miss Gertrude Gatlin of Timberville, Miss., After She Had Taken Cardui for Her Pains.

Timberville, Miss.—Miss Gertrude Gatlin of this place writes:

"I did not know that anything could stop the womanly pains from which I had suffered for two years, until I tried your wonderful medicine, Cardui.

"I had been troubled with various female ailments, but they were cured in a little while, thanks to Cardui.

"When I hear any of my friends say they feel bad, I tell them to try Cardui. It is a blessing to womanhood."

Not every medicine can be depended on to cure a woman's ills. Not every tonic will bring back woman's health.

Cardui, the woman's tonic medicine, will do both, by the power of its unique, speccific, curative, strengthening ingredients, especially adapted for use in cases of female ailments.

Composed exclusively of pure, vegetable materials, with a gentle, strengthening action on the system, Cardui is perfectly harmless to young and old and can be relied upon to have absolutely no bad after-effects. Thousands of thankful ladies have written to tell of the benefit Cardui has been to them.. Why not to you?

Will you try it?

Please do.

ELECTION IS FORGOTTEN

Policemen and Friends Dance While the City Campaign Seethes.

Armory Crowded for Twenty-First Annual Policemen's Ball.

In these days when a man's hand is raised against his own brother, when members of families do not speak to each other at the breakfast table, when a dog cannot drag a tin can down a street with his tail without his motives being suspicioned, it ill behooves a chief of police to wear a stiff shirt and claw-hammers to the annual policeman's ball.

Mr. Chauncey H. Troyer, chief of police, was at the twenty-first soiree of the local cops at the Armory last night. When asked why he had left his glad rags at home, Mr. Troyer said that once he appeared in shining habiliments and for several days the welkin rang with a disconcerting echo, "Where did you get it?"

So Mr. Troyer appeared last night, to the joy of all who beheld and to the glorification of himself and his force, in a gray business suit, a gray tie and —the truth shall not be untold—in gray, silk socks. Mr. Troyer was a symphony in gray. When he stepped out into the frosty air that was clouded by a slight fog, the scene might have been a Whistlerian conceit. Mr. Troyer's light gray apparel blended innocuously with the atmosphere.

"This is the biggest ball we've had yet," said Mr. Troyer to several admiring friends, who ventured to hope that it would not be the last at which Mr. Troyer would be present in an official capacity. Mr. Troyer recalled that before the battle of Waterloo some of the prospective combatants danced unconcernedly until the warning cannon boomed. Mr. Troyer smiled easily last night and appeared unconcerned over the outcome of today's battle of the ballots.

And so while the municipal campaign seethed a seethe or two, and all around the noise of battle rolled, the officers shook their toes in the light fantastic.

Taking an active part in the festivities were Aldermen Jordan, Hector, Foubister and Hoar and Former Alderman Fillatrault. The councilmen got together in an old-fashioned square dance and one young woman was heard to declare that it was "just divine." Mr. Jordan was not worried over the outcome of the election today. He was confident of victory so he stayed until a late hour. Other aldermen had acquired tickets, it was said, but most of them were unable to be present owing to pressing duties on the stump.

In a corner, chinning over old times, were Lieut. John Drennan, Sergeant John Kenna, Patrolmen Samuel J. Thompson and William McEwen. The quintet have attended every patrolman's ball since the first was held twenty-one years ago. They didn't do much one years ago. They didn't do much dancing. The assemblage and the occasion caused them to recall many incidents and personalities and they enjoyed themselves thoroughly rehearsing events, past, present and probable.

Flaaten's orchestra furnished the music for the dancers who crowded the hall to its capacity. Late cars were run to Lakeside and West Duluth. The proceeds of the ball were about $1,000. The sum will be added to the fund of the patrolmen's relief association.

LOST SPEECH AND HEARING

Brother of Duluth Woman Recovered on Her Appearance.

Marshall, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dick Whitney, son of Capt. C. C. Whitney of the Marshall News-Messenger, while feeding the cylinder press, was suddenly bereft of speech and hearing while every other physical and mental function remained normal. Medical aid was summoned but there was no known remedy, and about all that could be suggested was rest and quiet, with the hope that speech and quiet might return as mysteriously as they went. A night's sleep made no change.

The young man's sister, Mrs. F. A. Hills of Duluth, was summoned without his knowledge and arriving early in the evening he was given a surprise that dazed him for a few moments when he indicated that he had a severe pain in his head, from which he rallied in about three minutes to find his hearing restored. A few hours later he was able to articulate in a whisper and next morning could converse audibly in a light voice.

The theory advanced is that an obstruction in a blood vessel leading to the portion of the brain controlling speech and hearing, caused the trouble and that the emotion of being suddenly and unexpectedly visited by his sister caused a sufficient impulse in the blood circulation to displace the obstruction. Dick will accompany his sister to Duluth for a few days' rest. He is about 22 years of age.

TALKS ABOUT MINNESOTA.

Hill of Missouri May Not Succeed Northrop.

Jefferson City, Mo., Feb. 1.—President A. Rose Hill of Missouri university, discussed the offer of the presidency of the University of Minnesota with Governor Hadley, while in this city to attend a meeting of the library commission. Governor Hadley is using every effort to keep Mr. Hill in Missouri, declaring that it is the duty of the state to support the institution liberally and to retain Mr. Hill by increasing the funds provided for the university.

If President Hill accepts the Minnesota offer, officials here declare it will be because the legislature has not been liberal enough in Mr. Hill's estimation in appropriating funds for the institution's proper maintenance.

He has been offered an increase in salary, but has refused it on the ground that the appropriation does not justify it.

HANGS HIMSELF WITH SCHOOL BOOK STRAP.

New York, Feb. 1.—Chagrined and disheartened because he was the largest and oldest boy in his class, and had failed of promotion, Walter Thompson, 15 years of age, committed suicide in Brooklyn yesterday by hanging himself to a bedpost with his school book strap.

Furniture Prices Going Down Instead of Up at French & Bassett's

IT'S quite a relief to hear of the price scale descending instead of ascending. Our buyers have just returned from the market, as a result of their careful buying the tremendous stocks at French & Bassett's will be lower priced instead of higher—and the new things will more than satisfy as to quality, finish and style. At this store we do not cheapen quality when prices are lowered. It will pay you to keep an eye on the wonderful values you will find here. This week we offer some exceptional bargains—they are certainly money savers. Come in and see them.

A Solid Oak Dresser for $6.75

IN THE ORDINARY STORE YOU WOULD PAY AT LEAST $12.50.

These dressers are well finished and well made — have good clear French bevel-plate mirrors — brass handles — easy working drawers — panelled sides—all of good, clean selected solid oak. Ordinarily you would be asked $12.50 for one as good. Buy them this week for only $6.75.

Splendid Value in a Fine Iron Bed, Only $4.85

SOME STORES ASK $9.00.

You'll be astonished to see what a fine, good sized heavy tubing bed this is. Handsomely enameled either green, cream or vernis martin. These beds are full size —extra well made and finished. Ordinary stores price them at $9. This bed is one of the best values you could ask for. We have a splendid line of the new steel beds —best values in the city to choose from.

Pay $8.75 and Get a $15 Solid Oak Sideboard

In some stores this would be impossible—this sideboard is the biggest value you ever saw for $15.00. It's solid oak, has carved top, French plate mirror, a large linen drawer, two smaller top drawers and a big roomy dish cupboard in the base. This week it goes on sale for only $8.75. Compare this value with those you find elsewhere at $15.00 and $18.00.

Handsome Brass Bed for Only $9.50

PRICED IN THE ORDINARY STORE AT $17.50.

This bed is a beauty—considered exceptional value even at $17.50, but this week you may select either a three-quarter or full size bed and pay only $9.50. Finished with best English lacquer—heavy two-inch posts, brass ball-bearing casters—a good, strong, serviceable, genuine brass bed. It's a bargain.

A Good Kitchen Table at $1.48

YOU GENERALLY PAY AT LEAST $2.50 FOR ONE AS GOOD.

It would seem almost impossible to build a kitchen table for $1.48. These tables are exceptional values, with nice, smooth, clean basswood tops—a well made, good size drawer and strong legs. Most stores consider a $2.50 kitchen table with drawer a big value—it is, too. Table tops are 25x42 inches—a good size.

Genuine Ostermoor Mattresses at less than factory price

We have several different grades and qualities of the genuine Ostermoor Elastic Felt Mattresses to chose from, every one with the Ostermoor trade-mark. You can buy them here for less than you would pay the factory. We have them in one and two parts and in a variety of ticking. You can save money on an Ostermoor by buying it here. These are shown in our bedding department, fifth floor.

$15.00 Ostermoor—our price........$13.50
$16.50 Ostermoor—our price........$14.50
$23.00 Ostermoor—our price........$18.50

Exceptional Rug Values

Here Are Genuine Bargains in Large Room-Size Rugs. You Can Save Money Here This Week.

You don't often have the chance of buying Rugs that sell ordinarily at $39.50 for $27.50. From the rug prices that some stores quote, we imagine they couldn't buy them for $27.50. This week we offer genuine Wilton Rugs in large 9x12 room sizes for only $27.50. These are splendid values, as you'll find when you see them. They vary in price, but every rug is a rare snap at $27.50. Good colors, good patterns and good quality—these rugs will give lasting service.

9x12 Wilton Rugs For $27.50

Tapestry Brussels Rugs That You Generally Pay Much More For Are Being Sold for Only $9.25.

Just think of what this means! You can buy a large 8-3x10-6 Tapestry Brussels Rug here, suitable for dining room, living room or bedroom, at a price that some stores get for ingrain art squares. These Brussels Rugs come in a fine assortment of colors and patterns—a new lot just in. You'll find rare values in this lot at $9.25.

A Large, Massive Rocker LEATHER Upholstered $6.75

A Rocker as Good as This Sells in the Ordinary Store at From $13.00 to $15.00.

These Rockers have soft, comfortable spring seats, covered in genuine leather—very wide, massive back and heavy shaped arms—handsomely figured quartered oak backs. These are selling here this week for almost half what you generally pay. You'll find these rockers are rare values at $6.75. The stock of these won't last long at this price, either.

$13.50 CRAFTS ROCKER $8.75

A beauty, in correct design, specially well finished, fumed a deep rich brown with slat back, easy, comfortable arms and seat cushion of the very finest goat skin leather in a bronze brown. These rockers are handsome enough for any library or living room—style and quality all one could desire. Get one of these at $8.75, if you want a rare bargain. They are shown in our Craftsman exhibit.

Where Your Dollars Will Do Most

On every hand we hear about the "high cost of living"—a good deal of this comes by not knowing where to trade. If you want your dollars to go fartherest, to bring home the best money can buy in real worth and quality, you'll find this store your Mecca. Not a day passes but what people tell us how reasonable prices are here—and not only that, the quality is better. A cheaply made article, poorly finished, at a low price, is certainly no bargain.

You want the best in your home. We can give it to you. Take the time some day to see how true this is.

We Are Glad to Give You Credit

Don't hesitate to ask us. You are not asking a favor. We will be glad to arrange easy terms —any terms within reason—and we know no store can give you better or more liberal terms. Prices here, you'll find, are in your favor. We are willing to take our time to show you when you come in. Visit us often. It pays.

You Can Save $10.75 on a Bed Davenport

This Week We Offer a Beauty at $18.75—You Generally Pay $29.50.

The frames are of solid oak, either golden or mission finish, quartered oak fronts and arms, have a big, roomy box underneath for bed clothing. These Davenports are covered in the very best grade of heavy Moroccoline leather —upholstered over oil-tempered steel coil springs. A piece of furniture of exceptional value. During the day it makes a good Davenport; at night you have a comfortable bed— nothing to get out of order, no ticking or binding—as easy to operate as a gate. You will be more than pleased with this splendid offering.

Genuine Felt Mattress for $5.75

With cotton on the rise, it's a rare bargain at this price. A fine, thick, heavy, pure felt Mattress, made of a good grade genuine cotton felt, covered in a strong durable tick—a French & Bassett Sanitary Felt Mattress at only $5.75. Ask to see it, compare it with mattresses other dealers sell for ten dollars. You'll see where your dollars will do most in this store. We can save you money on pillows, blankets and comforts—mattresses as low as $2.90 each. Splendid values, too.

The Peerless Suction Cleaner

Easily Attached to Any Electric Socket

This is well named, too—it's "Peerless." The way this machine takes the dirt out of carpets and rugs without flooding the house with dust is a wonder—it cleans hardwood floors, stairways, walls, draperies, upholstered pieces, etc. You can get under beds, davenports or bookcases without moving all the furniture out of your rooms. It is easier to operate than a carpet sweeper—you simply attach it to any electric socket in the room—that furnishes all the power. This cleaner is the very best one we could find on the market—we looked them all over carefully before deciding—and it will save you trouble and annoyance by getting the best one first.

Every home should have one of these sanitary cleaners. It makes the work easier—does away with the annual worry and care of house cleaning, and saves your carpets, rugs and furnishings. If you use a Suction Cleaner like this one, you do away with dusting—there's no dust to settle. Come in and see it.

EDITOR FLASHES GUN.

Backs Political Story in His Paper in Mississippi Row.

Jackson, Miss., Feb. 1.—Following a day of intense factional feeling, culminating in a personal encounter and the drawing of a weapon, the legislative caucus failed last night to clarify the senatorial situation.

Charges in the Brookhaven Leader, a Vardaman adherent, that liquor was kept at the headquarters of Leroy Percy, one of the candidates, to influence votes, and that Frank Cannon, a supporter of Percy, was active in dispensing the liquor, were the causes of the altercation. Cannon and B. T. Hobbs, the editor of the Brookhaven paper, met in a hotel lobby. Cannon, it is said, started toward the newspaper man, but before he came within striking distance Hobbs had drawn his revolver and brought the legislator to a halt. The weapon was handed to a third party, however, when Cannon announced that he was unarmed. By this time friends intervened.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—The Merriam commission, which has been investigating charges of graft in the city administration, last night reported that during 1909 from $175,000 to $227,500 was wasted in extravagant salaries in the bureau of sewers. The report was sent to the city council.

EBERHART TALKS TARIFF HARMONY

Looks to See Republican Insurgency Over Tariff Disappear.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Eberhart sees the Republican banner of harmony waving on the hill tops. The ghost of party disruption, born of the tariff, he believes, is flitting away. At the same time he does not look for any intervention in the state politics by President Taft or any other federal officer. He does not believe that President Taft looks upon Minnesota as a hotbed of insurgency.

"Harmony on the tariff question does not mean the death of the progressive notions that are being advocated by many Republicans," he said yesterday. "The progressive ideas have come to stay, but insurgency over the tariff I look to see disappear. I believe that all members of the party will get behind the idea of a tariff commission and will wait for the report of that body, thus temporarily quelling talk on the tariff.

"But progressive ideas are different from this. They mean advance, but advance in perfect harmony. So far as national and state control of corporations deals with the corporations at the point where it has a right to deal with them, it is a good thing. This kind of progress will last and be in itself the means of cementing the party and inducing a solid advance."

SAYS WATERWAYS ARE BUT DREAMS

Lieutenant Governor of Illinois Says That State Bought Gold Brick.

New York, Feb. 1.—"The deep inland waterways are dreams," said Lieutenant Governor Sherman of Illinois last night at the eleventh annual banquet here of the Automobile Club of America. "Gulf steamers majestically riding fresh water waves through western cornfields are a baseless fabric for bond issues of millions. The only realities visible at the end of such experiments are written souvenirs bearing the tax collector's signature.

"Tight-fisted as we are about taxes, we voted to buy the most colossal gold brick ever handed over to Illinois. The inland commerce of the future is indissolubly bound up in the railroads. It is not a question of dredging rivers; it's a question of steam and electricity. The $20,000,000 lately voted to scoop an endless avalanche of mud in Illinois would build 4,000 miles of hard roads at $5,000 a mile—more than ten country roads reaching from the north end of Illinois to the south."

WELLMAN SAID TO BE MAKING NEW PLANS.

Paris, Jan. 31.—It is understood that Walter Wellman, who sailed from New York for Europe Saturday, is arranging for a balloon flight across the Atlantic from New York to England or France in his Arctic airship. This, it is said, will be equipped with new propellers and engines. The shed at Gennevillaieres, where the aero craft is house, is under water. The attempt had been set for July, which, according to the records of the last twenty years, is the most propitious month for such an attempt.

Dismiss Williston, N. D., Suit.

Williston, N. D., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The suit to enjoin the special bond election in Williston to determine the legality of the issue has been dismissed by Judge E. B. Goss of the district court. The election was originally fixed for Jan. 10, but the suit resulted in its being held up. The council has now fixed Feb. 21 as the time for the election.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY.

Oh God! that bread should be so dear,
And flesh and blood so cheap!
—Thomas Hood.

SET A FASHION OF SIMPLICITY.

Those who have great wealth usually profess to wish to do good to humanity. Some of them call themselves custodians of the people's wealth, and declare that Providence put much money in their possession in order that they might do good with it. Too often the good they do is for themselves alone; too often, too, the good they do themselves is harm, because it means softening and corrupting luxury and fast living.

The talk that extravagance is one of the chief contributing causes of the high cost of living in this country suggests a way in which such people might, if they would, do great good. If extravagance is widespread, it is the result of an example. The people of this country haven't yet quite got over believing that they are just as good as anybody, and that they are entitled to just as good things as anybody gets. God forbid that they ever should get over that belief. But if there is widespread extravagance, it is due to that feeling. People see others roiling in ostentatious luxury, and they wish to experience some of it themselves. So they live beyond their means. That is how extravagance comes; by the force of example.

Let those who have much, if they really wish to do good to their country and their countrymen, set a fashion of simplicity. Let them eat simply, dress simply, live simply. They will be surprised to find how much virtue there is in simplicity, though apparently they never have suspected that it contained any virtue at all. Eating simply will mean better appetite and better health. Dressing simply will mean better taste and finer beauty. Living simply will mean greater content and pleasures more real than any to be found in high priced ostentation.

Nothing could happen to this nation that would do it more good than a return to that fine simplicity which is so far in the regretted past. The lack of simplicity is responsible for the mad rush to get money; which means to get money without much regard to how it is gotten.

Many a man has sacrificed peace, content, health, honesty—his very soul—in order to get the money needed to keep up the extravagant scale of living set by his wife and daughters. If the truth must be told, the crazy pursuit of riches which has become so rapid and so fierce that considerations of honesty and moral well-being are forgotten is due quite as much to the demands of luxury-craving wives and daughters as to anything else.

Let those who have set this deadly and dreadful fashion of ostentation and senseless display set a new fashion of simplicity. Let them cease striving to outdo each other in luxuriousness and barbarous magnificence, with the heartache and heartbreak, the discontent and envy, the crime and corruption, that come with that strife. Let them strive to outdo each other in setting new fashions of simplicity and sanity, and try, for a change, the peace and content and happiness and self-respect there is in plain living.

We haven't the remotest idea that anybody will adopt this advice. This discussion is probably a wicked waste of time and space. It is hard to believe that there is enough good sense afloat in the country to make such a thing possible. But honestly, now, don't you believe it would be a fine thing if such a fashion were set and followed? And don't you believe that down in the bottom of their hearts a great majority of the people who are engaged in the wild competition to see who can make the bravest show are tired of it, and would be glad if they dared return to that simplicity which this country needs more than almost anything else?

THE RIGHT ATTITUDE.

According to an interview with Champ Clark, leader of the Democrats in the house, the members of that party are planning to help President Taft put through such measures in his program as seem to them sufficiently progressive.

This is the proper attitude for the minority to take. It is not in congress to filibuster and play for partisan advantage. It is there to legislate for the good of the country. A minority which leaves legislation entirely to the majority may be working for party success, but it is working along the wrong lines. Its best course is to favor that part of the majority's program which is honest and right, and to fight that part of it which is unjust and wrong. In such a case as the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation, the duty of the minority is to see that no whitewash is applied and that the investigation is fair and full. It should not seek to gain partisan advantage by blackening the reputation of a man who is honest; neither should it permit the majority to save its party's face by whitewashing the reputation of a man who is unfaithful to the people, however high his official position may be.

So Champ Clark announces that the minority will help the president put through laws controlling the use of water power in the people's interest, regulating railroads under the proposed amendments to the interstate commerce act, restricting abuses of the injunction and providing a postal savings bank. Many Democrats are opposed to the president's proposal of federal charters for corporations; but then, too, so are many Republicans. This measure will not be an issue at this session, and is introduced merely to form a basis for discussion and popular education on the subject. When it becomes an issue, it will be the subject of a bitter fight, and as usual nowadays, party lines will scarcely appear in it at all, even though Democrats have an inbred reluctance to anything that tends to enlarge the powers of the nation, especially when it seems to threaten the rights of the states.

There can be no partisan fight, for instance, over the postal savings bank, because the Democrats and insurgents will be for it almost to a man, and if it meets opposition, it must come from those who form the organization in control of the two branches of congress. There can be no line of party division on the proposition that railroads should be more effectively regulated, nor upon the proposition that the remaining natural wealth in the possession of the government should be safeguarded against the attacks of greed and used for the common benefit of all the people. Neither will there be partisan division on the subject of restricting the use of the injunction, though undoubtedly Democrats will wish to go further in this restriction than the Republicans are willing to go.

At any rate, Champ Clark's announcement that the Democrats will favor everything in the president's program that they consistently can favor is encouraging to those who are weary of seeing the common good confused and submerged by petty struggles for partisan advantage.

THE BEMIDJI MEETING.

Big things can be made to result from the proposed conference of Northern Minnesota interests at Bemidji, Feb. 17 and 18. Whether the meeting effects a compact and resolute and aggressive organization for the common good of the communities of the northern two-thirds of the state, or results in a painful fiasco, depends upon the interest taken in it by the various communities, upon the character of the men they select to represent them, and upon the earnestness with which these men go about their work.

When the meeting was announced, The Herald stated, without talking with any officer of the Duluth Commercial club, that that body would be found alert and ready to do its share. That statement has been borne out by the action of the club. Now if the other commercial clubs of Northern Minnesota will take action equally effective, and if the county commissioners and legislative members will use their authority to appoint delegates and pick men who will go and speak out in meeting, the Bemidji conference can make itself historic.

Nor should it be forgotten at that meeting that the chief thing to be considered, and the first because without it nothing else will come, is reapportionment. Northern Minnesota must send to the next legislature a solid delegation of senators and representatives who will work for reapportionment first, last and all the time, and who will lay down the ultimatum that until a reapportionment bill is passed no other measure shall become law. In that way, and in that way only, lies Northern Minnesota's salvation.

THE MEAT BOYCOTT IN DULUTH.

Thus far the more or less widespread boycott against meat hasn't gained much foothold in Duluth. The patriotic and determined women of the Union Label league have declared themselves enlisted in the anti-meat crusade, but the labor unions have refused to take it up, and outside of the organized movement of the women, the army of temporary vegetarians has had few recruits in Duluth.

Yet it should not be overlooked that the present high prices of meat work more or less automatically to curtail meat consumption everywhere. People are eating less meat because they cannot afford so much as they used to buy. So whether the anti-meat fight enlists large numbers of recruits or not, Duluth and the nation are not eating so much meat as they did, and probably they will not for some time to come. They will find that they are better off for eating less meat, not only in pocket but in health; for the average person eats more meat, in ordinary circumstances, than is good for him.

Then, too, the prohibitive prices of fancy cuts of meat are driving many people to experiments with the cheaper cuts, though these are costly enough in comparison with former years. They will find that some of the kinds of meat they have abhorred in the past are, when properly cooked, palatable, nourishing and pleasant to take. If the present experience lessens the demand for the high-priced cuts of meat, and if the average family cuts down its meat consumption permanently, there will be a great gain even though the meat boycott proves to be a shortlived affair, as we suspect it will.

REAL ESTATE VALUATIONS.

City Assessor Rakowsky, in his annual report published in The Herald last evening, again calls attention to the need of a "thorough and completely scientific revaluation" of the real estate in Duluth, and declares his belief that while the cost would be considerable, the expenditure would prove to be a paying investment.

No satisfactory answer ever has been made to this assertion, nor is it likely that one will be made. It has been so long since a complete revaluation has been made, and the changes that have taken place are so many, that unless each biennial assessment has been thorough a new revaluation is absolutely needed. It is confessed by the city assessor that the biennial assessments have not been complete, and it is stated that with the present force and the present provisions of funds they cannot be made complete. It is true that some have said that the assessor's department ought to be able to make the necessary revaluation without much extra expense; but as to this we have the assessor's word for it that it is impossible.

Probably there is little complaint to be made of the total assessment, and no need of any considerable increase at present. The total is high enough, but the distribution is unjust and behind the times. There are lots in Duluth that are assessed on the basis of old inflated boom values, so that these lots now pay too great a proportion of the public expense. There are other lots whose value was low when the last reassessment was made, but which since have gained very largely in worth; and such lots are not now paying their proper share of the public expense.

It is now too late, according to the city assessor, to make the needed revaluation for this year, but arrangements should be made as soon as possible to complete it before the next real estate assessment is made.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about live topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

NOT LACK OF LAW, BUT LACK OF ENFORCEMENT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

It was stated by the speaker at the meeting of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon that the white slave traffic, so-called, was a question now in issue in the city of Duluth; and in connection with this statement, made upon the eve of a city election, the claim was made that the present law of the state is inadequate as to the penalty provided by law in case of conviction of keepers of houses of ill fame, which is a mistake, and that impression ought not to be allowed to prevail among those by whom the address was listened to.

The following is a provision of the statute in force, contained in section 4958, Revised Laws of Minnesota, 1905:

"Every person who shall keep a house of ill fame or assignation, or a house, tent, vehicle, resort or place of any description for persons to visit for unlawful sexual intercourse, or for any other lewd, obscene or indecent purpose, shall be guilty of a felony."

Under further provision of the statute the offense is thus defined and declared a felony is punishable by "imprisonment in the state prison or a county jail for not more than seven years, or by a fine of not more than $1,000, or by both."

Such permanent law of the state of Minnesota is the basis of other provisions relating to places of resort of the character mentioned, including provision for the protection of minors, and one against the detention of women in such places on account of debts.

The trouble heretofore has been, not with the law, but with the policy of its enforcement or non-enforcement, rather, provisions of city ordinances inadequate to the purpose of the suppression of such places of evil resort being usual, and the purpose of the latter being practically to license houses of ill fame and assignation, to the extinction of which the provisions of the law are entirely adequate, no doubt.

Had the policy been extinction of the evil, as now virtually claimed in its behalf, with agitation of the one of the white slave traffic, prosecutions in the name of the state would have been uniformly instituted, as has not been the case, either under the present city administration or any former one, and the claim of an issue now concerning the suppression of the white slave trade is merely an admission of the fact of non-enforcement of the law of the state directed against the keepers of houses of ill fame and houses of assignation, both of which could be eradicated if that were in fact the purpose of the city authorities in practical control of the matter. With enforcement of the law against the keepers of places of evil resort, provision for which is made as cited above, the question of prevention of the white slave trade, as well as prevention of enticing minors to such places, could hardly arise at all in this state, and the demand of citizens should be the enforcement of the laws of the state on the part of the city government; and that is the real issue, if there is any at all, concerning the white slave trade, so far as the city of Duluth is concerned.

"Linesbizzi."

Oh, gentle Hello Girl, and dear,
What mean'st the answer that I hear
In thy sweet accents, all too clear:
"Linesbizzi."

With deep regret I summon thee,
And say, "Wilt give me one 2-3?"
And then it is thou answer'st me:
"Linesbizzi."

I wait awhile, as e'en I must
Then low I bow me in the dust,
And seek thy favor. Vain is trust,
"Linesbizzi."

Anon I wait, as wait I may,
While gray and cheerless grows the
While gray and cheerless grows the day;
Still but one word I hear thee say:
"Linesbizzi."

It matters not how mad I get,
How much I paw and fume and fret,
Thou answer'st, answer'st, answer'st yet:
"Linesbizzi."

Whence came this word, my peace to mar?
From Babylon or Malabar?
I ask, but still thine answers are:
"Linesbizzi."

A gentle Hello Girl, and shy,
Once tried to catch the line on High,
St. Peter smiled, and made reply:
"Linesbizzi."

—The Grouch.

Is the War Over?

Louisville Courier-Journal: A writer in the New York Evening Post, who signs himself "Northern Unionist," offers this to the groups of camp followers and coffee coolers, who have lately heard of the war of sections, and are beginning to get mad enough to fight: "It strikes my commonplace imagination that an effectual test of the propriety of a statue of Gen. Lee at the capitol, is to be found in the question: 'What would Grant and Sherman have thought of it?'" and adds, "Could any modern G. A. R. commander answer that frankly and honestly and leave himself enough ammunition to damage the plan?"

In 1877, when the Hayes-Tilden contest was decided in favor of Hayes, Gen. W. T. Sherman was so insistent that Gen. Joseph E. Johnston should be secretary of war in the new cabinet, that Mr. Hayes consented. It was proposed to the nearest friends of Gen. Johnston, who stated that if the offer were made, Gen. Johnston would decline it. Gen. Sherman expressed himself as greatly disappointed.

Subsequently, Judge Key, a Confederate soldier and an original Secessionist, was made postmaster general.

To Grant and Sherman the war ended in 1865; to camp followers and coffee coolers, it would never end.

Insurgency.

Kansas City Times: In the keenest analysis of the insurgent movement that has yet been published, Ray Stannard Baker's article entitled "Is the Republican Party Breaking Up?" in the American Magazine for February, a common misunderstanding is referred to. The old line leaders so far have failed to comprehend that insurgency is not the result of economic unrest; that instead it is a moral movement.

When Mr. Baker first started on his tour of investigation last summer a politician said to him: "What's the matter with those folks, anyhow? Aren't they prosperous?" Speaker Cannon has expressed his amazement that people so prosperous should listen to "agitators" like La Follette and Cummins. Senator Aldrich, after his return from his Western trip, reported that he had found "neither distress nor poverty," and so implied that there could be no real revolution.

So long as people were prosperous it has been assumed that they must be contented with political conditions. If they "got theirs" it was taken for granted that they weren't worried if somebody else wasn't getting his share. That is where the leaders of the old school have been badly mistaken. "The Square Deal," the insurgent platform, is essentially a proposition in morals, not in economics. The insurgent West didn't know anything about the details of tariff-making. What it insisted on, and what it failed to get, was that the tariff should be revised in the interests of all the people, and not for the benefit of beneficiaries with political pulls. In the matter of the conservation of national resources, what the insurgents are concerned in is that there shall be no special privileges.

It is because a moral issue is involved that the insurgent movement differs from any recent phenomenon in American politics. It cannot be smothered and it cannot be compromised. It must capture the Republican organization, or there will be a new party alignment.

THE WEATHER.

The weather was great last night: not too cold, not too warm. Today for election in Duluth, the weather man did himself proud by sending ideal weather conditions. After the polls close tonight, snow and colder weather will come, according to the predictions.

Fine weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 7:33 and it will set at 5:10, giving nine hours and thirty-seven minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The Saskatchewan-Manitoba disturbance has moved its center to South Dakota, snow or rain resulting in Montana, Nevada, Pacific coast states, British Columbia and Alberta, together with somewhat warmer weather in the western lake region and the Upper Mississippi and Lower Missouri valleys. Areas of high barometer central over the Ohio valley and Oregon have caused colder temperature in Atlantic States and the extreme Northwest, respectively. Zero temperatures prevail in Vermont and Northern Saskatchewan.

"The easterly movement of the depression now overlying South Dakota will be attended by snow flurries and colder weather at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

Following are the maximum temperatures for twenty-four hours and the minimum for twelve ending at 7 o'clock this morning:

The Fourteen Errors of Life.

London Evening Standard: The fourteen mistakes of life Judge Rentoul told the Bartholomew club are:

To attempt to set up our own standard of right and wrong and expect everybody to conform to it.

To try to measure the enjoyment of others by our own.

To look for judgment and experience in youth.

To endeavor to mold all dispositions alike.

Not to yield in unimportant trifles.

To look for perfection in our own actions.

To worry ourselves and others about what cannot be remedied.

Not to alleviate if we can all that needs alleviation.

Not to make allowances for the weaknesses of others.

To consider anything impossible that we cannot ourselves perform.

To believe only what our finite minds can grasp.

To live as if the moment, the time, the day, were so important that it would live forever.

To estimate people by some outside quality, for it is that within which makes the man.

A Writer in the Wrong Pew.

William H. Rideing in the February McClure's gives some recollections of James Payn, a "best seller" of thirty years ago. At that time the following incident occurred, Payne was editor of the Cornhill Magazine:

"One day an unannounced caller who had managed to evade the porter downstairs opened Payn's door. His hair was long, and his clothes were shabby and untidy. He had a roll of papers in his hand. Payn, surmising a poet and an epic several thousand lines long, looked up.

"'Well, sir?'

"'I've brought you something about Sarcoma and Carcinoma.'

"'We are overcrowded with poetry—couldn't accept another line, not if it were by Milton.'

"'Poetry,' the caller flashed. 'Do you know anything about Sarcoma and Carcinoma?'

"'Italian lovers, aren't they?' said Payn imperturbably.

"The caller retreated, with a withering glance at the editor. Under the same roof as the Cornhill was the office of a medical and surgical journal, and it was this that the caller sought, for the disposal of a treatise on those cancerous growths with the euphonious names which, with a layman's ignorance, Payn ascribed to poetry."

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

At a meeting of the new board of directors of the Duluth board of trade, Col. George E. Wells was re-elected secretary and F. W. Paine was again chosen treasurer. Col. Welles was given leave of absence for sixty days and will go to Chicago for medical treatment.

The Scandinavian Musical union was organized yesterday and it is expected to have a membership of forty or fifty. There will be an orchestra, a band and chorus singing. Officers were elected as follows: J. H. Nordby, president; F. Engberg, secretary and treasurer; J. A. Swanson, musical director.

The new house of J. C. Schaefer at Lester Park was destroyed by fire last night. It was insured under a builder's risk and was nearly completed. The value was $4,000. The fire is believed to have originated from the furnace. Carpenters' tools to the value of $1,200 were burned or rendered worthless, the loss falling on James Johnson, Ole Anderson, Nels Johnson, George Lounsberry, W. Palmer and George Waller.

The Duluth flour train reached Marquette at 4:30 yesterday afternoon. A large crowd cheered as it pulled into the depot yard.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Crittenden of Lake City are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Mendenhall this week.

George E. Foster and family of Oil City, Pa., have arrived to spend a couple of months in Duluth. Mr. Foster is heavily interested here.

Philip Southern, who left some time ago to accept a place on a Boston magazine, has returned. He says he has found no place to suit him as well as Duluth.

Mrs. Grube, who has been visiting Mrs. C. E. Budden for some time, has returned to her home in Ely.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Democrats May Try.

Milaca Times: The Democrats will again try to land a house member from this district, and will probably unite on Douglas Greeley of Pine City. Mr. Greeley is well qualified for the position, having served as county auditor of Pine county twelve years and if, perchance, the district is to be represented by a Democrat, Doug would be preferable to any other Democrat we know of.

This Seems to be Sarcasm.

Barnesville Record-Review: H. O. Bjorge of Lake Park has come out for the nomination on the Republican ticket for congress, against Halvor Steenerson, making his announcement in the Hawley Herald. It was supposed that he would come out on the Prohibition ticket, but he seems to have had a change of heart.

Is a Candidate Already.

Elk River Star-News: The daily papers keep speculating as to whether or not Frank Kellogg will be a senatorial candidate next winter. Bless your innocent souls, he has been a candidate for a year or more, and plans to elect friends of his to the legislature are already being carried out. These wiseacres appear to be carrying speculation to extreme in this case, and be assured there is a motive in it.

Taft Too Tenderhearted.

Foley Independent, (Rep.): Taft is a procrastinator who does not believe in doing today that which can be done tomorrow or the day after. His every instinct cries aloud for peace and harmony, no matter at what expense they may be had. He would have made an ideal president during the infancy of our republic when the richest man in the country possessed less than $2,000,000, but he is by far too tenderhearted for this strenuous age when we are constantly engaged in conflict with bad and corrupt wealth.

The Real Question.

Two Harbors Journal-News: That the present is a crucial period in the continued existence of both the Republican and Democratic parties is a statement which students of our present political system will not attempt to deny. The time has come when people are asking the questions "who are with us?" and "who are against us?" rather than "who are Republicans?" and "who are Democrats?"

A Sudden Significant Silence.

Hibbing Tribune: Now that it is evident that Republican harmony in Minnesota means the nomination of Eberhart there are a lot of Republican leaders who have suddenly quit hollering for harmony.

Held in High Honor.

Perham Enterprise: Whether John Lind becomes a candidate for governor or not, it must be a source of satisfaction to him to know that a large majority of the people of this state are favorable to his candidacy and recognize his eminent fitness for the office. It is seldom that a citizen of any state has the honor of knowing that he could be elected governor without even asking the office—by simply allowing the people to elect him.

Taft No Help.

Thief River Falls Press: It is intimated that Frank B. Kellogg is soon to announce his candidacy for the seat in the United States senate to replace Senator Clapp. It is also stated that President Taft and Kellogg are great friends and that the former would be willing to come to the latter's assistance. Taft would be no greater help to Kellogg in this case than would a millstone tied about a swimmer's neck.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Thinking is thinking you do.

Engagements are of a high temperature, marriages of a low.

Steam heat only makes a flat that much more like purgatory.

The less a woman means it the more loyal she seems able to be.

"Yes, but it was in the night, and I didn't see much of the place."

Boston Transcript: She—Short stories seem quite the thing just now.

Philadelphia Ledger: "What do you intend to do if acquitted of this insanity charge?"

"Go into authorship."

"Gee! Well, I'll keep still, but don't you tell the court."

Puck: "Won't you try to love me?" he sighed.

"I have tried," she replied kindly, but firmly.

"My rich aunt has just died," he went on.

"In that case, dear, I will try again!"

Pittsburg Post: "I'd like to get on some big New York newspaper."

"What could you do on a New York newspaper?"

"Well, I believe I could write the unconfirmed rumors."

Cleveland Leader: Belle—How silly men act when they propose! Why, my husband acted like a perfect fool.

Nellie—That's what everybody thought when your engagement was announced.

SPOONER HAS HEAVY LOSS

Northern Minnesota Village Is Visited By a $30,000 Fire.

Guests of Spooner Hotel Experience Some Thrilling Escapes.

Spooner, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire broke out early Monday in the Hotel Spooner from an over-heated stove.

The guests of the hotel barely escaped, many in their nightclothes. The fire spread rapidly to the saloon and boarding house of Kyler & Young, adjoining and the store of Mrs. John Eagan, all three buildings being totally destroyed, together with their contents.

The Baudette fire department was early on the ground and rendered valuable assistance.

The losses are as follows: Mrs. Eagan, general merchandise, stock and building, value $15,000, insurance $6,500; Spooner hotel and saloon, conducted by John P. Brodin, value $8,000, insurance $3,500; Kyler & Young, saloon, value $7,500, insurance $6,000; Thompson, general merchandise, damaged building and stock, $500.

WITNESS FACES PERJURY CHARGE

Alleged to Have Given False Testimony in Liquor Case at Houghton.

Houghton, Mich., Feb. 1.—The jury in the case of Patrick Schenenk, the Chassell saloon keeper, charged with having his saloon open on Sunday, Sept. 26, brought in a verdict of acquittal and Schenenk was discharged.

But as a result of the case one of the most interesting criminal proceedings brought in Houghton county in years was brought against Arthur Remington of Chassell, a witness in the case. He was arrested on a charge of perjury. The complaining witness is Henry Halapa of Chassell, complaining witness against Schenenk. Mr. Halapa is convinced that Remington knew the saloon was open and actually purchased a pint of whiskey in the saloon on the Sunday in question.

Schenenk's acquittal on the charge of violating the liquor law will not be affected by the perjury charge against his witness but there were rumors around the county building that Remington is going to make a confession which will probably bring Schenenk within the pale of the law again on a more serious charge.

Attorney J. F. Hambitzer, who defended Schenenk, said that he believed Remington was telling the truth or he would not have put him on the stand, as he was not an essential witness.

BOOMED FOR GOVERNOR.

Billings County, N. D., Proposes Senator Martin for Nomination.

Dickinson, N. D., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—A boom has been commenced in Billings county for A. L. Martin for the Republican nomination for governor. Mr. Martin, who is a member of the state senate, has been a resident of Billings county a great many years, being one of its real pioneers. In 1892 he was a telegraph operator at Sentinel Butte. From that he went into the mercantile business, later to sheep raising and finally to cattle and horse raising.

Building Mail Boat.

Baudette, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.—Gibson & Co. local boat builders, have on stocks the model of a new launch which will be placed in commission upon the Frontier mail route as soon as navigation opens. It will be 35 feet, over all, with a beam of 7½ feet, amidships, and will be supplied with one of the best gasoline engines procurable of 48-horse power capacity. The boat is being built for S. E. Hyre, who has the mail contract from Baudette to Frontier and intermediate points and will be called the Yankee Girl.

BIG DITCH BIDS ARE CALLED FOR

Tenders Wanted for Greatest Piece of Ditching in State.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 1.—Bids have been asked for Judicial Ditch No. 11, which will drain Marshall and Beltrami counties. These bids will be received March 1 at Warren, the county seat of Marshall, and Bemidji, the county seat of Beltrami county.

Judicial Ditch No. 11 is the greatest drainage project ever undertaken in the state of Minnesota, being five times larger than any other attempted in the past. It will drain approximately 260,000 acres in the two counties, and will cost in the neighborhood of $530,000. More than 5,540,900 cubic yards of earth will be removed during the course of excavation, and it is expected that the work will consume the greater part of three years.

All the land that will be drained by Judicial Ditch No. 11 lies to the east and north of Thief River Falls. This land will make ideal farming districts, and will be ready for the plow as soon as it is drained. There is little or no timber on the land.

CANNOT FIND EVIDENCE.

Dakota County Sheriff Probing South St. Paul Prize Fight.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 1.—No arrests have been made in connection with the prize fight in the pavilion at South St. Paul last week.

Sheriff James McDevitt of Dakota county said that he had taken no steps to arrest any one. "It is a difficult thing to gather evidence in the case," he said. "I have been to South St. Paul twice, but I can't find any one there who can tell me anything about the fight. I am morally certain that there was a fight and that Chief Braun was there, but I can't arrest a man because I am morally certain. I need proof and till I get it my hands are tied."

Mayor Lytle insists that he will arrest Chief of Police Braun if no one else does, but so far he has taken no steps to swear out a warrant for that official.

Attorney General Simpson, to whom Governor Eberhart turned over Mayor Lytle's letter, asking for enlightment upon his powers to arrest the chief, has given the mayor no opinion upon the matter.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 1.—The farmer and his whole family, including his wife, sons and daughters, as well as the operators and managers of the creamery or cheese factory to which he takes his milk, are all provided for in the five special courses, all of which open at the University of Wisconsin college of agriculture on Feb. 8 and continue from five to ten days.

By these courses the university undertakes to reach every man, woman and child in the rural districts of the state, in order to help them solve the particular problems confronting them.

IMPLEMENT MEN ARE IN SESSION

Northwestern Minnesota and North Dakota Dealers Meet at Forks.

Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the opening session here today of the Northwestern Minnesota and North Dakota Implement Dealers' association, Secretary George F. Carpenter of Crookston made his annual report. This deals with the work of the association during the past year, and in it the secretary also takes occasion to make a number of important recommendations.

Among other things Secretary Carpenter urged organization saying:

"We cannot too strongly urge on the attention of all the dealers of the state the benefit to be derived from united organization. Every other line of business in the country is organized and in most instances their asso- bringing about reforms, and there is no question in our mind but if the dealers of the Northwest could be impressed with the importance of this matter, they would soon see wherein they were materially benefited. The saving of thousands of dollars that has already been made through the organization of our insurance company is in itself sufficient reason for the existence of our association. The further fact that manufacturers and jobbers wish to do business with association members."

GIRL SLASHES THROAT.

Discouraged Over Ill Health, She Attempts Her Life.

East Grand Forks, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Despondent because of illness, Miss Edith Geddes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Geddes, residing eight miles from here, attempted to commit suicide yesterday while alone in her room, the girl secured a razor, slashing her throat in a horrible manner. Her condition was immediately discovered, and physicians called, but the wound is such a serious one that their apears to be very little hope of recovery.

Miss Geddes is 23 years of age, and her parents are among the most prominent Polk county residents.

GOING AFTER McTIER.

Grand Forks County Officials to Bring Accused From Canada.

Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Assistant State's Attorney C. C. McMullen and Sheriff O. G. Hanson left last evening for Montreal, Can., where the closing scenes in fight to bring Archibald McTier back to this city to face a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, will soon be enacted.

The case comes up in the extradition court in Montreal about Friday or Saturday. Mr. McTier was arrested some time ago on complaint of Hatcher Bros. of Grand Forks, charged with obtaining $1,900 under false pretenses. He is making a hard fight against extradition, contending that it is an effort to bring him back here to collect a civil debt. A president's warrant has been issued for him at Washington, D. C.

STUNTZ CASE SUBMITTED.

Five Days Consumed in Hearing Evidence at Stillwater.

Stillwater, Minn., Feb. 1.—It took five days to hear the testimony in the district court in the case of Mary J. Stuntz by her guardian against George L. Spangler of Duluth and others, brought to set aside deeds given by Mrs. Stuntz, who is in an insane asylum. After the testimony was concluded the case was submitted on briefs.

WASSAU JUSTICE HAS STARTED MOVABLE COURT.

Wausau, Wis., Feb. 1.—Judge C. L. Warren of the probate court of this county, has introduced an innovation. Instead of the litigants coming to him, he goes to them to hold court. This is the first time this has been done in the history of the county court of this county.

The first session outside of his court was held in Colby.

Judge Warren says he will hold court outside of the city once a month, at whichever place the occasion may make it advisable.

COOPER'S FOLLOWERS GIVE REASON FOR THEIR BELIEF

With a theory that human health is dependent on the stomach and with a medicine which he says proves this theory, L. T. Cooper, a comparatively young man, has built up an immense following during the past year.

Cooper has visited most of the leading cities of the country, and in each city has aroused a storm of discussion about his beliefs and his medicines. Wherever he has gone, people have called upon him by tens of thousands, and his preparation has sold in immense quantities.

The sale of this medicine has now spread over the entire country, and is growing enormously each day. In view of this the following statements from two of the great number of followers which he now has, are of general interest.

N. V. Marsh, residing at 217 South Daly street, Los Angeles, Cal., has the following to say upon the subject of the Cooper preparations:

"For more than a year I experienced the most intense suffering, due of a form of stomach trouble, which the doctors called catarrhal gastritis. After eating I would fill up with gas, which caused frequent belching. The abdominal area would expand until I could scarcely breathe, causing great distress. At such times I could not keep still, but paced the streets for hours until the pain subsided.

"Frequently I went without eating rather than endure the torture that was sure to follow. Liquids were the only kind of food I could partake of with safety. I had spells of dizziness, and became badly run down through suffering and lack of proper nourishment. I tried various remedies in search of relief, but they failed to help me.

"Some time ago a brother member in a lodge to which I belong urged me to try the Cooper remedies, which were then being demonstrated in Los Angeles. He stated that to his personal knowledge they had been of great benefit to others in a like condition, and on the strength of his recommendation I procured a treatment of Cooper's New Discovery.

"It proved helpful from the first dose, and in less than a week I was eating regularly and heartily, without experiencing any bad effects afterward. Since taking the full treatment I am perfectly well and enjoy living for the first time in many months. Now I can eat a heavy supper, then go to bed and sleep like a healthy boy. I feel so well that I can hardly realize I am the same man. Cooper's New Discovery has worked a marvelous change in me—it has done all that was claimed for it."

Another statement by Mr. W. B. Stewart, 109 W. Madison street, Chicago, is as follows: "I have had stomach trouble for years, and any one who is afflicted this way knows what an awful distressed feeling it causes. Many a time I have felt that I would give most any price to be cured. It was by accident that I heard of this man Cooper's remedies. immediately made up my mind to buy a treatment of him. I used it for about two weeks, and it is impossible to tell how much good it has done me. I feel altogether different. I have more life and energy than I have had for years. This medicine certainly does stimulate and strengthen the whole system. Tired feeling and weak condition of the stomach has entirely passed away. I feel well again."

Cooper's New Discovery is sold by all druggists. If your druggist cannot supply you, we will forward you the name of a druggist in your city who will. Don't accept "something just as good."—The Cooper Medicine Co., Dayton, Ohio.

LEDBETTER'S SLAYER IS GIVEN LIFE IN PENITENTIARY

Mankato, Minn., Feb. 1.—Frank Smith's motion for a new trial was denied yesterday by Judge Pfau, who at once sentenced him to life imprisonment in the Stillwater penitentiary for the murder of Holland J. Ledbeter. Smith will not be taken there until after he testifies before the grand jury tomorrow, and Judge Pfau said that whether he will be taken then will depend upon what the grand jury does. He may be held until after the trial of Mrs. Ledbeter or the Schwandts, in case they should be indicted. He will take an appeal to the supreme court at once from Judge Pfau's order, and he believes he will get a new trial. It is understood that funds to carry on his appeal will be provided by people who have interested themselves.

QUARREL OVER ISSUING MAPS

Weather Bureau and Hydrographic Office in Controversy Over Work.

An echo is being heard in Duluth of a small-sized war which is in progress in Washington between the weather bureau and the hydrographic office. The weather bureau has been publishing the meteorological charts and a question has arisen as to whether they should be published by the weather bureau or the hydrographic office.

"The published reports that the weather bureau is desirous of curtailing any of the duties of the hydrographic office are incorrect," said H. W. Richardson, forecaster at the local weather bureau today. "On the contrary the hydrographic office is endeavoring to have the meteorological charts of the weather bureau abandoned and hydrographic charts substituted. Therefore such action would do positive injury to marine interests as the weather bureau collects all meteorological data and with its professors and forecasters it is more competent to discuss the data and publish that which is of benefit to mariners. The work can be done more cheaply and more effectively by the weather bureau."

SWIM IN THE SURF WHEN THERMOMETER SHIVERS.

New York, Feb. 1.—People clad in overcoats, mufflers, overshoes and furs stood around a bonfire at Brighton beach Sunday and shivered as they watched the Arctic club members swimming in the sea. The temperature of the air was 33 deg. and of the water 27 deg.

The club has a clause in its constitution which commands members to swim in the ocean every Sunday. They have been doing it all winter, and not one member has contracted so much as a bad cold. It is even considered bad form in the Arctic club to sneeze.

There are eleven members and eight appeared Sunday for the weekly swim. They wore regulation bathing suits, the kind popular in July and August. They first galloped around the beach and then passed the medicine ball.

Then, led by their president, James Foss, who is 60, they plunged into the surf. They swam out a half mile or so and then back.

After the swim there was another race up and down the beach, and then the club members donned their clothes.

SPARROWS MAY BE USED AS FOOD

Are Often Served Under Name of "Reed Birds" in Restaurants.

During the agitation over the high cost of food, the fact that English sparrows, usually regarded as pests, are edible is interesting. A bulletin of the department of agriculture just issued, says:

"Since English sparrows are a pest and a reduction of their number is important on economic grounds, there would seem to be no reason why the birds, when trapped or shot, should not be utilized for food in this country as they have been in the Old World for centuries. Their flesh is palatable and nutritious and in city restaurants they are often served under the name of reed birds."

Life Isn't Worth Living

When This Statement Is Made It May Be Generally Attributed to the Lack of Good Health.

We want to talk to people who are nervous, who suffer frequent headaches, who don't enjoy their food, who are irritable, quickly lose their temper, who are so exhausted that they feel they must give up, and have become so despondent that life doesn't seem worth living. We believe we know what is the matter with these people in this condition, and if they will follow our advice we can tell them how to regain good health and that buoyancy of feeling which makes life seem surrounded with happiness and sunshine.

Most of the above described conditions are chiefly caused by what is commonly called catarrh, a "below par" condition of mucous membranes. This delicate lining of certain of the body cavities becomes weakened, inflamed and congested until the whole system is weakened, mental depression ensuing as one of the results. The wise way to overcome this condition is through a treatment of the general system. We have the treatment, and we are so positive it will produce the results we claim for it that we will supply it to any one with the understanding that we will return to them every penny paid us in every instance where the treatment is not in every way satisfactory and beneficial to them.

We want you to try Rexall Mucu-Tone, which is a scientifically devised alterative tonic and body builder, its action being to aid the body in its effort to re-establish the natural and healthy functions of the mucous membranes.

Rexall Mucu-Tone thus acts to expel the "catarrhal poison," restore the mucous cells to good health, tone up the whole body, allay inflammation, remove congestion and stimulate the system to healthy activity. It is splendid for aiding the building up of flesh and muscle tissue and removing weakness.

Come to our store and get a bottle of Mucu-Tone, and after giving it a reasonable trial if you are not satisfied, simply tell us so, and we will hand back your money without question. Surely nothing could be more fair than this. Rexall Mucu-Tone comes in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Duluth only at our store—The Rexall Store—E. M. Tredway, 108 West Superior street.

COMMENDS GARDEN PLAN

A. J. McGuire Says Clearing of Land Would Be Profitable Investment.

Expresses Hope That Plan Advanced By J. G. Williams Will Not Fail.

In a letter to The Herald, A. J. McGuire, superintendent of the Northeastern Minnesota experimental farm of the University of Minesota at Grand Rapids, commends the plan for the development of land in the vicinity of Duluth for market garden purposes and expresses the hope that it will not fail. He gives facts and figures and points out that the clearing of the land and the providing of marketing facilities are absolutely necessary to the development of the land in the vicinity of the city. His communication follows:

"I want to commend the press of the city of Duluth for its stand in regard to the importance of the movement for the development of market garden farms tributary to Duluth. The failure of the plan now under way would be a serious loss not only to Duluth, but to all of Northeastern Minnesota for the reason that the agricultural development of Northern Minnesota will be greatly delayed unless capital is applied to the work. The success of this plan would be the best possible argument for the state to expend a little more capital in building wagon roads and bringing farmers into Northeastern Minnesota. The plan must not fail.

"I beg to submit a few figures on this project. The plan asks for $200,000, I believe, on the assumption of developing 1,800 acres of land. This is possible. Ten per cent interest on the $200,000 I believe would be regarded as a good investment. A rent of $11 per acre would pay this. There is land used for market garden purposes in different sections of the country that is fifteen and twenty miles from market, upon which $20 and $25 rent per acre is paid, and in sections where garden products do not bring the price they do in Duluth.

"It is not uncommon for a market gardener to realize from $200 to $300 from a single acre and I can cite examples here in Northeastern Minnesota where this is done.

"Whether this investment of $200,000 in the development of market garden farm land will pay should not be a serious question in this day when the scarcity of food products is the most serious problem confronting the American people. It can be made the most profitable investment ever made for Duluth, and I want to say that if Duluth waits for the natural evolution of things to bring market garden farmers there, it will wait till it has paid in excessive prices for products ten times the amount now asked.

"I thoroughly approve of the plan submitted by John G. Williams, the plan to clear the land and provide marketing facilities. When this is done, you can get men who farm as a business and men who can produce crops that will pay for the investment in a comparatively few years. You can't get such men without first clearing the land, for the reason that such men have never cleared land. It is a condition that is entirely foreign to their line of work. They don't want uncleared land at any price, but a fertile soil under cultivation is not uncommonly valued at from $150 to $350 per acre, by market gardeners, and such values may be found in Minnesota tributary to the Twin Cities where market gardening is made a business.

"The securing of market garden farmers for Duluth should not be a difficult undertaking. The business of market gardening is much overdone around the large cities of the Eastern and Central portions of the United States. Gardening is the almost exclusive branch of agriculture around Eastern cities, often extending as far as twenty-five miles into the country, and much of the produce is hauled that distance on wagons. The land is high-priced and much of it is low in fertility, manure having to be brought out from the cities either on wagons or by trains, which makes it most expensive.

"Competition is intense and high-priced land and high rent greatly reduce the profits. Many of these market gardeners are renters and would undoubtedly be anxious to secure as desirable a location as Duluth if they were convinced that the country around Duluth is favorable to their business. What could be more convincing than the proposed association backed by reliable business men of Duluth? Every business man in Northeastern Minnesota should be interested in the success of this movement, for its success would mean more capital applied to clearing up the land. It would mean an increased population of over 500,000 people for this section of the state. It would keep much of the money at home that is now invested in Western projects, the values of which are at best doubtful. I am yet to find a farm in Northern Minnesota properly cultivated that is not a splendid paying investment—a home and blessing to its owner and the mainstay of business prosperity for the greater portion of this section of Minnesota, however great the mining industry may become."

LIFE TIMER PARDONED.

Slayer of His Wife in Upper Michigan Released From Pen.

Marquette, Mich., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Borghetti, who at a trial in Dickinson county sixteen years ago was convicted of the murder of his wife and was given a life sentence in the Marquette prison, has been released from the penitentiary.

Acting upon the recommendation of the state board, Governor Warner has granted a full pardon on condition that Borghetti return to his former home in Italy and never return to the United States. The murder was committed at Iron Mountain in July, 1893.

Ishpeming Fire.

Negaunee, Mich., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire believed to have of incendiary origin wiped out the barn, chicken coop and carpenter shop of Ole Seam at Ishpeming. Practically everything in the buildings was consumed, including about $300 worth of carpenter's tools.

A Common Cold.

We claim that if catching cold could be avoided some of the most dangerous and fatal diseases would never be heard of. A cold often forms a culture bed for germs of infectious diseases. Consumption, pneumonia, diphtheria and scarlet fever, four of the most dangerous and fatal diseases, are of this class. The culture bed formed by the cold favors the development of the germs of these diseases, that would not otherwise find lodgment. There is little danger, however, of any of these diseases being contracted when a good expectorant cough medicine like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. It cleans out these culture beds that favor the development of the germs of these diseases. That is why this remedy has proved so universally successful in preventing pneumonia. It not only cures your cold quickly, but minimizes the risk of contracting these dangerous diseases. For sale by all druggists.

ANNUAL FREE SEED ROW HELD

Kusterman of Wisconsin Gets Some Fun Out of House Debate.

Washington, Feb. 1.—The annual discussion on the free distribution of seed by congressmen was precipitated in the house yesterday by Representative Moss of Indiana, who proposed an amendment to the agricultural bill increasing the appropriation for garden and flower seed from $43,000 to $100,000, with a provision that the seed should be distributed by the secretary of agriculture. This proposition was voted down.

Amendment was created by Representative Kustermann of Wisconsin, who said his constituents criticised congressmen "because their arguments would not go down and their seed would not come up."

HARDWOOD MEN MEET.

Five Hundred Delegates Attend Cincinnati Convention.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 1.—About 500 delegates from all sections of the country were present when the eighth annual convention of the Hardwood Manufacturers' association was called to order here today. Election of officers will take place Thursday.

LONG STANDING FEUD HAS ENDED IN KILLING.

Marquette, Mich., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mackinac county advices report that Swante Heikkila was shot and instantly killed by Victor Hill at a wood-chopping camp near the Big Reck limestone quarry, and that the murderer was at once placed under arrest and has been lodged in jail at St. Ignace to await trial. The tragedy, according to these advices, grew out of a long-standing feud between the men.

ANNUAL MEETING OF TEACHERS

Educators of Northeastern Minnesota to Gather in Duluth Next Week.

The ninth annual meeting of the Northeastern Minnesota Teachers' association will be held in Duluth, Friday and Saturday, Feb. 11 and 12. The convention will be attended by school superintendents, principals and teachers of this section of the state. The general theme will be the efficiency of the public schools.

The morning of the first day will be given over to visiting the Duluth schools. In the afternoon there will be the first session of the convention. Dr. Boyer will at that time speak on "Efficiency of the Public Schools as Related to the Health of Teachers and Pupils." William Iler Crane, formerly superintendent of the Marshalltown, Iowa, public schools, will speak on "Efficiency of the Public Schools as Related to Teachers' Understanding of Boys and Girls."

The first evening session will be held at the Duluth Commercial club. A reception will be given the visitors. A musical program is being prepared by Prof. A. F. M. Custance.

Sectional meetings will be the order at the Central High School building, beginning Saturday morning. Prof. E. C. Lord of the Eastern Illinois normal school, will speak on "Efficiency of the Public School as Related to Recitation." Charles S. Mitchell, editorial writer of the News Tribune, will speak on "Efficiency of the Public School From a Layman's Standpoint." A musical committee has arranged for a program of music to be rendered at this session of the convention.

The officers of the association: E. A. Freeman of Grand Rapids, president; Miss Ruth Cole of Coleraine, secretary; S. A. Foster of Duluth, treasurer.

THREE AUTOISTS KILLED.

Two Women and One Man Victims of Denver Accident.

Denver, Colo., Feb. 1.—Both women who were with James A. Baker of Cincinnati, and Russel A. Talbot of New York, as guests of Morris Mayer last night when their automobile was struck by two street cars were identified today. The two women and Baker were killed and Talbot was fatally injured.

The feminine victims were Miss Virgil Cain and Mrs. William J. Keating, both of Denver. Miss Cain was the fiancee of Mayer, who had arranged the party in honor of Baker and Talbot.

Mayer, who was driving the car at terrific speed when the accident occurred, was thrown clear and was only slightly injured. He was found hours afterwards wandering the streets, apparently half demented.

DEATH WAS VERY SUDDEN

Young Man Dies in Agony—May Have Been Poisoned.

Post-Mortem Will Be Held to Determine the Cause.

Mystery surrounds the death of James Hawkins, 20 years old, which occurred suddenly this morning at his boarding place, 2825 West First street. It is thought that he might have died of poisoning. A post-mortem examination will be conducted over his body this evening.

Hawkins was a printer and worked at the J. J. Le Tourneau printing establishment on West First street near Third avenue. Saturday noon he laid off, telling his employers that he felt slightly ill.

Sunday, Hawkins visited with his friends and relatives and it is said that there was nothing to show that anything was the matter with him. Last evening he attended church with a number of his friends and they state that he seemed in apparently good health.

Late last evening he was taken violently ill and Dr. R. E. Cavanaugh was called to attend him. He died during the early morning hours in a fit of agony.

His relatives are at a loss to account for his sudden death as he was always known as a healthy young man and not addicted to any bad habits. The only theory that has been ventured is that he might have possibly eaten something which was poisonous to his system.

The young man had no father or mother, but is survived by a sister, Miss Vivian Hawkins of Superior. He has several cousins and other distant relatives who live in Duluth and on the ranges.

Mrs. E. Gustafson of 2306 West Eighth street, where the young man boarded up to three weeks ago, was an aunt. She stated this morning that the death came as a great surprise to her, and she would not believe it until she called at the home where he died.

The body was taken in charge by Olson & Crawford, undertakers at 2010 West Superior street. The post-mortem examination, which will probably be held this evening, by Dr. McCuen, will take place at the undertaking rooms.

No arrangements have been made for the funeral of the young man.

SHOULD GO TO JAIL.

Imprisonment of Labor Leaders Would Cause Awakening.

In an address to the Duluth Leather Workers' Union, o. 63, in Kalamazoo hall last night, E. J. Baker, general president of the United Brotherhood of Leather Workers, expressed the hope that, unless they are declared innocent by the court, Gompers, Morrison and Mitchell will go to jail and serve their sentences.

"This seems harsh to say, but it would make the working men of America take more interest in the political workings of our government," said Mr. Baker. "I also believe that no cause was ever carried to a successful end without its martyrs."

Mr. Baker spoke on general conditions throughout the country, and said the working men are awakening to the necessity of getting together, if they are to accomplish anything for their own betterment. He advised working men to put aside their political differences and join hands in working for their common cause.

GROUNDHOG WILL LOOK AROUND

Annual Prediction on Coming of Spring to Be Made Wednesday.

Tomorrow is candlemas day in the church calendar, and it is likewise "groundhog" day. The groundhog will emerge from his place of hibernation, according to tradition, and if he sees his shadow, he will return to his winter home for six weeks. If he does not see his shadow, he will remain out and spring will come early.

The weather man predicts snow for tonight or tomorrow, so it is probable the sky will be overcast tomorrow, so that the groundhog will not see his shadow. In that case, people may prepare to store their winter furs at an early date this year. Although the groundhog may be fallable in his ability to predict, many people believe in the prediction, and they will cast anxious looks towards the sky tomorrow, and hope that the sunbeams don't break through the clouds.

SAYS SHERMAN DID NOT TELL ESTATES' VIEW.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 1.—The "statements attributed to L. Y. Sherman, former lieutenant governor and now president of the state board of administration in a speech in New York, in which he declared the deep waterway proposition a 'dream,' do not in any way represent the views of the Illinois state administration," declared Governor Deneen today. "Sherman was not authorized to make any such statement and I cannot see why he takes such a position," declared the governor.

Master Bakers in Session.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 1.—The executive committee of the National Association of Master Bakers, which is here for sessions today and tomorrow, will devote the time to a discussion of the conditions affecting the making of bread. Sanitary aspects of the baking business will receive much attention.

WAGES PAID WORKING MEN NOT EQUAL TO THE COST OF LIVING

length of time, they are paid off and they then seek a new one, which takes time, and that means money to them. The jobs run out at intervals and Mr. Walsh says that twenty days a month is a fair estimate of the number of days a month a laborer works. The companies lay them off at intervals when there is no work to be done and then they are in idleness until the company calls them again. Working twenty days a month, a man's monthly income is $32, which is a fair estimate, according to Mr. Walsh, of the number of days worked and the amount of money received monthly on which, in the majority of cases, to support a family.

Out of this amount it is necessary to clothe and feed the family, pay rent, water, light and coal bills. In the majority of cases the man runs in debt to a certain amount each month, or until he is so far behind that it is impossible for him to pay up and get square with the world.

Too Proud to Complain.

There are many poor families struggling along trying to make both ends meet. Some of these have come to the notice of Miss Poirier, although for the most part they try to keep their sad plight to themselves. People who have always worked for their living and been independent do not care to admit that they are in a quandary as to what to do and while there are many of these families they are obscure for this reason.

A widow who has a family of eight, was just the other day trying to figure out the cheapest way to live. Miss Poirier figured with her and this is the result: It was necessary that they have at least two quarts of milk a day, as several of the children are as yet very young. They should have more, but they figured on two. The cost of milk would at this rate be $3.50 each month. They figured the meat down to the very limit, bringing into play cheap stews, soup bones and the like. The very lowest the meat bill would come, was $6 monthly. Groceries were figured down to a point, where the woman didn't know whether the amount allowed would suffice or not. This bill includes flour, kerosene, lard, soap and other articles that are just the bare necessities of life. The grocery bill was placed at $20. This did not include butter. That is now considered a luxury and graces the tables of these folks but on Sundays. Neither did it include rent, coal, clothes, car fare, a contribution to the church or other necessary expenses. This bill in all comes to $29.50. Where the rent was to come from, the clothes, coal and other articles is a matter for much more figuring. This woman's income falls far below the limit and she is at a loss as to what to do.

There are many families in just this state. Many of them are headed by a father who is growing gray under the strain of trying to support the family in the face of the increased prices. Some of the women work in the laundries, others are working out by the day as their husbands are doing. With both working the problem is still serious in the extreme.

There is no end to these cases, as those who are engaged in the work can testify. With the expenses down to the finest point and without a place to live, or heat, water or light included, what is a man to do on $35 a month? What is he to do at $50? Would $60 be sufficient to care for this family of eight?

Becoming Discouraged.

So hard has this cost of living problem hit the people that many are giving up the struggle and are discouraged.

At the present time the Associated Charities is working to educate the people to live more cheaply. They have taken ten families and are requiring that they make a note of every penny expended. These reports will be read at the next meeting of the organization, which will be held on Feb. 7. They will then be studied and some plan adopted to help these people.

The matter of a visiting housekeeper will be taken up at that time and the probability at this time is that a man will be engaged whose chief duty it will be to visit at these homes and plan and figure with the mother so as to make the limited amount of money at hand go as far as possible.

The problem is a serious one to all those that labor for a living and it seems to be growing more serious every day. It has been brought home more forcibly in the last few weeks, when applications have been received for assistance from the families of men with steady jobs.

throwing over their holdings at reduced rates and butter has come down. Meat will have to follow if the reduced rate of consumption is maintained, no matter if shipments are heavily reduced."

The 8 cent rate for milk rules now except on the routes of two big companies, and one of these has announced a reduction effective March 1.

Meats on Free List.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Representative Foelker, Republican, of New York, has introduced his bill placing beef, mutton, lamb, pork and other meats on the free list of entry into this country for a period of one year from the enactment of the measure into law.

CANDIDATES FOR MAYOR OF DULUTH

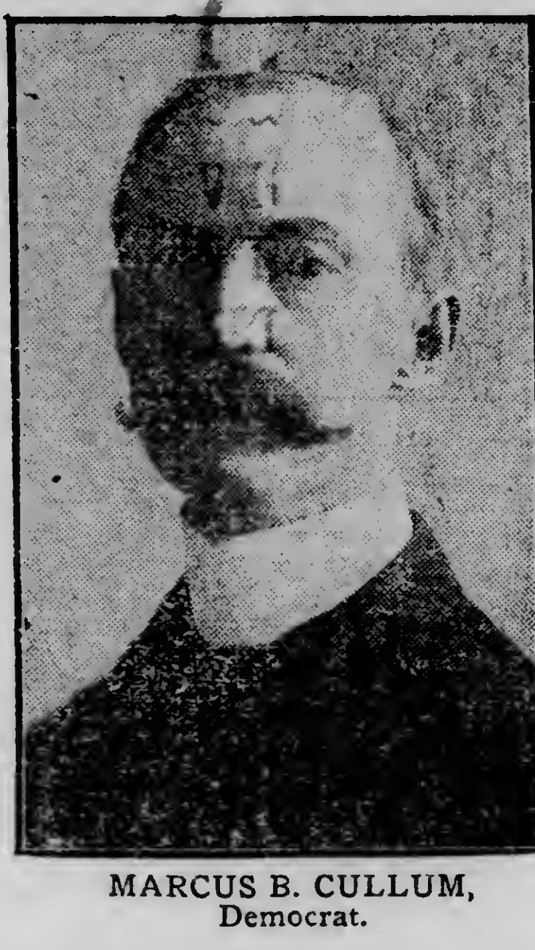
ROLAND D. HAVEN,
Republican.



MARCUS B. CULLUM,
Democrat.

ONLY NOISE ON CITY ELECTION DAY IS OF BALLOTS DROPPING

pressions of approval from every side, and in the districts where the silent vote lies my reception has been extremely cordial."

D. D. Morgan, Republican campaign manager, says that he doesn't see how Haven can possibly lose. He claims that he will have a plurality bigger than that of two years ago, when he was nearly 700 votes to the good.

Dr. Cullum, the Democratic candidate, is making no public utterances. C. E. Dice, chairman of the city committee, states that he looks for a Cullum victory. He asserts that they will carry all the wards of the city with the possible exception of the Seventh, the opposition candidate's own ward.

The public aspect today is in keeping with the campaign. Little thunder was let loose, except in three big Republican mass meetings Saturday night and last night. Both candidates have been doing a lot of hustling, but no stranger on the streets would suspect that there is an election on. Fiery enthusiasm is lacking, as are brass bands and other usual accompaniments of a heated political fight.

The party organizations are well organized however. Each precinct has its corps of workers who will make it a point to get the voters to the polls. They will not allow them to forget their ballots, for every inch of ground is being fought and the determination is to get every vote in sight. Neither of the candidates is taking any chances in this respect.

Both have been helped out by the candidates for seats in the council. Most of them have been putting up interesting contests, and there is little doubt but that the returns will show that victories were won by comparatively small margins.

The outlook for Frank Cox is bright in the First ward. He is running against J. A. Wharton on a Democratic ticket in what is abnormally a Republican stronghold. Henry Berbig and Frank Makowski are working hard in the Second, as are Thomas Trevillion and H. P. Curran in the Fourth. In the Fifth the indications are that John Hogan will win over B. F. Neff. In the Sixth J. D. Bergstrom, Independent, is bucking Sands Van Wagner, the Republican nominated over Alderman Peter Olson at the primaries. In the Seventh William L. Bernard is running against F. W. Erickson. In the Eighth P. H. Martin is making it highly interesting for L. A. Barnes, and the politicians are predicting his election.

The total registration is 9,689, but the vote will not come up to this number. It is estimated that it will be close to 9,000. The ballot includes the charter amendments and the proposed bond issue of $200,000 for the water and light department.

SEES GOD'S HAND IN FRENCH FLOOD

Cardinal Gibbons Says People Will Recall Their Treatment of Church.

New Orleans, Feb. 1.—"It is deplorable," declared Cardinal Gibbons, in speaking here last night of the French floods.

"We cannot question God's decrees, but surely this national disaster should have the effect of making the French people think of what they have done to the religious communities."

River Is Falling.

Paris, Feb. 1.—The river Seine fell steadily today, the recession being at the rate of three-fourths of an inch an hour. The waters are also retreating from the streets. More tramways were in operation today, as were the new sections of the subway.

Streets that had been closed to traffic were in many instances reopened today, and in the heart of the city things resumed a more normal appearance.

In the outskirts and in the inundated regions above and below the city the greatest distress still prevailed, despite the magnificent efforts toward relief and the prodigal distribution of food supplies. Hundreds of persons are found on the verge of starvation and thousands who lost everything must be aided for months.

Temperature at Freezing.

It is estimated that more than a quarter of a million persons have been affected by the floods.

Freezing temperature adds to the misery of the unfortunates. An attempt to resume the railroad service before the electric signal system had been restored has resulted in a dozen train collisions.

WANTS NATIONAL COAL RESERVES

Delegate Wickersham Would Have Some Alaskan Fields Set Apart.

Washington, Feb. 1.—The coal fields of Alaska, just now so much under discussion in Washington and throughout the country, are the subject of a lengthy bill introduced in the house by Delegate Wickersham of Alaska, providing that 15,000 acres of the best coal-bearing lands of Alaska be set aside by the United States in perpetuity as the national coal reserve. Provision is made for the withdrawal of 5,000 acres each from the Katalla and Matanasuka districts, and 5,000 more from the Kenar and Alaska peninsular areas.

A board of national coal reserve is to be established, consisting of one naval officer, one member of the geological survey and one other member having practical knowledge of coal mining and transportation. This board is to survey and select the best coal lands.

Will Cost $100,000.

The secretary of the interior is directed to furnish to the attorney general all information regarding private coal claims in Alaska, and the latter official is directed to investigate each claim and compel a return of the property to the United States in every case where there is any irregularity.

One hundred thousand dollars is appropriated for the use of the board of national coal reserve.

SHOOTS HIMSELF CLEANING RIFLE

Son of Assistant County Attorney of Koochiching Will Probably Die.

International Falls, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Harvey Palmer, the 14-year-old son of Assistant County Attorney Palmer of this city, accidentally shot himself about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The young boy went out into the woods to hunt in the early part of the afternoon. After rambling about for two or three hours he returned home. Certain that his rifle was not loaded, he started to clean it.

The gun was pointing toward him, and in some accidental way it was discharged. The bullet went through his stomach and came out of the broad of his back, from whence it lodged in the ceiling of the room and stuck there.

Dr. Monahan was called immediately and the unfortunate boy was taken to the M. & O. hospital, where an operation was performed. For five hours the boy was unconscious. His chances of recovery are very poor. Harvey was a student at the International Falls high school.

MAKE MAGNETIC SURVEY IN AFRICA

Scientists Sent By Carnegie Institute Have Partly Completed the Task.

Washington, Feb. 1.—A magnetic survey of Africa, the first that men of science have been able to drive through the jungle and over the mountain trails to the heart of the dark continent, has been partly finished. Explorer-scientists sent out by the Carnegie Institution of Washington, backed by the wealth of its founder, during 1909 carried the advance guard of modern civilization from Capetown to the headwaters of the Nile, Lake Victoria Nyanza.

Two men picked their way, sometimes on foot, fighting the deadly tsetse fly, and sometimes in ox carts, through Rhodesia, Portuguese East Africa, German East Africa, Uganda and the British East African protectorate.

Scientists the Explorers.

Dr. J. C. Beattie, director of the department of physics at the South African college at Cape Town, and Prof. J. T. Morrison, director of the department of physics in Victoria college, did the work under the direction of Dr. L. A. Bauer, the head of the department of terrestrial magnetism of the Carnegie institution.

Work began in November, 1908. Beattie started from Cape Town in an ox cart and, accompanied by a train of natives, made a survey through German Southwest Africa to Windhook, 800 miles away. Meantime, Morrisson was sailing up the west coast and landed at Swakopmund, German Southwest Africa, where he joined Beattie. Thence they continued the work, completing it Nov. 29, 1909.

IN THE CITY ON BUSINESS TRIP

W. E. McEwen Stops in Duluth After Visit at Washington.

State Labor Commissioner W. E. McEwen was in Duluth yesterday after a trip to Washington, where he had an audience with the president and discussed Minnesota conditions with the senators and congressmen from the Gopher state.

The labor commissioner was yesterday busy attending to affairs pertaining to the state free employment bureau in this city. He says there are no new developments and had no statement to make at this time as to what course will be taken to suppress the exploitation of foreign laborers.

LAW FIRM'S SAFE IS CRACKED IN WAUKESHA.

Waukesha, Wis., Feb. 1.—The safe in the law offices of Holt & Coombs, in the Putney building, was cracked open by burglars some time between Saturday night and yesterday afternoon. Between $3,000 and $4,000 in cash and securities was taken. Of the amount taken $1,000 was currency, and the rest in notes and smaller securities.

Dean Woods on Job.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Albert F. Woods, formerly of Washington and recently elected dean of the college of agriculture of the University of Minnesota, arrived at St Anthony Park yesterday and assumed charge of the college and experimental farm. He announced that extension work for the benefit of the agricultural industries of the state will be an important part of his work at Minnesota.

Great $8.90 Season Ending Suit Sale and Overcoat Sale Begins Wednesday Morning at The Big Duluth.

The Big Duluth's entire stock of $20, $18 and $15 finest hand-tailored suits and overcoats go on sale Wednesday morning at your choice for $8.90. While it costs this old store money to do this, the Big Duluth is willing at this season of the year to let go of all winter suits and overcoats at a sharp loss in order to clear the tables and make room for spring stocks. Particular men will find this a wonderful opportunity to buy the finest hand-tailored suits and overcoats that sell at $20, $18 and $15 at the great clearance sale price of only $8.90.

GAS FATAL TO TWO IN MINNEAPOLIS HOUSE.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gust Johnson, aged 43 years, and Carl Carlson, aged 22 years, were found dead from gas poisoning in a rooming house at 244 Fifteenth avenue south today. Their deaths were due to accident.

PENNSYLVANIA VOTES QUARTERLY DIVIDEND.

Philadelphia, Feb. 1.—The directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad company today declared a quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent. This is the first quarterly payment the Pennsylvania has authorized under a resolution adopted some time providing for quarterly instead of semi-annual disbursements. The rate is unchanged from the last semi-annual dividend.

BEYER OR STOKES TO BE SURGEON GENERAL.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Medical Inspector Henry G. Beyer or Surgeon Charles F. Stokes will be the next surgeon general of the United States army, according to the present indications, to succeed Admiral P. M. Rixey, the incumbent. The latter's term expires on Saturday next, and his successor will be named within a few days.

No Lives Lost.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—L. C. Towle, manager of the Peter Fahrney estate, has received a telegram from William H. Fahrney, dated at Fort Myers, Fla., saying that nobody drowned in the wreck of the latter's yacht Willena in St. Andrews' bay, on the west coast of Florida.

Transfer Is Gazetted.

Madrid, Feb. 1.—The transfer of Marquis De Villalobar from the post of Spanish minister at Washington to a like diplomatic office at Lisbon was officially gazetted today.

"SUSPECT THE KIDNEYS WHEN YOUR BACK ACHES"

Why suspect the kidneys when the back aches?

Because the kidneys are in the small of the back, and any pain in that region is good cause to fear kidney disorders.

Congested kidneys swell, inflame and throb painfully. This is backache. It is hard to straighten after stooping. Sharp pains follow any sudden movement, and soon the urine shows disorders. Urination is too frequent, passages painful or scanty, and the urine discolored or full of tiny red grains, like brick dust.

Sick kidneys have no time to rest and get well. They are busy filtering the blood. Go to the rescue. Use Doan's Kidney Pills—a special kidney medicine—a remedy that relieves and cures sick kidneys, regulates the urine and cures backache.

DULUTH TESTIMONY

Superior Street

Mrs. M. McGillivray, 1228½ Superior street, Duluth, Minn., says: "The statements I have previously given in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills have fully expressed my opinion of this remedy. At this time, I gladly confirm all I have previously said.

On Oct. 20, 1904, Mrs. McGillivray said: "Kidney trouble clung to me for a year or more and I suffered from dull, heavy pains through the small of my back. I also had headaches, did not rest well and was annoyed by irregular pasages of the kidney secretions. Doan's Kidney Pills helped me from the first and soon freed me from my trouble. I have had no need of a kidney remedy since."

W. Fourteenth Street

L. P. Schneider, 210 West Fourteenth street, Duluth, Minn., says: "Acute pains in the back made it hard for me to stoop or lift, and at night I was in such misery that I could not sleep. The kidney secretions were irregular in passage, and often contained sediment. After other medicines and treatments had failed to help me, Doan's Kidney Pills restored me to good health."

The above statement was given on Oct. 20, 1904, and was confirmed by Mr. Schneider in Nov. 1908. He said: "I willingly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills again and reiterate all I have previously said in their favor. My cure has been a permanent one, proving that Doan's Kidney Pills are a remedy of merit.'

Test of Science "This is to certify that I have made a careful examination of a sample of DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS and find no morphine, cocaine, nor other habit-producing drugs. Further, the formula contains no injurious substances whatsoever."—JOHN A. MILLER, Chemist of the State of New York.

Affidavit of Dr. M. N. PAGE, Erie, Pa.

Abscess Removed from Kidney.

Backache, Dizziness, Headache, Languor.

Kidney Congestion, Loss of Weight.

Cured to Stay Cured—Trouble Never Came Back

Dr. M. N. Page, 24 East Ninth St., Erie, Pa., is the foremost manufacturing optician of that city. Cured by Doan's Kidney Pills some years ago, he certified in March, 1909, that the cure has proved permanent. The facts of Dr. Page's case follow (note that this statement is sworn to):

"Office of Dr. M. N. Page, 24 E. 9th St., Erie, Pa., Doctor of Optics:—

"An attack of kidney trouble began with acute congestion, terrible backache, chills, headaches and dizzy spells. For six months the trouble went from bad to worse. My eyes began to give out, headaches became more frequent and severe, and a feeling of general weakness unfitted me for my work. I lost ground rapidly, going down from 194 pounds to 122, felt dull and listless and could not sleep well. Finally an abscess about the size of a hen's egg appeared on the right kidney, sore and tender, and about the same time a retention of the urine began to alarm me. I started taking Doan's Kidney Pills and at once began to mend. The urine flowed more freely, the pain left me, my eyes improved, and headaches and dizziness vanished. The abscess was removed and I regained my weight. That was in 1896. The trouble never returned."

Sworn to and signed before me this 12th day of April, 1905. W. S. Carroll, Notary Public, Erie, Pa.

Why is it dangerous to neglect kidney trouble?

Because good health depends on the kidneys keeping the blood filtered free of uric acid. Sick kidneys allow uric acid to collect, and, if neglected, soon lose their power of filtering the blood. This leads to fatal Bright's disease, dropsy or diabetes.

Uric acid causes rheumatism, specks or blur before the eyes, nervousness, gout, neuralgia, dizzy spells, gravel and stone in the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills promptly help sick kidneys, relieve congestion or inflammation, restore the blood-filtering power of the kidneys, and remove the cause of uric acid troubles.

DULUTH TESTIMONY

Tenth Avenue

J. E. Watts, 18 Tenth avenue west, Duluth, Minn., says: "I have no reason to withdraw anything I said about Doan's Kidney Pills in the testimonial I gave for jublication several years ago. I was subject to attacks of backache, so severe at times as to oblige me to stop work. I could not stoop, and though I wore plasters and tried various remedies, I did not find much relief. When Doan's Kidney Pills were highly recommended to me, I procured a box and after using them, was free of my trouble. I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills at every opportunity in return for the great benefit I received from their use."

S. Twenty-Seventh Ave.

Mrs. W. F. Hurerichous, 110 South Twenty-Seventh avenue, Duluth, Minn., says: "For several years I was afflicted with kidney trouble and the medicine I tried did not help me. My back often ached severely, and if I stooped, dizzy spells came over me. After I had taken the contents of one box of Doan's Kidney Pills, I felt so much better that I procured a further supply. I am now free from backache and feel better in every way. I do not hesitate to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills in return for the benefit they brought me."

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

ZACKERT AND THORSEN OUT

Old Scout and Pitcher Will Be Disposed of to Oshkosh.

Winnipeg Out of the Running for Membership in Minny League.

A. [illegible] Kuehnow, manager and guiding spirit of the Duluth Baseball association, has practically completed arrangements whereby Old Scout Zackert, who patrolled right field during the latter part of last season, and who pulled [illegible] twisting teasers, and Richard [illegible] Thorsen, pitcher [illegible], will be disposed of to the Oshkosh team.

[illegible] Mr. Kuehnow will get in [illegible] for the two players has not been [illegible]. He may decide to let the [illegible] go for a cash consideration and [illegible] a player in return.

[illegible] Zackert played a great [illegible] game for the Sox. He tried [illegible] and had the crowd with him from the first day he sauntered out [illegible] patch. He looks something like [illegible] Crane, if I. C. had [illegible] sorrow come into his life; but just the same the old boy was always trying for a hit.

[illegible] down the batting average [illegible] that Mr. Kuehnow decided to [illegible] replace him with a harder [illegible]. The outfield trio of the Sox was the weakest fitting part of the machine, and it will be one of the aims of the manager of the team to get some hard [illegible] out in the pasture.

Thorsen will hardly be with the Sox the coming season. The big boy from [illegible] part of the city had his [illegible] last season and it is not likely [illegible] opportunity will come again. [illegible]

Yesterday Mr. Kuehnow heard definitely [illegible] Winnipeg. The answer to [illegible] came by the slow delivery. There is not a chance in the world that Winnipeg can get away from the tentacle-like grasp of the [illegible] brothers of the poor, the other towns in the Western Canada league. Though the Winnipeg team dropped a [illegible] on last season's experiment, [illegible] up their way are going to try to make the league a success.

President John Elliott is expected [illegible] present week. Mr. Kuehnow [illegible] wired Mr. Elliott his definite [illegible] regarding the action of the Winnipeg club. When the president [illegible] Duluth some definite information of what may be expected to transpire at the league meeting, to be held a week from Sunday, will probably be given out.

Merrill, Wis., and Red Wing, Minn., [illegible] to be the two towns to [illegible] the fold of the Minny league. If Mankato puts in an application at [illegible] meeting, it is very likely that the Southern Minnesota town will receive most favorable consideration.

The schedule of spring training games was completed yesterday by Mr. Kuehnow. The players will gather at [illegible] and under the mother Carey wing of Jockey P. H. O'Brien will gird up their loins figuratively speaking, [illegible] battle in the preparatory [illegible].

Following is the spring schedule to [illegible]:

|---|---|
| [illegible], O. | April 8-9 |
| Canton, O. | April 9-10 |
| East Liverpool, O. | April 11-12 |
| Wheeling, W. Va. | April 13-14 |
| [illegible], O. | April 15 |
| Fort Wayne, Ind. | April 16 to 18 |
| South Bend, Ind. | April 19-20 |

UNDEFEATED TEAMS TO MEET

Adams and Big Duluths Will Come Together in Hockey Contest.

One of the big games of the regular hockey season is looked for tonight when the Big Duluths, leaders in the [illegible] Amateur Hockey league, and the [illegible] Adams team, which has been undefeated so far this season, will clash on the West end rink for the leadership of the league.

In the event of the Adams winning the game, the Northern Juniors and Big Duluths will be tied for second place. In the event of the Big Duluths winning the Adams and the Northern Juniors will be tied for second place.

[illegible] of form have selected the Big Duluths as the winners of the contest tonight. Though the Adams men have played a strong and consistent game so far the present season, the Big Duluths have led the league in class. Players of the stamp of Earl Cummings are hard to find, and the youngster is liable to stampede at any time. His playing is expected to cut [illegible] figure in the outcome of the [illegible] this evening.

The game this evening should be one of the very best of the league series and will decide in a measure [illegible] the teams will play it out for the pennant in the post season games.

The teams will line up as follows:

| Adams. | Position. | Big Duluths. |
|---|---|---|
| [illegible] | goal | A. Woods |
| [illegible] | point | Kelly |
| L. [illegible] | | |
| [illegible] | cover point | G. Wood |
| [illegible] | rover | Cummings |
| [illegible] | center | Bartlett |

FRESHMEN VS. JUNIORS.

Rivals Will Meet in High School Basket Ball Series.

Interest in the inter-class race of the basket ball teams of the Central high school is increasing. The freshmen and junior teams have not been defeated as yet. The game this afternoon will decide the leadership of the class league. Interest among the students is running high.

The game will be played this afternoon in the gymnasium of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A., and the teams will line up as follows:

| Juniors. | | Freshmen. |
|---|---|---|
| [illegible] | c | Taylor |
| [illegible] | f | Bevis |
| [illegible] | f | Hutchings |
| [illegible] | g | Boyle |

HOPPE CLAIMS CHAMPIONSHIP

"Boy Wonder" Bases Claim on Refusal of Sutton to Play.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 1.—Angered by the refusal of George Sutton, the 18.1 balk line billiard champion to live up to an agreement to play a match, Willie Hoppe, the young billiard player, last night formally claimed the 18.1 balk line championship, and the emblem which he says belongs to him by default. Sutton won the title from Slosson in New York and Hoppe asserts that Sutton agreed to defend it at Chicago March 14, 15 and 16. According to Hoppe the match was to be played 500 points a night. Sutton now wants the 1,500 points played in one night, and Hoppe claims his health will not permit of such hard playing. Hoppe and Ora Morningstar will open their match at 18.2 balk line here on Wednesday night.

DULUTH HEIGHTS WINS.

Boys From Hilltop Defeat Maroons 1 to 0 in Fast Hockey Game.

The Duluth Heights hockey team defeated the Maroons yesterday in a close and interesting hockey game, the score being 1 to 0. The team work of the winning team was clearly the feature of the contest. Brisel played a great game for the Maroons, making some stops that brought forth approval from the crowd. Norman scored the one goal of the game by a sensational shot from one side of the goal. The lineup:

| Maroons. | Lineup. | Heights. |
|---|---|---|
| Stubbs | center | Blair |
| Wicklund | right wing | E. Kristensen |
| H. Rickard | left wing | Norman |
| J. Rickard | rover | Amundsen |

DONOHUE BUYS PARK.

Former Big Leaguer Secures Anson's Interests in Chicago League.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—John (Jiggs) Donohue, first baseman of the Washington American league team last season and formerly with the Chicago Americans, has purchased A. C. Anson's interest in his baseball park and semi-professional team. Donohue's release to the Minneapolis American association team was recently announced and the purchase of Anson's holdings followed, as Donohue said he would not play with a minor league team.

The signed contract of Infielder Fred Parent and Outfielder Messenger were received by the local American league club today.

J. C. Smith, a recruit infielder, was released to the Anderson, S. C., club by the Nationals of Chicago.

FORKS AUTOMOBILE SHOW.

First Affair of Kind Opens Tuesday in Auditorium.

Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first annual automobile show opened in Grand Forks this morning in the Jack auditorium. The event, which is backed by the Grand Forks auto dealers, is given at this time as an experiment and its success means that the auto show will be a permanent annual Grand Forks feature. The auditorium provided for the show is taxed to capacity with cars, all of the latest models being on exhibit. A great many people will attend from all parts of North Dakota and Northwestern Minnesota.

NELSON DEMANDS $5,000 SIDE BET OF WOLGAST.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 1.—Battling Nelson, who arrived here yesterday with his manager, insists that Ad Wolgast post a $5,000 side bet before Nelson will consent to make a match for a fight with the Milwaukee lad. As a consequence no match has yet been made. Nelson will remain here for another day before proceeding to San Francisco.

ONLY ATHLETE WHO COULD GIVE SHERIDAN CONTEST WORTHY OF NAME MAY RETURN TO TRACK

Prosperity in Sight for the Baseball Leagues --The Retirement of Frank Gotch.

(BY BRUCE)

With the least indication of the waning of interest in winter sport in various parts of the country, there comes back the old interest in baseball and the athletics that flourish on the cinder path. Prosperity of track athletics and baseball players as a rule follows the prosperity of the country, as the highball follows the flag.

There is a healthy look of prosperity in the finances of the country. Therefore the outlook for a busy year in athletics is extremely bright. As the past winter has been a great one in the history of all branches of winter sport, so the coming of spring promises to usher in renewed enthusiasm in the baseball game and the track and field meet.

Lovers of feats of the track and field are harking to the rumor that sayeth that Johnny Garrels will once more return to the cinder path.

You all must have heard of John. He engaged in about every branch of athletics. He played fullback on the University of Michigan football team and was about half the team. He would have played baseball, but he was so good in track and field events that Keene Fitzpatrick, the Michigan trainer, wouldn't let the boy even go near the baseball diamond.

This Garrels person is no less than a wonderful performer. He would go in and win both the hurdle events in world's record time and then he would come out and engage in all the weight events. He could put the shot, throw the hammer and the discus, and in addition would enter in many other events on the program. He is the greatest athlete that Michigan has ever turned out, and this is stated without forgetting that other all-round athlete, Neil Snow, whom many Minnesota men will instantly recall.

Martin J. Sheridan is the biggest noise that ever made an ear-splitting sound in the branch of all-round athletics. He has captured the all-round championship with ridiculous ease. Martin can do everything from running and vaulting to handling the heaviest weights on the athletic program. He seems to be in a class by himself.

Out of the West may come the boy to defeat him. This boy would be no other than the hero of this little sketch—John A. Garrels. Students of the athletic form sheet have often wished to see Garrels and Sheridan come together in a decisive meet. There appears to be no other athlete in the country who can give the New York policeman even a workout.

This Sheridan person can vault, run 100 yards, run a mile, high jump, throw the 56-pound weight, put the 16-pound shot, throw the 16-pound hammer, hurdle and walk. He can go through all the program of all-round events with a proficiency approaching that of men who make a specialty of one event. Therefore there is but one athlete in this country who can approach the wonderful Celt.

On July 5 of last year, Sheridan scored 7,385 points in the all-round championship contest. His nearest competitor was far short of this wonderful mark, which broke all records in the all-round competition.

That is one of the reasons why there is so much interest centered in the rumor predicting the return of Garrels to the athletic fold. A meeting between John and Martin would be worth traveling miles to witness. The majority of athletic followers would pick the big New York Celt to win. Sheridan has been following the all-round game for so long that he knows his little book very well. It would require special training to fit the Western youth for the trial with Sheridan. But Garrels is naturally an all-round man. He can do most of the things on the athletic program and do them well. Like a "opery" company that plays the smaller towns, he has a varied "repetory."

A meeting between Garrels, representing the whole-souled West, and Sheridan, representing the well-trained East, would prove one of the great athletic events of the year. It is to be hoped that the rumor of the return of Garrels is true, for as great an athlete as the Wolverine is missed, even in an age when new stars are continually cropping up.

The present season promises to be one of prosperity in the baseball leagues of the country. Last season was the most prosperous season in the history of the great national game. As the country grows, baseball becomes more and more the recreation of the business man of the city, who never forgets the joys of his youth, when a member of some team that was the champion of something, even if it was only a city block or a side street.

No other country has a game so distinctly national or so thoroughly typifying its national characteristics as America. If you want to see the human side of the coldest business fish who ever stared in cold-eyed countenance at a fellow human during the hours of business, watch that fish of industrial progress let loose and shake the business bacteria out of his system at a close and exciting game.

It gets them all, does baseball. We love to root and yell and scream and curse, sometimes. It is a great game for we'uns as well as Sweeny.

In the Minny league the season promises to be even better than last season. There will be the addition of two clubs. Many of the mistakes of last season will be corrected. The indications are that the teams will be fully up to the standard of last season. The race promises to be just as exciting. With increased prosperity and increased interest in the game, Duluth should enjoy the greatest baseball season in the history of the game.

In Chicago the other day Frank Gotch reiterated his statement regarding his probable retirement from the mat at the end of the present season. If the big Iowa German means what he has hinted at frequently the coming season, the game will lose the greatest wrestler America has ever produced.

Joe Action, Ed. Bibby, Clarence Whistler, William Muldoon, Strangler Evan Lewis, Jack Carkeek, Farmer Burns, Dan McCleod and Tom Jenkins—all were great men on the mat, but it is doubtful if any of the number named would have the least show of throwing the champion in his present wonderful form and finish.

Gotch has met all but the first men of the group named. He has beaten all the Americans he has met. There is no wrestler in this country who is a native American, that can give Gotch an even battle. For this reason Gotch has been compelled to look abroad for new worlds to conquer.

Horace Lerch, an authority on wrestling, says that if the winning of the world's title was difficult, the holding of it will be infinitely more so. As long as Gotch is champion, he will be called upon to meet the biggest and strongest men in the world. He will be compelled to cope with men physically more powerful than he is. Hackenschmidt and Zybszko are marvels when it comes to strength. Gotch must depend upon speed and fine knowledge of the game to defeat men like them.

Powerful and strong as Gotch is, he found the Russian Giant more powerful. Gotch informed the writer, the last time he was in Duluth, that no ordinary man could conceive of the strength of Hackenschmidt. Zybszko is reputed to be even more powerful. Therefore, if Gotch defeats Zybszko the present winter, what more will there be for him to conquor?

Two or three men will fight it out for the title. Young Henry Ordemann of Minneapolis is a most likely candidate for the honors held by Gotch, should Frank retire from the mat. When Frank leaves the mat, he desires that the honors shall remain in this country. It is very probable that he will select the most likely man in the American school and give this man the benefit of his experience.

If Frank gets by Zybszko, there is no wrestler in the world who can hope to beat the champion, and there will be little more honor in his remaining in the game. Therefore it would not be a great surprise if the present season was the last of Gotch.

JEFFRIES SHOOK HANDS WITH GOVERNOR EBERHART

GOVERNOR EBERHART AND JEFFRIES.

During his triumphal tour of the United States in advance of his hard training for the bout with Johnson, Jeffries has received attention at the hands of some distinguished men. At St. Paul, he was received by Governor Eberhart, who was proud to shake the hands that will soon swat Johnson.

POWELL AND MEMSIC.

Lightweights Sign for 10-Round-No Decision Contest.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 1.—Lew Powell of San Francisco and George Memsic of Los Angeles have signed articles for a 10-round contest to be held before the Pacific Athletic club of this city on the night of Feb. 15. The contest will take place inside the city limits, and there will be no decision from the ring in case there is no knockout.

JACK ANSWERS SAM.

Champion May Fight Langford After Jeffries Battle.

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 1.—Jack Johnson made two definite replies to Sam Langford yesterday. He will post $10,000 now for a match after the Jeffries fight, win or lose, and will in the interim back Jeannette for $2,500 against Sam.

In reply to Jim Corbett's flat-foot criticism, Johnson declared that Sharkey, Jeffries, Fitzsimmons, Jackson, McAuliffe, Gans, Griffo, all the great fighters, fought flat-foot.

"Corbett should speak with reverence of the flat-foot," said Johnson. "Flat-footed boxers made him call for the police."

STORK VISITS THE COBBS.

American League Champion Batsman Has a Son and Heir.

Augusta, Ga., Feb. 1.—Another star has risen in the baseball firmament. "Ty" Cobb, Jr., was born to Mr. and Mrs. Tyrus Cobb at the home of Mrs. Cobb's parents in this city Sunday night. Almost bushels of congratulations poured in on the American champion hitter.

Saints Get Aultrey.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 1.—The release of First Baseman William A. Aultrey by the Boston National league baseball club to the St. Paul club of the American association was announced last night.

BENEFIT GAME SCHEDULED.

All Stars and Company A Will Meet Saturday.

Company A indoor baseball team, the winners of the pennant in the Military league, and one of the strongest teams ever organized at the Head of the Lakes, will play the crack All Stars at the Armory Saturday, Feb. 5, the entire receipts of the game to go to the benefit of young Hagberg, who lost an eye in target practice and who has been out of employment since the accident.

The injured boy is a member of Company A, and the benefit is being given by all of the members of the company. The game promises to be one of the best contests played at Duluth this season. It is also in a very worthy cause. The game will probably be the last of the present indoor baseball season.

Double Header Friday.

Four basketball games will be played at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium Friday evening. The first association team will play the Spalding city team, while the second game will be between the second Y. M. C. A. team and the team of the Adams Athletic association. The two association quints will be selected from the following players: Fenton, Peters, McLean, Johnson, Slack, Becker, O'Donnell, Junker, Thompson, Schneider.

Draws at Curling Club.

Following is the draw for Wednesday night at the Duluth Curling club:

| Rinks. | Events. |
|---|---|
| Tresise vs. Feetham | St. Louis |
| Deetz vs. Harris | St. Louis |
| Oldham vs. Gridley | Herald |
| Wurtele vs. Duncan | President's |
| Dunning vs. Woodruff | President's |

IRON RIVER HAS DAMAGING FIRE

Two Business Houses Burned Out and Block for Time Threatened.

Iron River, Wis., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire for a time yesterday menaced a whole block in the business part of the city. Starting in Jack McCue's candy store it totally destroyed that establishment and the harness shop of Joe Fouchie. Another building used as a saloon on the first floor conducted by Billie Kline and as a boarding house on the second floor by Joe Fouchie was also destroyed with contents, with the exception of some household effects.

The buildings were owned by T. F. Mackmiller and R. A. Steckbauer, of Minneapolis. Great difficulty was experienced in saving the adjoining buildings, Knowles' jewelry store and Parhams' feed store. Light insurance was carried.

JUST DENIES EVERYTHING.

Binger Hermann Testifies in His Own Defense.

Portland, Or., Feb. 1.—Former Congressman Binger Hermann took the stand in his own defense yesterday in his trial here on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government of public lands. His testimony was a general and specific denial of any connection with any conspiracy.

Hermann in his testimony declared he opposed the creation of forest reserves, saying that under the lien law act of 1897, speculators were defrauding the government.

LLOYD GRISCOM PUT IN PARSONS' PLACE.

New York, Feb. 1.—Lloyd C. Griscom, former United States ambassador to Italy, was formally elected president of the Republican county committee of New York county last night succeeding Herbert Parsons, resigned. Mr. Griscom is strictly a "silk-stocking" politician. He never has met even Governor Hughes, much less Timothy L. Woodruff, chairman of the Republican state committee, or William Barnes, Jr., the Republican boss of Albany. His selection was made with a view to placing a high class man in the position.

RATE CLAUSE IS DROPPED FROM RAILROAD FRANCHISE

Council Expects to Take Final Action Next Monday Night.

Canadian Northern Will Probably Accept Franchise in Modified Form.

The city council last evening voted to drop the rate clause from the franchise which it is proposed to grant the Canadian Northern over the route which has been surveyed through West Duluth. The clause provides that Duluth shall receive fair rates and shall not be discriminated against in favor of any Lake Superior port. The road's refusal to accept this clause was absolute. The Canadian government is a partner in its business, backing its bonds, and their refusal was based on this fact.

West Duluth residents will be notified during the week that the council expects to bring the franchise up for final action next Monday night. The ordinance giving the city the right to come into Duluth has been hanging fire for some time, and the officials are urging that something be done immediately.

N. J. Upham stated that the company also objects to being required to build a steel trestle from Fifty-ninth and Central avenues. He said the cost would be about $400,000, and the additional cost over other forms of construction over $144,000, making it prohibitive. He explained that the company is willing to accept a franchise similar to those granted the Wisconsin Central and the Soo, but that the present ordinance is being so loaded down with requirements that the company feels that there is nothing left. He claimed that the provision making the Oneota street bridge a viaduct and compelling the company to pay the expenses of raising it is unjust, as the bridge has only a few more years to live.

Mr. Upham stated that while the assessment clause does not look so big now, it will mean a great deal in the future when Duluth is larger. He claimed that President Mackenzie left Duluth feeling that it was useless to try to get a franchise from the city an a reasonable basis. He believes, he said, that the best and shortest way would be to continue the condemnation which has been started in the courts.

Alderman McKnight introduced an amendment to the franchise changing the route so that the road does not cross Cody street, but runs parallel to it until it crosses Central avenue. This would put the road over the site of the present fire hall. It was postponed one week.

Indications are that the Canadian Northern will extend its lines to Chicago. Duluth will then be a halfway station and the clause relative to the terminals was changed so as to read adequate terminals instead of Lake Superior terminals.

An amendment requiring steel construction from Fifty-ninth to Central avenues was lost by a vote of 10 to 2.

The recommendation of the board of public works that the $50,000 worth of bonds authorized in 1893 for the permanent improvement revolving fund be now issued to take care of the work for next year, was referred to a committee for another report. More street improvements are already petitioned for than can be handled by the fund in its present condition.

B. T. Hoyt, a landscape artist of the Twin Cities, wrote the council offering to draw plans for beautifying the city. He said it would be economy for the city to have this done in the winter instead of the spring.

Frank Miller, Republican candidate for alderman in the Third ward, was granted a saloon license by the council last night for 107 West First street.

The West Duluth Commercial club asked the council to have the Northern Pacific install gates on its crossing at Fifty-seventh avenue west. Many school children use it and it is considered dangerous without the gates. They want them operated until 10 o'clock in the evening.

E. Hill wrote the city fathers, asking why I. N. Case of the water and light department should make him pay for something he isn't getting. He claims that he got a bill for gas and used no gas. He says that he signed the 8 per cent guaranty, but that the water and light department is deriving that income without taxing the gas. The matter was referred to a committee.

Noble Sampson, sealer of weights and measures, made his annual report to the council. He says that of 287 loads of coal which he has weighed in the last year, none has been found incorrect. He tested 826 scales and found twenty-five incorrect.

The council meeting was short, adjourning at 9 o'clock. The aldermen who did not have election fights on their hands today then took in the policemen's big ball at the Armory.

MORE RAILROAD VICTIMS.

Third Quarter Report Shows Increased Number Killed.

Washington, Feb. 1.—During the months of July, August and September, 1909, the total number of persons killed on the railroads of the country, according to reports received by the interstate commerce commission, was 852 and the injured 19,211.

These figures include only accidents to passengers and employes actually on duty at the time of the accident. The number of persons killed and injured in the quarter as compared with the same period of the year before shows an increase in the number killed of 118, and in the number injured of 2,692.

DAMAGE SUIT IS STILL ON TRIAL

Plaintiff Claims Building of Dam Injures His Property.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The case of John Liimatainen against the St. Louis River Development & Improvement company is still occupying the attention of court and jury, having been the first case called at the opening of court yesterday. This case is for damages alleged to have been sustained to the plaintiff's property by the defendant in the erection of a dam across the St. Louis river at a point west of Biwabik, causing the water to back up and overflow the plaintiff's farm, damaging it to the extent of several hundred dollars. There are twelve other cases on the calendar against the defendant company for the same cause.

William Fourney, Frank Seyer, John Selink and John Kanainen were arraigned in court and all pleaded not guilty to the charges returned against them by the grand jury. Judge Hughes appointed N. B. Arnold to defend Seyer, who is without means to engage the services of an attorney. It is thought that the criminal cases now pending will not be taken up until Tuesday of next week, when the case of Agabats Fuciarelli, indicted for the murder of Loni Grillo at Gilbert last December will be the first called.

The offices of Clerk U. G. Holloway and Deputy Sheriffs W. H. Oppel and Owen Gately are nicely fitted up for comfort and business and take it all in all Judge Hughes is much pleased with the accommodations accorded the court and its officials. Judge Hughes goes to his home at Hibbing each night returning in time for the opening of court in the morning.

RAILROAD WILL HAVE TO VACATE

Missabe and Great Northern Tracks on Buffalo & Susquehanna Property.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Both the Great Northern and the Missabe railroads will have to change their lines east of the city as soon as the Buffalo & Susquehanna Mining company begins to strip its mining property there, which it is announced will begin soon.

The Missabe tracks into Duluth run over one side of the property and the Great Northern uses the same tracks between Hibbing and Virginia. Both roads will eventually be compelled to abandon these tracks, and it would then be necessary for them to seek an entrance into Hibbing from the south instead of from the east as at present. It is believed that these changes will take place this summer. In this connection it has also been rumored that the Great Northern and the Missabe depots would be moved south one mile to the Western addition, but it is not believed that this will be done at this time.

Cause Changes in Residences.

The stripping of the Buffalo & Susquehanna will also probably cause a number of changes in the residence portion of town. The mine abuts directly upon the east end of Railroad, Superior and Mahoning streets, and its stripping will certainly compel the removal of a number of residences and may necessitate the tearing down of the Episcopal church. All this, while mere guess work, is nevertheless quite probable.

The mine covers eighty acres and has long been worked as an underground proposition. The overburden is very heavy and the stripping contract will be one of the largest that has been let in the Hibbing district.

EPIDEMIC DISAPPEARS

"The Power of the Press" Manifested In a Community Where Kidney and Bladder Disorders Prevailed Owing to Contaminated Water.

Paper Published Free Prescription Which Attained Gratifying Results.

In an Eastern city of over one hundred thousand population, nearly every case of kidney disease has disappeared and physicians marvel at the "power of the press." It seems that the local paper copied a prescription said to be used by a German specialist with great success in the treatment of kidney and bladder derangements. Such magnificent results attended the publication that the paper continued it week after week, giving the symptoms and prescription as follows: Deranged kidneys and bladder are indicated by dry parched skin, hot and cold sensations, frequent burning or scanty urination, (especially at night) with bad color tender spots in back, loss of weight, morning weariness, swollen feet and ankles, backache, headache, inflamed eyes, etc.

Any or all indicate trouble, misery and danger. This prescription can be filled by any well stocked druggist: Fluid extract buchu 1 oz., compound fluid balmwort 1 oz., and syrup sarsaparilla compound 4 ozs. Shake well and take a teaspoonful before or after meals and one when retiring.

No one ever fails to get benefit and everybody who has used it praises it above anything else.

ONE LIVE MAN AND TWENTY-EIGHT BODIES ARE TAKEN FROM SCENE OF MINE DISASTER AT PRIMERO, COLO.

may be days before the rescuers reach them.

The machine shop of the mine has been converted into a morgue, but the bodies will be sent to Trinidad. Supplies are being rushed from all the surrounding camps. Sheriff J. S. Grisham of Las Animas county and Sheriff Farr of Huerfano are sending armed deputies to assist.

The total number of deaths as the result of the disaster will not exceed seventy-nine. This estimate is made by mine officials, and is based on the number of safety lamps not turned in.

The explosion occurred at 4:30 p. m. With a roar and a belch of flame, the main shaft crumpled in, blocking the entrance to the mine. Both fans with which the property is equipped were shattered, and it was not until three hours later that the fans were repaired and a rescue party, headed by General Supt. J. F. Thompson, was able to descend the airshaft.

The investigators discovered three bodies before being forced to return to the surface. Five men, one of them 100 yards away, were killed at the entrance to the mine shaft by the concussion.

Main Entrance Caved In.

Rescue parties were hurried to Primero from Trinidad, Segundo, Starkville, Sopris and Cokeville and worked desperately to open the main shaft. It soon became evident, however, that this entrance had hopelessly caved, and another rescue party descended the airshaft. Shortly before 2 o'clock this morning Supt. Thompson, who was directing the rescue work, was overcome by gas, and taken to the surface. He soon recovered and again went below.

Dio Nardino, the one man rescued alive, was found beneath a mass of earth and timbers. He declared that he crawled over scores of bodies after the explosion, and encountered no one who was not injured.

Whole Mine Wrecked.

The rescuers say that the whole mine is wrecked and that it is almost impossible that any of the entombed miners are still alive. The fire which followed the explosion was confined closely to the workings near the main shaft, and soon burned itself out.

Supt. Thompson was reinforced by every superintendent and expert within reach of the mine, and hundreds of miners stood about the shaft last night begging for a chance to join one of the rescue parties.

With the Cherry, Ill., disaster fresh in their minds, frantic women and children surged against the ropes drawn to keep them from the shaft, and begged the rescuers to bring back the husbands and fathers. Some of the women attempted to join the workers below, and had to be restrained by force. As each body was brought to the surface, the women gathered about it with shrieks and prayers.

Cause Is Unknown.

Until the workings can be opened, the cause of the explosion will remain unknown. The officials declare that safety lamps were used in every portion of the mine, and that every precaution was taken to prevent accident.

Coroner J. H. Guilfoil has taken charge of the bodies, and has ordered eighty coffins from Denver.

Most of the miners entombed are Slavs, Hungarians and Italians. Only two Americans—William Helm, electrician, and David Williams, are among the missing.

Federal Engineers to Assist.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 1.—J. W. Paul and L. M. Jones, mining engineers, connected with the local station of the geological survey, left here today for Primero, Colo., to aid in the work of rescue at the mine and to make reports for the use of the government. They carried no rescue equipment.

G. S. Rice, also connected with the survey station, has left for Cherry, Ill., where he will assist the Illinois state authorities in the Cherry mine rescue work.

PINCHOT TO BE THE NEXT

dismissed have three attorneys constantly in attendance. The attorneys have combed the evidence closely, and are bringing out strongly the points which it is contended make a case against Secretary Ballinger and Fred Dennett, commissioner of the land office. No one as yet has appeared in behalf of the accused officials.

Pinchot Next on Stand.

It seems to be pretty well understood that the "prosecution" will offer Gifford Pinchot as its second star witness, and he may take the stand next Friday afternoon. Mr. Glavis is being held in the city until next Friday morning, when it is expected that his cross-examination will be finished. An executive meeting of the committee will be held either tomorrow or Thursday.

The name of Donald A. Mackenzie was brought in the inquiry yesterday afternoon when Glavis testified Mackenzie had told him that the reason James R. Garfield was not retained in President Taft's cabinet as secretary of the interior was because of his antagonism to the Alaskan coal claimants.

Glavis said he made an affidavit containing this interview, but denied when questioned by Senator Root that he regarded it as a reflection upon President Taft or that he intended to use it as an attack upon President Taft.

Would Interest Taft.

Glavis said he thought the president might be interested in it and he thought also that the affidavit would interest Mr. Garfield. Asked what he had done with the affidavit he said he left one copy in the land office at Seattle and sent the other to the forestry bureau.

Gifford Pinchot was present at today's session with a large leather bag filled with papers. It is expected he will follow Glavis on the witness stand next Friday or Saturday.

Senator Paynter of Kentucky, who resigned from the committee yesterday, did not attend the session. Illness was given as the cause of this action. The appointment of a successor has been left to Senator Money, the minority leader of the upper house of congress. He has offered the place to more than half a dozen senators without being able to induce any one of them to accept service.

SEALS ARE REMOVED FROM MOUTH OF MINE AT CHERRY

mine was uncapped Only a few idle miners in addition to mechanics and inspectors were about the tipple. An odor similar to stale steam, faintly tainted, poured from the uncovered shaft. A test showed that the elevator was in good order but that the oxygen men could not enter the cage until the whole shaft was uncovered to allow the rising of the elevator above ground.

No Gases Apparent.

The experts were unable to scent any gases at the surface. They made a trial descent on top of the cage, preparatory to a working expedition.

The oxygen helmeted explorers descended to the second level, 350 feet underground and returned safely. The temperature proved satisfactory and the whole lid was torn off, preparatory to an entry to the levels. It was declared improbable that any bodies would be found today.

The work at first proceeded slowly. W. W. Taylor, manager of the St. Paul Mining company, stayed in La Salle last night, and came over to Cherry today in the special car that brought the University of Illinois experts to the mine. Richard Newsam, president of the state mining board, found that several details of preparation had to be perfected before it would be safe to remove the concrete and steel shield from the entrance of the main shaft.

But the most serious delay was caused by the helmetmen, Webb and Williams, who arrived two days later than intended. Until they were ready to descend, Mr. Newsam refused to open the mine.

Fear Frenzy of Women.

A condition of expectancy exists as to the temper of the grieving women whose husbands, fathers and sons lie immured in the mine. To the casual observer, these women are apathetic, even stoical. But those who are better able, by reason of nationality or friendly familiarity, to ascertain the inmost feelings of those husbandless wives and sonless mothers, say that the sight of the corpses will cause long suppressed grief to burst into frenzy.

A merchant who has sounded the temper of the relatives of the unrecovered dead, asserted today that the militia would be required to repress the outbreak that he anticipated. Few women gathered at the mine today. It is said that persons of influence are doing their utmost to keep bereaved relatives from the mine.

Rescued Men Will Help.

Many miners who were narrowly saved from a fiery death in the mine last fall when the flames darted out lives of 274 companions, stood about the tipple today ready to re-enter the charred shaft and help clear the mine. Even the twenty men who suffered tortures for a whole week in the earth before they were rescued expressed a desire to recover the bodies of their less fortunate companions.

But Rosenjack, whom both miners and mine managers point out as the man who set fire to the hay and then doomed the mine by losing his head and pushing the car of hay into the airshaft—Rosenjack was not there. He fled from the Cherry right after the fire. Miners say that his life would not be worth much if he returned; yet he is not accused of maliciousness, but only of carelessness and stupidity born of fright.

Record of 1909

The close of the 67th year shows an increased amount of insurance in force, $1,441,323,848, and an increased amount of new insurance paid for, $102,040,633. Other notable features marking the progress of the Company are:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Policy Reserves | 445,388,997.00; | Increase, | 12,251,281.00 |
| Interest and Rents Received | 25,052,001.61; | Increase, | 531,868.83 |
| Profits on Stocks, Bonds and Real Estate Sold | 6,409,830.04; | Increase, | 5,804,364.27 |

Unprecedented Benefits to Policyholders

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Held for Deferred Dividends and Contingencies | 91,498,319.99; | Increase, | 5,653,328.79 |

The Company continues to maintain its PRE-EMINENCE IN ECONOMY OF MANAGEMENT. In connection with a largely increased volume of new insurance, the ratio of Expense (exclusive of taxes) to Total Income is lower than any other company doing a general life insurance business has been able to show in many years. The relative expenses of the Mutual Life have decreased more than 50 per cent in the last five years, resulting in a steady and satisfactory decrease in the cost of insurance.

APPEAL FOR SHIPPERS.

Chicago Men Want Interstate Commerce Provision.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—The Chicago Association of Commerce plans to get an amendment to the interstate commerce law which will permit shippers to appeal from decisions by the commission. It is also desired that shippers should be allowed to appear before the proposed interstate commerce court. The proposed amendments will be presented to congress. Under the present law the shipper has no right unless the commission decides against him.

For the Woman Who Has Beautiful Hair

(New York Theatrical News.)

The beauties in the Anna Held chorus are famous for their pulchritude. Their coiffures add a great deal to their charms. How they can "manage" such abundance of beautiful tresses day in and day out, keeping always the same well-groomed appearance, is beyond the ken of the average woman. But, listen while I whisper, these girls depend altogether upon dry shampooing to keep their hair fine and glossy.

They mix 4 ounces of powdered orris root with 4 ounces of therox, and they are prepared for a season's shampooing. Once or twice a week they sprinkle a tablespoonful of this mixture on the head and then brush the powder well through the hair. That is all there is to it, and they have escaped the bother and discomfort that accompany washing, rinsing and drying the hair, together with the danger of catching cold.

The wonderful results they achieve with therox convinces me that it is the only thing that can grow hair, for their hair is long and abundant in addition to being fluffy and lustrous.

NEW VAUDEVILLE AT THE BIJOU

Clever Bill Pleases a Large Audience of First Nighters.

The Alexandroff troupe of Russian dancers is the big headline attraction at the Bijou theater this week. The Russians have a dancing act that has seldom been equalled on any stage. Their numbers both delight and thrill and they are gorgeously dressed. The troupe numbers eight persons, five women and three men. Besides being novel, the act is very entertaining, a feature that is not always prominent in many so-called original dancing features.

Ray W. Snow, "the man about town," has a style all his own. He has a good line of talk and it lands. He made them laugh last night and his songs which are both original and new, were well received.

L. A. Street, who comes from across the ocean, is a juggler, and a first-class one. He is assisted by a comedian, who succeeded in his endeavor to draw the laughs.

Henry Keane and Olive Briscoe present a one-act play, "The Trial Marriage." The situations are extremely humorous, and the climax is productive of a hearty laugh. The lines are clever and the playlet is well presented.

Earl Morse this week sings "El Jolly, Molly," in his usual pleasing manner. The words are set to dashing march music and the slides are the best seen in some time.

One number on the program that was greatly enjoyed by the large audience of first nighters, was the dancing of the Farley children. The youngsters, a boy and a girl, could show some of the old timers a few new steps, and they seem to be very much at home while taking their turn before the footlights.

The bill this week is exceptionally good, all the way through, and does that for which it was intended—present the patrons of the theater with a real evening's entertainment.

Lyceum Notes.

The third performance in Duluth of "The Man of the Hour" was given last evening at the Lyceum, before a fair sized audience. The engagement will be brought to a close tomorrow evening, a matinee being given tomorrow. The election returns will be read from the stage this evening.

The Yankee Doodle Stock company in "Lena Rivers," will be the attraction at the Lyceum for the balance of the week, following "The Man of the Hour."

FINDS MOTHER SITTING DEAD IN HER CHAIR.

New Rockford, N. D., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sitting in a chair that she was accustomed to using while knitting or reading, Mrs. Agnes Miine, aged 67 years, was found dead at her claim home near here by her son. The young man, who visited his mother every few days to do certain chores for her, had left his mother in the best of health the last time he was there, and the discovery of her dead body was a terrible shock. The body was taken to Cheyenne, N. D., for burial.

BADGER MAN'S SON FREEZES TO DEATH.

Badger, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—E. L. Thompson has received word that a nephew of his, Ralph Thompson, aged 21, recently froze to death in the mountains of Colorado while out hunting.

The young man had apparently become exhausted and laid down to sleep after vainly trying to find his way back to the settlement.

Foreign Hair Critics

Shrewd foreign observers have remarked that if the American woman of middle age would spend a fraction as much money on her hair as she does on her boots and hosiery she would be the most ravishing creature in the world. In France and England the first gray hair is a tragedy, and to avert this tragedy as long as possible is a matter of vital and absorbing moment. When attacked with prompt action, however, this tragic army may be utterly routed or its onslaught at least postponed. Nearly all druggists nowadays carry in stock or can promptly get HAY'S HAIR HEALTH, which is the recognized antidote for prematurely gray hair. It is well to avoid unknown and untested remedies claiming to be just as good as HAY'S HAIR HEALTH. Many of these preparations are distinctly harmful, and their only excuse for being is to trade on the twenty years' reputation and good-will that HAY'S HAIR HEALTH has earned by reason of its remarkable efficacy when applied in time. It costs only 50c. or a dollar for a bottle. At druggists or from the manufacturer, Philo Hay Specialties Co., Newark, N. J., U. S. A.

BEST SHOW IN HISTORY

Duluth Poultry Association Will Have Fine Exhibit This Week.

Many Entries of Chickens for Competition in All Classes.

Officials of the Duluth Poultry association expect that the show which opens Friday night will be the largest and most complete exhibition of fowl that has ever been held at the Head of the Lakes. It is believed that over 500 chickens of various breeds will be entered in the show.

For the first time in the history of one of the exhibitions of the association, systematic advertising has been done. Catalogues and premium lists have been sent out to chicken fanciers in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, North and South Dakota and in Illinois. Many of the breeders have indicated that they will show their chickens at the show.

In addition to the number of breeders outside the city who have signified their intention of having their chickens entered at the show, the largest number of fowl in the history of the show will be shown by fanciers of Duluth and surrounding towns.

Secretary Nelson of the association has received answers from the most of the letters he sent to the largest breeders of the Northwest. Most of thethe breeders will bring several fowl to the show. If all of the fanciers, who have indicated their coming carry out their promise, the show will compare in quantity and quality with the annual poultry show given in the Twin Cities.

Tomorrow will be the last day for entering. It is expected that a large number of entries will be received before the entry list is closed.

In addition to the regular prizes given by the association, there will be a number of special prizes offered. There is the quartet cup, the two best trios specials, the Orpinton cup, the Duluth & Iron Range challenge cup, and the inter-state cup to be contested for. There are also prizes for eggs. Then also there are prizes for turkeys, pigeons, ducks and geese.

The show will open Friday evening and will continue through until the following Thursday.

LaGrippe pains that pervade the entire system, LaGrippe coughs that rack and strain, are quickly cured by Foley's Honey and Tar. Is mildly laxative, safe and certain in results. Sold by all druggists.

VOTING IS HEAVY IN ALL PARTS OF THE CITY

Voting in the western part of the city this morning was heavy, running ahead of the central and eastern wards. The Republican workers have been at work since 6 o'clock this morning and have been crowding the voters to the polls. Most of them are Haven votes and the indications are that he will pull a heavy vote in that part of the city.

The men are being brought out during the forenoon wherever possible to make room for the crowds which will be in this afternoon and particularly between 5 o'clock and 7 o'clock, the time the polls close.

Telephone calls to precincts scattered in different sections of the city show that the voting is comparatively heavy and is a good indication that the total will run close to 9,000. The total registration is 9,689.

Up to noon over 180 had voted in the Third precinct of the Seventh ward. The total registration there is 516. In the Second of the Seventh 150 had voted out of 333, and in the First of the Seventh 135 had voted out of a registration of 376. The fifth of the Seventh had 86 out of 237.

In the First of the Eighth the vote was 130 out of a registration of 317. The other precincts in that ward also show a good vote. In the Fifth 85 had voted up until noon out of 154. In the first of the Third 54 voted out of 154. In the First of the Third 54 voted out of 154 and in the Second of the Third 104 voted out of 237. In the fourth of the Fourth 89 had voted out of about 180 and in the Fourth of the First 71 had voted out of 113. In the Third of the First it was reported that about half of the registration of 346 had voted up to noon.

The betting downtown is fairly lively. Haven supporters have been taking up good-sized chunks of Cullum money. Books have also been started on the different wards, various propositions being open to those of a gambling bent.

PRIZES FOR THE BEST PAPERS

"The Picture I Like Best, and Why," will be the subject upon which the school children of Duluth will be invited to write during the week of the art exhibit here and $30 in prizes will be awarded for the best papers. The Duluth society is arranging for a splendid exhibit to be held in Duluth Easter week, and a great effort is to be made that all the boys and girls in the city who desire to see the fine pictures may do so, and not only that, but that they may win prizes of real money for writing about the pictures they like best.

There will be three grades for the competition. In the first class there will be the children of the fifth and sixth grades and there will be a first prize of $3, a second prize of $2 and two $1 prizes. The second class will comprise the pupils of the seventh and eighth grades throughout the city, and the prizes will be $4 for the best paper, $3 for the second best, $2 for the third and two $1 prizes for the next best. The third class will include the high school students, and the prizes will be $5, $4 and two $1 prizes. The papers are not to be more than 100 words in length, and the pupils in the grades mentioned in the public and parochial schools may compete.

The schools will be notified further as the exhibit will not be held until the week of March 28. Bishop McGolrick will leave for the East in a few days to join E. A. Silberstein to make arrangements for pictures for the exhibit from Eastern artists and collectors. Bishop McGolrick is president of the Duluth Art society.

The details of the school children's contest were completed last evening at a meeting of the publicity committee, of which A. B. Siewert is chairman.

MINERS READY TO VOTE STRIKE

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 1.—Representatives of the soft coal miners to participate in the wage conference tomorrow with the mine operators at Toledo will leave Indianapolis this evening, according to the arrangements made today by President Thomas L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America.

The miners will go into the conference determined that there shall be a strike if the operators will not grant a wage advance of 10 cents per ton on mined coal, weighed before screened.

If there is a strike, it will not be sectional but national, as the convention has instructed that no district organization shall sign the uniform wage contract until all districts have negotiated. Reports received today from Toledo by the miners' leaders were that the operators assembled there were preparing to resist to the last the miners' demands.

TEN MAY HAVE DIED IN WRECK

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 1. — The three-masted schooner Frances of New York, bound from New York to Jacksonville, is stranded near Cape Hatteras. The vessel is a total wreck and her crew of ten men are believed to have perished in a storm.

The vessel stranded during the night in a severe northwest storm which swept the coast. The temperature is below freezing.

The Frances, which was a vessel of 643 tons net register, was owned by Edwin S. Pendleton of New York. She was employed in the lumber carrying trade and was in command of Capt. Combs.

THREE WOLVES CHASED OLSON

Grand Marais, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gunner Olson, who drives a team for the Northern Log company, looked good to three gray wolves as he was proceeding alone along the Gunflint road, a few nights ago, while returning from a trip further north with P. Miles, a Red Cliff cruiser.

Mr. Olson was riding in a sleigh about 8 o'clock and three wolves, evidently looking for something to eat, came out of the timber and menacingly followed the solitary driver a mile or so. There was a long rack on the sleigh and several times one of them got onto the hind end of the rack, but when struck at by the unarmed driver's whip they jumped off again with a growl. If Olson had had a gun he could easily have killed the trio and he vows the next time he will not leave his trusty fowling piece at home. The lack of snow makes rustling venison hard for the wolves this winter, as the deer manage to keep out of harm's way, which accounts for their boldness.

THREE WORKMEN KILLED ON CANADIAN PACIFIC.

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 1.—A Canadian Pacific railway bridge between Lethbridge and MacLeod, Alta., on which a work train was standing, collapsed and forty workmen were precipitated to a gully below, of whom three foreign workmen were killed. Engineer Moore and Conductor McKillo of the train, with twenty others were badly hurt. The men were engaged in tearing away part of the bridge when it collapsed.

Mob Murders officials.

Seoul, Korea, Feb. 1.—During the anti-Japanese outbreak at South Phongan, the rioters murdered the Korean and Japanese officials and burned all of the government buildings. The mob was dispersed after ten of its members had been killed.

TAFT'S BROTHER BETTER.

Physicians Stop Spread of Erysipelas in the Patient.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 1.—The condition of Henry W. Taft, brother of the president, who is suffering here from erysipelas, was somewhat improved today. Fever and a threatened spread of the malady were stopped during the night. Dr. William A. Edwards announced a belief that in a few days the patient would be able to journey to New York.

AMERICAN AVIATOR GETS A BAD TUMBLE.

Cairo, Egypt, Feb. 1.—Mortimer Singer, the American aviator, fell with an aeroplane in which he was practicing here today. Both of his legs and an arm were broken.

Singer had a narrow escape in May last when the balloon in which he was rising at Seville, Spain, dashed against the railroad station, and bounding off, struck a moving train. Ballast was unloaded in the nick of time, however, and the balloon shot upward. Last month Singer contested for the Michelin cup at Mourmelon, France.

Maneuvers at Manila.

Manila, Feb. 1.—The army of the Philippines will engage in maneuvers during the last two weeks of this month. The operations will be near this city. The full strength of the military will be divided into two opposing forces

Husband Catching By Fat Women

Many a too plump lady is groaning in spirit, at this moment, as she lolls back with a lollipop between finger and thumb, at the thought of her matrimonial chances.

She tells herself she can never give up her lolling and her lillipops and go in for exercising and dieting instead. Not even for a husband. Yet one glance over her bulging breasts, at her equally well advertised hips, tells her all hope is vain unless she reduce.

Now, such girls are simply behind the times, or they would not worry about their reducing. They would reduce—and do it without disturbance of their appetite for candy or luxurious ease. All that is needed to take off twelve to sixteen ounces a day, and rapidly reduce the hips, chin, abdomen, etc. (where fat is most objectionable) is one pleasant, elegant Marmola Prescription Tablet, after meals and at bedtime.

Get the fat off where it jellies most and see what that change will do toward attracting the men. The tablets are not injurious in any way (being made after the famous Marmola Prescription, viz: ½ oz. Marmola, ½ oz. Fl. Ex. Cascara Aromatic, 3½ oz. Peppermint Water); and they are not expensive, the Marmola Co., 491 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich., and all druggists asking only seventy-five cents for a large case.

Try This For a Severe Cough.

Take a pint of granulated Sugar, add ½ pint of warm water and stir about 2 minutes. Put 2½ oz. of Pinex in a pint bottle and fill up with the Granulated Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours. The taste is pleasant.

The prompt results from this simple home-made article will surprise you. It usually conquers a deep-seated cough in 24 hours, and is a splendid household remedy for hoarseness, whooping cough, colds, chest pains, bronchitis, etc.

The recipe above given makes a full pint—enough to last a family a long time—and costs only 54 cents. It keeps perfectly, and is easily prepared in five minutes. Children take it willingly.

Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway White Pine Extract. It is rich in all the well-known pine elements which are so healing to membranes.

None of the weaker pine preparations can compare with the real Pinex itself. All druggists have it, or will get it for you if requested.

Strained honey can be used instead of the syrup, and makes a very fine honey and pine tar cough syrup.

LITTLE LIFE TO MARKET

Both Wheat and Flax Dull But Tone Is Firmer.

Heavy Demand of Millers Offsets the Big Northwestern Receipts.

Duluth Board of Trade, Feb. 1.—The wheat and flax markets were dull today until near the close, when they strengthened and closed ½c up from yesterday. The action of the market was listless and there was little interest manifested until after noon. The opening was soft, and sentiment among traders appeared to be mostly bearish. Outside buying contributed to the strength of this market, which was also affected by the strong position of the Chicago market.

May wheat opened at $1.11¾, ⅛c off from yesterday's closing bid price. The option gained ⅛c, lost it and went again to $1.11⅞. It jumped to $1.12⅜ toward the close, and closed at that figure. May flax opened unchanged at $2.15½, lost ½c and advanced to $2.16, lost it and regained it, and closed at $2.16 asked.

The heavy receipts in the Northwest, combined with the large holdings by millers, caused an easier cash demand, although premiums held firm. Primary receipts today were 780,000 bu, compared with 332,000 bu last year. The shipments were less, compared with last year, being 303,000 bu against 313,000 bu. Car receipts at the two Northwestern markets were 462 against 165 last year. Receipts in the Southwest also were heavy, St. Louis receiving 63,000 bu and Kansas City 96 cars. St. Louis sent out considerable grain, 86,000 bu being shipped. Kansas City started the week with a decrease of 13,300 bu. A wire from that market estimated the receipts in the near future at around 100 cars daily.

Chicago was stronger because of congestion and buying by shorts. The pit crowd sold in a light trading session, the slightest movement toward either side turning the market easily. The domestic situation was dominant. Railroad conditions in the Northwest are improving but traffic facilities are not yet normal. Some believe that when the railroads are in a position to move trains with accustomed dispatch and handle shipments from elevators with regularity, shipments of grain will increase.

The milling situation is one of the most interesting features of the market, the mills having been bulling wheat for some time. The situation is beginning to arrive at a point where the increasing stocks of wheat are becoming an oppressive factor in the market despite the fact that the visible supply of wheat is more than 20,000,000 bu less than the visible at this time last year. For several weeks the receipts at the principal American grain markets have been about twice the movement in the same period last year. The influx of grain has not affected cash premiums until very recently when there was a slight easing off. Stocks have not shown appreciable increases until within the last few days. The supplies in the country, evidently, are heavy and the claim, by some traders that the wheat in the country was playing out and that most of the supplies had been marketed does not seem to have been proven by later events.

Mills are insisting on prompt shipment of wheat from terminal points which is not always possible on account of congested conditions. Mills are still doing an excellent business and flour shipments from Northwestern grinders have been up to previous high records. The country mills are grinding as heavily as the city mills. All of this activity consumes an enormous amount of wheat and the effect has been indicated in the slow increase of supplies. Competition is becoming stiff and the mills are underselling each other in an effort to get business. Spring wheat mills are doing better than their winter wheat competitors. The mills have been going at a sufficiently fast clip to take away the surplus wheat as it arrived. If receipts increase or the flour demand slackens wheat stocks will increase rapidly and will approach the levels of stocks last year by the time navigation opens. Bulls say this condition must come about to prevent a great increase in prices as Eastern mills will need all the wheat that Duluth probably will have. It is estimated that to supply the demand there should be 10,000,000 bu. of wheat at the Head of the Lakes when navigation is opened.

Usually the mills endeavor to depress prices, but this year they have been aware of their ability to prevent stocks from accumulating sufficiently to depress cash premiums, although in the last few days the premiums have eased off slightly and were weak today. The premiums were maintained, however, at levels which have existed for several days. May wheat acts congested and there are considerable speculative holdings. In the three large American markets in the Northwest, counting Chicago as a Northwestern market, May wheat is cheapest in Chicago, the biggest speculative market. The markets which have the actual wheat are strongest, despite the congestion at Chicago due to large shipments of wheat from that place and to the decreasing supplies there. Cash wheat there is controlled by a few bulls.

For the last five months the mills have made more money than in any similar time previously. January usually is a slow month for millers but this year they have been operating practically at full capacity. The flour trade is now well stocked, it is believed. The demand has not only been caused by increased consumption but by reason of the attitude of the baker, the distributor and the large producer, who are in a good position to carry larger stocks than formerly and who appear to be doing so. Some bears have not accepted this condition literally, believing it to be inflated, but others slowly arrived at a realization of the fact that there may be more legitimacy in the flour situation than has appeared to many traders. The small accumulations and the firm cash premiums have been invaluable aids to the bulls.

Owing to the small stocks, the bears frequently get the market in a congested condition. They sell it off every few days and cover, causing a bulge. The market is now acting similarly to that at this time last year. James A. Patten was the bull leader last year, while this year there is no conspicuous interest bulling wheat.

Bradstreet's estimate of this week's visible increase is 635,000 bu. Last week's increase was 597,000 bu.

Argentine wheat exports last week were 963,000 bu. The exports this week will be heavy. The total export movement is increasing and the effect is bearish. Stocks in foreign markets are fairly large. The bulls, however, derive some comfort from the low quality of Argentine wheat.

The strength toward the close today was due to sympathy with the Chicago market. May closed ⅞c up and July was ⅝c up, over yesterday's close. The market apparently was congested. Buying orders sent to Duluth, presumably from Chicago, came in toward the close and aided in forcing a strong rally here. Owing to the small amount of contract wheat at Chicago, and the fact that less than half a dozen bulls control the cash supply, the situation there is essentially strong.

Cash was on a parity with May here, and at Minneapolis, cash was 1½@2½c over May. Durum closed ⅜c up, oats ¼c up, rye and barley, unchanged. High durum was 99¼c.

MARKET GOSSIP

According to the Buenos Ayres Herald of Dec. 19, received here yesterday, the wheat market there was weak and lower Dec. 17. On this day, according to Broomhall, wheat soared 11 cents. In reality the market was unchanged to ⅝c lower and it closed on Saturday 1¾c lower than on Friday.

Owing to a typographical error this column said yesterday that cash wheat was on a parity at Minneapolis. Cash in that market yesterday was 1½@2½c above the May option.

Receipts of durum wheat were prominent in today's market records, the shipments being stimulated somewhat by the export trade which to the continent has been good.

According to advices from New Zealand the recent official estimate of acreage is too low. Rust and insects, however, have damaged the crop. Rains in the South have done some harm and harvest conditions are not satisfactory. Last year's wheat crop was 8,329,000 bu. and in 1907, 5,567,000 bu.

Car receipts of wheat:

| | Today. | Last year. |
|---|---|---|
| Duluth | 95 | 5 |
| Minneapolis | 367 | 160 |
| Winnipeg | 118 | 185 |
| Total, Northwest | 580 | 350 |
| Chicago | 96 | 8 |
| Kansas City | 96 | 82 |
| St. Louis, bu | 63,000 | 14,000 |

Salina, Kan., wired: "Wheat looks good. Sixty per cent marketed. Movement light; mills have fair stocks. Corn consumed locally, paying 62c."

World's stocks—

| | This year. | Last year. |
|---|---|---|
| Wheat | 136,408,000 | 135,781,000 |
| Corn | 15,858,000 | 13,288,000 |
| Oats | 17,334,000 | 17,899,000 |

Changes—Wheat, increase, 635,000; last year, increase, 4,839,000. Corn, increase, 420,000; last year, increase, 648,000. Oats, decrease, 126,000; last year, decrease, 261,000.

Minneapolis stocks increased 375,000 bu for three days, and Duluth stocks increased 123,000 bu in two days.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool—"There were more La Plata wheat offered at a slight concession in former prices and it is expected that the visible supply will show an increase this week against a decrease last week. Liverpool stocks showed a large increase for the month and Manitoba spot was quoted at ½d decline, while other grades were unchanged. Toward mid-day there was some covering by shorts in March and this served to steady the rest of the market and at this time values were ¼@⅜d lower than yesterday. Corn was quiet at the start and unchanged. Later March declined ⅛d on the cheaper American and La Plata offers and a poor demand for spot. An official Roumanian report places the yield of corn at 69,900,000 bu which will afford a surplus for export of 28,400,000 bu. Last year the crop amounted to 78,447,000 bu. The weather is mild and the condition of winter crop is normal. Liverpool—Receipts of wheat for three days amount to 168,000 bu and corn 49,000 bu. These compare with wheat 312,000 and corn 292,00 bu for same time last week. Liverpool monthly stocks of wheat amount to 2,496,000 bu and corn 2,137,000 bu. Last month wheat 760,000 bu and corn 2,072,000 bu. Weather conditions. United Kingdom—The outlook for the crop is fair. The weather is cold and wintry which is interferring with plowing."

Broomhall's crop report: France—It is feared that there has been some damage to the growing crop as a result of the recent inundations. The weather is abnormally mild and the winter has as a whole been wet.

Germany—The crop outlook is favorable with the weather more seasonable, supplies are fair.

Italy—There has been no change in the favorable crop conditions.

Hungary—The crop outlook continues excellent with a good snow cover.

Russia—There has been no change in the crop outlook which on the whole is not satisfactory.

Spain—In South rain is wanted and elsewhere snow is needed as the crop is without protection.

Bartlett-Patten said: "Cables on on wheat ¼@⅜d lower and corn ¼d lower. Primary receipts running largely in excess of last year. The milling demand at Chicago does not seem to be as good as it has been, but indications point toward the fact that millers generally have good supplies of wheat on hand. We can see nothing to advance the price materially. It is nothing but a scalping market for the present. A great deal depends on how the winter wheat crop appears next spring as to what future prices will be. Receipts of corn are large and liable to continue so for some time and stocks will increase rapidly here this week."

Le Count cabled from Argentina: "In my estimate on corn, I should have said crop slightly damaged by locusts, but oats about an even one. Wheat exports last week 963,000 bu. This weeks' exports promise to be heavy. Weather favorable."

Winnipeg received 5 cars of flax against 8 last year, 45 cars of oats against 82 and 9 cars of barley against 8. Minneapolis received 44 cars of flax against 31 last year, 56 cars of corn against 8, 34 of oats against 18.

Flour shipments at Minneapolis amounted to 54,000 bbls. The total wheat stocks there are 4,767,649 bu.

Chicago wired: "Public and private elevator stocks in Chicago, wheat, 4,276,000 bu.; decrease, 333,000 bu.; corn, 6,069,000 bu.; decrease, 111,000 bu.; oats, 3,895,000 bu.; decrease, 251,000 bu.

Primary receipts of wheat, 780,000 bu; last year, 332,000 bu; shipments, 303,000 bu; last year, 313,000 bu; clearances, wheat, 93,000 bu; oats, 16,000 bu; flour, 28,000 bbl; wheat and flour, 219,000 bu.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Opens Weak, But Mild Rally Comes Later.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—Wheat prices had a downward trend at the outset today but moderate offerings checked the decline and a mild rally followed. Opening figures were ⅜c lower to ¼c higher. Fluctuations were frequent in the first hour within narrow limits, improved buying steadying the market at the higher levels. The principal bearish factor was a decline at Liverpool. May advanced from $1.10¼ to $1.10⅜@1.10⅞ here after opening ¼@⅜c lower to ⅛@¼c higher, at $1.10¼@1.10⅜.

Late in the session the market rallied on improved buying. May advanced to $1.11½ from a low of $1.10¼. The close was strong with May at $1.11⅜@1.11½, ⅞c higher than yesterday's final.

Corn started easier, influenced by good weather and large arrivals. Opening figures were unchanged to ⅛c lower. A little strength was injected into the market as a result of purchases by commission houses. May advanced from 66¼c to 66½c. Trading steadied at 66¼@66⅜c, which was unchanged to ⅛c lower than yesterday's close.

Outside demand in the final half of the session advanced prices. May touched 66¾c, traveling up from 66¼c. The close was strong, with May at 66⅝@66¾c, which was ¼@⅜c higher than yesterday's last quotation.

Oats prices started ⅛c lower to a shade higher with country commission houses selling and pit traders absorbing the offerings. The trade kept within narrow limits in the first hour, declining fractionally on the preponderance of offerings. May opened unchanged to ⅛c lower at 46½@46⅝c.

Provisions opened higher for pork and lower for lard, with ribs practically unchanged. In the first hour, offerings were large and prices generally declined in spite of continued light receipts of live hogs in the packing centers. Opening figures for the May products were: Pork, $21.47@21.45; 10@12½c higher; lard, $11.90@11.92, unchanged to 2½c lower; ribs, $11.62@11.65, unchanged to 2½c higher.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Uneasy Feeling Narrows Price Range of Wheat Options.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 1.—The general uneasy feeling in all speculative lines made the wheat market in a narrow range today. Trading was light and scalping profits were generally accepted. Speculative interest was light and the market was a professional one. Local elevator stocks of wheat increased 275,000 bu. for three days. May opened ⅛@¼c lower than yesterday's close and after fluctuating in a range of ¾c from high to low, closed ⅝@¾c higher than the opening. Minneapolis today received 37 cars of wheat as compared with 160 cars a year ago; Duluth, 95 cars, against 30, and Winnipeg, 118, against 262. May opened $1.11¼, high, $1.12; low, $1.11¼; closed, $1.12. July opened $1.10½@1.10⅝, high, 1.11; low, $1.10½; closed $1.11.

Cash wheat was in slightly easier demand, although the premiums were quoted steady. No. 1 northern was 1½@2½c above the May option, and No. 2 northern was ½c below to ½c above. Closing prices on track: No. 1 northern, $1.13@1.14¼; to arrive, $1.13@1.13¼; No. 2 northern, $1.11@1.12¼; to arrive, $1.11@1.11¾; No. 3 wheat, $1.06@1.11; No. 3 yellow corn, 57¾@58¾c; No. 3 white oats, 44⅞@45⅛c; No. 2 rye, 75¾@77¼c.

Millstuffs — Shipments, 1,277 tons. There was no change in the demand. Shipments heavy and prices firm. Bran in 100-pound sacks, $23.00@23.50.

The flour market was steady again today. Demand was fair to good from the domestic trade and very light from the foreign markets. Shipments heavy, 54,849 bbl. Prices firm; first patents, in wood f. o. b. Minneapolis, $5.50@5.70; second patents, $5.30@5.50; first clears, $4.45@4.55; second clears, $3.20@3.50.

Flax—Receipts, 44 cars; year ago, 31; shipments, 1. Demand was strong for both spot and to arrive at 1c above the Duluth May option. Cash offerings were very light. Closing prices, $2.16¾.

Barley—Receipts, 74 cars; year ago, 32; shipments, 63. There was no change in the market today. Demand continued fair to good for both feeding and malting grades. Prices were unchanged. Closing range, 58@65c.

FEBRUARY 1, 1910.

Now is the time to get in on the Butte-Alex Scott issues, for when this mine begins shipping high-grade ore, you will find the market on shares begin to tighten hard. We have watched Tulomne creep along, and now that the Scott mine is about to begin shipments, you can bet something will be doing in the price of shares. This is a mine that will pay real dividends to shareholders, and it should easily earn three dollars a year on every share issued.

Let the other fellow sell his Scott, but do not let them fool yours away from you. This is the time to dig for money to take on Scott stock. I have had some experience in many of year prominent stocks, such as Calumet & Sonora, Ballaklava, Shattuck, Butte & Superior and Tulomne, and they have all made good. Now then, when I tell you that the Scott is an equal to any of the independent properties on Butte Hill, I certainly know what I am saying. Have they not shown up by deposits of high-grade ore in the Scott? And does not this mean something when only 100,000 shares are issued. Butte-Alex Scott stock should sell at $30 right now on showing already made in this mine on the 1,400-foot level. We urge those who can to visit the mine and then you will understand. We are looking for an advance in Ballaklava and Calumet & Sonora, and believe Butte & Superior should do much better.

..Regarding St. Mary's, it has struck the bottom of the market and is due for a swift advance to 40 cents. Always buy this one when it hits the 30-cent mark, for it advances very fast when a little buying comes into the market.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Market Weakened Early on Moderate Amount of Selling.

Slight Rally Near the Close Which Was Fairly Steady.

New York, Feb. 1.—Stocks came on the market in moderate amounts at the opening today, but the weakening effect upon prices was quite marked. Norfolk & Western, Chesapeake & Ohio, Southern Railway preferred and Pittsburg Coal preferred lost 1, and Rock Island, American Smelting and Hocking Coal large fractions. There were running sales of 10,000 shares of United States Steel at 82¼@81⅞, compared with 82 last night.

Both Reading and Amalgamated Copper made fractional progress upward despite the heaviness of the general market, but they, in common with other stocks, weakened sharply afterward when United States Steel and Union Pacific were attacked. United States Steel was forced down to 81½. Union Pacific sold at 184¾, a loss of 1⅜. The market steadied before 11 o'clock and became quiet.

Pennsylvania sagged below 133 with the action on the quarterly dividend at the old semi-annual rate. United States Pipe and United States Reduction fell 2; Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie 1¾ and Erie first preferred. Westinghouse Electric, Republic Steel, American Can preferred, International Harvester preferred, Union Bag preferred 1. The market was stagnant at noon. Bonds were easier.

The market closed fairly steady. Further declines put St. Paul, Kansas & Texas and Tennessee Copper a point under last night, Erie second preferred 1⅜; Reading second preferred 1½, Iowa Central preferred 2¼ and Allis-Chalmers preferred 3. The completion of the liquidation in the Inter-Metropolitan stocks relieved the pressure. The preferred stock rallied 2, Union Pacific 1⅝ and a few others a point.

New York Money.

New York, Feb. 1.—Money on call, easy, 2½@3 per cent; ruling rate, 2¾ per cent; closing bid, 2½ per cent. Time loans, very soft and active; 60 days and 90 days, 3¾ per cent; 6 months, 4 per cent. Close: Prime mercantile paper, 4½@5 per cent. Sterling exchange, steady, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.83.80@4.83.90 for 60-day bills, and at $4.86.30 for demand. Commercial bills, $4.83¼@4.83¾. Bar silver, 51½c; Mexican dollars, 44c. Government bonds, steady; railroad bonds, easy.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Feb. 1.—In line with cables the cotton market opened steady today at a decline of 6 points to an advance of 6 points. Trading was quiet and at first the active months worked up to a net advance of 2 to 5 points on scattered covering, but prices soon weakened under a renewal of local bear pressure, encouraged by the absence of aggressive buying and by reports of an unsettled stock market. March held relatively stead and within 2 points of last night, but old crop positions worked off to a net loss of 4 to 7 points. The new crop report was neglected, and was held higher on the unfavorable reports from the Southwest.

Spot closed quiet, 10 points higher. Middling uplands, 14.70; middling gulf, 14.95. Sales, 800 bales. Futures closed steady. Closing bids: February, 14.41; March, 14.46; April, 14.45; May, 14.53; June, 14.44; July, 14.42; August, 13.90; September, 13.02; October, 12.64; November, 12.45; December, 12.44.

PRIVATE WIRES TO ALL MARKETS.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1910.

The Eastern market in coppers has every appearance of being grounded on the bottom and but for the action of the New York market, we would undoubtedly have a very big market in coppers at the present time. It is the opinion of those best informed that the Boston coppers will break away from the tendency which they have to follow the New York market, and if they do we will undoubtetly have a big market in all copper stocks. A telegram was received yesterday from Red Warrior mine stating that the winze from the bottom of the 400-foot level was showing up in first-class shape and that the best ore which has ever been found in the mine was being found in the lowest levels. The shaft is down 410 feet and is being sunk as rapidly as possible to the 500-foot level, at which point a drift will be run to open up the ore. The property will then be in excellent shape to increase its shipments. We advise the purchase of Red Warrior, Keating, Calumet & Corbin and Calumet & Montana. These stocks have all had a large break the last three weeks and there is no question, but that purchases in any one of them if made now will show at least 50 per cent profit before sixty days have rolled around. The properties are all looking first-class and development is being pushed as rapidly as it can be done economically. A telegram was also received from the superintendent of the Duluth Moctezuma property to the effect that they were working in ore which assayed over 1,100 ounces silver. While the market on this issue is somewhat narrow, nevertheless, on account of its low capitalization and the most excellent showing at the mine, and the fact that the company is sending forward a car a month of ore, which is netting over $11,000 per car, we feel sure that all of these factors are bound to have a bearing on the future value of this stock, and that before long the general public will realize that this stock should be selling for at least $15.00 a share on its intrinsic value and for much higher prices in case one figures on the future developments of the property.

FARMERS IN SESSION.

Members of Cass Lake Agricultural Association Have Meet.

Cass Lake, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first regular meeting of the Cass Lake Agricultural association was held at Strawbridge hall, and was attended by a large number of farmers living in this vicinity, who are all very enthusiastic over the agricultural possibilities of their sandy soil. The farmers spoke principally on the potato raising, and has much as they will have a warehouse, it is their intention to raise potatoes of the same grade. They have chosen Cormon No. 3 and Fairbanks. Chris Juenke was elected president of the association and Fred Smith was elected secretary.

BELTRAMI LAND DEAL.

Large Tract South of Bagley Purchased By Stillwater Concern.

Bemidji, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—A deal has been closed here, whereby the Solway Land company, consisting of A. Lammers, G. A. Lammers and A. J. Lammers of Stillwater, purchased 8,500 acres of valuable farming lands south of Bagley, known as the Wild Rice district.

The lands are located three and one-half miles south of Bagley and were formerly the property of the Wild Rice Lumber company. The timber on the land, for the most part, is hardwood, and what little pine ever grew on the property was cut and logged several years ago.

Confirms Two Judges.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Judge Loyal F. Knappen has been confirmed by the senate to be United States circuit judge for the Sixth circuit, comprising Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee, to succeed Judge Horace H. Lurton, who has been elected to the supreme bench. Arthur C. Denison, who has been elected to succeed Judge Knappen as United States judge for the Western district of Michigan, also was confirmed.

WILL FIGHT NEW RATE ON HATS

Milliners Intend to Tell the Traffic Board About Express Schedules.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—The Millinery Jobbers' association announced today through President Frederick Bode of Chicago that the organization proposes to make a desperate fight before the interstate commerce commission against rates recently put in effect by the express companies. The final hearing is expected this week. The chief objection of the jobbers to the rates is that a minimum weight is imposed upon packages of certain dimensions when packed in corrugated paper, or strawboard boxes and crated. According to Mr. Bode this increases the charges 10 to 100 per cent. The association also denies that the increased size of hats warrants the increase of charges proposed by the express companies.

It is stated by President Bode that the express companies have issued to merchants in Canada notice of a minimum weight, five pounds less than demanded on shipments made in this country.

DANCER'S SON IS SUING FOR TITLE

Sackville Peerage Romance Again Being Aired in the British Courts.

London, Feb. 1.—A crowded courtroom testified today to the public interest in the Sackville peerage romance, another chapter of which opened before Sir John Bigham, president of the probate court.

The petitioner in the suit is Ernest Henry Sackville-West, who asks the court to declare him the oldest and legitimate son of the late Lord Lionel Sackville-West, British minister at Washington, from 1881 to 1888. If he is successful, he will acquire the estates now held by Lionel E. Sackville, a nephew of the diplomat and the present Lord Sackville, who married his cousin, a sister-in-law of the petitioner. The present Lord Sackville denies that his uncle legally married Josefa Duran, the petitioners mother. The court disallowed a similar claim in 1903.

Ernest is the son of a Spanish dancer, who married Lord Sackville at Madrid. Subsequently, Sackville claimed the woman had a husband living when she formed an alliance with him, and the one son and three daughters born from their union, never have been recognized by the courts as having any right to the Sackville title and estates.

Noted counsel has been engaged by both sides.

STORES CANNOT CONDUCT BANKS

Wisconsin Supreme Court So Holds in Case From Milwaukee.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 1.—That it is a violation of the state banking law for a department store to conduct a banking business was the decision of the supreme court today.

The case in point was that of a Milwaukee department store which started a banking business, and before being enjoined had a list of 5,000 depositors, whose deposits aggregated $100,000.

The court, in effect, holds that by receiving money on deposit which can be drawn out without notice for other purposes than purchasing goods, the store was doing a banking business and as such comes under the provision of the banking laws.

Judge Carpenter Takes Oath.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—George A. Carpenter was sworn in as judge of the United States district court here today. Judge Carpenter succeeds to the place formerly held by the late S. H. Bethea.

DULUTH PORT RANKS SECOND TO NEW YORK IN TONNAGE HANDLED

Record for Short Season Places Harbor in Class By Itself.

Big Increase in 1909 Over Tonnage of the Previous Year.

Col. Graham D. Fitch Issues Annual Report on Business in Harbor.

That the port of Duluth is second in tonnage only to the port of New York, where the navigation is open twelve months a year, is the statement of Col. Graham D. Fitch, in his annual report of the business done during the year 1909, through the Duluth-Superior harbor. Considering the fact that navigation is open only about eight months a year locally, the Duluth port is practically in a class by itself.

The increase in the freight tonnage over 1890 is given in the report at 1,040 per cent.

The increase in freight tonnage in and out of the Duluth-Superior harbor over the past year was 36.69 per cent.

The period of navigation covered 250 days. The season of navigation between the Duluth-Superior harbor and Lake Superior points lasted about ten months. The Steamer Troy was the first boat to enter the harbor last spring from the lower lakes. This was on April 28. The Harry A. Berwind was the last to arrive. She entered the local harbor on Dec. 22.

During the navigation season 5,209 boats arrived at the local harbor. Of this number 4,385 came through the Duluth canal, and 824 came through the Superior canal. The total number of departures numbered 5,294, of which 4,723 passed through the Duluth canal and 1,621 left through the Superior canal.

Logs No Longer Figure.

One striking feature of the report is that logs received in the local harbor by the water route have ceased to be a factor in the greatly increased commerce of this port. Years back, this business was one of the principal factors in the lake commerce. While the logs have almost dropped from the list, the shipment of lumber has steadily increased. Lumber shows an

TITLE CLAIMED BY MYSTERIOUS MAN

Wounded Occupant of Shooting Lodge Puzzles California Officers.

San Jose, Cal., Feb. 2.—While searching for bandits who recently held up the Alvarado station, officers surrounded a shooting lodge in a lonely spot near this city and found therein a man who asserts he was the marquis de Courcelle. The latter was a principal in a mysterious shooting affray near Point Richmond last November.

The alleged nobleman was brought to this city and placed in jail to await investigation. He is suffering from a wound.

The police think that he may be Dr. Arnold De Falaise, representing the Pasteur institute of Paris, who disappeared Oct. 23 last and for whom the police of Ashland, Or., are looking. It is asserted that he answers the physician's description as sent out by the Ashland police.

The French consul in San Francisco, who some time ago looked into the case, failed to establish De Courcelle's claim to French nobility.

Says Users of Product of Mills Pay Excess of Millions.

Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 2.—At the annual meeting of Associated Ohio dailies, comprising 124 daily newspapers of Ohio, held today in this city, a statement upon "the price which publishers should pay for print paper," was made by John Norris, chairman of the committee on paper of the American Newspaper Publishers' association. Mr. Norris said if free competition and normal conditions should prevail in the paper trade, news print paper should be delivered in pressrooms at $25 a ton, or $1.75 per 100 pounds.

He charged that newspapers are taxed $8 a ton above that figure on 1,000,000 tons, or $8,000,000 per annum, because of the ignorance and lax methods of printpaper makers, and

ONE BODY IS TAKEN OUT

First Recovery Made at Scene of the Cherry Mine Disaster.

Rescuers at Primero Find Havoc Wrought By Explosion.

Cherry, Ill., Feb. 2.—The body of one dead miner and the carcasses of sixty-four mules were found 350 feet deep in the St. Paul mine today by the relay parties of repairers and explorers, who began work in the burned passages last night. It is probable that the corpse of the miner will be brought to the surface some time today. The mules were sealed in the underground stable with planks and oil cloth.

The explorers during last night stopped up all dangerous breaks in the walls of the main runway to the west of the main shaft on the second level. The work was also extended to the south as far as the air shaft, thus opening a passageway between the shafts of the mine.

Died Seeking Safety.

It was at the edge of the air shaft that the man's body was found. He lay sprawled along the runway with hands extended toward the escape pit, as he had fallen in a futile attempt to reach safety on Nov. 13, at the outbreak of the fire. Safety could not have been found in the air shaft, however, for it was in this well that the hay blazed causing flames to leap through the fan so fiercely as to melt steel rivets.

It was discovered today that con-

American Subscriptions for Flood Relief Surpass All Other Nations.

Paris, Feb. 2.—Today it was learned that Rodman Wanamaker had offered, through American Ambassador Bacon, to pay for a loaf of bread for every flood victim in Paris and vicinity daily for a period of thirty days. The American subscriptions received over night included $5,000 from Henry C. Frick of Pittsburg and $1,000 from citizens of Baltimore. The grand total of American subscriptions now exceeds $160,000, the largest sum contributed by any foreign country.

Up to this morning Ambassador Bacon had turned over to the French government $120,000, which is being used by the authorities at their discretion or transmitted to some agency for dis-

MINE HORROR IN KENTUCKY

Thirty-Five Men May Have Perished in Explosion Underground.

Thirty-Three Bodies Found, Two Are Missing and Fifteen Hurt.

Drakesboro, Ky., Feb. 2.—Thirty-three miners are known to have been killed, two are missing and fifteen injured, as a result of an explosion in the Browder coal mine, near here, yesterday.

There were 100 men in the two wings of the mine at the time of the explosion, but the forty in the west wing were uninjured and escaped. Those in the east wing felt the full force of the explosion. One or two of the injured are in a critical condition. Of the dead about half were whites, all Americans, and the remainder negroes.

Peter Kelly, mine foreman is among the missing.

As a result of the disaster all the mines in the vicinity closed down today, the men offering their services in rescue work.

The explosion is believed to have been caused by a miner's lamp igniting gas in an unused room. The force of the explosion was apparently sufficient to cause instant death to all the men in the eastern wing where the mishap occurred. Cars and heavy timbers were blown about like kindling wood.

Women Crazed With Grief.

Within a few minutes after the first news of the explosion the inhabitants of the little mining town were crowding wildly about the shaft. Women and children, crazed with grief, pleaded with those in charge of the mine for news of the entombed men. They were spared one of the horrors of other

FOR MAYOR.

Marcus B. Cullum, Democrat.

FOR ALDERMEN.

First Ward—James A. Wharton, Republican.

Second Ward—Frank Makowski, Democrat.

Third Ward—Frank Jordan, Democrat.

Fourth Ward — Harold P. Curren, Democrat.

Fifth Ward — John Hogan, Democrat.

Sixth Ward — John D. Bergstrom, Independent.

Seventh Ward — William L. Bernard, Democrat.

Eighth Ward — L. A. Barnes, Republican.

Dr. Marcus B. Cullum, Democrat, was yesterday elected mayor of Duluth by the decisive plurality of 829 over Mayor Roland D. Haven, the present incumbent.

Dr. Cullum received a total of 4554 votes to 3,725 for Mr. Haven.

Mayor Haven carried the First, Seventh and Eighth wards, but the vote against him in the central part of the city was overwhelming. Haven carried the First by 115, the Seventh by 101 and the Eighth by 117. Cullum got the Second by 289, the Third by 203, the Fourth by 255, the Fifth by 260 and the Sixth by 155.

Mayor Haven had the satisfaction of carrying not only his own ward, but that of the Democratic candidate, the First. He had a plurality of 115 in the First, carrying every precinct but one, Dr. Cullum's own precinct. He carried his own ward by 101. William L. Bernard, one of Dr. Cullum's henchmen, and the Democratic candidate for alderman in the Seventh, undoubtedly had much to do with cutting down Haven's plurality in the Seventh. He carried the ward by a larger plurality than Haven did.

The mayor was slaughtered in the big downtown wards. The Second gave Cullum the largest plurality, 289 votes. The Third, Fourth and Fifth also went heavily against Haven, the Fifth giving Cullum 260 plurality. It was expected that Cullum would carry these wards, or at least the Second, Third, Fourth and Fifth, but the Haven supporters did not anticipate any such pluralities. They were also disappointed at the support the mayor received in the West end and the First ward. They were counting on carrying the Sixth ward and piling up a big plurality in the Seventh and Eighth wards.

Democratic Victory.

The city went strongly Democratic throughout most of the wards, the Democratic candidates for aldermen being generally successful. With the changes made yesterday the new council will be composed of eleven Democrats, four Republicans and one Independent.

Probably the greatest surprise in the ward contests was the defeat of Alderman Thomas Trevillion, Republican candidate for mayor against Dr. Cullum four years ago. He was beaten by H. P. Curren, Democrat, by 117 votes. It was the first time he ever lost the Fourth ward.

James A. Wharton, Republican, was elected over Frank Cox, Democrat, in the First ward, by 308 votes. John A. Keyes, Public Ownership candidate, received 126 votes. Ronge, Public Ownership candidate for mayor, received a total vote in the city of 362, a decided gain over two years ago.

Frank Makowski, Democrat, was elected alderman from the Second over Henry Berbig, Republican, by 138 votes. Alderman Frank Jordan, Democrat, and president of the council, was returned from the Third by a majority of 330 votes. John Hogan, Democratic alderman from the Fifth ward, was re-elected over B. F. Neff, Republican, by 159 votes. In the Sixth, J. D. Bergstrom, Independent, defeated Sands Van Wagner, the Republican

S. M. OWEN PASSES AWAY

Had Twice Run for Governor on Populist Ticket in This State.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—S. M. Owen, editor of the Farm, Stock and Home, an agricultural paper, and twice Populist candidate for governor in 1890 and 1894, died at his home on Knox avenue today. Mr. Owen had been in ill health for several years.

Mr. Owen has been a member of the board of regents of the University of Minnesota for several years and took an active interest in its affairs, especially in regard tothe school of agriculture.

Sidney M. Owen was born in Ohio, Aug. 11, 1838. He received the common school education of that time and completed his studies in Oberlin university. In 1860 he married Helen A. Feag, who survives him. They had two children, a daughter, Jessie A., who died in her eighteenth year, and a son, Harry N., who survives.

Served in Civil War.

He served as first lieutenant in the Fifty-fifth Ohio volunteers during the Civil war. At its close he entered the mercantile business in Toledo, Ohio, later moving to Chicago, where he was in the same line of business. However, his desires and tastes were toward literary work, so in 1884 when his brother, Horatio R. Owen, who died in 1900, founded Farm, Stock and Home, it attracted him and in July, 1885, he came to Minneapolis and took editorial charge.

THINKS SHE'S TWICE WIDOW

Indiana Woman Heroine of Romance That Puts Enoch Arden to Shame.

Soldier Husband Returns to Find Her Mourning His Successor.

Wabash, Ind., Feb. 2.—When is a widow not a widow? And if she never has been one, can she be one for a second time? These are the queries that are bothering Mrs. Albert Holly, who has suddenly become the heroine in a romance that not only shows that Fate sometimes can be kind after all, but that beats the classical Enoch Arden case to a finish. The only person who has any real cause of complaint is the man who was played as a pawn in the game. But he is dead and is not expected to make any open protest.

In a wood chopper at work near her home, Mrs. Albert Holly today recognized her husband, whom she had not seen since he marched away a soldier in the Civil war forty-seven years ago. She believed that he was killed in battle and sold her home and moved away. He could not find her when he returned from the South, and became a wandering carpenter.

Will be Remarried.

Mrs. Holly was married to James Stull a few years after the war. For forty years they lived happily together. Stull was a motorman here, and ten months ago he was thrown from his car and killed.

If Stull had lived there would have been a difficult complication today, but as it is Holly and his wife are to be remarried, just as an evidence of good faith, and take up again their long interrupted union.

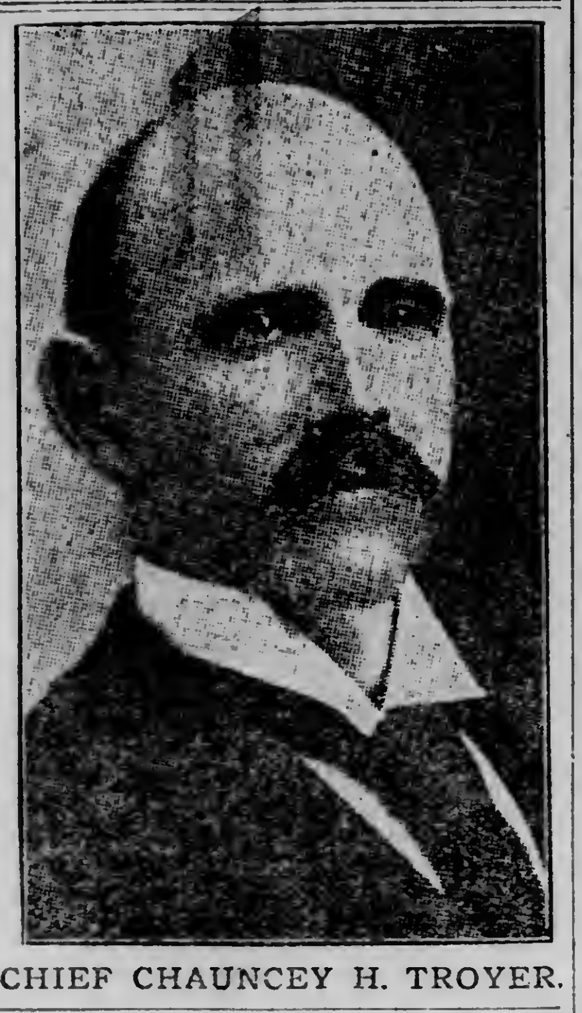
THE ELECTION OF CULLUM MEANS NEW POLICE CHIEF

C. H. Troyer Slated to Go When New Mayor Assumes Office.

Bert Fesler Will Be City Attorney---Other Appointments.



CHIEF CHAUNCEY H. TROYER.

The election of Dr. M. B. Cullum as mayor undoubtedly means a new police regime in Duluth, and a successor to Chauncey H. Troyer, the present chief of police.

Throughout the campaign Mayor Haven claimed publicly that Chief Troyer would not be retained if Dr. Cullum were elected, and the statement was never denied by Dr. Cullum. He refused to commit himself on the question of a chief of police today and said that he would make no promises either one way or the other. He claimed that he would make no announcement of his plans until after he assumed office, but there is every reason to believe that the chief's resignation will be called for.

Bert Fesler, who was very active in the campaign, and who was city attorney under Dr. Cullum when he served as mayor before, will undoubtedly be appointed again. He made an excellent record in the office, winning the Lake avenue viaduct case before the United States supreme court, and being a warm personal friend of the Democratic candidate, there is every reason to believe that he will be reappointed. In fact, Dr. Cullum intimated as much this morning.

The question of the assistant city attorney will be left to the city attorney, in large part, and it is likely that the office will go to Walter F. Dacey. The second assistant's position is in doubt.

Thomas F. McGilvray will doubtless remain as city engineer. He was appointed to the office by Dr. Cullum when he was mayor, and held on because the council refused to confirm a Republican appointment by Mayor Haven.

The same applies to S. F. Kielley, city building inspector. He is in addition a Civil war veteran, and there is a law preventing his removal except for cause. These two reasons will doubtless leave him secure in his office.

The assessor is not appointed until September. This leaves only the health commissioner, the mayor's private secretary and some vacancies on the various city boards. It is possible that Dr. D. D. Murray will again be appointed to the office of health inspector, or Dr. Patton may be left undisturbed. Dr. Cullum refused to discuss the probable appointee. The newly elected mayor is suffering from the results of a hard campaign, and showed the effects of it this morning. He was in bed for five days during the campaign, and during the rest of the time was tramping from house to house and from factory to factory. He surpassed his old record as a gumshoer.

CONFIRM STATEMENT THAT COST OF LIVING EXCEEDS LABORING MAN'S WAGES

The Poor Commissioner Helps Families of Men With Steady Jobs.

Humane Agent Says He Has Had Many Cases of the Same Type.

Salvation Army Officer and Minister Add Their Confirmation.

The article in The Herald last evening stating that the laboring man who earns from 20 to 25 cents an hour cannot support his family at the present prices asked for food stuffs, has caused a great amount of discussion throughout the city.

It brought out a number of people engaged in charitable work to add their word of confirmation to what was said yesterday by Miss Jean Poirier, state factory inspector, and James Walsh, in charge of the state free employment bureau in this city.

"The situation is really alarming," said one who has made a careful study of local conditions. "I have known it for a long time, but I did not want to be the one to first remark on it. I am glad that some one had the courage to call attention to the situation, and I now want to add my word of approval of any movement that will make life more of a pleasure for those most unfortunate people." The speaker was a woman who has long been connected with work among poor people. She asked that her name be not used.

Same Complaint Elsewhere.

"Yes, we have cases of that kind," said A. P. Cook, county poor commissioner. "Lots of them. The men work in a great many cases and those are the cases to which I refer. A family cannot be supported on the amount of money they earn. I refer to those people who earn from 20 to 25 cents an hour. One dollar and sixty cents a day is not enough. Two dollars is not enough. A man has a hard time to support a fair sized family on $2.50. At that, I don't think that the cost of living in Duluth is any higher than it is in almost any other American city you wish to name. There is the same complaint everywhere and I see that the matter is being taken up all over the country. We are constantly called upon to help people who seem deserving, people who work and seem to be at a loss as to how to get along. The conditions are deplorable. People who were getting along well some time ago are now on our lists. They do the same work now that they did then and are in a great number of cases employed by the same firms."

Hard Workers On List.

The humane agent, George Fifer, was questioned regarding the conditions. Mr. Fifer admitted that there are a number of families on the lists of the Humane society who are in need of help, in spite of the fact that the father is working. "Some of the men," says Mr. Fifer, "are hard workers. There are some days in the week that they are not needed by the company for which they work. Others finish their jobs and have to lose time in getting new work. Sometimes the man works steadily. The mother will take sick—there may be a death in the family or some other unexpected thing may happen that will give them a severe setback. They then need help and the charitable organizations are called upon to aid them. Some men seem incapable under present conditions of providing for their families, and help has to be extended them."

Sickness Is Often Cause.

Adt. Steiger of the Salvation army says that he has many times had experience with families in the same position. He says, however, that in his experience it was sickness, loss of time or other causes that kept the family back.

Rev. Erickson of the Norwegian Danish Methodist church says that the statement made in last night's article was not overdrawn in the least. "I do a great deal of visiting," he said, "and I find the conditions are terrible. My work is for the most part among the poorer classes of people and they are having a mighty hard struggle to get along. In the majority of cases they are receiving some small help from outside, but they never admit it. It is not generally known for those in better circumstances are helping them out, and the instances do not get to the public.

"The wages paid for labor will not cover the cost of living, no way that it can be figured. The strugle is almost beyond human endurance and it is a wonder more of them do not give up. Life treats them to very little and they become very tired of it. The burden is too heavy in some cases and worn out, weary and discouraged, it is sometimes given up. The conditions are true and we might as well face them for we have been dodging them for a long time. Just what could be done to better ourselves would be a hard matter to figure out, but I want to say emphatically that when a man cannot make enough money to live decently, retain his self respect and care for his family in the way they should be cared for, there is something radically wrong."

According to the several local societies, there are many families trying to get along on the small wages made by the father. They find they cannot make both ends meet and apply for aid. It was in this way that the suffering in the city was brought to light.

An effort is being made to better the conditions. State Labor Commissioner W. E. McEwen has sent out questions which he wishes answered and returned to his office in St. Paul. The Associated Charities has ten families who are making a record of every penny expended. This is being done that the matter may be taken up and discussed at the next meeting. The matter of a visiting housekeeper who will visit the mothers and plan how to make the money go as far as possible, will also be taken up soon.

SAY BLACK HAND CAUSED OUTRAGE

Dynamiting Society Alleged to Have Caused Windsor Mine Explosion.

Hurley, Wis., Feb. 2.—The Black Hand, in desperation over ineffectual efforts to take the life of O. Davia, a miner at the Windsor mine, placed dynamite under every corner of the dry house at the mine, in order that their marked victim, known to be within, might not escape. They did not hesitate to imperil the lives of a hundred other men in order to reach their victim. They succeeded in killing Davia. Other men were injured in the explosion.

This is the conclusion that is generally drawn from the testimony that is being given at the inquest over the body of Davia. The hearing has been adjourned again. No evidence incriminating any individuals has been produced, and it is probable that none will be secured. Fear of the fate that has befallen Davia has sealed the lips of the Italians among the mine workers. A branch society of the Black Hand is believed to exist in Ironwood, across the river.

Priest Is Threatened.

Two or three years ago, Rev. Father Gilbert, who was then in charge of the parish here, received several letters, one of which threatened his life if he did not deposit $3,000 at the steps leading into the cemetery situated half a mile south of the city.

Open threats have been heard against Davia, it is stated, and while he never said directly that he had received any warnings he had talked a great deal to his companions as to the dreadful methods of the Black Hand society, and how, if they went after a person, they were sure to "get" him sooner or later. The inquest over his death has been adjourned from time to time for lack of evidence. No arrests have been made and it is doubtful if there will be any, as there are no clues on which to work.

Milwaukee Slaughter House Fire.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 2.—The slaughter house of the Plankinton Packing company, used for the killing of hogs and calves, was gutted by fire late Monday. The loss is estimated at between $50,000 and $75,000, partially covered by insurance.

The fire started in the hair drying room. The building, an old one, 600 by 400 feet and four stories, was of brick construction, valued at $50,000, and contained $25,000 worth of machinery.

Two hundred persons employed in the building escaped.

WASHBURN FAMILY VICTIMS OF POISON

Mother and One Child Dead While Others Are Still Ill.

Washburn, Wis., Feb. 2.—Mrs. P. Behrante and family of five children were found poisoned at their home here yesterday afternoon. The mother was dead when found and one child has since died. The recovery of three of the other children is doubtful.

The news of the poisoning was made known by the father shortly before noon. He says that he was sick as well as the rest. An examination is being made.

When neighbors first arrived there was a fire in the house and the husband was running about in his night clothes.

He is here with a view of purchasing sufficient stock to secure control of the Golden Dawn Mining company, consisting of 3,000 acres on the Snake river, twelve miles from Nome, which is largely held in this vicinity. He speaks of Alaska as "the real Northwest," and takes great pride in its resources and prospects.

MAYOR HAVEN GOES DOWN TO DEFEAT

In the Seventh ward William L. Bernard, Democrat, defeated F. W. Erickson, Republican and vice president of the Civic league, by 114 votes, a bigger plurality than was received by Mayor Haven, who also lives in the Seventh ward. L. A. Barnes, ex-alderman, was elected over P. H. Martin, Democrat, by 140 votes in the Eighth ward.

Bond Issue Carries.

The proposed bond issue of $200,000 for the water and light department carried overwhelmingly. The first three proposed charter amendments were carried. The first provides that the paving of street intersections and the cost of laying storm sewers shall be paid for at the public expense by general taxation. The second empowers the city council to impose a special tax on vehicles to provide a fund for repairing the city streets. The third amendment is a supplement of the second, providing that a levy of not to exceed 1 mill may be made to provide a special street maintenance fund to be used for the same purpose as the money raised through the second amendment. It carried by two votes.

The so-called Chan Smith amendments were snowed under and the fourth, fifth and sixth also lost. The fourth empowered the park board to provide music in the parks; the fifth abolished the board of public works and the city engineering department, consolidating the two under the direction of a commissioner, and the sixth raised the salary of the city assessor from $1,800 to $2,400 a year.

PRODS PAPER TRUST AGAIN

that the same causes are imposing a penalty of $50,000,000 per annum upon the users of all kinds of paper, including book and writing, and thereby taxing knowledge.

Production Too Costly.

Mr. Norris said that $6 a ton is added to the cost of production for unnecessary weight, $5.21 a ton for waste in manufacturing, and $4 a ton for lack of standardization.

More than $2,000,000 per annum is paid by newspaper publishers for atmospheric moisture in printpaper, he declared. Mr. Norris furnished instances of atmospheric absorption of water to prove the impossibility of making any accurate statement of the weight of printpaper except under identical atmospheric conditions.

He asserted it was impossible to verify the weights billed by printpaper makers on purchases of $50,000,000 per annum. He pointed out the practicability of converting pulps into paper in New York harbor, at a cost of $35 a ton delivered in New York pressrooms, and said the tangle with Canada over the pulpwood supply was embarrassing development in that direction.

trary to expectation the third level, 500 feet below the surface, is not full of water. A stone dropped down the elevator shaft hit the top of the cage that ran from the third level to the second. As this car now rests on the bottom of the third level, the water cannot be more than five feet deep, probably less.

Under these conditions, with little present danger from gases or fire, it is hoped recover the 167 bodies from the mine this week.

Pumps were installed today to pump the water from the bottom of the mine.

Rescued Bosses at Work.

During last night General Manager W. W. Taylor of the St. Paul Mining company and Richard Newsam, president of the state mining board, went down into the 350-foot level to observe the work. Among the workers were Walter White and George Eddy, mine bosses who headed the twenty men that were rescued last November, after an entombment of one week in a chamber a mile west of the shaft.

"The conditions are favorable and we are working as fast as possible without taking needless risks," said Manager Taylor on leaving the mine.

Havoc Wrought by Explosion.

Primero, Colo., Feb. 2.—The immense force of the explosion in the Primero coal mine, which exacted a toll of seventy-nine lives Monday afternoon, was shown today as the explorers penetrated deeper into the workings.

Seven more bodies were recovered during the night, making a total of fifty-two. But it is extremely improbable that the full roster of dead will ever be given the last rites that their families and friends would observe, for conditions in the deeper workings indicate that many of the victims were literally blown to pieces. Fragments of the shattered steel-jacketed lamps the miners carried are probably all that ever will be found. Shreds of human flesh with these ragged bits of lamps were found this morning by explorers who approached the spot where the explosion occurred.

Blinding Snowstorm Raging.

Fresh air has been forced into the workings a distance of nearly a mile. The bodies have been taken from Entries A-7, 8, 9 and 10, and to the left of the main slope, but no work has yet been done in the entries to the right of the main course, where it is believed many lives were lost.

Nature lent a shroud of white to the battered fragments of human beings that were carried to their graves. A blinding snow storm which added to the difficulties of the rescuers, is raging today about the little camp.

NEW MINISTRY AT CHRISTIANIA

Konow Is Premier and J. Irgens Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Christiania, Feb. 2.—A new ministry has been formed to take the place of that which resigned several days' ago, and of which Gunnar Knudsen was premier.

The new cabinet follows:

Premier, M. Konow; minister of foreign affairs, J. Irgens, the present minister to Great Britain; minister of finance, M. Berge, who was formerly minister of public worship; minister of commerce, S. A. B. Artander, senior burgomaster of Christiania; minister of public works, M. Braenne; minister of education, M. Kvigstad; minister of justice, M. Scheel, judge of the supreme court; minister of defense, Lieut. Col. K. S. J. Bull.

M. Holtzmark, director of the school of agriculture, will be appointed minister of agriculture when the storthing authorizes the necessary salary.

MANY CATHOLICS UNDER U. S. FLAG

Including Philippines, Hawaii and Porto Rico, There Are 22,587,079.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 2.—There are 22,587,079 Catholics under the United States flag, according to advance sheets of the Wiltzius official Catholic directory published in Milwaukee. The count includes the Catholics of the United States proper, Alaska, the Philippines, Porto Rico and the Hawaiian islands. The Catholic population under the British flag, according to the same directory is 12,053,418.

In the United States proper there are 14,347,027 Catholics, showing a gain of 111,576 over a year ago.

The directory shows 4,845 parochial schools in the United States with an attendance of 1,237,251.

The Catholic population of the leading states in the Union is as follows: New York, 2,722,649; Pennsylvania, 1,494,766; Illinois drops from second to third place with 1,443,752; Massachusetts is next with 1,373,772; Ohio has 619,265; Louisiana, 557,431; Wisconsin, 532,217; New Jersey, 496,000; Michigan, 489,451; Missouri, 452,703; Minnesota, 427,627; California, 391,500; Connecticut, 370,000; Texas, 283,917; Iowa, 242,009; Rhode Island, 242,000; Indiana, 218,750; Kentucy, 194,296.

MAYBRAY INVESTIGATION.

Alleged Member of Gang on Trial at Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Council Bluffs, Iowa, Feb. 2.—The taking of evidence in the case of Frank Scott, who is alleged to have swindled John Hermelbrecht of Pender, Neb., out of $5,000 on a fixed horse race, began yesterday. Scott is alleged to have been a member of the Maybray crowd, which is under indictment for similar swindles aggregating $500,000. A number of victims are witnesses in the Scott cases.

ENTERPRISING EDITOR IS USING JAIL FOR OFFICE.

Selby, S. D., Feb. 2.—Owing to the fact that all buildings in the town are occupied, Editor Tuttle of the Reveille, a newspaper at Roscoe, is compelled to publish his paper from the town jail. When he discovered that all business buildings were occupied, Tuttle sighted the town jail and, noting that it was without an inmate, went before the council and secured permission to establish his newspaper office there.

DICKINSON TO TAKE DE ARMOND'S PLACE.

Butler, Mo., Feb. 2.—C. C. Dickinson, of Clinton, a Democrat, defeated Philip Griffith of Greenfield, Republican, in a special election in the Sixth district yesterday to select a successor to the late Congressman David A. De Armond.

Will Spend Millions.

Winnipeg, Feb. 2.—It is announced here by General Manager Bury of the Canadian Pacific railway, that the company will spend $30,000,000 in Western Canada this year in extensions into new settlements, bridges, shops and double tracking the main line.

Back From Butte.

Negaunee, Mich., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Jewell, a well-known Negaunee miner, who left four months ago for Butte, Mont., with the intention of remaining there permanently, has returned. He did not find industrial conditions at Butte as favorable as he expected, and the only position that he could secure was working with a section gang on a railway.

THE HERALD GOES SOME IN THE WEST END!

Herman Olson, the newsdealer at 1823 West Superior street, bought and sold during the month of January 32,396 copies of The Herald, or a daily average of 1,246.

Mr. Olson is only one of several dealers selling The Herald in the West end and in addition Herald carriers cover the residence portion in its entirety.

The Herald carrier records show that there is scarcely a home between Lakewood and Fond du Lac in which The Herald is not a daily visitor.

Give Your Stomach A Vacation

By Using Stuart's Dyspepsin Tablets Which Digest Food Without Any Aid.

A Trial Package Sent Free.

The stomach should have a rest when it is tried out and irritated from dyspepsia and indigestion. One should not call upon the stomach in this condition to do its full and complete duty. What the stomach needs is natural assistance and when this is given it the stomach responds quickly to the needed rest and comes back to its duties refreshed and invigorated.

When you feel as though your stomach were a piece of lead, when gases or foul odor issue from your throat, when your tongue is coated and your appetite gone, it is high time to send your stomach on a vacation.

The stomach is constantly coming in contact with foreign substances, which it must reduce in form to give strength and health to the other organs of the body. It is the commissary department of the human system and must furnish from such supplies as come to it all that such a system demands.

If the stomach becomes deranged and cannot furnish all that is necessary, it weakens the entire machinery of man and is itself placed out of commission. It cannot cure itself because the curative powers of Nature receive their force from the stomach, so that if the stomach issues imperfect nourishment it cannot receive perfect curative means for its own benefit.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets impart all the power, vigor and strength necessary to the stomach. They do the stomach's work and without calling on this organ for assistance.

If you would put your meal in a glass jar and with it place the correct amount of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets you could sit down and watch these little tablets digest the meal as perfectly as the most healthy stomach. This demonstration has been made in almost every stat in the Union by these tablets, one grain of a single ingredient being capable of digesting 3,000 grains of food.

If you have the slightest doubt about your stomach, go to the nearest drug store and buy a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, price 50c, or send us your name and address and we will immediately send you by mail a trial package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

DIRECTORS RE-ELECTED

Giroux Consolidated Mines Company Holds Annual Meeting in Duluth.

Financial and Operating Reports Are Encouraging to Directorate.

The annual meeting of the Giroux Consolidated Mines company was held yesterday in the company's general offices in the Lyceum building. The session was concluded late in the afternoon when the annual reports to stockholders were made public.

Directors re-elected were John Uno Sebenius and Edward J. Maney of Duluth and Ralph C. Lupton of Wilmington, Del. A large amount of stock was represented at the meeting. The only out-of-town director present was John Angus Snedaker of Denver, Colo.

The annual reports detailed the immense developments which have been done at the Giroux and told of the acquirement of properties during the fiscal year ending Dec. 31. The year began Feb. 1 last, but hereafter will begin Jan. 1. The report showed that of the authorized capital stock of 1,500,000 shares at $5 each there has been issued 1,351,380 shares and there are 118,620 shares in the treasury for the conversion and retirement at par of bonds issued by the company. Many holders of first mortgage bonds converted their collateral into stock which saved large interest accounts to the company, bonds of this nature converted in the last fiscal year having a value of $756,900, leaving a balance outstanding of $243,100. The second mortgage bonds amounting to $1,000,000 authorized at the meeting of the directors a year ago were sold at par and have since been converted into stock by the purchasers.

Development Work.

The principal development work conducted on the Giroux property in White Pine county, Nev., was the sinking of the new five compartment shaft in the limestone south of the known ore bodies encountered on the 1,000 and the 1,2000-foot levels of the Alpha shaft. The new shaft has been holed through to the surface from the 1,000-foot level and timbering is now in progress. The shaft was put down in record-breaking time. Sinking below the 1,000-foot level will continue and pumps now on the ground will be installed when the 1,200-foot level is reached. Crosscuts will be driven to the ore deposits and their character and extent determined as soon as possible. The new equipment at the property comprises boilers, hoisting machinery, pumps and complete equipment including head-frame and steel power house for the new shaft. A standard guage railroad is being constructed from the new shaft to connect with the Nevada Northern railway.

Properties acquired in the Robinson Mining district, Nevada, in the last year amounted to nearly 800 acres, consisting of claims containing mineralized ground. The aggregate price paid was $226,551.10. Several of the claims adjoin the Cincinnati claim of the Giroux estate, on which the new five-compartment shaft is being sunk. The report showed the purchase last july of 239,175 shares of the Butte & Ely Copper company for $1 a share, giving the Giroux Consolidated Mines company control, the capitalization of the Butte & Ely company being $500,000 in shares having a par value of $1. Churn drills were placed on the Butte & Ely property which proved up an extension of the concentrating ores now being mined at the Nevada Consolidated. The drills later were moved to the Giroux estate, where they were put to work. The Butte & Ely property comprises about 209 acres. The company had in cash, Dec. 31, 1909, the sum of $240,194.45. The Giroux Consolidated had $592,848.61 in its treasury Dec. 31, 1909.

The other properties of the Giroux Consolidated are in the state of Sonora, Mexico. No developments other than the maintenance of buildings were done last year.

Managers Report.

The report of E. P. Mills, general manager of the Nevada properties, to President T. F. Cole, tells in detail of the development work at both the Alpha and the new (Giroux) shaft on the Cincinnati claim. Mr. Mills says: "On account of the Alpha shaft encountering the ore body on the bottom level and being of insufficient capacity properly to care for the operation of, or production from the mine, it was considered advisable and for the best interests of the company to sink a new shaft to be known as the Giroux, in the limestone, and on authority of the board of directors this work was immediately started and has since been diligently prosecuted."

Mr. Mills describes developments as follows:

"On the 770-foot level of the Alpha shaft, the old shaft, which was 142 feet long, was extended 616 feet to the proposed location of the new shaft and a station was cut at that point. In extending this drift, we encountered 330 feet of iron and lime contact, in which were found copper carbonates. Some of the specimens analyzed 20 per cent copper, but the average for sixty feet was from a trace to 9.8 per cent, or a general average of 5.2 per cent copper, with small gold and silver values, for the sixty feet.

"On the 1,000-foot level, the old drift, which was 201 feet long, was retimbered and extended 628 feet further to the new shaft location where a station was cut. This drift was entirely in lime formation and was done during the months of April, May and June, 353 feet being accomplished in the month of May.

"The hoisting equipment of the Alpha shaft was inadequate to take care of material from more than one set of raisers and it was, therefore, impossible to raise from both the 770 and 1,000-foot levels simultaneously. The work of raising in the new shaft was accordingly started from the 1,000-foot level in July and progressed, as follows: July, 167 feet; August, 150 feet; September, 133 feet; October, 143 feet; November, 165 feet; December, 190 feet, an average of 158 feet per month, with fifteen feet sunk from surface, making total depth of 963 feet in the Giroux shaft, corresponding to 1,060 feet in the Alpha shaft.

"While raising above the 770-foot level at a point between sixty-two and sixty-nine feet, the shaft passed through some carbonate ore analyzing 13.7 per cent copper with small gold and silver values. The permanent shaft below the 1,000-foot level has been started, and will be pushed until the 1,200-foot level has been reached."

At the Old Glory shaft considerable retimbering has been done and 816 feet of drifting on the 270-foot, 300-foot and 370-foot levels. The mine has been unwatered and the 450-foot level surveyed preparatory to future work. The only work performed at the Bunker Hill shaft was the driving of a drift 55 feet long on a sub-level 90 feet from the surface. The drift was entirely in ore averaging 3.48 per cent copper.

A summary of costs shows expenses at the Giroux shaft to have been $69,811.55; at the Alpha shaft, $29,417.23; Old Glory shaft, $14,879.26; Bunker Hill shaft, $7,695.33. Other expenses bring the total expenditures for mining to $117,340.29. Drilling expenses amounted to $43,880.85; surface work, $29,212.86. Construction expenses amounted to $114,114.24. The total mining costs, including the foregoing items and others, amounted to $313,339.41.

CHARGE MORE TO SELF-SHAVERS

Pittsburg Barbers Vote to Raise Price on Irregular Customers.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 2.—The union barbers of this city are after the woman who persists in sending her boy to have his hair cut on Saturday and the man who shaves himself through the week, but goes to the barber shop at the end of the week, thus delaying business during the Saturday rush.

Lawrence Wille Council No. 24, National League of Barbers, however, has a remedy, and it has passed a resolution raising the price of hair cuts 10 cents and that of shaves 5 cents to those who are not regular customers. This interference in the Saturday rush has been a perplexing question for a long time and the barbers argue that the boys could be sent through the week, while they have no penalty severe enough for the man who shaves himself.

Saved From Awful Peril.

"I never felt so near my grave," writes Lewis Chamblin, of Manchester, Ohio, R. R. No. 3, "as when a frightful cough and lung trouble pulled me down to 115 pounds in spite of many remedies and the best doctors. And that I am alive today is due solely to Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me. Now I weigh 160 pounds and can work hard. It also cured my four children of croup." Infallible for Coughs and Colds, its the most certain remedy for La Grippe, Asthma, desperate lung trouble and all bronchial affections. 50c and $1.00. A trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all druggists.

IN THE DAY'S WORK AT WASHINGTON

Attack Forestry Service.

Washington, Feb. 2.—A running fire of criticism was poured into the forestry service during most of the session of the house while the agricultural appropriation bill was under consideration. The entire session was devoted to the forestry schedules. Representatives Mondell of Wyoming and Taylor of Colorado were the chief critics of the bureau of forestry, which found many defenders in the house.

Mr. Mondell, replying to an inquiry by Representative Mann of Illinois as to why the national forests could not be made profitable now, if ever, said the reason was found in the "scandalous extravagance" that characterized the conduct of that service. Much of its money, he said, was spent for objects in no way related to the cutting of timber or to the protection of the forests from fire. Conventions of foresters, held simultaneously with gatherings in which hostile criticism was likely to be voiced, for the purpose of offsetting such criticism, press bureau work, unnecessary traveling expenses and the maintenance of large forces of employes in Washington and elsewhere, were among the items of extravagance enumerated.

In no instance was an appropriation carried in the bill for the bureau of forestry reduced as a result of attacks upon that service.

Rail Rates and Rivers.

All along the Mississippi river and valley, the railroads cut rates to freeze out river competition and then raise their rates to the original level or higher as soon as the boats are taken off, according to President J. C. Lincoln of the Industrial Traffic league, who testified before the house committee on interstate commerce.

"I think the roads would be very much embarrassed if brought into court," he added. "Shippers at other points along their lines would be likely to make them trouble if they could show that at certain places the roads were putting the rates far below cost to stamp out competition and at noncompetitive places were trying to recoup by overcharging shippers."

Davis Flays Postal Banks.

In a spirited attack on the postal savings bank bill, Senator Jeff Davis of Arkansas told the senate today that it was a measure in the interest of the national banks, 'the high collared roosters, the money sharks and money grabbers of Wall street."

Mr. Davis' antagonism was aroused by the refusal of Senator Carter, in charge of the bill, to entertain an amendment eliminating the requirement that the savings funds be deposited only in banks subject to supervision and examination.

Insurgent Element Wins.

Republican members of the New York delegation in the house, at their caucus voted to support President Taft's policies, but refused to commit themselves on the question of the speakership and the rules. Party leaders sought to have the caucus go on record as indorsing the present rules, but the movement failed. Had the New York delegation sustained the rules, it is reported an effort would have been made to have the same action taken all along the line in the various state delegations. Pennsylvania members are talking about a caucus of the delegation, but nothing definite has been done in that direction.

Educate the Eskimos.

The educational interests of Alaska will shortly be placed in the hands of W. T. Lopp, who has been selected by the commissioner of education as chief of the Alaskan division. Mr. Lopp has had much experience in the territory's eduactional work, having been a district superintendent of the bureau of education developing the reindeer industry as an important instrument of the industrial education of the Eskimo. The headquarters of the division is located in Washington and Mr. Lopp will likely assume charge in a few days. He succeeds Harlan Updegraff, who has been appointed collector and compiler of statistics of the bureau.

Wiley to Drop Title.

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley wants the District of Columbia to get a uniform loaf of bread for a nickel. He has announced that he will appear before the district commissioners as "plain Citizen Wiley" and ask for the recommendation of a law to compel it. "Citizen" Wiley also intends to see that a loaf of bread in the District of Columbia is what a loaf of bread ought to be.

CEREAL FOOD COMBINE.

Minneapolis, Battle Creek and Iowa Concerns Are Merged.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 2.—The reported consolidation of all of the cereal manufacturing concerns of Minneapolis, one in Battle Creek, Mich., two in Chicago and some in Iowa, in a new $1,000,000 corporation to handle the output of these breakfast food concerns, is confirmed by Thomas W. Hicks, who has been promoting the deal here.

The Minneapolis companies to be absorbed in the merger are:

The Northwestern Cereal corporation, Minneapolis Cereal company, incorporated; Fruen Wheat Food & Milling company, and the Minne-Paul Cereal & Milling company. The other companies already included it is said, are the Malta-Vita Food company, and the Iowa plants of the United Cereal company of Chicago.

In addition to the above, seven white flour mills in towns adjacent to Minneapolis will be merged into the new company. Their names are not announced.

The assenting companies, it is said, will receive stock in the new corporation dollar for dollar of preferred stock for established business trade marks, etc.

SIXTY RAILROADS REJECT DEMANDS

Will Talk Wages With Firemen, But Not Other Concessions.

New York, Feb. 2.—Sixty railroads in the country have notified the representatives of 32,000 firemen of the rejection of the demands for a 20 to 25 per cent wage increase and other concessions. News of the rejection was contained in a private dispatch from Chicago today.

AUSTRALIA WANTS MORE IMMIGRANTS.

Melbourne, Feb. 2.—The Victorian cabinet has decided to despatch within a few days a mission to the United States and England with the object of promoting immigration. Representatives of the government, including probably a member of the cabinet, will constitute the mission, which will first visit England.

BEST RHEUMATISM RECIPE.

Those who have tried this recipe declare it has no equal for quickly stopping rheumatic pains and eventually curing this dreaded disease.

"One ounce syrup of Sarsaparilla compound; one ounce Toris compound; half pint of good whisky. Mix these thoroughly and use a tablespoonful before each meal and at bedtime."

Any good druggist can supply these ingredients.

The good effects are said to become apparent immediately. It is also a favorite for all persons of failing strength.

SHOOTS MAN WHO WAS BEING ROBBED

Chicago Policeman Fires at Escaping Pickpocket and Wings His Captor.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—While shooting at an alleged pickpocket in a crowded street today. Policeman Sullivan shot Leo Berenziak, the man upon whom the alleged attempt at robbery was made. Mr. Berenziak was shot in the knee, but not seriously injured. The alleged robber was captured and gave his name as John Doe.

Mr. Berenziak said he detected the prisoner in the act of picking his pocket and seized him. The conductor of the car upon which Mr. Berenziak was riding helped hold the prisoner until a policeman was found.

The alleged thief was turned over to Policeman Sullivan, but broke away and ran. Mr. Berenziak started in pursuit ahead of Sullivan. The policeman began firing and Berenziak fell with a bullet in the knee. Doe was not wounded.

INCORPORATE TO FIGHT HIGH PRICES

National Anti-Trust Food League Formally Installed at Washington.

Washington, Feb. 2.—"For mutual benefit and protection," the National Anti-Trust Food league was incorporated yesterday under the laws of the District of Columbia, with J. Lynn Yeagle, Emil L. Scharf and Representative Coudrey of Missouri, all members of the board of directors of the league, as incorporators. The league, which is to be national in scope, aims at a reduction in the cost of living by having its members refrain from purchasing those articles of food which rise to exorbitant prices.

Farmers Are Organizing.

Springfield, Ohio, Feb. 2.—Farmers of Southwestern Ohio have taken a hand in the anti-meat crusade. Nearly 500 of them have signed a paper agreeing to withhold from market all livestock for sixty days. This, they believe, will prevent any fall in prices.

"Chanticleer" Next Saturday.

Paris, Feb. 2.—The presentation of Edmund Rostand's new play, "Chanticleer," is now set for next Saturday night. The proceeds, which will be very large, are to be given for the relief of the flood sufferers.

Causes 95 per cent of Diseases

Advice Concerning Stomach Troubles and How to Remedy Them.

Do not neglect indigestion which leads to all sorts of ills and complications. An eminent doctor once said that ninety-five per cent of all the ills of the human body have their origin in a disordered stomach.

A physician who made a specialty of stomach troubles, particularly dyspepsia, after years of study perfected the formula from which Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are made.

Our experience with Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets leads us to believe them to be the great remedy known for the relief of acute indigestion and chronic dyspepsia. Their ingredients are soothing and healing to the inflamed membranes of the stomach. They are rich in pepsin, one of the greatest digestive aids known to medicine. The relief they afford is almost immediate. Their use with persistency and regularity for a short time brings about a cessation of the pains caused by stomach disorders.

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets will insure healthy appetite, aid digestion and promote nutrition. As evidence of our sincere faith in Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, we ask you to try them at our risk. If they do not give you entire satisfaction, we will return you the money you paid us for them, without question or formality. They come in three sizes, prices 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain them only at our store—The Rexall Store—E. M. Tredway, 108 West Superior street.

OZO MULSION
The Distinguishing Feature of Ozomulsion is its CURATIVE QUALITY, Which All Other emulsions Lack.

PLAIN TRUTHS.

To be physically weak means to invite the visitation of all those diseases which lie in wait for the unwary.

To prevent disease one must fortify the system against disease.

If you would live healthfully, if you would be able to resist disease and avoid making a soil favorable to disease germs, your blood must be thoroughly vitalized.

Ozomulsion Is Very Effective in vitalizing and up-building a depleted system.

There is no preparation that will aid nature like Ozomulsion.

It creates new tissues to take the place of those worn out.

It makes new blood, destroys all poisonous bacteria, increases the appetite, stimulates digestion, and is prescribed by physicians for Coughs, Colds, Pneumonia, Grip, Wasting Diseases of young and old, and for Convalescents recovering from illness.

Ozomulsion is known, recommended and sold by worthy druggists everywhere in 16 oz. and 8 oz. bottles.

Always ask for Ozomulsion by name.

That all may experience for themselves what this exclusive preparation will do, a 3 oz. Trial bottle will be sent by mail to all who send us their name and address, by post card or letter, to the Ozomulsion Co., 548 Pearl St., New York.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

TO STUDY CONDITIONS OF ITALIAN WORKMEN HERE

AMY A. BERNARDY.

The Italian Royal Commission on Immigration has sent Miss Amy A. Bernardy through the country to study the condition of the Italian-American citizens of the United States. Miss Bernardy thinks the Italians have qualities which peculiarly fit them for citizenship in the republic. They have especially a sensitive honor, power of intuition and gentleness of mind. Miss Bernardy believes that if the Italian immigrant were welcomed as an equal instead of being treated often as an inferior, there would be more chance that he would become a desirable citizen.

The newly elected board of directors of the Young Women's Christian association met to elect the officers who will serve during the coming year. Mrs. W. C. Agnew, who has been president for five years, will be succeeded by Mrs. W. J. McCabe, who has been an earnest worker of the board for several years. Mrs. Agnew has given years of most devoted service to the association work and her retirement from the presidency came at her request for needed rest. She will serve on the board. The other officers are: First vice president, Mrs. Watson Moore; second vice president, Mrs. J. A. Watterworth; third vice president, Mrs. W. H. Cole; fourth vice president, Mrs. W. A. McGonagle; recording secretary, Mrs. Robert Smith; corresponding secretary, Mrs. L. W. Kline; treasurer, Mrs. Ella B. Claypool.

At the next board meeting the committees for the year will be named.

Demonstration cooking lessons will be conducted tomorrow morning and tomorrow evening in the domestic science department by the instructor, Miss Ruth Patrick. Muffins and omelettes will be the subjects.

* * *

The registration in the classes of the various departments is going forward and the classes during this term promise to be more largely attended than ever before.

PIANO RECITAL.

Mme. Hallock to Play for Matinee Musicale.

The members of the Matinee Musicale will listen this evening to the third out-of-town artist's recital when Mme. Mary Hallock will present an interesting piano program at the assembly room of the Young Women's Christian association. There is more than ordinary interest in Mme. Hallock's appearance, as she is an artist of unusual attainment as well as a woman of interesting birth and training. Her work on pulse and rhythm, which appeared in the Popular Science Monthly has been read with interest by many of the club members. Mme. Hallock is also the editor of one of the only two authorized text books on the Leschetizky method extant. The program will be at 8:15 o'clock.

SAGINAW AFFAIRS.

Miss Hanchett Guest of Honor at Functions.

Among the hostesses in honor of Miss Elise Benton Hanchett, whose marriage to Richard Frank Grant will take place next Friday evening at St. John's Episcopal church at Saginaw, will be Mrs. Ezra Rust, who will give a breakfast Friday morning at her home, 319 South Michigan avenue, at 10 o'clock, for the bridal party, relatives and intimate friends. Last Saturday afternoon in honor of Miss Hanchett, Mrs. John T. Winship gave a tea at her home, 314 North Jefferson avenue, the guests including intimate friends of the bride-elect.

Bridge Parties.

Mrs. Oscar Lonegren and Miss Lonegren entertained at bridge yesterday at their home at Hunter's Park. The game was played at four tables. They were hostesses again today at three tables.

* * *

Musical Lectures.

"The Earliest Forms of Instrumental Music" was the subject of the lecture this morning by Miss Josephine Carey at her studio, 222 West First street. The lecture was one in a series on "Musicale Appreciation" which Miss Carey has been giving during the year. The class is under the auspices of the Twentieth Century club and is open to any member of the Twentieth Century club. Each lecture is complete in itself, although being one in the series.

The next lecture will be given the third Wednesday morning of the month, Feb. 15, and those interested are invited to attend.

Church Recption.

The members of Circle 5 of St. Paul's church will entertain at a reception Saturday afternoon at the rectory. The members of the other circles of the church and the women of the congregation are invited to be present.

Diplomatic Dinner.

Berlin, Feb. 2.—American Ambassador and Mrs. Hill gave a dinner last night in honor of Chancellor and Mrs. von Bethmann-Hellweg. Among the guests were Lieut. Gustave von Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach, Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, head of the Hudson-Fulton celebration commission; Under-Secretary Stemrich, Ernest F. von Ihne, the head of the court; Col. Ziethen and the Swiss, Mexican and Hanseatic ministers, all of whom with the exception of Under-Secretary Stemrich were accompanied by their wives.

Shakespeare Class.

The morning Shakespeare class of the Twentieth Century club will meet tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the clubroom of the library. The study of "As You Like It" will be continued with Miss Mary Shesgreen as leader.

Bethel Meeting.

The regular weekly women's meeting at the Lake avenue Bethel will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The service will be in charge of Mrs. E. A. Gooch and there will be special music.

W. C. T. U. Meeting.

The regular meeting of the West Duluth branch of the Women's Christian Temperance union will be held tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. G. W. Smith of 623 North Central avenue. The speaker will be the Rev. George Gebauer and his subject will be "Motherhood, the Basis of Higher Civilization."

THE BOY

Has Right to Father's Companionship.

That boy has a right to the companionship of his father, says the Woman's Home Companion. His love for his mother is unique and there is nothing in life more beautiful; but, after all, it is the father's word and example that count. A recent investigator has declared that great men have almost uniformly had great mothers. The majority of boys, however, are not destined to become "great," and in the ordinary family what the father says is the final court of appeal.

I stopped the other day to watch a crowd of boys playing ball in a side street. A dispute arose whether or not a certain ball was "foul," and words ran high in a perfect babel of "It was" and "It wasn't, I tell you." One of the noisiest of the disputants ran to a nearby piazza, where his father sat reading his paper.

"Wasn't that ball foul?" demanded the youngster excitedly.

"Yes," replied his father without glancing up from the paper.

"There!" declared the little fellow in triumph, as he returned to his mates. "That was a foul ball, just as I told you! Father says it was!" For him the case had been decided by the highest court and from it there was no appeal.

The other afternoon, as I rose to depart from a friend's house, his 12-year-old boy, when he perceived that I was about to go, came running up, and said, "Come, pop, get your wheel and come out with me."

"Better go with the boys," laughed his father.

"I don't want the boys. I see them all the time, every day. Come on," pleaded the lad.

"All right. Get my wheel and I'll go," responded his father cordially.

"Yes," he said to me in reply to my query, "I make it a point to be with my boy whenever I can and he wants me. I go to his games and track meets and we go fishing together I'm hoping some day he'll go into business with me, but I can't expect him to be interested in what interests me unless I do the same for him, can I?"

Was the father wise? Who that has seen the relation between the two did not know the boy at least was safe? Just because the boy is a member of the family bearing the family name, which he cannot change, he has a right to his share in his father's life as well as to his father's table Almost every boy is proud of his father, and there is no greater joy than comradeship. It is his strongest anchor—and it is more—it is his right.

Polite Man!

"The politest man I ever saw was an Englishman, with an American drug clerk a close second," said the woman, relates the New York Sun. "The Englishman was drinking hot chocolate in a drug store where I went to telephone. It was an open telephone near the soda fountain. The conversation was of a confidential nature. In reply to some question from the other end of the wire I said: 'Oh, I can't tell you over the 'phone.'

"Just by chance I happened to look straight at that Englishman when I said it. Goodness knows I didn't mean anything by it, but he gave it a personal significance. He blushed, set down his cup of chocolate and said: 'Excuse me; I will retire.'

"I murmured, 'Please don't,' but he had already disappeared in the rear of the store. Then the drug clerk sneaked too, and I was left alone to talk. I just had to talk then. The information I had held back was not very important; unwillingness to give it was the real cause of my refusal, but after all that sacrifice of time and not chocolate in my behalf I would have told whatever secret I had in mind if it had been ten times as bad."

Household Hints.

When putting away the silver tea or coffee pot which is not used every day, lay a little stick across the top under the cover. This will allow the fresh air to get in and prevent mustiness. Clean oil cloth with a wet towel pinned over a stiff broom and rub with long sweeping strokes. To keep varnished wood looking fresh and bright, rub it thoroughly with oil from time to time. Eggs which are to be broken into water should not be broken into boiling water, as the motion destroys their shape, but let the water be as hot as possible without boiling, and then let them stand several minutes on the back of the stove. Paper bags in which many articles are sent from the grocery store should be saved for use when blacking a stove. You can slip the hand into one of these and handle the brush just as well and the hand will not be soiled, and when through with them they can be dropped into the stove.

Get from the grocer a small round head of lettuce for each person; what are called "seconds"—that is, heads of Boston lettuce from which the outer leaves have been removed; these cost only 5 cents each in winter time, and will probably be still less in spring, though, for safety's sake, it is well to allow the outer price. Wash these heads, and with a small sharp knife cut a round place in the top of each, and then cut down and around till the center is removed, leaving a cup; into this put a few halved white grapes with the seeds taken out, and with them put red California cherries, stoned, or a little grape fruit pulp, and cover just before serving with French dressing; lay each little salad on a dark green lettuce leaf when you serve it.

For boiled rice, to one cup of rice use three quarts of water, three level teaspoons of salt, and one teaspoonful of butter. Heat the water to boiling, add the salt and the butter, then add the rice and let it boil loudly so as to keep it in motion for twenty minutes; then drain the rice into a colander and set in a warm oven for five minutes to dry.

If women who make doughnuts and crullers would use a little less flour than the recipe calls for and stand the mixture on the ice before it is rolled out to get thoroughly chilled and stiff and then cut it and fry it quickly before it has time to soften, the cakes would be more delicate than when stirred stiff enough with flour to hold together when the paste is warm.

Women's Interests.

The suffragists are rejoicing over Mark Twain and Senator Carter of Montana as the latest recruits to their cause.

Stony Wold hall, Miss Blanche Potter's memorial to her sister, Miss Martha Potter, has been formally turned over to the Stony Wold sanatorium of New York. This hall, with other buildings included in Miss Potter's gift, cost $75,000. Mrs. Walter Geer, a sister of the Misses Potter, has given an organ to the institution.

Miss Ethel M. Arnold of London will return to America this month on her second lecture tour. She is the granddaughter of Dr. Arnold of Rugby, a niece of Matthew Arnold and a sister of Mrs. Humphry Ward. Miss Arnold is an active worker in the cause of votes for women, while Mrs. Ward is about the most prominent leader of the antisuffragists in England.

Miss Cynthia M. Wesson of Springfield, Mass., has given $7,000 to Bryn Mawr college. Miss Wesson, who was graduated from Bryn Mawr in 1909, was prominent in the athletic affairs of the institution and her gift is to be expended toward the betterment of the swimming pool. All undergraduates are required to qualify as swimmers and this exercise is one of the most popular of the college sports.

News of Women.

The American College for Girls at Constantinople has recently been given $150,000 by Miss Helen Gould.

The majority of women in France are wage earners in one capacity or another. The average sum paid to dressmakers is 3 francs, or 60 cents a day.

Mrs. Elizabeth Cochran Seaman, better known as "Nelly Bly," the globegirdler, is now the manager of the Ironclad works of Brooklyn, a concern which employs many hands.

Mrs. Rosa Herrman is president of the H. Herrman Lumber & Furniture company., an American concern, which has branch offices in London, Hamburg and Natal. Mrs. Herrman lives in Stuyvesant square, New York.

Mrs. William Salter has been elected a member of the London county council. She is the wife of a physician who was defeated a few days ago for parliament. Mrs. Salter made a house-to-house canvass, and she credits her election to the support of women. She was opposed by two men and she topped their combined vote. The chief planks in her platform were lower rents and lower taxes, two things which appealed especially to the women in the district she now will represent in the council.

Lady Duff-Gordon is a warm admirer of the American woman. This member of the British nobility claims that an American woman can keep a secret. She says that in America, women are treated on equal terms with men. "They are better educated than English women as a rule. There is no country where woman is treated with greater courtesy. The result is seen in the independence of character and the self-reliance and dependability of the American woman."

THE EVENING STORY

THE LAST RESORT

By Ralph Record.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

It seemed as if the next step must be my last, but I kept on—running, running, running—till my legs felt like two brittle sticks likely to snap under the weight of my weary body. I tried to throttle with my hand, the sharp pain in my side, and wondered, half-consciously, how long my heart could stand the fearful strain.

It was not my crime that sent me stumbling, breathlessly, along that stony road at 2 o'clock in the morning, with a crowd of angry farmers following a quarter of a mile behind. I was not guilty, but might as well have been.

Thank heaven! I had a good start, but of what good is a start when a man is almost dead from fatigue? If I could find a way out, a trick to deceive them! My brain worked madly as I plunged ahead with my lips wide apart and painful breath hissing between my set teeth. As I rounded a curve in the road, I saw a dark shadow ahead, and I knew it was the little wayside station. I prayed to God for a freight train. I looked up and down the track for some friendly headlight, but all was darkness.

Automatically I looked for a hiding place. A long, narrow pine box on the platform caught my eye and I shuddered thinking that tomorrow perhaps that box might inclose a corpse. Suddenly an idea flashed across my mind, made light by fear.

I touched the handscrews on the cover; they turned very easily. I pulled off the top and looked in. Heavens! It already held a coffin. I slid the lid from the black coffin and stood, shuddering at the sight of a still, white face. I drew back hastily. Up the road I saw the lanterns of my pursuers and desperation scattered all compunctions, all respect for the dead..

Dazed, scarcely knowing what I did, I reached down and pulled that cold, shrouded form from its coffin. He was heavy, that dead man, and I was tired and weak, but a false strength seemed to come to me. With a tremendous effort, I dragged him across the track and—threw him into the lake.

The lanterns were bobbing up and down, nearer and nearer; but I smiled as I moved the box cover half way up that I might manipulate it from the inside. I crawled into the coffin, drew up the cover and lay on my back, my clasp knife in my hand. Some insane instinct caused me to draw the coffin lid over me. I even laughed deliriously as I cut a whole in the side of the coffin and through the outside box. Then I waited feverishly for the coming of the furious men.

I had not long to wait. I heard them, jumping, one by one, onto the platform. One of them cursed; one came to the box, and he must have held a lantern up, for I heard him read the label: Henry Donnelly, Jackson City, Iowa."

"Here's that Donnelly's corpse, waitin' for the 3 o'clock," he said and then —I fainted.

A dim, indefinable sense of rumbling noises, like the regular roll of machinery seemed to sing to me. It lulled me gently while a swaying, rising motion seemed to carry me higher and higher till I began to wonder if I should fall. Was it the air that made breathing so hard? What was that dark spreading gloom that appeared suddenly and seemed to be racing with me? I strained every muscle—and then —a nameless horror awoke every sense. That black mass was a coffin top, the whirling wings were wheels, and I was on board a train, alone in a car—a supposed corpse—Henry Donnelly, of Jackson City, Iowa.—bound for a grave. Oh, God! Why did you not let me dream?

Again, I tried to shove the lid away, but my hands were held down. I sought for the knife I had held in my hand, but it was gone. I pressed my mouth to the hole I had cut in the side and drew in my breath. Why was it I could not get more air? At last I guessed it; the satin lining was keeping the air out. I tried to raise my hands to the place, but the lid held them down. In determination I gnawed the lining with my teeth and then I cried out with all my strength. No answer. My voice seemed almost inaudible to myself.

Again I attacked the lining with my teeth, and I thought a little more air came in, but it was such a little. I was growing weak and faint again. The thought that if it overwhelmed me, I might not awake, till it was too late—till earth covered me six feet deep—made me fight against that faintness with all my might. I set my teeth and clenched my fist, fighting off the fatal flight of sense. I wrenched fiercely at the satin lining, but it nauseated me. I thought of the dead man that had lain there and it made me sick—sick of heart and sick of soul. Then I prayed that I might die. All my life I had dreaded death —now I prayed for it.

For yesterday I was not to blame. Bad company and weakness did it. Because an old road companion had asked for shelter in the farmhouse where I lived and tried to work honestly, and I had let him in and he had beaten down the good farmer and his wife and robbed them—was I to blame for that? I knew too well that the avenging neighbors would not believe that I was an accomplice. So I had fled—fled to this.

The cold face of the corpse rose before my vision. I had robbed him of his resting place, taken even his body away from his people. Nonsense, I knew, but he haunted me.

I could feel the train stop with a lurch. Could it be Jackson City? I tried to cry out, but my tongue would not obey the command of my brain. Again, the awful faintness crept over me. Again, I struggled madly. "Oh, God!" I prayed, "give me my senses, give me power to escape from the grave." Then my brain seemed to stop I knew no more.

It may have been minutes, it may have been hours, before I again awoke and my almost crazed brain brought me back to a realization of my situation. The steady whir of car wheels had ceased, but I seemed to be riding still. Then it came to me—I was in a hearse on my way to some house or church, perhaps to a cemetery. The motion stopped and I heard muffled voices.

Then—oh, thank God! They were going to open the box; some one wanted to see for the last time the face of Henry Donnelly. For a moment I doubted. Could it be! Yes, they were unscrewing the top. In sheer joy I almost fainted again.

At last, I heard the box top removed. Then, suddenly, the instinct of self-preservation came to me in another form. What would they do when they saw it was not Henry Donnelly. I should have to explain my presence there. I had committed an awful crime. I was a body snatcher.

Then I saw the light. Oh, it was grateful! Light! I had thought never to see it again. It dazzled me, and I shut my eyes. Then I opened them full and wide.

Two faces were bending over me, two faces full of horror. One was a woman's face, old, wrinkled—the other a man's, gaunt, hypocritical. I opened my mouth to speak, and with a cry that echoes in my memory even now, the woman threw up her arms and fell across the coffin in a swoon. The man, with a look of superstitious terror, turned and fled.

More dead than alive, I crawled out, somehow and tried to bring the woman back to consciousness. After awhile her eyes opened partly, and I saw she was better. Something—I do not know what—impelled me to bend over and kiss her brow. She looked so old and careworn.

Slowly and painfully I slunk out through the rear of the cemetery and walked till I reached some woods. I lay down where the morning sun shone through the trees, and looked up at God's blue sky for hours. At last, hungry, faint and weary, I boarded a freight train and left Jackson City far behind.

I wonder who Henry Donnelly was, and if that old and wrinkled woman, with the careworn face was his mother. Sometimes I start from my sleep, fighting, pushing back the great indefinable black thing that seems to shut me from the light.

HIGGINS LOSES APPEAL.

Convicted Assistant Soo Postmaster Is Denied New Trial.

Marquette, Mich., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to a dispatch from Grand Rapids, Federal Judge Knappen has denied the motion for a new trial asked in behalf of Frank L. Higgins, former assistant postmaster at Sault Ste. Marie, who was convicted in the United States court here last September on the charge of embezzling government funds.

The trial was the outgrowth of an alleged robbery. The night that it was committed, Higgins was found bound and gagged in the postoffice, with wounds on his head, and it was contended that he was sandbagged by robbers. Attorney H. M. Oren, who defended Higgins, asked for a retrial on the ground that new and important evidence had been discovered.

ROBBERY REWARD CASE SUBMITTED TO JUDGE.

Barnesville, Minn., Feb. 2.—Judge Taylor of the district court has taken the Great Northern robbery $5,000 reward case under advisement. Officer Delaney of the Capitol City was represented by Attorney Lyon of St. Paul, who asked $1,000 as Delaney's share in the reward. Attorney Charles S. Marden of this city, and Attorney Houpt of St. Paul, represented Chief A. D. Forsythe of this city, and Mark Madigan. A "ring" is alleged to have been formed against Delaney.

TO STUDY CONDITIONS OF ITALIAN WORKMEN HERE

AMY A. BERNARDY.

The Italian Royal Commission on Immigration has sent Miss Amy A. Bernardy through the country to study the condition of the Italian-American citizens of the United States. Miss Bernardy thinks the Italians have qualities which peculiarly fit them for citizenship in the republic. They have especially a sensitive honor power of intuition and gentleness of mind. Miss Bernardy believes that if the Italian immigrant were welcomed as an equal instead of being treated often as an inferior, there would be more chance that he would become a desirable citizen.

THE BOY

Has Right to Father's Companionship.

That boy has a right to the companionship of his father, says the Woman's Home Companion. I'm hoping some day he'll go into business with me, but I can't expect him to be interested in what interests me unless I do the same for him, can I?"

Was the father wise? Who that has seen the relation between the two did not know the boy at least was safe? Just because the boy is a member of the family bearing the family name, which he cannot change, he has a right to his share in his father's life as well as to his father's table. Almost every boy is proud of his father, and there is no greater joy than comradeship. It is his strongest anchor—and it is more—it is his right.

Polite Man!

"The politest man I ever saw was an Englishman, with an American drug clerk a close second," said the woman, relates the New York Sun. "The Englishman was drinking hot chocolate in a drug store where I went to telephone. It was an open telephone near the soda fountain. The conversation was of a confidential nature. In reply to some question from the other end of the wire I said: 'Oh, I can't tell you over the 'phone.'

"Just by chance I happened to look straight at that Englishman when I said it. Goodness knows I didn't mean anything by it, but he gave it a personal significance. He blushed, set down his cup of chocolate and said: 'Excuse me; I will retire.'

"I murmured, 'Please don't,' but he had already disappeared in the rear of the store. Then the drug clerk sneaked too, and I was left alone to talk. I just had to talk then. The information I had held back was not very important; unwillingness to give it was the real cause of my refusal, but after all that sacrifice of time and hot chocolate in my behalf I would have told whatever secret I had in mind if it had been ten times as bad."

Household Hints.

When putting away the silver tea or coffee pot which is not used every day, lay a little stick across the top under the cover. This will allow the fresh air to get in and prevent mustiness.

Clean oil cloth with a wet towel pinned over a stiff broom and rub with long sweeping strokes. To keep varnished wood looking fresh and bright, rub it thoroughly with oil from time to time. Eggs which are to be broken into water should not be broken into boiling water, as the motion destroys their shape, but let the water be as hot as possible without boiling, and then let them stand several minutes on the back of the stove. Paper bags in which many articles are sent from the grocery store should be saved for use when blacking a stove. You can slip the hand into one of these and handle the brush just as well and the hand will not be soiled, and when through with them they can be dropped into the stove.

Get from the grocer a small round head of lettuce for each person; what are called "seconds"—that is, heads of Boston lettuce from which the outer leaves have been removed; these cost only 5 cents each in winter time, and will probably be still less in spring, though, for safety's sake, it is well to allow the outer price. Wash these heads, and with a small sharp knife cut a round place in the top of each, and then cut down and around till the center is removed, leaving a cup; into this put a few halved white grapes with the seeds taken out, and with them put red California cherries, stoned, or a little grape fruit pulp, and cover just before serving with French dressing; lay each little salad on a dark green lettuce leaf when you serve it.

For boiled rice, to one cup of rice use three quarts of water, three level spoons of salt, and one teaspoonful of butter. Heat the water to boiling, add the salt and the butter, then add the rice and let it boil loudly so as to keep it in motion for twenty minutes; then drain the rice into a colander and set in a warm oven for five minutes to dry.

If women who make doughnuts and crullers would use a little less flour than the recipe calls for and stand the mixture on the ice before it is rolled out to get thoroughly chilled and stiff and then cut it and fry it quickly before it has time to soften, the cakes would be more delicate than when stirred stiff enough with flour to hold together when the paste is warm.

Women's Interests.

The suffragists are rejoicing over Mark Twain and Senator Carter of Montana as the latest recruits to their cause.

Stony Wold hall, Miss Blanche Potter's memorial to her sister, Miss Martha Potter, has been formally turned over to the Stony Wold sanatorium of New York. This hall, with other buildings included in Miss Potter's gift, cost $75,000. Mrs. Walter Geer, a sister of the Misses Potter, has given an organ to the institution.

Miss Ethel M. Arnold of London will return to America this month on her second lecture tour. She is the granddaughter of Dr. Arnold of Rugby, a niece of Matthew Arnold and a sister of Mrs. Humphry Ward. Miss Arnold is an active worker in the cause of votes for women, while Mrs. Ward is about the most prominent leader of the anti-suffragists in England.

Miss Cynthia M. Wesson of Springfield, Mass., has given $7,000 to Bryn Mawr college. Miss Wesson, who was graduated from Bryn Mawr in 1909, was prominent in the athletic affairs of the institution and her gift is to be expended toward the betterment of the swimming pool. All undergraduates are required to qualify as swimmers and this exercise is one of the most popular of the college sports.

News of Women.

The American College for Girls at Constantinople has recently been given $150,000 by Miss Helen Gould.

The majority of women in France are wage earners in one capacity or another. The average sum paid to dressmakers is 3 francs, or 60 cents a day.

Mrs. Elizabeth Cochran Seaman, better known as "Nelly Bly," the globe-girdler is now the manager of the Ironclad works of Brooklyn, a concern which employs many hands.

Mrs. Rosa Herrman is president of the H. Herrman Lumber & Furniture company, an American concern, which has branch offices in London, Hamburg and Natal. Mrs. Herrman lives in Stuyvesant square, New York.

Mrs. William Salter has been elected a member of the London county council. She is the wife of a physician who was defeated a few days ago for parliament. Mrs. Salter made a house-to-house canvass, and she credits her election to the support of women. She was opposed by two men and she topped their combined vote. The chief planks in her platform were lower rents and lower taxes, two things which appealed especially to the women in the district she now will represent in the council.

Lady Duff-Gordon is a warm admirer of the American woman. This member of the British nobility claims that an American woman can keep a secret. She says that in America, women are treated on equal terms with men. "They are better educated than English women as a rule. There is no country where woman is treated with greater courtesy. The result is seen in the independence of character and the self-reliance and dependability of the American woman."

THE EVENING STORY

THE LAST RESORT

By Ralph Record.

(Copyright, 1910. All rights reserved.)

It seemed as if the next step must be my last, but I kept on—running, running, running—till my legs felt like two brittle sticks likely to snap under the weight of my weary body. I tried to throttle with my hand the sharp pain in my side, and wondered, half-consciously, how long my heart could stand the fearful strain.

It was not my crime that sent me stumbling, breathlessly, along that stony road at 2 o'clock in the morning, with a crowd of angry farmers following a quarter of a mile behind. I was not guilty, but might as well have been.

Thank heaven! I had a good start, but of what good is a start when a man is almost dead from fatigue? If I could find a way out, a trick to deceive them! My brain worked madly as I plunged ahead with my lips wide apart and painful breath hissing between my set teeth. As I rounded a curve in the road, I saw a dark shadow ahead, and I knew it was the little wayside station. I prayed to God for a freight train. I looked up and down the track for some friendly headlight, but all was darkness.

Automatically I looked for a hiding place. A long, narrow pine box on the platform caught my eye and I shuddered thinking that tomorrow perhaps that box might inclose a corpse. Suddenly an idea flashed across my mind, made light by fear.

I touched the handscrews on the cover; they turned very easily. I pulled off the top and looked in. Heavens! It already held a coffin. I slid the lid from the black coffin and stood, shuddering at the sight of a still, white face. I drew back hastily. Up the road I saw the lanterns of my pursuers and desperation scattered all compunctions, all respect for the dead.

Dazed, scarcely knowing what I did, I reached down and pulled that cold, shrouded form from its coffin. He was heavy, that dead man, and I was tired and weak, but a false strength seemed to come to me. With a tremendous effort, I dragged him across the track and—threw him into the lake.

The lanterns were bobbing up and down, nearer and nearer; but I smiled as I moved the box cover half way up that I might manipulate it from the inside. I crawled into the coffin, drew up the cover and lay on my back, my clasp knife in my hand. Some insane instinct caused me to draw the coffin lid over me. I even laughed deliriously as I cut a whole in the side of the coffin and through the outside box. Then I waited feverishly for the coming of the furious men.

I had not long to wait. I heard them, jumping, one by one, onto the platform. One of them cursed; one came to the box, and he must have held a lantern up, for I heard him read the label: Henry Donnelly, Jackson City, Iowa."

"Here's that Donnelly's corpse, waitin' for the 3 o'clock," he said and then—I fainted.

A dim, indefinable sense of rumbling noises, like the regular roll of machinery seemed to sing to me. It lulled me gently while a swaying, rising motion seemed to carry me higher and higher till I began to wonder if I should fall. Was it the air that made breathing so hard? What was that dark spreading gloom that appeared suddenly and seemed to be racing with me? I strained every muscle—and then—a nameless horror awoke every sense. That black mass was a coffin top, the whirling wings were wheels, and I was on board a train, alone in a car—a supposed corpse—Henry Donnelly, of Jackson City, Iowa,—bound for a grave. Oh, God! Why did you not let me dream?

Again, I tried to shove the lid away, but my hands were held down. I sought for the knife I had held in my hand, but it was gone. I pressed my mouth to the hole I had cut in the side and drew in my breath. Why was it I could not get more air? At last I guessed it; the satin lining was keeping the air out. I tried to raise my hands to the place, but the lid held them down. In determination I gnawed the lining with my teeth and then I cried out with all my strength. No answer. My voice seemed almost inaudible to myself.

Again I attacked the lining with my teeth, and I thought a little more air came in, but it was such a little. I was growing weak and faint again. The thought that if it overwhelmed me, I might not awake, till it was too late—till earth covered me six feet deep—made me fight against that faintness with all my might. I set my teeth and clenched my fist tightening off the fatal flight of sense. I wrenched fiercely at the satin lining, but it nauseated me. I thought of the dead man that had lain there and it made me sick—sick of heart and sick of soul. Then I prayed that I might die. All my life I had dreaded death—now I prayed for it.

For yesterday I was not to blame. Bad company and weakness did it. Because an old road companion had asked for shelter in the farmhouse where I lived and tried to work honestly, and I had let him in and he had beaten down the good farmer and his wife and robbed them—was I to blame for that? I knew too well that the avenging neighbors would not believe that I was an accomplice. So I had fled—fled to this.

The cold face of the corpse rose before my vision. I had robbed him of his resting place, taken even his body away from his people. Nonsense, I knew, but he haunted me.

I could feel the train stop with a lurch. Could it be Jackson City? I tried to cry out, but my tongue would not obey the command of my brain. Again, the awful faintness crept over me. Again, I struggled madly. "Oh, God!" I prayed, "give me my senses, give me power to escape from the grave." Then my brain seemed to stop I knew no more.

It may have been minutes, it may have been hours, before I again awoke and my almost crazed brain brought me back to a realization of my situation. The steady whir of car wheels had ceased, but I seemed to be riding still. Then it came to me—I was in a hearse on my way to some house or church, perhaps to a cemetery. The motion stopped and I heard muffled voices.

Then—oh, thank God! They were going to open the box; some one wanted to see for the last time the face of Henry Donnelly. For a moment I doubted. Could it be! Yes, they were unscrewing the top. In sheer joy I almost fainted again.

At last, I heard the box top removed. Then, suddenly, the instinct of self-preservation came to me in another form. What would they do when they saw it was not Henry Donnelly. I should have to explain my presence there. I had committed an awful crime. I was a body snatcher.

Then I saw the light. Oh, it was grateful! Light! I had thought never to see it again. It dazzled me, and I shut my eyes. Then I opened them full and wide.

Two faces were bending over me, two faces full of horror. One was a woman's face, old, wrinkled—the other a man's, gaunt, hypocritical. I opened my mouth to speak, and with a cry that echoes in my memory even now, the woman threw up her arms and fell across the coffin in a swoon. The man, with a look of superstitious terror, turned and fled.

More dead than alive, I crawled out, somehow and tried to bring the woman back to consciousness. After awhile her eyes opened partly, and I saw she was better. Something—I do not know what—impelled me to bend over and kiss her brow. She looked so old and careworn.

Slowly and painfully I slunk out through the rear of the cemetery and walked till I reached some woods. I lay down where the morning sun shone through the trees, and looked up at God's blue sky for hours. At last, hungry, faint and weary, I boarded a freight train and left Jackson City far behind.

I wonder who Henry Donnelly was, and if that old and wrinkled woman, with the careworn face was his mother. Sometimes I start from my sleep, fighting, pushing back the great indefinable black thing that seems to shut me from the light.

HIGGINS LOSES APPEAL.

Convicted Assistant Soo Postmaster Is Denied New Trial.

Marquette, Mich., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to a dispatch from Grand Rapids, Federal Judge Knappen has denied the motion for a new trial asked in behalf of Frank L. Higgins, former assistant postmaster at Sault Ste. Marie, who was convicted in the United States court here last September on the charge of embezzling government funds.

The trial was the outgrowth of an alleged robbery. The night that it was committed, Higgins was found bound and gagged in the postoffice, with wounds on his head, and it was contended that he was sandbagged by robbers. Attorney H. M. Oren, who defended Higgins, asked for a retrial on the ground that new and important evidence had been discovered.

ROBBERY REWARD CASE SUBMITTED TO JUDGE.

Barnesville, Minn., Feb. 2.—Judge Taylor of the district court has taken the Great Northern robbery $5,000 reward case under advisement. Officer Delaney of the Capitol City was represented by Attorney Lyon of St. Paul, who asked $1,000 as Delaney's share in the reward. Attorney Charles S. Marden of this city, and Attorney Houpt of St. Paul, represented Chief A. D. Forsythe of this city, and Mark Madigan. A "ring" is alleged to have been formed against Delaney.

DULUTH PORT RANKS SECOND TO NEW YORK IN TONAGE HANDLED

increase of 73,054,000 feet and an increase in value of $1,875,118 over 1908. Hard coal is on the increase, as is iron ore and general merchandise. There is a slight falling off on soft coal, flour, wheat, and other grains.

July, August, September and October were busy freight months and they exceeded those of 1908 by many thousand tons.

The shipment of iron ore was very heavy. There was an increase of 8,414,006 tons over 1908, with an increase in valuation of $24,969,396.

Heavy Passenger Business.

More people took the lake trip during 1909 than ever before. The report says that 51,423 people arrived and departed during the season. More and more is the Great Lakes becoming a popular outing place and this is encouraging, as in years gone by some of the passenger boats had to be made over into freighters to make them pay. The passenger business was good last year and it promises to be better the coming season.

Extracts from the report follow:

"All tons in this report are of 2,000 pounds

"Total vessel freight received and shipped, 32,529,301 tons, valued at $261,509,159.

"Increase in freight tonnage over 1890, 1,040 per cent.

"Increase in freight tonnage during the past year, 36.69 per cent.

"It is impossible to give precise figures of the marine commerce of the principal ports of the United States for comparison with Duluth-Superior harbor, for the reason that at ocean ports of the United States as well as of foreign countries, no record of domestic tonnage is kept at the custom houses, whereas on the Great Lakes a record is kept of the total marine commerce; both foreign and domestic. In the principal ocean ports of the United States the tonnage of the local and coastwise (domestic) marine commerce is several times greater than that of the foreign.

"Any comparison, therefore, of the relative marine commerce of lake and ocean ports, based solely upon custom house records is, for the reason stated, incorrect and misleading.

"However, the custom house records of the marine commerce of ports on the Great Lakes are very incomplete for the reason that no account is kept of the movement of freight or passage of vessels between sub-ports of a district, and as, in the case of the Duluth and Superior customs districts on Lake Superior, numerous sub-ports are included which do an important business with each other, none of which is required to be reported to the custom houses, a large amount of the commerce of any particular port is unknown to the custom houses. Furthermore, a vessel may enter or clear from the port or any sub-port of a district, report its cargo, and subsequently load or unload the whole or any part of its cargo at any other subport of the same district without further action at the custom house.

"The statistics of the marine commerce of this port are obtained as follows: The master or clerk of every vessel entering or departing from Duluth-Superior harbor makes a report to this office covering the name of the vessel, the net registered tonnage of same, whether light or loaded, and, if loaded, what the cargo consists of, whether, in entering, the vessel is destined for Duluth or Superior, etc., all as provided by the act of congress approved Feb. 21, 1891. These reports, so far as the arrival and departure of vessels is concerned, are then checked against the lists of vessels arriving at and departing from the harbor, furnished by the watchmen employed by this office, and stationed at the entrances to the harbor, which lists have previously been entered in record books provided for that purpose. Should any vessel master fail to make his report a special request is made for it. The vessel reports are also checked against the iron ore dock reports, the board of trade records of grain shipments, etc.

"The navigation season for Duluth-Superior harbor averages only about eight months per annum, while for ocean ports navigation is carried on during twelve months. Considering the mean monthly freight movement during the season of navigation, Duluth-Superior harbor practically stands next to New York.

Remarks on Commerce.

"Vessel Tonnage—Net registered tonnage is used, and is obtained from vessel reports made to this office, and checked by official marine directories.

"Valuations — Freight valuations were obtained from the various trade journals, commercial records, and the principal wholesale dealers, and are based on average wholesale prices on board vessels for exports, and landed on wharves for imports.

"Hard coal shows an increase of 96,553 tons over 1908, with an increase in valuation amounting to $603,457.

"Wheat and other grains show a decrease of 2,586,313 bushels under 1908, with a decrease in valuation of $1,010,897.

"Iron ore shows an increase of 8,414,006 tons over 1908, with an increase in valuation amounting to $24,969,396.

"Lumber shows an increase of 73,054,000 feet and an increase in valuation amounting to $1,875,118 over 1908.

"Logs—The receipt of logs by water has ceased to be a factor in the marine commerce of this port.

"Oils show a decrease of 24,713 barrels, and a decrease in valuation of $166,535 under 1908.

"The total number of passengers arriving and departing was 51,423.

"Average net registered tonnage recorded at Duluth, exclusive of tugs, 3,058.

"Vessels recorded at Duluth canal were: entering, 4,385; departing, 4,273; total, 8,658.

"The navigation season covered a period of 250 days. This is reckoned from the first departure or arrival to the last departure or arrival, to or from the lower lakes. The open season for Duluth-Superior harbor to and from Lake Superior ports only, was much longer, as some local boats ran all but two months of the year.

"Duluth canal—First departure for lower lakes, April 17; first boat entered from lower lakes, April 28; last boat departed for lower lakes Dec. 10; last boat arrived from lower lakes Dec. 22; north shore boats were running at close of calendar year.

"Wisconsin entry—First boat arrived from lower lakes, April 28; first boat departed for lower lakes, April 27; last boat arrived from lower lakes Dec. 8; last boat departed for lower lakes, Dec. 9.

tribution designated by the donors. Societe des Dames Francaises has closed its subscription and the relief work is now concentrated in the hands of the public charities department of the French Red Cross society.

Distribute 100,000 Loaves.

Ambassador Bacon, who has made personal visits to many of the hospitals, soup kitchens and temporary places of refuge, appears enthusiastic over the effectiveness of the relief organization and intelligent system by which aid is rendered. The Red Cross has more than 500 privately owned automobiles at its disposal and fifty-three relief depots have been established in Paris and suburbs. It is estimated that the public charities department and the Red Cross are distributing daily more than 100,000 loaves of bread.

The flood situation continues to improve rapidly. Except in the Javel quarter, the twelfth arrondissement, and a few isolated spots on the left bank of the River Seine, the waters have almost wholly receded from the streets of Paris. The retreating waters have exposed to view great gaps in the pavements; while stranded boats and scattered wreckage indicate how far the river wandered from a normal course.

Weeks of Work Ahead.

The work of disinfection and the restoring of the transportation system is proceeding energetically, but the progress is necessarily slow. It will be many days and probably weeks before the telegraph and telephone systems, the surface railways and the railroad lines are again on a normal basis.

The plain below Paris as far as St. Germain-en-Laye is still under several feet of water.

recent disasters, namely, long suspense. Within a few minutes after the explosion the fans had sucked the workings almost clear of deadly gases, and rescue parties were able to descend and begin to dig through the wreckage. No fire followed the explosion, and the ventilating apparatus was unharmed by the shock.

The rescue party found a scene of destruction that left no doubt as to the fate of the men. The first bodies recovered were in fairly good condition, the men having been smothered to death and not mutilated by the explosion, but as the party pushed on they found bodies so mutilated as to be unrecognizable.

Still Hope For Foreman.

Peter Kelly, the missing foreman, has been in mine accidents before, and frequently had told his wife that should an explosion ever occur where he was at work he would escape somehow, either by rushing to the air shaft or to some safe part of the mine, and the members of his family are still hopeful that he has escaped the fate of his men. The mine officials, however, fear that Kelly is dead.

State Mine Inspector Prof. C. J. Norwood said that the Browder mine had given the inspectors some uneasiness on account of peculiar gasy conditions, and therefore had been inspected oftener than required by law. The mine has been visited at least once a month.

WILL EXPORT PIANO.

Baudette Man Buys One in Brainerd to Ship to Sweden.

Brainerd, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is something unusual to buy pianos in America, to ship to Europe, and more than unusual to buy them as for inland as this. John Parsons of Baudette, purchased of a piano agency in this city, a French walnut piano, which will be shipped to Gottenburg, Sweden, as a present to his sister. The piano will be used for three months by Mr. Parsons, after which it becomes an article of household furniture, and can be shipped without payment of duty. It will go via the Great Lakes from Duluth next spring.

GROUNDHOG DID NOT SEE HIS SHADOW.

Duluth will have an early spring if the groundhog tradition holds out this year. The groundhog is supposed to emerge from his place of hibernation today to look around. If he sees the sun, he goes back for six weeks. The sky is heavily overcast today and the groundhog saw no shadow.

SWITCHMEN'S BENEFIT DANCE BIG SUCCESS.

Brainerd, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The benefit performance given at the Bijou theater, Monday evening, in behalf of the striking switchmen, was a success. Seven hundred and fifty tickets were taken at the door, and many were sold, which were never presented. It is thought that the affair netted about $200 for the fund in behalf of the strikers.

WOMEN STAND BY BOYCOTT

Some Husbands Insist on Steak Once a Day, However.

Mrs. Mary MacInnis was given a surprise party last night at her home, 630 West Fourth street, by members of the Women's International Label league who presented her with a token of their esteem.

The women told how they are keeping their pledges not to eat meat. About seventy were present and all said they had not touched meat since Monday and they may extend their pledge after Feb. 14, the date of its expiration. Some of the women said their husbands had been eating meat three times a day and that the "brutes" objected to being cut off from steaks entirely, so this class of provender was reduced to once a day, an arrangement that the men seem to like.

Mrs. MacInnis has just returned from Chicago where, she says, the meat boycott aided in causing a reduction in prices.

Believed His Wife a Witch.

Wausau, Wis., Feb. 2.—Albert Bunde of Johnson was taken to the Northern Hospital for the Insane. He was convinced his wife was a witch and that she bewitched his food, medicine and bed, and took nightly trips through the air on a broom. As protection against her alleged charms Bunde was in the habit of shooting his revoler into the air at what he claimed was his witch wife, and his friends decided he would be safer in an asylum to which he was committed by the probate judge after an examination.

LAST RITES FOR BISHOP

Body of Late Cyrus D. Foss Is Taken to His Boyhood Home.

Impressive Funeral Service in Philadelphia---He Had Served in Minneapolis.

Philadelphia, Feb. 2.—Funeral services that were in keeping with his high station in the Methodist Episcopal church were held Tuesday afternoon at Arch Street church for Bishop Cyrus D. Foss, the large auditorium of the edifice being crowded with mourners. Today the body was taken to Pawling, N. Y., for interment near the bishop's boyhood home.

Four bishops participated in the services, which were in charge of Rev. Dr. George H. Bickley, pastor of Arch Street church, of which the late bishop's family are members.

Addresses were made by Rev. Frank Mason North of the New York City Church Extension society; Bishop Luther B. Wilson of this city, and Bishop W. F. McDowell of Chicago. Following the warm tributes paid in these addresses, Bishop Earl Granston of Washington, D. C., offered prayer and the services closed with the benediction pronounced by Bishop D. H. Moore of Cincinnati.

Prior to the public obsequies, private services attended by the family only were held in the bishop's late home. These were conducted by Bishop Wilson.

Guard of Ministers.

A guard of honor selected from among the ministers of Philadelphia, remained in the church after the services to act as a guard about the bier throughout the night.

Bisop Foss died Sunday night in Hahneman hospital, Philadelphia, at the age of 76 years. He was stricken Jan. 18.

Bishop Foss lived in Minneapolis in 1883 and was a resident there for about four years. Foss M. E. church, Minneapolis, takes its name from him. He was a bishop at that time, having been elected in 1880.

In 1854 Bishop Foss graduated at Wesleyan university, Middletown, Conn. He was instructor in Amenia seminary thereafter and became an itinerant preacher in 1854. He received the degree of L.L. D. at Cornell college, Mount Vernon, Iowa, in 1879, and at the University of Pennsylvania in 1889.

Bishop Foss was a delegate to the British Wesleyan conference in 1886 and he visited officially the Methodist Episcopal missions in Europe in that year, traveling through Mexico on a similar mission in 1893, in India and Malaysia in 1897 and 1898, completing a tour of missionary observation that took him around the world in 1906 and 1907.

He has presided over the conferences of the Northwest several times and was well known by the Methodist clergy in general, and in particular by the older preachers.

TINY CHILD OF SEVEN MAKES LONG JOURNEY FROM FAR-OFF AUSTRIA ALONE

A forerunner of the swarm of immigration that is promised for the Northwest the coming spring reached Duluth today in the tiny person of Ivan Ivanich, properly tagged and labeled. The child of 7 made the long, tedious trip from the faraway province of Galicia, in Northern Austria, on the borders of Russia.

Whether the boy's parents reside in Austria, or whether they came to this country without the lad and are having him sent to them cannot be learned from the card that accompanies the bundle of human baggage. It is said that he had a protector as far as Chicago.

Two cards are on the boy. One is written in Polish; the other in English. In a tiny pocket, buttoned by three tiny buttons, that look as if they might have been the cautious device of a woman's hand, is the transportation that has carried the lad from a foreign country to Duluth. On the card that is tied around the little chap's neck, much as any one would tie a tag on a piece of inanimate freight, is the direction for finding the transportation.

The boy is tiny. He has big blue eyes that look out upon a new and strange world with unsuspecting innocence. He is dressed in the roughest and strangest garb, with pantolets reaching half way between the knee and the little foot. His legs are clad in blue stockings of a rough fabric, and his coat is of a rough corduroy, such as woodsmen often wear.

Around the child's neck is a flaming scarf and on his head he wore a little woolen cap with a gay tassel. The funniest little overcoat covered the boy, making him appear like a cub bear. It is fur and almost swept the floor as the little fellow stood in the waiting room of the depot this morning. He looked like a little brownie from the pen of Elmer Cox.

The child is tagged for Eveleth. He reached Duluth this morning and left the city this afternoon for the range.

He carried a little basket of lunch with him.

He was not without friends this morning at the depot. He was the pet of a half dozen women, and other children in the women's waiting room advanced shyly to the child, one little girl touching his hand and smiling at the boy of another world.

He was fed and petted and cared for generally. Perhaps this happened on trains and at every place the boy stopped. And the peculiar part of it all was that not one of the women who were fussing over the child could speak a language that was the least intelligible to the blue-eyed boy.

There is not a man, no matter how uncouth or rough, who would have the heart to deny the child anything. One look out of the big childish eyes would do more than all the instructions of the tag tied to the boy. The child could not talk in a language that could be understood by any one that happened to be in the waiting room. But the face and eyes of the tiny mite spoke a language that was universal.

SHERMAN BUTTS INTO CAMPAIGN

Gives Support to Scott of West Virginia Against Representative.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Vice President Sherman has injected his influence into the senatorial contest in West Virginia, where Senator Scott's re-election is being opposed by Representative Hubbard. The proceeding is so unusual that it probably will attract considerable attention in political circles. The vice president issued a statement in interview form in which he says:

"West Virginia would indeed be shortsighted if she failed to avail herself of the opportunity to retain the services of a business man, who at all times has looked after the interests of the state, in every way possible, to advance the great development that is now taking place. Such a senator is Mr. Scott, and in my opinion, it would be a misfortune not to continue in the senate, such an earnest Republican, and so influential a legislator."

He then paid a warm tribute to Mr. Scott's legislative career and said the report that there is a campaign in progress to prevent the senator's return, seems amost incredible to him.

WANT PEARY RAISED TO BE REAR ADMIRAL.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Commander Robert E. Peary may be officially recognized by congress as the discoverer of the North Pole, and promoted to the rank of rear-admiral of the navy. The Maine delegation last night voted to empower one of its members to introduce a resolution to that effect. Commander Peary is a resident of Maine.

Grape-Nuts

Try the change.

You will feel "fit as a lord" in a week's time by breakfasting on Grape-Nuts and cream, a little fruit, a soft boiled egg, some nice, crisp toast, and a cup of well-made Postum.

If you ever try this experiment, you will always bless the day you woke up.

There's a reason why Grape-Nuts food furnishes power to the body and brain. It is made of selected parts of the field grains that furnish phosphate of potash in a natural state that can be assimilated by the human body. This joins with the albumen of food and forms the gray matter of the brain and nerve centers.

Feed skilfully and you can "do things."

The greatest brain workers eat Grape-Nuts.

Ask one or two, they'll tell you.

You meat eaters who are ailing in any sort of way should take the hint.

A prominent authority says:

"There is no doubt of the fact that meat-eating is not essential to human life, and that men can be well nourished without resorting to a flesh diet.

"I think the statement may be accepted without question that, as a rule, we eat too much, not only of meat, but of all forms of food. The question of limiting the diet is based primarily not on the principle of economy, but on the requirements of hygiene.

"At the early breakfasts which Americans are wont to indulge in, that is, a hearty meal before going to their daily work, the omission of meat is to be earnestly advised.

"It is well known that men who are nourished very extensively on certain cereals are capable of the hardest and most enduring labor."

You can depend on the energy from Grape-Nuts longer than from any meal of meat.

SENSATION AT CARMAN

The Green-Casey Combination Tries Again to Get Control of Mine.

Mexican Judge and Perfecto Removed From Office as Result.

Douglas, Ariz., Feb. 2.—Following a successful attempt in what is alleged to be an effort of the Green-Casey combination to secure title to the Maria property of the Carman holdings in the district of Arizpe, state of Sonora, Senior Alcoser, judge of the court of first instance at the city of Arizpe, and also the perfecto of the district have been removed from office, with grave charges of official chicanery pending against both. An order for the arrest of Judge Alcoser was issued several days ago, accusing him on several counts of embezzlement, and the order doubtless has been executed by this time. The perfecto, Elias, is charged with malfeasance in office under a civil action which also seeks damages for attempting to cloud the Carman company's title to the Maria mine.

This sensational turn of events in the official circles of Arizpe district followed an equally sensational event in which Charles B. Bell, the Douglas mining man, was the central figure, and in which an effort, based upon questionable proceedings, was made to oust him from the Carman property, where he is directing operations. Just here a wee bit of recent Carman history, vouched for upon the best available authority, is essential. In purchasing the Casey holdings at the Carman, a deed was secured by the Carman company for the Maria mine, and this deed was left with Judge Alcoser for filing.

Deed Not Filed.

The judge was paid about $40 for filing the deed and a receipt from him is in the possession of the Carman company. But for some reason, known best to the judge and others who may have been vitally interested, the deed was never recorded by him. D. T. Green of the Green-Casey combination, who formerly was one of the proprietors of the Elmo bar in this city, it is alleged, was informed that the deed to the Maria was never recorded, the alleged medium of this information being one Ysidra Escobosa, a paroled convict, who was acting as clerk to Judge Alcoser.

Armed with the information that the deed to the Maria had never been filed, Green is said to have sought out Perfecto Elias and secured his co-operation. The upshot of the affair was that the perfecto issued a demand that Mr. Bell vacate the property at once. This is said to have been served upon Bell by the commisario of Las Chispas. Bell met the situation firmly.

"The keys are here in my pocket," he said to the officer; "take them if you think best. The office doors are locked and to get in you will have to use an ax; try that if you want to."

It is perhaps needless to say that Bell spoke in no mollycoddle tones of voice, for his intonation contained more of a threat than did his words. And it is also needless to say that the commisario left Bell's presence without making an attempt either to secure the keys or to break in the doors of the office.

Both Officials Removed.

Seeing that he could get no relief from the district authorities, Bell took the matter right to Hermonsillo, and his representations, coming on top of other transactions of a similar character, resulted in the immediate removal of the judge and perfecto.

When the new judge assumed his robes, the matter of the Maria deed was presented him, and the instrument was immediately recorded. Along with it, he ruled that D. T. Green had no title or interest in the Maria mine.

This is another chapter in the Casey-Carman fight which has been going on for a year or more. There are numerous indictments and civil actions against Casey, between Douglas and El Paso, while Casey has started litigation against the Carman company also.

John P. Casey, Jr., chanced to arrive in the city yesterday and he was seen by a representative of the Dispatch, who advised him that any statement he cared to make in connection with the foregoing would be published. He said he was not informed as to the alleged incidents at the Carman.

"I haven't anything to say," he declared, "except this; I stand on my contracts both in Mexico and the United States. Further than that, there is nothing to say."

TOM L. JOHNSON SERIOUSLY ILL

May Never Recover---Has Lost Half His Former Wealth.

Cleeland, Ohio, Feb. 2.—Tom L. Johnson, former mayor of Cleveland, and the man who brought 3-cent street-car fare to this city, is seriously ill in a sanitarium at White Plains, N. Y., according to private advices received here.

The ex-mayor left this city shortly after New Year's to take a rest. Yesterday information came that he was very sick in a sanitarium near there. While his friends refuse to discuss the matter, it is reported on very good authority that he has Bright's disease and may never recover.

He has been ailing for over a year, and from the strong, fleshy man he formerly was has fallen away until he weighs hardly more than half his normal weight.

BIG BRYAN WELCOME.

New York Friends Plan Triumphal Entry "Back From Elba."

New York, Feb. 2.—Not to be outdone by the "back from Elba" movement of the Roosevelt Republicans, the Bryan wing of New York Democracy is planning a triumphal entry for William Jennings Bryan when he arrives in this city in the last week of next month.

A gigantic reception and entertainment, at which Mr. Bryan will speak, is being planned. Stress is being laid on the fact that it will be free and a great attendance is looked for. While Mr. Bryan will be programmed to speak of his travels, Democrats will not be surprised if political utterances creep into his speech.

Among the members of the reception committee are Norman Mack, Robert C. Titus, E. J. Elias, John Lynne and many others equally as prominent.

"We shall make this one of the greatest affairs of the year, and we hope to make it one of moment in New York state politics," said Mr. Elias yesterday.

THREE BLIND PIGGERS ARE GIVEN FREEDOM.

Bottineau, N. D., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Three men charged with violating the prohibition law are now free. They are Charles Brent of Bottineau, Abraham Fladland of Overly and L. J. Turner of Bottineau, and the fact that there was but a small amount of evidence against them made their discharge necessary.

During the term of county court, just closed, Christ Dahl, Joe Green and W. H. Kinnie were found guilty of blindpigging, while W. G. Davidson of Willow River and Steve Odekirk failed to appear and their bonds were ordered forfeited, bench warrants for their rearrest being issued.

WOULD GO TO CONGRESS.

G. L. Shumway to Oppose Kinkaid in Sixth Nebraska District.

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 2.—G. L. Shumway of Scottsbluff, Neb., is announced as a candidate for congress from the Sixth district, at the election to be held next fall. Mr. Shumway is an able man, a sound Democrat, and thoroughly fitted to succeed Congressman Kinkaid. For several years past, Mr. Shumway has been in attendance at irrigation, industrial and commercial congresses. Invariably he has been right on subjects of irrigation, forestry, conservation and the public domain, endeavoring to encourage actual settlers and eliminate speculation and graft. He will, if elected, be a strong man in congress, and a safe friend of the people.

THE ELECTION.

By a decisive vote the citizens of Duluth yesterday returned Dr. M. B. Cullum to the mayor's office, defeating Roland D. Haven, the Republican incumbent. The temptation is strong to go into an analysis of the reasons therefor, and to go deeper into those reasons than an acceptance of the obvious truth that Cullum won because he got more votes than Haven did, but what boots it to do so? The people have spoken, and there is the result. It might be said that Mayor Haven was elected upon certain definite promises, and that his policy in carrying out these promises was so unfortunate that to a considerable degree he alienated many in both camps of the so-called "moral issues." It might be said, too, that not enough was made in the campaign of the credit brought to his administration by the strong official family with which Mayor Haven surrounded himself. Certain departments, notably the legal department and the health department, are highly creditable, and it is a pity that the exigencies of political fate should make it likely that they will be disturbed.

But there is the result: Mayor Haven is defeated and Dr. Cullum wins. The winner is no stranger. He served four years in the mayor's office, and while his administrations were characterless enough, two years had elapsed during which there was ample chance to forget their inanity. Yet those four years gave Dr. Cullum experience that should prove valuable to him in the coming term. The Herald wishes him abundance of success. It pledges him its warmest support in all good works for the upbuilding of Duluth. It takes its seat in the gallery expectantly, prepared to enjoy the show, and with a free disposition to applaud heartily when applause is deserved and to hiss as heartily when the acting is bad.

The ward results place the entire city administration in Democratic hands, and while partisan lines were not drawn, it would be overlooking a real cause to neglect the fact that the prevailing unrest and suspicion leads many to look with doubt upon candidates bearing the Republican label.

The approval of the water and light bond issue is a good and creditable result. Out of the indifference regarding the amendments—an indifference that is not nearly so creditable—the first three amendments struggled to victory. These provide that the city shall pay the cost of paving street intersections and storm sewers, that vehicles shall pay a wheelage tax for the use of the streets, and that a fund shall be created for street maintenance. As usual, the total vote dwindled steadily down the list, and the strength of the voters held out only long enough to approve the first four propositions. The fourth charter amendment, that providing for band concerts, was unfortunately defeated, and so were the ones reorganizing the public works department and increasing the salary of the city assessor. The Chan Smith amendments were decisively rejected, losing not only because many failed to vote for them, but because a greater number voted against them. It is clearly evident that the people do not wish to embark upon the experiment proposed in these amendments, and it is to be hoped that the last has been heard of them.

GRANDMA DOWN THE WELL.

Thomas L. Masson in Life tells a story that reminds us of many things—especially of the way public business doesn't get done. The usual history of a public movement is that its need exists for so long that everybody sees it, but the move doesn't come until patience has been completely worn out; and then, perhaps, the patient is dead. The story is worth being told in condensed form because it will remind so many people of the way so many things need to be done and are not done.

"Little Bobbie Pankton's grandma had fallen down the well," the story begins. Bobbie heard her groaning and reported the situation to his mother. Consulting her engagement pad, Mrs. Pankton found that unfortunately she was due at a bridge party, so she called up her sister Adele, who lived across the street. "Adele was one of the accommodating kind, the kind that always promises but never performs"; so she said she would do the best she could, and she telephoned the fire department about it and went to a bridge party. The fire department made a memorandum about it, the firemen being out on a fire, and when they returned they said of course they couldn't do anything about it, as it wasn't in their line, so they called up the doctor. The doctor said he had no appliances on hand for getting old ladies out of wells, but nevertheless he called and left a prescription for grandma, saying he would call some day to see how she was getting along. On his way out he suggested to the waitress that she give grandma some chicken broth, but she said she wasn't hired to feed chicken broth to old ladies in wells.

When Mrs. Pankton got home at 6 o'clock she was greatly annoyed to think that her mother was still in the well, and she said it was just like Adele not to attend to it. She complained about it to her husband when he came home, but he said he never was good at mechanical jobs, and besides it was his wife's funeral anyway, as she attended to the household end of it, didn't she? He suggested sending for Murphy, the contractor, but his men were all union men, and besides it would be necessary to get an estimate from him, and that would take time and delay grandma, who would be needed to help the girl make beds next morning. Mr. Pankton shrugged his shoulder and kicked because his quiet evening at home was spoiled, and went off to the club. A neighbor dropped in and said probably grandma had got all covered with typhoid germs by this time, so she proposed to inform the board of health, and she did. Grandma's groans resounded through the night, and other neighbors telephoned that the Panktons were disturbing the peace. The police department was notified, but it said there was nothing in the state Constitution about old ladies in wells, and it could do nothing.

Next morning the health officer, the doctor, Murphy the contractor, the chief of police and several neighbors arrived, but on looking over the ground each declined to act. Pankton was desperate. He said that if this thing kept up the price of real estate would depreciate in that neighborhood. He said his wife ought to do something about it, if only as a matter of pride. Mrs. Pankton said he needn't worry; everything would come out all right. The trouble with him was that he was in too much of a hurry. She sat down and wrote several letters about it. The Ladies' Home Journal took it up, declaring flatly in favor of grandma, and said it was high time public opinion were being stirred up. The Woman's Home Companion published several heartrending pictures, Charles Edward Russell wrote it up for Everybody's, the American magazine and McClure's took bold stands, and the newspapers took it up. The Daughters of the Revolution and the Colonial Dames supplied grandma with soup and toast by popular subscription.

One day two months later Mrs. Pankton looked out of an upper story window and saw the doctor, the chief of the fire department, the chief of police, the health officer and Contractor Murphy, helping grandma out of the well, while the village band played "My Country, 'Tis of Thee."

"I have always maintained," said Mr. Pankton, "that, give the American people time enough, they will rise to any emergency!"

MORE SIGNIFICANT RETURNS.

As was shown by a statement published last evening, the average daily circulation of The Herald during January was nearly 26,000 copies—25,958, to be exact.

The first of the year The Herald published a statement showing that its average for the preceding six months was over 25,000. Now it is nearly 26,000—and this compares with 23,069 for January a year ago, a gain of 2,889.

The Herald naturally is pleased with this growth, for many reasons. It shows that Duluth and its tributary territory are gaining. It shows that readers appreciate The Herald's endeavors to meet their needs. It shows that advertisers are getting each day more return for their investment.

Also, The Herald would again call attention to the fact that its circulation, during the twenty years of its present management, has been gained entirely without the use of premiums, contests or other methods of creating artificial circulation. Its subscribers have not been bribed with tinsel gifts, but gained on its merits as a newspaper.

AMERICA WITHOUT PROTECTION.

A defender of the Aldrich-Payne tariff bill demands to be told what would have become of this country without protection.

After making it clear that nobody knows what would have happened to this country if it ever had had a chance to experiment with really honest protection, wisely contrived for the best interests of all instead of being dishonestly contrived for the selfish interests of a greedy and powerful few, anybody is entitled to make his guess about what would have happened if there had been no protection at all, but only a tariff for revenue with its incidental protection; and here is ours:

The nation would have developed more slowly in many ways. Certain manufacturing industries that could better have been conducted in other lands, but were developed here at great expense by the hothouse forcing method of heavy tariff taxation, would not have been attempted at all. Certain other industries that, for natural reasons, could be conducted best on this continent, would have flourished, perhaps more slowly and cautiously than they have under a tariff frankly devised for protective purposes.

The nation today would have had very much less wealth, but its wealth would have been distributed much more equally.

The nation today would be much less populous, but the people would be much more homogeneous racially, much simpler in their scale of living, and much happier and far more contented.

The American cities that are the wonder of the world would be much smaller, but their people would be better employed and less menaced by poverty.

There would be a vastly greater proportion of the population living upon and directly from the soil, and therefore a greater proportion of the population would be comfortable and independent and free from the waiting wolf at the door.

The rape of the country's natural resources, hastened that manufacturers might get rich quick, would have been prevented. There would have been less development of these natural riches, but there would be that much more left to develop.

American politics would have missed the corrupting touch of greedy special interests, seeking tariff favors and willing to buy or bribe parties and public servants to get them; therefore this would be more a government of, by and for the people, and less a government of the people by and for Special Privilege.

There would be less prosperity and less wealth in the mass, and more prosperity and more wealth in the masses. There would be fewer billionaires, but there would be fewer paupers. The national wealth would be expressed in smaller figures, but the average wealth would be expressed in larger figures. The peaks of "boom" times would be lower, but the dark valleys of hard times would be fewer and shallower and easier to cross. There would be fewer private fortunes made out of lumber, but there would be more trees left in the forests. There would be fewer private fortunes made out of stock jobbery and stock watering, but capitalization of existing industries would be more honest, and the people would be paying dividends on real values and not inflated ones.

That's one guess. Anybody can make his own guess, and it will be colored by his personal convictions. Mr. Cannon, no doubt, would guess that without protection this country still would be a wilderness; and he is as freely entitled to guess as anybody.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about live topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

DEFENDS SHIP SUBSIDY AGAIN.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In Saturday's Herald A. G. Catlin again argues against the ship subsidy bill, and fearing that some might be misled by his statements, I want to again come to its defense.

In the first place he quotes, or pretends to quote, parts of the treaty between the United States and the sultan of the Jolo Archipelago. Now I could quote a few passages from that treaty myself that would prove him in error, but as he said that he did not mean to commit treason when he said that the United States gave a bribe to the sultan, we will let it go for the time being.

Again he says: "From all the data that it has been my good fortune to examine as yet, however, I cannot very well avoid conceiving the idea, probably from a hasty thought, that there seems to be a tendency to pass a bill that would pay out of the treasury a sum of money to have a line of ships travel between particular ports of ours and ports of foreign countries, flying the American flag."

He certainly did get that idea from a hasty thought, or else he did not get very many facts. And he seems to have an idea that the congressmen, who favor the bill are taking advantage of the patriotism of the American people. This is a mistake as the American people are too well educated to be fooled by a ruse of that kind.

And another thing, he seems to want to convey the idea that the congressmen who favor the bill want it passed for private reasons. Now what right has Mr. Catlin to question the honesty of any of our congressmen? He then says that the ship subsidy is for defense of special interests. How could a subsidy, providing that the ships carrying our flags shall transport supplies to our navy in time of war, be of defense to special interests.

He says our navy would undoubtedly go and capture supplies from the enemy. He does not think of the risk of ships and men; or does he mean that our American sailors should rob the poor peasantry, who had nothing to do with the war. I do not think that any American gentleman would ever think of doing such a thing.

And lastly he advises me to think before I write. I think that if A. G. Catlin of Aitkin had applied that to himself I would not have seen fit to write this letter. That is all I have to say.

PAY OF ELEVATOR OPERATORS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I would like to remark about the pay that elevator operators are receiving at the present time. In most of the large buildings of Duluth they are paid $50 and $55 a month. But in the mercantile establishments the wages vary from $7 to $9 a week.

A person has to pass the same examination and be just as careful on the latter elevators as on the former, yet the employers of the stores think they are paying a good deal. The operator has to dress well and he is also required by law to be 18 years old before he can get a license. I have been running elevators for nearly a year so know something of the subject.

REVISE THE DIRECTORY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Being a frequent visitor at the city hall I have been astonished at times at the lax methods in some respects. For instance the directory in the hall informs one that the courtrooms are downstairs. People not knowing that there has been a change and that the rooms are now located upstairs over an entirely new building make their way down the stairs, search in vain for the courtrooms and wonder where they are. On inquiring, they find that they have been removed. Surely this can be easily remedied. Only the names have to be changed. It would save many a trip down into the basement.

Duluth, Feb. 2.

Defending Dr. Cook.

Ellis O. Jones in Life: The turpitudinosity, if any, of Dr. Cook, does not lie in the fact that he made money out of the North Pole business, but rather that he did not make more. It was not that he deceived us, but rather that he deceived us in a way to which we were unused.

But, let's see. What did he do? He merely gave out a tip concerning North Pole common. We bought largely of the stock which he desired to unload. Then we found that the stock was worthless. Nothing new about that. Let's not get excited over this matter. We have stood much worse without a whimper. This advice is intended chiefly for the New York Times, which does not seem to understand the situation. In a recent animadversion upon Dr. Cook's career in high finance, the Times saw fit to print the following:

"There has been a certain likeness in all these episodes—in each there was the desire to make money, combined with the yearning for personal glory, and in each there appeared the same unscrupulousness as to the means used in attaining them. Always, too, there was the same inability to forsee exposure—or the same indifference to it."

Exactly. But since when did not such qualities, far from being incriminating, lead to places of honor in the community? "Now," continues the Times, "whether this be madness or a mere lack of moral and intellectual honesty, is a matter of definition. In ordinary life such men are not called insane." No, indeed, they are not. They are called successful, self-made men, and held up as shining examples to oncoming generations.

Cook's worst mistake was in not sitting tight. Had he had the stamina of Patten, the wheat king, he might by this time be endowing churches. But for an arctic explorer, he seems to have got cold feet altogether too quickly.

A Ballad of Woman.

She bore us in her dreaming womb,
  And laughed into the face of Death;
She laughed, in her strange agony—
  To give her little baby breath.

Then, by some holy mystery,
  She fed us from her sacred breast,
Soothed us with little birdlike words—
  To rest—to rest—to rest—to rest;

Yea, softly fed us with her life—
  Her bosom like the world in May:
Can it be true that men, thus fed,
  Feed women—as I hear them say?

I wonder if such men as these
  Had once a sister with blue eyes,
Kind as the soothing hand of God,
  And as the quiet heaven wise.

I wonder, when all friends had gone—
  The gay companions, the brave men—
If in some fragile girl they found
  Their only stay and comrade then.

Shall she who bore the Son of God,
  And made the rose of Sappho's song,
She who saved France, and beat the drum
  Of freedom, bear this vulgar wrong?

Have no part in the world she made—
  Serf of the rainbow, vassal flower—
Save knitting in the afternoon,
  And rocking cradles, hour by hour!
—Richard Le Gallienne in Harper's Weekly.

  Said the Motor to the Bob.

THE WEATHER.

The wind off the lake was pretty stiff last night, but the mercury didn't get below 24 deg. above zero and today is fine. The sky is overcast, but the sun is trying to break through. Colder weather is promised for tonight and Thursday with a brisk wind from the northwest.

A year ago today, similar weather conditions prevailed. There was no sleighing in Duluth.

The sun rose this morning at 7:32 and it will set at 5:12, giving nine hours and forty minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"A trough of low barometric pressure that extends southwestward from Iowa to New Mexico has caused warmer weather in the lake region, Ohio and Mississippi valleys, and snow or rain in the Rocky mountains, Eastern slopes, Southwestern states, the Northwest and Lake Superior. Much lower temperatures prevail throughout the West and Northwest in connection with a strong high pressure area central over Montana. Zero weather has developed over Nevada, Southwestern Montana, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. The barometer continues high over Southeastern states.

Houston Post: "Is quinine the proper thing to take after an exposure?"

"After one kind of an exposure, but it will take a European trip to do the other kind any good."

Chicago News: "On what grounds, madam, do you desire a divorce from your husband?"

"Intolerable cruelty; he put the date of my birth in the family Bible."

Boston Transcript: Kate (consulting dictionary)—It says here that the mistletoe bears a glutinous fruit.

Ethel—Kisses are a bit sticky.

Washington Times: "Has any use been discovered for the vermiform appendix?" asked one student.

"Yes," replied the other. "It has helped many deserving physicians to attain a good income."

Washington Star: "I trust you try to return good for evil," said the high-minded man.

"I not only try," said Sirius Barker, "but I succeed. Biggins gave me one of his cigars yesterday and I gave him one of mine this morning."

Wife—Botheration! I thought you would have to get me a new pair.

New York Press: "Why did the cow jump over the moon, pa?"

"I suppose it was a sort of early experiment in aerial navigation."

Yonkers Statesman: Mrs. Crimsonbeak—You're always "knocking" at my biscuits.

Mr. Crimsonbeak—Well, I've got to break 'em some way, haven't I?

The Tatler: The Major—What's this I hear, David, about your nearly saving a man from drowning?

David—I did save 'im from drownin', only the lifebuoy 'it 'im on the 'ead and killed 'im.

Washington Star: "We must learn to save our pennies," said the thrifty man.

"That's easy," answered his wife. "All the shops are careful to hand you a few coppers change when you give them a dollar bill."

London Opinion: "Did you peel your apple before eating it, Dolly?"

"Yes, mother."

"But where have you put the peel, dear?"

"Oh, I ate it first."

Judge: "What are 'mournful numbers' pa?"

"Automobile mortality figures."

Clerk—Yes, madam; it says "Votes for women."

Harvard Lampoon: John—What doctor attended your aunt in her last illness?

James—None. She died a natural death.

The Morrow.

The world goes up, and the world goes down,
  And the sunshine follows the rain.
And yesterday's sneer and yesterday's frown
  Can never come over again.
    Sweet wife,
  No, never come over again.

For woman is warm, though man be cold,
  And the night will hallow the day
Till the heart which at even was weary and old
  Can rise in the morning gay.
    Sweet wife,
  To its work in the morning gay.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

The Australian system of voting had its first thorough test at the municipal election in Duluth yesterday. Several officials from St. Paul were here to note the practical working of the system, among them being Thomas J. Prendergast, city clerk; M. O'Connor, clerk of the Ramsey county district court, and P. O'Hara, clerk of the municipal court.

The Duluth election resulted in a victory for Alderman M. J. Davis for mayor. The vote was: M. J. Davis, Independent, 2,458; John K. Shaw, Democrat, 1,974; M. O. Hall, Republican, 242. The aldermen elected are: First ward, James Dingwall, Republican; Second ward, D. J. Sinclair, Republican; Third ward, George F. Ash, Republican; Fourth ward, T. W. Hugo, Republican; Fifth ward, C. Mrs. H. F. Williamson is spending the winter at Mount Clemens, Mich., for the benefit of her health.

Mahlon Newell of Frederick, Dak., has arrived in Duluth to engage in the meat business.

The Herald will move on March 1 from its present quarters to the Herald block on Superior street, and its business office will be on the ground floor formerly occupied by the State bank.

DULUTH AND THE HERALD.

Getting Together.

Deer River, News: Now that the farmers and the city interests of Duluth are getting together with evidently no sign of the interests waking up on the outside of the farmer, well may the state capitol and metropolis look askance.

Got His Feet Wet.

Cass Lake Times: Apropos of the insurgents being punished by withholding appointments The Duluth Herald thinks the president has been "skating on very thin ice" and questions if he has "regained a firm underfooting." The president may have succeeded in getting ashore all right but not without wet shoes which no amount of interest oil can prevent their creaking as to be heard over in Africa.

As to Eating Meat.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: The Duluth Herald is of the opinion that the greatest ultimate benefit from the meat strike will be to convince thousands of people that they will be better off physically as well as financially by eating less meat than has been their custom. It is the general opinion of the medical fraternity that there is no adequate substitute for meat for the so-called working man, that is the man who does hard physical labor. This is probably true, although the vegetarians advance quite an opposite line of argument. There is little doubt, however, that most of the ills humanity is subject come from overeating, and there is nothing more conducive to good health than a diversified diet, and in moderate quantities. With meat once a day, and a wise selection for the other meals of the day, the average person would feel better, would have less use for the doctors. If the American people learn this lesson, the strike will be worth while, even if the price of meats is not materially reduced.

The Dead Speak Not.

Stillwater Gazette: A fellow up at Duluth, in speaking of the uniting of the two cities, Duluth and Superior, suggests that the name most appropriate would be "The Quick and the Dead." He says he is one of the quick, the inference being that Duluth is his home. Returns are not in from Superior, but no doubt they will be warm when opened.

There Are Others.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: The Duluth Herald is moved to say a kindly word for Dr. Cook, even admitting that he is a fraud. The Herald reasons that Cook at his worst is not quite so much a fraud as are some of our senators, who represent themselves to be public servants and patriots, and on that pretense betray the people and the reepublic. Then there is the dealer in adulterated foods, and the manipulator of watered stocks—and lastly Speaker Cannon. In the words of the poet, Dr. Cook may be all to the bad, but there are others.

Come and See.

Princeton Union: People inclined to the opinion that the steel plant at Duluth will not materialize should make a trip to the Zenith City and size up the activities on the proposed site, where several hundred men are preparing the grounds for the erection of the necessary structures.

Misplaced Homage.

Warroad Commonwealth: "The proposal to reform the house of lords counted strongly among the country people, perhaps more strongly than did tariff reform. Respect for the old traditions is more deeply rooted there than in the cities." Which would indicate that the advance is not so great as many had imagined from the time when the British people placed all power in crown and baronage, asking no right for themselves except that of doing homage. —Duluth Evening Herald.

Such is the power of tradition. Next to superstition, it is more difficult than anything else, to overcome. Doing homage! To whom is homage due? And from whom? Homage! We in America boast that we owe homage to none and pay homage to none; but are we so sure of it? Why don't you look into the matter for yourself and see what you are doing? Are you a man or a serf?

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Men often make bad breaks just before they go broke.

And if a worm does turn, what does it benefit him?

Don't be too anxious to grasp an opportunity that is sizzling hot.

But the things you try to keep dark will come to light sooner or later.

We all have a soft spot in our heads at birth—and some of us never lose it.

A sensible man doesn't care if he isn't good looking; he knows that there are other things.

If the family thermometer is not up to date it will have to blame the low temperature.

Some men run a business along the lines of the man who used a cannon for shooting mice.

An old bachelor says that the vocalizing at a wedding is even more depressing than the singing at a funeral.

"You'll never be able to realize that the other fellow amounts to more than you do until you look at yourself from his point of view."

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: The weakness of laws is how they tempt everybody to break them.

A man has to have a friend who knows where a chorus girl was born.

Having to shave when there isn't time to do it is responsible for 99 per cent of the family breakfast squabbles.

The real enjoyment to a man of having been sick is how the people are interested in him telling them how much sicker he was.

The temptation about prophecy is when it turns out the other way you can claim that's what you said and get mad if your wife looks as if she thinks it wasn't.

Tommy to the Rescue.

Youth's Companion: Remedies are unfortunately sometimes worse than the diseases which they are meant to cure. Tommy's mother, says a writer in Lippincott's Magazine, had made him a present of a toy shovel, and sent him out in the sand-lot to play with his baby brother. "Take care of baby, now," said his mother, "and don't let anything hurt him."

Presently screams of anguish from baby sent the distracted parent flying to the sand-lot.

"For goodness' sake, Tommy, what has happened to the baby?" said she, trying to soothe the wailing infant.

"There was a naughty fly biting him on the top of his head, and I killed it with the shovel," was the proud reply.

How to Lose Coughs and Colds

When you feel "plain bum" with a cold there's just one best thing to do about it and that's to get a bottle of Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey and follow directions.

Your cough will stop almost instantly and every trace of the cold—the full aching head, the sore nose and throat, the stinging eyes, etc., will cease to annoy you very soon.

Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey is successful because it seeks out and destroys the cause of the cold—the germs.

Yet it contains no habit forming drugs whatsoever—mostly real old fashioned pine-tar, honey and other beneficial ingredients that our grandmothers used to fix up for the family colds.

The standard for 20 years. The largest selling cough and cold medicine in the world.

You ought to take some of it now and see how it gets to work on your cold.

Look for our trademark (the bell) and Granny Metcalfe's picture on every bottle. 25c—50c—$1.00.

DEFIES COURT'S ORDER.

Ashland Minister, Enjoined From Preaching, Still Holds Services.

Ashland, Wis., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—In defiance of Judge Garvin's injunction against Rev. August Lutz preaching in the Evangelical Association Emanuel church the minister placed a new lock on the door Sunday, built a fire and conducted services. Mr. Lutz advertised in the daily papers to preach at 10:45 a. m., on the subject, "Faith, Sorely Tried, and Sublimely Triumphant." Pastor Bloede advertised that he would preach at the same time and place. Mr. Lutz's attorneys, Frank Lamoreux and H. B. Walmsley say that they advised Lutz not to preach in face of the court order, and presumed that he would take their advice.

At the time appointed for the morning service, both pastors appeared, but Mr. Bloede taking a part of the congregation abandoned the pulpit to Mr. Lutz who proceeded with his sermon as advertised.

Mr. Lutz was advertised to preach in the evening also on the text, "The Experiences of Sorrow and Joy to the Disciples of Christ." Mr. Bloede advertised that there would be no evening service, but advertised that the congregation would go to the union meeting at the Norwegian M. E. church in the evening.

Mr. Lutz states that he held services because the congregation wanted him to. He says that he unlocked the door for the evening service, and there were about twenty people in the congregation. He says he had a very nice service.

ESCAPES DURING MUSIC.

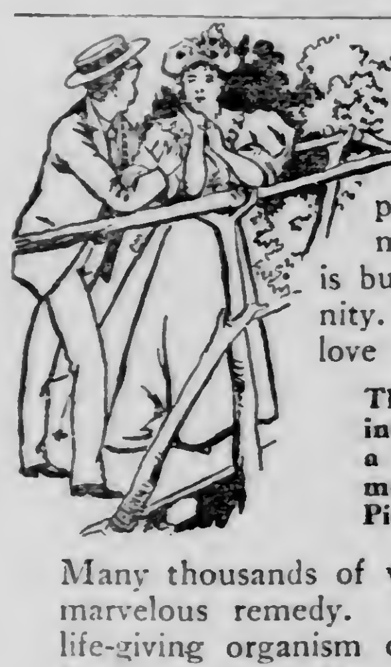
Prisoner in Soo Jail Makes Off Under Favorable Conditions.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Feb. 2.—While Sheriff Bayliss pounded his typewrite and a prisoner tooted a mouth organ excessively loud, John Cole, alias "Forty," made good his getaway from the county jail two nights ago.

Cole, with two others, was arrested recently for breaking into boxcars and stealing liquor. Cole was awaiting trial. The jail is an old structure of sandstone. Its casement was cracked, so Cole had no difficulty in wrenching loose the iron bars.

Jumping from the second floor into the snow, Cole mounted a wheelbarrow and got over the high fence surrounding the jail. He is still at large. Cole stood an excellent chance of getting off easy, as he had turned state's evidence against his pals.



Love is Life

Without love this world would be a good place to emigrate from. Without it the human race would die—and be glad of it. Love is but the light in the east that leads to maternity. Love of husband is the stepping-stone to love of child.

There are thousands of women who live well into middle-life without knowing the bliss of a first-born's caress, but who are happy mothers to-day and heap blessings on Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Many thousands of women have testified to the merits of this marvelous remedy. The "Favorite Prescription" quickens the life-giving organism of women. It makes a woman strong and healthy where she most needs vigor and vitality. It cures all weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organs. It eliminates the discomforts on the way to maternity and makes baby's coming easy and nearly painless. Found at all medicine stores.

It's an insult to your intelligence when a druggist urges upon you a SECRET nostrum as a substitute for this proven remedy OF KNOWN COMPOSITION simply that he may make a little larger profit. Physicians prescribe "Favorite Prescription" because it's every ingredient is printed upon its outside wrapper making it an ethical remedy for them to prescribe. There's no secrecy, no deception—it's a good, honest, square-deal medicine, made of native medicinal roots without alcohol or habit-forming drugs in its make up. Ask Your Neighbors.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and strengthen Stomach, Liver and Bowels. One to three tiny sugar-coated "Pellets" for a dose. Easy to take as candy.

AN EDITOR WOULD FLY

Lisbon, N. D., Molder of Public Opinion Invents an Aeroplane.

Mishap at First Test of Machine, But Inventor Has Hope.

Fargo, N. D., Feb. 2.—The first aeroplane test ever attempted in North Dakota was made at Lisbon yesterday by A. E. Paulson, formerly editor of the Sharon Reporter and inventor of a number of patented articles. He designates the type of his machine as aeronef and has christened it "The Gold Bug."

It is of box kite design. Part of the machinery of the aeroplane was broken on the way to the testing grounds, which caused a delay till almost dark. The second attempt did not succeed as the chain of the propeller ran off the gear and bent the shaft, just after the aeroplane rose in the air.

The inventor is confident that he has solved the problem and will make more tests soon.

PREFERS DEATH TO BEING A CRIPPLE

Man Living Near Bemidji Drinks Carbolic Acid and Ends Trouble.

Bemidji, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Despondent because an injured limb did not improve, and which made him almost a cripple, and generally worrying over his physical condition, caused Edgar Hazen, aged 56, to take his life, by swallowing a large dose of carbolic acid, yesterday, at the home of his daughter, near Puposky, north of Bemidji.

Hazen, who is a brother of Sheriff A. B. Hazen of Beltrami county, whose home is at Parkers Prairie, Minn., came to Bemidji about two weeks ago, for several days' visit at the home of his brother. He then went to Montana, spending a few days visiting with relatives there. He came to Bemidji again a week ago, and went to visit at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Wilson, at Greely's Siding, near Puposky.

Mr. Hazen had been complaining much of late as to the condition of his left leg, which had been broken, about fifteen months ago, which was not properly attended to and had to be broken over, causing Mr. Hazen much pain and suffering, and which apparently was to give him permanent worry and trouble; and he had on several occasions of late averred that he would probably "make away with himself."

Mr. Hazen retired as usual, night before last, and nothing unusual was noticed as to his actions.

Yesterday morning, a noise was heard issuing from his room, and when Mrs. Wilson entered she found her father unconscious and suffering great pain.

Death ensued shortly afterwards.

The body was taken to Parkers Prairie, the home of Mr. Hazen, for burial. Local relatives accompanied the body to its last resting place, and a daughter who lives in Montana has been sent word to go direct to Parkers Prairie for the obsequies.

MUCH ACTIVITY AT THE STEEL PLANT

New Duluth Feeling Effects of Bustle Around Great Works.

New Duluth, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—New Duluth and immediate vicinity are the scenes of great activity at the present time. Work on the new interstate bridge, across the St. Louis river, about half a mile east of here is being rushed.

The concrete work on the center pier will be completed the latter part of this week, and it is expected the American Bridge company will be here with a crew of men in about two weeks, to start the steel work on the bridge from the Wisconsin side. Contractor Runquist has a crew of 200 men grading for the interstate transfer railroad, from the bridge to the steel plant site.

There are 225 laborers employed out on the steel plant site proper, stripping for gravel, laying tracks in various directions through the site. Steam shovel work, pile drivers, carpenter work, etc.

At present there are at least 500 men employed on the works. Nearly all of the vacant houses at New Duluth have been rented.

The three hotels that are here are doing a thriving business and things in general, are assuming a very business-like appearance.

NORTHERN PACIFIC HAS A NEW LAND EXPERT.

Fargo, N. D. Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Prof. Daniel E. Willard of Fargo has been employed by the Northern Pacific Railway company as a land expert. He began his duties yesterday and will have charge of scientific investigations into the fertility of the soil along the line. He will work under the land department of which Thomas Cooper, assistant to the president, is the head.

STENOGRAPHER LOSES SIGHT VERY QUEERLY.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 2.—As the result of a sudden fright from a swiftly closing typewriter desk, Miss Christine Canfield, 21 years old, has been totally blind since last Friday, while the medical experts of the Twin Cities are completely baffled over her case.

Miss Canfield is a stenographer in a local business office. Last Friday her typewriter desk shut suddenly. Anticipating the crash and noise, Miss Canfield placed her hands over her eyes. The desk banged shut and Miss Canfield took her hands off her eyes, —to strange darkness. She was unable to see, and has since been sightless in her room. The opening of the eyelids causes her intense pain, and until today, she was forced to keep them shut. A local surgeon gives his opinion that Miss Canfield's blindness is only temporary and that she will recover her vision gradually.

PAYMENTS EXTENDED.

Bill Before Congress for Relief of Many Homesteaders.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The prospects of many homesteaders who in 1904 bought lands on the Red Lake Indian reservation east of this city, have been brightened by the introduction into congress of a bill extending the time of final payment on these purchases.

The reason assigned for this proposed extension is that the excessive rains during harvest or early summer of the last two seasons have caused serious damage to the settlers' crops, thus making it impossible for them to meet the necessary annual payments on their places without mortgaging same. As these lands were sold at public auction by the federal authorities at a minimum price of $4 per acre to a maximum of $45 for some choice pieces near this city, and the amount had to be paid in five annual payments, it can be seen that with a crop failure or crop injury the ordinary homesteader would be financially embarrassed.

About 600 claims will be affected by this proposed law, many of which are owned by parties who were formerly residents of the Twin Cities and other points in the Northwest.

BOY KILLS HIMSELF.

Falls With Gun While Hunting and Is Fatally Injured.

St. Cloud, Minn., Feb. 2.—Special to The Herald.)—Lawrence Schull, son of the most prominent residents of the village of Ronneby, fifteen miles east of this city, was accidentally shot dying a few hours later, after suffering great pain.

Lawrence Schull, with his brother, went to the yard to feed the cattle. The boys took their shotgun along with them and after the work was done started out for a little hunting trip. Lawrence, who was carrying the gun, stepped up onto a stump and slipped and fell. The gun was accidentally discharged, the shot entering the young man's stomach.

BUILDING IN ELLENDALE.

North Dakota Town Planning to Forge Ahead This Year.

Ellendale, N. D., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city of Ellendale will make many improvements during the year, according to plans that have already been adopted. The efforts of the Commercial club, looking toward the erection of a county courthouse, are almost certain of realization. The construction of a new school house, a new Catholic church and a new Methodist church are also planned, and seem certain of being carried out. The forward movement in Ellendale is a consequence of the splendid development of this section of the state during the past few years.

A new rural telephone company has been organized, being known as the Ellendale Rural Telephone company. The company will take over the Forbes Telephone Exchange company, and proposes to build a number of important country lines. Its officers follow: President, D. Coleman; vice president, A. W. McDonald; secretary, W. Townsend; treasurer, E. H. Heine.

FULL OF GASOLINE.

Lighted Match Convinced Grocery Clerk There Was Plenty.

Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—When an employe of Henry & Hewitson's grocery, struck a match to determine whether a gasoline can that he was handling had any gasoline in it, he did not look for results such as actually occurred. The can has not been found yet, and the employe was decidedly lucky to escape with his life. He had pumped about thirty gallons of the oil into the can when he came to the conclusion that it must be nearly full. Thoughtlessly, he struck a match and soon found plenty of light at his disposal. A hurry-up call for the fire department resulted in only a small amount of damage being done.

JAMESTOWN, N. D., HAS THOUGHT FOR CHILDREN.

Jamestown, N. D., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The creation of better conditions for the children of the city, is the plan along with the Civic Improvement League of Jamestown is working, and at a well attended meeting of the organization, several ideas were broached, which may shortly be carried out

The establishment of city playgrounds, enlargement of the school grounds and provisions for better facilities for the boys of the city to develop themselves physically, were the matters especially considered, all of them favorably. At the present time, 550 children are cared for in one school building, occupying only a half a block. This condition will be remedied, as a new school building will be opened next fall.

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY STUDENTS WANT DR. HILL.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 2.—The student body of the University of Minnesota and the faculty with alumni organization have been flooding Columbia, Mo., with telegrams, urging that Dr. Albert Ross Hill, president of the University of Missouri, accept the post as president of the University of Minnesota which has been offered him. As yet Dr. Hill has made no reply.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 2.—A special meeting of the board of curators of Missouri university was held here last night to discuss the possible resignation of President A. Ross Hill to accept the presidency of the University of Minnesota.

President Hill notified the curators during last night's meeting that he would not act on Minnesota's offer until the curators have had ample opportunity to consider the proposition.

NEW BEMIDJI BUILDING.

Bemidji, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new Swedback building, on Minnesota avenue, is completed, and the entire building will be occupied before the end of the present week.

The building is 40 by 86 feet, solid brick, two stories, with basement and was erected at the cost of between $8,000 and $9,000.

LUMBER CAMP THIEF SENT TO REFORMATORY.

Bemidji, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Kolonski has been taken to St. Cloud and placed in the state reformatory, having been given an indeterminate sentence for larceny.

Kolonski was arrested on the charge of grand larceny in the second degree, having stolen from logging camps on Kilhi lake, a suit case filled with clothes and also an overcoat. He pleaded guilty to the charge and was given a sentence to serve at St. Cloud, where he will assist other careless folks in building the big rock wall around the reformatory.

AGED MAN CREMATED; CRAZED WIFE FREEZES.

New Richmond, Wis., Feb. 2.—Frank Kimball, an aged man, was burned to death in his home Tuesday. His wife was crazed by the fire and was found in a barn, where she was partly frozen.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Escanaba—Announcement is made that Frank D. Mead of this city, one of the leading members of the upper peninsula bar, has been appointed general attorney of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad for Northern Michigan.

Marquette—John H. Godwin, for the past five years manager for the Superior Lumber company, has closed his connection with that concern, and is to engage in business on his own account here, wholesaling and retailing lumber products and building material.

Stambaugh—Guy Fogelgren, who has been deputy postmaster at Stambaugh for a number of years, has received the news that he has been appointed postmaster to succeed his father, William Young, who had resigned several weeks ago.

Marquette—Eli Vieau is at St. Mary's hospital in a critical condition from injuries received in a Sawyer-Goodman logging camp twenty miles from Champion. A log fell on Vieau, breaking his leg, crushing his chest and fracturing several ribs.

Calumet — George D. Westermann, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. announces that the fourth lecture course in connection with the Y. M. C. A. will be held Thursday evening, Feb. 24, in the Calumet theater, when Rev. Andrew Gillies of Minneapolis, the noted preacher and lecturer, will be the attraction.

Lake Linden—After a prolonged illness Thomas W. Pascoe, a well-known resident of Lake Linden, died Monday. The decedent was born in Cornwall, Eng., having located in the Copper country about forty years ago at Houghton. The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon.

Calumet—At a meeting held Sunday evening steps toward the organization of a Christian Endeavor society for the Red Jacket Congregational church were taken. The bylaws and constitution suggested by a committee named for that purpose at a meeting held on Friday evening, were adopted unanimously by the young people of the church.

Calumet—Mrs. Mary P. Johnson, aged 69, died Sunday morning at her home in Ahmeek. One son and one daughter survive. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon from the Apostolic Lutheran church, Pine street.

Hancock—Charles Lind and Miss Ida Makela, both well known Hancock young people, drove to Calumet on Saturday evening and were quietly wed at 7 o'clock by Rev. Holdeman, pastor of the Calumet Finnish church. Mr. and Mrs. Lind returned following the ceremony to Hancock, where they will make their future home.

Calumet—Articles of incorporation of the Knights of Romulus were submitted to the state department this week and upon the approval of the articles, the formation of the order will be perfected. Nine organizers, including prominent Italian residents of this city attached their signatures to the articles.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Ashland—Mrs. A. Krause, aged 85, died here Saturday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. McDonald. She leaves two daughters and two sons, Mrs. Duncan McDonald of Ashland and Mrs. Gustav Moehrke of Chilton, and Emil and M. G. of Mellen. The body was taken to Clinton for burial.

Menomonie — Prof. William R. Dobbyn, Ph. D., of Hutchinson, Minn., has become a partner with Elmer Trickey in the publication of the Journal. The new editor has had fifteen years of newspaper experience and holds three academic degrees. For four years he has been president of a Minnesota college.

Kenosha—Herman Kasten, charged with the murder of Herman Martin at Twin Lakes on the night of Aug. 21, was acquitted by a jury.

Manitowoc—Signed by every attorney in the county, a call has been tendered Judge Michael Kirwan to be a candidate for re-election to the circuit bench. The call is the second given Judge Kirwan. The election will be held in April and the term extends six years. Judge Kirwan succeeded Judge N. S. Gilson, now head of the state tax commission and is serving his second term.

Eau Claire—Florence, the 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lars Halvorson, residing at 209 Water street, suffered a badly broken leg while catching on bobs. The little girl in some manner fell off the center of the heavily loaded sleigh and the rear runner passed over her leg, badly crushing and breaking it.

Fond du Lac—The ninth annual convention of the Wisconsin Buttermakers' association is being held in Fond du Lac and will continue in session three days, and indications point to the largest attendance in the history of the association.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

St. Cloud—George Tierk, one of the old residents of the city, died at his home Monday. He was born in Germany in 1858. He came to this country when a young man and has made St. Cloud his home for the past twenty-five years. He was a mason by trade.

Moorhead—The Northern Pacific passenger depot is soon to have the interior embellished with a new seating system, and it will be installed right away as fast as the seats can be unpacked and set up in place.

Grand Marais—The local fishermen report the most successful herring season for several years. The warm weather in the fall shortened up the time considerably, but the abundance of fish and good prices which prevailed more than offset the delay.

Crookston—Fred Schmunk of Hill River, recently shot a large wild cat near his home. This is the first "bob" cat that has been shot in Hill River, or, in fact, anywhere in that section, for many years. The complete settlement of the country has driven all such denizens out of the former wilderness.

Brainerd—Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Patek have left for an extended trip through the South. They will first go to New Orleans to take in the Mardi Gras festival and then will go to Jacksonville, Fla., to be the guests of Senator and Mrs. Maynard Crane of Cooperstown, N. D.

Little Falls—J. Schieck, aged 76 years, died Sunday at the hospital. The deceased is survived by a son, James, who lives in this city, and one son in Wisconsin. Mr. Schieck is a native of Germany. The funeral was held Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock from the Polish Catholic church.

Blue Earth—Judge J. H. Quinn has sentenced Tom Orren of Wells to ten years in the state prison for arson in the first degree. Attorneys for the convicted man will meet March 7 to present basis for carrying the case to the supreme court.

Rochester—A Rochester boy has been signally honored in a foreign land. Word has been received in this city to the effect that Albert O. Anderson, has been selected as organist for the American church in Dresden, Germany, after a severe competitive test.

Winona—Struck in the face by the long, descending arm of the railroad crossing gate, their bob hit squarely and thrown into a telegraph pole by a Great Western passenger train. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Selek, residing on Homer ridge, miraculously escaped death here late Saturday night.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Grand Forks, N. D.—This city will extend the time for the payment of the special assessments on its new lighting system. Monday was the date fixed, but it has been decided to allow the property owners until Saturday to make their payments, after which time a penalty will be added.

Fargo, N. D.—As the result of disapproval and, it is stated, formal protest filed by the bonding company, a special representative of the department of justice arrived in Fargo Monday to investigate the D. C. Tufts case—particularly the sentence imposed by the federal court.

Stanley, N. D.—The first election held in Stanley, which was incorporated a few months ago, was held Saturday. There was a warm fight over the town offices, Frank C. Alger winning out over Theodore Emerson with a majority of twenty votes out of a total of 111 votes cast.

Harvey, N. D.—John Hanchett, Jr., the 2-year-old son of Attorney and Mrs. J. O. Hanchett, died Monday of spinal meningitis after an illness of twenty-four hours. Several cases of the disease have been reported the last few days. This is the second death in three days.

Aberdeen, S. D.—The congestion of the grain traffic on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad is at an end. It is no exaggeration to place the number of loaded cars of grain which have been sent into Minneapolis in the past week over this road at 1,500.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Rev. Father James Kavanaugh, who is here from Washington, D. C., as the guest of his brother, P. J. Kavanaugh, celebrated high mass at St. Michael's Catholic church Sunday morning. Father Kavanaugh was ordained about a year ago and is the only North Dakotan who has ever been elevated to the priesthood.

Wahpeton, N. D.—At a meeting of the board of trade trustees of the state school of science President E. G. Burch resigned and F. E. Smith, at present superintendent of the Wahpeton public schools was elected to the vacancy.

FOUR RUNAWAYS ARE BACK HOME

Went as Far as Thomson When Their Money Ran Out.

After traveling all night and most of the day, the four Proctor boys who ran away from home Monday night, turned up unexpectedly last evening. Each boy went home and had little to say of the affair.

Today one of the lads admitted that they had set out bound for the West, and that Montana was their destination. The quartet traveled as far as Thompson, where they spent their last money for something to eat.

After the last nickel was spent for a sandwich, the runaways changed their minds and decided to postpone their trip. The boys then walked back to Proctor, arriving home about 6 o'clock last evening.

The parents of the youngsters were alarmed over the disappearance of the boys, and the police were asked to take a hand in locating them. The Duluth authorities were also on the lookout for the runaways.

The boys were: George Rossiter, 17 years old; Earl Murray, 15 years old; Joseph De Merche, 16 years old, and Guy Murray, 15 years old. The Murray boys are not relatives.

PASTORS' CLUB TO REORGANIZE

The West Duluth Ministerial Association Will Be Revived.

The West Duluth Ministerial association will be reorganized at a meeting which will be held Monday afternoon at the home of Rev. W. G. Boyle of 6009 Raleigh street.

At the last meeting, a month ago, Rev. Arthur J. Hoag, pastor of the West Duluth Baptist church, was elected temporary chairman of the society. It was decided to elect permanent officers at the next meeting.

At the meeting Monday evening Rev. D. G. Cole, pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church, Fifty-fourth avenue west and Bristol street, will give a review of the popular novel, which is attracting considerable attention, "The Calling of Dan Matthews," by Harold Bell Wright.

WILL ADDRESS WOMEN.

Rev. George Gebauer Will Talk at the W. C. T. U. Meeting.

Mrs. G. W. Smith of 265 North Central avenue will entertain the West Duluth branch of the Women's Christian Temperance union at her home, tomorrow afternoon. The leader will be Mrs. George Stevens.

Rev. George Gebauer will be the principal speaker at the meeting. He will talk on "Motherhood as a Basis of a Higher Civilization." The subject for the meeting has been announced as "Modern Literature."

FOUR CHURCHES WILL HOLD COOKING SALES.

Under the auspices of the ladies' aid societies of four of the West Duluth churches, a sale of home-made cooking will be held every Saturday at the Spencer pharmacy, Central avenue and Ramsey street, commencing next Saturday.

The churches represented are the Merritt Memorial M. E., the Asbury M. E., the Plymouth Congregational and the West Duluth Baptist. The proceeds are to be divided among the churches. The ladies of each church will take their turn conducting the sale.

Assault Case Dropped.

The charges of assault against Charles Murray brought by Robert Orr, were dismissed yesterday evening in the West Duluth court, when the case was tried before Judge J. B. Flack. Both of the men are laborers for the Interstate Dredging & Dock company at Spirit Lake. The case was dropped because of lack of evidence. Murray was arrested yesterday afternoon.

Non-Support Charged.

A warrant charging non-support was issued yesterday afternoon by Judge J. B. Flack of the West Duluth justice court for the arrest of Sigrud Olson. The complaint was brought by his wife, who alleges that for the past two months he has contributed nothing to her support or to the support of the children.

Sleighride Planned.

A sleighride party is planned for the members of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Westminster Presbyterian church to be held on the evening of Thursday, Feb. 10. The young people will ride to Proctor, where they will be entertained at the home of Miss Kate Macbeth.

Little Child Dies.

Eugene Castonguay, the 9-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Delores Castonguay of 117 Exeter street, died last evening. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning from the residence with interment at Calvary cemetery. The body is held at the undertaking parlors of M. J. Filiatrault.

To Entertain Boys.

Robert Scott of 5803 Olney street will entertain the Boys' Club of the Holy Apostles' Episcopal church at his home Friday evening. The program which has been arranged includes a debate. At this meeting arrangements for organizing a basket ball team will also be made.

West Duluth Briefs.

A son was born this morning to Mr. and Mrs. John Isaacson of 316 South Sixty-third avenue west.

A sleighride party, chaperoned by Miss Minnie Stevens and Miss Lida Bothwell, was given by a number of West Duluth young people last evening. The ride was to Smithville and return.

Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Collier will entertain the Young Ladies' Guild of the Holy Apostles Episcopal church at a supper Saturday evening at the rectory, 634 North Fifty-eighth avenue west.

Himan Fishman was arrested yesterday afternoon by the West Duluth police charged with peddling without a license. He was released upon putting up $5 bail. He will be arraigned in municipal court this afternoon.

The quarterly roll call prayer meeting of the West Duluth Baptist church, Fifty-ninth avenue west and Grand avenue will be held tomorrow evening. A short business session of the congregation will follow the services.

M. L. Olander, who was operated upon last week at Rochester for appendicitis, is reported to be recovering.

W. E. Roche and daughter, Etta, of Minot, N. D., are in West Duluth as the guests of Mrs. Roche's daughter, Mrs. T. F. Fitzgerald, of 432 North Fifty-ninth avenue west.

The Old Folks' club will give its annual dance tonight at Wade's hall. The affair is not for the public and those having invitations must present them at the door. None but married people have been invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Gust A. Gaul of 207 North Sixty-second avenue west are the parents of a daughter, born yesterday.

Dr. J. E. Nyquist of Cloquet, coroner of Carlton county, transacted business at West Duluth yesterday.

Hurst, Watch repairing, W. Duluth.

Elevator Falls With Men.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 2.—Six workingmen were injured, one fatally, by an elevator in an unfinished building in Allegheny falling eight stories today. The conveyance landed as a wrecked mass of timbers and bent iron in the basement.

Bank Statement Called For.

Washington, Feb. 2.—The comptroller of currency of the treasury this morning issued a call for a statement of the condition of all national banks at the close of business on Monday, Jan. 31.

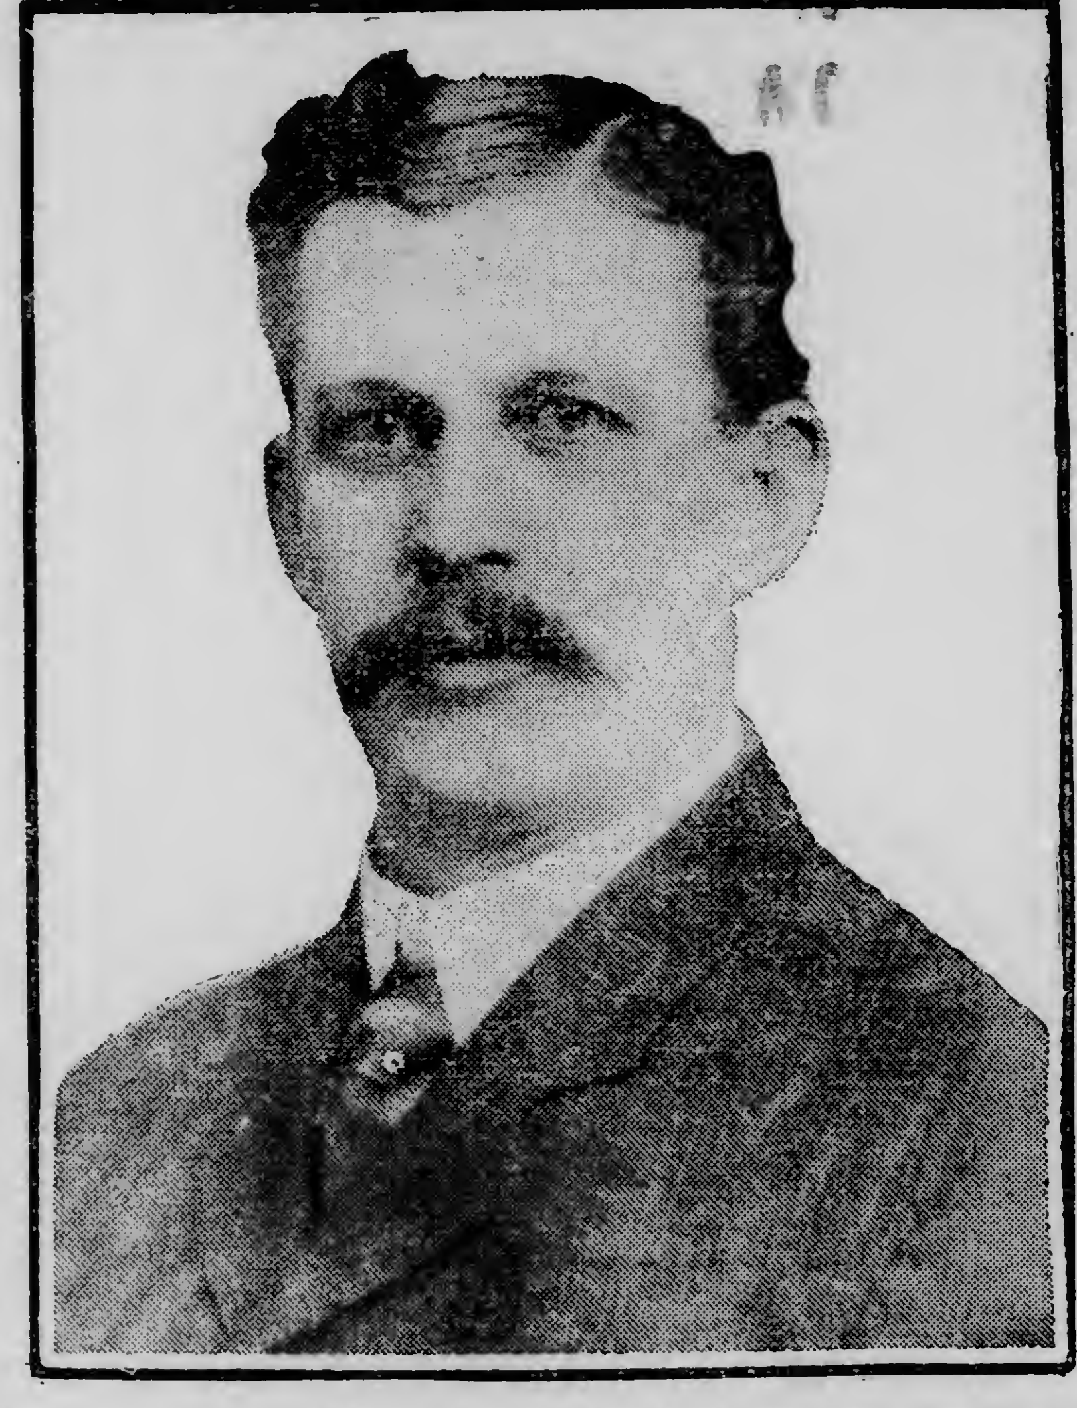
DULUTH WANTS A "WIDE OPEN TOWN," SAYS HAVEN



MAYOR R. D. HAVEN.

"Shall Duluth be an open or closed town, was the real issue of the campaign closed at the polls yesterday," said Mayor Roland D. Haven this morning.

"The results show that the people want the city wide open," he continued.

"The basis of the Democratic campaign was the re-opening of the red light district and a liberal saloon policy."

Harry H. Lemont, secretary to the mayor, was more emphatic in his statement. He declared that not only the red light and saloon people were against the administration, but a large part of the religious element.

"The returns of the election show, to me, that the religious people who have been protesting against any liberality, want a wide open town. They talked publicly, but under the Australian ballot system they voted privately. The figures show how they voted."

Mr. Lemont states that the citizens of Duluth do not want the laws enforced relative to the red light and the saloons.

The mayor appears to be a good loser. When he reached his office this morning he did not seem to be cast down by his defeat.

"I want to congratulate Dr. Cullum upon his splendid victory and the people upon their choice," he said. "I feel sure that Dr. Cullum will give the people of Duluth a good administration."

The mayor said that he can leave the office in as good shape as he found it, and that he will leave with his conscience clear, feeling that he has done the best of which he was capable. He stated that some progress had been made, and that as far as the business part of the administration has been concerned, no one can find fault with it.

SHARP CLASH IN THE FORD TRIAL

Lawyers in Lively Tilt Over Failure to Show Grand Jury Record.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 2.—The trial of Mrs. Jeanette Stewart-Ford for alleged blackmail, was continued here today, Judge James B. Swing declining to stop the proceedings on the motion of the defense to dismiss, because Prosecuting Attorney Hunt refused to obey a court order and furnish the defense with a transcript of the grand jury testimony of Charles Warriner.

The decision is not final, Judge Swing stating that the point at issue is involved in a case pending before the supreme court of the state, and until that is decided he will hold the matter in obeyance. He said that the defense could take exception to this course, and if the supreme court denies the contention that grand jury proceedings are inviolate, a motion for a new trial will be entertained, if the higher tribunal's decision is delayed beyond the conclusion of the case at bar.

Defied Court's Order.

Hunt's defiance of the court's order that the transcript be furnished the defense, brought the case down to an abrupt close yesterday.

Hunt declared that upon the outcome of the tangle depended the inviolability of the grand jury room secrets. He asserted that other persons than those already involved in the case had been mentioned in Warriner's story there, and that it would be unjust to drag those names into the limelight. He also declared that a highly dangerous precedent might be established.

William Thorndyke, of counsel for the defense, pressed the claims of his client to the transcript, despite the decision of Judge Swing. He declared that Mrs. Ford's lawyers had not been treated fairly in the case, and referring to Hunt's reference to additional names having been mentioned before the grand jury, said:

"I don't know who the prosecuting attorney's office is shielding."

Hunt's Ire Roused.

The insinuation brought Hunt to his feet. He denounced the statement that any "men higher up" were being protected as "an infamous falsehood," and the exchanges between the attorneys grew in sharpness until the judge was compelled to order both to their seats.

STATEMENT BY THE MANAGERS

Say Railroad Wage Question May Be Submitted to Arbitration.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—W. S. Carter, an official of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, said today that the report that the railroads had rejected the demands of his organization for an increase in wages and other concessions was true in part.

Mr. Carter refused to make any further statement, but said that the organization later would make an official announcement of the results of the conferences with the railroads.

"The conference of ten general managers and forty labor representatives which has been in session here since Dec. 27 is adjourned. Representation was for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen on 100,000 miles of railroad, involving fifty-one lines.

"The two committees failed to reach an agreement and the railroads have offered to submit the wage question to arbitration, which the labor leaders will in turn refer to a vote of the men."

KAISER HELPS FRENCH PEOPLE

Sends $5,000 to Relief Fund After Asking If He May Do So.

Berlin, Feb. 2.—Emperor William today gave $5,000 for the relief of the flood victims in Paris. He also sent a telegram of sympathy to the French government through Prince von Radolin, the German ambassador to France.

His majesty's delay in contributing to the relief fund or any other official recognition of the calamity seems to have been due to doubt as to whether German help was desired or would be accepted. It is understood that inquiries were made in Paris regarding the attitude the French government would take if German aid was offered and France's reply, in view of the imperial action taken today, was no doubt favorable.

SEEK MAN TO QUIZ GLAVIS

Ballinger-Pinchot Inquirers Want Lawyer for the Departments.

Suggestion May Result in Appearance of Schwartz as Counsel.

PURCELL TAKES PLACE OF PAYNTER IN THE BALLINGER INQUIRY.

Washington, Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. E. Purcell, the new senator from North Dakota who was sworn in this afternoon was appointed a member of the Ballinger-Pinchot investigating committee to succeed Senator Paynter of Kentucky, who resigned from service on that special committee on account of ill health.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Acting upon the suggestion by Senator Nelson, chairman of the Ballinger-Pinchot congressional investigating committee, that "the other side" should be represented by an attorney who would take upon himself the task of cross-examining witnesses, it was announced today that at the future hearings of the committee either H. H. Schwartz, chief of the field service, or Fred Dennett, commissioner of the land office, would be represented by counsel.

At the close of the investigating committee's session Monday afternoon, Senator Nelson said that the cross-examination of Louis R. Glavis had proceeded "feebly" because of the lack of counsel. As a matter of fact, the cross-examination consisted largely of questions asked by the Democratic members of the committee and designed to accentuate the political phases of the testimony Glavis had previously given.

"Unfortunate," Nelson Says.

Glavis and those interested with him are represented before the committee by three lawyers who have spent several weeks preparing for the hearing and who know the history of the case by heart. Few members of the investigating committee have shown any familiarity whatever with the record, and Senator Nelson himself referred to the situation as "unfortunate."

The subject, it was said, was called to the attention of Attorney General Wickersham to see whether some representative of the department of justice might not act as counsel for the government departments which are under investigation. It was pointed out that the only way the committee could get at the facts was to have the case presented in orderly fashion from both sides, and that it was unfair to the committee to place upon them the entire burden of cross-examination to test the credibility of the witness.

Only Brief Cross-Questioning.

Much of the testimony given by Mr. Glavis, outside of letters and telegrams already in the record, has consisted of conversations with Mr. Ballinger at which no third person was present. The witness was cross-examined only briefly on these subjects.

In this class of testimony Glavis has accused Secretary Ballinger of asking him to hold up investigations until after election in order to make possible the collection of campaign contributions from certain claimants, and also has charged Mr. Ballinger with having called him off from pursuing an investigation of Representative McLachlan of California.

As the truth or falsity of these statements will rest solely upon the credibility of Mr. Glavis as the accuser, and Secretary Ballinger as the defendant, the investigating committee has felt that there should be counsel present to go thoroughly into motives, credibility and the like.

Tells Committee's Position.

The attorney general took up the subject with several members of the cabinet yesterday. Secretary Ballinger still declined to engage counsel on his own behalf, saying he had nothing to conceal. Meantime, Senator Nelson, it is said, again expressed the attitude of the committee as favoring the presence of counsel both for the purpose of cross-examination and for the presentation of the case for the other side.

The committee did not feel, Senator Nelson said, that it had been burdened with presenting the case for the accused departments.

The result of the cabinet conference was to recommend that someone should be represented by counsel, and either Mr. Schwartz or Mr. Dennett, probably the former, will engage a lawyer. This action may delay the further proceedings of the committee, however, for it will require some time for an attorney to acquaint himself with the case.

Mr. Glavis, who has asked to be relieved from further attendance as soon as possible in order that he may return West, will not be excused until the attorney representing "the other side" has had an opportunity to cross-examine him.

FOUR YEARS FOR SOUTH DAKOTAN

J. C. Cantonwine Sent to Prison for Perjury and Other Offenses.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Feb. 2.—J. C. Cantonwine, formerly a prominent merchant of Armour, S. D., was sentenced to four years in the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan., here today for perjury and other crimes in connection with the bankruptcy proceedings in which he was involved.

TYPHOID EPIDEMIC IN FEDERAL PRISON

Doctor at Leavenworth Says Disease Is Due to Impure Water.

Leavenworth, Kas., Feb. 2.—An epidemic of typhoid fever has broken out in the federal prison here. Richard Bruno of West Virgina, is dead from the disease. Eugene Ross of Oklahoma is dying and several others are seriously ill. There are nine patients in the hospital with the malady.

The prison physician attributes the disease to impure water.

MAYOR HILL HAS NO OPPOSITION

Re-elected at Tower Along With Others in Very Quiet Election.

Tower, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city election yesterday was, without a doubt, one of the quietest ever held. There was practically no opposition, the only contest being for municipal judge and aldermen.

Wm. Hill, who has served as mayor during the past year, was re-elected, receiving the total of 135 votes. Jalmer Pearson was also re-elected as treasurer, by a vote of 137; Frank C. Largess was alone in the field for recorder and secured 139 votes, the largest number of any candidate. Former assessor, Jorn Jacksha was re-elected by a vote of 134. For municipal judge, S. E. McLaughlin, who has served in the capacity for the past year, received 61 votes. A. D. Fuler, who was judge the previous year also secured 61 votes and J. S. Merrill received 28. The usual proceedings will undoubtedly be taken to decide the result of the tie for judgeship. For aldermen, there were four candidates, and three to be elected. Messrs. Charles Roland secured 117, Gus Colbery 118 and Jake Skith 117, these three being elected, while Joseph Cass, the fourth candidate received only 38 votes.

ASKS VIRGINIA FOR FRANCHISE

Cleveland Man Wants Privilege of Establishing Gas Plant.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—E. A. Ferrin, representing the Gas Machinery company of Cleveland, Ohio, appeared before the council last night and asked for a franchise to install and operate a gas plant although the document was not read it is expected that it will receive a reading at the next regular meeting of that body. Mr. Ferrin stated that the company is seeking franchises in Crookston, Fergus Falls and Brainerd. He said if the council granted the franchise the company would begin the work of installing the plant and the laying of the proper pipings as early in the spring as practicable.

The street railway franchise sought by W. M. and E. M. Prindle of Duluth was embodied in the minutes of the previous meeting and adopted. The ordinance will be published and advertised for sale, and it is likely that the Prindles will be the only bidders for the franchise.

John Mesberg, health officer, entered a complaint against J. P. Chalmers, assistant health officer and meat inspector, claiming Chalmers is neglecting his duty by attending too much to private affairs. He claimed Chalmers had neglected to see that certain parts of the city were kept clean, also that he knew of Chalmers being engaged in tending a bar when he should have been attending to his duties. An investigation of the bar tending episode is said to have revealed that Chalmers was not doing the work for remuneration, but had stepped behind the bar at the Fay hotel to relieve the regular bar tender for a few minutes. The charges were not of sufficiently serious to warrant the council in taking any action, although President Osborn informed Mr. Mesberg that the matter would be further investigated.

A plat of the new Pittsburg addition north of the city, is in the hands of a committee, which will probably make its report at the next meeting.

Clerk Jessie McNeil of the municipal court reported fines collected for the week ending Jan. 29, $64.70.

Meat Inspector J. P. Chalmers reported he had inspected the markets of the city during the past week and found them in first-class condition, and that no meats were found for condemnation.

SALT AND WATER TO CAUSE DEATH

Eveleth Brute Alleged to Have Cruelly Ill-Treated His Child.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Curilli Lurker, arrested on the charge of cruel treatment of his 9-months'-old child, was tried yesterday morning before Judge Prince, and resulted in the court fining the prisoner $90. He paid the fine. Many foreign witnesses were called and this necessitated the services of Nick Constantine for interpreter. Convincing evidence against Lurker was secured by Humane Officer Fifer of Duluth, who presented his testimony in a capable manner, which lead to the conviction. Soon after the birth of the child, its mother died. Then, according to the evidence, Lurker began to abuse the infant. It was shown that the baby's left ear had been partially torn from its head, a large sore had been made on the top of the head, and both cheeks were black and blue, the result of blows administered by the father. The evidence showed that the father fed the baby hot water and salt to end its life.

Lurker is a miner and recently married a second time, sending to Italy for a young woman, who became his wife on her arrival.

VIRGINIA MAN ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

W. A. Hall Seriously Wounds Himself While Cleaning a Pistol.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. A. Hall, formerly engaged in the clothing business, and a well-known citizen, accidentally shot himself shortly after supper last evening.

Mr. Hall is said to have been engaged in cleaning a revolver when the weapon discharged, the bullet entering his left breast just above the heart.

Mr. Hall was taken to the Lenont hospital, where the wound was probed and found not to be of a serious nature.

VIRGINIA CURLERS ARE HOT AFTER TROPHY.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Virginia curlers are interested in winning a trophy, to be put up by Dr. C. W. Miller. In this contest, Norman McDonald's rink defeated Dr. C. B. Lenont's rink Monday night, by a score of 9 to 10, and W. B. Shaver's rink defeated the E. F. Johnson rink, by the same markings. Last night the Joe Watt and the J. W. Murphy rinks were pitted against each other, as was also the rinks of A. F. Benson and C. E. Moore. Tonight C. W. Miller will be pitted against Thomas Gill for the honors of the highest score, and it will take three more plays to decide which rink wins the Miller trophy. Friday night the club members will go to Eveleth for return games with the club of that city.

EVELETH POSTOFFICE BLOCK IN FIRE SCARE.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire broke out in the postoffice block yesterday afternoon and for a time the building was in serious danger. The fire originated from an overheated furnace and the smoke escaping from the furnace spread throughout the building causing the occupants of offices to flee. The fire spread to the rear end of the Nichols and Griswold store and caused considerable damage to their shoe stock. A drugstore in the block was also damaged to some extent by the smoke from the fire. The Treddinnock offices in the same building were saved on on the prompt arrival of the fire department which extinguished the blaze with little trouble.

LIQUOR DEALERS ORGANIZE.

Men Running Saloons in Grand Rapids to Uphold Law.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—With a view of promoting their business and upholding the law pertaining to closing on week days at 11 p. m. and all day Sundays, the saloon keepers of this village have perfected an organization.

A resolution was passed providing for the notification of all the saloon keepers to strictly observe the state closing law and the immediate report to the city council by the organization of any violation of the state law with the recommendation that the offender lose his license forthwith.

The organization deemed it best to take steps for assisting in the enforcement of the state laws, owing to the enforced closing of saloons in other places in this part of the state and a desire to prevent, if possible, any excuse for similar action here.

INDICTED ONES ARE BROUGHT TO DULUTH.

EVELETH READY FOR THE PAVING

City Engineer Presents Specifications for Improving Grant Avenue.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The resolution of Alderman Sutherland raising saloon licenses from $500 to $1,000 per year was presented to the council last night and referred to the committee on ordinances. The ordinance granting a franchise to the telephone companies for twenty-five years had its first reading.

The applications of Lundon & Forsman for a transfer of their liquor license to August Lund; Mat. Premozich, to Anton Blatz, Frank Winchester, for a renewal of his license, were all granted.

Caesar Capitinelli's application for a transfer of license, which proved interesting at a former session, was not acted upon.

The inspection of the water pipes between the city and St. Mary's lake will be held next Tuesday.

The report of the health commissioner for 1909 showed: Deaths, 55; 37 males, 18 females; births, 161; males, 73; females, 81.

The bids for the painting and interior refinishing of the city hall were as follows: Matt. Skumatz, $236.46; E. Ryder, $388.44. The former was awarded the contract.

Grant Avenue Paving Specifications.

The specifications of the city engineer for paving Grant avenue from Fayal road to Jackson street were as follows: Cement base with tar macadam, $26,040.14; Tilford macadam, $26,040.14; creosote with concrete base, $36,738.74; tar macadam with crushed rock base, $20,777.14. The city engineer was instructed to include specifications and estimates on cement paving along with the other data already submitted in time for the adjourned meeting to be held Thursday.

The city clerk was instructed to have the public examiner inspect the books.

The payroll for the month of January was allowed. The report of the chief of police showing a total of $256.50 in fines for the month of January was accepted.

The bills submitted by the militia for payment by the city were referred to the city attorney and he instructed to inform the militia to hereafter purchase their goods by order granted by the city.

HANGS HIMSELF IN THE HIBBING JAIL

Edward Donelin, Suffering From Too Much Drink, Ends Troubles.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Edward Donelin, an employe of the Swan River Logging company of Bengal, who has been confined in the city jail suffering from a severe attack of delirium tremens and was to have been taken to Duluth today, hanged himself this morning.

Turnkey Everts heard some groans from Donelin's cell and hurrying to the scene found him in the throes of death. He had tied a large leather shoe string around his throat stood on a bench in the cell and jumped off. A physician, who was called, was unable to resuscitate him. Donelin was 33, unmarried and little is known of his antecedents.

Hurt in a Runaway.

There was a serious runaway here last evening in which one man was hurt. A team belonging to the Minneapolis Brewing company dashed along Pine street and turning onto Second street struck a cutter driven by one man and upset it. The occupant was hurled to the street and badly injured. He was rushed to the hospital and is in a serious condition today.

KORNIT COMPANY MEN ARRESTED

Are Accused of Using the Mails to Defraud By Stock Sales.

New York, Feb. 2.—Charles E. Ellis, whose wife died of burns received at the New Year's festivities in an uptown restaurant when her gown caught fire, was arrested last night charged with using the mails to defraud. A business associate, Edwin R. Graves, vice president and treasurer of the "Kornit Manufacturing company," of which Ellis was president, also was arrested. Both were released in $10,000 bail.

According to the indictments they obtained $400,000 from investors throughout the country by selling stock in the Kornit company, a concern advertised in several small magazines which they control as a profitable producer of a substitute for hard rubber, made from horns and hoofs of cattle. Bankruptcy proceedings against the company instituted in New Jersey revealed that most of the $400,000 paid for stock had been used to promote other schemes.

BIG FIRM IS BANKRUPT

Fisk & Robinson Are Given Receiver By New York Court.

Liabilities Are Estimated at Nearly Seven Million Dollars.

New York, Feb. 2.—Fisk & Robinson, bond dealers and members of the New York stock exchange, have failed for $1,000,000. An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed by creditors in the United States district court late yesterday afternoon and Bronson Winthrop was appointed receiver. Shrinkage in the value of railroad bonds held by the firm caused the failure.

Incidentally the much discussed high cost of living indirectly caused the failure, according to Joseph Stanley-Brown, manager of the New York office. He said that it was becoming more difficult every day to sell bonds because the high cost of living has driven investors to search for securities which bring a higher income than that offered by bonds.

An Important Firm.

The failure is one of the largest since the panic of 1907, not so much as liabilities are concerned, but in view of the importance of the firm, which has branches in Chicago, Boston and Worcester, Mass.

The firm was founded in 1899 by Harvey Edward Fisk, the eldest son of Harvey Fisk, the banker, and George H. Robinson, who had been in the employ of the banking firm of Harvey Fisk & Sons. Mr. Robinson is a member of the stock exchange, but the business of the firm was principally banking business and the floating of bonds.

The petition was filed with the full consent of the firm, its members having concluded that this was the only way to avoid further losses for itself and its creditors.

Total Obligations $6,000,000.

A statement issued by the receiver says the firm's secured obligations will amount to approximately $5,000,000 and the unsecured debts to more than $1,000,000.

"The cause of the failure," says the statement, "is attributed by the members of the firm to the shrinkage in market value of the 4½ bonds of the Buffalo & Susquehanna Railway company and the preferred stock of the Buffalo & Susquehanna railroad, of which the firm was carrying a large amount. These securities were all in loans, and as the market value diminished the holders of these securities as collateral have from time to time required additional collateral.

"There are other securities owned by the firm which have not as yet a general market and could not be realized on in time to meet the demands for additional margin on the secured loans and the demands of unsecured creditors."

Assets and Liabilities.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 2.—The liabilities of Fisk & Robinson of New York, Boston, Chicago, and Worcester, who failed yesterday, amount to nearly $7,000,000. Manager W. A. Tracy of the Boston office issued today the following statement of the firm's condition as ascertained last Friday:

Assets—Cash, $61,915; loans receivable, $2,122,358; securities, $4,428,444; accounts receivable, $225,250; furniture and fixtures, $10,000. Total, $6,847,967.

Liabilities—Loans payable, $5,276,570; deposits, $1,212,349; accounts payable, $246,405; balance in excess of assets, $112,643. Total, $6,847,967.

TRIUMPH FOR THE DEMOCRACY

Frank Day Sees Indications of Election Results Next Fall.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 2.—"Naturally, I am pleased at the election of Dr. Cullum as mayor of Duluth," said Frank A. Day, chairman of the Democratic state central committee, when shown a report of the result in Duluth last night. "It is significant of the utter demoralization that has come upon the Republican party in the state and nation. While I do not disparage Dr. Cullum's recognition by his fellow-citizens of Duluth, I am sure that the general tendency of the voters to vote the Democratic ticket this year assisted him materially in achieving so notable a victory. He made practically no campaign, I understand, and his election can certainly under the circumstances be attributed in part to the disgust with the dominant party over its course in congress and with the national administration generally. The result in Duluth is but a foretaste of what will occur in the state and in the congressional elections next fall."

POOR OUTLOOK FOR SMALL BOY

New York Aldermen Consider Drastic Fourth of July Ordinance.

New York, Feb. 2.—The small boy will have a pretty pale Fourth of July in New York, if an ordinance presented to the board of aldermen is passed. It provides that it shall be unlawful to discharge or explode or to have in possession for any such purpose, or to sell or offer for sale, to any person under the age of 21, within the city of New York, any toy pistol, using percussion cap, or any squib, rocket, firecracker, Roman candle or other combustible fireworks. In addition, the applicant must pay a $5 license fee and give a $5,000 bond. A fine of $50 or imprisonment for thirty days or both, is the penalty prescribed for violation.

NO CUT IN BUDGET FOR CHICAGO SCHOOLS.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—For the first time, it is said, in the history of the Chicago board of education, the critics appointed for the purpose, have failed to reduce the estimates in the budget, for the forthcoming school year. The distinction of having made up the estimates to the entire satisfaction of the finance committee, belongs to a woman—Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of schools. Mrs. Young went over the details with minute care, and her estimates total $9,604,253.67, or over $600,000 more than for last year. Most of the advance is for increase in salaries.

Strange Schooner Sinks.

New York, Feb. 2.—A three-masted schooner was sunk in the Sandy Hook bar today. The shore stations reporting the loss of the schooner were unable to make out her identity or learn the cause of the accident. It is believed the crew was taken off by a passing steamer.

NO MORE MISERY IN THE STOMACH

Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn or Dyspepsia Vanish in Five Minutes.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch Gas and Eructate sour, undigested food or have a feeling of Dizziness Heartburn, Fullness, Nausea, Bad taste in mouth and stomach headache—this is Indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents and will thoroughly cure your out-of-order stomach, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or Indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases, then you will understand why Dyspeptic trouble of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. Diapepsin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for Biliousness or Constipation.

This city will have many Diapepsin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever try a little for Indigestion or Gastritis or any other Stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of Stomach Trouble and Indigestion.

THE teeth are injured more by neglect than from any other cause. Thoroughly brush them every day with

Some paid managers of the great Labor Trust do not seem satisfied to rest on their past record of tyrannies to their own members, to other workingmen, and to the public at large, but they seek to add to their long list of villianous acts.

On Sunday, January 2nd, 1910, The Chicago Federation of Labor allowed to pass to the press a statement that three carloads of empty peanut shucks were found in a railroad wreck and were consigned to our Company.

That statement was a wilful, malicious lie made from whole cloth.

It was inspired by the usual hate for every one not under the yoke of the Labor Trust.

It is a favorite method of the average "Jawsmith"—the noisy ones in the unions—when confronted with facts regarding the assaults, destruction of property, and other crimes, (too often including murder) to concoct and put out deliberate falsehoods.

They have tried for years to boycott the products, ruin the business, and take away the living of our faithful employes, (about 1,000 persons.)

What for?

We have for years past paid the highest wages in the State for like service.

Have built and sold hundreds of homes to them at a total cost of from $11.00 to $18.00 a month.

About 80 per cent now own these homes and they are good ones.

These people are faithful, prosperous, loyal and high-grade, yet they have been hounded and vilified because they now and always have refused to bend the knee to these tyrannical labor bosses who could collect monthly fees and order them to quit work in order to punish the Company for being independent of "unionism."

The Labor Trust has sent committees and money time and again, given smokers (and drinkers) to try and lure our people into the meshes of slavery, but Postum workmen steadfastly prefer their independence and liberty. Therefore, the labor leaders have threatened to punish them and this lying "peanut shell tale" is one of the methods.

There is a time coming when the workingman, even outside of Battle Creek, will secure his rightful position and fair treatment with suitable wages without being compelled to be under the iron heel of a few labor chiefs who have obtained control in some localities over the workingmen, and can tell them when to quit work, or be subject to the slugging of their infamous "entertainment committees."

Labor is too sacred a part of the great world's work to be dominated by the vicious, hate-producing, impudent, and criminal men too often found in the ranks of these so-called officers and managers.

The works of the great food factories in this country are open to visitors at all hours of the working day, and are visited by hundreds of thousands of people who inspect every kind of material used and all of the processes. The cleanliness of the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., plant is proverbial the world over.

We have deposited in the Commercial National Bank of Chicago, $5,000.00 to be covered by a like amount by the Chicago Federation of Labor. If the Federation of Labor can show that there were ever any peanut shells or trash of any kind shipped to and used by the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., in their foods at any time in the history of the business, the Chicago Federation of Labor will take the $10,000.00, otherwise it will come to us. The Chicago Federation of Labor will not cover this amount. They know, and their president knows, that when he made the statement, he constructed it out of whole cloth and voiced a wilful falsehood.

THE SLUMP CONTINUES

Continued Liquidation Causes Further Declines in Copper Shares.

The Local Market Is Quiet With Offers Exceeding the Bids.

Continued realizing and liquidation caused the market to sag today. Declines in some instances were abrupt and the slumps were for several points, not only in North Butte which was subjected to considerable short selling. This issue declined from $40 at the opening to sales of $35 at the close. On the local exchange North Butte was sold at $36.87½ and $37.37½. Amalgamated also reached its lowest quotation since the big slump two years ago when it touched $79.12½ after opening at $81 and advancing to $81.50.

There was heavy trading in Steel common which advanced from $81.50 to $82.12½ and declined to sales at $80.87½ at the close. Banking interests were forced to come into the market today, otherwise the declines might have been more pronounced.

Call money was steady, which is conducive to speculation, but the professionals are inclined to keep out of the market until they see what is the attitude of the so-called "big fellows." The large interests appear to be waiting on the outcome of proposed legislation by congress and decisions by the United States supreme court affecting principles and legal points involved in probable mergers in the copper world.

The local market was quiet. The volume of trading was small and the offers exceeded the bids. The class of trading was good, however, the higher priced stock being traded in, to the exclusion of the low priced issues.

Butte Ballaklava sold at $10.25 in the East. Arizona Commercial advanced from $41.50 to $43.37½ on advices from the property which told of flattering ore discoveries and developments. Superior & Pittsburg lost ⅜ point after an opening sale at $14; Greene-Cananea declined from $9.75 to $9.62½; Giroux lost ½ point from opening sales at $10.50.

Cordova, part paid, sold at $1.06¼; Duluth Moctezuma advanced from $7.87½ to $8.50 sale; Giroux sold on the local market at $10.50 and $10.37½; Live Oak sold at $22.12½; Red Warrior at $3; Zenith at $1.18¾; Butte & Superior at $2.75; Calumet & Montana at $1.50 down to $1.43¾; Calumet & Corbin at 87 cents; Calumet & Corbin at 87 cents; Calumet & Sonora at 24 down to $23.62½; Carman at $1.12½, and North American at $2.50.

E. J. Collins left late yesterday for Haley, Idaho, where he will inspect a silver-lead property which probably will be the basis for the organization of a development company with a capitalization of $300,000 to explore and open up the property.

The company probably will be known as the Comet Development company. The property was recently examined by R. M. Atwater, the well known mining engineer who pronounced it an excellent prospect. It is situated between the Minnie Moore, which has paid out $14,000,000 in dividends, and the Bullion, which has distributed $11,000,000 to shareholders.

The development company probably will have 60,000 shares with a par value of $5, of which $1 will be paid in when the company is floated. Samples of ore brought to Duluth from the property are rich in silver and lead values.

The stock will be floated by Paine, Webber & Company.

Several stockholders in Calumet & Sonora left for Sonora, Mex., yesterday where they will join General Manager James W. Norton and will inspect the property. The travelers are N. F. Hugo, president; J. E. Cooley, Maj. H. V. Eva, secretary; E. P. Tims, E. W. A. Peake, all of Duluth; and Max Stevens of Ironwood. Other stockholders who left for the mine several days ago are H. W. Coffin, W. C. Winton and H. W. Warner, all of Duluth.

John Olson, auditor for the Shattuck property at Bisbee, Ariz., left last night for that town after a visit here. The mine is now shipping 160 tons a day and earning $4,000 a day net or $120,000 a month. The ore is running about 18 per cent. The production, said Mr. Olson, will be gradually increased.

HILL ASKS THE REGENTS TO WAIT

Missourian Is Urged By Eberhart to Take Northrop's Place.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Former Governor John Lind, president of the state university board of regents, today received a telegram from Albert Ross Hill, president of Missouri university, asking him to take no further action in the University of Minnesota presidency matter until Mr. Lind receives a communication which has been sent him by mail from President Hill.

The board of regents today are discouraged at the prospect of getting Dr. Hill to come to Minnesota. Every possible power is being exerted by Missouri friends to retain him there. His support at Columbia includes Former Governor David R. Francis, a Democrat, and Governor Herbert Hadley, a Republican. They have promised him additional support from the state legislature for the Columbia school. The support given the University of Minnesota was the feature Mr. Hill liked.

Eberhart Urges Hill.

Governor Eberhart today telegraphed Dr. Hill calling his attention to the great resources of the state and the opportunity which would be his as president of the University of Minnesota. The governor told Dr. Hill that he owed it to himself and to the great cause in which he is engaged to listen to the call of Minnesota.

IS SUING HER FORMER HUSBAND..

The suit of Betty Nelson vs. Jacob Nelson for $1,370, alleged to be due on account of money loaned and for pay as housekeeper, was taken up before Judge Dibell in district court this afternoon. The case has its peculiar features. On Jan. 3, 1903, the woman, who was Nelson's wife, secured a divorce. In 1905 she went back to live with him as housekeeper, and she claims that under the agreement he was to pay her $20 a month. She had saved $350 from the alimony he was forced to pay her under the decree of divorce, and she says she also loaned him that sum. She claims that he has never paid her any wages, nor has he returned the loan, and she has brought suit for the amount.

LATEST PORTRAITS OF MEMBERS OF THE ROYAL FAMILY OF BELGIUM

QUEEN ELIZABETH.

KING ALBERT.

CROWN PRINCE LEOPOLD.
PRINCESS MARIE.

These newest portraits of the Belgian royal family, just received in this country, show that King Albert has removed the fuzzy whiskers which once covered his cheeks and affects only a light mustache. It gives him a rather delicate air and recalls the fact that he was a sickly boy and by no means a strong man in his youth. In fact, his succession to the throne came through a series of unexpected circumstances of which his survival as heir for fifteen years was not the least surprising.

King Leopold, who has just died, had a son named Leopold; but he died when he was 10 years old. The count of Flanders, King Leopold's brother, then became heir to the throne, and after him came his son, Baldwin, the elder brother of Albert. But Baldwin died in 1891 and his father soon followed, so Albert was left heir to the throne.

When Albert was 25 he went to visit the family of the duke of Bavaria and there met Elizabeth, with whom he fell in love. They had many mutual tastes—literature, music, outdoor life. They were soon engaged and soon afterward married. They have three children now. The crown prince is named Philippe Charles Albert Leopold Menard Herbert Marie Miguel. He is 9 years old. While facially he resembles his mother, his coloring is that of his father. He is a fine violinist, inheriting the musical tastes of his father and mother. Prince Charles Theodor Henri Antoine Meinard is 7. He is a thoroughly natural boy, and though his brother and he have different temperaments, they are good friends and constant companions. Princess Marie Jose Charlotte Clementine Leopoldine Henriette Gabrielle is 4 and the pet of the family.

The people of Belgium are looking forward to the revival of some form of social court life under the new regime. The scandals associated with King Leopold made it impossible to hold a court during the latter years of his reign, so Brussels has seen nothing of real court life for a long time. The shopkeepers as well as the people of the court, anticipate the revival of the court with eagerness.

GREAT TRADE IN TOYS.

Over $50,000,000 worth of toys have been imported into the United States during the last ten years. During the same period something like $5,000,000 worth of toys were exported.

During the last fiscal year the high water mark has been reached in so far as export trade in toys is concerned. The total value of exported toys during that time has for the first time exceeded $1,000,000.

The value of toys imported has fallen somewhat since 1908, when the total value of imported toys was $7,250,000. This year, according to the Independent, the figures were $5,000,000 in round numbers.

Toy manufacturers in the United States had investments in plants and in stock of less than $1,000,000 in 1880. In 1905 such investments had grown to $4,750,000. The value of importations of toy merchandise has in the meantime shown a constantly increasing trend. Trade in toys has largely been developed during the last ten or a dozen years.

Toys are very largely "made in Germany." That is to say Germany is by far the largest source of supply in the United States. The little German town of Sonneberg, in the Duchy of Saxe-Meiningen on the Rothen, is perhaps the largest toy manufacturing center. In addition to its summer resort business it has been credited with the annual production of some 24,000,000 toy units, having an aggregate value of $4,000,000.

Nuremberg and certain other sister cities are also to be reckoned with as toy makers. The value of toys imported into the United States from Germany in 1908 was $6,500,000, out of a total of $7,250,000 imported that year. Some of the other toy contributing countries in 1908 furnished toys valued as follows. France, $180,472; Austria-Hungary, $179,417; Japan, $177,720; Belgium, $61,551, and the United Kingdom, $57,725.

Three Indictments Against Andrew R. Wheaton Are Quashed.

Was Charged With Trying to Secure Pension By Fraud.

Three indictments against Andrew R. Wheaton, charging him with attempting to defraud the government by securing a pension on false representations were quashed in United States court this morning, Judge Page Morris granting the motion of the district attorney for an order nolle prossing the indictments.

Wheaton was in court with his attorney and was deeply gratified by the decision of the court. Although the nolle prossing of the indictments does not amount to as much as acquittal on trial, or a dismissal of the charges on motion of the defense, it has the same effect as no further proceedings can be taken in the case.

Wheaton is a veteran of the Civil war serving in Company H, Sixth Maine volunteers. Some time after the war, he came to Minnesota and took the name of Jack Quigley. He lived at Cass Lake and for a time in recent years, he worked for his nephew without the younger man discovering the identity of his employe. The reason for the change of name was never explained by Wheaton.

Some time ago, he applied for a pension and the pension office discovered that a woman at Kalamazoo, Mich., claiming to be the widow of Andrew R. Wheaton, had been drawing a pension for years. Wheaton denied all knowledge of the woman. He admitted that he had been married years ago in Pennsylvania, but he claimed that he had secured a divorce from his wife. He was arrested on information furnished by the pension office and was released on bonds.

He immediately set out to prove his identity. He went to Andrew R. Wheaton's old home at Milltown, Me., and was identified by a sister of Wheaton as her brother. He also secured an identification from Judge Corcoran of Ashland, who was a boyhood friend of Andrew R. Wheaton. Supported by his witnesses, he appeared in court at the opening of this term ready for trial.

When the district attorney moved for a continuance of the case to the Juy term of court, Judge Morris refused to grant the motion. He said the government had had months in which to secure its evidence and if it was not ready for trial at this term of court, the case would be dismissed. Another indictment was returned at this term of court, but no continuance could be secured. The government is not ready with the evidence in the case and the district attorney accordingly made a motion for the quashing of the indictments. Judge Morris held the matter open until this morning, when he made his decision. There was no representative from the district attorney's office in court this morning.

REALTY BRINGS A GOOD PRICE

Watkins Block, Tower and Belknap, Is Sold for $80,000.

A realty deal of more than usual interest was closed today when E. A. Arnold and other parties sold the Watkins block, Belknap street and Tower avenue, to Eastern parties for a consideration of $80,000.

The names of the Eastern purchasers have not been learned, as the papers in the deal have not yet been filed. The price paid is in keeping with the steady advance that Tower avenue realty is showing of late.

The Watkins block is a four-story building on the northwest corner of Tower avenue and Belknap street. The structure is built of brick and occupies three full lots.

CHARLES GILLETT DIES.

Young Newspaper Man Passes Away After Short Illness.

Charles M. Gillett, 29 years old, a well-known young newspaper man of Superior, died yesterday at his home in Superior, after a four months' illness of typhoid fever, complicated with other maladies.

Mr. Gillett lived in Superior for over twenty years. He was a graduate of the Superior normal school and entered the state university, completing his work with the class of 1908. During vacation times, Mr. Gillett was engaged in newspaper work.

Mr. Gillett started in as reporter on the Superior Leader, then a daily, and was city editor at one time of the Superior Telegram. About a year ago, he accepted a position as university editor at Madison, having charge of the various pamphlets issued. He held this position until he became ill, in October.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon from the family residence, with interment at Greenwood cemetery.

BIG DAMAGE SUITS ARE SETTLED OUT OF COURT.

The Soo railroad has settled its personal injury suits with Peter Durness and Nick Peterson for $12,000 and $25,000, respectively, and the cases will not come to trial. The amount settled for has not been given out. The men were employed by the Soo as car repairers. While underneath a car an engine hit the car and caused them to sustain serious injuries.

Will Rebuild Bridge.

Reconstruction work has begun on the bridge over Newton creek, on West Eleventh street at the East end. A crew of twenty men has been put to work by the city and it is expected that none of the material of the old bridge but the piling will be used in constructing the new bridge. The bridge was first built about fifteen years ago. It was ordered rebuilt at the last meeting of the council.

Raise Wage Scale.

A scale of salaries coinciding with the recommendations of Mayor Crumpton, that the lower salaried employes of the city should receive the larger percentage of increase, was indorsed last evening at the meeting of the city council. The new scale was adopted as recommended.

LAST CASE OF JANUARY TERM

Peter Rine Suing Steamship Company in United States Court.

The case of Peter Rine against the Western Transit company, the last to go on trial at the present term of United States court, will be taken up at the opening of court tomorrow. The jury in the case was drawn last Saturday and this morning all of the other jurors were discharged from further service.

Rine was a laborer employed on the docks here. He claims that while he was working in the hold of the steamer Buffalo, Oct. 17 of last year, a barrel fell on his wrist, crushing the bones so that he will never be able to do the same class of work again. He is suing for $10,000.

Rine claims that the company was negligent in that the rope used for hoisting the barrels from the hold of the steamer was not strong enough for the purpose and its breaking was responsible for the accident. He is 34 years old and has a wife and four children.

HAVE THE PIRATES ANOTHER MATHEWSON IN "BABE" ADAMS?

Next Year Will Tell Tale ---McGoorty Making Good in Old London.

(BY BRUCE)

New York has its Mathewson; Chicago has its Three-finger Brown; Brooklyn has its Napoleon Rucker; Pittsburg—well, what of Pittsburg?

There is a young pitcher who may or who may not develop into another Christy Mathewson. His name is Adams. A large and loving following have named him "Babe" Adams. At the end of the coming season the forepart of the name may be entirely forgotten.

The case of Adams will be watched very closely. His sensational finish of the season and his work in the world's series was quite the feature of a great baseball season.

Here is another case that furnishes a concrete example of the man and the opportunity. It might be better to put it—the opportunity and the man. The opportunity came and Adams was there with all the goods in the shop.

No one ever heard very much of Adams until he went to Pittsburg. Not very much was heard of him then. The first game he pitched against Miner Brown he showed that he was one of the most remarkable young pitchers of the season. He beat the veteran by holding the Cubs to two hits.

But it was in the latter end of the season that Adams showed the kind of material he was made of. The pennant hunt was one of the kind that tries the souls of baseball players, who are just as human as citizens in other walks of life. The Pirates were being hard pressed by the climbing Cubs. It looked as if the Cubs would repeat, for a brief week, along in the autumn of the desperate fight. Then the Pirates braced and the opportunity [illegible] and his men had been straining nerve and brain and body for was gone, vanished like the mirage the weary traveler sees in the desert night.

It was Adams, an unknown youngster almost, that played a big part in the brace of the Pirates. Clarke had the nerve and judgment to try the youngster in the pinches, and the youngster had the nerve and judgment to make good. The opportunity came and Adams was there.

Will Adams go on and become one of the great pitchers of the National the coming season? If any of you could answer those kind of questions, you could extract a large amount of money from the owners of any big league team in the country. Baseball is as full of questions as sister's little brother.

Adams came from the Louisville American association team to the Pirates. His work in the world's championship series with Detroit stamped him as one of the greatest pitchers in the older organization. Was it a flash or will he go on and improve and become one of the heroes of the game?

Remember how Dewey came sailing home and how everybody was there with all the glad-to-see-you stuff. Dewey was feted and wined and dined; he was the greatest hero since the days of George and the Jersey side incident. We hear very little of the hero of Manila bay these winter days.

The same thing may happen to Adams. A succession of heavy hitters may prove the evil Eve to the Adams' good name. If he should prove a great pitcher the coming season there would be a lot of fans going around and shouting, 'I told you so, the Kid is alright.' On the other hand, if Adams proves to be rather a frost and fails to live up to the reputation acquired during the latter part of last season, the same old bunch will be around with 'there is the greatest horseshoe guy in the world. He has nothing but a pitcher's mitt and a prayer. I always knew he was a frost.'

The which reminds us of the uncertainties of fame. Heroes are up one day and down the next not unlike the bulb of the thermometer. Adams is resting on the pinnacle of fame. He may be plunged into the abyss of down and out tomorrow. It is to be hoped that he goes along and makes a great pitcher, but you can never tell in baseball.

Because of the policy of the Y. M. C. A. in not permitting the high school basket ball team to use the association gymnasium for the games scheduled for Duluth, the Blaine game of Saturday will have to be played in the somewhat cramped quarters of the boys' department gymnasium. The players will have barely enough room to play in, so that there will be accommodation for but few spectators.

In other cities high school teams have no trouble in making satisfactory arrangements in getting association gymnasiums for basket ball contests and other indoor sports.

The present season the Central high school has one of the best basket ball teams in its history. It deserves every encouragement, for the boys have gone ahead in the face of many discouragements. They have asked the Y. M. C. A. team to give them a practice game, which might be a mutual benefit. The request was refused, the students claim.

Word from London of the doings of young [illegible] McGoorty, a Wisconsin [illegible], who is clever with his hands, says that Edward is matched to meet [illegible] Connelly, whom one would imagine was of Celtic extraction, at Belfast, Ireland.

McGoorty is winning most of his bouts on the other side of the raging pond, and when he returns to the gentle prairies of Oshkosh and Eau Claire, the butter makers and dairymen are very apt to leave the chores for the day and give the prodigal son a real at home welcome. For a man that has been brought up in somewhat the same pugilistic atmosphere as Curley Ulrich, this McGoorty boy has accomplished wonders.

The fight in the American association promises to be a very sultry one the present season. The American association has been known for some time as the haven of the has-beens. The coming season Minneapolis will as usual, draw a quota of veterans from the big league discard. The team will probably start the season in a hurrah fashion and blow up at the finish, as it did last season. Lack of harmony and good habits has been the reason of failure to cop at Minneapolis.

At Toledo, Sister Armour is sure making a strenuous endeavor to get a pennant winning team together. Having once won the pennant, the appetites of the fans of the Blue Grass region are on edge for more of the delicious relish, and the manager of the "Looyville" bunch is making a strenuous endeavor to get another winner into the harness of the popular bugy.

Indianapolis made such a wretched showing last season that the fans will be grouchy all season, if Carr doesn't give them a team that will finish right at the heels of the hounds, so to speak. Then there is the case of St. Paul. Michael Kelly has been doing great work with a bunch of discards, and never winners. He hopes to do even better the present season.

When Mike came back to the capital of the state, after the big runin with George E. Lennon, had been given something like a year or two to cool and gather discretion, he found about the worst team that ever drew semi-monthly salaries. Since having charge of the team, Mike has been strenuously trying to get together an aggregation that would at least look well in uniforms. Last season the team played better ball after Mike was at the helm of the ship, but far from the kind of baseball that will win the calico.

"BABE" ADAMS.

He will begin the present season with some kind of material, and will attempt to give the fans good enough baseball to make up for the article the past few seasons. They don't care much at Kansas City. They are so used to bum and beggarly baseball that a pennant winning team would be too great a shock. At Milwaukee, McCloskey has gathered together a bunch that will make all the other teams fight for the running.

Verily, pre-season literature would indicate that the race will be to the swift.

O'Keefe Had Best of It.

Mike O'Keefe of Superior clearly had a shade the better of a 15-round encounter with "Scraps" Costello last night. O'Keefe fought cleaner and landed a greater number of blows than his opponent. Curley Ulrich was scheduled to go in, but intervention made it impossible to stage the bout. Other bouts, in which a black put a white to rout, were held during the evening.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL CAPTAIN

ARTHUR JOHNSON.

Arthur Johnson has been elected captain of the Central football team for next season. He played guard on the team the last season and made a very good showing. It is believed with the new material that will come to school next season and with the experience gained by some of the candidates the past season Johnson will have material to turn out a winning team.

Leaders in Amateur Hockey League Win From Adams 3 to 0.

Ice Is Soft, But Fast Teams Play Great Game at Adams Rink.

Standing of the Teams.

| Northern Jrs. | 1 | 1 | .500 |
| Hunters Park | 1 | 2 | .333 |
| Fairmonts | 0 | 4 | .000 |

Last night on the Adams rink in the West end the Big Duluth kept their place at the head of the City Amateur Hockey league by blanking the aspiring Adams by the score of 3 to 0.

Earl Cummings, the star center of the Big Duluths, again distinguished himself, as he has in other games this winter, shooting two clean goals and passing the puck to Wharton in the play which scored the third net of the contest.

The first score was shot by Cummings after ten minutes of play. The second goal came after fifteen minutes of the first half had been played, Cummings again proving the star performer. The third and last goal of the game came one minute after the second goal, Cummings passing the puck to Wharton, who shot a clean and clever net.

The ice was oft last night and the fact kept the players back. The referee was lenient and though there was considerable rough work no penalties were imposed.

Friday night the Northern Jrs. and Hunters Park team will meet at the same rink.

MINNEAPOLIS RIDERS COMING

Mill City Will Send Large Contingent to Duluth Ski Tournament.

A message was received yesterday by the officials of the Duluth Ski club from the officials of the Minneapolis Ski club makes certain that at least ten riders from that organization will compete in the big tournament to be held here a week from next Saturday.

Asmund Melgard of Minneapolis, who captured sixth place at the national tournament at Eau Claire last season, will be here for the tourney. Ole Larson, another Minneapolitan, who made the longest standing jump at the Eau Claire tournament, 131 feet, will also be a competitor at the Duluth tournament.

Word is being received every day from outside riders. Ole Mangseth, who is looked upon by some followers of skiing as a jumper who stands a very good chance of capturing the national honors at the Coleraine meet, will be here, as will T. Hemmestevedt of Eau Claire and Carl Eck and Fred Iverson of Red Wing. Oscar Gunderson of Chippewa Falls, one of the most daring jumpers in the country, will also be seen here.

If the conditions are ideal here it is very probable that the national record set the present season on the Chester hill slide, will be broken. The best riders in the country will be seen here, and the competition should be the strongest of any tournament ever held in Duluth.

GLEASON AND JEFF CONFER

Fight Situation Becoming Serious and Gleason Will Confer With Rickard.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 2—Jack Gleason, who arrived from San Francisco last night to confer with Sam Berger and James J. Jeffries, with reference to the place of holding the Jeffries-Johnson fight, announced after a short conference that he would leave at once for Nevada to confer with Tex Rickard, his partner in the enterprise, in an effort to induce him to hold the fight in San Francisco.

Jeffries left for the East last night.

PERSON IN GREAT SHAPE

Northwestern Champion Meeting All Comers in Preparation for Zybszko Match.

Chris Person will be in the best shape of his career when he stacks up against the big Pole Friday night. He has been working at the Duluth Athletic club gymnasium the present week as he never worked before, and if condition and confidence count Person will go on the mat ready for any game the European champion may spring.

Yesterday Person worked out with three wrestlers, Carl Nelson, William Trepanier and a large and husky fellow from West Duluth. The two lighter men gave Chris some fast work, just the kind he is looking for, while the big man weighing well over 200 pounds, gave Person all the tugging and lifting he wanted.

The gymnasium of the club has been filled every afternoon with enthusiasts of the game who have been watching the local man work out. Person will finish his training today and will simply take light work tomorrow.

A large number of Polish people from Superior bought a block of seats yesterday. It is certain that Zybszko will receive a royal welcome here, for indications point to a large attendance of his countrymen.

Draws at Curling Club.

The following draws have been made for Thursday's curling competitions of the Duluth Curling club: Magner vs. Woodruff; Harris vs. Gridley; McLeod vs. Dinham; Pugh vs. McGregor; Rulo vs. Brewer. The following draws are for Friday's play: Jacobi vs. Feethan; Stillman vs. Jamar; Tresise vs. Hurdon; Hall vs. Nichols; Whyte vs. West.

NEW SAILBOATS FOR THE FLEET

More Interest Will Be Taken in D. B. C. Races Next Season.

With two new boats planned for Class B and with the promise that the two Class B boats of Superior will sail in the races of the Duluth Boat club the coming season, and with at least three new 28-foot class boats to be added to the fleet, the coming summer should be the greatest season in the history of sailing at the Head of the Lakes.

C. S. Roulo and "Bob" Fisk have planned to buy new Class B boats, and if the Superior Class B boat owners make good their promise to sail in the Duluth Boat club races, the class that has been a joke for a long time will be made into a strong competitive one, in which a great deal of interest will be taken.

Phil Holgate will have a new 28-foot class sailing boat the coming season, and two other members of the club have stated that they will have new boats in the races. The Pierce boys are having the beck of the Minatour are having the deck of the Minatour expect to do some other repairing on the boat. Other owners of boats will have their crafts overhauled.

A dinner of the sailors of the Duluth Boat club will be held Monday evening. Cups and trophies won last year will be given out at this time. The cups have been engraved and will prove a source of intense gratification to the winners of the club races last season.

In addition to the giving out of the cups, plans for the coming season will be made. The adding of new boats to the fleet is expected to add new interest to the various classes, so that the coming season should be one of the best in the history of sailing at Duluth.

COMPANY A IS DEFEATED

Company I Team of Superior Outplays League Leaders and Wins 9 to 4.

The Company A. indoor baseball team of Duluth met its first defeat of the season last night, being beaten by the Company I team of Superior by the score of 9 to 4.

Lee was not at his usual form last night, and the hitters from the other side of the bay got to his curves at moments when hits meant runs. Kentfield and McGraw found the twirling of the Lee party particularly to their liking, both of the visitors smashing out pretty hits at times when hits counted.

Harris struck out 21 of the Company A players and at all times knew right where he was at. He had much the better of Lee. Lee was wild and unsteady at critical times.

The score:

| By innings | R. | H. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|

Batteries—Lee and Bennett; Harris and Peterson. Umpires—Foster and Madigan.

Cline Leads Demarest.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—H. P. Cline of Philadelphia took the lead over Calvin Demarest of Chicago, the international champion, in the opening block of their 1,500-point match for the world's championship here last night. The score of Cline was 500, that of Demarest 343.

FRED HERBERT SOLD.

Charles Koehler of New York Purchases Great Runner for $40,000.

New York, Feb. 2.—Fred Herbert, rated by handicappers as the best race horse in America, was sold by Sam Hildreth, for $40,000, yesterday. The name of the purchaser was not made known, but it is understood that he is Charles Koehler of this city, a wealthy piano manufacturer, who recently bought Uncle from Hildreth.

ZYBSZKO THROWS ROGERS.

Pole Wins Match at Columbus in Two Straight Falls.

Zybszko threw Yankee Rogers, the Eastern champion heavyweight, last night at Columbus in two straight falls in less than 40 minutes. A Columbus dispatch says the science of the catch-as-catch-can game and the great strength shown by the Pole were nothing short of marvelous.

Zybszko will wrestle a finish match with Henry Ordeman in Minneapolis tonight. He will arrive in Duluth Friday morning. It is reported that a special train from Houghton, Mich., will bring a large number of Polish people to Duluth to witness the wrestling match.

MARION WILL NOT SIGN.

Rube Demands More Money From Rohman of St. Louis Nationals.

Rube Marion has sent his contract back to Stanley Robinson, president of the St. Louis Nationals, with a letter telling the St. Louis magnate that he would not play for the amount specified in the contract. The contract offered Marion calls for $200 a month. In addition to the low salary, Robinson asked Marion to pay his own carfare to Little Rock, Ark., where the Cardinals will train. Rube is holding out for $250 a month, the figures offered him when he was originally drafted by the Cardinals, before coming to Duluth.

New League Planned.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—Plans have been perfected for the organization of a new baseball league here to be known as the Northern Association of Baseball clubs.

Jacksonville, Decatur, Joliet, Ill., and Clinton, Iowa, have thus far been given a franchise in the league.

S.S.S. CURES RHEUMATISM

"YOU ADVISED ME TO USE S. S. S. FOR RHEUMATISM. I DID SO AND IT CURED ME."

The above is an extract from a letter which we publish below, from Mr. J. O'Malley. As he says, we advised him to use S. S. S. for Rheumatism, and at the same time we told him why it would cure him. In this short talk we want to tell every one who is suffering with Rheumatism, about the principle on which S. S. S. works, and explain exactly how it cures this disease. We believe you will agree with us that it is the only possible way in which to cure the trouble.

The cause of Rheumatism is an excess of uric acid in the blood. This uratic impurity gets into the circulation by absorption, usually because of chronic constipation, weak kidneys, and other systemic irregularities. Then the blood becomes weak and sour, and irritating urate particles are formed in this vital fluid. When in this impure condition the blood cannot furnish the necessary amount of nourishment to the different muscles, tendons, nerves and ligaments of the body. Instead, it constantly steeps them in the briny, acrid matter, and the gritty, urate particles collect in the joints, which causes the pains, aches and soreness of Rheumatism. Gradually every symptom grows worse, the pains are more frequent and severe, the muscles become sore and tender, and constant contact with the acrid blood slowly dries up the natural fluids of the joints, causing the knees, ankles, fingers, etc., to become swollen and stiff.

Rubbing the affected portions of the body, or the application of liniments, plasters, hot cloths, etc., may furnish relief from the acute pain of an attack of the trouble, but until the blood is purified of the cause Rheumatism will remain in the system, gradually growing worse.

You advised me to use S. S. S. for Rheumatism, I did so and it cured me. I was for a year in such a helpless condition from the effects of Rheumatism that I was scarcely able to dress or feed myself. I tried a great many things during that time, but nothing gave me any permanent relief. Then I commenced S. S. S., and took the first dose while hobbling about on crutches. After using it awhile I was so much relieved that I was able to relinquish the use of one crutch. A faithful continuance of S. S. S. cured me sound and well shortly afterward, and I was able to go to my work. I have never had any return of the symptoms of Rheumatism, although S. S. S. cured me five years ago.
J. O'MALLEY.
2135 N. Senate Ave., Indianapolis, Ind.

There is but one way to cure Rheumatism, and that is to cleanse the blood of the uric acid poison. S. S. S. goes into the circulation and attacks the disease at its head. It removes the cause for the reason that it is the greatest of all blood purifiers. It filters out every trace of the sour, inflammatory matter, cools the acid-heated blood, furnishes the material for multiplying the rich, nutritious corpuscles, and by its tonic effects assists the system to rapidly overcome every symptom of the disease. S. S. S. is purely vegetable, and may be used by any one with perfect safety. The fact that S. S. S. has been curing Rheumatism for more than forty years is one of the reasons why we say it will cure you. Special book on Rheumatism and any medical advice desired, to all who write and request same.

INJURIES NOT SERIOUS

Fireman Hurt in Wreck Near Washburn, Wis., Will Recover.

Body of Dead Engineer Is Taken to Home of Brother.

David Gibson, the Northern Pacific fireman who was injured in a wreck at Lenawee on the Washburn branch yesterday morning, will survive, according to statements made today by attending physicians. He was brought to the West end late yesterday and taken to his home at the Clarendon hotel. He was badly cut about the head.

The body of Amos J. Burton, the dead engineer, which was taken from under the derailed engine after a half day's work, is now at the home of his brother, William C. Burton, of 2127 West Third street, with whom the deceased had made his home for a num-

The funeral will be held tomorrow Luke's Episcopal church, Nineteenth avenue west and First street, with Rev. W. E. Harmann, pastor of the congregation, officiating. The body will be sent on the evening train to Winton, Minn., where interment will be made.

The dead engineer is survived by three brothers and one sister. The brothers are all railroad men and are William C. Burton of 2127 West Third street, Omar E. Burton of 2314 West Third street and F. A. Burton of Jamestown, N. D. His sister is Miss Sadie L. Burton of Jackson, Minn. She has been notified of his death and will attend the funeral. The brother in North Dakota has also been notified.

Mr. Burton was one of the oldest engineers in the service of the company and the wreck that proved fatal to him was the third in his experience. In the first wreck Mr. Burton came out without a scratch. Two years ago he jumped from a locomotive before the smash-up came, and he escaped with a broken wrist.

Mr. Burton was a single man and was 33 years old. He came to the West end a number of years ago. He was substituting for another engineer on the Washburn branch yesterday and was not familiar with the road, it is said. Gibson, the fireman, was the only member of the train crew who had ever been over the branch before.

The accident which proved fatal to Burton occured about 10 o'clock yesterday morning at Lenawee, twenty miles out of Washburn. The engine left the track and went into the ditch. Burton and Gibson could not jump in time and both were pinned under the engine. Burton was found dead, but Gibson was revived and is expected to live.

The railroad officials are investigating the cause of the wreck.

DIES IN MINNEAPOLIS.

Peter Strombeck of the West End Succumbs to Tuberculosis.

Peter Strombeck, 37 years old, of 2835 West Third street died yesterday in a Minneapolis hospital, where he had been taking treatment for the past three weeks for tuberculosis. The dead man has two sisters and a brother, Elol Strombeck, in Duluth.

He was a member of the North Star lodge, No. 11 of Good Templars and had lived in the West end about six years. The funeral will be held in Minneapolis.

DEATH DUE TO MENINGITIS

Physicians Say That Young Printer Was Not Poisoned.

That the death of James Hawkins, 20 years old, which occurred yesterday morning at his boarding place, 2825 West First street, came about under very peculiar circumstances, which culminated in acute meningitis, was the verdict of three physicians, Dr. A. J. Braden, Dr. C. L. Haney and Dr. R. E. Cavanaugh, who conducted a post-mortem over the body last evening.

"The case is one that you would not see in a thousand," said one of the physicians today. "It is hardly possible to trace the malady back to a definite cause, but from the general symptoms, it appears that the young man had a very marked case of meningitis." There was no trace of poisoning, according to the doctors.

Hawkins was a printer and worked in an up-town establishment. He quit work Saturday noon, stating that he felt slightly ill. He visited with friends Sunday and went to church in the evening. The next morning during the early hours, he became suddenly ill, as if he had been poisoned, and died in convulsions.

Hawkins parents were dead, but up to three weeks ago lived with an aunt, Mrs. E. Gustafson of 2306 West Eighth street. He is survived by a sister, Miss Vivian Hawkins of Superior.

The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Swedish Baptist church, Nineteenth avenue west and First street. Rev. Swaney Nelson will officiate. Interment will be at Park Hill cemetery.

Engineer Is Injured.

Swan Anderson of 2723 West First street, an engineer for the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad, was seriously injured yesterday at Virginia, when he fell from a locomotive, spraining his back. Mr. Anderson returned to the West end last evening. He was taken to his home, where he will be confined several days.

Superior Lodge to Visit.

Harmony lodge, Independent Order of Good Templars of Superior tomorrow evening will be the guests of the members of the North Star lodge, No. 11, I. O. G. T. of the West end at Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street. They will be entertained with a good program followed by refreshments. The affair Thursday evening will be in return for one tendered to the West enders by the Superior lodge two weeks ago.

West End Shortrails.

The Ladies Guild of the St. Peter's Swedish Episcopal church will be entertained tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Wollin, West Michigan street.

The Tabitha Society of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church will be entertained tomorrow evening at the home of Misses Athley and Esther Anderson, 2013 West Sixth street.

The body of Katherine Noback, aged 70 years, who died yesterday at St. Mary's hospital was sent today to her home at Willow River, Minn.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Swedish church will meet this evening at the church to make preparations for a celebration next week in commemoration of the founding of the society twenty-five years ago.

The regular monthly session of the Swedish M. E. church will be held tonight. Only routine matters will be taken up.

Mrs. J. Elliott of 2514 West Second street entertained the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies of the Grace M. E. church at her home this afternoon.

Mrs. George M. Jensen of 114 North Twenty-first avenue west entertained fifteen of her friends at a birthday party yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. August Anderson of 2113 West First street will entertain the Ladies' Aid Socity of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church at her home tomorrow afternoon.

Miss Martha Perry of 2833 West Third street entertained the Queen Esther Circle of the Grace M. E. church at her home last evening.

Rev. M. O. Stockland has returned from a business trip to Aitkin, Minn.

The Young Women's Guild of the St. Luke's Episcopal church will give an oyster supper tomorrow evening at the church, Nineteenth avenue west and First street.

EXAMINATIONS AT HIGH SCHOOL

Work of First Semester Will Be Closed Up This Week.

Principal Buck this morning announced the schedule for the final examinations at the Central high school, and tomorrow and Friday the pupils will be busy winding up their work for the first semester. Following is the schedule of examinations:

Thursday—First period classes, 9 to 10:20 a. m.; second period classes, 10:30 to 12 a. m.; third period classes, 12:30 to 2 p. m.

Friday—Fourth period classes, 9 to 10:30 a. m.; fifth period classes, 10:30 to 12 a. m.; sixth period classes, 12:30 to 2 p. m.

The examinations will be held in the recitation rooms and each teacher will make out his own questions instead of the several different teachers in charge of the same subject making out one examination for all the pupils taking the subject as last year.

BECOMES BRIDE OF AN AMERICAN

William Astor's Granddaughter Weds William Phillips of Boston.

London, Feb. 2.—Miss Carolina Astor Drayton of New York, who is the only daughter of J. Coleman Drayton and is the granddaughter of the late William Astor, became today the wife of William Phillips, secretary of the American embassy. The parish church at Rogate, Sussex, was the scene of the wedding ceremony, which was witnessed by a large party of relatives and friends. Rev. Canon Edgar Sheppard, sub-dean of the Chapel Royal, officiated.

Mr. Phillips, whose home is in Boston, was third assistant secretary of state, during the administration of President Roosevelt, and was a member of the famous "Tennis cabinet."

"AS CERTAIN AS QUININE"

This Is Said of the New Austrian Specific for Asthma.

A specific for asthma as certain as quinine for fever has long been desired and sought. "Ascatco is a specific for asthma as quinine is for malarial fever," is the assertion of the Rev. F. B. Moran, rector of the Catholic church, Arnaudville, La., regarding the Austrian asthma treatment, through which so many thousands have regained their health. Rev. Mr. Moran says: "I used ascatco for asthma when all else failed. I recommended it to friends, and particularly to physicians, who were glad to hear that a specific for asthma had been discovered." Now, three years later, Rev. Mr. Moran reports: "I have suffered no more from asthma since." His experience is paralleled, and even exceeded, by asthma sufferers in all parts of the country, the most remarkable part of their testimony being that they have had no return of asthma after lapses of three, five and even six years.

It is not necessary to journey to any institution to take the ascatco treatment, as it can be pursued right at home without interfering with daily duties, and sufficient of the remedy for a trial will be sent free to any one who will write to the Austrian Laboratory, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York city. The genuine ascatco for the regular treatment may now be procured in both the 50-cent and $2 sizes, at the Lyceum Pharmacy and W. A. Abbett's in Duluth, the A. E. Holmberg Drug Co., in Superior, and other leading drug stores.

WILL CALL UPON EASTERN PACKERS

Grand Jury at Chicago Said to Be Planning to Summon Them.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—Eastern employes and officials of the big meat packing companies will be subpoenaed in the federal grand jury investigation of the methods of the so-called beef trust. Such a report at least was current about the federal building today. William R. Maderas, a government officer, working on the packers' case, is in New York, and is said to have summoned a certain Mr. Marks to appear here.

The grand jury today turned its attention to a mass of documents concerning the workings of the National Packing company.

MONTREAL OUSTS OLD ALDERMEN.

Montreal, Can., Feb. 2.—The civic elections yesterday resulted in a victory for the ticket of the Citizens' association headed by Dr. James Guerin, the mayoralty candidate. The city for the first time elected a board of control. Of the aldermen who were accused of malversation in the report of Judge Cannon, who conducted an inquiry under royal commission into the city's affairs, not one was re-elected.

BRAINERD WILL SAVE.

Purchase of Larger Pump for Water Works Will Be Profitable.

Brainerd, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The water and light board has purchased a Fairbanks & Morse pump of 3,000,000 gallons daily capacity, for use at the water works plant.

The board figures that a pump of this style and capacity will pay for itself in two years, by the saving in fuel, besides giving the city much better water pressure. The pump will probably be installed, and in running order in about six weeks.

The present pumps, which have a capacity of about 1,000,000 per day will be left where they are, all coupled up, ready for use in case of a breakdown. It is thought that the new pump will be sufficient for all the needs of the city for ten years to come.

WANTS INVESTIGATION OF HIGH PRICES

—Copyrighted by George Grantham Bain.

MRS. FREDERICK NATHAN.

Mrs. Frederick Nathan is the president of the Consumers' League of New York, an organization which concerns itself with the condition of working women and children. The aim of the organization is "through public sentiment to improve industrial conditions for women and children by securing strict regulation of child labor and a shorter working day for women employed in factories and stores; to obtain for all consumers pure food and garments made under sanitary conditions." The vice president of the organization is Miss Helen Phelps Stokes. In connection with its work the league has considered the high prices of food, and at its meeting this week Mrs. Nathan spoke on this subject suggesting action looking toward an investigation of the causes for the high prices and their removal, if practicable.

COURT UPSETS SNIDER VERDICT

Refuses to Allow $8,000 Damages for Alienation of Man's Affections.

Fargo, N. D., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The jury in the case of Mrs. Adalyn Snider vs. Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Snider, today brought in a verdict for $8,000. Judge Pollock immediately set aside the verdict as excessive and the case will be appealed to the supreme court.

Mrs. Snider sued her husband's parents for $20,000 damages for alleged alienation of her husband's affections.

The parties in the case formerly resided near Galva, Ill., where young Snider, at the age of 19, married a girl of 17. After a rather precarious existence they went to live with the husband's parents, who had in the meantime removed to this state. The plaintiff returned to Illinois after a few months here, and soon afterwards started the present action.

One of the features of the case was that the plaintiff claimed the defendants endeavored to enforce her to embrace the Christian Science faith.

READY TO TAKE JONES TO PRISON

North Dakota Banker Cannot Raise $50,000 Bonds for an Appeal.

Fargo, N. D., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Andy J. Jones, convicted of wrecking the First National Bank of Rugby, of which he was cashier, probably will be taken tonight to the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan. United States Marshal Shea and guard plan to leave with the prisoner over the Northern Pacific.

Jones' bonds were fixed at $50,000 for the purpose of an appeal, but he could not raise the amount and has been in the Cass county jail since Judge Amidon of the United States court imposed a ten-year sentence over two weeks ago.

Jurors in Hard Luck.

Rugby, N. D., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Since the opening of the district court here, two members of the petit jury have met with misfortune. Iver Acker of Tunbridge, suffered a paralytic stroke and is now in the local hospital, while Ole Lokken of Girard, was called home by the serious illness of his son, who is not expected to live.

Both Sent to Penitentiary.

Oshkosh, Wis., Feb. 2.—Judge G. W. Purnell sentenced Mrs. Elsie Morris to five years in the state prison at Waupun. Mrs. Morris was convicted of receiving stolen property from two robberies, in each of which the value of the goods taken was more than $1,000. The husband of Mrs. Morris was given a five-year sentence recently. Morris confessed to a large string of house robberies here in which two patrol wagons full of goods were recovered.

Pennsylvania Gets $100,000.

Philadelphia, Feb. 2.—Announcement is made by the trustees of the University of Pennsylvania that a gift of $100,000 has been received for a chair in the medical department of the institution. Further particulars of the gift will be announced on "University day," Feb. 22.

Twenty Per Cent Off all Felt Shoes.

Contrary to the impression given to the people of Duluth in a recent prominent interview of a local wholesaler, the Columbia announces that there will not be any 25 per cent advance in the price of its shoes, nor any curtailing of quality to maintain the old prices. The "Columbia $3.50 Shoe," of which enormous new shipments are now being unpacked, will even more than heretofore be the greatest all-the-year-round Shoe Bargain on Superior street. The small advance we have to pay to the manufacturer will be borne by us in the hope of more than making up by another such big increase in business as our Shoe Department showed in the year of 1909.

Only Gloved Hands Pick "Sunkist" Oranges

We use great care in picking the famous "SUNKIST" ORANGES.

Each "SUNKIST" ORANGE is picked from the tree and packed in the box by a gloved hand. No orange that falls to the ground is packed under the "SUNKIST" label.

"Sunkist" Navel Oranges Are Seedless

We grow 60 per cent of all the California oranges. Three-fourths of all the lemons. Most of them are sold in bulk, but the choicest selections of this great quantity are wrapped in the "SUNKIST" label, so that if you would be sure that you get the choicest pick, insist upon the "SUNKIST."

Beautiful Orange Spoon FREE

Some dealers may claim the oranges they sell are the famous "SUNKIST," but that they removed the wrapper. Insist on your dealer giving you oranges and lemons in the "SUNKIST" wrapper. If you do this we will give you a beautiful orange spoon—one of Rogers' best standard AA quality. Just send us twelve "SUNKIST" orange or lemon wrappers, with six 2c stamps to pay postage, packing, etc., and receive one of these beautiful spoons by return mail.

The choicest quality of lemons also go under the "SUNKIST" label. You can easily secure a whole dozen of these beautiful orange spoons. Get a dozen "SUNKIST" oranges or lemons today.

Send to California Fruit Growers' Exchange, 34 Clark Street, Chicago, Ill.

INSURGENTS ARE IN FAVOR

Washington Man Says Movement Is Viewed With Respect in Capital.

Great Change in Sentiment During Seven Years of Roosevelt.

J. L. Verpagel of Washington, D. C., who has followed the doings of congress with a great deal of interest the present winter, is a guest of the Lenox hotel today. If the statement of Mr. Verpagel is correct, the strife between the regulars of the Republican party and the insurgents of congress is quite the feature of political and official Washington life. People in Washington believe it is destined to become the dominant issue of the present term of President Taft, according to the statement made today by Mr. Vorpagel.

"The following of the insurgents throughout the West is growing, if the information received at Washington is correct," said Mr. Vorpagel today. "The most significant fact of the whole matter is that these men who are most active in the insurgent movement are receiving the hearty support of their constituents. That fact alone makes the movement one that will eventually be settled outside of the floors of congress.

"Just as Cannonism has become a live and growing issue the past few years, so has reform within the ranks of the Republican national party come to be looked upon as an issue that will have to be considered in the future. In Washington we hear more of the activities of the insurgents than you do in the West, and I believe I am correct when I make the statement crediting the insurgents with receiving encouragement from a large and enthusiastic following of people in the West.

"Washington people take a very different view of Taft and Roosevelt. There is already a feeling in Washington that the present executive of the nation will fail to carry out many of the Roosevelt policies. This very fact has given rise to a feeling of sympathy with the growth of the insurgent movement, though Washington is known as an administration community, in sentiment, sympathy and thought.

"Politics has taken on a decided change since Mr. Roosevelt first went to the White House. Presidents before him did much what were expected of them, leaving out of consideration some of the acts of the late Grover Cleveland. Nothing occurred in President McKinley's term that shocked official Washington. How different it was during the reign of 'Teddy.'

"You might say that Mr. Roosevelt paved the way for a new political thought and action that is not bounded by party lines. During Mr. Taft's term an attempt has been made to get back to the calm and undisturbed convention of the McKinley term. In Washington we are watching the attempt with a great deal of interest.

"The insurgents are making headway—there can be little doubt of that. Their movement is a continuance of the political action formed during the term of Mr. Roosevelt as president. Mr. Roosevelt found instant sympathy and support in the West; just so is the insurgent movement finding approval and encouragement from the voters of the same section of the country.

"The East frowned upon many of the acts of the former president. In the same way the insurgent movement finds little sympathy in the East. During the first months of the original activity of President Roosevelt, he found little sympathy in Washington. He was at first misunderstood and mistrusted. Later he was better understood and had a large following. Just so has the insurgent movement been received at Washington. It is growing in favor. It is no longer looked upon as a political maverick, or a fad or an idea of misguided or disgruntled politicians.

"Intelligent citizens of Washington who follow politicians with an interest that the environment ntaurally breeds, have discovered that the insurgent movement is broad and national in its scope, and that while many of the politicians and statesmen of the East are disposed to laugh at it, there is an immense following behind the new political thought which will have to be reckoned with in the future.

"For that reason the insurgent movement is taken more seriously at Washington the present winter than it was at its inception."

WANTS $5,000 FOR INJURED HAND

Workman Sues for Damages on Account of Mine Accident.

Arvid Alto wants $5,000 from the La Rue Mining company for the loss of one finger and the crushing of another while at work in one of the company's mines at Nashwauk last fall.

Alto claims that when the accident occurred on Nov. 3, he was employed in a drift in the underground mine. It was a part of his duty to start the loaded cars off and fill their places with empties. In some way his hand became wedged between the timbers and the car. The middle finger on his right hand was so badly crushed that it later had to be amputated. One of the other fingers was crushed so that he claims it is now useless.

He claims negligence on the part of the company and asks $5,000 to compensate him for the injuries sustained.

TWO INSURANCE MEN ARE INDICTED

Reed and Peck Accused By Grand Jury of Being Perjurers.

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 2.—The grand jury of Onondaga county today reported indictments for perjury against Ira C. Reed, president, and Willard H. Peck, secretary of the People's Mutual Life Assurance Association and League. The jurors reported to the court that they had made a close investigation of the recent transfer of the association and were indignant over the disclosures, but were unable to find any indictments for larceny, as it did not appear that the money involved was the money of the association.

HEAVY FINE FOR YOUTHFUL THIEF

Boy Says He Was Drunk and Bartender Will Be Arrested.

Mike Atel, a boy 18 years of age, was fined $100 and costs or ninety days in the police court this morning, upon admitting that he stole a box of cigars from the cigar case in the saloon at the new Clarendon hotel, Garfield avenue and Superior street.

The youth declared that he was drunk on liquor sold him over the bar of the saloon when he took the cigars. He said that had he not been under the influence he would not have committed the theft.

This morning the boy's mother swore out a warrant for the arrest of Robert Orey, charging him with selling liquor to a minor. He had not been arrested at noon, but it was expected that he would be arraigned in the police court this afternoon.

The boy is said to have crawled back of the cigar case in the front of the place, separated from the bar by a screen, while the dispenser was busy selling drinks. Some one is said to have seen him running away from the place and to have notified the police. He was taken into custody about an hour afterwards by Lieut. Drennan.

Herman Fishman, a peddler, was arrested yesterday charged with peddling without a license. This morning he failed to appear and his bail of $5 was declared forfeited.

* * *

The remainder of the grist was light, only two drunks appearing. They pleaded guilty and got off with light sentences.

MARINETTE HERMIT DEAD FROM HANGING.

Menominee, Mich., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles Smith, aged 45, a hermit, was found in a shack in Marinette, hanging by the neck. He had been dead two weeks. He was last seen twenty days ago. He left a note dated Jan. 13, saying he had tired of life and would end it all.

Menominee Home Burglarized.

Menominee, Mich., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—During the absence of David Wilson and his family, on Sunday afternoon, their residence here was entered by thieves and jewelry and silverware stolen. Mr. Wilson is paying teller of the Lumbermen's National bank.

RAILROADS

GENERAL OFFICE GOES TO ST. PAUL

Great Northern Will Make Important Change in Immigration Department.

Information was received here today to the effect that the Great Northern Railway company will remove its general immigration office from Chicago to St. Paul. E. C. Leedy, well known to many of the railroad men of the city, will be in charge of the office.

Since the establishment of the immigration department of the Great Northern the office has been maintained at Chicago. The growth of the immigration to the Northwest has led the officials of the company to decide upon the transfer of the office.

The moving of the office from Chicago to St. Paul will be a help to Duluth, in that this district will receive more attention from the main office of the company. Heretofore the office at St. Paul has been only a branch of the main office at Chicago.

ROAD TO HUDSON BAY.

Canada Will Build Line and Corporation Will Run It.

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 2.—Canada will begin the construction of a railway to Hudson Bay next spring. This announcement was made to parliament by George P. Graham, minister of railway. The road will be built as a government work, but probably will be operated by one of the existing private corporations or by several jointly. It is calculated that the route will be available four months in the year and that a great portion of the Western Canada wheat crop can be hauled out each year at a saving of 5 cents a bushel in freight. The line is expected to be open for business in three years.

Whittenden Is Manager.

Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 2.—Announcement is made of the appointment of William Whittenton as vice president and general manager of the Chicago, Rock Island & Gulf railroad, with headquarters at Fort Worth, Tex. Mr. Whittenton will succeed J. W. Robbins, recently elected as president of the Trinity & Brazos Valley railroad.

POSTALS WILL BE PRETTIER

New Style of Card Is Being Printed on Uncle Sam's Presses.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Although the souvenir picture postcard has to a certain extent replaced the ordinary postal card of the United States as a carrier of short messages, the regulation card of the government has an enormous sale, amounting to many millions every year, and the postal authorities are hopeful that the demand will be increased with the adoption of a new style card which will be placed in postoffices this week. This new card is printed on a better quality and lighter paper, is of a bluish tinge, and bears the portrait of President McKinley.

The work is being done at the government printing office for the first time. Until all of the new presses are installed, the issue will be approximately 1,500,000 a day; afterwards it will aggregate 3,500,000 a day.

DULUTH BEHIND OLDER CITIES

Des Moines Official Says Plumbing Inspection Can Be Improved.

F. M. Watson, chief plumbing inspector of Des Moines, Iowa, left yesterday for Minneapolis after making an inspection of sanitary conditions in the city for the purpose of getting information which might be of benefit to his own city.

He states that the conditions in Duluth are behind those of older cities, but with the facilities for drainage he states that they will eventually be among the best in the country. He believes that the office of plumbing inspector should be taken out of politics and placed under civil service. He states that it has been his observation that the city gets better results from its employes where this plan is followed.

Mr. Watson is a strong advocate of the commission plan of government. He declares that it has been the most beneficial reform ever adopted in Des Moines, improving the administration of municipal affairs immensely. He believes that before many more years the commission plan will have been adopted in all the large, progressive cities in the United States.

He is returning from the recent plumbing inspectors' convention at Trenton, N. J., and is visiting the larger cities in the East and Middle West in search of new ideas.

INJURED GIRL GIVEN DAMAGES

Verdict of $300 Against Chas. Thornton on Account of Auto Accident.

A jury in the district court this morning returned a verdict of $300 in favor of Lillian Kaner of Superior, who sued Charles Thornton for $7,500 for injuries sustained as the result of an automobile accident.

The car was being driven by Mr. Thornton's son at the time the accident occurred. The defense claimed that in trying to avoid a general smash up with a runaway team, the girl was hit. It was claimed that she also stepped out of the way and then turned back, directly in front of the moving machine.

The case was tried before Judge Dibell. As a result of the accident Miss Kaner sustained an injury to the ankle, from which she has not as yet fully recovered.

SUES FOR DAMAGES FOR INJURED BOY

City Sued on Account of Railing Alleged to Have Been Defective.

In two cases, both based on the condition of a sidewalk maintained by the City of Duluth, Thomas Dillon is suing in district court for $2,650. The cases were taken up this morning before Judge Cant. Dillon is suing for damages for injuries alleged to have been sustained by his son, Edward, a minor.

As a result of a fall, due, as he alleges in his complaint to the rotting away of a railing, the boy was badly bruised, cut in different parts of his body and his right leg was fractured. He had to remain at home from school for some time and the father alleges that his son has been injured to the extent of $2,500. The father wants in addition $150, the expense of caring for the boy while he was laid up. The cases which are listed as two separate cases, are being tried as one.

Old Menominee Carrier Stricken.

Menominee, Mich., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—N. W. Goodrich, who has been a letter carrier in Menominee for twenty years, and who is one of the oldest mail men in the employ of Uncle Sam, was stricken with apoplexy while on duty in the Menominee postoffice and is in a critical condition.

"CITY OF CANALS" HAS HAD NO FLOOD

Venice Has Not Been Visited By an Unusual Amount of Water.

Venice, Feb. 2.—Inquiries from abroad concerning the startling stories which have been printed in a portion of the American press, purporting to describe the ravages of a flood in this city have caused much surprise and no little amazement. Far from there having been a flood, the "City of Canals" has not been so much as threatened with damage.

Last week the lagoons rose a few inches, the waters reaching the lowest part of the piazza of St. Mark. After a few hours the waters receded. This sort of a rise is a matter of annual occurrence following the heavy rains of this season. If the miniature flood failed to come about this time, the fact would be regarded as a bit of interesting news.

TURKEY AND BULGARIA ARE REAL GOOD FRIENDS.

Vienna, Feb. 2.—A communique received from the Bulgarian government and published here today characterizes as "pure invention" the reports of strained relations between Turkey and Bulgaria, and preparations for war. The announcement concludes:

"The relations between the two countries are excellent and a commercial treaty which is on the point of being concluded will further strengthen these relations to the mutual advantage of the two nations.

HOT TIME OVER COLD STORAGE

New Jersey and New York Both Turn Probes in That Direction.

New York, Feb. 2.—The New Jersey side of the Hudson was today's center of activity in the attempt to find out why food prices are high. The investigating body was the Hudson county grand jury, which continued its probing into the cold storage business of the big packing companies and other concerns which maintain extensive warehouses in Jersey City.

The jurymen examined the numerous witnesses in an effort to learn what quantities of foodstuffs are stored in the various plants and whether there is any understanding among the firms to hold necessaries of life to regulate the supply, and get the highest possible prices. Cold storage seems to be the subject upon which the investigation of the high cost of living is being focused by probers in metropolitan territory generally.

Action along the lines of the New Jersey officials is expected on the part of the New York authorities, and it is announced that the women's organizations here, with the co-operation of the Health Protective society, will take up the campaign against ancient meats and other edibles stored for lengthy periods.

Debate Cold Storage.

Mass meetings will be held to debate the cold storage problem, and protest against high prices believed to be sustained by misuse of the system.

Meat prices are again on the upward trend. A third of a cent is the average advance in wholesale rates. One full cent added to present prices is predicted before the week end. Retailers report no increase in consumption. Shipments are much less free, wholesalers say, and supplies are dwindling even in the face of the reduced demand.

TRIED TO SCARE MAYOR.

Two Italians Convicted of Threatening Him for Money.

Edwardsville, Ill., Feb. 2.—A verdict of guilty was returned by a jury today against Frank Sicola, Joseph Pallazzollo and Louis Biondo, who were charged with attempting to extort money by threats from Former Mayor Lumaghi. The men were sentenced to serve an indeterminate sentence of one to twenty years. Witnesses testified that the defendants were members of an alleged Black Hand society.

MRS. TALBOT ACQUITTED.

Reno, Nev., Feb. 2.—Mrs. Mae Talbot, the former opera singer, was acquitted of the charge of murdering her husband, Albert E. Talbot. The jury was out forty-five minutes.

Bjornsen Is Dying.

Paris, Feb. 2.—Bjornstjerne Bjornsen, the Norwegian poet and novelist, whose condition has been critical recently, was said this morning to be dying.

MARKET HAS A DECLINE

Wheat Options Are Weaker in All the American Markets.

Flax Is Dull and Listless Closing Fractionally Lower.

Duluth Board of Trade, Feb. 2.—American markets were weak today, being influenced by lower Liverpool cables, the heavy receipts in the Northwest, easier cash premiums in most of the markets and a slackening in the cash demand.

Duluth May opened at $1.12, ⅜c lower than yesterday's close, sold at $1.12⅛ down to $1.11⅞, up to $1.12, then at $1.11⅞@1.12, $1.11½, $1.11⅝, 1.11¾, $1.10⅞@1.11, closing at $1.10⅞ bid.

The flax market was dull, offerings being small and buyers being prominent on account of their scarcity. May flax opened at $2.16, lost 1c, gained ½c, lost it and then sold at $2.15¼, up ¼c, and down again, closing at $2.15¼ bid.

Sentiment among wheat traders today was bearish. The cash demand fell off sharply and the Minneapolis market was flooded with grain. Receipts here were lighter, but the movement to Minneapolis held its own fairly well. The cash situation in the Southwest was also weak. The recent drop in red wheat in the St. Louis market had a softening effect. A telegram was received here about 1:30 a. m. saying that not a car of wheat had been sold at St. Louis up to that hour. The price of red wheat in that market has been high and a slump was expected. The cash situation in Chicago was also weak.

The entire list was weaker today from every standpoint. The foreign situation was soft, Liverpool closing lower on account of buyers holding aloof, heavier exports from Argentina and an increasing movement in the interior of that country, which forecasts increased shipments from Argentina in the near future. La Plata offerings were cheaper. The shipments from foreign countries to the United Kingdom and the continent continue good, and some traders are of the opinion that the foreigner will have sufficient grain at his disposal in the supplies from other countries. This argument is offset with the statement by bulls that the quality of the Argentine crop is poor and that Americans will be needed for mixing purposes, if for no other. A large amount of grain is afloat and most of it is headed for the United Kingdom, a fact which has a depressing effect on the spot and futures in the English markets.

There was considerable wheat for sale today, especially at Minneapolis. The interior elevators report good stocks on hand, but say that farmers are inclined to ask for higher prices. Sentiment on this question remains mixed, some elevator men maintaining that the farmer has been feeding out his supplies. Line houses are carrying fair supplies, the accumulation being due, principally to the inability of the railroads to handle shipments with dispatch. The elevators in the Northwest owned by farmers' co-operative associations are said to be full and the owners are holding for higher prices. The independent concerns have reaped financial profits in the past and this year they are said to have made a killing on flax. These concerns generally maintain a bullish attitude toward wheat.

Premiums are holding fairly firm in their relative positions toward futures despite the easier cash demand. The millers still remain a big factor, in fact the leading influence, in the market. The comparatively small increase in the visible supply indicates that most of the wheat which has been arriving does not figure largely in public stocks. That this condition may be changing somewhat now and that public stocks will begin to show heavy increases is the belief of some bears who say that the willing demand, so far as the country mills in the Northwest are concerned, is slackening and that prices are out of line for bids on future business.

The interior movement in the Northwest has not relieved congestion at shipping points nor in the terminal yards to any great extent. Some traders think this fact has held back shipments and others believe that the heavy receipts at Northwestern markets were caused by a deluge of grain that had been held up and that when conditions become normal the receipts will drop off. The bear argues that the movement will increase in the ratio of improved transportation service. He thinks the influx of grain will continue at least at its present level, if not higher, for the next sixty days.

A few calamity crop reports are coming in, especially from the Southwest, but the market is not disposed to pay much attention to them at this time.

The outside speculative public does not seem enthusiastic over the long side and some of the larger traders are inclined to flirt with the bears. In this respect the grain markets bear a resemblance to the stock markets in which the public is an almost unrecognizable factor.

There was little support to the market toward the close today, and the market continued to decline. The foreign demand was negligible today, said Ames-Brooks, the foreigners being influenced by the increased exports from Argentina.

A sensational report from Bartlett-Patten toward the close contributed to the general decline. The telegram said that the Minneapolis mills are contemplating a shut down on account of poor business. If this is true it means that the bull movement of the millers has fallen through and that their attitude, their arguments and their position were not legitimate, as Bartlett-Patten have claimed for some time. This report should be confirmed or denied tomorrow. Statements from the city millers have invariably been optimistic despite the reports of pessimistic character from the country mills.

The local wheat market was the weakest in the country today the emphasis of the decline being due largely to the weakness in the foreign market which put a damper on export business. Winnipeg also suffered from this factor, the near option closing 1⅛c off. In the May options, Chicago closed 1c off, Minneapolis 1⅜c off, New York ⅞c off, Kansas City, 1⅛c ff and St. Louis 1c off.

There were few offerings in flax and buyers were prominent by their absence. Receipts are at a minimum and stocks are stationary.

Durum closed ⅜c up, the high price being 99 cents. Oats closed ⅜c off, rye was unchanged, barley was the same as yesterday, and cash here equalled May. Cash premiums in Minneapolis were off about 1c on account of heavy receipts and a slackening in the cash demand. No. 1 northern was offered 1c over May and choice at 2c over.

MARKET GOSSIP

Canadian visible supply of wheat is 8,301,000 bu compared with 8,481,000 bu the previous week and 5,362,000 bu last year. The decrease in the visible supply last week was 180,000 bu compared with a loss of 1,124,000 bu for the same time last year. Wheat stocks in Canadian harbors and at the Head of the Lakes and Buffalo in bond amount to 4,238,000 bu which are not included in the figures relative to the visible supply.

In January Duluth received 1,695 cars of wheat against 2,106 in December and 713 cars January, 1909. Minneapolis received 9,528 cars in January of this year against 5,708 last December and 4,510 in January, 1909. The total car receipts of wheat for the two Northwestern markets were: January, 11,223; December, 7,814; January, 1909, 5,223.

Winnipeg received 4,108 cars in January, 7,632 in December and 2,329 in January, 1909. Chicago received 586 cars in January, 915 in December and 246 in January, 1909. For the four markets the January receipts were 15,917 cars, 16,361 in December and 7,798 in January, 1909.

The wheat acreage in France is officially estimated at 358,000 less than last year, when the acreage was 16,227,000.

"Up to the present date, the total primary receipts of oats at primary points is approximately 5,000,000 bu less out of the present crop than of the year previous," says James Simpson, the New York oats specialist. "It does not necessarily follow that because of this farmers are holding their oats. Why may it not follow that the farmer has been using them on the farm, and that the 'on farms' consumption has been far and away greater. The total receipts at all primary points out of the crop of 1908 was 27,700,000 bu less than out of the much smaller crop of 1907. In spite of that, the amount in farm hands Aug. 1, 1909, out of the 1908 crop was 26,000,000 bu according to the government whereas the quantity left on farms, Aug. 1, 1908, out of the 1907 crop was 38,000,000 bu. The total amount of oats shipped from the farms for the past five years follows: 1905, 277,133,000 bu; 1906, 266,182,000 bu; 1907, 210,923,000 bu; 1908, 244,568,000 bu. Just take note of the fact that out of the 807,600,000 bu crop of 1908, the shipments were 21,500,000 bu less than of the great crop of 1906, and then, also, note that there are no reserves—no surplus. Don't you see that these figures give you a chance to take into account the matter of extra farm consumption under certain conditions? Another point is, that the hay crop is way short this year, and there was an especially small percentage of clover and clover mixed grades of hay in the crop of 1909. This has an important bearing on the farm consumption of both corn and oats."

Broomhall wired from Liverpool—"Wheat was affected at the opening by the unexpected steadiness in America and values were ¼@⅜d higher. Following the opening and during the remainder of the morning the market was under pressure of heavy realizing and values declined ⅝@¾d from the opening. Selling was prompted by the increasing offers of Argentine wheat and the fact that La Plata steamers just sailing are from 3@6d lower than yesterday. Corn was dull and prices unchanged. The strength in America was offset by free La Plata offers."

Bartlett-Patten wired: "Cables on wheat ⅜@½d lower and corn unchanged. The demand for cash wheat is not very good, we cancelled wheat yesterday afternoon which we had sold for shipment to an interior miller. We can see nothing but a scalping market for next few days. Receipts of corn about as estimated. We expect these receipts to continue for some time. Considerable corn was to arrive here yesterday for February shipment. The shipping demand is slow and stocks will accumulate here rapidly.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Low Cables and Sluggish Cash Demand Make Wheat Bearish.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—Declining prices at Liverpool together with a sluggish demand for cash wheat formed a basis for bearish sentiment today in the wheat market here. In the first hour the fluctuations were small, May selling between $1.11 and $1.11⅜, most of the trades being at about $1.11¼. At the opening May was ⅛@¼c to ⅜@½c lower at $1.11@1.11¼.

The market continued weak throughout the session, May dropping from $1.11⅜ to $1.10-⅜@1.10½. The close was weak at the low point with May 1c lower than yesterday's final figures.

Unsettled weather, which might have a bad effect on grain still in the fields, gave a firm tone to the corn pit. Opening figures were a shade to ¼c higher. Influenced by improved buying, prices crept fractionally higher in the first hour, May commanding 67c. Weakness of wheat worked against a material advance. May corn opened a shade to ¼c higher at 66¾c to 66⅞@67c.

The market continued fairly strong throughout the session, but finally succumbed to the weakness of wheat. May corn went down from 67¼ to 66½@66⅝c. The close was weak at the low point with May ⅛c lower than the final quotations yesterday.

Commission demand for oats at the outset held the market firm, opening figures being unchanged to ⅛c higher. In the first hour the demand offset the bearish tendency of wheat weakness and added ⅛c to the price of futures, May touching 47c. Opening figures for May were 46¾@46⅞c.

Provisions ruled firmer at the start, the opening figures being generally 2½@5c higher. Lack of accumulation of stocks in the last month was a factor in the firmness. Opening figures for May were: Pork, $21.80; lard, $12.07; ribs, $11.80@11.75.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Trade Is Light and Scalping Profits Are Taken Up.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 2.—The uneasy feeling in financial circles was reflected in the wheat market today. Trading in the pit was light and scalping profits were generally accepted. May opened 1½c lower than yesterday's close on the heavy receipts and the decline in foreign markets. The early session was in a narrow range but late a decline set in and the near option closed exactly 1c lower than the opening. Minneapolis today received 417 cars of wheat as compared with 176 cars a year ago; Duluth, 34 cars, against 9 cars, and Winnipeg, 107 cars, against 66 cars. May opened $1.11½; high, $1.11⅝@1.11¾; low, $1.10½; close, $1.10½; July opened $1.10¾, high, $1.10¾; low, $1.09⅝@1.09¾; close, $1.09⅝@1.09¾.

Cash wheat offerings continued heavy and supplies were in excess of the demand. As a result premiums were lowered. Inquiry was weak for cars that could not be reloaded with flour for Eastern shipment. No. 1 northern sold for 1@2c above the May option and No. 2 northern for 1c below to the even May price. Close on track: No. 1 northern, $1.11¼@1.12¼; to arrive, $1.11@1.12¼; No. 2 northern $1.09¼@1.10¼; to arrive, $1.09@1.10¼; No. 3 wheat, $1.05¼@1.09¼; No. 3 yellow corn, 58¾@59¾c; No. 3 white oats, 44⅝@44⅞c; No. 2 rye, 75¾@77½c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,504 tons; there was no change in the situation today. Demand continued good, shipments heavy and prices firm. Bran in 100-pound sacks, $23.00@23.50.

As a result of the weakness in wheat flour prices were lowered. Some millers reported an improved demand at the lower prices and others said it was steady and only fair to good. Shipments, 60,205 bbl. First patents, in wood, f. o. b. Minneapolis, $5.40@5.69; second patents, $5.20@5.40; first clears, $4.35@4.45; second clears, $3.10@3.40.

Flax—Receipts, 57 cars; year ago, 21; shipments, 6. Demand was strong for both spot and to arrive at 1c above the Duluth May option. Closing price, $2.16.

Barley—Receipts, 97 cars; year ago, 30; shipments, 65. The market was steady to a trifle firmer today. Demand was good for both feeding and malting barley. Closing range, 58@65c.

WEAKNESS IN STOCKS

Opening Showed Depressing Effect of Failure of Bond House.

Recovery Set In, But Fresh Selling Caused Another Decline.

New York, Feb. 2.—The opening stock market today showed the depressing effect of the failure of Fisk & Robinson, an important bond house. The collapse of the firm was announced over night. First prices showed declines of a point in Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific, Reading, United States Steel, Amalgamated Copper, American Smelting and American Locomotive and of large fractions in Wabash preferred, Colorado Fuel, La Clede Gas and Utah Copper. A recovery set in at once and Union Pacific and Reading were restored within a few minutes to above last night's prices. Pittsburg Coal preferred advanced 1½ and Republic Steel 1.

When the market had made up almost all of its opening loss fresh weakness developed in the local stocks. The decline spread to Union Pacific and other leaders, causing practically the whole market to sag again. Reading received consistent support, and did not fall below yesterday's closing, following a rise to about 160. Bethlehem Steel preferred yielded 2½, Atlantic Coast Line, Interborough Metropolitan preferred and La Clede Gas 2, Kansas City Southern 1¾, St. Louis & San Francisco second preferred 1⅜, and New York Central, Chesapeake & Ohio, Consolidated Gas and National Lead 1.

Prices drooped from inanimation, the dealings falling to nominal proportions. Delaware & Hudson declined 1⅝ and Kansas & Texas, Wabash preferred, Anaconda and Great Northern ore certificates 1. Cincinnati and St. Louis sold at an advance of 1½. Prices took an upward turn at noon, Reading rising 1. Bonds were steady.

The market closed very feverish and weak. Selling became more active with resultant declines in Southern Pacific 3⅜, Pittsburg Coal preferred 3½, American Smelting 3, Amalgamated Copper, 2¾, St. Louis Southwestern and Sloss-Sheffield Steel 2, and Union Pacific, Wabash preferred, United States Steel, Rock Island perferred and Northwestern 1½. Northwestern preferred sold at a decline of 18, Central Railroad of New Jersey 5 and St. Louis & San Francisco second preferred 3.

COPPER STOCK BROKERS.
414 West Superior Street.
MEMBERS DULUTH STOCK EXCHANGE.

FEBRUARY 2, 1910.
BUTTE-ALEX SCOTT,
Located on Butte Hill, namely, the richest hill in the world. This stock is selling so low that the earnings of the mine should pay back to stockholders in dividends in one year, what shares are bringing today. We believe in this one, and the high-grade ore on the 1,400-foot level have now cluched the value of the mine. If you do not buy this one you loose a chance of a lifetime. We have bought all we can carry, so please do not blame us for the market at the present time being very low.
BUTTE BALLAKLAVA.
I believe this mine is today an equal to the North Butte, for the reason that it is a virgin mine, and its deposits of high-grade ores are still intact.
ST. MARY'S.
Located in the Star district of Utah, near the Red Warrior mine. These shares whenever they hit 30 cents should be bought, for whenever the market tightens, they easily advance and are always safe around this level.
CENTRAL VERMILION IRON.
Here is a property located right on the Soudan formation of the great Vermilion range. I have personally visited this property, and also many others, and they all look very promising. The Central Vermilion company owns its land in fee, and the formation and showing in test pits and on the surface, certainly are very promising.
Mr. Besson, one of the best mining engineers on the range, has charge of the work. We believe absolutely in this issue and will be glad to take a party of men to this property. No cleaner proposition was ever offered in an iron stock, and when we tell you to buy it, you can be assured that it is a clean issue, both from a management and mine point of view.
Our reputation means something to us, even if some of our favorites do not seem to advance fast. We can show you the mines and we can also show you that what we advertise they have, then you can expect no more than the truth about any issue, and if a broker is on the square, he is not to blame for a weak market generally. If stocks are good they generally advance sooner or later.
MARTIN ROSENDAHL.

Wednesday, February 2, 1910.

The market today was rather slow, local buying being rather shy of the market on account of the break in North Butte. About noon, the market showed signs of activity and buying orders came in on several of the stocks that looked very cheap. Duluth & Moctezuma, Calumet & Sonora, and Live Oak of the higher-priced issues, were sought for. Large orders on Red Warrior and Cactus made their appearance slightly under the market. We advise the purchase of the good stocks on this break, as there is nothing in the immediate future to warrant any lower prices and when the reaction comes stocks will be hard to find.

VERTREES TO DEFEND THE LAND OFFICE

Close Friend of President Taft Asked to Aid Ballinger Case.

Is on the Way From Nashville to Washington for Conference.

Proposal Has Not Been Finally Accepted By the Tennesseean.

Washington, Feb. 3.—John J. Vertrees of Nashville, a leader of the Tennessee bar, a Democrat and warm personal friend of President Taft, has been asked to take charge of the case for the defense in the Ballinger-Pinchot congressional investigation, and is now on the way to Washington to confer with Attorney General Wickersham and officials of the land office. Mr. Vertrees probably will also confer with President Taft as the friendship between the two men is one of long standing.

Mr Vertrees has not signified his acceptance of the offer to act as counsel either for Land Commissioner Dennett or H. H. Schwartz, chief of the field service, both of whom are accused with Secretary Ballinger by Louis R. Glavis. A strong effort will be made to have him take up the case.

Mr. Ballinger steadily refused to engage counsel in his own behalf, declaring that he had nothing to conceal. Senator Nelson, chairman of the committee, expressed the attitude of the committee as favoring the presence of counsel for both sides, wherefore Mr. Ballinger finally has decided to follow the suggestion.

AUTOPSY IS HELD ON VAUGHN'S BODY

State, Relatives and Two Counties Have Representatives Present.

Monroe City, Mo., Feb. 3.—An autopsy was performed on the body of Prof. J. T. Vaughn today and a pathological examination will be made of the viscera.

The autopsy proceeded only after a conference had been held to discuss a demand made by attorneys for Mrs. Vaughn that half of the stomach, liver and brain be given to her representatives. This demand was refused by Coroner Wilson, but a compromise was made whereby the examination of the organs will be made by two chemists, one selected by the state, the other by Mrs. Vaughn's family.

Dr. Harry Payne of Paris, Mo., did the active work in the autopsy. Dr. George Still of Kirksville represented the brothers of Prof. Vaughn. Dr. C. H. Dixon of Fulton was on hand for the widow. Dr. George Turner of Monroe City was present at the request of Prosecuting Attorney Fuller of Monroe county, and Dr. J. W. Martin of Kirksville was there for Prosecutor Rieger of Adair county, where Prof. Vaughn died.

Claims Right Under Law.

Mrs. Vaughn's attorney, in making the request for half of each organ removed from the body, said the family was entitled to that by the state law. Prosecutor Fuller opposed the request. Even after the agreement that two chemists should be employed, Mrs. Vaughn's attorney declared his client's rights were being overridden.

DEFENDS THE MEAT PRICES

Livestock Man Says It Is Lowest in Proportion of Any Food.

Millions of Eggs Reported in Storage---Probes Are Being Conducted.

Bakersfield, Cal., Feb. 3.—H. A. Jastro, president of the National Livestock association, speaking of the high price of meat and the consequent boycott declares that meat is cheaper in proportion than any other food commodity.

Mr. Jastro says that the price of corn, which used to sell at 35 cents, is now 70 cents, and hay that sold at $3 to $4 a ton, now commands $10 and $12. The farmer and feeder have to pay increased prices for every commodity used and it is impossible that meat prices should not advance.

Lessening the Supply.

New York, Feb. 3.—Meat was still on the rise in the local markets today. Retailers in many sections of the city, especially the poorer quarters, reported a falling off of from one-third to one-half in sales. Shipments, however, have been curtailed, tending to adjust supply to demand.

Investigation aroused by the agitation against high prices and the meat abstention movement, continues apace.

MUST STRUGGLE ALONG ON BUT $15,000 A YEAR

MRS. MARY BLAIR BROKAW.

MRS. BROKAW GETS $15,000

Separation Is Granted But Alimony Is Only Half That Asked.

Decision Is Given in Sensational Suit---Is Based on Desertion.

New York, Feb. 3.—Mrs. Mary Blair Brokaw was today granted a separation from her husband, W. Gould Brokaw, a millionaire, and was awarded alimony of $15,000 a year. The decision was handed down in the supreme court at Mineola by Justice Putnam, before whom the case was tried. The separation was granted on the ground of desertion.

The Brokaw trial was one of the longest and most sensational in the history of separation suits in the state courts.

Mrs. Brokaw asked a separation and $2,500 a month alimony. She charged cruelty and abandonment and for days occupied the witness stand telling in detail how, as she alleged, she had been spied upon by servants at Mr. Brokaw's direction while she was staying in the Brokaw residence at Great Neck, L. I., and Mr. Brokaw was at his hunting lodge in High Point, N. C.

Claims She Was Neglected.

Her husband had neglected her and slighted her, she claimed, and finally abandoned her. She attributed his conduct to unreasoning and unjustifiable jealousy and bad temper.

On cross examination, Mr. Brokaw's counsel tried to show that her husband's jealousy was justified. She was asked about a house party and other social happenings at Great Neck, and telegrams from the absent husband were produced demanding to

WOMAN BEATEN IN FIGHT WITH THIEF

Mrs. Max Shapiro Gives Battle to Marauder She Finds in Her Home.

New York, Feb. 3.—A stylishly dressed second story man was quietly looting the home of Max Shapiro, a leather merchant in East New York, early today when surprised by Mrs. Shapiro on her return home from a euchre party. Mr. Shapiro had stopped to see his wife's parents only a few houses away from the Shapiro home.

Mrs. Shapiro and the burglar fought hand to hand from room to room and the woman was finally knocked insensible. The burglar gagged the woman, bound her with a towel to a chair, and made his escape, carrying away jewelry and silverware. Mrs. Shapiro was found unconscious by her husband.

Mrs. Shapiro was badly beaten, and for a time her condition was serious.

FIRE TRUCK DRIVER PROVES TO BE HERO

Deliberately Sacrifices Life to Save Others During Run in Brooklyn.

New York, Feb. 3.—Frederick Mayer, a fireman, driver of the truck of Engine Company 141, is dying in a Brooklyn hospital after performing a splendid deed of heroism while driving to a fire last night. His horses were on a full run, when directly in his path Mayer saw a young girl who stood panic stricken on a crosswalk. Close to her on one side stood a trolley car filled with passengers; on the other side was one of the tall iron pillars of the elevated railway.

If he kept on he would run down the girl; if he turned to the right he would endanger the lives of the passengers. In the twinkling of an eye, Mayer yelled to the firemen clustered along the sides of the truck to jump, gave the reins a mighty tug and ran full tilt into the iron pillar.

There was a crash, the horses were thrown down badly injured, the truck was overturned and Mayer was pinned under, with his skull fractured, leg broken and body crushed.

LITTLE HOPE FOR MINERS

Searchers at Primero, Colo., Say Men Cannot Be Alive Now.

Work at Cherry, Ill., Is Progressing Slowly---Fire Is Still Smouldering.

Primero, Colo., Feb. 3.—Although some express a belief that men will be taken alive from the main mine of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company, where an explosion occurred Tuesday, old miners who have penetrated nearly all the workings say it is hardly possible that the death list will be less than seventy-five. Thirty-eight of the fifty bodies recovered were buried at Trinidad today. These comprised nineteen Austrians, five Hungarians, nine Japanese and five negroes. Each group will be placed in a separate lot.

Slow Progress at Cherry.

Cherry, Ill., Feb. 3.—After three days of incessant labor, only 400 feet of the many miles of underground passages of the St. Paul mine are open, and it is problematic as to when the 167 bodies can be brought to the surface. Every effort is being made to clear a runway from the main shaft to the air pit. This object may be accomplished by tonight, and then a search for bodies can be made and the corpses discovered yesterday can be removed.

An inspection of the cleared portion of the second level today showed that from the bottom of the main shaft 350 feet westward for 250 feet the principal road is in good shape. Some of the heavy timbers near the shaft are charred, but are solid. The chief passage to the east is walled up.

Fire is Smouldering.

Behind this wall is a smouldering fire. Back of the fire about 100 dead miners lie as they fell on Nov. 13, when the flames started.

About 250 feet west of the shaft the bottom level ends in a blind alley, in which lie two mules, covered with dis-

FIFTEEN CATS GIVE FIRE ALARM

Spinster Owner Hurt Trying to Save Them, But Her Sister Escapes.

New York, Feb. 3.—The fifteen pet cats kept by Miss Teresa Mulvey, 63 years old, gave an alarm of fire today, which probably saved the life of her sister Margaret, 60 years old. Miss Teresa herself was so badly burned that she will die.

Four of the cats were suffocated. The fire was in the kitchen, where the cats were kept. Their howling awoke the sisters, and Miss Teresa was fatally burned in trying to rescue her pets. Her sister jumped to the hallway just in time to escape the fatal burst of flame.

A prompt alarm brought the firemen and prevented heavy damage to the building. One hundred tenants were panic-stricken, but all except Miss Teresa Mulvey got out unharmed.

The Powers Evidently Foresee Trouble Over the Cretan Affair.

Malta, Feb. 3.—The British battleship Duncan, flagship of Rear-Admiral Sir George Astley Callaghan, second in command of the British Mediterranean fleet, with cruisers Lancaster, Minerva and Barham and four torpedo boat destroyers have left here for Piraeus, the port of Athens, Greece.

The dispatch of the British squadron to Piraeus is indicative of the determination of the interested powers—Great Britain, Russia, France and Italy—to assure a strict adherence to the agreement under which the international forces were withdrawn from Crete. At that time the Cretans solemnly promised to take no steps against the sovereignty of Turkey.

The recent decision of King George of Greece to convoke a national assembly was followed by reports that the Cretans would attempt to send delegates to that body. This caused uneasiness at Constantinople and it is understood that the Turkish government informed the powers protecting the island that if the Cretans were admitted to the Greek national assembly, such action would be regarded by the porte as a casus belli.

The situation was the subject of an

CROWDS ATTEND THE FORD CASE

Warriner Spends Fourth Day on Stand as State's Witness.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 3.—The courtroom was thronged when the trial of Mrs. Jeanette Stewart-Ford, charged with blackmailing Charles L. Warriner, defaulting local treasurer of the Big Four railroad, was resumed today.

The cross-examination of Warriner was continued by Attorney William Thorndyke, of counsel for the defense. This was the fourth day that Warriner was on the witness stand. That he would make further sensational revelations before being excused was the belief of many who had followed the case.

His statement on cross-examination that Mrs. Ford did not know that he was short in his accounts, but that she knew that Edgar S. Cooke of Chicago had been short when the latter left the Big Four service, caused general surprise. It had all along been supposed that Mrs. Ford knew of Warriner's shortage and that he had paid her money o remain silent.

It also has become apparent that Warriner does not intend to accuse Cooke of blackmail. The witness has repeatedly declared that Cooke never extorted money from him, but that Warriner supplied Cooke with funds for the purpose of keeping Mrs. Ford silent, as she was equally dangerous to both of them.

COAL STRIKE IS IN THE BALANCE

Bituminous Miners and Operators Begin Their Conference.

Toledo, Ohio, Feb. 3.—With an initial difference between them amounting to 20 cents per ton, the operators and miners of the district comprising Ohio, Indiana and Western Pennsylvania met here today in joint conference to adjust a wage scale for a new contract beginning April 1. Any agreement here will be a basis of settlement in all other bituminous districts, and if the conference comes to a disagreement a general strike may result.

As the prime issue, the operators are expected to force to some conclusion the 12-year old project of organizing the non-union field of West Virginia as a preliminary to increasing or maintaining present wages.

Kentuckians Unveil Monument to William Goebel at Frankfort.

Funeral of Late Governor's Brother Forms Part of Ceremony.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 3.—The tenth anniversary of the death of William Goebel, who was the central figure in one of the most stirring chapters in the latter days of Kentucky's history, was observed today by the unveiling of a marble and bronze monument above his grave in the state cemetery here.

Coincident with the unveiling, the body of his brother, Arthur Goebel, who devoted his life to an effort to convict the assassins and who died just after his work had come to naught, was laid to rest beside that of the late governor.

The general assembly adjourned as a mark of respect and attended the dual exercises in a body. A great throng gathered around the monument, all evidences of the partisan strife connected with the "Goebel troubles" being noticeably absent.

Former Governor J. C. W. Beckham, who as lieutenant governor succeeded to the executive chair at William Goebel's death, at the hands of an assassin, acted as master of ceremonies. A choir sang "Lead, Kindly Light," and then Governor Beckham introduced, Mrs. Lillie Goebel of Phoenix, Ariz., niece of the Goebel brothers. She cut a cord releasing the large American flag which veiled the statue.

Governor Beckham then introduced Former United States Senator James B. McCreary, the orator of the occasion, who paid double tribute to Goebel, the governor, and Goebel the brother.

Mrs. Nation visited all the saloons in Missoula, and when one bartender asked her, "What brand will you have, madam?" when she entered, she lost her temper and berated the man until the crowd hooted and jeered her from the place.

The release was due to representations made to the insurgents by Admiral Kimball, commander of the American forces in Nicaraguan waters.

LAST ROUND OF CAR RATE FIGHT

Supreme Court to Take Up Question of Charges on Freight Shipments.

Washington, Feb. 3.—With commercial interests in many interior towns said to be involved seriously and the methods of assembling interstate freight in large cities in question, the big railroads in the territory north of the Ohio river and east of the Mississippi are about to engage with the "forwarding agencies" of the East in the final round of the fight over the rights of these agencies.

The latest phase of the contest is before the supreme court of the United States and is a result of the anti-rebate legislation. The question to be decided is whether the railroads, in refusing to allow the agencies to ship a carload of merchandise made up of parcels from various individuals at carload rates are unjustly discriminating in favor of shippers who own the entire carload shipments.

Tariff Board Divided.

The interstate commerce commission, upon the complaint of the Export Shipping company of New York against the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad, held that such an act was an unjust discrimination. The commission, however, was sharply divided on the point. Chairman Knapp rendered a dissenting opinion, and Commissioner Harlan concurred in the dissent.

The commission ordered that the carload rate be extended to the shipping company, but the circuit court of the United States for the Southern district of New York found that the commission had erred. A restraining order forced an appeal to the supreme court of the United States.

The question is set for argument before the supreme court on Feb. 21.

Northern Pacific Reports Freight Moving Well at All Terminals.

Striking Switchmen Are Returning to Work, Railroad Men Say.

In a statement issued at the main offices of the Northern Pacific at St. Paul and mailed to the Duluth office of the company, it is declared that switchmen formerly in the employ of the railroad, but who went out when the switchmen's strike was declared, are returning to work and that employment has been given to many of the men who have applied for their former positions.

The statement is also made that in St. Paul the strike benefits have not been paid by the union, which has caused some of the switchmen to ask to be reinstated by the Northern Pacific company.

According to Supt. K. M. Nichols, no men have returned to work in the Lake Superior division of the Northern Pacific. He states that no applications of old men wanting work have been received, and that these applications could not be acted upon favorably as there is no work for them at present. Mr. Nichols says the Lake Superior division of the Northern Pacific has all the switchmen it needs at the present time.

The statement of the general freight agent of the Northern Pacific declares that at the present time there is but little delay in the movement of freight through the Minnesota transfer. This applies to other lines as well as the Northern Pacific. It also states that there is but little delay of freight at the terminal in Seattle, and that the terminals of other western cities are experiencing little trouble in handling traffic.

If the statement is a correct recital of facts of the conditions along the line of the Northern Pacific company, there is little trace of the strike left, and freight is moving with little delay.

Locally, according to inquiry today, there is but little delay in the handling of freight, while all of the railroad companies at the Head of the Lakes have all the switchmen they need at the present time. No indication is given as to what the policy of the Duluth railroads will be when an increase of the present freight business will demand the employment of more switchmen, if the men formerly employed apply for work.

LEGAL FIGHT IN THE SWOPE CASE

Slander Suit Is Dismissed to Head Off Taking of Depositions.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 3.—A legal clash developed in the Swope case today. It came when, at the request of Frank P. Walsh, attorney for Dr. B. C. Hyde, the circuit court at Independence, Mo., dismissed the first suit brought recently by the physician against John G. Paxton, executor of the Swope estate, asking $100,000 for alleged slander. Mr. Walsh's move was made, it was stated, to prevent the opposing attorneys from obtaining the depositions of Dr. Hyde and others. The physician's wife was a niece of the late Col. Swope.

The order to dismiss the suit was filed in court just as persons subpoenaed by both sides were assembling to make the depositions.

John P. Atwood, attorney for Mr. Paxton, promptly petitioned the circuit court to restrain Mr. Walsh's notary from making depositions in Mr. Hyde's second suit, which was for $600,000 damages and which was directed against Mr. Paxton as well as against Dr. Stewart and Dr. Hall.

Restraining Order Granted.

The restraining order was granted and was served upon Mr. Walsh without delay. At the time Mr. Walsh was in the midst of taking depositions for Hyde's side of the case in the second case, the attorney did not oppose the restraining order, but appointed another notary and proceeded with the depositions.

Attorney Atwood then likewise proceeded to take depositions for the opposing side in the second suit.

REDWOOD IS IN DEMAND

Product of California Forests Finding a Market in Europe.

One Tree Gives as Much Lumber as an Acre of Pine.

William Crook, manager of a free employment bureau, conducted by the Redwood Lumber association of Humboldt county, Cal., is in Duluth for a few days hiring men to go to California to work in the redwood forests there. He is at the state free employment bureau and is being assisted by Manager James Walsh.

Mr. Crook says that the lumbering industry in the redwood forests is booming as the market for the products of the mill increases. Redwood is coming into greater demand every year as a finishing and shingle material and the companies operating in the forests of California are reaching out for the world's trade.

Little redwood is used in the East, most of the shipments now made going to Europe. The home consumption in California is heavy, the beautiful grain and general appearance of the wood creating a demand for it for finishing in homes. In the East the demand is kept down by the heavy transportation charges, but Mr. Crook says that with the completion of the Panama canal and consequent lower transportation charges, redwood will be more plentiful in the market of the East.

The lumber association, which Mr. Crook represents, controls about three-fourths of the redwood in Humboldt county, which has vast forests. There are eleven mills, and the companies in the association employ 6,000 men. Eureka, the county seat and the headquarters of the association, is a city of about 20,000 population. There are no connections with the outside world by rail, the county being reached by water from San Francisco, 240 miles to the south.

"There is as much timber in one redwood tree as there is on an acre of pine in this part of the country," said Mr. Crook. "It is not uncommon to secure 80,000 feet from one tree, which is more than can be secured from an acre of pine in this part of the country nowadays. Some of the tree trunks run up 200 feet before there is a branch. We have more beautiful trees in our forests than there are in the Yosemite national forests, but ours are of commercial value and are not spared.

"Redwood is the coming material for inside finishing and such work where it is not subject to hard usage. It is a soft wood, as soft or softer than pine, but not as soft as what was known as 'cork pine' here. It has great crushing strength, but not very great breaking strength, so it cannot be used for a number of purposes for which pine was used. All of our mills are built of it, however. It will not warp, rot or burn readily so it has some very great advantages over pine. It is fine for shingles and there are numbers of shingle mills all through the forests, although we have nothing to do with them.

"I only saw redwood in use once since I have been East. I saw some redwood doors in Boston. In Europe, it is used extensively for inside finishing and for outside work also, such as the outside material on cottages. It has a fine, rich appearance and a pretty grain. The supply is almost inexhaustible and I predict that the industry will grow to much greater proportions than at present."

The men now working in the California woods are mostly recruited from the forests of the Northwest. There are a large number of foreigners there also. The lowest pay is $2.75 a day and head choppers get much more. On account of the immense size of the trees, two choppers go together, instead of one working alone as was the case in the woods of the Northwest. The head chopper is responsible to the chopper boss for the proper felling of the tree. The country is uneven and considerable skill is necessary to get the tree to fall in the proper place, so that it will not break others around it.

The climate of Humboldt country, Mr. Crook says, is the most equitable in the United States. The temperature is even and the air much better than it is farther down the coast.

Mr. E. A. Kelley, Belvidere, Ill., writes us: "I am an ex-engineer with 22 years active service to my credit. About three years ago my kidneys were affected so that I had to give up my engine. First I was troubled with severe, aching pain over the hips. Then followed inflammation of the bladder, and specks appeared before my eyes. A sample of Foley's Kidney Pills that I tried so benefited me that I bought more. I continued to take them until now I can safely testify they have made me a sound and well man." # TROUBLE BREWING FOR HONDURAS TOO

Downfall of President Davilla Is Predicted By the Diplomats.

Washington, Feb. 3.—A governmental crisis reported in Honduras confirms expectations which the Central American diplomats here have been entertaining since the fall of Zelaya. The downfall of President Davilla of Honduras has only been deferred, they say, until the former dictator of Nicaragua seemed to be well on the way to Europe.

By the treaty of Washington, Nicaragua is protected from invasion by Guatemala or Salvador, as the invading columns would have to cross Honduran territory, a course which is prohibited. Davilla, harmless politically, it is pointed out, was placed in power in Honduras merely as an agent of Zelaya in the buffer state.

Representatives of the Nicaraguan revolutionary party here view the Honduran unrest with great satisfaction. The see in it much aid for the insurgent armies.

GRINGO WILL RULE MEXICO

Americans Securing Control of Commerce and Industries of Republic.

Education of Peons Only Hope of Escape From Foreign Control.

M. J. Welsh, an American mining engineer, who has spent the past ten years in the northwestern part of Old Mexico, in the state of Chihuahua, who is here on a brief visit, believes that the "gringo," which is Mexican for the foreigner, and particularly the American, is eventually destined to control Mexico, if not politically, commercially and industrially.

At the Spading today Mr. Welsh stated that the population of Mexico was but slightly over 15,000,000 including Indians, and that with the increase of the foreigners, especially the Americans, who now control much of the business of the country, it was reasonable to suppose that some day the Americans would be the dominating influence of the republic.

"At the present time Americans control most of the business outside of the retail stores," said Mr. Welsh. "Many of the retail stores are kept by the Germans and the French. The Americans and the English have gone in more for mining operations. Much of the mining industry of the country is controlled by American and English capital. But the Americans have branched out into other lines of commercial enterprise, and today you will find that much of the large business of Mexico is under the control of Americans."

One of the reasons why Mexico has not gone ahead like other countries on the North American continent, the United States and Canada, for instance, is because there is no prosperous middle class in the republic, according to Mr. Welsh. The peon is desperately poor, and uneducated; he is oppressed with the ignorance and precedents of generations, and until he betters his condition and becomes a small property holder, Mr. Welsh believes that control of many of the industries of the country will continue to pass into the hands of foreigners.

"There is on estate in the northern part of Mexico, not so very far from the border line, out from El Paso, that is composed of 10,000,000 acres," said Mr. Welsh. "Every acre of this vast tract of land is under the control of one man. You could put the state of Rhode Island right down in the midst of this vast acreage, and you would have all kinds of room. This is an example of the wealth of the wealthy class, you can draw your own conclusion as to the poverty of the peons.

"The solution of this condition lies in the compulsory education of the children of the peons. They are being educated today, and there seems to be an ambition among the peons to have their children receive greater advantages than their parents. In time this scheme of the government will undoubtedly result in a bettering of the condition of the poor class."

Mr. Welsh says much silver has been taken from the mines of Mexico, and that gold and copper mining is showing up well. He also says that there is the prospect of much American money being invested in Mexican mines the coming year.

Mexico is becoming more modern through the Americans, who are coming across the border, according to Mr. Welsh. These Americans have introduced, in addition to a knowledge of finance, banking, commercial progress and the running of railroads, the games of baseball and football—games which follow the track of the Yankee rover. The Mexicans have taken to the games and are proving clever players, according to Mr. Welsh.

Mr. Welsh says Diaz is the biggest and strongest personality in the Mexican republic. He is the statesman that has kept the republic free from internal jealousies and revolutions, and in his death, Mr. Welsh says Mexico will lose the greatest personality that has been produced since the country became modernized.

THE POLICE COURT GRIST

Alleged Blind Piggers and Employment Agents in Trouble.

Martin Pabst, proprietor of a rooming house at 9 East Superior street, entered a plea of guilty in police court this morning to selling liquor without a license. He was fined the limit, $100 and costs, which he paid.

Pabst's arrest was caused about two weeks ago, following an informal party among several men and women, which broke up in a quarrel. The result was that some of the disgruntled merry-makers went to the police with their story.

The place was raided by a small squad, and Bernice Andrews was picked up in the drag net. She appeared in police court the next morning and pleaded not guilty to a statutory charge. Some one furnished $25 bail for her later, which was forfeited.

Nels Sundby, an employment agent, was arrested yesterday on the charge of violating the employment ordinances. He failed to have a contract in his office showing how many men he had been authorized to hire for John Colbrath, the duration of their employment, and other points required by law. A laborer complained to E. J. Kenny, prosecuting city attorney, yesterday that he had not received a square deal in Colbrath's camp. Investigation showed that Sundby was without the contract. He refused to compensate the laborer and his arrest followed. He will be tried Monday morning.

Axel Lindros, an employment agent, arrested on the charge of sending men to camps where there was no work for them, was discharged in police court yesterday afternoon. It appeared that he had repaid the men the price of their railroad tickets and their fees.

Leo Gorman, a 14-year-old boy, was arrested last night and booked for petty larceny. It appears that he stole several dollars from his parents. The police said this morning that he has caused his family trouble before. He will likely be tried in juvenile court.

* * *

Thomas Stanish gave Patrolman Leo Hannott and Adolph Peters a fierce fight when they arrested him for being drunk and disorderly at West Duluth yesterday afternoon. He tried to bite the coppers and broke a couple of windows. He was fined $40 and costs or thirty days.

Robert Orey, bartender of the Clarenden hotel bar, was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging him with selling liquor to Mike Atel, a minor. The warrant was sworn out by the boy's mother after he had been sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and costs with the alternative of ninety days in the county jail for stealing a box of cigars from the case in the saloon. Orey entered a plea of not guilty and will be tried Saturday morning.

John Shine got a cheap "shine" yesterday afternoon. This morning he admitted that he had been pretty well polished and got off with the minimum, $3 or three days.

Nels Johnson was reported as being an undesirable character, who has been hanging about the city for some time. The court told him to get out of town under threat of a heavy sentence if found inside the corporate limits after this evening.

William Wilson, a cripple with a wooden leg, got a sentence of $3 or three days. He carried a card with a pathetic verse asking for money. He was picked up "dead to the world," in the language of the policeman making the arrest.

A Common Cold.

We claim that if catching cold could be avoided some of the most dangerous and fatal diseases would never be heard of. A cold often forms a culture bed for germs of infectious diseases. Consumption, pneumonia, diphtheria and scarlet fever, four of the most dangerous and fatal diseases, are of this class. The culture bed formed by the cold favors the development of the germs of these diseases, that would not otherwise find lodgment. There is little danger, however, of any of these diseases being contracted when a good expectorant cough medicine like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. It cleans out these culture beds that favor the development of the germs of these diseases. That is why this remedy has proved so universally successful in preventing pneumonia. It not only cures your cold quickly, but minimizes the risk of contracting these dangerous diseases. For sale by all druggists.

PARIS SHOWS THE MARKS OF FLOOD

Crowned Heads Have Given $55,000 to the Relief Fund.

Paris, Feb. 3.—The River Seine continues its recession, the guage today showing a drop of nearly five feet from the crest of the flood. The relief contributions from crowned heads amount now to approximately $55,000.

Rodman Wanamaker, who desires to pay the bread bills of flood victims for one month, has forwarded a first installment of $6,000. A high official, speaking today of the genorosity of Americans, requested the Associated Press to express to the American people the deep impression created by their sympathy in France. He said:

"The French government and French people alike have been touched by the profound expressions of sympathy and the liberal contributions pouring in from abroad, but none has aroused quite the same sense of gratitude as those from the people of the sister republic across the sea. The misery is still great and the work of relief must continue for months. See what wreckage has been left behind even here?"

Water Mark Nine Feet High.

As he spoke, the official pointed from a window to the devastation about the foreign office, the high water mark showing on the buildings nine feet above the ground, and the still flooded Rue de Constantine.

An unfortunate incident has resulted in the abandonment of one of the Red Cross posts. The building within which it was established has been placed at the disposition of the society by the owner, Placide Alexandre Astier, the Radical Socialist deputy. When the nuns who were acting as nurses learned that the building belonged to a Socialist Free Mason, they declined to remain, saying they feared excommunication. Thereupon the countess d'Haussonville ordered that the place be evacuated

DO YOU KNOW WHERE PAPUA IS?

Wide World Magazine: It is on record that Mark Twain at one time acquired the reputation of an accomplished geographer, by knowing where and what Herzegovina was, and confounding his less fortunate friends with his learning. No one, he said, really knew anything about the place, though everyone vaguely thought he did.

There are places, however, that would make a better test—places included in the British empire, and not to be numbered among the less important. Papua is pre-eminently one of these.

Many people, probably, think they know something about Papua. I thought I knew something myself, until that day of November, 1907, that saw me disembark in Port Moresby, and really begin learning. Then I realized that I had known nothing at all, and that most people, to use an Irishism, probably knew less.

Papua, to begin with, is not New Guinea. The geographies name it so, but that is because they were all written before 1906, when Australia took over the government and responsibilities of British New Guinea, and felt the necessity of finding a new name for the territory. They called it "Papua"—the name hitherto applied to the whole of the great island continent—and the title of British New Guinea ceased to exist. As Germany had lately renamed her quarter of the country "Kaiser Wilhelm's Land," instead of German New Guinea, the change came at a suitable time.

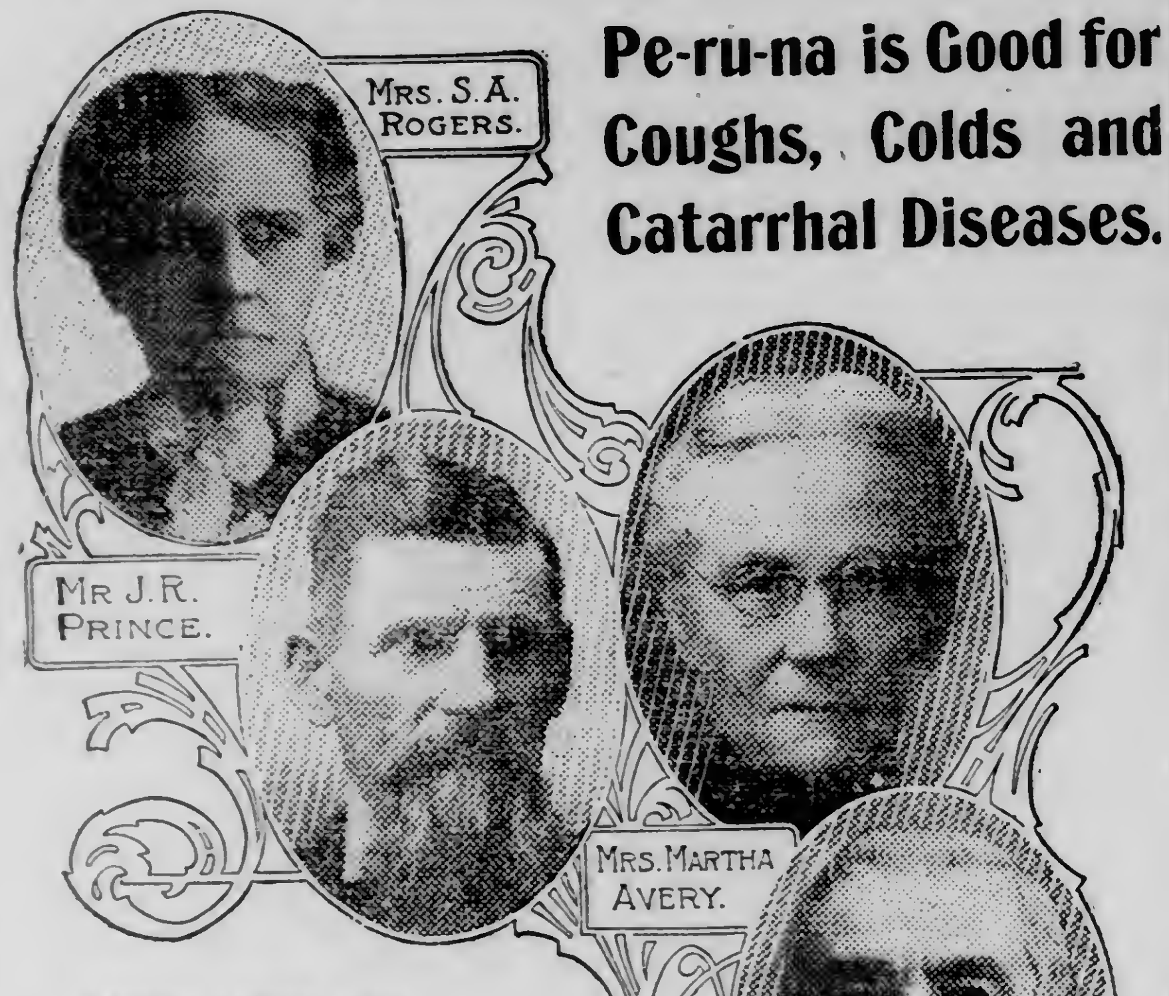
Pe-ru-na is Good for Coughs, Colds and Catarrhal Diseases.



MRS. S. A. ROGERS.
MR J. R. PRINCE.
MRS. MARTHA AVERY.
MR. HENRY MERZ.

Catarrh Fifteen Years.

Mrs. S. A. Rogers, Le Moore, Cal., writes:

"I had chronic catarrh of fifteen years' standing, and death seemed to stare me in the face. I tried several so-called catarrh remedies, and without avail. I took fifteen bottles of Peruna and five bottles of Manalin, and I am completely cured. All the catarrhal symptoms are gone, my digestion is good, my appetite is good, and I rest well at night. I am seventy years of age and I hope to live many more years to praise Peruna to all my friends who suffer from catrrh as I did."

Suffered Forty-five Years.

Mr. J. R. Prince, R. R. 2, Cattaraugus, N. Y., writes: "I am not very well satisfied with the picture that I am sending you, but when the reader looks at this picture if he could only realize that the original suffered for forty-five years, the best of his life, until your kind advice and prescription cured him, he would know from whence these wrinkles came. Next month I shall be sixty-six years old."

Nervous Prostration.

Mrs. Martha Avery, 28 Graham St., Leominster, Mass., writes:

DOCTORS PUZZLED

"Four years ago I had nervous prostration. I employed several doctors. One would say I had catarrh of the stomach and bowels, another nervousness and another enlargement of the liver. My stomach was in a bad shape. There was nothing which seemed to do me much good.

"I tried other remedies, but did not gain any flesh, until I commenced taking your Peruna, which built me right up. I have taken several bottles, but have not taken any now for about six weeks.

"I am seventy-three years old. I never expect to be entirely well or young again, but I am thankful for what Peruna has done for me."

Feels Ten Years Younger.

Mr. Henry Merz, 1505 West Franklin St., Evansville, Ind., writes: "When I first wrote to you I had bronchial trouble for four years, and had tried several doctors, but they could do me no good. I had pain and rattling in the chest, cough, expectoration, especially at night.

IS 77 YEARS OLD

"I took Peruna, and can now say that I am entirely well. I feel ten years younger since using Peruna. I recommend Peruna to all my friends, for I was in bad condition.

"I am an old soldier and am seventy-seven years old."

MOUSE NEST MAY CONVICT ACCUSED

Found in Load of Alleged Stolen Wheat and Used in Evidence.

Sirrine, alias Dillon, is charged with stealing wheat near Lynch. The state has shown that in the building used for a granary a family of mice had built a nest out of an old quilt, and that in transferring the wheat, the nest was carried away and later found in the elevator. Both the quilt and the nest were produced in evidence.

AMERICAN EXPRESS TO GET WELLS-FARGO?

New York, Feb. 3.—It is said in authoritative circles that the American Express company has purchased the Southern Pacific Railroad company holdings of stock in Wells-Fargo & Co., which is taken to indicate that a merger of the two express companies is under way.

The Southern Pacific holdings, about 45,000 shares, do not represent stock control, but the shares are so widely distributed that the block could easily swing the balance of power. The price paid is said to have been in the neighborhood of $200 a share, a handsome profit for the railroad on the original investment.

EXPENSE IS CUT DOWN

Net Cost of Central Heating Plant for Two Schools Is $12,094.

Changes in Contract Will Be Submitted for Approval of the Board.

At the regular monthly meeting of the board of education tomorrow evening, the committee on maintenance of buildings and grounds will submit to the board for approval changes in the contract with Jacobsen Brothers for the erection of the new Washington grade and manual training building, which will provide for the installation of a central heating plant for the high school and new buildings.

The changes in the contract, as arranged by the committee, the architect and the contractors, call for the installation of the plant at a net cost of $12,094, a material reduction from the figures submitted to the board at the special meeting Jan. 15, when the matter was last considered. At that time, the figures submitted provided for an expenditure of about $20,000, which was too much for profitable investment.

Under the plan as now proposed, new equipment will be installed in the engine room in the high school building of a capacity to heat both buildings. On account of the change, there will be alterations in the original plans for the new building, which will give the board a credit of over $5,000, which will be applied on the cost of the heating plant. The old boilers and equipment now in the engine room will be utilized in new buildings to be erected, as they are still in good condition, and their value is conservatively estimated in figuring on the net cost of the central plant.

Under the plan as proposed, the members of the committee believe there will be a saving of from $2,600 to $3,000 a year in salaries, fuel and maintenance, so that the returns on the investment will be large. The board had already decided to install the plant, if the cost could be kept down to a figure that would insure profitable returns, so there is little doubt but that the changes in the contract will be approved tomorrow night.

As far as is now known, no other very important matters will come before the board tomorrow night and the business will be mostly of a routine nature.

Young Men Taking Examination for Admission to Naval Academy.

Competitive examinations for the appointment of a representative to the naval academy at Annapolis, Md., are being held today at the Central high school.

Carl M. Hawkinson of Virginia, Eugene McComber, Albert B. Vaughan and Herbert Thomas, all of Duluth, and William J. Lahodny of Pine City, are the young men endeavoring to secure the highest marks in the examination.

Tomorrow the candidates will be further examined along different subjects at the normal school and Saturday the examination will close at the Central high school.

The candidate having the highest mark will probably be recommended by Congressman Miller.

know if such and such a man had been entertained with Mrs. Brokaw's woman friends on these occasions. Mrs. Brokaw persisted in denying that she had ever carried on flirtations or in any way given her husband cause for jealousy.

Telegrams and letters from Brokaw to his wife and from Brokaw to the Great Neck employes, read into the evidence, enlivened the trial appreciably.

In one letter to his wife Brokaw said:

Kissing the Doctor.

"You promised to see no man while I am away. You know what I told you about kissing the doctor. If he attempts to kiss you, tell him that you do not kiss anyone but your husband. I will know if you do, and if you kiss anyone I will not want to kiss you again."

Mr. Brokaw's ordeal in the witness chair also was a long one. He denied that he frequently drank to excess in the first year of their married life, laid upon Mrs. Brokaw the brunt of the blame for the many dissensions in the family, and refuted charges that his conduct had forced his wife to lock herself in her rooms and that he had forcibly entered her apartments against her will to resume quarrels with her.

Mr. Brokaw submitted a statement that he was worth only about $1,500,000 and that an award of $30,000 a year alimony would be excessive.

infectants. These mules kicked viciously at several miners as the men ran for life through the smoky passage ways after the mine fire began. One miner was kicked unconscious and could not escape. His companion was injured so severely as to yet under the care of a surgeon.

Near the end of the main road, a tortuous runway branches off to the south, eventually ending in the air shaft. The top timbers in this passage are badly broken, letting shale rock through. Some of the fractured scantlings look half rotted. There was no fire in this tunnel.

Placing New Timbers.

As fast as men clear the runway, new timbers are placed under the crumbling roof, making the ceiling so low that a man cannot stand erect.

Rocks as large as a steamer trunk were piled as high as the roof where explorers labored last night and today. So narrow was the tunnel and so dangerous was the work that only two men worked at a time. It is possible, miners say, that bodies will be found under some such rock fall, of which many exist in the mine.

FIFTY-SIX DIE IN MINE

At about 8:30 o'clock those at work above ground were startled by a loud explosion, and almost instantly a vast cloud of dust and smoke issued from the shaft.

Volunteers as Rescuers.

As soon as the air in the shaft could be purified sufficiently to permit rescuers to descend, many volunteers were ready to risk their lives in trying to rescue their stricken brothers below.

A cage was sent down, followed later by another and then another, all loaded to their utmost capacity with miners. In the first and second levels, everything was found to be intact, and beyond being terribly frightened, the men were safe.

In the third level a terrible sight met the eyes of the rescuers. Scattered about the workings they found the bodies of the men, suffocated, their faces indicating the bitter fight they had waged to reach pure air and safety without the workings.

After the lapse of six hours' work, fifty-three bodies were brought to the surface while nearly forty injured men were removed to hospitals. The injured owe their miraculous escape to the fact that they were working at points where they were practically protected from the rush of noxious gases.

of meeting in January on account of the disturbed state of affairs in Nicaragua, the second Central American conference to promote peace and better commercial relations has at last convened at San Salvador. Upon being informed of the assembling of the delegates, Secretary of State Knox today sent a cablegram congratulating the body upon the happy inauguration of the meeting and expressing his confidence in the fruitful and beneficent outcome. The United States and Mexico are represented by their ministers.

Central American diplomats in Washington today said they thought that the conference would exert influence in bringing about a peaceful settlement in Nicaragua.

Other subjects, which will be discussed will be the formation of a uniform monetary system for those Latin-American states and uniform customs and commercial regulations.

The grand jury of Hudson county, New Jersey, today took up the inspection of the big cold storage plants. The visits will be continued until all have been looked into. Meanwhile, additional subpoenas have been issued for packing company employes. The jury is trying to find out if there is an agreement between the big warehouses to hold back supplies and maintain high prices.

Eggs in Storage.

There are 36,000,000 eggs—enough to provide eight eggs apiece for every man, woman and child in New York city and all its boroughs—in one cold storage warehouse in New Jersey, according to the information already placed before the grand jury. The eggs have been there since last March, it was learned, together with 100,000 pounds of poultry, stored since April last.

Inquiry in Boston.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 3.—An investigation into the high prices of meat has been begun by District Attorney Joseph Pelletier of Suffolk county, and if sufficient evidence is obtained it is said that action will be taken against certain packers who are suspected of manipulating the prices.

A circular issued by a packing firm last week, instructing its agents to "get every cent possible" for meats, the pledging of a two weeks' abstention from meat by the members of the "no meat" club, and other developments are believed to have influenced the district attorney to make an investigation.

Denial at Athens.

A semi-official statement issued at Athens last night, declared that the anxieties excited in Turkey were groundless and that the assembly had been convoked precisely because its sitting would defer the date of the parliamentary elections, which otherwise might have given the Cretans an opportunity to realize their ambition to send deputies to Athens. Nevertheless, the movement of the British vessels makes clear that the powers concerned do not propose to permit any action threatening peace in the Near East or in any other way disturbing the status quo.

BRACKEN IS REAPPOINTED.

Differences on State Board of Health Are Finally Adjusted.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. H. M. Bracken, secretary of the state board of health, has been reappointed a member of the board by Governor A. O. Eberhart. The appointment was held up for some time on account of a protest from Minneapolis physicians. They did not object to Dr. Bracken remaining as secretary, but thought that as secretary and board member combined he had too much power.

The chief cause of conflict was over control of the state bacteriological laboratory at the university. Other members of the board took a hand in adjusting this difficulty, and it is promised that the board of health will adopt definite rules to govern the management of the laboratory.

Dr. Bracken's term as secretary does not expire until June, and it is certain he will be re-elected at that time.

Use TIZ-- Smaller Feet

Sore Feet, Tender Feet and Swollen Feet Cured Every Time — TIZ Makes Sore Feet Well No Matter What Ails Them.

Every one who is troubled with sore, sweaty, or tender feet—swollen feet—smelly feet, corns, callouses or bunions can quickly make their feet well now. Here is instant relief and a lasting, permanent remedy—it's called TIZ. TIZ makes sore feet well and swollen feet are quickly reduced to their natural size. Thousands of ladies have been able to wear shoes a full size smaller with perfect comfort.

It's the only foot remedy ever made which acts on the principal of drawing out all the poisonous exudations which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog up the pores. TIZ cleanses them out and keeps them clean. It works right off. You will feel better the very first time it's used. Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore feet. There is nothing on earth that can compare with it. TIZ is for sale at all druggists 25 cents per box or direct if you wish from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Dept. 490, Dodge Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

PROGRAM FOR FREE CONCERT

Miss Florence Hyland Soloist at the Masonic Temple Sunday.

Following is the program for the Masonic free concert at the auditorium, Masonic temple, Sunday, Feb. 6, at 3:30 p. m.:

Organ—
- (a) Priests' march from "Athalia" .................. Mendelssohn
- (b) "Die Lustig Witwe" selections ...................... Lehar

Vocal—"Where Flowers Grow"...... ........................ San Souci
Miss Florence Hyland.

Organ—Symphonie in B minor...... ........................ Schubert
- (a) Allegro.
- (b) Andante con moto,
- (c) Minuetto.
- (d) Finale.

Vocal—"But Why?"........... Logan
Miss Florence Hyland.

Organ—
- (a) Overture—Mignon"..... Thomas
- (b) Fantasie—"Auld Lang Sange". .................Arr by Tobani

The above numbers present a strong program, varied and of high class, each of its own kind. Miss Hyland needs no introduction and her selections are well considered and from good composers.

The first organ number was presented in England in 1845; it possesses great melodic power, is deservedly popular, always pleasing and inspiring. The second number consists of selections from the most tuneful light opera of the past five years.

No. 3 embodies the classic series, embracing Schubert's symphonie in B minor; this is not the celebrated "unfinished symphony," but another in the same key completed in four parts. It is brilliant, well worked out and typical of the composer.

The program ends with a dual number; the first being the celebrated overture of "Mignon," containing the beautiful "Know'st Thou the Land" and "Polonaise," and an arrangement of "Auld Lang Syne" in fantasie completes the list.

PIQUED WOMAN WANTS MILLION

Because Col. Graves Would Not Present Her at Swedish Court.

New York, Feb. 3.—Mrs. Ida von Clausen, who is preparing to push a claim against the United States government for $1,000,000 because of the refusal of Col. Charles H. Graves, American minister to Sweden, to present her at court in April, 1907, arrived here on the Hamburg-American Steamship Americka, and announced that she had her fighting clothes on and would make it decidedly interesting for the government.

"I know if I give them rope enough they would hang themselves," she said. "I've got all the proof now and will make them dance."

When asked to specify the persons she referred to as "they," Mrs. von Clausen declared "they" would find out who was meant soon enough.

"By the way," she added, "I wrote a book in Paris and called it 'Forget It,' but the silly officials there wouldn't permit me to publish it. They said they thought three of the characters resembled closely Minister Graves, Theodore Roosevelt and Alice Longworth, and that they feared international complications. How absurd! But I intend to publish that book here—and I believe it will be read."

WHY HE KEPT IT SECRET.

Governor Burke Makes Explanation Regarding Senator's Resignation.

Bismarck, N. D., Feb. 3.—Governor Burke, in explaining the resignation of Former United States Senator F. L. Thompson and his concealment of the time of resignation, said: "I knew when in Washington that Judge Thompson intended to resign Feb. 1. I knew, too, that he was suffering from heart trouble and had been warned by his physicians that any excitement would be very dangerous to him. If the fact that he was going to resign was made public, the numberless newspaper reporters that would be seeking to interview him would naturally bring on some excitement. There was no necessity for any publicity. Senator Purcell is a man of wide experience and great ability. He is pledged to stand with the progressive democracy of the country and his future political career will depend upon his fulfillment of this pledge."

HOW THIN FOLKS CAN GET FLESHY.

New Accidental Discovery Gives Startling Results—Puts Flesh on Thin People and Rounds Out Imperfect Figures.

Simple Prescription Given.

For women—and men too, for that matter—who can never appear stylish with anything they wear, because of abnormal thinness and angularity, this remarkable prescription is destined to solve the problem. As a beauty maker for the figure it is simply wonderful while it adds brightness to the eyes, and color to the cheeks and lips. It requires no particular dieting, but acts as an aid to nature by its peculiar action on the nerves and blood supply. The blood and nerves distribute over the body, all the nourishment or flesh building elements obtained from the food. The trouble with thin people has always been that they do not absorb or retain enough of the fleshy matter to make them gain in weight even to a normal extent; but this new discovery of blending certain harmless drugs is a revelation to science, and hundreds have gained from ten to forty pounds in a few weeks. There is no danger of becoming too fat. When you get the right weight then stop using.

The general health and strength is greatly improved in anyone from the age of sixteen to sixty. Women soon get plump, with well rounded arms and full bust, and men become straight, strong-looking and healthy.

In a half pint bottle get three ounces of essence of pepsin and three ounces syrup of rhubarb. Then add one ounce compound essence cardiol, shake and let stand two hours. Then add one ounce tincture cadomene compound (not cardamon). Take a teaspoonful before and after meals, and weigh before beginning.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Patents have been issued to Robert J. McGhee of Virginia, Minn., for a draft saw machine; to John J. O'Donnell of Biwabik, Minn., for a railway tie and rail fastening means and to Anton T. Peffer of St. Cloud, Minn., for a boot blacking machine.

NEW COHASSET SAWMILL.

Itasca County Town Will Soon Have New Industry.

Cohasset, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—A new saw mill that will give employment to 125 men is among the new industries promised this place. The Commercial club has been working to secure the industry and its efforts are about to be rewarded.

The Minnesota Woodenware company, which operates a large plant already here, is contemplating doubling the capacity of its establishment. In this view, they have several camps in the surrounding country, from which they expect to get a big supply of raw material for next season's big run. Many new boats and steam tugs are being built this winter for use on the Mississippi and Pokegama lake, which latter is accessible by boats of considerable size. There is still much timber on Pokegama lake which has not yet been taken out and tugs are being built for this purpose. There are also a number of new pleasure boats being built, which will convey pleasure seekers from Cohasset to Pokegama lake, which is fast becoming a very popular summer resort.

Nashwauk, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. Ross, formerly in the newspaper business at Chisholm has sold his interests there and will publish the Nashwauk Herald. He has rented the vacant room in the Sebaka Mercantile building, which was formerly occupied by the Itasca Mercantile company. E. C. Kiley published the Iron Index in this village four years ago, but owing to conditions here at that time, it proved unsuccessful. As the village has grown and is prospering, Mr. Ross, who is well known among his friends as a prospering business man and through the help of the citizens here will undoubtedly make a success in the new undertaking.

George Williamson of Hibbing has the contract of moving several houses at the Hawkins mine location. The mining company is stripping on the eastern side of their open pit facing the village and these buildings that are near the edge of the pit are being moved to other parts of town.

Miss Katherine Huson of Grand Rapids spent Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Ohles returning to her home that evening.

T. R. Dodson has begun the erection of a six-room cottage on Fourth street, which he expects completed and ready for occupancy by March.

MRS. SULLIVAN'S TERRIBLE WEAKNESS

Was the Cause of Much Suffering, that Cardui, the Woman's Tonic, Finally Relieved.

Pavilion, Mich.—"As a result of serious female complaint, occurring every two weeks," writes Mrs. William Sullivan, of Pavilion, Mich., "I became so weak that I could hardly get around.

"I took five bottles of Cardui, and it straightened me up, right away.. I hope this letter will induce some suffering lady to take Cardui."

The reasons why you should take Cardui, are not far to seek.

First, it is gentle, safe, reliable.

Second, it is purely vegetable and contains no dangerous minerals or habit-forming drugs.

Third, it is a tonic, prepared especially for the use of weak women.

Fifth, it is easy to take, obtainable in any drug store, with full instructions for use, inside the wrapper.

Sixth, a successful record of over half a century, proves that Cardui has real merit behind it and has stood the greatest of all tests—the test of time.

Be sure to ask for it, at your druggist's, today.

N. B.—Write to: Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions, and 64-pages book, "Home Treatment for Women," sent in plain wrapper, on request.

OPERATE PLANTS AT GOOD PROFIT

Wisdom of Having Hibbing Light and Water Commission Evident.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The wisdom of the appointment by the village board of the light and water commission is shown in the report just made public for the six months ending Dec. 31.

The commission consists of R. A. Angst of the Buffalo & Susquehanna Iron Mining company, Supt. William Wearner of the Inland Steel company and W. J. West, superintendent in the Hibbing district for the Olive Iron Mining company.

The report shows that the village has made a net gain in the past six months on the plant of $5,562.56, while the net gain for the five months preceding under the old system was only $1,903.21. Moreover, during the six months covered by the commission's report a total of $10,544.24 is charged against the plant for depreciation, while only $133.98 is charged for depreciation for the preceding five months, so that in fact the net gain of the last six months of the year over the preceding five months was more than $14,000.

Receipts and Expenditures.

The light receipts from the six months were $29,185.80 and water receipts of $1,017.61. Expenditures for the light system, including depreciation, for the same period were $19,955, and for the water system $14,585.55.

The commission has installed for fire protection a reserve pump at the Buffalo & Susquehanna mine and an additional one at the Penobscott, each with a capacity of 600 gallons per minute. The village therefore, the commission reports, can now command 1,890 gallons per minute at a pressure of 175 pounds per square inch.

The commission is preparing to drive a drift as far south from the present village wells as possible, the drift to furnish 425 gallons of storage per foot. This will give the village an immense reservoir to be drawn upon in case of bad fires.

The commission gives the details of plans for the installation of additional electric light wire service to relieve the overburdened condition of the wires which supply the residence section of the town.

VERDICT FOR COMPANY.

Judge Hughes Directs Jury to Find for the Defendant.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The case of John Liimatainen against the St. Louis River Development & Improvement company, which has been on trial in the district court since Monday, ended yesterday when Judge Hughes instructed the jury to return a verdict for the defendant. This case involved the question whether the defendant was liable for damages to the plaintiff's property, caused by the building of a dam across the St. Louis river west of Biwabik, the water of which backed up and flooded the plaintiff's land.

At the close of this case court adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning, when one of the other twelve cases against the same company was taken up.

The other parties who are suing the company for damages are Andrew Thompson, Erick Ekman, August Halmetoja, John Unsitali, John Nevalainen, Jacob Nevalainen, John Lido, Matt Lakela, John Kilpala, Gust Johnson, Rosa Kemminke and Benjamin A. Holst, all farmers residing along the St. Louis river.

MAY BREAK RECORDS.

Itasca Ski Club Expects Great Jumping at Big Tournament.

Coleraine, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The steel slide being erected by the Itasca Ski club on Trout lake hill near here is nearly ready for the national ski tournament to be held Saturday and Sunday Feb. 19 and 20. The new structure will be 112 feet high and replaces a wooden structure on the most picturesque ski hill in America.

Secretary A. King of the Itasca Ski club says he expects that some American ski records will be broken on the new slide.

Preparations for entertaining the large number of visitors expected are going on and there is no question about everyone who comes here being well taken care of.

EVELETH PLANS TO BRANCH OUT

Scheme on Foot to Take in Some Adjoining Locations.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—General Manager J. H. Hearding and F. B. MacLean of the Oliver Iron Mining company were here Tuesday and conferred with the local committee appointed by the Business Men's association for the extension of the city limits, but no action was taken on the matter, though the question was thoroughly discussed.

The committee consisting of George A. Perham, John J. Gleason and J. P. Boyle, have gathered data on the question of the incorporation of the districts bordering on the city limits and it is very probable that a special meeting of the Business Men's association will be called soon to thoroughly discuss the matter and act upon it.

WON BY ONE VOTE.

Tower Municipal Judge Is Given Office By Close Margin.

Tower, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The count of ballots in Tuesday's election shows: S. E. McLoughlin and A. D. Fuller received sixty-one votes each for municipal judge. A recount of the ballots showed sixty-one for A. D. Fuller and sixty for S. E. McLoughlin, the former thereby being declared elected.

Mr. McLoughlin, who has officiated during the past year, has proved himself competent, and his many friends were disappointed in the outcome of the second count.

The duties of the office are not new to Mr. Fuller, as he served for a term previous to Mr. McLoughlin being elected.

CANADA WANTS MINIMUM TARIFF

But Will Not Beg Favors or Be Dictated To.

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 3.—"Canada desires no tariff war, and would do everything consistent with dignity and reason to avoid it. If the United States sees any reason why the Dominion should not receive the benefit of the minimum tariff, the government would no doubt be glad of an opportunity to discuss the matter with their neighbors in a friendly spirit; but it is certain that the people, no matter what the sacrifice might be, would be quick to resent dictation or undue pressure, and it is certain that favors they will not beg. Canada is no alms seeker."

This is the "tip" the Free Press, the government organ here, hands out in discussing a campaign some American newspapers seem to be conducting for freer trade relations. But it makes it come from the United States. It says: "Already there are hopeful signs that the reasoning press of the United States, at any rate, would view with disfavor any attempt on the part of authorities of Washington to put the screw on Canada.

"The antiquated delusion that Washington has a right to dictate to Canada what she will or wil not do, has not been entirely despelled, judging from the editorial comment of the Detroit Free Press. That usually sane journal is exceedingly annoyed to think that Canada should have the audacity to make commercial treaties with other countries without considering the feeling of the sensitive Uncle Sam. It is an insult which can only be wiped out by the spilling of commercial blood, suggests our contemporary and namesake.

"Canada has shaped a well-defined trade policy which she will carry out in her own way and at her own time. Her desire is to develop her commercial relations with all countries, the United States included, always looking to what is best in the interests of her own people. If she can succeed in doing this, and she believes she can, without giving ground for offense to the United States or any other nation, so much the better.

"If Washington should happen to see the matter in a different light, then the people of the Dominion may regret it, but they will never be stamped from the course they have mapped out by threats of tariff penalties."

BIG AID TO NAVIGATORS.

Hydrographic Office Has Issued Book on the Stars.

Washington, Feb. 3.—An important aid of navigation has just been issued by the hydrographic office in the shape of a volume of 364 printed pages made up entirely of tables, the purpose of which is to enable a navigator to identify with precision any star that he may see, even through a small rift of clouds in stormy weather. By the identification of a few such stars the navigator will be enabled to locate the position of his ship on the high seas regardless of the moon.

The hydrographic bureau explains that it has been impelled to undertake this task because of the growing necessity for correct astronomical observations for the purpose of deducing the geographical position in the course of the ocean voyages of the high speed

ANOTHER TIE-UP ON THE NEW ARKANSAS CAPITAL.

Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 3.—Work on Arkansas' new capitol is again at a standstill, this time because of a strike of 175 union laborers. The walkout resulted from a disagreement between sub-contractors and their employes. Already the building has been ten years in construction.

TAKE UP COLLECTION IN COURT FOR THIEF.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 3.—Moved by the pathetic testimony of Hunter Ingram, a 14-year-old boy, in police court, charged with having stolen a loaf of bread which the youngster said he wanted to take to his mother, who was starving, Judge John J. Crutchfield ordered a collection taken up in court for the boy and the mother. Passing around the hat, the bailiff obtained from those present in court the sum of $15, the judge having dropped in a crisp $5 note. The police caught Hunter at 4 o'clock yesterday morning stealing a loaf of bread from a bakery. The case against him was dismissed.

MISSING BOY LOCATED.

Osceola, Wis., Youth, Aged 10, Travels Out to Montana.

Osceola, Wis., Feb. 3.—Worn out by a week of fruitless searching for his boy, who disappeared from his home here on the night of Jan. 24, John Piche, a wealthy farmer, received a telegram at St. Paul saying that the little fellow had turned up at the home of his brother in Newlon, Mont.

A mystery which has baffled police and parents alike has surrounded the affair, and the telegram added still another development which could not be explained.

Little Leonard Piche, who is only 10 years old, left home with only $4, obtained by rifling his little tin bank. He was traced as far as St. Paul, and his fare would cost the bigger part of $1.

When he arrived at his brother's home, however, he was clad in a new suit of clothes, and had traveled several hundred miles by rail.

OLD BRAINERD CITIZEN.

August Feiro Passes Away at 74 of Blood Poisoning.

Brainerd, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Services were held from St. Francis Catholic church today for August Feiro, a well-known citizen, who died after an illness of about a year of blood poisoning. Mr. Feiro was 74 years of age, and leaves a widow and seven sons and daughters. Mr. Feiro had been a resident of Brainerd for many years. He was a man of considerable means, and spent most of his time for several years looking after his property.

TO BE TRIED IN AITKIN.

Paul Fournier, Accused of Murder, Gets Change of Venue.

Brainerd, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge McClenahan in the matter of a change of venue from Beltrami county has ruled in the case of Paul Fournier, charged with the murder of Aagot Dahl, in April 1901.

There were over 200 affidavits filed, claiming that it would be impossible to secure a fair and impartial trial in Beltrami county, because of the wide interest taken in the crime. Chester McKusick, the county attorney of Beltrami county, filed a personal affidavit against the change. The change of venue was granted and Fournier will be tried at Aitkin, at the general term of the district court, commencing May 17.

IRONWOOD SKI CLUB.

Slide Being Erected and Jumping Promised Next Sunday.

Ironwood, Mich., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—A ski club has been organized here with the following officers: Carl Erickson, president; Deane Nelson, vice president; William Peterson, treasurer; Werner Larson, secretary; Gunder Lee, financial secretary. A slide is now in the course of construction on White's hill, north of the city, 140 feet in length and 75 feet high, which, it is expected, will be completed by the latter part of the week.

The first jumping will probably occur next Sunday, when it is expected that a number of outside riders will be present.

GETTING JURY IN GOFF CASE

Trial of East Grand Forks Negro Accused of Killing Woman.

Crookston, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—When court took a recess at noon today, nine jurors had been secured to try William Goff, colored, indicted for killing Mrs. Dell, also colored, in East Grand Forks and it will probably take the balance of the day to complete the jury.

County Attorney Hagen is conducting the prosecution unassisted. George A. Finlayson of East Grand Forks, is defendant's the counsel. The courtroom is packed, as great interest is taken in the case which will last several days. The regular panel and a special venire of fifteen have been exhausted with the exception of three men and another special venire is being summoned.

TURN DOWN THE MEAT BOYCOTT

Women Decide They Will Continue to Serve Meat at Home.

The Ladies' Independent Label league buried the meat boycott, so far as it is concerned, at a meeting last night in Kalamazoo hall. All of the expressions by speakers were in criticism of the boycott and the league did not take action, considering its previous refusal to join the movement as sufficient official indication of its attitude.

A communication was received from the International Glove Workers' union thanking the league for its persistent efforts for the glove workers, by its work in demanding the union label on articles made by the workers.

Mrs. C. Bolt and Mrs. D. Leack were admitted to membership. The next meeting will be held Wednesday, Feb. 16 when a special program will be given, including vocal and instrumental music.

Smallpox and Nightriders.

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 3.—A Union City, Tenn., dispatch today says there are 150 cases of smallpox in the Reelfoot Lake district, the scene of many nightrider outrages.

HOUSEHOLD REMEDIES

which have stood the test of time deserve a place in the medicine chest of every family. Mothers are today administering to their children the remedies their grandmothers used.

For thirty years, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been curing the women of this country from the worst form of female ills and merit alone could have stood such a test of time and won such an enviable record.

TWO RANGE MEN GIVEN PATENTS

Robert McGhee of Virginia and John O'Donnell of Biwabik Lucky Ones.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Patents have been issued to Robert J. McGhee of Virginia, Minn., for a draft saw machine; to John J. O'Donnell of Biwabik, Minn., for a railway tie and rail fastening means, and to Anton T. Peffer of St. Cloud, Minn., for a boot blacking machine.

NEW COHASSET SAWMILL.

Itasca County Town Will Soon Have New Industry.

Cohasset, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—A new saw mill that will give employment to 125 men is among the new industries promised this place. The Commercial club has been working to secure the industry and its efforts are about to be rewarded.

The Minnesota Woodenware company, which operates a large plant already here, is contemplating doubling the capacity of its establishment. In this view, they have several camps in the surrounding country, from which they expect to get a big supply of raw material for next season's big run. Many new boats and steam tugs are being built this winter for use on the Mississippi and Pokegama lake, which latter is accessible by boats of considerable size. There is still much timber on Pokegama lake which has not yet been taken off, and tugs are being built for this purpose. There are also a number of new pleasure boats being built, which will convey pleasure seekers from Cohasset to Pokegama lake, which is fast becoming a very popular summer resort.

ANOTHER NEWSPAPER VENTURE IN NASHWAUK.

Nashwauk, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. Ross, formerly in the newspaper business at Chisholm, has sold his interests there and will publish the Nashwauk Herald. He has rented the vacant room in the Sebaka Mercantile building, which was formerly occupied by the Itasca Mercantile company. E. C. Kiley published the Iron Index in this village four years ago, but owing to conditions here at that time, it proved unsuccessful. As the village has grown and is prospering, Mr. Ross, who is well known among his friends as a prospering business man and through the help of the citizens here will undoubtedly make a success in the new undertaking.

George Williamson of Hibbing has the contract of moving several houses at the Hawkins mine location. The mining company is stripping on the eastern side of their open pit facing the village and these buildings that are near the edge of the pit are being moved to other parts of town.

Miss Katherine Huson of Grand Rapids spent Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Ohles, returning to her home that evening.

T. R. Dodson has begun the erection of a six-room cottage on Fourth street, which he expects completed and ready for occupancy by March.

MRS. SULLIVAN'S TERRIBLE WEAKNESS

Was the Cause of Much Suffering, that Cardui, the Woman's Tonic, Finally Relieved.

Pavilion, Mich.—"As a result of serious female complaint, occurring every two weeks," writes Mrs. William Sullivan, of Pavilion, Mich., "I became so weak that I could hardly get around.

"I took five bottles of Cardui, and it straightened me up, right away. I hope this letter will induce some suffering lady to take Cardui."

The reasons why you should take Cardui, are not far to seek.

First, it is gentle, safe, reliable.

Second, it is purely vegetable and contains no dangerous minerals or habit-forming drugs.

Third, it is a tonic, prepared especially for the use of weak women.

Fifth, it is easy to take, obtainable in any drug store, with full instructions for use, inside the wrapper.

Sixth, a successful record of over half a century, proves that Cardui has real merit behind it and has stood the greatest of all tests—the test of time.

Be sure to ask for it, at your druggist's, today.

N. B.—Write to: Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions, and 64-pages book, "Home Treatment for Women," sent in plain wrapper, on request.

OPERATE PLANTS AT GOOD PROFIT

Wisdom of Having Hibbing Light and Water Commission Evident.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The wisdom of the appointment by the village board of the light and water commission is shown in the report just made public for the six months ending Dec. 31.

The commission consists of R. A. Angst of the Buffalo & Susquehanna Iron Mining company, Supt. William Wearne of the Inland Steel company and W. J. West, superintendent in the Hibbing district for the Oliver Iron Mining company.

The report shows that the village has made a net gain in the past six months on the plant of $5,862.56, while the net gain for the five months preceding under the old system was only $1,903.21. Moreover, during the six months covered by the commission's report a total of $10,511.24 is charged against the plant for depreciation, while only $133.98 is charged for depreciation for the preceding five months, so that in fact the net gain of the last six months of the year over the preceding five months was more than $14,000.

Receipts and Expenditures.

The light receipts from the six months were $29,181.50 and water receipts of $1,917.61. Expenditures for the light system, including depreciation for the same period were $19,955, and for the water system $11,585.55.

The commission has installed for fire protection a reserve pump at the Buffalo & Susquehanna mine and an additional one at the Penobscott, each with a capacity of 600 gallons per minute. The village therefore, the commission reports, can now command 1,500 gallons per minute at a pressure of 175 pounds per square inch.

The commission is preparing to drive a drift as far south from the present village wells as possible, the drift to furnish 125 gallons of storage per foot. This will give the village an immense reservoir to be drawn upon in case of bad fires.

The commission gives the details of plans for the installation of additional electric light wire service to relieve the overburdened condition of the wires which supply the residence section of the town.

VERDICT FOR COMPANY.

Judge Hughes Directs Jury to Find for the Defendant.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The case of John Limatainen against the St. Louis River Development & Improvement company, which has been on trial in the district court since Monday, ended yesterday when Judge Hughes instructed the jury to return a verdict for the defendant. This case involved the question whether the defendant was liable for damages to the plaintiff's property caused by the building of a dam across the St. Louis river west of Biwabik, the water of which backed up and flooded the plaintiff's land.

At the close of this case court adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning, when one of the other twelve cases against the same company was taken up.

The other parties who are suing the company for damages are Andrew Thompson, Erick Ekman, August Halmetoja, John Usitati, John Nevalainen, Jacob Nevalainen, John Lido, Matt Lakela, John Kilpala, Gust Johnson, Rosa Kemmdinke and Benjamin A. Holst, all farmers residing along the St. Louis river.

MAY BREAK RECORDS.

Itasca Ski Club Expects Great Jumping at Big Tournament.

Coleraine, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The steel slide being erected by the Itasca Ski club on Trout lake hill near here is nearly ready for the national ski tournament to be held Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 19 and 20. The new structure will be 112 feet high and replaces a wooden structure on the most picturesque ski hill in America.

Secretary A. King of the Itasca Ski club says he expects that some American ski records will be broken on the new slide.

Preparations for entertaining the large number of visitors expected are going on and there is no question about everyone who comes here being well taken care of.

EVELETH PLANS TO BRANCH OUT

Scheme on Foot to Take in Some Adjoining Locations.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—General Manager J. H. Hearding and F. B. MacLean of the Oliver Iron Mining company were here Tuesday and conferred with the local committee appointed by the Business Men's association for the extension of the city limits, but no action was taken on the matter, though the question was thoroughly discussed.

The committee consisting of George A. Perham, John J. Gleason and J. P. Boyle, have gathered data on the question of the incorporation of the districts bordering on the city limits and it is very probable that a special meeting of the Business Men's association will be called soon to thoroughly discuss the matter and act upon it.

WON BY ONE VOTE.

Tower Municipal Judge Is Given Office By Close Margin.

Tower, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The count of ballots in Tuesday's election shows S. E. McLoughlin and A. D. Fuller received sixty-one votes each for municipal judge. A recount of the ballots showed sixty-one for A. D. Fuller and sixty for S. E. McLoughlin, the former thereby being declared elected.

Mr. McLoughlin, who has officiated during the past year, has proved himself competent, and his many friends were disappointed in the outcome of the second count.

The duties of the office are not new to Mr. Fuller, as he served for a term previous to Mr. McLoughlin being elected.

CANADA WANTS MINIMUM TARIFF

But Will Not Beg Favors or Be Dictated To.

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 3.—"Canada desires no tariff war, and would do everything consistent with dignity and reason to avoid it. If the United States sees any reason why the Dominion should not receive the benefit of the minimum tariff, the government would no doubt be glad of an opportunity to discuss the matter with their neighbors in a friendly spirit; but it is certain that the people, no matter what the sacrifice might be, would be quick to resent dictation or undue pressure, and it is certain that favors they will not beg. Canada is no alms seeker."

This is the "tip" the Free Press, the government organ here, hands out in discussing a campaign some American newspapers seem to be conducting for freer trade relations. But it makes it come from the United States. It says: "Already there are hopeful signs that the reasoning press of the United States, at any rate, would view with disfavor any attempt on the part of authorities of Washington to put the screw on Canada.

"The antiquated delusion that Washington has a right to dictate to Canada what she will or will not do, has not been entirely despelled, judging from the editorial comment of the Detroit Free Press. That usually sane journal is exceedingly annoyed to think that Canada should have the audacity to make commercial treaties with other countries without considering the feeling of the sensitive Uncle Sam. It is an insult which can only be wiped out by the spilling of commercial blood, suggests our contemporary and namesake.

"Canada has shaped a well-defined trade policy which she will carry out in her own way and at her own time. Her desire is to develop her commercial relations with all countries, the United States included, always looking to what is best in the interests of her own people. If she can succeed in doing this, and she believes she can, without giving ground for offense to the United States or any other nation, so much the better.

"If Washington should happen to see the matter in a different light, then the people of the Dominion may regret it, but they will never be stamped from the course they have mapped out by threats of tariff penalties."

BIG AID TO NAVIGATORS.

Hydrographic Office Has Issued Book on the Stars.

Washington, Feb. 3.—An important aid of navigation has just been issued by the hydrographic office in the shape of a volume of 364 printed pages made up entirely of tables, the purpose of which is to enable a navigator to identify with precision any star that he may see, even through a small rift of clouds in stormy weather. By the identification of a few such stars the navigator will be enabled to locate the position of his ship on the high seas regardless of the moon.

The hydrographic bureau explains that it has been impelled to undertake this task because of the growing necessity for correct astronomical observations for the purpose of deducing the geographical position in the course of the ocean voyages of the high speed

ANOTHER TIE-UP ON THE NEW ARKANSAS CAPITAL.

Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 3.—Work on Arkansas' new capitol is again at a standstill, this time because of a strike of 175 union laborers. The walkout resulted from a disagreement between sub-contractors and their employes. Already the building has been ten years in construction.

TAKE UP COLLECTION IN COURT FOR THIEF.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 3.—Moved by the pathetic testimony of Hunter Ingram, a 14-year-old boy, in police court, charged with having stolen a loaf of bread which the youngster said he wanted to take to his mother, who was starving, Judge John J. Crutchfield ordered a collection taken up in court for the boy and the mother. Passing around the hat, the bailiff obtained from those present in court the sum of $15, the judge having dropped in a crisp $5 note. The police caught Hunter at 1 o'clock yesterday morning stealing a loaf of bread from a bakery. The case against him was dismissed.

FORMER PIERRE MAN IN TROUBLE IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—Arthur E. Blodgett, a former bank auditor at Pierre, S. D., who is said to be a member of a commission firm there and the son of a retired capitalist, was arrested here yesterday on a charge of failing to deliver a consignment of cattle for which he was advanced $750. Blodgett told the police the cattle had escaped in a storm after he had turned them over to a railroad company.

ITCHING ERUPTIONS QUICKLY CURED

Just a few drops of oil of wintergreen properly compounded in the thymol, glycerine, etc., and applied to the skin will take away instantly the worst kind of an itch. We positively know this.

The D. D. D. Prescription made at the D. D. D. Laboratories of Chicago, seems to be just the right compound. It sells regularly at one dollar a bottle, but we have secured a limited number of special bottles for a trial at 25 cents on a special offer, and advise you to take advantage of this offer now, as we do not know how long the Laboratories in Chicago will continue the 25-cent offer.

We KNOW you can take away that itch TONIGHT.

MISSING BOY LOCATED.

Osceola, Wis., Youth, Aged 10, Travels Out to Montana.

Osceola, Wis., Feb. 3.—Worn out by a week of fruitless searching for his boy, who disappeared from his home here on the night of Jan. 21, John Piehe, a wealthy farmer, received a telegram at St. Paul saying that the little fellow had turned up at the home of his brother in Newlon, Mont.

A mystery which has baffled police and parents alike has surrounded the affair, and the telegram added still another development which could not be explained.

Little Leonard Piehe, who is only 10 years old, left home with only $1, obtained by rifling his little tin bank. He was traced as far as St. Paul, and his fare would cost the bigger part of $1.

When he arrived at his brother's home, however, he was clad in a new suit of clothes, and had traveled several hundred miles by rail.

OLD BRAINERD CITIZEN.

August Feiro Passes Away at 74 of Blood Poisoning.

Brainerd, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Services were held from St. Francis Catholic church today for August Feiro, a well-known citizen, who died after an illness of about a year of blood poisoning. Mr. Feiro was 74 years of age, and leaves a widow and seven sons and daughters. Mr. Feiro had been a resident of Brainerd for many years. He was a man of considerable means, and spent most of his time for several years looking after his property.

TO BE TRIED IN AITKIN.

Paul Fournier, Accused of Murder, Gets Change of Venue.

Brainerd, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge McClenahan in the matter of a change of venue from Beltrami county has ruled in the case of Paul Fournier, charged with the murder of Aagot Dahl, in April 1901.

There were over 200 affidavits filed, claiming that it would be impossible to secure a fair and impartial trial in Beltrami county, because of the wide interest taken in the crime. Chester McKusick, the county attorney of Beltrami county, filed a personal affidavit against the change. The change of venue was granted and Fournier will be tried at Aitkin, at the general term of the district court, commencing May 17.

IRONWOOD SKI CLUB.

Slide Being Erected and Jumping Promised Next Sunday.

Ironwood, Mich., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—A ski club has been organized here with the following officers: Carl Erickson, president; Deane Nelson, vice president; William Peterson, treasurer; Werner Larson, secretary; Gunder Lee, financial secretary. A slide is now in the course of construction on White's hill, north of the city, 110 feet in length and 75 feet high, which, it is expected, will be completed by the latter part of the week.

The first jumping will probably occur next Sunday, when it is expected that a number of outside riders will be present.

GETTING JURY IN GOFF CASE

Trial of East Grand Forks Negro Accused of Killing Woman.

Crookston, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—When court took a recess at noon today, nine jurors had been secured to try William Goff, colored, indicted for killing Mrs. Dell, also colored, in East Grand Forks and it will probably take the balance of the day to complete the jury.

County Attorney Hagen is conducting the prosecution unassisted. George A. Finlayson of East Grand Forks, is defendant's the counsel. The court-room is packed, as great interest is taken in the case which will last several days. The regular panel and a special venire of fifteen have been exhausted with the exception of three men and another special venire is being summoned.

TURN DOWN THE MEAT BOYCOTT

Women Decide They Will Continue to Serve Meat at Home.

The Ladies' Independent Label league buried the meat boycott, so far as it is concerned, at a meeting last night in Kalamazoo hall. All of the expressions by speakers were in criticism of the boycott and the league did not take action, considering its previous refusal to join the movement as sufficient official indication of its attitude.

A communication was received from the International Glove Workers' union thanking the league for its persistent efforts for the glove workers, by its work in demanding the union label on articles made by the workers.

Mrs. C. Bolt and Mrs. D. Leack were admitted to membership. The next meeting will be held Wednesday, Feb. 16, when a special program will be given, including vocal and instrumental music.

THE RAID IS CONTINUED

Heavy Liquidation in Coppers Sends Prices Tumbling in East.

Duluth Market Is Stagnant With Absence of Buying Orders.

The decline in the copper stock market developed a rout this morning, declines being sharp and accentuated. Banking interests are said to have stopped the decline, but the halt was only temporary. Scattered buying in North Butte and a few other issues caused a reaction in some of the specialties but those stocks which were unsupported continued to slide.

The London market was weak and the effect was felt on this side. A bullish factor which had no effect on the general market, however, owing to predominating bearish influences, was the report that copper stocks decreased in January more than in any one month for several years. The report of the Copper Producers' association, Feb. 10, is expected to be favorable.

Liquidation in Amalgamated and Steel had a depressing effect on the entire market. The market needs support, but little was forthcoming today. The bear element seized on the public's favorite issues and beat them downward. One broker wired that Tom Lawson and powerful financial interests were behind the bear movement, but this probably is only market talk. So far as the financial interests are concerned, the rumor undoubtedly is true. It is a patent fact that it would need an influential pool to depress stocks in the manner in which they have been forced down in recent weeks. That Tom Lawson is a sufficiently serious market factor, is to be doubted.

Short selling in North Butte forced that issue down to $31 from $34.75, when scattered buying caused a reaction. Boston sent several buying orders to Duluth, which were filled in the local exchange at $34.75 and $31.25. The issue opened at $34.75, declined to $31, advanced to $33 and lost ½ point on sales at the close. Amalgamated sold at $78.62½ up to $79, down to $76, and up ¾ point; Giroux, at $10, down ½ point and up ¼ point; Butte-Ballaklava, at $11 asked in the East and $10.62½ sale here; Calumet & Arizona, at $70, off 4 points, and back to $67.50; Greene, at $9.50 to $8.87½ and back to $9; Butte Coalition, to $24 from $25.50.

The raid on the leading Cole-Ryan stocks prejudiced traders against the rest of the Cole-Ryan issues and all were weak and declined.

The local market was quiet. Butte & Superior being the feature of an otherwise lifeless day. This issue was fairly well traded in, selling at $2.75 up to $2.81¼. Cactus at $5.12½ down to $5 and then at $4.87½, Giroux at $10.25, off to $9.87½; Live Oak at $20.50, Red Warrior at $3, Walnut at 52 cents, Chief at $2.06¼, National at 46 cents, St. Mary's at 30 and 29 cents, and North American at $2.06¼.

Despite the depression of the Eastern markets the activity of the Duluth stock exchange last month was the best in its history with the exception of December's trading. The total shares changing hands in January were 317,-876 with a value of $610,763.28, average of 12,217 shares a day with an average value of $1.92½.

SUMMARY OF THE WEATHER

January This Year Was Warmer Than Mean for Forty Years.

January of this year was warmer than the average, according to the monthly meteorological summary which has been issued by H. W. Richardson, local forecaster of the weather bureau. The average temperature for the month this year was 13 deg., while the mean of the month for forty years was 10.5 deg. The highest temperature this year was 33 deg. Jan 19, and the lowest 7 deg. below zero Jan. 3. The greatest daily range was 30 deg. Jan 4, and the least daily range 5 deg. Jan. 13.

The total precipitation for the month was .8 inch, while the mean precipitation for the month for forty years was .98 inch. The snowfall for the month was 7.8 inches. The greatest precipitation in any twenty-four hours was .62 inch on Jan. 4 and 5. There were 6.5 inches of snow on the ground at the end of the month.

The prevailing direction of the wind was southwest and the total movement was 9,650 miles, an average hourly velocity of 13.1 miles. The greatest velocity maintained for five minutes was fifty-two miles an hour Jan. 20.

There were six clear days during the month, twelve partly cloudy and thirteen cloudy. On six days there was .01 inch or more of precipitation.

WARRINER TELLS HOW

Big Four Embezzler Explains How Easily He Did It All.

Says Auditor Could Have Caught Him---Accuses Comstock Too.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 3.—In the Ford trial Warriner testified that as treasurer in Cincinnati for the Big Four he had paid many rebates. Asked if any of them were illegal he replied: "I don't know."

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 3.—Charles L. Warriner today testified under oath that Frank D. Comstock, his predecessor, as local treasurer of the Big Four railroad, was about $10,500 short when Warriner succeeded him.

"I assumed that shortage as part of my own," said Warriner.

A ruling by Judge James E. Swing that all the testimony regarding the defalcation of Charles L. Warriner is relevant in the trial of Mrs. Jeanette Stewart-Ford on a charge of blackmailing the former local treasurer of the Big Four railway, opened the way today for a detailed sworn statement from Warriner as to the amounts he had taken and what he had done with the money.

Tells How He Did It.

Explaining his system, Warriner said:

"I took the money from the daily remittances of the station agents. These varied, but sometimes ran as high as $200,000 or $300,000 a day. It was only necessary for me to make the credit less than the amount received."

Thorndyke brought out that the auditor of the road had duplicates of the station agents' remittance slips with which to check Warriner's accounts. The attorney asked Warriner how it happened that the shortage had not been discovered, the witness replying:

"That's for him to explain."

"Was there some understanding between you and the auditor?"

"There was not; he did not know of my shortage."

"Who is the auditor of the Big Four?"

"F. A. Hewitt."

Could Have Caught Him.

"If he had compared the remittance slips with the general ledger, he would have found you out in a moment, would he not?"

"Yes," nodded Warriner.

"Did you change the remittance slips?"

"No, I just changed the total credits."

GERMAN TARIFF BILL IN REICHSTAG

Application of General Law to America May Be Avoided.

Berlin, Feb. 3.—It was officially announced today that the tariff negotiations had made such progress that a bill for the regulation of trade relations between Germany and the United States had been passed already by the federal council and would be introduced in the reichstag this afternoon.

Assuming that the measure sanctioned by the council will be adopted by the legislative body, it may be regarded as certain that German's general tariff will not be applied to American imports after Feb. 7.

The bill further sets forth the conditions under which the bundesrath may wholly or in part withdraw from the United States the advantages accorded to American products.

The first condition is in the event that the United States, in administering custom regulations, should fail to treat German goods in accordance with the principles contained in the note to article 2 of the tariff agreement of April 22 and May 2, 1907. A second condition would arise if the United States, through legislation or by treaties adopted with a third country or otherwise, should introduce changes affecting the exchange of goods between the German empire and the United States to the disadvantage of Germany.

HARDEST MAN TO PHOTOGRAPH GETS IN FRONT OF THE CAMERA

HENRY W. SAVAGE.

The hardest man in the theatrical business to picture is Henry W. Savage, of whom a Columbus Dispatch photographer caught this snapshot last week. Mr Savage is a Boston real estate man, who got into theatricals as a speculation and liked the business so well that he has become one of the most influential managers in the country. His first ventures were in musical comedy. Then he put some excellent companies on the road to sing grand opera in English. He gave America its first taste of "Madame Butterfly," putting on an adequate company to sing it in English. He also gave an English version of "Parsifal." Mr. Savage has gone in for non-musical drama of recent years, his most sensational venture being Molnar's "The Devil."

COUNTRY TO GET THE NEW REGENT

P. V. Collins of Minneapolis Not to Succeed Owens on the Board.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—P. V. Collins of Minneapolis will not be appointed university regent to fill the vacancy caused by the death of S. M. Owens.

It was rumored yesterday that Mr. Collins, publisher of an agricultural paper, would get the regency. It is said, in fact, that B. F. Nelson tipped it off at the Minneapolis Commercial club that Collins was the man. Strength was given this report by the fact that Mr. Collins has been in conference with Governor Eberhart and Secretary Wheelock during the last ten days. It was learned this morning from highly reliable sources that the appointment would not go to Collins and that it had been practically decided to give the fourth appointment to one of the country districts.

WORKING HARD TO SECURE DR. HILL

Regents May Ask Northrop to Stay Another Year If He Declines.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—If Dr. Albert Ross Hill, president of the University of Missouri declines the offer of the presidency of the University of Minnesota, there is a strong probability that President Cyrus Northrop will be called upon to serve another year as the university's head. President Northrop has assured the regents that he will not desert the institution without his successor's being appointed. The regents are hopeful, however, that President Hill will come.

Ex-Governor John Lind, president of the board of regents, had received no further word from the Missourian up to a late hour today. Of course, they say, there are other men under consideration, but they are after a man of the caliber of President Hill. A number of the same standing have flatly refused the presidency.

The regents hope that the letter referred to in a telegram to Mr. Lind will contain the conditions under which Dr. Hill will come to Minnesota. The regents are ready to give the man almost anything he asks.

As to President Northrop, he is extremely anxious to retire and is doing all in his power to bring Dr. Hill. Today he said there was still a good chance to land him. He did not say anything regarding the probability of his remaining another year. The regents hope this crisis may not come, owing to Dr. Northrop's wishes to retire.

GREAT STUFF.

Chicago News: "Have you ever used any of this Horsehead liniment for lame muscles and backs?" asked the man who owns his house. "There's nothing like it if used in the right place."

"I should think the right place would be where the lameness is," said the man who lives in a flat. "It would be a bonanza to us if it's any good at all, for that janitor of ours almost never gives us enough heat and we are always on the verge of lumbago.'

"You ought to do as I do," said the man who boards. "I am so footloose that I can pick up and leave the moment things no longer suit me. I tell you there's nothing like boarding."

"No, thank goodness!" said the man who owns his house. "You don't know what living is till you own your own home."

"And have to break your back lifting coal," said the man who lives in a flat. "None of that for me, thank you. My back aches hard enough from bending over a desk without making it worse."

"It was just that sort of thing I was going to tell you about," said the man who owns his house. "I hurt my back somehow at the furnace door one day and then took cold in it on the street car, so I was laid up three days with lumbago. I tried everything from hot water up, or down, and swallowed medicines by the gallon, without feeling any better. The doctor said something about letting nature take its course, which I understood to mean that I was going to die in a hurry. I got desperate. My wife had reached that point first, however, for she said she had never suffered so in her life as she had with my attack of lumbago, and it was through her I learned of Horsehead liniment.

"It certainly was a great proposition, that liniment," persisted the man who owns his house. "The circular that came with it declared there wasn't an ache or a pain in the world that could not be cured by its use. The pictures illustrating the suffering one experiences in lumbago especially appealed to me. I could scracely wait to use the liniment."

"I suppose you were a well man from that moment?" said the man who lives in a flat.

"It had absolutely no effect," said the man who lives in his own house. "I had to get well through the aforesaid course of nature. I've told you all this merely to show how we came to have Horsehead liniment in the house. A short time ago my son hurt his ankle playing football, and went to the medicine chest and took out the liniment.

"Before I go any further I must tell you we have had a great deal of trouble with our second-floor stairs. They creaked and squeaked until it sounded as though they were falling down, and any one coming in late wakened everybody in the house as soon as he tried to mount those stairs.

"Well, it happened that my boy left the liniment at the head of the stairs while he answered the telephone, and the maid, hurrying past, knocked it the whole length of the stairs. The bottle broke on the second step and the liniment flowed merrily down to the landing."

"Did the boy's ankle get well by itself, too?" asked the man who lives in a flat. "Is that it?"

"No," said the man who owns his house. "The point is that the stairs haven't made a sound since and I'm ready to sign a gilt-edged testimonial whenever the Horsehead liniment people ask me to. There's nothing like it."

STOCKS BUMP THE BOTTOM

Prices Fall the Lowest That They Have Been Since Last Summer.

Heavy Liquidation Is Renewed With the Opening of Trading.

New York, Feb. 3.—Hammered down by a rush of liquidation, prices of active stocks on the New York exchange today went to the levels that have not been touched since last summer's slump.

There was a renewal of heavy liquidation at the opening, and this circumstance, coupled with an attack on the market by an organized bear party, caused a violent break in prices.

A contest was wagered during the first hour by supporters of the market to resist the decline. Efforts at sustaining prices centered on United States Steel. Huge quantities of that stock were taken in the neighborhood of 80. When the stock broke at that price, floods of liquidation came on the market for all the principal stocks. United States steel itself sold down to 78⅝.

Follow Steel Down.

The decline in Union Pacific reached 2¼, and Southern Pacific 2⅛. Some of the other losses were:

United States Rubber, 3⅞; American Cotton Oil, 3¾; American Smelting, Westinghouse Electric, Consolidated Gas and People's Gas, 3; Wabash preferred, 2½; Chesapeake & Ohio and Texas Pacific, 2¼ and the general list 1 to 2 points or more.

There were occasional feverish rallies caused by the covering of the bears, but the market showed no effective resiliency. The liquidation continued throughout the morning with only intermittent pauses and insignificant rallies. The new level of prices brought values back to a lower point than has been seen on the stock exchange since last summer.

Declines Were Violent.

The declines were violent, running to between 1 to 4 in all the active speculative stocks. United States Steel seemed the pivot, and when that stock fell to 78 during the noon hour, the whole market took on an appearance of demoralization.

At that time some of the notable losses were Vulcan Detinning preferred 7⅞; Allis-Chalmers and Wells-Fargo 7; American Smelting 6⅝; United States Rubber and Metropolitan Street Railway 5; American Hide & Leather preferred 5¼, American Car 4½, American Cotton Oil, American Locomotive and Utah Copper 4¾, Federal Mining and Wabash preferred 4¼ and Chesapeake & Ohio, Denver & Rio Grande, Reading second preferred and Bethlehem Steel preferred 4.

There was another lull in the liquidation as the noon hour expired, but the resultant rallies brought the familiar decreasing activity which left the speculators puzzled over the next movement of the market.

Another drive still further reduced the level of prices, but it was followed by rallies showing more vigor than those previous. United States Steel fell as low as 77¾, but the market closed strong and animated.

MINNESOTAN IN CELL IN NEW YORK

Syrous M. Drake Accused of Using Mails for Fraudulent Purposes.

New York, Feb. 3.—Syrous M. Drake, an elderly farmer of Huntersville, Minn., who claimed to be a descendant of Sir Francis Drake and an heir to an estate of $200,000,000, was arrested today at the Times square postoffice by Inspector Kent on a charge of using the mails in connection with a scheme to defraud others who believed themselves to be heirs of the famous British admiral.

Drake was held in $3,000 bail for examination.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

WILL GET THE MILLIONS OF KING LEOPOLD OF BELGIUM

THE BARONESS VAUGHAN.

It looks as though Baroness Vaughan would get the millions of King Leopold, because he took the legal precaution to marry her before his death. He was anxious that his children, whom he regarded as undutiful, should receive no more than the few millions he inherited from his wife. His marriage with her gave her children no interest in the succession as the children of a morganatic wife are not in line of succession under the Belgian law. But it gave her a stronger claim on his fortune.

The members of the Fourth District Federation of Women's Clubs of Minnesota will be the hostesses at the midwinter meeting of the Minnesota Federation of Women's clubs which will be held at St. Paul Tuesday, Feb 22, in the new building of the Junior Pioneers' association.

The council, which consists of the officers of the federation, the presidents of the clubs, or their appointees, and chairmen of all committees, will convene at 9:30 a. m. The executive board will meet at 11:30 and luncheon will be served promptly at 12:30. At 2 p. m. a varied program, literary and musical, will be presented by able women from different parts of the state. Those who have attended the large midwinter meetings of the federation know how inspiring and helpful are the topics and their treatment as heretofore presented. This year, after the president's greeting, which will speak of the various recognitions recently accorded the Minnesota federation, and of the many opportunities for usefulness now opening for it, here will be suggestive papers on Minnesota's place in the art world, on education in one or more phases, child labor, the new Woman's institute at the Minnesota state fair, the Woman's State congress to be held at the new capitol, possibly in April, and two other subjects not yet fully decided on. Interspersed will be fine music by artists selected by the St. Paul Schubert club and by Miss Hope's ladies' orchestra.

It is probable that Duluth clubwomen will be represented at this meeting, but as yet no names of Duluth women have been mentioned to be attendants at the midwinter meeting.

"PULSE AND RHYTHM"

To Be Subject of Hallock Lecture.

Mme. Mary Hallock, who was heard with much pleasure at a piano recital last evening before the members of the Matinee Musicale, will present a lecture on "Pulse and Rhythm" tomorrow morning at the assembly hall of the normal school. The lecture will not be only for the members of the society, but all interested are eligible to attend. The lecture will be of particular interest and value to music students. Mme. Hallock has attracted much interested attention not only from musicians but from scientists also, from her works.

It was in the year 1903 that she plunged into the psychological problem of rhythm, with all the more eagerness that she felt herself trained stale so far as her piano playing was concerned. The much-needed rest was turned to good scientific account. She worked long and assiduously at the different reference libraries of Philadelphia, the result being an epoch-making paper on rhythm which appeared in the Popular Science Monthly for September, 1903. This was followed by an article on verbal rhythm printed in Poet Lore for June, 1904. After this followed the lecture on "Time Universal," delivered under the auspices of the Free Libraries of Philadelphia. This work on rhythm has been noticed in magazines all over the world—in Japan, England, Germany, America and naturally the Oriental papers of Asia Minor.

This lecture which she will give tomorrow has been delivered before many societies, and she has received most cordial and enthusiastic notices. There is much local interest, particularly as many o fthe local people have read the article in the Popular Science Monthly and are interested in a further expounding of her ideas.

ART LECTURES. . .

Design of Antique Rugs to Be Expounded.

"The Origin and Significance of Design on Antique Rugs" is the subject of a lecture to be presented to the members of the Twentieth Century club and their guests Tuesday morning of next week at the club room of the library. The speaker will be M. G. Alexanian, formerly of the Metropolitan Art museum of Constantinople and Cairo where he was one of the professors on Eastern art. The lecture promises to be unusually interesting and incitation is extended by the club members to any woman of Duluth or Superior to be present. The hour for the lecture will be 10:15 o'clock.

TRUE DEMOCRACY

Includes Equal Suffrage, Says Mrs. Potter.

In the Courant for February there is a most interesting article on "Equal Suffrage and Democracy" by Frances Squire Potter, corresponding secretary of the National American Woman Suffrage association, that will be of special interest to Duluthians, as Mrs. Potter will speak in Duluth next week under the auspices of the Twentieth Century club, and there is much interest in her appearance. Mrs. Potter will speak here Feb. 10 and 11 and on a third date to be announced later.

"It is true that women on the verge of going into politics must expect to rub up against the degrading conditions which today are common in the political world. Not till we are in that world will we know what men have been afraid of for us. But when we do know it, we will know what we have to do.

"Through how strange a process will this knowledge come? We will be heart-sick in the first place, will wish we never had gone in. We'll be bewildered, ask for advice, not to be satisfied with it. We will find ourselves misinterpreted, vilified at every turn. As we pull ourselves together and look around, the first thing we shall learn will be to form our own judgments of people and situations, and act upon them. How different our alliances will be! How humble we will be toward some who hitherto have seemed to us eccentric! How irrelevant and futile will seem the busy avoider of everything serious, and not so admirable the resigned druge will appear. We will have more insight into human motives, more charity for mistakes made by the strong, and less sentimental sympathy for those who deserve none. Lastly, we shall realize so vitally the educational value of being smitten on the one cheek that we will come to accept the high wisdom of turning the other.

"But we will not turn it, as women did in the past, because they had to, but because we deliberately, and, with a higher understanding, will to do so. And when we have achieved this we no longer will teach this doctrine to our children as a theoretical dogma they never see us practice willingly, but we will teach it as the supreme achievement of the character of the future. As they see us steadfastly practicing it in a world of affairs in which we are not deemed to be outsiders, they will respect the philosophy and the practical philosopher. When that time comes, the ideal democracy will be here.

"Equal suffrage is an inevitable phase of democracy. We do not fear to acknowledge it as an arena, not a garden. Besides, we can't help ourselves, anyway! The very first woman, early in her married life, involuntarily went out of the garden business!"

HALLOCK RECITAL.

Interesting Piano Recital Given Before Matinee Musicale.

Mme. Mary Hallock, the third of the out-of-town artists to appear before the Matinee Musicale, presented a program last evening at the assembly room of the Young Women's Christian association that was one of the most interesting recitals heard for some time. Mme. Hallock had a definite interpretation for the numbers she chose to present, and with a few words of explanation, she endeavored to convey to her hearers what the music meant to her. There may have been difference of opinion on some interpretation, but there was no lack of interest at all moments of the recital, and there was too, most hearty approval.

The program opened with the Schumann sonata in G Minor, that displayed intelligence and comprehensive musicianship. "The Skylark" of Tschaikowski was the pretty bit of bird like song that came between the sonata and the Bach Prelude and Fugue that was heard with interest, the three voices of the fugue being outlined with remarkable clearness. A group of three Chopin numbers, Etude in C sharp Minor, Nocturne in G major and Valse in A flat major was given interesting and poetic interpretation with beautiful tone color. Mme. Hallock played an encore in response to the enthusiasm over these numbers and the last group of the program included "Arietta" by Grieg, "Spinning Song" of Mendelsohn, "Gavotte" of Dreyshock, and two Liszt numbers, "Ra Kocsy March" and Rhapsodie No. 8.

Mid-Year Concert.

The annual mid-year concert of the High School Musical society under the direction of A. F. M. Custance will be given tomorrow evening at the assembly hall and an unusually fine program has been arranged. Flaaten's concert orchestra will play the accompaniments. The concert is free as usual and the collection will go toward the Smith Scholarship fund.

Host at Dinner.

P. McDonell entertained at dinner last evening at his home, 1102 East Third street in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Haney of "The Man of the Hour" company.

Wed in South.

Meridian, Miss., Feb. 3.—Prince Ruelens Victor Ruelens of Paris and London was married today to Mrs. Lillian Ida Hess Selter of Philadelphia. They left for New Orleans after the ceremony, where they will spend their honeymoon.

Morning Wedding.

The wedding of Miss Florence Eleanor Gillespie and Henry A. Courtney took place yesterday at the parsonage of the cathedral. The bride is a sister of Dr. N. H. Gillespie and Mrs. E. D. Baker of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Courtney left for a wedding trip to Eastern Ontario and will return to Duluth to be at home at 1217 East Third street.

Monterey Wedding.

The wedding of Miss Clara Carlson and August Peterson took place Wednesday of last week at the home of the bride's parents at Monterey, Minn. Mr. and Mrs. Peterson will return to Duluth to make their home.

Outlook Club.

The members of the Outlook club will meet tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Watson S. Moore of East First street. "The New South" will be the subject of an address by Henry F. Greene.

Personal. Mention.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward Ames, Jr., left today for a several weeks' visit at Nassau.

Mrs. M. A. Bradbury, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Bradbury of 108 South Fourteenth avenue east for a few weeks, will leave Sunday for her home at St. Paul.

* * *

Mme. Hallock, who played before the Matinee Musicale last evening and who will be in the city for a few days is a guest at the Young Women's Christian association.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Warren of Munger terrace will leave Saturday for Medford, Or., to make their home.

Mrs. Edward McClure of 820 East Fifth street has gone to the Twin Cities for a month's visit with friends.

Mrs. J. Hubble of Superior is the week-end guest of Mrs. J. T. Moran of 128 West Third street.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Ouellette of 830 East Fourth street left yesterday for New Orleans to remain until the Mardi Gras festival and will later go to Los Angeles to remain until spring.

FREAK VEILS

Are Again Receiving Popular Favor.

The freak veil is again popular, though women who are conservative in their dress refuse to wear these bizarre and, in some patterns, grotesque accessories, says a woman writer in an exchange.

The latest of these finishing touches is the mystery veil, a weave displaying a spider web.

The plain mesh is certainly sufficiently freakish, but this odd effect is heightened not improved—by the addition of spiders, bugs, etc., scattered all over the weblike surface. For those who have a repugnance to the idea of insects generally, the mystery veil can be secured with the spider web as a foundation for medallions in a different mesh enclosing a spray of fern or other small leaves.

This is a more modified form of course, but in either case it will need a professional beauty to carry such a space covering successfully.

Quite as ugly but less striking is the heavy octagon mesh in black and colors. Some of the weaves are so coarse they suggest a fine wire netting, especially those nets in metallic effects. Women who wear the large mesh should adjust the veil carefully, for the point of the nose protruding from a good-sized hole is not a pretty sight, while the beauty of the eyes can be easily detracted from by the way the veil covers them.

These mystery veils hang loose from the brim of a large hat and may float in the wind, so less care is necessary in arranging them than when the octagon mesh is worn, because the latter is taken to the back close to the face.

Women who are loyal to the Russian net will be glad to know it is still worn. In this style the round dot is newer than the square. Both are equally effective. The round dot comes in one size—rather small—while the square can be secured in a variety of sizes.

These Russian nets with large square dots are now considered mourning.

I was glad to hear there were to be no bordered veils this year except for autoing, and these are of chiffon, of course, and are larger and handsomer than those worn a year ago. They measure three and four yards in length, and are of ample width. They are hemmed and bordered in stripes with silk woven in, and are in all colors.

In this style a beautiful, serviceable veil can be bought for $5. Prices are both above and below this figure.

Colored veils have returned to favor, but only for wear on hats that match. The Russian net and the dotted colored veils are rivals for favor, and are alike preferred.

Brown is sold to hundreds of women, owing to the vogue for mink and other brown fur hats.

To choose a brown veil that will be a success over a brown fur hat requires thought and care.

In my opinion a fur hat is prettier and more jaunty-looking without a veil, but should one be actually necessary then the color and the kind of mesh must be considered when buying. The yellow and the golden browns do not combine effectively with the shade of brown seen in fur. So it will be better to select a really dark brown or a deep seal—some tone that will blend with the fur.

Again, the weave must not be too heavy or it will crush the fluffy fur and the effect will be of a close-fitting cap covering the head.

I should say the Russian net woven with a small round silk dot will be the best possible choice for a mink hat. The kind I have in mind is a dark seal brown and marked at 95 cents in the usual width.

One yard is sufficient for the usual size turban.

For a black lynx hat the black weave of this net may be selected. The square dot is not effective placed over fur hats because it is too heavy. When the fur hat is large then the mystery veil may be worn if preferred, because the background is really as light and open as the spider web it represents.

Black and white in magpie effects are selling well though the complexion veil is slowly taking its place.

EXPENSIVE NECKLACE

Forty-Eight Lovely Pearls Cost $230,000.

Lying in shallow, velvet-lined trays in a showcase at this jeweler's establishment were a lot of pearl necklaces. All were beautiful, but there was one in particular that caught the eye.

"How much is that?" the visitor asked, pointing at it through the glass.

"That?" said the salesman, opening the door at the rear of the case as he spoke to get it, and then he laid a couple of thicknesses of soft and slightly crumpled tissue paper on top of the case and laid the necklace down on that to keep the pearls off the glass. "Why that," he said, looking at the price marked in plain figures on the tiny tag attached to it, "is $230,000.'"

It was a litle more costly than this looker had thought, and he asked how many pearls there were in it, and it turned out that the salesman had never counted them, but he did so now, lifting the necklace and running the pearls over between his fingers in what appeared to be the professional way of counting pearls thus strung in groups of five at a time.

There were forty-five pearls in the necklace, which was eighteen inches in length; and surely it was beautiful, but wasn't $230,000 a good deal to pay for any pearl necklace?"

"Not for such a necklace as this," the salesman said, and it could not be bought for a dollar less, and incidentally he mentioned that they had at times necklaces still more costly.

This particular necklace, it seems, it had taken three years to assemble in Europe. The pearls are all large and every pearl is absolutely perfect in skin and perfectly spherical in form.

From the pearl at the middle of the necklace they diminish in size gradually, but with perfect uniformity, to the two ends, so that if the necklace were doubled together it would be found to contain, besides the middle pearl, twenty-two pairs of pearls perfectly matched, while these pairs run down in size with a perfect graduation. It is a necklace of extraordinary beauty, and for such a necklace of such pearls $230,000 was considered not an unreasonable price.

Household Hints.

Comforts and quilts should be dried in a good stiff breeze, so that they may be as light and fluffy as when new.

If fish is lightly rolled in flour after having been well dried with a clean cloth it will be less likely to break up with cooking.

* * *

It is a new wrinkle to pass marshmallows with hot chocolate. When the candies are dissolved a pleasant flavor is given to the chocolate.

If when using lemon for flavoring you need only half a one put the other half on a plate and cover with a glass tumbler. This excludes the air and prevents it from drying up or getting moldy.

* * *

The improved pie pan has a blade fastened to the center, which revolves around the botton of the dish beneath the pie crust when the end protruding from the side of the dish is moved.

* * *

Few know that a cold boiled potato rubbed on a piece of paper for a few minutes will form a moisture of the consistency of glue and is a satisfactory substitute for mucilage in case of an emergency.

To use cold halibut or other white fish, remove the bones and flake it and arrange it in layers, with bread crumbs and seasoning in a buttered baking dish. Cover the top with buttered crumbs, turn in hot milk to moisten sufficiently, sprinkle grated cheese over and bake.

* * *

A little ammonia in the water in which silver is washed will keep it bright for a long time without cleaning. The water in which potatoes have been boiled will have the same effect and remove stains. These hints are worth remembering by owners of plated ware, as frequent cleanings rub off the plating.

THE EVENING STORY

DANNY HOGAN'S DI'RY

By J. A. Tiffany.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

When Rufus Hipcraft, in boring for water, came across an old horseshoe, embedded in the rock at a depth of twenty feet, he pronounced it a "durn" cur'us coincydent," and let it go at that. News of the singular find in the village of Somnolton coming to the ears of Mr. Ignatius Ingleton of Bigville, fifty miles away, set that gentleman in a ferment of excitement. He started for Somnolton immediately.

A gentleman of newly-acquired wealth and leisure, who had sought in many eccentric ways to atract public attention to himself, Mr. Ingleton's real ambition was to effect a footing in learned, scientific circles. As one means to this end, he had joined the County Archaeological society, and had succeeded in having himself elected president.

Mr. Ingleton's visit to Somnolton was conducted with as much of secrecy as possible. Six months later he invited the members of the Archaeological society to accompany him on an excursion to that village, promising them a rare treat.

He chartered a special car for the occasion, and it was not until the party was well started on its journey that the president enlightened any of his guests as to the real object of the trip.

Then Mr. Ingleton told them that, in the previous spring, hearing of a most remarkable find at Somnolton, he had at once proceeded to that village and purchased eight acres of land immediately surrounding the spot at which the discovery had been made. For months past he had had a gang of men digging and delving in this tract, and he himself had personally sifted thousands of tons of earth and rubbish that they had thrown up.

He announced, with a singular mixture of pride and modesty, that he had found many things of immense archaeological interest and historic value. The present party, he said, would be the first persons to view the results of his labors.

On their arrival at Somnolton the president conducted his guests to the scene of excavations, the entire tract being enclosed by a high boarding. He let them in at a small gate, and led them to a one-story brick building of recent erection.

Inside, he showed them skeletons and other objects of interest, which, he informed them, had been found buried under the solid rock, and in many cases actually embedded therein.

After an excellent dinner at the village hotel, the company repaired to the schoolhouse to hear the president's address, and many of the villagers came in and occupied seats near the door.

After telling of the news of the finding of the horseshoe—which first brought him to Somnolton—Mr. Ingleton gave them figures, showing the number of tons of rock and earth that had been blasted and dug up, and dwelt in detail upon the skeletons and other objects that had been found, all pointing to the presence of man in this locality in the early twilight of the ages.

Here, he said, they found a city buried at a depth of twenty to thirty feet under the solid rock and clay—not as one found cities in the Old World, buried under two or three feet of earth, which had accumulated naturally in the course of a few centuries.

"Here," he went on, "we have traces of a civilization so remote that the brain reels in the attempt to conceive any adequate idea of its antiquity. Here, my friends, a civilized people lived and loved and wrought and died, eons and eons ago.

"That it was no rude, barbaric people that inhabited this region, but a race learned in letters and skilled even in those manufactures the origin of which we are wont to arrogate to our own generation, is sufficiently evidenced by this interesting fact:

"Under the skull of a venerable sage whose skull you have seen for yourselves (the skeleton numbered 5), we found, in a remarkable state of preservation, a roll of manuscript, written in a language unknown at the present day—strange hieroglyphics, my friends, cabalistic signs—pregnant with the wisdom of an intellect infinitely superior to that of man as he is today.

"But, still more remarkable, perhaps, than the writings themselves, is the fact that they are done upon paper—upon paper much the same in texture as that now in common use. Somewhat coarse, it may appear to us; but the marvel is that it should have endured at all, after the flight of an eternity.

"I frankly confess, my friends, that I am not deeply learned in philological lore; but, at the proper time, these manuscripts will be submitted to experts; and my impression is that in these cabalistic signs wil be traced an affinity to the Ancient Sanskrit.

"The grandeur of Egypt's pyramids, the mysterious inscriptions of the ruined temples of Central America pale in interest before these priceless manuscripts that, so near our own homes, we have wrested from the heart of Mother Earth, where they have reposed in peace and security from an infinite antiquity."

As the cheers that greeted the president's peroration subsided, the village patriach rose in the rear of the room and asked permission to say a few words.

"I'm no scholar," he went on; "an' I'm not a bit scientific. In fact, there is them as thinks that Gran'pa Whiteley's nothing but a darned old fool, any way; and mebbe you'll think the same when I've got through.

"But before you begin burning your Bibles or set to work rewritin' history, I want to give you a few pointers about these strange writin's that you've found.

"Sixty years ago I came to this place, where the village of Somnolton now stands; and here I've lived ever since. The place was wild and rugged, with an unfinished look; seemed as if the Lord had left it that way when the 12 o'clock whistle blew, and then forgot to come back and finish up.

"There were ten families, besides a few young unmarried men. We worked along at farming and home building for about six years, happy and contented; and then typhus fever broke out and carried most of the poor little children.

"Mary Hogan, the girl as I was going with, had a little brother named Danny, who had a great notion of learning to read and write. As there wasn't nobody to teach him, he used to scribble on any piece of paper that he could get hold of, and try to make letters same as he saw in his mother's Bible.

"Well, Mary died, and when they put her in the coffin, Danny cried for them to put his 'Di'ry' in there along with his sister. Y'see, he used to call the stuff he scrawled on odd bits of paper his 'Di'ry,' an' this 'di'ry' and his sister Mary were the two things he loved most in the world, so he wanted them to go together.

"I was kind o' broke up after Mary's death, and went away to the city for a time to forget my trouble.

"One day as I was coming back, riding my old nag, I'd got within about two miles of the settlement, when I hears a terrific rumbling noise. Looking towards the village I see a tremendous cloud o' dust, wi' stones an' all sorts of things flying. Seemed as if the hull mountain was a-fallin' down top of the place.

"By the time I reached the spot where my home should have stood, tons of earth and rock had fallen on the village, burying it to a depth of n cr'n twenty foot. Every man, woman an' child perished. I was the only one out of the original sixty settlers left alive.

"I couldn't tear myself away from the place where all my friends lay buried, so built myself a shanty, and I've lived to see the village grow up again.

"That's all I had to say. You've found traces of an extinct civilization, all right; but it's only been extinct about fifty-four years.

"These skeletons you've dug up are the bones of my friends that were buried in the landslide; and the ancient writin' as y're puzzlin' over 's Danny Hogan's Di'ry—written on scraps of paper that sugar an' candles and 'baccy came wrapped in."

Circulating Children.

American Hebrew: A scheme has been originated in Italy which we are sure will have little co-operation in the United States. Miss Laura Garsin is entitled to whatever credit is attached to organizing an international Jewish child exchange. But meager reports of the plan have reached here. The plan roughly seems to be to exchange children from one country to another so that the child may better learn the different languages.

For the Woman Who Has Beautiful Hair

(New York Theatrical News.)

The beauties in the Anna Held chorus are famous for their pulchritude. Their coiffures add a great deal to their charms. How they can "manage" such abundance of beautiful tresses day in and day out, keeping always the same well-groomed appearance, is beyond the ken of the average woman. But, listen while I whisper, these girls depend altogether upon dry shampooing to keep their hair fine and glossy.

They mix 4 ounces of powdered orris root with 4 ounces of therox, and they are prepared for a season's shampooing. Once or twice a week they sprinkle a tablespoonful of this mixture on the head and then brush the powder well through the hair. That is all there is to it, and they have escaped the bother and discomfort that accompany washing, rinsing and drying the hair, together with the danger of catching cold.

The wonderful results they achieve with therox convinces me that it is the only thing that can grow hair, for their hair is long and abundant in addition to being fluffy and lustrous.

SCHOOL BOYS USE TOBACCO

The Police Begin Campaign Against Its Sale to Minors.

One Confectionery Store Owner Is Arrested and Fined.

A campaign has started by the West Duluth police against the sale of tobacco to minors. Lieut. Wilcox says that instances where young boys have been found chewing and smoking tobacco are becoming too numerous and that every effort will be made to put a stop to it.

Late yesterday, John Carlson, the proprietor of a cigar and confectionery store at 5528 Grand avenue was arrested on a charge of selling tobacco to minors. When he was arraigned before Judge J. B. Fiack of the West Duluth justice court, he pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs.

A number of boys who are attending the Ely school, when found with tobacco on their persons, admitted to Lieut. Wilcox that they bought it at Carlson's place. Carlson admitted that he had sold the tobacco but claimed that the youngsters told him that they wanted it for their fathers.

George Plaska, proprietor of the Washington Candy kitchen on North Central avenue was arrested on Oct. 20 of last year on a similar charge. Since that time the police have been watching the small merchants closely. It is unlawful to sell tobacco to boys under 18 years of age.

AN EXCITING RUNAWAY

Horses Collide With Mule Team and Dash Along Sidewalk.

Frightened, presumably at the noise of a passing freight train, a team belonging to Elliott & Co., packers, ran away this morning on Central avenue, furnishing a series of thrilling escapes and considerable excitement for the people on the street at the time.

The horses were caught by Officer Peters of the West Duluth police department at the corner of Central avenue and Roosevelt street. The officer grabbed one of the horses by the nose and stopped the pair, but not until he had been dragged a short distance. The officer luckily escaped injury.

The team was standing in front of the W. B. Mallough grocery store, when the horses became frightened and made a dash up the street before they could be stopped. Crossing Ramsey street, the steeds collided with a pair of mules attached to a brewery wagon.

It was here that the most damage was done. Both of the mules were knocked down, the brewery wagon tongue was splintered and two shoes were knocked from one of the mules. One of the animals was badly injured and it was some time before it could be raised from the ground.

The horses did not stop after the collision with the mules but dashed up the street at a much faster pace. At the corner of Bristol street and Central avenue they nearly collided with a woman and a child, but a passerby warned the woman in time to get to a place of safety on the sidewalk.

The horses took to the sidewalk and more than once before the officer could get to them, the plate glass windows of the stores were in jeopardy.

When the officer finally caught the horses, one of them was found to be badly bruised from the collision with the mules. The wagon was also demolished in the trip.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LEADERS MEET

The Merritt Memorial School Takes Banner for Best Record During Year.

The West Duluth district of the St. Louis County Sunday School association held a very successful session at the West Duluth Baptist church, Rev. Arthur J. Hoag, pastor, last evening.

An afternoon session from 4 to 5:30 o'clock was presided over by Miss Florence Williams of 214 Twelfth avenue east who read an able paper on "The Psychology of Child Training in the Bible School." An exhibit of lesson helps was made and the distinctive features of those in use by each denomination, set forth. Miss Williams led the exercises of a model class for beginners, in which some of the little tots present responded readily to the ideas presented, and the adults afforded considerable amusement as they imagined themselves children once more, and made childish replies to questions as to what their mammas and papas were doing for them. Those present admitted it to be possible to overcome th influences an unfortunate heredity by environment.

The evening session was opened by a praise service followed by prayer by Rev. Daniel George Cole, pastor of Plymouth Congregational church.

The nominating committee consisting of Messrs. B. N. Wheeler, W. E. Cowden and A. A. Johnson recommended the re-election of the entire staff of officers, which was unanimously adopted and complimentary remarks made concerning their efficient services. The officers are: I. G. Wollan, president; P. Bergstrom, vice president; C. I. Towner, secretary.

Considerable interest was manifested in the foreign-speaking churches. Herbert H. Parish, field secretary of the Minnesota Sunday School association, who is a guest at the Y. M. C. A., and who will be in the city for ten days attending to matters connected with his work, spoke of the importance of the association to them. Secretary Parish pointed out the standing of the several Bible schools in an elaborate tabulated form that he calls the "standard of excellence." The sytem allows five points each on beginners, primary, junior, intermediate, senior and adult classes; ten each on cradle roll, home, teacher training, decision day and regular teachers' meeting, while five points each are credited on the separation of Sunday school rooms by curtains or screens, the number of subscriptions to the "Herald," the official organ of the association, and an offering each year from each school for the county work.

The West Duluth Baptist church showed up 9 officers and teachers and 60 scholars; Plymouth Congregational church reported 7 scholars and 9 teachers and officers. The Swedish Mission had a total of 90 teachers, officers and scholars; Elim Swedish Lutheran recorded 25 in the management of their school with 190 scholars. Merritt Memorial Methodist Episcopal church took the banner with a total membership of 90 officers, teachers and scholars. Asbury Methodist Episcopal church, which is in the midst of a revival, has 19 on its staff and a roll of 184 scholars. Westminster Presbyterian church has the most officers, teachers and members of any school in the society, the number being 238. The House of Hope, which also belongs to the Presbyterian persuasion, has 7 officers and teachers with a membership of 60 scholars. Among the Methodist churches the Proctor M. E. enumerates a total membership of 182. A delegation was present from the Second Swedish M. E., while the Second Norwegian-Danish Methodist church will be heard from later.

Holy Apostles church was represented by its rector and a vestryman. The Lutheran churches registered as follows: Our Saviour's Norwegian, 15 teachers and officers and 125 scholars; Finnish Lutheran, a total of 94; St. Stephen's German Lutheran and the Norwegian Synod Lutheran churches are members of the organization. The Third Swedish Baptist church claims a total membership of 130. Ebenezer Baptist church is affiliated with the association.

Mrs. C. M. Wilson handled the teacher training problem with much care and thought and pointed out the need for more knowledge on the part of those who take upon themselves the teaching of the Bible and kindred books. Mrs. Wilson is the superintendent for St. Louis county. The roll call of the several schools showed the growing interest among the denominations and perfect harmony prevailed throughout the session. Alderman-elect Barnes presented the banner to Merritt Memorial Sunday school. Rev. Ellsworth B. Collier, rector of Holy Apostles Episcopal church dismissed the congregation with the benediction.

May Be Insane.

Fred Wiggins, 29 years old, of West Duluth will be examined this afternoon in the county probate court for insanity. Information of insanity was filed this morning by the authorities.

Wiggins was arrested late yesterday by Lieut. Wilcox on a charge of indecent exposure on Fifty-ninth avenue west on Tuesday evening last. Wiggins has acted strangely for some time, it is said.

GAVE THE OFFICERS A HARD BATTLE.

When Thomas Stanish was arrested last evening by Officer Hannott at Fifty-sixth avenue west and Raleigh street on a charge of drunk and disorderly conduct, he was in a fighting mood.

He not only resisted arrest, but also attempted to show the officer something about the art of boxing. When he was finally placed in a cell at the police station, he sought revenge by breaking three windows at the police station.

This morning in police court he was sentenced to thirty days, with the option of a $40 fine.

With the Curlers.

At the curling rink last evening only one game was played in the West Duluth Commercial club event. The result follows:

|---|---|
| Crosby, | Judson, |
| Iitis, | Kreidler, |
| R. Donald, | Nygren, |
| Meldahl, skip—19 | Olson, skip—3 |

Tonight the playing will begin in the Buckley event, with Method vs. Keyes and Hewitt vs. Zauft in the first drawing. This will be played in bonspiel style and fourteen rinks have entered.

The playing will also be resumed in the Commercial club event, Meldahl lining up against Holland and Evered playing Miller.

West Duluth Briefs.

Mr. and Mr. J. H. Bowne have returned from the East and will make their home again at West Duluth.

Hiram Fisherman, who was arrested Tuesday on a charge of peddling without a license, forfeited bail yesterday afternoon when he failed to appear in municipal court.

Rev. George R. Gebauer, pastor of the First Unitarian church of Duluth, spoke before the meeting of the W. C. T. U. this afternoon at the home of Mrs. G. W. Smith of 723 North Central avenue. His subject was "Motherhood as a Basis for a Higher Civilization."

The Old Folks' club of West Duluth enjoyed a social dance last evening at Wade's hall, about 100 invited guests being present. Many of the old-fashioned dances were on the program and the evening was very pleasantly spent.

The revival meetings which are being held this week at the Asbury M. E. church, Sixtieth avenue west and Raleigh street, are well attended. Rev. M. M. Hurch of Minneapolis is the principal speaker. He is ably assisted by Miss Corps, the singing deaconess. The meetings will be continued for two weeks, Saturday evenings being excepted.

A Baudin, formerly of West Duluth, who established a laundry at Proctor recently, has sold his business and will again take up his residence in the western end of the city.

Miss Lindgren, now located at 305 Central ave. Half price sale continues.

The Irving Tigers Rooters' club has issued invitations for a dance which will be given this evening at Wade's hall. Blewitt's orchestra has been engaged for the affair. The committee in charge is Miss Marie Dunlop and Miss Blanche Santere.

The Dorcas Society of the Elim Swedish Lutheran church will be entertained this evening at the home of August Johnson of 419 North Fifty-second avenue west.

Mrs. Swenson of Proctor will be hostess to the Ladies' Aid Society of the Proctor Swedish Lutheran church at her home tomorrow afternoon.

The Girls' Sewing Circle of the Elim Swedish Lutheran church will be entertained Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Anton Wallin of 20 North Fifty-eighth avenue west.

Mrs. F. B. Thomas of 1715 West First street and Mrs. E. Bouchaine of 27 Eighteenth avenue west left yesterday afternoon for Centerville, S. D., called there by the serious illness of their mother, Mrs. V. Haag.

Hurst, Watch repairing, W. Duluth.

Mrs. George Govette of Proctor is reported to be very ill at the Duluth hospital, today.

Miss Stella Richter of Merriton, Ont., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Richter of North Central avenue, while on her way to relatives at Hibbing. She is a niece to Mr. Richter.

BEGIN TO ARGUE COWLES CASE

Testimony Is Finished in Court Martial of Men in the Navy.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 3.—There was no morning session today at the Charleston navy yard of the court-martial which is trying Paymaster George P. Auld on charges of assault on Dr. S. Cowles at a "hop" last December. The evidence was concluded yesterday and adjournment was taken until this afternoon, when Maj. Leonard, senior counsel for Auld, was to begin an argument.

That unusual interest in the case is shown at Washington, was borne out in a degree by a request that a full transcript of the proceedings be sent to both Secretary of the Navy Meyer and Senator Lodge.

The trial of Past Assistant Surgeon Ansey D. Robnett, on charges similar to those against Paymaster Auld, will, it was unofficially stated, start next Monday.

PRESIDENT TAFT PACIFIES THE OKLAHOMANS.

Washington, Feb. 3.—President Taft today prevailed upon John Embry to withdraw his resignation as United States attorney for Oklahoma and to remain in the office. The resignation of Mr. Embry had threatened serious factional troubles in the Republican party in Oklahoma, and by persuading him to stay the president thinks a troublesome situation has been settled.

NON-UNION MINERS' LIVES ENDANGERED.

Lead, S. D., Feb. 3.—The lives of 100 non-union men were endangered early today by a fire which destroyed the Campbell hotel here. Many escaped with the greatest difficulty, but none was killed or injured.

The management of the hotel declares that the fire was the result of a plot to do away with the lodgers. Night Clerk Boland told the police this afternoon the hotel was burning in six different places soon after the alarm was given.

LIABILITIES $37,000,000

The Mexican National Packing Company in Hands of Receiver.

It Has Exclusive Right of Slaughter in Mexico Until 1926.

New York, Feb. 3.—The Mexican National Packing company, a New Jersey corporation, controlled by English investors and operating a string of slaughter houses and packing houses in the republic of Mexico, under concessions from the Mexican government, failed yesterday, with liabilities, including stock, approximately $37,000,000.

The assets were not announced, but it is estimated that they are in excess of the liabilities. The company will continue to operate its plants as usual. Henry De Kay was appointed receiver by Judge Lanning in the United States circuit court in New Jersey.

The appointment of a receiver was not brought about by any condition in the livestock market, but by the tying up of part of the company's funds in the United States Banking company in Mexico City, which suspended recently.

Had Exclusive Rights.

Among the concessions held by the company is an exclusive right to slaughter cattle in Mexico until 1926. Its capital is $22,500,000 and it has a bonded debt secured by mortgage of about $12,500,000 and a floating debt in the neighborhood of $2,000,000, of which, however, only about $300,000 is due.

These bonds, stock and debts are held mainly in England, and the British & Mexican Trust, Limited, of London procured the receivership as a holder of about $6,000,000 of the bonds, approximately two-thirds of the stock, and as the owner of $300,000 of floating debt.

The company was incorporated in New Jersey in 1902 under the title of the United States Packing company. The name was changed in October, 1906.

The officers are: J. W. Dekay, president and chairman of the board of directors, City of Mexico; William Haynes Smith, vice chairman of the board, London; Sebastian Camacho, first vice president, London; Charles Dekay, third vice president, New York; S. H. Buck, treasurer, City of Mexico, and T. K. Scott, secretary, New York.

WEYERHAEUSER RETIRING FROM BANK POSITIONS.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Feb. 3.—Frederick Weyerhaeuser today resigned as a director of the First National bank of this city, and will also retire from the directorates of about thirty banks in the Northwest. This marks his gradual retirement from active business operations of all kind.

SUPERIOR

WILL PROTECT SWITCHMEN

Extra Officers Will Be Stationed Below Third Street.

As a result of a conference between a number of business men interested in factory concerns below Third street on the bay front, Supt. Brown of the Terminal road and Mayor Crumpton, held today at the Commercial club rooms, the switchmen of Superior will have more protection from the police in the future.

Mayor Crumpton today promised the railroad officials that in the district below Third street, where the Terminal switchmen work, there will be special officers to prevent any violence from any of the strike sympathizers. The request was made at the instigation of the business men in that district.

Within the last few days, many of the terminal switchmen have refused to work in that vicinity, fearing that they might be victims of an assault. Recently three or four switchmen have been assaulted and the railroad officials have been asking for better police protection.

When the request for more officers for this part of the city was first made by the railroad officials, it was turned down and the officers were given to understand that if any special officers were needed that they could furnish them, themselves.

DECLAMATORY CONTEST FOR MARRIED LADIES.

A declamatory contest for married women only has been arranged under the auspices of the Superior branch of the Women's Christian Temperance union. It will be the fourth in a series of seven medal contests to be given this year. The date will probably be set for Feb. 17, the anniversary of the birth of Frances E. Willard.

Conductors Dance.

The twelfth annual ball of the Order of Railroad Conductors will be held Monday evening at the Hotel Superior. The big ballroom will be elaborately decorated for the occasion. The committees are working hard to make the affair the usual success. Special arrangements will be made with the street car officials for a late car for those attending from Duluth.

Lounsbury to Lecture.

"The Superior Water Supply," will be the subject of an illustrated lecture, which will be delivered before the Wisconsin Society of Engineering at its annual convention, which will be held at Milwaukee, Feb. 23 to 25, by W. C. Lounsbury. Mr. Lounsbury is the chemist for the Superior Water, Light & Power company.

TWO STRANGE COINCIDENCES.

Strand: A structure, known as Stoodley Pike, which stands ninety yards high, and is situated near Hebden Bridge, Eng., has a remarkable history. It was built in 1814 to commemorate the Peace of Ghent. Singular to relate, however, it fell on the very day that the Russian ambassador left England prior to the Crimean war. Rebuilt by public subscription, it withstood storm and rain for half a century, but on the same day that the British government issued its ultimatum to the Boers it was struck by lightning and badly damaged. These unique coincidences have strangely perplexed local people.

THE HOME PHYSICIAN

This Recipe Makes a Splendid Remedy For Coughs.

The home-made remedy described below will be found a very handy and effective thing to have in the house ready for use. It is simple, pleasant to take, easy to prepare, and lasts a family a long time. It wipes out a cough quickly.

Take a pint of Granulated Sugar, add one-half pint of warm water, and stir about two minutes. Put two and one-half ounces Pinex (50 cents worth) in a pint bottle and fill up with the Granulated Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

Cough preparations, as a rule, are mostly syrup. Granulated Sugar Syrup is both cheap and excellent. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway White Pine Extract and is rich in all the leading pine elements.

None of the weaker pine preparations can compare with the real Pinex itself. If your druggist hasn't it, he can easily get it for you.

This recipe is also splendid for chest pains, whooping cough, hoarseness, bronchitis, etc.

Strained honey can be used instead of the syrup, and makes a very fine honey and pine tar cough syrup.

The figures were sworn to by George J. Gould before Special Master Arthur Berry, appointed by Judge Lacombe of the United States circuit court, to examine the accounts of George J. and Helen Gould as receivers for their sister, Anna Gould, formerly the countess de Castellane and now the princess de Sagan, to settle the debts she inherited and incurred with her first husband.

It appears from the statement made to the special master by Coudert Bros., attorneys for the 120 creditors of Anna Gould scattered all over Europe and the United States, that during the first four years of her married life with count de Castellane she became responsible for debts amounting to the enormous total of nearly $6,000,000, or 30,000,000 francs.

This was the sum she appeared to owe when her affairs were taken in hand by her family.

What proportion of it was hanging over the little count de Castellane when she married him is not made plain in the report.

Check on De Sagan.

To guard her against a similar experience with De Sagan, her lawyers drew up a marriage contract distinctly exempting her income from whatever financial obligations may have been hanging over him when she became his wife.

There is also exhibited in the papers filed today the first positive confirmation that the four trustees of the Gould estate—George J., Edwin, Howard and Helen—gave their consent to the marriage.

Without the consent of the majority of the trustees she would have forfeited under the terms of her father's will one half of her share, which is estimated at $20,000,000. In other words, had she not finally prevailed upon her sister and brothers to agree to her nuptials with the Prince De Sagan, Anna Gould would have sacrificed $10,000,000.

Family Secrets Bared.

Coudert Bros., although acting for Anna Gould's host of creditors, legally prepared the way for her second marriage, as thus set forth in their statement to the special master:

"We, therefore, at the request of Anna Gould, undertook to negotiate with the executors and trustees of the estate of Jay Gould, deceased, which resulted in a settlement and compromise of all matters in issue between them, and said Anna Gould and said executors and trustees, and she obtained a formal consent in writing signed and acknowledged by all the executors and trustees of the estate of Jay Gould, consenting with her marriage to the Prince De Sagan.

"We, also, in conjunction with French counsel and notaries prepared a contract of marriage between Anna Gould and the Prince De Sagan, and this required a great deal of work, owing to the large reputed indebtedness of the said Prince De Sagan, and the danger that his creditors might seek to attach the estate of Anna Gould for the satisfaction of his individual debts prior to his marriage."

George Gould's Testimony.

Two hearings were held by Special Master Berry, the first on Dec. 10 last, and the second on Jan. 4. George J. Gould testified unreservedly as to the annual income of the estate, and as to the share that it distributed to each heir.

It is interesting to note in his statement that in 1908, the year of the panic the income droped from $4,500,000 to less than $3,000,000, and that the share of each heir fell from nearly $750,000 to less than $500,000.

The Anna Gould income has been in liquidation since 1901. In that time she has been allowed only $200,000 a year "for support and maintenance," the remainder of it, or approximately $500,000 a year, has been disbursed by the receivers to her creditors. They have paid off $3,885,143.50 of her debts, and there seems still to be standing against her in the form of indebtedness owed by her first husband at the time of their marriage or contracted by him after their marriage, $2,114,856.50. At the present rate of liquidation the receivers will be nearly six years in freeing her from debt.

One of the largest individual item in the schedule of her debts was a mortgage for $400,000 on her splendid mansion in the Avenue Du Bois de Boulogne. The duchess de Noailles also appears to be among her heaviest creditors.

Fat Fee for Lawyers.

It is related by Coudert Brothers, who have been allowed a fee of $125,000 for their services as representatives of the army of creditors, that both her city home in Paris and her suburban palace, the Chateau du Marais, together with all of their furnishings, paintings, tapestries, etc., were about to be levied on under process of the French courts, and that it was they who arranged a basis of settlement.

The count de Castelane was responsible for the construction and luxurious outfitting of both of these establishments. It is further set forth by the lawyers that the creditors whose claims have been approved live in France, Germany, Italy, England, Spain and the United States. The Coudert fee, with the approval of the court, was assessed against the princess de Sagan.

An item of $35,000, which she appears to have paid on account of her first husband's debts, after they had separated, is to be returned to her by the receivers.

Threatened to Sue.

An interesting sidelight is thrown on the difficulties that attend her marriage to the prince de Sagan by asservations made in the special master's report by the Couderts.

It seems that in March, 1908, she threatened to bring suit, through Jones & Mowton, against her brothers and sisters for a complete accounting of the Gould estate, and her share in its income from the time she became of age. She also threatened to test the validity of that clause of her father's will which forbids any heir to marry without first obtaining the consent of the majority of the trustees.

She was dissuaded from this course by the Couderts, who advised her that she could not bring such an action until she should marry, and that then she would run too great a risk, since a decision of the court of appeals of New York directly contravened her purpose. It was after this that the consent in writing of all the trustees was obtained to the marriage.

MAP WORK OF SESSION

Congressional Leaders Have the Program for Legislation All Made Out.

Measures Have White House Approval---The Day's Doings in the Senate.

Washington, Feb. 3.—The administration program, as revised up-to-date by leaders of the senate and house and given the stamp of White House approval, comprises the following legislation:

Statehood for Arizona and New Mexico in the form of the senate bill, which provides for ratification by congress of the Constitutions of the new states after approval by the president.

Postal savings banks, with safeguards against funds being transferred from sections where originally deposited to the money centers.

Giving to the president the authority to withdraw from entry public lands desired for conservation purposes or for classification, the withdrawals to remain in force until revoked by him or by act of congress.

Federal incorporation, open to the voluntary application of concerns engaged in interstate business and willing to subscribe to federal regulation.

Creating a court of commerce and amending the interstate commerce act as provided by the Townsend-Elkins bill.

Creating a legislative council for Alaska, the members to be appointed by the president.

Party Harmony Expected.

All of the measures designated are to be enacted into law if the influence of President Taft and congressional leaders is powerful enough to carry the program through. There is no indication that there will be a division of Republicans along "insurgent" and "regular" lines, although certain individuals of both factions may oppose features of several of the bills.

Later in the session it may be decided to make additions to the administration plan by adding some measures which are now deemed of secondary importance. For instance, Presideent Taft has told his advisers that he is inclined to come out strongly for ship subsidy in some form, and it is possible also he may urge the passage of the bill providing for certificates of indebtedness to the amount of $30,000,000 to provide money to carry on reclamation work.

No formal Republican conference has been held and it has not been decided in just what order the measures are to be put through either the senate or house.

Want to Rush Inquiry.

Frankly admitting fear that a prolonged investigation of the increased cost of living, by the ways and means committee of the house or as provided for by any of the rival resolutions, might drag throughout the summer and work to the disadvantage of the Republicans in the elections next fall, the senate finance committee has formulated a program for a quick, sharp inquiry, and as a result Senator Lodge introduced in the senate a resolution providing for the appointment of a select committee of five senators to do the work.

When the majority members of the committee met several senators declared that the high prices would be attributed directly to the tariff, and that unless something were done to refute this charge the Republican party would be compelled to bear the brunt of the attack. Senator Lodge agreed that he would undertake to conduct a rigid investigation and report to the present session of congress if he were chosen the head of a committee.

Wants Smoot on Committee.

Acting upon that promise, a resolution was drafted and later introduced by Mr. Lodge providing for the committee of five senators. Senator Lodge has requested that Senator Smoot also be assigned to this committee. Both are members of the finance committee and were recognized as hard workers during the preparations of the tariff bill.

The Lodge resolution will include an investigation into the cost of the necessaries of life with an especial view to determining whether there has been an increase during the last two years. It directs that the inquiry shall cover the question of wages, with a view of ascertaining whether they have been increased in proportion to the advanced cost of necessaries. It was referred to the finance committee, which is committed to its approval and to a prompt report.

Guard Committee Jobs.

No chances are being taken by "the old guard" in the senate in the matter of filling committee vacancies. When the committee on committees met to select a Republican for the committee on civil service and retrenchment, of which Senator Cummins is chairman, Senator Borah wanted the assignment and Chairman Cummins had expressed a desire that he be named. Senator La Follette already is on the committee with Mr. Cummins. Fearing the appointment of Mr. Borah would give the insurgents a majority of the Republicans, Senator Borah was put through an examination.

No good excuse for rejecting Mr. Borah was found, and since there was some doubt as to what faction might get his support on important questions, it was decided to increase the Republican membership to seven. The new members will be Senators Borah, Smoot and Dixon. The membership of Senator Perkins and Lodge give the "regulars" unquestioned control of the committee.

Purcell is Assigned.

W. E. Purcell, the new senator from North Dakota, has been given the same committee assignments formerly occupied by his predecessor, Senator Thompson. The list embraces the committees on the conservation of na-vessels of the present day.
tional resources, Indian relations, Industrial expositions, Mississippi river improvements, Pacific islands and Porto Rico, railroads and the transportation and sale of meat products.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the Most Popular Because It Is the Best.

"I have sold Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for the past eight years and find it to be one of the best selling medicines on the market. For babies and young children there is nothing better in the line of cough syrups," says Paul Allen, Plain Dealing, La. This remedy not only cures the coughs, colds and croup so common among young children, but is pleasant and safe for them to take. For sale by all druggists.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY.

— Whately.

A LIVING WAGE.

It's a pretty poor showing when men who wish to coin their willing muscles into bread for themselves and their loved ones are denied the right to do so.

It is a poorer showing still when men can get work, but when that work does not yield enough wages to feed themselves and their families.

There is little lack of employment at present. It is said that there is work for all who are willing to work; though in the large cities where the labor supply is congested that never is true.

But according to reports of the local labor and poor officials, published in The Herald Tuesday evening, there are men in Duluth who are working, but whose earnings cannot be made to supply the needs of their families at the prevailing high prices of the necessaries of life.

This is about the most distressing development that the situation yet has shown. The great majority of the people of this country feel the pressure of high prices keenly. Only those who reap the fruits of other men's toil are exempt from this pressure. Those who toil, the direct producers, feel it most painfully. They have to deny themselves all luxuries, most comforts and, in many cases, real necessaries.

But it had been supposed that they were getting along some way. It would be no news to learn that they could not afford luxuries like butter, eggs or meat except on festal occasions. But it is a surprise to find that there are men who work more or less steadily, as steadily as places can be found, whose wages do not cover the bare necessities of their families.

Yet it is the flat assertion of Miss Jean Poirier, state factory inspector, and James Walsh, head of the local state free employment bureau, that such conditions exist. They state that families of men who are working have applied for aid, and that this is because the wages paid these men do not cover the bare cost of living.

If such conditions exist, it is small wonder that people all over the country are discontented and restless and resentful. They know that it isn't because the country isn't rich enough to feed them, for there is more than enough to feed everybody. They know it is not because they do not work hard enough, because they work just as hard for the present insufficient wage as they did for the wage of ten years ago, which did cover the cost of living. They see others who have more than they need, and it is natural that they should suspect that the unfair distribution is due to favoritism of some kind. They see the favors going to those who have much, and they grow greedy for a share of those favors for themselves.

This condition is not local. If it exists in Duluth it exists elsewhere. If wages in Duluth cannot be stretched to meet the cost of living, wages elsewhere are inadequate, too.

It is an insufferable condition, and it is expecting too much to believe that the American people will suffer it much longer.

BACK TO THE FARM.

James J. Hill and others are quite positive that the only hope of relief from the pressure of high prices is to put more people back on the soil. That would mean lessening the congestion of unemployed labor in the cities and relieving the pressure upon those who remain there. It would take those who were transferred out of the Slough of Despond which the city is to thousands, and make them independent and self-supporting. They would raise from the soil more than they needed to eat, and thus provide additional food supplies for those not living directly from the soil.

It would do all this, and the movement deserves every possible encouragement. We have hopes that presently some of these wise men and great who lay so much stress on the necessity of placing more people on the soil will divulge a means of doing it. It will be agreed generally that it is a good thing to do. It also will be agreed that there are many despondent city residents who would be glad indeed to get back to the soil. It is easy to say that they should be moved there; but the trouble is to do it.

This much conceded, it must be denied that the present trouble is due entirely, or even chiefly, to the lack of people engaged in cultivating the soil. To say that it is the chief cause is equivalent to saying that the soil of this country does not now produce enough to feed the country; and that cannot be said so long as the exports of food products are so great as they are now. If not enough to feed the country were being raised from its soil, certainly none would be exported. The trouble is that prices are controlled largely by powerful interests, and that in order to maintain unduly profitable prices at home they export large quantities, even when they get for them abroad less than they could sell them for in this country.

Yet, that being made clear, still it is true that there are too many people living in the cities and too few living on the farms. Several years ago The Herald, in commenting upon Chicago's action in changing the name of its "Two Million club" to "Three Million club" when the coveted 2,000,000 of population was reached, said that it would be much more to the point, and much more for the good of Chicago and the nation, if the name was changed to "One Million club", and efforts made to put half the people of Chicago upon the soil. This was before Messrs. Hill, Yoakum and others had begun to point out the need of doing this very thing.

It is a vital thing that these men proclaim, and it is going to be more vital every year. This country now is producing enough to feed its people and to help feed the world; but if the city population continues to grow and the farm population to shrink in proportion, presently the soil will cease to produce even enough for home uses, and the United States will be driven to the humiliation of importing food products.

People should be taken out of the cities and placed upon the soil; thousands of them, millions of them. They will lose the hardships and privations of city life as well as its glittering attractions; but they will gain the freedom and comfort and independence of farm life. The cities will lose in population, but those remaining will gain in freedom and comfort, while the resulting addition to the nation's food production will not only provide good living for the producers, but will make living conditions easier in the cities.

But pretty nearly enough has been said about this need. What now needs more to be discussed is how to meet it.

THE VOTE ON THE AMENDMENTS.

On the whole the showing in Tuesday's election is distinctly creditable to the public spirit and intelligent alertness of the voters of Duluth. Only two amendments, those providing for public band concerts and reorganizing the public works department, were defeated by neglect. The bond issue and the first three amendments were adopted because the people approved them, and the last four amendments were defeated because the people did not approve them, there being more votes against them than for them.

The feeling among the friends of the first six amendments was that with so many propositions before the people, the chances were that none would be approved. Yet the campaign for the first six amendments and against the last three made by The Herald and members of the charter commission had the effect of inducing a majority of the voters to vote "yes" on the first five and "no" on the last three. The sixth amendment, that increasing the salary of the city assessor, was logical and should have passed, but it was suspected that the people would not vote to increase salaries, and the result proved that they will not. On the whole, therefore, the outcome is much better than had been hoped for.

It is a pity that the board of public works amendment and the band concert amendment did not pass, but the vote was nearly three to one in favor of both, and they failed only because not enough people got that far down the ballot with their markings.

The result shows that out of a total vote of 8,730, there were 1,408 people who did not mark the lavender ballot at all, and 1,790 who voted on none of the amendments, though 382 of these voted on the bond issue, which was first on the ballot. Eighty-four per cent of those voting at the election voted on the bond issue, 79 per cent on the first amendment, 78 per cent on the second amendment, 75 per cent on the third, 76 per cent on the fourth and 73 per cent on the fifth. The vote on the Chan Smith amendments was about 3 to 2 against them.

The three amendments adopted are a great gain, and it is highly creditable to the public spirit of the voters that from a ballot so long and so complicated they selected for approval three amendments so good as the first three, and for disapproval three amendments so bad as the last three.

AMERICA'S GREATEST PORT.

According to the annual report of Col. Graham D. Fitch, army engineer at Duluth, published in The Herald last night, Duluth-Superior is second in tonnage only to the port of New York. When it is remembered that the port of New York is open the year around, and that it is the chief port of entry for the entire foreign commerce of the United States, while the port of Duluth is open for but eight months of each year and its commerce is largely interstate, it is clear that this is the greatest port in the United States, and that it takes a back seat for few of the world's great shipping centers.

More marvelous even than this showing is the rate of increase. The gain between 1890 and 1909 is 1,040 per cent, or ten times the total for the former year. The increase in tonnage for 1909 over that of 1908 is 36.69 per cent, or more than one-third. During the season 5,209 boats arrived, or one for nearly every hour of each of the 250 days of the season of navigation.

These are tall and gratifying figures. They show Duluth's present supremacy upon the Great Lakes, the greatest inland waterway in all the world.

But there are some facts and figures not shown in this report that should be considered in connection with it.

Much of this rich commerce has been gained by Duluth at the expense of Chicago. Chicago, jealous of every encroachment upon its greatness, is seeking in every possible way to regain its lost supremacy. Duluth, content with its present greatness, sits back in complacent contentment, doing nothing to insure the permanency of this hard won eminence.

Duluth's trade comes through St. Mary's river and the Soo canal, which now accommodate vessels loaded to twenty feet. The government is building a new lock at the Soo which will accommodate vessels loaded to twenty-five feet, but it cannot affect traffic until the channels of St. Mary's river are deepened to correspond. If work began this spring, it scarcely could be completed by the time the lock is done, which will be in three years.

But within two years Chicago will have clear channels to Lake Erie, giving facilities for vessels loaded to a draft of more than twenty-two feet, or more than two feet in excess of the best that can be hoped for Duluth's outlet within three years.

And in the meantime—what is Duluth doing to see that even in three years, or five years, or ten, it will have as good a channel as Chicago will have within two years?

Look to the lakes!

STATEHOOD WITH A STRING.

In the program of legislation agreed upon by President Taft and congressional leaders is this item: "Statehood for Arizona and New Mexico if they will adopt state Constitutions that the president and congress approve." Oklahoma adopted a Constitution containing a greater measure of real democracy than any previous state had undertaken. This greatly disgusted President Taft, Senator Aldrich, Speaker Cannon and the lesser luminaries that revolve about them. Apparently the intent is to see that no more new states dabble in real democracy, and Arizona and New Mexico are warned accordingly. Yet, if their Constitutions harmonize with the Federal Constitution, what business has congress to interfere?

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about live topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

SHOULD BE REPRESENTED ON THE STATE TICKET.

To the Editor of The Herald:

St. Louis county should get together before the state convention and put forward some good Republican to be placed on the state ticket. No county in the state has greater interests than we have. Our legislators and senators should be of the very best, men who can represent us as we should be, and by all means let us put forward some man as railroad commissioner to take the place of Joseph Miller, who held that position when the commission was first elected. No part of the state needs this more than St. Louis county. The coming convention will be of the greatest interest to the Republican party in this state. The workers in general are bitterly opposed to third term officers. Governor Eberhart wil also find hot oposition, Republicans claiming that when the convention opens it will be composed of 1,300 Republicans, and that he will have to get a majority of the delegates of that convention and then a majority of the votes cast.

St. Louis county can, by standing together, go down to St. Paul and get some good man on the ticket. By all means do it. Support men for the different offices who have not held office before. Unless the delegates take a decided stand on this third-term proposition, the coming state election will be very tame and litle interest will be taken in it. New blood creates great interest. No law that has been passed has done more harm than the primary law and until the men we elect listen and advise with the workers what is best for our efforts won't count for much. So I say let us get together and do something. Request the governor, if he wants Republican support, to get busy and put in Republicans before it is too late.
S. S. WALL.

THE WOMEN GET THE BLAME AGAIN.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Did it ever occur to you that the biggest blame for everything in this world is laid on women. From Eve down woman has been to blame. The United States is supposed to be a free country and the people vote for a president who is supposed to rule. But I say it is the trusts who rule and the men vote as the trusts say. Then when they get bit they lay the blame on the women as Mr. Young tried to do in last night's Herald. Talking about voting and such things I know no more about it than I know how to go and do my husbands work for him, but I do know Mr. Young is some mistaken when he says women are to blame for the high cost of living and he is talking about something he knows no more about than I do about voting. Men's business is to earn the money to run his home and keep his family. A woman's is to keep the house and tend the babies and do it as cheaply as she can, and every true woman does so. Speaking of running a house on $100 a month and woman's extravagances I will say my husband earns nearly $100 a month. We pay $16 for rent. I do my own washing and ironing and do not use gas or electric irons. We have fresh meat once a day and have forgotten the taste of porter house and sirloin steak and pay 18 and 20 cents for round steak at our meat market. I buy a pound of beef, mutton or veal stew and that with potatoes and vegetables constitute our dinner. I also use ole margarine and cottolene and we are not able to live and clothe ourselves. Six years ago our meat bill was just one-fourth what it is today and our grocery bill one-half. So here is one proof that women are not as careless and extravagant as Mr. Young tries to make out and he has put the blame in the wrong place this time.

AN UNKIND QUERY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Will you kindly answer the following question: If 3,181 tons of fish were received at the port of Duluth during 1909, at an average valuation of $50 per ton (as stated in United States engineer port statistics for 1909), what per cent of profit would accrue to the local food trust, which sells us the same fish at retail prices varying from 15 to 20 cents per pound?
R. W. H.

Duluth, Minn., Feb. 2, 1910.

BAD MANAGEMENT, NOT HIGH PRICES.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Just a word with the reporter who says men cannot live on the wages they earn and tells how the charitable organizations and private individuals have to go down into their pockets to make up the difference between the income and the living expenses. Don't you believe it. I have lived in Duluth a long time and I have never had the highest wages either. I have raised a family. I did it and saved money. Now the family has grown up and they are helping me, but I venture to say that I could go out at common labor and support a family—a family of good size, at that. Of course, I realize that a man of 50, who feels well, will insist that he is as good a man as he was at 21. Of course, he is off and I may be off when I say that I could support a family on the wages many men are receiving today. You cannot on these wages attend the theater, eat the choicest steaks, entertain company at dinner several times a week and be a sport generally. I know that. The big trouble is that people these days try to imitate the people in beter circumstances and they do almost anything to attain this end. Now, I don't mean that we have to live like our grandfathers did and all that sort of thing, but I do honestly believe that if people would spend the time figuring down the cost and spending money only when it is absolutely necessary that there would be no complaint. When I started housekeeping it was in two rooms over a store. How many young folks would start that way now? My wife mended my clothes, economized on the living expenses as much as possible and we saved money. How many girls would these days be wiling to start that way? That's the trouble, we want to be too big. We want too much and we find later that we must pay for it. Now I don't say that life would be one long sweet song, but it would be more substantial and they would have more respect than after they have applied to the charitable organizations for aid and received it from their neighbors. As an example of the condition of which I speak, I submit the folowing: Last year just a few weeks later than this, I visited at the home of a family which was in hard shape—so hard that they had been helped several times and the mother and father were both very much dissatisfied with their station in life. What do you suppose I found? Strawberries on the table. Berries from the South. Now, that ought to prove what I say. The poor canot have luxuries. They must wait until they are cheaper. It was a case of very bad management and I think that is the case in most all the instances. Poor management and lots of it. That's what causes the suffering, not the high prices.

I have gone through panics and lots of other things. I have come out all right. People could do as much today, but they won't, so what's the use of talking about it.

THE WEATHER.

Nobody with red blood in his veins is longing for California or the South today, for the clear, bracing winter sunshine and light snow underfoot are just what one who enjoys Duluth winter weather wants. Fair weather is promised for tonight and Friday with the temperature about the same.

A year ago today was warm and cloudy.

The sun rose this morning at 7:31 and it will set at 5:14, giving nine hours and forty-three minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The western high pressure remains about stationary, its center being over Wyoming. During the past twenty-four hours it caused somewhat colder weather throughout the Western lake region, the Mississippi and Missouri valleys, the Rocky mountains and Southwestern states. Zero temperatures prevail in the Eastern Dakotas, Wyoming and Nevada. The southwestern low pressure has moved its center to the upper Ohio valley and Eastern lake region, attended by snow or rain in the lake region, Ohio and Mississippi valleys and Southern states. A disturbance developing over Saskatchewan is causing warmer weather in Western Canada.

"Indications favor fair weather at the Head of the Lakes tonight and Friday with rising temperature Friday."

Following are the maximum temperatures for the twenty-four hours and the minimum for twelve, ending at 7 a. m., today:

Sport.

The tinkle of the sleighbells falls upon the frosty air,
The shouts of happy girls and boys blend with the trumpet's blare;
The steel-shod runners whine and wheeze across the crusted snows,
The driver cracks his whip as down the street the junket goes;
I hasten to the doorway, and my heart with pleasure throbs
At sight of an old straw-strewn box that slips along on bobs.

In course of many years I've jogged about the world a deal,
And in my time have tried quite all the things that go by wheel;
I've coasted in a cariole through long Norwegian nights,
And sledged behind fleet reindeer in the land of Northern Lights;
In droshky and kibitka I have speeded Cossak cobs,
But all the time I thought of home and that old box on bobs.

I've jounced about the London streets in springy tilburies;
The shandrydans of Cork have shaken off my head and knees;
I've journeyed in jinrikishas through the kingdom of Japan,
Shot tigers from a howdah in the wilds of Hindustan;
In angareps I've ambled where the Jordan river sobs,
But such delights were nil compared with that old box on bobs.

All through the East I've traveled in a style like Sheba's queen,
Reclining on the cushions of a Chinese palanquin;
In India an arba was considered quite the thing,
Although the vehicle could boast of neither seat nor spring;
But somehow retrospection all a fellow's pleasure robs,
And so I longed for home and that old wagon-box on bobs.

The pale electric light falls on the drifted banks of snow,
Just as the moonlight silvered once the fields of long ago;
The sleighbells jingle, and the young folk make a merry noise,
Just as we did once on a time when we were girls and boys:
That's why I stand and listen while my heart with pleasure throbs
At sight of an old straw-strewn box that glides along on bobs.
—John Northern Hilliard in Puck.

Let It Be Plain "Taft."

Boston Herald: An "Alien" writes to a New York contemporary, expressing his surprise at the frequency with which American editorial writers, as well as men in their clubs and folks on the street, refer to the president as "Taft." There doubtless has been a progressive decline in the deferential language used toward the head of the republic since the days of Washington. But the custom is not wholly bad. We do it oftener, and with less essential disrespect when the executive happens to be a man of some dimensions. Britons said "Gladstone," but they say "Mr. Asquith." Americans said "President Polk" and "President Buchanan," but they have said "Lincoln," "Cleveland," "Roosevelt," and now they say "Taft." They said "Abe Lincoln" as a mark of unusual affection and sense of property in him, just as later they talked about "Teddy."

The Summer-Winter Girl.

"Oh, what a splendid time!" she said,
Shimmering starshine over her head,
Dipping and slipping along the tide,
Then how the world was glorified!
Youth that laughed, and a star that glowed
Down where the dimpling river flowed—
Two in a boat on a summer night—
Ho, for all folly and all delight!

"Oh, what a splendid time!" she wrote.
Smiling and sighing he read her note.
"Splendid, indeed—with a chaperon—
Ah, I have danced, but joy has flown!
Always the opera; after that
Other amusements, stale and flat.
Proper, oh yes, correct;—a crime—
Oh, what a dreary, splendid time!"
—Grace Stone Field in Puck.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

The program has been arranged for an elocutionary and musical entertainment to be given about the middle of February. The principal attraction will be Miss Annetta Sloan Madison, an elocutionist of Cincinnati. She will be supported by Miss Myrtle French, Edgar Eva, Frank Hoare and other well-known local musicians. The entertainment is for the benefit of the Bethel. Miss Madison is a cousin of E. L. Whittington of this city.

Rev. Charles S. H. Dunn of the First Methodist church has returned from the East.

Mrs. and Miss Fitch, mother and sister of Lieut. Fitch of the United States engineer corps, have arrived in Duluth for a short visit.

Next Monday Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Bacon will leave for a trip through the South and Mexico.

A meeting was held last night to take steps toward the erection of a hall on the lower corner of West Fourth street and Second avenue west, in which the Catholic societies may hold meetings, lectures and entertainments. James Farrell, Jacob Laux, C. P. Maginnis, N. J. Miller and J. M. Geist were appointed a committee to confer with architects on the subject.

The funeral of Hon. D. J. Knox at Aitkin, Minn., was largely attended, and was conducted by Rev. J. W. Hargraves of Zumbrota. Aitkin lodge, No. 164, I. O. O. F., attended in a body in full regalia. Mr. Knox died from pneumonia at his farm at Mille Lacs. He was about 39 years of age.

Alfred P. Boller, a leading New York engineering expert, has arrived here, being called by the city to confer with its engineers and Maj. Quinn regarding a bridge over the canal. He says the scheme is perfectly feasible and it will not interfere with navigation in the least.

It is a foregone conclusion that when Mayor-elect Davis assumes office, Chief of Police Doran will go. It is expected the new council will re-elect City Clerk Sudden.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

The People Should Pick.

Brainerd Tribune: Legislative timber is being picked out by the politicians. There is always a bumper crop of Barkises.

Makes a Difference.

Sauk Rapids Sentinel-Free Press: It seems that Secretary Ballinger offended by having a letter read in the senate, same as Forester Pinchot. President Taft, however, didn't get his back up about it. It seems to make a difference whose ox is gored. It is such favoritism as this that has made the Taft administration unpopular.

Then Nobody 'd Care.

Long Prairie Argus: The question of the high cost of living could easily be settled by allowing every man to fix his own wages the same as congressmen and the state fair managers.

Feeling His Way.

Ortonville Herald-Star: In a most cautious and unobjectionable way Frank Kellogg is "feeling" of the people in the matter of the Senator Clapp succession.

Uppermost in November, Perhaps.

Cannon Falls Beacon: For some reason or other the name of John Lind is again uppermost in the minds of the people of Minnesota.—Fairmont Sentinel.

At least it is uppermost in the minds of the Democratic leaders, and of recent years they have been working thought transference pretty successfully on the folks who do the voting.

Bryan Is Too Honest.

Foley Independent: It is reported that William Jennings Bryan is again to become a candidate for president. The main obstacle to his success is that he is too honest and sincere in his advocacy of reform to ever be elected to that great office. The trusts, and they control this country, will not stand for Bryan because he cannot stand for them.

Very Different, Indeed.

Sauk Center Herald: A Washington correspondent is out with an opinion that Pinchot would never have written the Dolliver letter under the Roosevelt administration. Not on your life. Roosevelt would never have put a man like the Ballinger person in his cabinet; hence Pinchot would not have found conditions favorable for such a letter. Things are different now.

Many Question Marks.

Rush City Post: There seems to be a settled opinion among several leading Republican politicians that Governor Eberhart will win in the convention, but it is early yet for a wise and correct forecast. The governor has lots of friends, lots of don't care fellows and lots who will oppose him tooth and nail. The "getting together" effort seems to pull both ways, leaving the situation in a sort of a tangle. John Lind will be the Democratic nominee, and his candidacy will put question marks all over the situation.

They've Been Brewed, All Right.

Biwabik Times: The trouble with Republican politics during the past few years is that they have been entirely brewed in the big cities, where the very air contaminates.

What Every Woman Knows.

Puck: Two people, at least, in every household are directly interested in "the increased cost of living." One is the husband and father; the other is the wife and mother. Father earns the money, gives a set sum of it to mother each week "to run the house on," and mother buys the stuff. The man reads in his paper that meat is higher, that eggs and butter are soaring, that fresh vegetables and milk are reaching new altitudes, and he says, as we have quoted him before: "It's something fierce the way things are going up!" He feels, in a general way, the pressure of high prices, but when he goes home he is surprised and hurt if his wife intimates, ever so gently, that she has a hard time making both ends meet. "Don't I give you the same allowance I've given you for five years?" he asks, with a challenge in his tone. "Yes, but you know things cost more than they used to," she replies. Then the man grumbles something about his not being able to save a cent, and the woman goes on robbing Peter, the butcher, to pay Paul, the grocer, in order that she may "keep within her allowance" and deprive the man of none of the choice cuts and little table luxuries that he must have. All of which is to remark that man talks about the increased cost of living, and suggests theories as to what causes it, and the various remedies for it, while woman, who sees the tradesmen and dickers for supplies, is up against the real thing in its hardest, grimmest form. Also, that she is expected to buy this year's food with last year's allowance. Also—and despite the fact that tariff graft, cold storage speculation, and middleman extortion bear directly up her—that she has no vote.

The Spice of Life.

My sister knows a lot of girls,
And all the grown-ups say
There must be one of them with whom
I'd rather talk or play.
But I like Katie Foley best,
She's different from all the rest.

My sister and the other girls
Are always dressed just so,
In sailor suits of blue or white,
And 'way up top a bow.
But I like Katie's clothes the best,
She wears more colors than the rest.

My sister and the other girls
Speak pretty much alike,
But Katie says, "Aw, cut it out!"
And "Cheese it!" "Sure!" and "Hike."
I like the way she talks the best,
It doesn't sound like all the rest.

My sister's seen her, and she says
That Katie's common! Well,
I'm glad she is—it's pretty dull
When all our friends are swell.
But anyhow, I like her best,
She's different from all the rest.
Eunice Ward in Puck.

Leaves It to Her Judgment.

Life: "Am I the first girl you ever kissed?" asks the fair young thing from the refuge of his shoulder.

"Well," he replies, "after the way my arm just naturally slipped around your waist as you unconsciously leaned toward me, and my fingers tilted your chin as you unconsciously lifted your head, and I beat forward where your lips were waiting and didn't get the kiss either on your nose or your chin, but where it belonged—after all that, and with the knowledge of the subject which you have displayed, I shall say nothing, except that I leave the question to your own judgment."

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Chicago Daily News: "Do you want employment?" asked the sympathetic woman.

"I dunno wot dat is, ma'am," replied the husky hobo, "but ef it's ennything ter eat, youse may gimme a few."

The Sacred Heart Review: Customer—Are you sure this is real Ceylon tea?

Well-Informed Young Assistant—Certainly, sir. Mr. Ceylon's name is on every package.

Manchester Guardian: The class was being questioned on the cardinal points of the compass. "If I turned to the East and look at the rising sun what is behind me?"

Boy—Yer shadder.

Life: Hear about Perkins? Pretty tough."

"No. What?"

"The poor fellow dropped into the vernacular, bumped against a hard word and split his infinitive."

Bon Vivant: "Well, Henry, how do you like your neighbors?"

"Not at all. They're so quiet that I daren't move, or mamma can't hear what they're saying."

London Opinion: Lady (who has been shown over one of the ships, to sailor who has been her guide)—What a pity gratuities are forbidden on your ship!

Sailor—So was apples, mum, in the Garden of Eden.

Pittsburg Observer: She—How far can your ancestry be traced?

He—Well, when my grandfather resigned his position as cashier of a country bank they traced him as far as China; but he got away.

Tit-Bits: Nell—Isn't she a peculiar girl? She wouldn't look at him when he was rich; but now, after he's lost all his money, she accepts him.

Belle—Well, you know how crazy every woman is to get anything that's reduced.

Chicago Record-Herald: A man very much intoxicated was taken to the police station. "Why did you not bail him out?" inquired a bystander of a friend.

"Bail him out!" exclaimed the other. "Why, you couldn't pump him out!"

Washington Star: "Civilization," remarked the cannibal king, "promotes some strange ideas."

"To whom do you specially refer?" inquired the missionary.

"Among you the ultimate consumer is regarded with sympathy. Here he is considered very lucky."

Boston Globe: Physician—Have you any aches or pains this morning?

Patient—Yes, doctor; it hurts me to breathe; in fact, the only trouble now seems to be with my breath.

Physician—All right. I'll give you something that will soon stop that.

A Cynic's Musings.

New York Times: Many a girl's beauty is spoiled by an ugly frame of mind.

Of two evils it isn't always necessary to choose either.

The man with a hot temper doesn't always make a warm friend.

The fellow who is full of hot air doesn't always manage to get up steam.

One good swift kick will often accomplish more than a lot of kindness.

Trouble is the most obliging thing in the world. It will never dodge the people who are looking for it.

Some people can't even do their duty without patting themselves on the back.

Lots of us never put off till tomorrow what we can have done for us today.

It's the things we don't get that we should sometimes be most thankful for.

Circumstances over which we have no control frequently take the form of wives.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: When a man isn't judged by his money it's by his clothes.

It takes so long to save up a little money we try to spend it as quick as we can.

Most men would rather be the chief performer in a freak show than a good example.

Women have such a good influence on a man it is astonishing it doesn't seem to do him any good.

Most everybody knows how to do some one thing if he wasn't so busy trying to do a lot of others he doesn't know how.

American Grand Opera.

New York Times: Last evening Gounod's opera ("Faust") was sung at this theater by a Pole, a Spaniard, an Algerian, a Turk, an American, a Belgian and a Prussian, and conducted by an Italian.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY.

— Whately.

A LIVING WAGE.

It's a pretty poor showing when men who wish to coin their willing muscles into bread for themselves and their loved ones are denied the right to do so.

It is a poorer showing still when men can get work, but when that work does not yield enough wages to feed themselves and their families.

There is little lack of employment at present. It is said that there is work for all who are willing to work, though in the large cities where the labor supply is congested that never is true.

But according to reports of the local labor and poor officials, published in The Herald Tuesday evening, there are men in Duluth who are working, but whose earnings cannot be made to supply the needs of their families at the prevailing high prices of the necessaries of life.

This is about the most distressing development that the situation yet has shown. The great majority of the people of this country feel the pressure of high prices keenly. Only those who reap the fruits of other men's toil are exempt from this pressure. Those who toil, the direct producers, feel it most painfully. They have to deny themselves all luxuries, most comforts and, in many cases, real necessaries.

But it had been supposed that they were getting along some way. It would be no news to learn that they could not afford luxuries like butter, eggs or meat except on festal occasions. But it is a surprise to find that there are men who work more or less steadily, as steadily as places can be found, whose wages do not cover the bare necessities of their families.

Yet it is the flat assertion of Miss Jean Poirier state factory inspector, and James Walsh, head of the local state free employment bureau, that such conditions exist. They state that families of men who are working have applied for aid, and that this is because the wages paid these men do not cover the bare cost of living.

If such conditions exist, it is small wonder that people all over the country are discontented and restless and resentful. They know that it isn't because the country isn't rich enough to feed them, for there is more than enough to feed everybody. They know it is not because they do not work hard enough, because they work just as hard for the present insufficient wage as they did for the wage of ten years ago, which did cover the cost of living. They see others who have more than they need, and it is natural that they should suspect that the unfair distribution is due to favoritism of some kind. They see the favors going to those who have much, and they grow greedy for a share of those favors for themselves.

This condition is not local. If it exists in Duluth it exists elsewhere. If wages in Duluth cannot be stretched to meet the cost of living, wages elsewhere are inadequate, too.

It is an insufferable condition, and it is expecting too much to believe that the American people will suffer it much longer.

BACK TO THE FARM.

James J. Hill and others are quite positive that the only hope of relief from the pressure of high prices is to put more people back on the soil. That would mean lessening the congestion of unemployed labor in the cities and relieving the pressure upon those who remain there. It would take those who were transferred out of the Slough of Despond which the city is to thousands, and make them independent and self-supporting. They would raise from the soil more than they needed to eat, and thus provide additional food supplies for those not living directly from the soil.

It would do all this, and the movement deserves every possible encouragement. We have hopes that presently some of these wise men and great who lay so much stress on the necessity of placing more people on the soil will divulge a means of doing it. It will be agreed generally that it is a good thing to do. It also will be agreed that there are many despondent city residents who would be glad indeed to get back to the soil. It is easy to say that they should be moved there; but the trouble is to do it.

This much conceded, it must be denied that the present trouble is due entirely, or even chiefly, to the lack of people engaged in cultivating the soil. To say that it is the chief cause is equivalent to saying that the soil of this country does not now produce enough to feed the country; and that cannot be said so long as the exports of food products are so great as they are now. If not enough to feed the country were being raised from its soil, certainly none would be exported. The trouble is that prices are controlled largely by powerful interests, and that in order to maintain unduly profitable prices at home they export large quantities, even when they get for them abroad less than they could sell them for in this country.

Yet, that being made clear, still it is true that there are too many people living in the cities and too few living on the farms. Several years ago The Herald, in commenting upon Chicago's action in changing the name of its "Two Million club" to "Three Million club" when the coveted 2,000,000 of population was reached, said that it would be much more to the point, and much more for the good of Chicago and the nation, if the name was changed to "One Million club", and efforts made to put half the people of Chicago upon the soil. This was before Messrs. Hill, Yoakum and others had begun to point out the need of doing this very thing.

It is a vital thing that these men proclaim, and it is going to be more vital every year. This country now is producing enough to feed its people and to help feed the world; but if the city population continues to grow and the farm population to shrink in proportion, presently the soil will cease to produce even enough for home uses, and the United States will be driven to the humiliation of importing food products.

People should be taken out of the cities and placed upon the soil; thousands of them, millions of them. They will lose the hardships and privations of city life as well as its glittering attractions; but they will gain the freedom and comfort and independence of farm life. The cities will lose in population, but those remaining will gain in freedom and comfort, while the resulting addition to the nation's food production will not only provide good living for the producers, but will make living conditions easier in the cities.

But pretty nearly enough has been said about this need. What now needs more to be discussed is how to meet it.

THE VOTE ON THE AMENDMENTS.

On the whole the showing in Tuesday's election is distinctly creditable to the public spirit and intelligent alertness of the voters of Duluth. Only two amendments, those providing for public band concerts and reorganizing the public works department, were defeated by neglect. The bond issue and the first three amendments were adopted because the people approved them, and the last four amendments were defeated because the people did not approve them, there being more votes against them than for them.

The feeling among the friends of the first six amendments was that with so many propositions before the people, the chances were that none would be approved. Yet the campaign for the first six amendments and against the last three made by The Herald and members of the charter commission had the effect of inducing a majority of the voters to vote "yes" on the first five and "no" on the last three. The sixth amendment, that increasing the salary of the city assessor, was logical and should have passed, but it was suspected that the people would not vote to increase salaries, and the result proved that they will not. On the whole, therefore, the outcome is much better than had been hoped for.

It is a pity that the board of public works amendment and the band concert amendment did not pass, but the vote was nearly three to one in favor of both, and they failed only because not enough people got that far down the ballot with their markings.

The result shows that out of a total vote of 8,730, there were 1,408 people who did not mark the lavender ballot at all, and 1,790 who voted on none of the amendments, though 382 of these voted on the bond issue, which was first on the ballot. Eighty-four per cent of those voting at the election voted on the bond issue, 79 per cent on the first amendment, 78 per cent on the second amendment, 75 per cent on the third, 76 per cent on the fourth and 73 per cent on the fifth. The vote on the Chan Smith amendments was about 3 to 2 against them.

The three amendments adopted are a great gain, and it is highly creditable to the public spirit of the voters that from a ballot so long and so complicated they selected for approval three amendments so good as the first three, and for disapproval three amendments so bad as the last three.

AMERICA'S GREATEST PORT.

According to the annual report of Col. Graham D. Fitch, army engineer at Duluth, published in The Herald last night, Duluth-Superior is second in tonnage only to the port of New York. When it is remembered that the port of New York is open the year around, and that it is the chief port of entry for the entire foreign commerce of the United States, while the port of Duluth is open for but eight months of each year and its commerce is largely interstate, it is clear that this is the greatest port in the United States, and that it takes a back seat for few of the world's great shipping centers.

More marvelous even than this showing is the rate of increase. The gain between 1890 and 1909 is 1,040 per cent, or ten times the total for the former year. The increase in tonnage for 1909 over that of 1908 is 36.69 per cent, or more than one-third. During the season 5,209 boats arrived, or one for nearly every hour of each of the 250 days of the season of navigation.

These are tall and gratifying figures. They show Duluth's present supremacy upon the Great Lakes, the greatest inland waterway in all the world.

But there are some facts and figures not shown in this report that should be considered in connection with it.

Much of this rich commerce has been gained by Duluth at the expense of Chicago. Chicago, jealous of every encroachment upon its greatness, is seeking in every possible way to regain its lost supremacy. Duluth, content with its present greatness, sits back in complacent contentment, doing nothing to insure the permanency of this hard won eminence.

Duluth's trade comes through St. Mary's river and the Soo canal, which now accommodate vessels loaded to twenty feet. The government is building a new lock at the Soo which will accommodate vessels loaded to twenty-five feet, but it cannot affect traffic until the channels of St. Mary's river are deepened to correspond. If work began this spring, it scarcely could be completed by the time the lock is done, which will be in three years.

But within two years Chicago will have clear channels to Lake Erie, giving facilities for vessels loaded to a draft of more than twenty-two feet, or more than two feet in excess of the best that can be hoped for Duluth's outlet within three years.

And in the meantime—what is Duluth doing to see that even in three years, or five years, or ten, it will have as good a channel as Chicago will have within two years?

Look to the lakes!

STATEHOOD WITH A STRING.

In the program of legislation agreed upon by President Taft and congressional leaders is this item: "Statehood for Arizona and New Mexico if they will adopt state Constitutions that the president and congress approve." Oklahoma adopted a Constitution containing a greater measure of real democracy than any previous state had undertaken. This greatly disgusted President Taft, Senator Aldrich, Speaker Cannon and the lesser luminaries that revolve about them. Apparently the intent is to see that no more new states dabble in real democracy, and Arizona and New Mexico are warned accordingly. Yet, if their Constitutions harmonize with the Federal Constitution, what business has congress to interfere?

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about live topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the letter. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

SHOULD BE REPRESENTED ON THE STATE TICKET.

To the Editor of The Herald:

St. Louis county should get together before the state convention and put forward some good Republican to be placed on the state ticket. No county in the state has greater interests than we have. Our legislators and senators should be of the very best, men who can represent us as we should be, and by all means let us put forward some man as railroad commissioner to take the place of Joseph Miller, who held that position when the commission was first elected. No part of the state needs this more than St. Louis county. The coming convention will be of the greatest interest to the Republican party in this state. The workers in general are bitterly opposed to third term officers. Governor Eberhart wil also find hot oposition, Republicans claiming that when the convention opens it will be composed of 1,300 Republicans, and that he will have to get a majority of the delegates of that convention and then a majority of the votes cast.

St. Louis county can, by standing together, go down to St. Paul and get some good man on the ticket. By all means do it. Support men for the different offices who have not held office before. Unless the delegates take a decided stand on this third-term proposition, the coming state election will be very lame and litle interest will be taken in it. New blood creates great interest. No law that has been passed has done more harm than the primary law and until the men we elect listen and advise with the workers what is best for our efforts won't count for much. So I say let us get together and do something. Request the governor, if he wants Republican support, to get busy and put in Republicans before it is too late.

S. S. WALL.

THE WOMEN GET THE BLAME AGAIN.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Did it ever occur to you that the biggest blame for everything in this world is laid on women. From Eve down woman has been to blame. The United States is supposed to be a free country and the people vote for a president who is supposed to rule. But I say it is the trusts who rule and the men vote as the trusts say. Then when they get bit they lay the blame on the women as Mr. Young tried to do in last night's Herald. Talking about voting and such things I know no more about it than I know how to go and do my husbands work for him, but I do know Mr. Young is some mistaken when he says women are to blame for the high cost of living and he is talking about something he knows no more about than I do about voting. Men's business is to earn the money to run his home and keep his family. A woman's is to keep the house and tend the babies and do it as cheaply as she can, and every true woman does so. Speaking of running a house on $100 a month and woman's extravagances I will say my husband earns nearly $100 a month. We pay $16 for rent. I do my own washing and ironing and do not use gas or electric irons. We have fresh meat once a day and have forgotten the taste of porter house and sirloin steak and pay 18 and 20 cents for round steak at our meat market. I buy a pound of beef, mutton or veal stew and that with potatoes and vegetables constitute our dinner. I also use oleomargarine and cottolene and we are not able to live and clothe ourselves. Six years ago our meat bill was just one-fourth what it is today and our grocery bill one-half. So here is one proof that women are not as careless and extravagant as Mr. Young tries to make out and he has put the blame in the wrong place this time.

AN UNKIND QUERY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Will you kindly answer the following question: If 3,181 tons of fish were received at the port of Duluth during 1909, at an average valuation of $50 per ton (as stated in United States engineer port statistics for 1909), what per cent of profit would accrue to the local food trust, which sells us the same fish at retail prices varying from 15 to 20 cents per pound?

BAD MANAGEMENT, NOT HIGH PRICES.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Just a word with the reporter who says men cannot live on the wages they earn and tells how the charitable organizations and private individuals have to go down into their pockets to make up the difference between the income and the living expenses. Don't you believe it. I have lived in Duluth a long time and I have never had the highest wages either. I have raised a family. I did it and saved money. Now the family has grown up and they are helping me, but I venture to say that I could go out at common labor and support a family—a family of good size, at that. Of course, I realize that a man of 50, who feels well, will insist that he is as good a man as he was at 21. Of course, he is off and I may be off when I say that I could support a family on the wages many men are receiving today. You cannot on these wages attend the theater, eat the choicest steaks, entertain company at dinner several times a week and be a sport generally, I know that. The big trouble is that people these days try to imitate the people in beter circumstances and they do almost anything to attain this end. Now, I don't mean that we have to live like our grandfathers did and all that sort of thing, but I do honestly believe that if people would spend the time figuring down the cost and spending money only when it is absolutely necessary that there would be no complaint. When I started housekeeping it was in two rooms over a store. How many young folks would start that way now? My wife mended my clothes, economized on the living expenses as much as possible and we saved money. How many girls would these days be wiling to start that way? That's the trouble, we want to be too big. We want too much and we find later that we must pay for it. Now I don't say that life would be one long sweet song, but it would be more substantial and they would have more respect than after they have applied to the charitable organizations for aid and received it from their neighbors. As an example of the condition of which I speak, I submit the folowing: Last year just a few weeks later than this, I visited at the home of a family which was in hard shape—so hard that they had been helped several times and the mother and father were both very much dissatisfied with their station in life. What do you suppose I found? Strawberries on the table. Berries from the South. Now, that ought to prove what I say. The poor canot have luxuries. They must wait until they are cheaper. It was a case of very bad management and I think that is the case in most all the instances. Poor management and lots of it. That's what causes the suffering, not the high prices.

I have gone through panics and lots of other things. I have come out all right. People could do as much today, but they won't, so what's the use of talking about it.

The Victims.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch: Paradoxical as it may seem, the world's surplusage of gold seems to be causing trouble only for those who haven't got any of it.

THE WEATHER.

Nobody with red blood in his veins is longing for California or the South today, for the clear, bracing winter sunshine and light snow underfoot are just what one who enjoys Duluth winter weather wants. Fair weather is promised for tonight and Friday with the temperature about the same.

A year ago today was warm and cloudy.

The sun rose this morning at 7:31 and it will set at 5:14, giving nine hours and forty-three minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The western high pressure remains about stationary, its center being over Wyoming. During the past twenty-four hours it caused somewhat colder weather throughout the Western lake region, the Mississippi and Missouri valleys, the Rocky mountains and Southwestern states. Zero temperatures prevail in the Eastern Dakotas, Wyoming and Nevada. The southwestern low pressure has moved its center to the upper Ohio valley and Eastern lake region, attended by snow or rain in the lake region, Ohio and Mississippi valleys and Southern states. A disturbance developing over Saskatchewan is causing warmer weather in Western Canada.

"Indications favor fair weather at the Head of the Lakes tonight and Friday with rising temperature Friday."

Following are the maximum temperatures for the twenty-four hours and the minimum for twelve, ending at 7 a. m., today:

Sport.

The tinkle of the sleighbells falls upon the frosty air,
The shouts of happy girls and boys blend with the trumpet's blare;
The steel-shod runners whine and wheeze across the crusted snows,
The driver cracks his whip as down the street the junket goes;
I hasten to the doorway, and my heart with pleasure throbs
At sight of an old straw-strewn box that slips along on bobs.

In course of many years I've jogged about the world a deal,
And in my time have tried quite all the things that go by wheel;
I've coasted in a cariole through long Norwegian nights,
And sledged behind fleet reindeer in the land of Northern Lights;
In droshky and kibitka I have speeded Cossak cobs,
But all the time I thought of home and that old box on bobs.

I've jounced about the London streets in springy tilburies;
The shandrydans of Cork have shaken off my head and knees;
I've journeyed in jinrikishas through the kingdom of Japan,
Shot tigers from a howdah in the wilds of Hindustan;
In angareps I've ambled where the Jordan river sobs,
But such delights were nil compared with that old box on bobs.

All through the East I've traveled in a style like Sheba's queen,
Reclining on the cushions of a Chinese palanquin;
In India an arba was considered quite the thing,
Although the vehicle could boast of neither seat nor spring;
But somehow retrospection all a fellow's pleasure robs,
And so I longed for home and that old wagon-box on bobs.

The pale electric light falls on the drifted banks of snow,
Just as the moonlight silvered once the fields of long ago;
The sleighbells jingle, and the young folk make a merry noise,
Just as we did once on a time when we were girls and boys;
That's why I stand and listen while my heart with pleasure throbs
At sight of an old straw-strewn box that glides along on bobs.

—John Northern Hilliard in Puck.

Let It Be Plain "Taft."

Boston Herald: An "Alien" writes to a New York contemporary, expressing his surprise at the frequency with which American editorial writers, as well as men in their clubs and folks on the street, refer to the president as "Taft." There doubtless has been a progressive decline in the deferential language used toward the head of the republic since the days of Washington. But the custom is not wholly bad. We do it oftener, and with less essential disrespect when the executive happens to be a man of some dimensions. Britons said "Gladstone," but they say "Mr. Asquith." Americans said "President Polk" and "President Buchanan," but they have said "Lincoln," "Cleveland," "Roosevelt," and now they say "Taft." They said "Abe Lincoln" as a mark of unusual affection and sense of property in him, just as later they talked about "Teddy."

The Summer-Winter Girl.

"Oh, what a splendid time!" she said.
Shimmering starshine over her head.
Dipping and slipping along the tide.
Then how the world was glorified!
Youth that laughed, and a star that glowed
Down where the dimpling river flowed—
Two in a boat on a summer night—
Ho, for all folly and all delight!

"Oh, what a splendid time!" she wrote.
Smiling and sighing he read her note.
"Splendid, indeed—with a chaperon—
Ah, I have danced, but joy has flown!
Always the opera; after that
Other amusements, stale and flat.
Proper, oh yes, correct;—a crime—
Oh, what a dreary, splendid time!"

—Grace Stone Field in Puck.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

The program has been arranged for an elocutionary and musical entertainment to be given about the middle of February. The principal attraction will be Miss Annetta Sloan Madison, an elocutionist of Cincinnati. She will be supported by Miss Myrtle French, Edgar Eva, Frank Hoare and other well-known local musicians. The entertainment is for the benefit of the Bethel. Miss Madison is a cousin of E. L. Whittington of this city.

Rev. Charles S. H. Dunn of the First Methodist church has returned from the East.

Mrs. and Miss Fitch, mother and sister of Lieut. Fitch of the United States engineer corps, have arrived in Duluth for a short visit.

Next Monday Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Bacon will leave for a trip through the South and Mexico.

A meeting was held last night to take steps toward the erection of a hall on the lower corner of West Fourth street and Second avenue west, in which the Catholic societies may hold meetings. Lectures and entertainments. James Farrell, Jacob Laux, C. P. Maginnis, N. J. Miller and J. M. Geist were appointed a committee to confer with architects on the subject.

The funeral of Hon. D. J. Knox at Aitkin, Minn., was largely attended, and was conducted by Rev. J. W. Hargraves of Zumbrota. Aitkin lodge, No. 164, I. O. O. F., attended in a body in full regalia. Mr. Knox died from pneumonia at his farm at Mille Lacs. He was about 39 years of age.

Alfred P. Boller, a leading New York engineering expert, has arrived here, being called by the city to confer with its engineers and Maj. Quinn regarding a bridge over the canal. He says the scheme is perfectly feasible and it will not interfere with navigation in the least.

It is a foregone conclusion that when Mayor-elect Davis assumes office, Chief of Police Doran will go. It is expected the new council will re-elect City Clerk Sudden.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

The People Should Pick.

Brainerd Tribune: Legislative timber is being picked out by the politicians. There is always a bumper crop of Barkises.

Makes a Difference.

Sauk Rapids Sentinel-Free Press: It seems that Secretary Ballinger offended by having a letter read in the senate, same as Forester Pinchot. President Taft, however, didn't get his back up about it. It seems to make a difference whose ox is gored. It is such favoritism as this that has made the Taft administration unpopular.

Then Nobody 'd Care.

Long Prairie Argus: The question of the high cost of living could easily be settled by allowing every man to fix his own wages the same as congressmen and the state fair managers.

Feeling His Way.

Ortonville Herald-Star: In a most cautious and unobjectionable way Frank Kellogg is "feeling" of the people in the matter of the Senator Clapp succession.

Uppermost in November, Perhaps.

Cannon Falls Beacon: For some reason or other the name of John Lind is again uppermost in the minds of the people of Minnesota.—Fairmont Sentinel.

At least it is uppermost in the minds of the Democratic leaders, and of recent years they have been working thought transference pretty successfully on the folks who do the voting.

Bryan Is Too Honest.

Foley Independent: It is reported that William Jennings Bryan is again to become a candidate for president. The main obstacle to his success is that he is too honest and sincere in his advocacy of reform to ever be elected to that great office. The trusts, and they control this country, will not stand for Bryan because he cannot stand for them.

Very Different, Indeed.

Sauk Center Herald: A Washington correspondent is out with an opinion that Pinchot would never have written the Dolliver letter under the Roosevelt administration. Not on your life. Roosevelt would never have put a man like the Ballinger person in his cabinet; hence Pinchot would not have found conditions favorable for such a letter. Things are different now.

Many Question Marks.

Rush City Post: There seems to be a settled opinion among several leading Republican politicians that Governor Eberhart will win in the convention, but it is early yet for a wise and correct forecast. The governor has lots of friends, lots of don't care fellows and lots who will oppose him tooth and nail. The "getting together" effort seems to pull both ways, leaving the situation in a sort of a tangle. John Lind will be the Democratic nominee, and his candidacy will put question marks all over the situation.

They've Been Brewed, All Right.

Biwabik Times: The trouble with Republican politics during the past few years is that they have been entirely brewed in the big cities, where the very air contaminates.

What Every Woman Knows.

Puck: Two people, at least, in every household are directly interested in "the increased cost of living." One is the husband and father; the other is the wife and mother. Father earns the money, gives a set sum of it to mother each week "to run the house on," and mother buys the stuff. The man reads in his paper that meat is higher, that eggs and butter are soaring, that fresh vegetables and milk are reaching new altitudes, and he says, as we have quoted him before: "It's something fierce the way things are going up!" He feels, in a general way, the pressure of high prices, but when he goes home he is surprised and hurt if his wife intimates, ever so gently, that she has a hard time making both ends meet. "Don't I give you the same allowance I've given you for five years?" he asks, with a challenge in his tone. "Yes, but you know things cost more than they used to," she replies. Then the man grumbles something about his not being able to save a cent, and the woman goes on robbing Peter, the butcher, to pay Paul, the grocer, in order that she may "keep within her allowance" and deprive the man of none of the choice cuts and little table luxuries that he must have. All of which is to remark that man talks about the increased cost of living, and suggests theories as to what causes it, and the various remedies for it, while woman, who sees the tradesmen and dickers for supplies, is up against the real thing in its hardest, grimmest form. Also, that she is expected to buy this year's food with last year's allowance. Also—and despite the fact that tariff graft, cold storage speculation, and middleman extortion bear directly up her—that she has no vote.

The Spice of Life.

My sister knows a lot of girls,
And all the grown-ups say
There must be one of them with whom
I'd rather talk or play.
But I like Katie Foley best.
She's different from all the rest.

My sister and the other girls
Are always dressed just so,
In sailor suits of blue or white,
And 'way up top a bow.
But I like Katie's clothes the best,
She wears more colors than the rest.

My sister and the other girls
Speak pretty much alike.
But Katie says, "Aw, cut it out!"
And "Cheese it!" "Sure!" and "Hike."
I like the way she talks the best,
It doesn't sound like all the rest.

My sister's seen her, and she says
That Katie's common! Well,
I'm glad she is—it's pretty dull
When all our friends are swell.
But anyhow, I like her best,
She's different from all the rest.

Eunice Ward in Puck.

Leaves It to Her Judgment.

Life: "Am I the first girl you ever kissed?" asks the fair young thing from the refuge of his shoulder.

"Well," he replies, "after the way my arm just naturally slipped around your waist as you unconsciously leaned toward me, and my fingers tilted your chin as you unconsciously lifted your head, and I beat forward where your lips were waiting and didn't get the kiss either on your nose or your chin, but where it belonged—after all that, and with the knowledge of the subject which you have displayed, I shall say nothing, except that I leave the question to your own judgment."

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Chicago Daily News: "Do you want employment?" asked the sympathetic woman.

"I dunno wot dat is, ma'am," replied the husky hobo, "but ef it's ennything ter eat, youse may gimme a few."

The Sacred Heart Review: Customer—Are you sure this is real Ceylon tea?

Well-Informed Young Assistant—Certainly, sir. Mr. Ceylon's name is on every package.

Manchester Guardian: The class was being questioned on the cardinal points of the compass. "If I turned to the East and look at the rising sun what is behind me?"

Boy—Yer shadder.

Life: Hear about Perkins? Pretty tough."

"No. What?"

"The poor fellow dropped into the vernacular, bumped against a hard word and split his infinitive."

Bon Vivant: "Well, Henry, how do you like your neighbors?"

"Not at all. They're so quiet that I daren't move, or mamma can't hear what they're saying."

London Opinion: Lady (who has been shown over one of the ships, to sailor who has been her guide)—What a pity gratuities are forbidden on your ship!

Sailor—So was apples, mum, in the Garden of Eden.

Pittsburg Observer: She—How far can your ancestry be traced?

He—Well, when my grandfather resigned his position as cashier of a country bank they traced him as far as China; but he got away.

Tit-Bits: Nell—Isn't she a peculiar girl? She wouldn't look at him when he was rich; but now, after he's lost all his money, she accepts him.

Belle—Well, you know how crazy every woman is to get anything that's reduced.

Chicago Record-Herald: A man very much intoxicated was taken to the police station. "Why did you not bail him out?" inquired a bystander of a friend.

"Bail him out!" exclaimed the other. "Why, you couldn't pump him out!"

Washington Star: "Civilization," remarked the cannibal king, "promotes some strange ideas."

"To whom do you specially refer?" inquired the missionary.

"Among you the ultimate consumer is regarded with sympathy. Here he is considered very lucky."

Boston Globe: Physician—Have you any aches or pains this morning?

Patient—Yes, doctor; it hurts me to breathe; in fact, the only trouble now seems to be with my breath.

Physician—All right. I'll give you something that will soon stop that.

A Cynic's Musings.

New York Times: Many a girl's beauty is spoiled by an ugly frame of mind.

Of two evils it isn't always necessary to choose either.

The man with a hot temper doesn't always make a warm friend.

The fellow who is full of hot air doesn't always manage to get up steam.

One good swift kick will often accomplish more than a lot of kindness.

Trouble is the most obliging thing in the world. It will never dodge the people who are looking for it.

Some people can't even do their duty without patting themselves on the back.

Lots of us never put off till tomorrow what we can have done for us today.

It's the things we don't get that we should sometimes be most thankful for.

Circumstances over which we have no control frequently take the form of wives.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: When a man isn't judged by his money it's by his clothes.

It takes so long to save up a little money we try to spend it as quick as we can.

Most men would rather be the chief performer in a freak show than a good example.

Women have such a good influence on a man it is astonishing it doesn't seem to do him any good.

Most everybody knows how to do some one thing if he wasn't so busy trying to do a lot of others he doesn't know how.

American Grand Opera.

New York Times: Last evening Gounod's opera ("Faust") was sung at this theater by a Pole, a Spaniard, an Algerian, a Turk, an American, a Belgian and a Prussian, and conducted by an Italian.

BIDS ARE TO BE OPENED

Contracts for Bridges Will Be Let By County Commissioners.

Other Routine Business to Be Transacted at the Next Meeting.

At the meeting of the county commissioners to be held in the courthouse building, Feb. 8, only routine business will be transacted. There are petitions for county roads, petitions for liquor licenses and bids will be opened for the letting of the contracts for several bridges. Outside of these general items there will be but little else for discussion, according to one member of the board.

Several bids are in for the building of four bridges. Two of them are to be of steel and will be of the 128-foot span variety. One will be erected over the St. Louis river on the Whiteface road in township 52-19. The other will be of the same length and will be built over the Cloquet river on the Culver road. The latter will be in 51-17. Another bridge to be constructed of wood, will be sixty-four feet long, and erected over the Whiteface river on the Vermilion road.

Although the meeting will be held Feb. 8, the bids will be opened by J. O. Walker, clerk of the board, Feb. 7. They will be discussed by the members of the board at the meeting on the next day, and if sufficiently low, the contracts will be let.

A small wooden bridge will soon be erected over the Embarass river in 60-14. The contract will probably be let at the coming meeting of the commissioners.

There is a petition from 53-21 asking permission to organize a township, and this matter will come up for discussion. The township lays just west of Meadowlands.

Besides a petition for the construction of a county road in 61-19, there is also a petition to organize a town.

The people of Prairie Lake want their township cut in half. The petition is signed by the residents of 50-20. Both 50-20 and 50-21 are now in the township.

There are several applications for liquor licenses and also for renewals.

The bids for printing books and blanks for the coming year will be opened.

A VERDICT FOR THE PLAINTIFF

Paul Golick Recovers $1,100 From Erickson & Long, Contractors.

Paul Golick will recover $1,100 from Erickson & Long, range contractors, for injuries received while in the employ of the concern last fall. A jury in the district court brought in a verdict for this amount last night.

The accident, as the result of which Golick sustained a broken leg, happened near Sparta. In attempting to brake a car down a grade, it got away, overturned and caused the accident.

Golick sued for $25,000 and the case has been on trial for some days before Judge Ensign of the district court.

BENEFACTOR WAS STUNG

Man Whom He Befriended Too Free With Check Book.

Gratitude was not the predominant element of Fritz Courie's character. He reached Duluth several weeks ago broke and without a roof to shelter him.

He applied to the employment office of Peter Maher for work. Maher didn't need a man, but Courie appeared to be unusually intelligent, and Maher decided to keep him until the spring rush started. He spoke several languages and would have been valuable.

Several days ago Courie evidently decided to shake the dust of Duluth from his feet. But before going he wanted a "stake." He got it, and the police are now looking for him. He tore six blanks from Maher's check book and filled them out for substantial amounts, averaging from $30 to $35, it is claimed. He had no trouble in passing them, as he had scrapped up a fair acquaintance during his stay in the city. Most of his victims were saloon keepers in the Bowery district. His present whereabouts are unknown.

Good Season for Deer.

Washburn—On account of the light fall of snow in the woods, the deer will be plentiful next season. The deer generally have a pretty hard time keeping away from the wolves in the winter months after the snow becomes so deep that travel is difficult, but this year they have not met with this trouble.

Cohen Still in Trouble.

Philadelphia, Feb. 3.—Another attempt to secure the release from prison of Ferdinand Cohen, the waiter who is accused of kidnaping Roberta De Janon, the 16-year-old heiress of this city, failed yesterday, and as a result of the hearing Cohen faces additional serious charges.

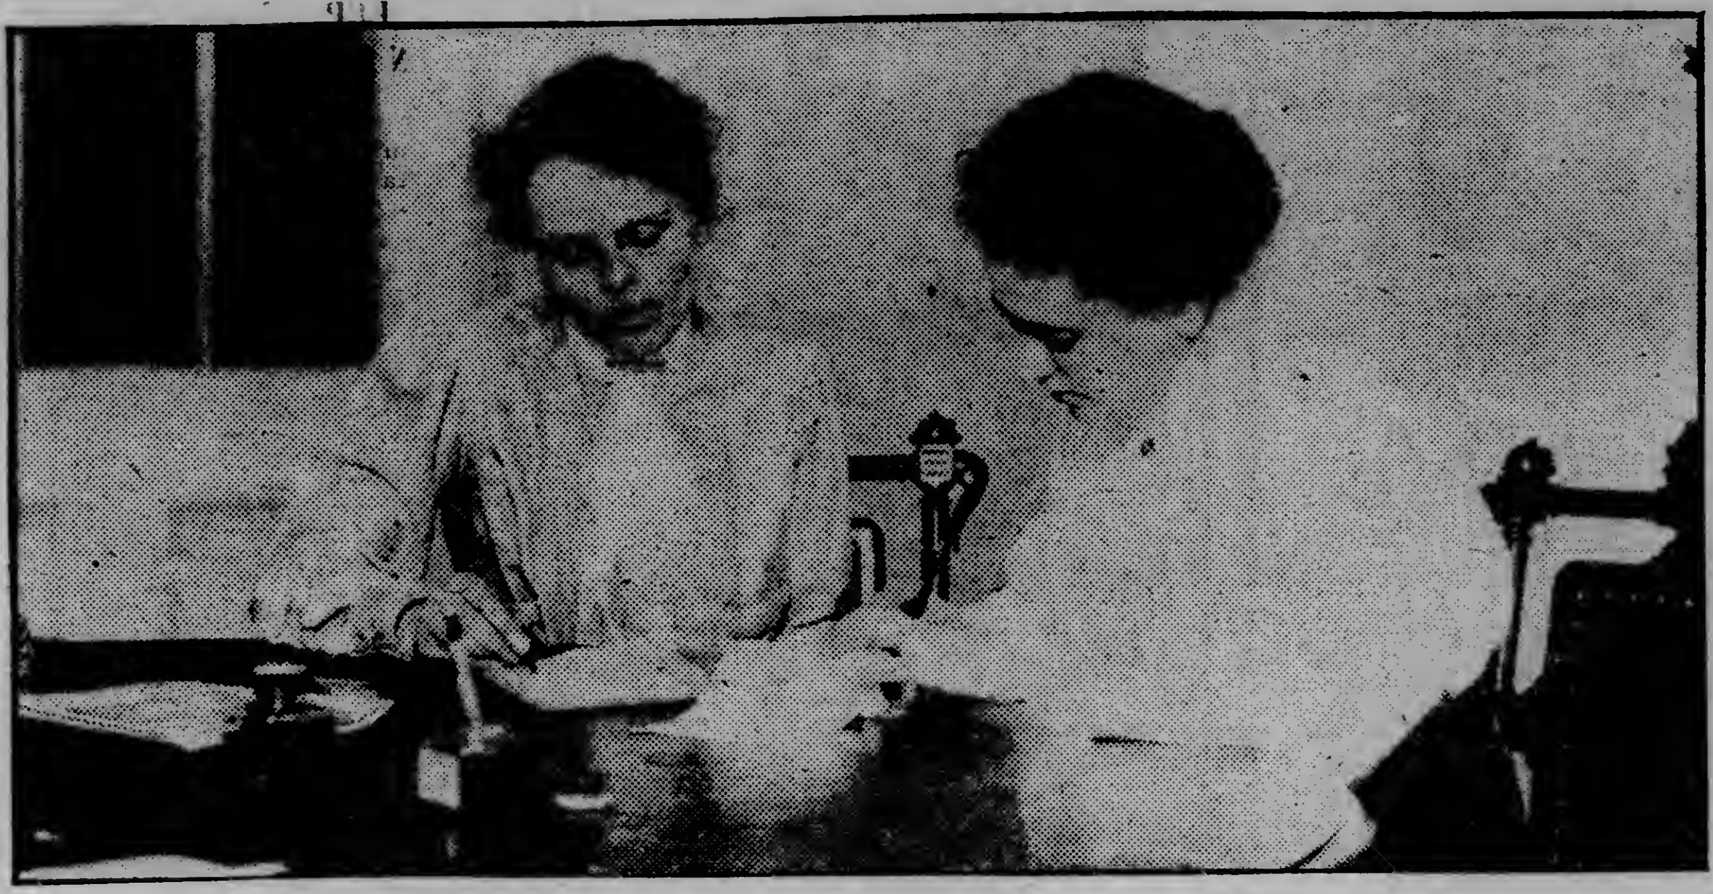
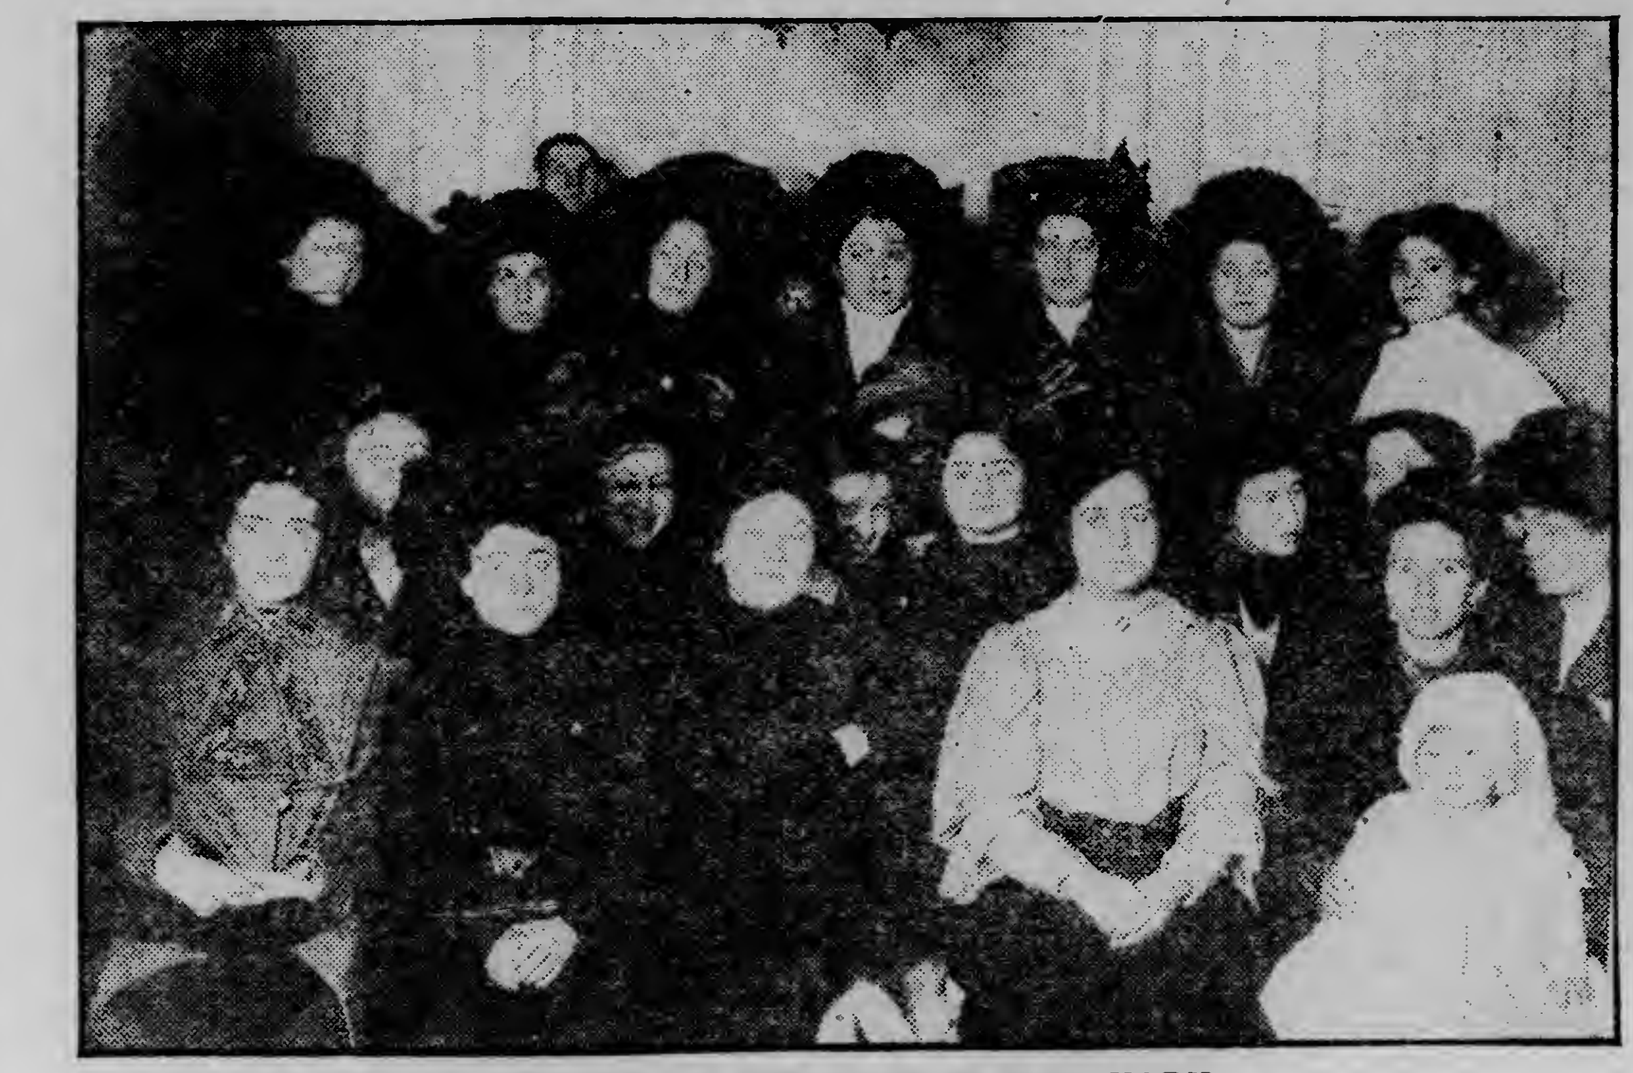
THE SHIRTWAIST GIRLS OF NEW YORK AND THEIR STRIKE



HEADQUARTERS OF THE SHIRTWAIST STRIKERS.
MISS DREIER AND HER SECRETARY.



SHIRTWAIST STRIKERS OF NEW YORK.

There is a wide divergence of opinion on the subject of the assistance being given to the striking shirtwaist girls by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont and Miss Anne Morgan and other well-known women. To a great many persons, the interference of these women on the matter looks like a hysterical display of misguided sympathy or—in some instances—a bid for notoriety. Miss Mary E. Dreier is the president of the Woman's Trade Union league, which is supporting the strikers. The latest display of practical sympathy comes from the girls of Wellesley college, who have given $1,000 to help the cause, thus insuring the fulfillment of the promise of Miss Morgan, who has promised to erect a co-operative factory for the girls, if they can raise part of the money to operate it.

TEAMSTER HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Street Car Hits Wagon—He Leaps Just in Time.

A. Ellingson, a teamster, who resides at Twenty-third avenue west and Ninth street, had a narrow escape from serious injuries this morning, when a west-bound street car collided with a wagon at Twentieth avenue west and Superior street.

Ellingson jumped off the wagon just in time to avoid being struck by the car. The horses also escaped injury. In the wagon was a load of flour, and this was scattered over the street, some of the sacks being broken open by the force of the collision.

The wagon was demolished, and it was a few minutes before the track could be cleared of the wreckage.

Ellingson was crossing Superior street going north, and did not see the approaching car.

He drove across the tracks just in front of the car, and before he could get across the car smashed into the rear of the wagon.

FUNERAL IN DULUTH.

Body of Peter Strombeck Brought to This City for Burial.

The body of Peter Strombeck, 37 yearsold, of 2835 West Third street, who died Tuesday evening in a Minneapolis hospital following an illness of tuberculosis, arrived in the West end this morning. Olson & Crawford, undertakers, 2010 West Superior street, took charge of it.

The funeral has been arranged for tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the undertaking rooms and at 2 o'clock from the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street. Rev. C. G. Olson, pastor, will officiate.

It was first intended to hold the funeral in Minneapolis, but other arrangements were made later by his relatives in this city. He is survived by a brother and two sisters.

WANTS DIVORCE AND HER MAIDEN NAME.

On a charge of desertion, Mrs. Zilda Zech, 24 years old, asks a divorce from her husband, Albert Zech, 29. The papers in the action were filed this morning with the clerk of the district court. She alleges that they were married in Duluth, Jan. 30, 1906. One child, a girl, now 3 years old, was born. She asks that she be given an absolute divorce, a suitable monthly amount of money, and that she be allowed the use of her maiden name, Zilda Sheff.

CERTAINLY ENDS KIDNEY TROUBLE

Backache, Kidney Disorder and Misery In Bladder Vanishes.

Hundreds of folks here are needlessly miserable and worried because of out-of-order kidneys, backache or bladder trouble.

If you will take several doses of Pape's Diuretic all misery from a lame back, rheumatism, painful stitches, inflamed or swollen eyelids, nervous headache, irritability, dizziness, worn-out, sick feeling and other symptoms of overworked or deranged kidneys will vanish.

Uncontrollable, smarting, frequent urination (especially at night) and all bladder misery ends.

This unusual preparation goes at once to the disordered kidneys, bladder and urinary system, and distributes its healing, cleansing and vitalizing influence directly uopn the organs and glands affected, and completes the cure before you realize it.

The moment you suspect any kidney or urinary disorder, or feel rheumatism coming, begin taking this harmless medicine, with the knowledge that there is no other remedy, at any price, made anywhere else in the world, which will effect so thorough and prompt a cure as a fifty-cent treatment of Pape's Diuretic, which any druggist can supply.

Your physician, pharmacist, banker or any mercantile agency will tell you that Pape, Thompson & Pape of Cincinnati is a large and responsible medicine concern, thoroughly worthy of your confidence.

Only curative results can come from taking Pape's Diuretic, and a few days' treatment means clean, active, healthy kidneys, bladder and urinary organs—and you feel fine.

TOWN GOES YEAR WITH NO POLICE COURT CASES.

Danville, Ky., Feb. 3.—Junction City, the town second in size in Boyle county, cites as an unusual record that during the last twelve months there was not a single police court case there. Policeman Clem, who symbolizes the law in that community of a thousand residents, has announced his intention of cultivating a crop of tobacco this year, as a diversion.

Mining Camp Has Big Fire.

Helena, Mont., Feb. 3.—Fire wiped out a block and a half of the business section of Marysville, the noted gold mining camp near here. The opera house, two meat markets, several saloons, a drug store, cafes and a number of empty buildings were burned. The fire originated in a cafe and was fanned by a brisk wind. Dynamite was freely used in checking the fire. The loss probably will not exceed $100,000.

GOES INSANE OVER CHURCH BREACH

Christian Scientist Finally Drowns Himself in the East River.

New York, Feb. 3.—Henry Pennington Toler, a Princeton graduate, former Wall street broker and Christian Scientist, eluded guards on Wards Island, where he has been confined in an insane asylum since July, and plunged into the East river Tuesday. His body was found last night.

Toler became violently insane last summer after controversies with factions in the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in this city. For a time he was a supporter of Mrs. Augusta F. Stetston, the deposed first reader, but subsequently he turned against her. His commitment to the asylum was caused by persons who said he had sent them threatening letters.

He became possessed of the hallucination that the upper part of Harlem belonged to him and Mary Baker G. Eddy. He organized a movement to recover property valued at $3,000,000,000 for the purpose of establishing a new Jerusalem. His project failed, his fortune dwindled, his wife left him, and his complete mental collapse followed.

WILLIAM E. LEE FOR GOVERNOR

Said to Have Decided to Enter Race Against Eberhart.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—William E. Lee of Long Prairie is the "dark horse" who is to contest the Republican nomination for governor with Governor A. O. Eberhart. This decision, according to authentic information received by the Journal, has already been made, but has been kept quiet with the intention of starting the Lee boom at the time of the county option state gathering in St. Paul, March 2.

It is further understood that Mr. Lee is to declare for county option, and that he will lead a fight for control of the state convention by the county option forces. The purpose is to put a county option plank in the state platform and make it the issue in the state campaign.

The story is that the candidacy of Mr. Lee was agreed upon during the meeting of the State Agricultural society. A conference was held between the Long Prairie man and several of his friends, prominent Republicans from various parts of the state, who have held aloof from Governor Eberhart. Mr. Lee agreed to allow the use of his name and to push the county option issue.

Mr. Lee leaves next week for Florida, to be gone two months, and the county option meeting will be held during his absence. Prior to his leaving, he will not discuss the governorship.

PASSENGER SERVICE ON MILLE LACS LAKE.

Mora, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Mille Lacs Transportation company, which is to furnish freight and passenger service on the big lake this summer, has purchased the seventeen-ton steamer Luella, which is especially adapted to passenger and excursion business. Regular stopping places will be Isle, Opstead, Malmo, Wealthwood, Cutler, Nichols, Midland, Garrison, Wigwam Bay, Vineland and Wahkon, the latter being the home port. The company has built docks at Garrison and Cutler, and Hodgeden & McDonald are to build one at Nichols.

WALKER'S LIGHT PLANT HAD PROSPEROUS YEAR.

Walker, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual statement of the superintendent of Walker's electric light and power plant shows a net gain for the year of over $2,000. The local plant is owned and controlled by the village and has been made to show a small profit ever since the present superintendent assumed charge. The cost of maintenance for the year was, in round figures, $6,000; the receipts, $8,000.

ANOTHER WASHBURN CHILD POISON VICTIM.

Washburn, Wis., Feb 3.—Another child in the Behrand poisoning case died yesterday, and the recovery of the others is doubtful.

The nature of the poisoning is baffling the physicians. Food poisoning is doubted. One of the children said they took sick at different times during the night. This child refuses even to take water from a cup, having apparently great fear. No arrests have been made.

LADYSMITH CASE IS BAFFLING OFFICERS.

Ladysmith, Wis., Feb. 3.—The tragedy of last Saturday, when the bodies of August Wolf of this city and Mabel Richards were found underneath an overturned sleigh near Glen Beulah, remains unsolved. Local physicians at the post-mortem found no trace of poison or foul play.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

MANY COME AFTER LAND

Large Delegations of Land Seekers Flocking Into Red River Valley.

Mild Weather and Other Favorable Conditions Are Bringing Many Settlers.

Crookston, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Not in many years has the outlook for a heavy immigration to the Red River valley been as bright as at present. This is the opinion of every land dealer in this section. As a rule the winter months are very dull ones for the land men. In the past they would make a trip or two to Iowa and Illinois and do considerable corresponding, more to keep busy than with the idea of accomplishing much.

This winter, for the first time in the history of the valley, land seekers have been coming continually.. They found the weather so favorable and the roads so good that many of the land men have been kept busy driving them through the country. While few deals have been definitely closed, as the buyers desire to see the land after the snow goes in the spring, many deals have been practically closed and many purchasers have paid earnest money, agreeing to close the deal if the land is as represented. This they had to do in order to secure the prices which prevail now, as there is no question but that as soon as spring opens land in this section will advance from $3 to $5 per acre, and in many instances $10 and more per acre.

Dairying Profits Attract.

O. O. Christianson, a pioneer real estate man, states that within the past week he has had two parties of land seekers here and has driven them over a large section. They say that the coming spring would see the biggest movement from Iowa and Illinois and other central states that has been witnessed in ten years. They say that the main reason is the success that is being made of dairying here, and the successful corn crops that were raised last year and for the past few years. The farmers from other states who are dairying on farms worth $100 per acre and more, see where they can make much more by using $30, $40 and $50 per acre land.

Another condition that is unusual in this section is the amount of money the farmers have which they cannot use. The banks are all complaining that they cannot loan their money to the farmers, but that on the contrary the farmers want to loan the banks money. They come in with $500 and $1,000 and are glad to get 5 per cent for it from the banks and the banks in turn are buying commercial paper from the St. Paul and Minneapolis banks at 5½ per cent in order to get rid of the money. This is not only the case with the larger banks, but with the smaller country banks who were former heavy borrowers and loaned large sums from the Eastern institutions.

This reflects the condition of affairs with the progressive farmers throughout the valley. Everything the farmer has had to sell has brought extremely high prices. They have nothing, grew nothing and produced nothing but what can be turned into ready money at a big profit, and as a consequence conditions are just the reverse of what they were a few years ago.

Business men are looking forward to the best year experienced for a long time.

JUDGE STANTON TO DELIVER TRIBUTE

District Judge to Speak on Late Governor Before State Editors.

Bemidji, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge C. W. Stanton has accepted the invitation of the president of the Minnesota State Editorial association to deliver a eulogy on the late overnor Johnson, at the annual meeting of the association, St. Paul, Thursday and Friday, Feb. 17 and 18.

For many years prior to the election of John A. Johnson to the governorship, the late chief executive and Judge Stanton were great personal friends and co-laborers in the newspaper files of Minnesota, the judge being publisher of the Appleton Press and Mr. Johnson publisher of the St. Peter Herald. Both were old-time members of the state editorial association, of which organization Governor Johnson was once the president.

TO DAM CEDAR RIVER.

Chippewa Valley Railway Company to Develop Much Power.

Eau Claire, Wis., Feb. 3.—The Chippewa Valley Railway Light & Power company of Eau Claire, will build a dam and power house at Cedar Falls, Dunn county, on the Cedar river, to develop 8,000-horse power. The contract was signed last night with the Ambersen Company of Boston, for the construction, which will cost $300,000, and will be finished Sept. 1. The equipment will cost $200,000 additional. Enough for 2,000-horse power will go in this year.

NEW BEMIDJI INDUSTRY.

Proposed Sugar Beet Factory Is Already Attracting Attention.

Bemidji, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The agitation for the establishment of a sugar beet factory here, and the encouragement being given to the farmers hereabouts to raise sufficient beets to provide material for the proposed factory, is being taken cognizance of by experts of the state agriculture college, at St. Paul, as is shown by a letter received by A. H. Jester, secretary of the Commercial club, and one of the prime movers in the beet factory proposition from Prof. C. P. Bull, assistant professor in agriculture, landing the enterprise in which he says: "There is no place that will grow root crops better than your section. A large tonnage per acre will be grown, if the farmers will make the use of manures and clover seed. There must, therefore, of necessity, be a considerable amount of livestock kept, so as to maintain the fertility. It would be a mistake to do anything that would preclude keeping livestock."

GREATER CASS LAKE.

Several Industries Are Figured on By Commercial Club.

Cass Lake, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club Tuesday evening considered several matters of importance to the future of this community, such as the leasing of the boat landing for the summer, the establishment of a turpentine plant here, and the building of roads.

The turpentine plant was the most important matter discussed. The club has made arrangements with several Eastern experts to visit Cass Lake soon, and from what they have already offered it is expected that they will present a very good proposition.

The club appointed M. N. Koll and Charles E. Battles to attend the development and reapportionment meeting to be held at Bemidji Feb. 17 and 18. Judge Ives has been appointed by Representative P. H. McGarry to attend the gathering.

TRIES TO STARVE SELF.

Failing in This North Dakota Convict Hangs Himself.

Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 3.—George Miller, who was sent to the penitentiary from Stark county to serve six years after having been convicted on a charge of manslaughter in the second degree, committed suicide by hanging in a cell.

Miller has caused the officers of the prison trouble at various times during his incarceration and at one time he picked up a heavy iron bar and assaulted one of his fellow convicts and came near killing him. He was after this kept by himself for some time and soon after he was again allowed to mingle with his fellow convicts he again committed an assault on another inmate of the prison. Since that time careful watch has been kept over him.

It developed at the inquest that Miller attempted to starve himself to death and went for twenty days without taking food, and when he found that the physician was going to make him take food via the tube route, he gave up the fight and began to eat again.

The charge on which Miller was convicted grew out of the killing of a brakeman on the Northern Pacific during the fall of 1904, in Stark county. There were three hoboes in the party and during a quarrel with the brakeman over the price of a ride, some one shot the brakeman in the back and killed him.

CASS LAKE MOURNED.

Funeral of Young Martin Niels Was Very Large One.

Cass Lake, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of Martin Niels, the 17-year-old son of J. F. B. Niels, president of the J. Niels Lumber company, was buried in the cemetery here yesterday. The funeral was one of the largest that has taken place in Cass Lake. Floral tributes were received from all sections of the state. The deceased had been a student at Concordia college for several years, but a few weeks ago he was taken down with an attack of diphtheria and died in Minneapolis last Sunday.

THIEF RIVER FALLS BUSINESS MEN MEET.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—An enthusiastic meeting of the commercial interests of this city was held Monday evening to discuss matters pertaining to the continued improvement in Thief River Falls. The proposed construction of a large hotel, a number of business blocks and the completion of the new $45,000 city auditorium, the construction of a new high school building, and the railway situation all demand that the commercial interests centering here prepare for a lively summer campaign.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

East Grand Forks.—Edward Nelson was arraigned in the municipal court on a charge of stealing wheat from Ole Jacobson and was bound over to the grand jury, his bonds being fixed at $500, which so far have not been furnished.

Moorhead.—The Clay-Becker County Medical society in session here Monday elected the following officers: President, D. O. J. Hagen, Moorhead; vice president, Dr. Lowe, Glyndon; secretary-treasurer, Dr. Barton, Frazee.

St. Cloud.—Mrs. Elizabeth Leisen has had plans and specifications prepared, and they are now in the hands of contractors, for a fine new, strictly modern and up-to-date store building to be erected on the premises now occupied by E. O. Lenz's barber shop and the adjoining building, formerly occupied by the Grill cafe.

Aitkin.—The Aitkin hospital has been closed and the village is now without hospital conveniences of any kind. The assocation of business men who undertook the project a couple of years ago are the losers to the extent of the capital invested and about $2,200 in accumulated indebtedness which they will have to meet.

Winona.—Wm. Hayes Laird recently elected junior grand warden of the Minnesota Grand Lodge, A. F. & A. M. Tuesday evening, at the Masonic temple in this city, was installed into that office. The ceremonies were in charge of Past Grand Master Gustaf Widell of Mankato, assisted by Grand Secretary John Fishel and Past Grand Master Henry M. Tusler, both of St. Paul.

Aitkin.—Pat Casey, aged 60, of Aitkin, a prominent member of the well-known Potter-Casey company, died Tuesday morning about 6 o'clock, after an illness of several years. Mr. Casey was one of the best known business men of Aitkin.

Brainerd.—Mr. and Mrs. A. A. McDonald of Duluth are visiting friends in this city. Mrs. McDonald was formerly Miss Onolee McCullough and she has many friends in Brainerd. Mr. and Mrs. McDonald are contemplating moving to Oregon to reside.

Stillwater.—The funeral of Ella, daughter of Mrs. Magdalena Haas, took place at St. Michael's church Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock and was attended by a large number of schoolmates and friends.

Elk River.—The village council has fixed the local liquor license at $2,000 for the year beginning Feb. 1. A license has been taken out by M. C. Blanchett, the only applicant.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Ashland—Electrical workers plan a big affair on Feb. 7. The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers will give their third annual ball at Eagles' hall. The committees are all working hard to make this affair surpass all previous events in the history of the organization.

Merrill—The state railroad commission is holding a hearing here today to decide whether the Merrill Electric railroad shall extend its line from the West side to the Sixth ward as desired by the property owners.

Florence—Peter Joston was fatally burned when the woodchoppers' shack occupied by himself and Tony Dodero was destroyed by fire Sunday. Joston walked barefoot and nearly naked across the snow to shelter. His burns caused his death a few hours later.

Madison—A. L. Davis, who came to Madison and opened a "commission house," to deal in dairy products, pleaded guilty in the federal court to using the United States mails for fraudulent purposes, and was sentenced to sixteen months in the government prison at Leavenworth.

Milwaukee—Edwin Moquin, Fond du Lac, was kicked in the abdomen and had to be taken to his room in a carriage as the result of a class rush between freshmen and sophomore medics of Marquette university in the college department of Trinity hospital. The sophomores were overwhelmed and several members of both classes were hurt.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Grafton, N. D.—C. A. Harris, an old-timer at Grafton, and father of "Chet" Harris, formerly an employe of the Tribune and a resident of Bismarck, has left the state and will reside in California.

Minot, N. D.—The general store occupied by Eleverson & Ellingson at Carpio was destroyed by fire Sunday morning. The loss was $10,000 and the insurance was $5,000. The hotel and Tryon's drug store were barely saved by the work of the volunteer bucket brigade.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Plans for the new Stinson building, which is to replace the present home of the Leslie Stinson fuel firm on South Fourth street are now being drawn by Architect J. Bell De Remer and the contract will be let some time next wek. It will be a two-story structure, 50 by 80 feet, with full basement and will be a splendid addition to that section of the business district.

Minot, N. D.—The members of the Ward County Old Settlers' association will meet at Jacobson's opera house at high 12 on Feb. 10, at which time matters of importance will come before the meeting. The meeting will be continued from day to day, until the business will have all been transacted.

Fargo, N. D.—Steve Braun, for many years a resident of this city, and afterwards of Wahpeton, where he was treasurer of Richland county, is back in Fargo as orchestra leader for the vaudeville work in the Fargo opera house. Mr. Braun is one of the best known musicians in the Northwest.

Valley City, N. D.—The following officers have been elected by the Barnes County Fair association: Charles F. Mudgett, president; J. H. Whitcher, first vice president; William Schultz, second vice president; William J. Westergaard, treasurer; George A. McFarland, secretary. An assistant secretary is to be appointed later on.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

A LINIMENT FOR EXTERNAL USE.

Baby's coming will be a time of rejoicing, and not of apprehension and fear, if Mother's Friend is used by the expectant mother in preparation of the event. This is not a medicine to be taken internally, but a liniment to be applied to the body, to assist nature in the necessary physical changes of the system. Mother's Friend is composed of oils and medicines which prepare the muscles and tendons for the unusual strain, render the ligaments supple and elastic, aids in the expanding of the skin and flesh fibres, and strengthens all the membranes and tissues. It lessens the pain and danger at the crisis, and assures future health to the mother. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for our free book, containing valuable information for expectant Mothers.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON. FEB. 6. Matt. vi. 1-15: Almsgiving and Prayer.

THE CONNECTION.

From those profound laws of the kingdom which we studied in our last lesson, He moves right on to the discussion of the forms of righteousness into which the Pharisees had classified their religious activities. Those three acts were almsgiving, prayer and fasting. If you asked a Pharisee in what righteousness consisted, he would at once have answered, "in giving alms, praying and fasting;" and his motive in doing them was equally bad. Our Savior takes these up and analyzes them. We have a lesson about two of them, but if we see the working of His principles in these two cases, we can see how they apply to the third.

THE LESSON.

I.

The Way to Give. 1-4.

"Take heed that you do not your righteousness before men, to be seen of them: else ye have no reward with your Father who is in heaven.

"When, therefore, thou doest alms, sound not a trumpet before thee, as the hypocrites do in the synagogues and in the streets, that they may have glory of men. Verily I say unto you. They have received their reward. But when thou doest alms let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth, that thine alms may be in secret: and thy Father who seeth in secret shall recompense thee."

Taking their own classification of righteous acts into almsgiving, prayer and fasting, Jesus shows how they pervert them all. He warns His disciples against that way.

Their method is publicity, their motive the desire for human applause. And they get it. As they do not aim at God's approval, they do not get it, get only the reward they seek.

Some fine figures reveal the false way and enlighten the true. They did not give to relieve want, but to win applause, and then not till they could attract the attention of the people to their deeds. Their efforts to get the people to see what they were doing was like a trumpet call and it was always in the most conspicuous places.

The one who sought only to please the Father in helping a needy brother is so unostentatious that it is like the right hand keeping a secret from the left hand. Our gifts can be known and the knowledge may stimulate others to give, but the motive need not be selfish.

II.

The Way to Pray. 5-8.

"And when ye pray ye shall not be as the hypocrites: for they love to stand and pray in the synagogues and in the corners of the streets, that they may be seen by men. Verily I say unto you, they have received their reward. But thou, when thou prayest, enter into thine inner chamber, and having shut thy door, pray to thy Father who is in secret, and thy Father who seeth in secret shall recompense thee. And in praying use not vain repetitions, as the Gentiles do: for they think they shall be heard for their much speaking. Be not therefore like unto them: for your Father knoweth what things ye have need of, before you ask Him."

The perils of prayer are perpetual, yet the necessity of it is imperious. It is "when ye pray," not "if ye pray," for pray we must. Two abuses are always possible.

1. Prayer for Appearance Sake.

With the Pharisees it was a show, a dress parade. Their purpose was to be seen of men. They got what they were after. People saw them. That was all. When one of those hypocrites, or actors as the word really means, saw a fine crowd in a synagogue or on the street, he would say, "this is the very time and place to do some praying." And forthwith he struck an attitude and pretended to be talking to God, while he was really appealing to the admiration of men, as his poor deluded dupes would watch him and say to themselves, "what a Godly man." Unmask the actor! Christ does not condemn public prayer when one may sincerely try to voice to God the needs of all, but private prayer in upblic for the purpose of attracting attention. Private prayer must be made always as private as possible, everything shut out but oneself and God. When no secret place is near one can shut his eyes and even shut the most clamorous objects out.

2. Prayer, whose value is thought to consist in its repetition. That is the way the heathens do—the oftener they say the prayer the greater the merit. As God is a Father and knows what we need before we ask Him, such prayers are an insult to Him. The priests of Baal in their famous contest with Elijah, kept saying "O, Babel, hear us!" The Chinese have their prayer wheel which they keep turning, and if they can wind up a machine and have it working while they sleep it is all the greater a success. Shame on such praying!

III.

The Model Prayer. 9-15.

"After this manner therefore pray ye: Our Father who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done, as in heaven, so on earth. Give us this day our daily bread. Forgive us our debts, as we also have forgiven our debtors. And bring us not into temptation, but deliver us from the evil one. For if ye forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you. But if ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses."

This prayer is given to indicate the thing which, in general, is to be included in our prayers and especially to show that it is an appeal of a child to his heavenly Father, whose intelligence and love are lovingly taken for granted.

"After this manner" does not mean that this is the only form in which we can pray—for that would crush us. Once again he enjoined such a prayer (Luke xi. 2-4) and the variation shows that He wanted it to be suggestive to them of what they might pray for and how avoiding the faults that in this sermon he has pointed out. Many things might be said about the prayer as a whole; that it has been popularly called the Lord's prayer since Cyprian A. D. 250; that expressions like some of those in the prayer are found in Jewish liturgies and in the sacred books of India, while some things were never spoken before, nor any of them understood; that it is a very model of brevity, simplicity and devoutness. It falls into two parts, the earlier petition being concerned with the name and glory and reign of the Father, the latter part with our wants.

1. In the beginning the disciple seems not aware of his own wants. God fills his thoughts. To the one who truly prays God is first of all Father, having a heart of love and care, and authority. He is Father in heaven, with all of majesty and purity which that involves. The disciple, now a child in fact and in feeling, is anxious about how he may so treat his Father as to honor him and he prays that His name—which is but another way of designating His nature, for a name is a designation of character and quality—may be hallowed or set apart to holy uses; that what he thinks or says about God or does in His name may set that name in still more glorious light. Then he wants to see His reign as rightful Ruler come to its consummation. To the disciple then the phrase, "Thy Kingdom come" might mean the coming of the Messiah into His true place in the nations, but it means the growth of the reign of God, till it is complete. When men hallow the name of God the Father, then know that the Kingdom has fully come.

That will bring about the doing of God's will on earth as it is done in heaven. "True, the Father's will is done on earth; but, ah, how imperfectly, blindly, slavishly! Not so is it done in heaven. There it is done voluntarily, completely, with the whole nature. Joyosuly, universally, concurrently, everlastingly; in one word, perfectly." This is the prayer that is natural to the Father's children, whether they state it in exactly this form or not.

2. The disciple now prays for himself, as he has a right to. He begins with his physical wants and asks God to supply them. He prays not for luxuries and dainties, but for the necessary—bread; not for large amounts of it, but for one day's portion at a time; not in order to indulge his own indolence, but that he may be able to bear his part in bringing his Father's kingdom to its triumph; not that he expects the bread without exertion, but he expects an answer through his exertions. The life thus sustained must be forgiven its sins. He asks for this when he can say, "As I have forgiven my debtors." We first learn how to forgive by being forgiven, and when we refuse to learn that lesson and practice it we need not ever again ask for it. The meritorious ground of our pardon is the atonement of Christ, but if we do not exercise the spirit of Christ in pardoning others, we may be sure we have not received it.

The child of God with conscious weakness shudders at the temptations before him. He does not expect to escape them, for they test and strengthen his character if he remains true, but he wants his Father to keep him out of temptation that is too strong for him. He sees the evil one behind it all and shrinks from him.

The doxology which we usually rpeat was evidently added years later, not being a part of the prayer.

The need of a forgiving spirit is so great that Christ follows the prayer with a most striking statement of its necessity. Jesus is the only Son of the Father, who prayed thus perfectly and He alone can enable us to pray it aright. That He does by the Holy Spirit, who "maketh intercession for us."

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

The weak theology which professes to believe that prayer has only a subjective benefit is infinitely less scientific than the action of the child who confidently appeals to a Father in heaven.—Sir Principal Dawson.

An Oriental dragoman was up at daybreak praying very loud, the first morning of the new journey. Hoping he had been heard by his employer, he came to his tent, and asked, 'Did you hear me pray, master?' Being told that he was heard, he smiled with pleasure, because he had received his reward.—Trumbull.

Forgiveness is as much the basis of a day's duty as bread. If we are to serve on earth, we must have bread; but if we are to serve either on earth or elsewhere, we must have forgiveness.—Dods.

And the prayer seeks to bring us also into harmony with our fellow men. Our Lord bids us to ask, not for ourselves only, but for our brethren. We begin by owning them as brethren when we address God, not as "My Father," but as "Our Father." He who lives for himself, owning no brother's claim on the part of his fellow men outside the ties of kinship, or race, or creed, cannot pray this prayer. —Thompson.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1. How can we make our gifts a ministry to the needs of men, the heart of Christ, instead of to our own vanity or gain?
2. When God knows exactly what we want, why should we ask for it?
3. How is God's name hallowed?
4. Why does God have an interest in our material blessings?
5. In what ways are we responsible for the answer to our prayers?

MOST PEOPLE DO NOT KNOW CAUSE OF THEIR SICKNESS

Does human health depend on one organ alone? This question is becoming widely discussed since L. T. Cooper first advanced his theory that the stomach is the true seat of life and all health dependent upon it.

Mr. Cooper, who has met with remarkable success in the sale of his new medicine, believes that the stomach is responsible for most sickness, and that this organ is weak in the present generation. While discussing this theory recently, he said: "I am asked time and again to tell why my medicine has made such a record wherever I have introduced it. My answer always is, 'because it restores the stomach to a normal condition.' No one will deny that today there are more half-sick men and women than ever before. Nothing critical seems to be the matter with them. They are just half-sick most of the time. They don't know really what is the matter with them. I have talked with thousands during the past two years, and few knew indeed what their trouble was. One said nervousness, another said kidney trouble, another liver complaint, some constipation, or heart trouble, or lung trouble. Many had treated, as they called it, for most of these diseases at different times. A very common complaint is 'all run down,' or 'tired all the time,' or 'no appetite.'

"I know positively that every bit of this chronic ill health is caused by stomach trouble, and nothing else. My New Discovery puts the stomach in sound condition in about six weeks. Mighty few people can be sick with a sound digestion. That is why my medicine is selling at such a tremendous rate. I have convinced many thousands of people that these things are so, and the number is growing by leaps and bounds."

Among more recent converts to Mr. Cooper's beliefs is Mrs. Lottie L. Miner, living on Rural Route No. 2, Henniker, N. H., who says: "I was in poor health for six years, from stomach trouble and indigestion. Quite frequently my stomach was so weak that it would not retain solid food. I had vomiting spells every morning, and was subject to frequent attacks of dizziness. Life became such a burden that I often felt it was not worth the living. I tried everything I could hear of, but found nothing that would afford relief.

"For some time I had been reading of the Cooper remedies, and finally decided to give the New Discovery preparation a trial. After taking the first bottle I noticed a marked improvement. Five bottles made me entirely well. I can eat anything I wish, and have not been troubled with my stomach since. The dizzy spells disappeared long ago.

"My mother, Mrs. Susan Parkins, is a nurse of long experience. Both she and my father have used the Cooper remedies with splendid results. I will be glad to answer any personal correspondence in regard to my case."

Cooper's New Disvorey is sold by all druggists. If your druggist cannot supply you, we will forward you the name of a druggist in your city who will. Don't accept "something just as good."—The Cooper Medicine Co., Dayton, Ohio.

HOT DEBATE OVER CENSUS

House Indulges in Animated Discussion Over the Way It Is Taken.

Charges of Partisanship Are Made---Other Affairs in That Body.

Washington, Feb. 3.—An animated political debate enlivened the session of the house yesterday. Charges of partisanship in the taking of the census were numerous, Democratic members insisting that a non-partisan census were impossible unless enumerators were appointed from men of both political parties. After a long debate the census bill was passed, providing for amendment to the present law so that there should be an enumeration of cattle slaughtered and hides produced in the country slaughtering houses, together with a provision for an enumeration of information concerning irrigated lands.

Mr. Crumpacker of Indiana explained that these amendments were to give accurate information on a subject upon which there has been much political speculation.

"To Enumerate Insurgents."

Reading a letter said to have been written by Representative Crow of Missouri, telling one of his constituents that if he should receive an appointment as a census enumerator he would have to ascertain the relative strength of "insurgents" and regular Republicans, Representative Robinson of Arkansas, attacked the bill.

The letter was in the form of a newspaper clipping and contained the statement that the work the census enumerator would have to do would be "such as any enthusiastic Republican will be glad to do and will not in any way conflict with your duty as an enumerator." It also stated that this extra work would be outlined to the candidate before his appointment so that he need not accept the appointment if he did not desire to do what would be asked of him.

Representative Hardwick of Georgia charged that negro enumerators were being used to take the census of negroes of the South in order to overcome the ill-effects of the Republican party arising from President Roosevelt's dismissal of troops at Brownsville, Tex.

Millions in Water Bill.

The rivers and harbors appropriation bill, which the committee had expected to have ready for report to the house by this time, may not be completed until next week. According to estimates it will not carry a direct appropriation of $35,000,000, but will involve an ultimate expenditure of about $600,000,000 stretching over periods ranging from seven to a dozen years. Probably the two largest items, for which only an annual proportion is provided, are what is ultimately expected to reach $80,000,000 for the lower Mississippi river and $63,000,000 for the Ohio river. The $35,000,000 approximately directly appropriated by the bill represents the annual proportion of this general waterway improvement.

Row Over Navy Plan.

A row is on in the house committee on naval affairs over developments from the hearings in committee on the Meyer plan of reorganization of the navy department, and the committee is badly split on the subject.

It is said the committee stands nine to nine on the proposition of approving the Meyer plan, with one member absent.

The committee is not divided along party lines. A mixed number of Republicans and Democrats, headed by Chairman Foss, are now opposed to the secretary's scheme. When the committee began its investigations early in December, all but three of the members were said to be favorable to the secretary's ideas.

The committee was considerably wrought up over the reports that the secretary of the navy was intending to discipline Rear Admiral Capps, chief constructor of the navy, and Rear Admiral Rogers, paymaster general, because of their testimony before the committee unfavorable to his plan. The committee resents any attempted restriction of its right to call witness, and it was reported that the committee intends reporting the matter to the house itself if either Admiral Capps or Rogers were disciplined. It is reported that the secretary has been asked to withdraw his plan and adopt the plan urged by former Secretary Newberry, which differs materially from the Meyer plan.

On Canadian Boundary.

President Taft has transmitted to congress the system of uniform and common international regulations for the protection and preservation of food fishes in boundary waters of the United States and Canada. The regulations were prepared by a joint commission, the United States being represented by David Starr Jordan and Canada by Edward Ernest Prince. Legislation is needed to carry the regulations into force and a draft of a bill is submitted by Mr. Jordan. He sugests that the new regulations shall be put into force Jan. 1, 1911.

Incorporation Bill Ready.

President Taft's federal incorporation bill has passed through what is supposed to have been its final revision, and has been sent to the government printing office. It was prepared by Attorney General Wickersham and Secretary Nagel of the present cabinet, assisted by other well-known lawyers. The measure will be introduced in the senate and house next week.

Champ Clark for President.

Representative Champ Clark, Democratic leader of the house, has been informed that the first "Champ" Clark for President club has been organized in Enid, Okla. Telegrams from Tulsa, Okla., have also been received by Mr. Clark, nominating him for speaker of the next congress and then for president.

A Safeguard to Children.

"Our two children of six and eight years have been since infancy subject to colds and croup. About three years ago I started to use Foley's Honey and Tar, and it has never failed to prevent and cure these troubles. It is the only medicine I can get the children to take without a row." The above from W. C. Ornstein, Green Bay, Wis., duplicates the experience of thousands of other users of Foley's Honey and Tar. Sold by all druggists.

SALOON KEEPER MUST SETTLE WITH WOMAN.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 3.—Andrew Johnson of Spring Valley must pay Eliza Hanson $8,000 for alleged breach of promise, according to a decision of the supreme court. The plaintiff was awarded $10,000 for breach of promise of marriage on the part of Johnson, who is a saloon keeper. The lower court reduced the judgment to $8,000 and Johnson appealed.

Woman Tramp at Anoka.

Anoka, Minn., Feb. 3.—There was a female tramp in Anoka Tuesday. She caused something of a disturbance around town and was taken in charge. A quart of whisky and a couple of dollars were found upon her. She was given a place to sleep and Wednesday morning was sent on her way.

NOTED MEN ARE COMING

Workers of National Reputation Will Speak at Y. M. C. A. Convention.

Program for Three Days' Meeting of the State Association.

Some of the most noted men in Y. M. C. A. work in the United States will come to Duluth for the thirty-sixth annual convention of the Minnesota Young Men's Christian association, which will be held here Feb. 17 to 20. There will probably be about 400 delegates present. The public meetings will be held in the First M. E. church, and the committee meetings and other small gatherings will be held in the Y. M. C. A. building. The music during the convention will be in charge of C. B. Willis, secretary of the Milwaukee association.

The opening address of the convention will be made by John Timothy Stone, D. D., of Chicago and late of Baltimore. His subject will be "Friendship With God." Governor A. O. Eberhart will speak at the meeting Thursday evening. Friday morning Dr. Stone will speak on "Men and Temptation," at 9 o'clock, and at 10:10 the same morning Charles R. Towson of New York, international secretary of the industrial department, will speak on "Men and Industrial Conditions." At 11:15 Frank H. Burt, president of the Y. M. C. A. training school at Chicago, will speak on "Men and Leadership."

The program for Friday afternoon is as follows: 2 o'clock—Special institutes, (a) for boys at the boys' building; (b) for college students, Dr. Donald J. Cowing, president, Carleton college, presiding, together with A. J. Elliott of Chicago, international secretary of the student department; (c) for physical directors: (d) for all other delegates. The subject, "Our Responsibility to the Foreigner," will be discussed by Lafayette Bliss of Virginia and Charles R. Towson of New York. The institutes are expected to last about an hour and a half, and at 3:30 o'clock the subject, "Our Resources and Obligations" will be discussed by W. H. Gold of Redwood Falls, giving a banker's view, President E. W. Van Aken of Parker college giving a teacher's view, and C. B. Willis of Milwaukee giving a secretary's view.

Friday evening there will be a business men's banquet at which the chief speakers will be Hon. Selden P. Spencer, of St. Louis, ex-judge of the suprème court of Missouri, and Fred B. Smith of New York. The banquet will be followed by a song service. Beginning at 7:45 Charles R. Towson of New York will speak on "The Immigrant and the Nation" and following him Frank H. Burt of Chicago will speak on "Men and Our Cities."

Saturday's Program.

The following is the program for Saturday: 9 a. m.—"A Voice From the Past; its meaning," John F. Moore, New York, international secretary railroad department; 9:45—"Laymen and Christian Service," Fred B. Smith, New York, international secretary religious work department; 11—"Men and the Bible," Hon. Selren F. Spencer, St. Louis; 12—Annual meeting, state executive committee; afternoon, 2 p. m.—"The Bible Hour," Fred B. Smith, New York; 2:50—Brief business session; 3:30—Rrecreative features at men's building, boys' building and ski slide.

The addresses Saturday evening will be by John F. Moore of New York, on "Our Railroad Men," and by Fred B. Smith of New York, on "Men and Religion."

The program for Sunday: 9:15—A quiet hour with C. B. Willis of Milwaukee in charge; 10:30—Regular church service, delegates will speak; 3 p. m.—Mass meeting for men at the First M. E. church, Fred B. Smith, speaker; 7:30 p. m.—Platform meetings; farewell service in charge of E. Y. Peck, state secretary.

The members of the local committee which has charge of the banquet for Friday evening are E. C. Little, F. E. House, Julius H. Barnes, A. C. Volk and W. I. Prince.

CHAMPION MINE FIRE AMOUNTED TO LITTLE.

Houghton, Mich., Feb. 3.—The small fire, which was discovered on the No. 6 level south in the D shaft of the Champion mine at Painesdale Monday was of little consequence, and aside from the fact that the employes of that shaft were idle for a few hours, did very little damage.

The force of 150 men employed at the E shaft were idle Monday, and the men employed at the D shaft did not start work until late in the morning. Work was fully resumed Tuesday, however, and no trouble was experienced, the smoke in the levels having cleared out entirely during the night.

Many Cathartics Tend to Cause Injury to the Bowels

If you are subject to constipation, you should avoid strong drugs and cathartics. They only give temporary relief and their reaction is harmful and sometimes more annoying than constipation. They in no way effect a cure and their tendency is to weaken the already weak organs with which they come in contact.

We honestly believe that we have the best constipation treatment ever devised. Our faith in it is so strong that we sell it on the positive guarantee that it shall not cost the user one cent if it does not give entire satisfaction and completely remedy constipation. This preparation is called Rexall Orderlies. These are prompt, soothing and most effective in action. They are made of a recent chemical discovery. Their principal ingredient is odorless, tasteless and colorless. Combined with other well known ingredients, long established for their usefulness in the treatment of constipation, it forms a tablet which is eaten just like candy. They may be taken at any time, either day or night, without fear of their causing any inconvenience whatever. They do not gripe, purge nor cause nausea. They do not gripe, purge nor cause nausea. They act without causing any pain or excessive looseness of the bowels. They are ideal for children, weak, delicate persons and aged people as well as for the most hearty person.

They come in two size packages, 12 tablets 10 cents, 36 tablets 25 cents. Remember you can obtain them only at our store—The Rexall Store—E. M. Tredway, 108 West Superior street.

SPEEDY BOAT IS COMING

Red Wing, Western Regatta Winner, Will Challenge Duluth Speed.

Southern Minnesota Boat Has Record of Twenty-Six Miles an Hour.

W. F. Leggett, local representative of the Red Wing Boat company, said yesterday that arrangements have been completed to bring to the Head of the Lakes about next June the speedy power boat, Red Wing, rated as the fastest speed boat in the West.

With a 48-horse power engine, the Red Wing has achieved a record of twenty-six miles an hour. At various power boat regattas, the boat has defeated anything in its class. The boat is thirty-five feet long and has a beam of 4 feet, 4 inches. It is very probable that the power of the boat will be increased to 60-horse power by putting in a new engine. If that is done, Mr. Leggett says the boat will be one of the fastest power boats in the world.

The Red Wing will be brought here to race with some of the motor boats at the Head of the Lakes. It is especially desired to secure a race with the Dingle Capitol, the new Schell boat which made such a good record at White Bear last summer.

The coming season promises to be a banner one for the motor boat in the Duluth waters. Mr. Leggett says that he has orders for six new boats, which will be completed for the coming season. In addition to these boats, a large number have been ordered from the builders at Geneva, Wis., where many of the Duluth purchasers have placed their orders.

The Red Wing company, in addition to sending the Red Wing here for a series of races, has planned to send a boat of the same general lines as the uniform motor boats that will be purchased by a large number of the members of the Duluth Boat club. The boat of the Red Wing company will be brought here to try conclusions with the Geneva boats, and some very exciting races are looked for.

If the expectations of the men interested in motor boating are realized, Duluth will be represented at the western regatta of motor boats. The meet at Peoria last year was a great success. The Red Wing of this state was there and won every event in its class. Should Duluth have any fast boats the coming season, there is little doubt but that the new organization that will be formed at the Head of the Lakes, will send a representative boat to the western regatta.

CENTRAL QUINT MAY COMPETE

High School Basket Ball Team Invited to Madison Tournament.

If the necessary funds can be raised the basket ball team of the Duluth Central high school will go to Madison, Wis., and will take part in the western interscholastic basket ball tournament which will decide the champion western high school quint.

An invitation has been sent to the local high school team to send a team to Madison. If Central is successful in winning the interscholastic championship of Northern Minnesota and Wisconsin, and the necessary fund can be raised, the team will be represented at the tournament.

The local high school quint is handicapped in not having any suitable gymnasium to play in. Efforts have been made to secure the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, but so far the efforts of the members of the high school athletic board have not been successful.

The boys' department gymnasium, where the high school has played its games the present season, is too small to accommodate a crowd. The Blaine game will be played there Saturday afternoon, and the officials of the high school athletic association are rueful over the fact that the hall is too small to accommodate a crowd.

In the Blaine high school basket ball team Central will meet one of the strongest of the Superior high schools. The game will be played on the floor of a gymnasium to which the local players are accustomed, however, and that will give the Central boys a slight advantage.

It is probable that the game with St. Paul Central will be cancelled. An effort will be made to secure the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium for one of the big games of the present season, in order that funds may be raised to send the team to the Madison tournament.

GET DULUTH CHALLENGE.

Hancock Elks Indoor Baseball Team May Play All Stars.

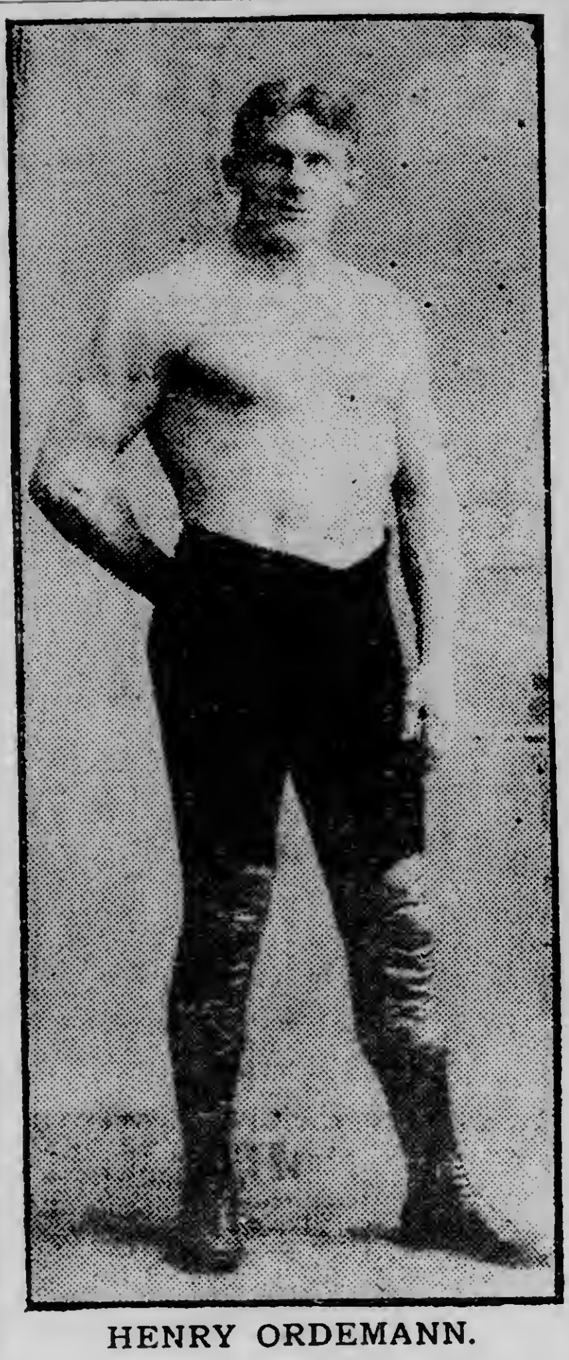
Hancock, Mich., Feb. 3.—The Hancock Elks' indoor baseball team, which is running the Hibernians a close chase for the leadership of the Fraternal league, has received a challenge from the Duluth All Star team, of which Newt Randall, formerly an outfielder in the Hancock professional baseball team, is captain, for a series of three games to be played some time during the month of February in Hancock.

The matter is now under consideration and if it can be arranged the Duluth team will be brought here for the series.

BIG NORWEGIAN WRESTLER FROM MINNEAPOLIS IS THE LOGICAL SUCCESSOR OF GOTCH

Henry Ordemann Seems Next in Line to Humboldt Wonder--More Elaborate Ball Parks.

(BY BRUCE)



HENRY ORDEMANN.

Often the question is asked: "Who will be the American wrestler to succeed to the title of Frank A. Gotch, should the king of the mat retire without being defeated?"

Dr. Benjamin F. Roller was generally looked upon as the logical successor of Gotch. Then suddenly something happened that turned the attention of the sporting world to a comparitively new figure in the wrestling game.

The young man who upset the calculations of the Seattle man, and also of Gotch, for the champion is a very close personal friend of Rollers, is no other than Henry Ordemann of Minneapolis, the powerful young Norwegian, who was seen in this city some two years ago, when Gotch was playing at the Metropolitan.

Many of the fans who saw Ordemann work with Gotch never believed that the tall and awkward appearing young fellow would make one of the best wrestlers of the country. But that is just what Ordemann has developed into. Under the tutelage of the great Gotch, Ordemann has blossomed as one of the few great American wrestlers.

Ordemann first began to attract the attention of the wrestling fans over the country when he wrestled in the semi-final to the Gotch-Hackenschmidt match. He wrestled one of the best of the German wrestlers in the country at that time, winning his match. So good was his work that people began wondering who the young man was.

Last summer Ordemann went west to meet Roller. He met the pride of Seattle right on his own stamping ground. He wrestled the medical man at the Seattle fair. So fierce was the struggle of the two giants—one the polished, suave and educated graduate of two eastern colleges; the other a graduate from the blacksmith shop, rought, unlearned, but powerful as the vikings of his race, who sailed the seas centuries ago—that Roller was carried unconscious from the ring.

More people began to ask who Ordemann was.

The young Minneapolis man has met them all. He has met Beel, Raoul de Rouen, Gotch, Mahmount and Zybszko. Against all of these men he has made an excellent showing. But it was not until the present year that he came into his own as one of the great American mat men.

He met the champion Pole in a handicap match and Zybszko failed to throw the Norsk. He met Roller in a match in which the Seattle surgeon agreed, foolishly, to throw Ordemann once in an hour. Ordemann had the better of the match, according to the Minneapolis papers. The present season Ordemann has been meeting some of the best men on the mat. He has not met with a single defeat.

The greatest match in the career of the wrestler whom many believe next to Gotch, to be the greatest American in the business, will come when Ordemann meets Zybszko in a finish match at Minneapolis.

If Ordemann should defeat Zybszko he would win at once the right to wrestle Goth for the world's championship. If he even makes a good showing against the best that Europe can send over here, he will be entitled to a great deal of consideration, for Ordemann is a young man who will develop and who has not as yet reached the zenith of his powers.

Ordemann possesses one of the greatest bodies of any athlete before the public. His arms hang like giant cables at his sides. Gotch has said that the young Norwegian has the strongest pair of arms of any man with whom he has ever wrestled. With youth and great natural strength in his favor, and with the ability to learn, Ordemann should in the next two years become one of the livest candidates for the world's wrestling title.

For decades the great wrestlers of Europe have been considered invincible. Hackenschmidt was believed unbeatable. Americans who saw the Russian Lion wrestle in London, returned to this country with the statement that there was no wrestler in the United States who could hope to compete with the great Russian.

When Gotch won the championship from the conqueror of Jenkins, Rogers, Madrali and others, wrestling enthusiasts the world over, opened their eyes in astonishment. It was Gotch who first showed the possibilities of speed and brain. Ordemann has been a pupil of the great man from Iowa, and it remains to be seen whether he can perform the same feats that the young giant from Humboldt accomplished.

Palatial baseball plants are the rage of the enterprising manager. The owners of the Philadelphia American League team started the move toward parks that rivalled in architectural beauty and magnificence the old Coleseum of the ancient Rome. Pittsburg followed the example of the Philadelphia people, and now Comiskey was awarded the contract for a magnificent new park and the New York American club will have a stadium that, if report is true, will be one of the finest athletic enclosures in the country.

The building of palatial parks only goes to emphasize the fact that baseball has become a business, in just as true a sense as the big industries of the country. Millions have been invested in the parks of the country, and the next few years promise to see baseball parks that will be an inspiring monument to the permanency of the game.

Yesterday the managers of the Duluth Ski club sent a telegram to North Yakima, Wash., requesting that James J. Jeffries and Frank Gotch be the guests of the club at the ski tournament that will be held on Chester hill the following week.

If the two famous athletes can find it possible to attend the ski jumping, they will see a sight that will open their eyes to the strenuous sport of the inhabitants of the north country. People who have never witnessed a ski tournament are amazed and awe-inspired by the wonderful jumps that are made.

Charles H. Zuber, sporting editor for Charles P. Taft's Cincinnati newspaper, has been let loose from the job. It all happened over a joke.

Charles Dooln, catcher and recently appointed manager of the Philadelphia National league club, was due to play at one of the Cincinnati theaters. In a joking manner Zuber suggested to the house manager that he ask Dooin to call and pay his respects to his new boss, meaning Taft, who is credited with being the man behind in the deal that is supposed to place Philadelphia in the syndicate baseball ranks.

The allusion to the ownership of little brother Charlie so nettled that boy, or man, that he sent for his scribe and told him to gather any personal property he might have in the office and vamoose. Mr. Taft placed emphasis upon speed.

The incident might lead to the surmise that there was much of truth in the belief that Brother Charles was really the true owner of the Philadelphia club.

John L. Sullivan has evidently builded better than he knew. From all over the country are being unearthed dark secrets in the career of the one-time Boston hero. John L. started the big retribution act by saying some very caustic things about one James J. Jeffries. He has probably started something that he cannot finish.

Since Jeffries has been champion there have been hundreds of critics who have been comparing him with John L. Sullivan. If we may believe some of the stories that are being printed at the present time, Sullivan dodged the really great fighters of his time and generation. The old gentleman has had a very stormy and strenuous career; he should be allowed to rest, peaceful and secure, in his declining days.

POOL CHAMPION LOSES TITLE TO KEOGH OF ROCHESTER

THOMAS HUESTON.

New York, Feb. 3.—Jerome Keogh of Rochester, N. Y., won the world's champion pool title from Thomas Hueston, the title holder, in the last game of their 600-point match in New York last night. Keogh, with a high run of 32, secured the 190 points necessary to complete the 600, while Hueston obtained 178, with a high run of 23. Twenty-six frames were played.

RICH PRIZES FOR RIDERS

Officials of Duluth Ski Club Hang Up $350 for Professionals.

At a meeting held last evening in the office of Dr. H. Hovde, president of the Duluth Ski club, it was decided to offer as large an amount for cash prizes for the ski tournament of Feb. 12, as the rules of the national association will permit. A sum of $350 was voted for prizes for the professional riders. The amateurs will receive prizes costing $100.

In addition to the cash prizes received by the professionals and the handsome trophies received by the winners of the amateur class, the winner of each class will receive a gold medal. There will also be some special prizes offered for character, longest standing jump, etc.

A Duluth citizen has offered special cash prizes for the best showing of any of the Duluth riders. This will be open only to local riders. There will be great rivalry between Ole Fiering and John Evenson for the prize for local riders.

A banquet will follow the tournament and will be free to all ski riders participating in the tournament.

Three of the crack riders of the local club will be entered in the Red Wing tournament next Sunday. Ole Fiering, John Evenson and Arnold Olson, the amateur, will represent the Duluth club. There is expected to be a great fight between Fiering and Evenson for honors.

LAMY SHOWS GREAT FORM

Amateur Champion Has Easy Time in the International Events.

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Feb. 3.—Six events were run off yesterday afternoon at the annual international outdoor skating championship on Saranac lake. Edmund Lamy, the half-mile one-mile and three-mile champion, came in far ahead of his opponents in the heats in which he participated. W. G. Finlayson of Montreal clipped off two-fifths of a second from the 220-yard hurdle record. The summeries:

220-yards—First heat: Won by Phil Kearney, Brooklyn; W. G. Finlayson, Montreal, second; Joey Miller, third. Time, 21 seconds.

Second heat—Won by Edmund Lamy, Saranac Lake; Fred Robson, Toronto, second; R. W. Wheeler, Montreal, third. Time, 20 4-5 seconds.

Half-mile — First heat: Won by Kearney, Brooklyn; Robson, second; A. Mason, Montreal, third. Time, 1:36.

Second heat: Won by Lamy; Wheeler, second; Miller, third. Time, 1:35 2-5.

One mile—Won by Robson; Kearney, second; Parent, third. Time, 3:22.

Second heat, won by Lamy; Miller, second; Wheeler, third. Time 3:15 4-5.

220-yard hurdles—Won by W. G. Finlayson, Montreal; Robson, second; W. H. Jackson, Montreal, third. Time, 25 seconds.

Three miles—Won by Lamy; Wheeler, second; Kearney, third.; Miller, fourth; Parent, fifth. Time 10 minutes 3 seconds.

Finals in these events will be decided tomorrow.

ALL STARS AND COMPANY A.

Indoor Baseball Game Will Be Played for Charitable Cause.

An indoor baseball game between the crack Company A team of the Military league and the All Stars, one of the strongest teams of the Northwest, will be played at the Armory Saturday evening. The baseball game will be followed by a dance.

All of the proceeds of the game will be devoted to Private Hagberg of Company A, who about two months ago lost an eye through a shooting accident while practicing on the rifle range. The young man has been ill since the accident and has been unable to work.

In addition to the worthy cause for which the game will be played, it should be a very good contest, as the contesting teams are two of the strongest indoor aggregations in this part of the country.

Ulrich and Lewis.

Curley Ulrich has signed articles to meet Jack Lewis, a welterweight, on Feb. 9 at Fargo. Ulrich knows little of Lewis, but is confident of winning from him.

Cline Defeats Demarest.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—Harry Cline of Philadelphia defeated Calvin Demarest of Chicago last night in the scheduled game of the 18.2 balk-line billiard match for the national championship by a score of 500 to 452.

DISSIPATION BY JOCKEYS

Few Knights of the Saddle Last More Than a Few Years.

Many Riders Penniless When They Become Too Heavy to Accept Mounts.

"Back a couple of weeks ago at Latonia I was maced for zwei bone not by a little sad mite of a man who only a few years ago used to have columns about his midget personality in the sporting pages every few days," said Barney Schreiber recently. "I made it a ten-spot, because the sight of the little shabby snoozer down to that stage of it made me a bit gulpy. I knew that he'd amble right over to the books and bet the ten in two-buck installments, but that made no difference—I could not help but feel sorry for him. He bet it all right, in the two-spot allotments, and he didn't snag a win out of either. But that isn't the nub. The nub is that the wretched little mite of a down and outer—he isn't much past his majority now—was a noted jockey only a few years ago. He wasn't the actual premier of any year, but was among the first flight cracks of the pigskin, and $25,000 a year wasn't any unusual yankdown for him.

"At that he wouldn't behave. He fell to fumbling with old juice that throws so many of 'em. He got his monkey eyes on the shapely ones of the extravaganzas. He drifted into shady turf company, and these driftwood characters of the game bled him and then showed him the profit he could bring out by indulging in the strong-arm riding business.

"He began pulling them discreetly at first, and then in so raw a way that he wouldn't mind grabbing them almost in front of the judges' stand. Of course, he got the mallet. He was ruled off. There was never any chance for him to be reinstated, even if his habits hadn't become impossible. And now he is a shabby mottle-faced cigarette-eating, whisky-consuming miserable little portion of a man, shambling around the track, boning old friends for the little notes—this boy who in his four or five years of riding cleaned up something like $25,000 and had comfort and opulence for life in his hands.

$30,000 Stacked Up.

"Remember, I do, one day a year or so after this kid had started to chisel himself out of the good things of life. I sat alongside of him in a parlor car, going to one of the New York tracks. He'd ridden a lot of horses for me, and I'd known him since his apprenticeship days. He was at that time tossing his money right and left. I said to him:

"'Boy, you've got a few coppers tucked away beneath the oilcloth on the top shelf of the cupboard, haven't you?'

"'Oh, I'm worth about $80,000 right now,' he replied, swelling out his weskit till it was all of 22 inches in circumference.

"'Oh, y'are, hep?' said I. 'Well, that's a pretty cunnin' stack of blues for a half portion of sauce tartare like you to own, isn't it? Now, how long do you expect to go on riding and winning the way you're behaving?'

"'Oh, till Bill Daly's elected president,' replied the midget, jauntily. Let's spiel about something else."

"'Now, we'll talk about something else,' I said, 'but just hold on a minute, son. Let me slip you a word or so. Now, what you want to do is to get up in time for an early breakfast tomorrow morning. Then, after you have your Hamburg grapes and Spanish mackerel and coffee and rolls, you want to hike right down town to some reliable financial institution—you can get the right advice about that if you look for it—and tie up say $75,000 of the $80,000 you've got kicking around. Put that little bundle of blue checks in an annuity. Soak it away hard and tight, so that you'll never be able to loosen it with a machine gun. That's what you want to do. Got it?'

Begged Him to Ride.

"Easily the snoozer staked me to the long yawn. That's all. And a couple of weeks ago he maced me for a two-bucker at Latonia.

"It's the devil how little profit jockeys take from the examples of their predecessors who've gone down and out through bad behavior. There is another one of 'em now mooching around New York with nothing.

"Yes, he was a saddle wiz in his day, and he really did put away a chunk while he was riding and getting the money—invested it in Brooklyn real estate.

"Wise and dignified old men, owners of thoroughbreds and millionaires on the side, had to beg this one when he was riding free lance to take the leg upon their horses.

"So the kale poured in on him like a Bay of Biscay tide; the right kind of Wall street tips reached him, so that when he began to fill up and become too heavy to ride he had the big bundle, as I say, soaked away in first-rate Brooklyn property. But it faded. He began to play 'em from the ground.

"Certainly, playing the horses when you're a great and successful jockey, able to get back at the fellows who slip you dead ones, and playing the horses when you're just one of the push who imagine they're in possession of the sweet things are two wholly different matters, and this former jockey boy found that out to the tune of absolute bustedness within exactly two years. He never had a look-in as a horse gambler. And now he's trudging around New York, wearing a pretty bum overcoat.

J. Barleycorn Cleaned Him.

"Hark back to Patsy McCue! There weren't many finer natural race riders in this or any other country in his day than this same Patsy. We all remember the day, eight or nine years ago, when he pulled five of his six mounts first past the wire and got the sixth in the place. There wasn't anything on earth that that kid couldn't have had if he'd only have kept straight. But John Barleycorn claimed him for a prize package when he was at the age when most boys are playing shinny on vacant lot and the coin slipped through his fingers like soup through a strainer.

"Remembrance brings me back to the time I saw him blow $1,000 on champagne at an all-night session in the cafe of a Broadway sporting hotel. He just ordered the fool wealthy water to be brought up in basketfuls for all hands that nudged into the place, and when Patsy got out of the Turkish bath $1,000 was the perfectly right bill that the hotel cafe people handed him.

"Eventually this jockey got married to a fine little wife, and she tried to restrain him, and did for a little while, by the method of making him take the pledge before a priest up at Saratoga. But he soon broke out again, and, a tramp, although a mere boy, he died in the Providence hospital in Washington a year or so ago.

"It's queer, I call it, that so many of these jockeys go the profligate route, even if the booze or other forms of dissipation don't get them. Mighty few of the crack saddle boys of recent years have salted their coin. There are exceptions, of course. Walter Miller will quit with about $300,000.

"Bustling Arthur Redfern put a big package away—his father was his manager—before he had to quit on account of his weight. Danny Maher, who's going to quit riding at the end of the coming racing season in England, is worth $800,000, I am told by people who spent some weeks with him at Newmarket last summer."

PRELIMINARIES ARRANGED.

Two Bouts Will Precede Zybszko-Person Match Friday Night.

Two preliminaries were arranged yesterday for the Zybszko-Person match of tomorrow evening. Olaf Johnson, a heavyweight of Marshfield, Wis., who has come to the Head of the Lakes, and Carl Nelson will wrestle in the semi-windup. Nelson is the holder of the Head of the Lakes middleweight championship. Johnson comes from Fred Beell's home town and knows something of the game.

William Trepanier, instructor of the Duluth Athletic club, and Al Harper, a middleweight wrestler of the West Duluth Athletic club, will furnish the curtain raiser of the show. The first bout of the evening will be called at 8:30.

BIG RACE IN JUNE.

Annual Harvard-Yale Race Will Be Rowed Latter Part of Month.

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 3.—The preliminary arrangements fixing June 30 for the annual Harvard-Yale boat race at New London, Conn., were completed yesterday. The principal race will be rowed at 4:30 o'clock downstream from Red Top to the railroad bridge, a slight tide being with the crews.

The freshmen will race in the morning at 10:30, covering the two-mile course upstream from the railroad bridge.

The varsity fours will race immediately after the freshmen, two miles upstream, from the navy yard to Red Top.

Saturday Night Draw.

The Saturday night draw at the Duluth Curling club follows:

Magner vs. Richardson in Manley-McLennan.
Hall vs. McLennan in St. Louis.
Currier vs. Gridley in Bagley.
Dunlop vs. Harris in Herald.
West vs. Rouleau in St. Louis.

HE'S OFF!

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 3.—Edward Payson Weston, pedestrian, left Pasadena yesterday morning on a walk across the continent, which he expects to complete in ninety days. He will follow the route of the Santa Fe railroad to Chicago.

Feathers Fight Draw.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 3.—Johnny Kildane of Cleveland and Jack White of Chicago, featherweights, fought a slow bout to an eight-round draw at Windsor, Can., last night. Both men showed clever footwork and finished in good condition.

Hoppe Leads Morningstar.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 3.—Willie Hoppe got away to a flying start in his 1,500-point championship 18.2 balk-line billiard match with Ora Morningstar, which began last night by scoring 500 points to Morningstar's 312.

WATER POWER TO BE CONSOLIDATED

Federal Hydrographer Publishes Bulletin Dealing With That Source.

Washington, Feb. 3.—Consolidation of water power control in the United States is inevitable, but the ultimate control will be in the hands of the government, is the assertion made in a bulletin on the subject just issued by the United States geological survey.

Marshall Leighton, chief hydrographer of the survey, in a preface to the bulletin, declares there is a menace to American industrial leadership in the present situation of the American unpreparedness to meet the new questions involved in power development in the United States in connection with the great advance made abroad in this direction. He declares that certain great consolidations of water power interests have taken place during the last few years, which with the appearance of the names of a few persons among the officers or in the directorates of a large number of water power companies point unmistakably to a concentration of ownership in several groups that might consolidate or at least effect a community of interest.

No Water Power Policy.

This nation, he says, has now no water power policy worthy of the name. It must therefore, he declares, either meet the situation with some sort of comprehensive plan as that recommended by President Taft in his conservation message to congress, or else give way to countries which have well-defined policies.

Mr. Leighton urges the need for concerted state or national action on the question. He cites opinions to show the right of the Federal government to control water power on navigable streams and tributaries and to make charges for water power.

The water power sites of Europe, he declares, are close to the great markets of the world, and the cheapest sources of energy are going to be used without reference to any particular flag. He asks if there is any one in the United States so confident of this country's leadership as to assert that the wholesale development of these large and cheap powers will not seriously affect this nation's indusrial status.

He concludes with the declaration that the solution of the problem lies in legislative regulation of water power development.

OVER 700,000 ACRES UNDER HOMESTEAD ACT.

Washington, Feb. 3.—Approximately 769,167 acres of land were designated yesterday by Secretary Ballinger, of the interior department as open under the enlarged homestead act. Of this amount 672,840 acres are in Wyoming, 35,540 in Montana and 61,767 in New Mexico. In aid of proposed legislation affecting the disposal of water power sites, the secretary temporarily withdrew from all forms of entry or disposal 3,661 acres along Clark Fork in Montana and Idaho.

Proposed legislation affecting the use and disposition of petroleum deposits on the public domain caused Mr. Ballinger also to withdraw temporarily 448,000 acres of land in California, making the total area of petroleum withdrawals in California to date 2,400,453 acres.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

On request of Alderman Moore the following report from the Committee on Streets, Alleys and Sidewalks was taken up, out of its regular order.

To the Common Council:

Your Committee on Streets, Alleys and Sidewalks, which was appointed and designated to hear and consider the petition for the vacation of that portion of Twenty-eighth avenue east lying in Willard's Addition to Duluth, did, pursuant to notice published by the city clerk, meet in the city clerk's office, in the city hall, in the city of Duluth, Jan. 31, 1910, at 3:30 o'clock p. m., at which meeting no one appeared in opposition to the proposed vacation.

The reason set forth for the vacation is that since the platting of said addition, Wallace avenue has been extended through said addition nearly parallel with and adjacent to the line of Twenty-eighth avenue east, thus making said avenue useless as a street. Your committee concurs with this idea and recommends the adoption of the following resolution:

W. S. MOORE.
J. E. FOUBISTER.
JOHN H. HOGAN,
Committee.

Resolved, That all that portion of Twenty-eighth avenue east in Willard's Addition to Duluth is hereby declared vacated.

Alderman Moore moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

Passed Jan. 31, 1910.
Approved Feb. 2, 1910.

Alderman Moore was excused from the council.

The ordinance entitled "An ordinance granting to the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific Railroad company, its successors and assigns, a right-of-way over, under, across and along certain streets, avenues, alleys and public grounds in the city of Duluth, with the right, privilege and authority to construct, lay down, maintain and operate railway tracks and facilities over, under, across and along the same, and imposing certain obligations on said company," was read. The following committee report was submitted thereon:

Duluth, Minn., Jan. 29, 1910.

To the President and Common Council of the City of Duluth:

Gentlemen—Your joint committee on Ordinances and Resolutions and Streets, Alleys and Sidewalks, to which was referred the ordinance granting to the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific Railroad company, a franchise, have during the past week been called upon to consider the question of eliminating from said franchise the so-called "Rate Clause," being Section 20 thereof. It appears to your committee, after hearing and investigation, that this franchise cannot be accepted with this clause in it owing to the fact that its acceptance would jeopardize important interests of the Canadian Northern railway in Canada. These Canadian interests are of such magnitude that it is clear to your committee that if the retention of the rate clause in the ordinance were the only alternative the railway company would be obliged to forego the building of the Duluth line.

We find further that the legal effect of the Rate Clause now in the franchise is to bind only the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific Railroad company, a Minnesota corporation. Therefore, the Rate Clause will, as we are advised by the city attorney, be operative only upon the lines of that company in the states. Said company has no lines and no authority to operate in Canada. It is also true that in case there is discrimination against Duluth shipments, or shipments by way of Duluth, the same, so far as they are made within the states, can be corrected by application to the state railroad and warehouse commission or interstate commerce commission.

Your committee was further advised by letter from the traffic commission of the Duluth Commercial club, addressed to the city attorney, that this commission, after a thorough investigation, has concluded "that the Rate Clause in the franchise, now pending before the Council, must and should be eliminated."

We, therefore, recommend that the franchise be amended:

First. By striking out therefrom the whole of Section 20 thereof.

Second. By striking out from Section 21 thereof the words "and the making of rates."

Third. By changing the numbering of Sections 21 and 22 to 20 and 21 respectively.

We further recommend that instead of the amendment heretofore offered to paragraph 16 that the following be added at the end of the original paragraph 16, towit: "and shall establish and maintain, or cause to be established and maintained within the limits of the City of Duluth, one or more roundhouses, one or more machine and repair shops, and adequate terminals and yards."

Your committee has declined to eliminate from the ordinance several provisions to which the representatives of the railroad company objected most strenuously. The principal one being the provision requiring the railroad company to bear the entire expense of reconstruction and future maintenance of the Oneota Street bridge. Your committee could not see its way clear to modify this provision, especially in view of the public inconvenience and damage being done to city streets by elevating and depressing them and by building trestles over and along same.

Your committee has from the outset been informed that the company could not come in upon any other route than the one under consideration. We, therefore, submit that portion of the franchise without recommendation, but beg to report that in the opinion of your committee the ordinance is in all other respects a fair and satisfactory one to the city, and the road is one from which we will derive great benefit.

We, therefore, recommend that the ordinance be adopted with the foregoing and previously offered amendments, and that the ordinance be passed as amended, subject to such determination of the route question as may be made by the council as a whole without recommendation in regard thereto from this committee, respectfully submitted,

JOSEPH SHARTEL,
ALEX G. McKNIGHT,
CHARLES J. HECTOR,
W. S. MOORE,
JOHN HOGAN,
Committee.

The communication referred to in above report, addressed to the city attorney, was read and ordered filed.

Alderman Shartel moved that the ordinance be amended as recommended by the joint committee in report just presented. The ordinance was declared so amended by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

Alderman Foubister moved to amend the ordinance by adding, at the end of the amendment submitted by Alderman Getchell and adopted, providing that trestles shall not be filled in between Fifty-ninth avenue west and Grand avenue, the following: "And that the construction for the entire distance between said streets shall be steel trestles."

The amendment was declared lost upon the following vote:

Yeas—Aldermen Foubister, Getchell—2.

Nays—Aldermen Bloedel, Hector, Hoar, Hogan, MacDonell, McKnight, Merritt, Moe, Shartel, President Jordan—10.

Alderman McKnight moved that the route be modified to such an extent that the road shall not cross Cody street in any way, but shall run south of said street until it crosses Central avenue.

Alderman McKnight moved that action on the amendment and on the ordinance be postponed for one week. The motion was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

Alderman Shartel moved that the city clerk be directed to notify the people of West Duluth that the ordinance would come up for final action at the meeting of the council to be held next Monday Feb. 7.

The motion was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

To the Common Council:

Your Committee on Streets, Alleys and Sidewalks, to which was referred estimates to contractors, having considered the same, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

J. E. FOUBISTER,
JOHN HOGAN,
Committee.

Resolved, That the estimate to M. Fitzgerald on his contract for reducing the grade of Piedmont avenue from Third street to Tenth street is hereby allowed, and it is hereby directed that an order be drawn on the permanent improvement revolving fund to pay the same.

Alderman Hogan moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

Passed Jan. 31, 1910.
Approved Feb. 2, 1910.

MOTIONS AND RESOLUTIONS.

By Alderman Shartel:

Resolved, That Charles Schober is hereby granted permission to connect his premises, the west 30 feet of lot 13, East Superior street, with the sanitary sewer in First avenue east, the sewer in Superior street being of insufficient depth to allow the proper connection with the basement of the new building proposed to be erected by Mr. Schober; provided that the work shall be done under the direction of plans drawn by the city engineer, and further provided that this permission shall be only temporary and subject to revocation at any time by the council.

Alderman Shartel moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

Passed Jan. 31, 1910.
Approved Feb. 2, 1910.

By Alderman Foubister:

Resolved, That the time specified in resolution of this council adopted Jan. 3, 1910, for the payment of assessment by John A. Johnson, against lots 6, 7, 8 and 9, block 52, Portland division, is hereby extended to Feb. 5, 1910, under the same conditions as specified in said original resolution.

Alderman Foubister moved the adoption of the resolution and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

Passed Jan. 31, 1910.
Approved Feb. 2, 1910.

REPORTS OF STANDING COMMITTEES.

To the Common Council:

Your Committee on Auditing and County Conference, to which was referred reports of receiving and disbursing officers, and comptroller's statement of audit thereof, for the month of December, 1909, find said reports to be apparently correct and recommend that they be received and placed on file.

LUCIEN MERRITT,
Committee.

The report was received.

To the Common Council:

Your Committee on Auditing and County Conference, to which was referred the report of the Board of Public Works, having considered the recommendation contained therein that an additional $50,000 of permanent improvement revolving fund bonds be issued, is of the opinion that this question should receive the careful consideration of the Council, and we believe that the consideration thereof properly rests with the Committees on Streets, Alleys and Sidewalks and Finance. We therefore recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

LUCIEN MERRITT,
Committee.

Resolved, That the Committees of this Council on Streets, Alleys and Sidewalks and Finance are hereby directed to consider the recommendation of the Board of Public Works that an additional $50,000 of permanent improvement revolving fund bonds be issued, and report thereon to this council at their early convenience.

Alderman Merritt moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

Passed, Jan. 31, 1910.
Approved, Feb. 2, 1910.

To the Common Council:

Your committee on Claims, to which was referred pay rolls for the month of January, 1910, having considered the same, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

JOHN J. MOE,
LUCIEN MERRITT,

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

On request of Alderman Moore the following report from the Committee on Streets, Alleys and Sidewalks was taken up, out of its regular order.

To the Common Council:

Your Committee on Streets, Alleys and Sidewalks, which was appointed and designated to hear and consider the petition for the vacation of that portion of Twenty-eighth avenue east lying in Willard's Addition to Duluth, did, pursuant to notice published by the city clerk, meet in the city clerk's office, in the city hall, in the city of Duluth, Jan. 31, 1910, at 3:30 o'clock p. m., at which meeting no one appeared in opposition to the proposed vacation.

The reason set forth for the vacation is that since the platting of said addition, Wallace avenue has been extended through said addition nearly parallel with and adjacent to the line of Twenty-eighth avenue east, thus making said avenue useless as a street. Your committee concurs with this idea and recommends the adoption of the following resolution:

W. S. MOORE,
J. E. FOUBISTER,
JOHN H. HOGAN,
Committee.

Resolved, That all that portion of Twenty-eighth avenue east in Willard's Addition to Duluth is hereby declared vacated.

Alderman Moore moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

Passed Jan. 31, 1910.
Approved Feb. 2, 1910.

Alderman Moore was excused from the council.

The ordinance entitled "An ordinance granting to the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific Railroad company, its successors and assigns, a right-of-way over, under, across and along certain streets, avenues, alleys and public grounds in the city of Duluth, with the right, privilege and authority to construct, lay down, maintain and operate railway tracks and facilities over, under, across and along the same, and imposing certain obligations on said company," was read. The following committee report was submitted thereon:

Duluth, Minn., Jan. 29, 1910.

To the President and Common Council of the City of Duluth:

Gentlemen—Your joint committee on Ordinances and Resolutions and Streets, Alleys and Sidewalks, to which was referred the ordinance granting to the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific Railroad company, a franchise, have during the past week been called upon to consider the question of eliminating from said franchise the so-called "Rate Clause," being Section 20 thereof. It appears to your committee, after hearing and investigation, that this franchise cannot be accepted with this clause in it owing to the fact that its acceptance would jeopardize important interests of the Canadian Northern railway in Canada. These Canadian interests are of such magnitude that it is clear to your committee that if the retention of the rate clause in the ordinance were the only alternative the railway company would be obliged to forego the building of the Duluth line.

We find further that the legal effect of the Rate Clause now in the franchise is to bind only the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific Railroad company, a Minnesota corporation. Therefore, the Rate Clause will, as we are advised by the city attorney, be operative only upon the lines of that company in the states. Said company has no lines and no authority to operate in Canada. It is also true that in case there is discrimination against Duluth shipments, or shipments by way of Duluth, the same, so far as they are made within the states, can be corrected by application to the state railroad and warehouse commission or interstate commerce commission.

Your committee was further advised by letter from the traffic commission of the Duluth Commercial club, addressed to the city attorney, that this commission, after a thorough investigation, has concluded "that the Rate Clause in the franchise, now pending before the Council, must and should be eliminated."

We, therefore, recommend that the franchise be amended:

First. By striking out therefrom the whole of Section 20 thereof.

Third. By changing the numbering of Sections 21 and 22 to 20 and 21 respectively.

We further recommend that instead of the amendment heretofore offered to paragraph 16 that the following be added at the end of the original paragraph 16, towit: "and shall establish and maintain, or cause to be established and maintained within the limits of the City of Duluth, one or more roundhouses, one or more machine and repair shops, and adequate terminals and yards."

Your committee has declined to eliminate from the ordinance several provisions to which the representatives of the railroad company objected most strenuously. The principal one being the provision requiring the railroad company to bear the entire expense of reconstruction and future maintenance of the Oneota Street bridge. Your committee could not see its way clear to modify this provision, especially in view of the public inconvenience and damage being done to city streets by elevating and depressing them and by building trestles over and along same.

Your committee has from the outset been informed that the company could not come in upon any other route than the one under consideration. We, therefore, submit that portion of the franchise without recommendation, but beg to report that in the opinion of your committee the ordinance is in all other respects a fair and satisfactory one to the city, and the road is one from which we will derive great benefit.

We, therefore, recommend that the ordinance be adopted with the foregoing and previously offered amendments, and that the ordinance be passed as amended, subject to such determination of the route question as may be made by the council as a whole without recommendation in regard thereto from this committee, respectfully submitted.

JOSEPH SHARTEL,
ALEX G. McKNIGHT,
CHARLES J. HECTOR,
W. S. MOORE,
JOHN HOGAN,
Committee.

The communication referred to in above report, addressed to the city attorney, was read and ordered filed.

Alderman Shartel moved that the ordinance be amended as recommended by the joint committee in report just presented. The ordinance was declared so amended by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

Alderman Foubister moved to amend the ordinance by adding, at the end of the amendment submitted by Alderman Getchell and adopted, providing that trestles shall not be filled in between Fifty-ninth avenue west and Grand avenue, the following: "And that the construction for the entire distance between said streets shall be steel trestles."

The amendment was declared lost upon the following vote:

Yeas—Aldermen Foubister, Getchell—2.

Nays—Aldermen Bloedel, Hector, Hoar, Hogan, MacDonell, McKnight, Merritt, Moe, Shartel, President Jordan—10.

Alderman McKnight moved that the route be modified to such an extent that the road shall not cross Cody street in any way, but shall run south of said street until it crosses Central avenue.

Alderman McKnight moved that action on the amendment and on the ordinance be postponed for one week. The motion was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

Alderman Shartel moved that the city clerk be directed to notify the people of West Duluth that the ordinance would come up for final action at the meeting of the council to be held next Monday Feb. 7.

The motion was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

To the Common Council:

Your Committee on Streets, Alleys and Sidewalks, to which was referred estimates to contractors, having considered the same, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

J. E. FOUBISTER,
JOHN HOGAN,
Committee.

Resolved, That the estimate to M. Fitzgerald on his contract for reducing the grade of Piedmont avenue from Third street to Tenth street is hereby allowed, and it is hereby directed that an order be drawn on the permanent improvement revolving fund to pay the same.

Alderman Hogan moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

Passed Jan. 31, 1910.
Approved Feb. 2, 1910.

MOTIONS AND RESOLUTIONS.

By Alderman Shartel:

Resolved, That Charles Schober is hereby granted permission to connect his premises, the west 30 feet of lot 13, East Superior street, with the sanitary sewer in First avenue east, the sewer in Superior street being of insufficient depth to allow the proper connection with the basement of the new building proposed to be erected by Mr. Schober; provided that the work shall be done under the direction of plans drawn by the city engineer, and further provided that this permission shall be only temporary and subject to revocation at any time by the council.

Alderman Shartel moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

Passed Jan. 31, 1910.
Approved Feb. 2, 1910.

By Alderman Foubister:

Resolved, That the time specified in resolution of this council adopted Jan. 3, 1910, for the payment of assessment by John A. Johnson, against lots 6, 7, 8 and 9, block 72, Portland division, is hereby extended to Feb. 5, 1910, under the same conditions as specified in said original resolution.

Alderman Foubister moved the adoption of the resolution and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

Passed Jan. 31, 1910.
Approved Feb. 2, 1910.

REPORTS OF STANDING COMMITTEES

To the Common Council:

Your Committee on Auditing and County Conference, to which was referred reports of receiving and disbursing officers, and comptroller's statement of audit thereof, for the month of December, 1909, find said reports to be apparently correct and recommend that they be received and placed on file.

LUCIEN MERRITT,
Committee.

The report was received.

To the Common Council:

Your Committee on Auditing and County Conference, to which was referred the report of the Board of Public Works, having considered the recommendation contained therein that an additional $50,000 of permanent improvement revolving fund bonds be issued, is of the opinion that this question should receive the careful consideration of the Council, and we believe that the consideration thereof properly rests with the Committees on Streets, Alleys and Sidewalks and Finance. We therefore recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

LUCIEN MERRITT,
Committee.

Resolved, That the Committees of this Council on Streets, Alleys and Sidewalks and Finance are hereby directed to consider the recommendation of the Board of Public Works that an additional $50,000 of permanent improvement revolving fund bonds be issued, and report thereon to this council at their early convenience.

Alderman Merritt moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

Passed Jan. 31, 1910.
Approved, Feb. 2, 1910.

To the Common Council:

Your committee on Claims, to which was referred pay rolls for the month of January, 1910, having considered the same, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

JOHN J. MOE,
LUCIEN MERRITT,
Committee.

Resolved, That pay rolls of the several departments of the city for the month of January, 1910, be and hereby are approved, and it is hereby directed that orders be drawn on the city treasurer to pay the same, as follows:

Resolved further, that pay rolls of the fire department, in the sum of $8,266.34, and of the water and light department, in the sum of $6,434.75, be and hereby are approved, and said departments are hereby authorized to draw orders on the fire department fund and the water and light plant fund, respectively, to pay the same.

Alderman Moe moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

Passed Jan. 31, 1910.
Approved Feb. 2, 1910.

To the Common Council:

Your committee on Claims, to which was referred bills, having considered the same, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

JOHN J. MOE,
LUCIEN MERRITT,
Committee.

Resolved, That bills against the city are hereby allowed, and it is hereby directed that orders be drawn on the city treasurer to pay the same as follows:

Alderman Moe moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

Passed Jan. 31, 1910.
Approved, Feb. 2, 1910.

To the Common Council:

Your Committee on Drains, Sewers and Sanitation, to which was referred award of contract, having considered the same, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

J. A. MacDONELL,
Committee.

Resolved, That the contract awarded by the Board of Public Works to Williams & Norquist for the construction of a sanitary sewer in Twenty-fourth avenue east, from Branch street to the sewer in Greysolon road, is hereby approved.

Alderman MacDonell moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

Passed Jan. 31, 1910.
Approved Feb. 2, 1910.

To the Common Council:

Your Committee on Drains, Sewers and Sanitation, to which was referred estimates to contractors, having considered the same, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

MARKET IS DEPRESSED

Light Trading in Wheat Options and Prices Go Lower.

Flax Advances Sharply in Narrow Market on Small Buying Order.

Duluth Board of Trade, Feb. 3.—The wheat market was depressed today and opened lower than yesterday's close. Following a slight advance at the opening caused by buying by scalpers who got in the market from force of habit, wheat declined and sagged throughout the remainder of a session characterized by light trading.

The near option in wheat opened at $1.10½ and advanced to $1.10¾@1.10⅞, then declined to $1.10½, $1.10¼, up to $1.10⅜@1.10½, down to $1.10@1.10⅛, up to $1.10⅝, closing at that price bid, ¼c under yesterday's close.

Flax opened steady and the near option declined ¼c in sympathy with wheat to $2.15 and gained ½c, jumping to $2.19½ when a speculator purchased 2,000 bu. The price was unsustained and May declined to $2.17, closed at $2.17½.

Primary receipts, which continue heavy, a continuation of the big movement in the Northwest, a slackening in the flour demand, lower cables, an easier cash demand and increased offerings from Russia, Argentina and Australia caused American markets to decline and made the undertone decidedly soft.

Nearly all of the local traders were bearish, and the leading bulls admitted that prices probably would go lower. There was plenty of wheat to sell, but the demand was light, the flour mills being only moderate buyers and speculators being too bearishly inclined to take on additional long commitments. The market was purely professional, with light trading.

The receipts in the Northwest are running several times the amount received last year and stocks now are rapidly increasing, the millers being in a less advantageous position. They are not buying as heavily either of futures or spot wheat. The farmer apparently is feeding out considerable grain despite many reports to the contrary. The railroad situation is improving and most traders look for heavy receipts for some time to come. The American Society of Equity had placed a price of $1.25 for the current crop, but members are said to be in a covering attitude toward the market and are feeding out some of their supplies at the comparatively high prices, being willing to take chances for top notch prices on part of their crop, but not the major portion of it.

The outlook for the next two days is bearish and statistics which will be issued as usual Monday will offer little comfort for the immediate future to the bulls. Several interior mills, Minneapolis and Chicago wires said, had canceled orders for cash wheat recently purchased. Country mills are issuing pessimistic reports, and the city mills are having a lighter trade. Two small Minneapolis mills of the Consolidated company closed down yesterday for repairs, and this led to rumors that two or three large mills would be closed because of a slackening demand for flour. Telegrams to local brokers did not confirm this rumor, but one wire said that it is probable that one or two mills will be closed. Special dispatches to The Herald indicated that there is little probability of any of the mills being closed for commercial reasons. There was little buying today by the interior mills which seem to have good supplies on hand.

Although the available wheat in store at Chicago is practically tied up, that market led in the declines today along with St. Louis. A few short sellers were active and the demand was poor. Winnipeg was weak on easy Manitoba offerings, which commanded prices to the foreigner and which were not taken even then. Ocean freight rates to Antwerp were reduced 1 penny, but at noon no bookings had been made either in wheat or corn. Liverpool closed ½@⅞d lower on account of liberal Australian and Argentine offerings and heavier Russian shipments. The wheat shipments this week from Argentina are estimated at 2,400,000 bu compared with 952,000 bu last week. The export movement is expected to continue. The foreigner is seeking Argentine offerings at lower prices, and it is probable that the effect of the foreign manipulation will be bearish until the desired quantity of Argentine has been accumulated. Argentina is now in a position to ship and the foreign trader apparently has the upper hand. Paris was steady on account of the cash demand due to supplies needed for the destitute people who were sufferers from the recent floods. The Liverpool market's weakness was enhanced by realizing by recent purchasers on the continued decline in the American markets. Some traders think there may be discrimination against American grains in foreign markets on account of the probable tariff war between the country and Germany and possibly other foreign nations. This idea has not become sufficiently important for lengthy elucidation, but it is given for what it is worth.

Crop reports from the Southwest are being given more attention now on account of the usual fear that there may be manipulation in the near option. The outlook for the growing crop, in general, appears to be good, but some reports from Kansas and other portions of the Southwest, are distinctly bullish. Mr. Leslie, cashier of a Lyons, Kan. bank, who has long resided in that state said in an interview in the Kansas City Drovers Telegram that 50 per cent of the wheat in Rice, Barton, Reno and McPherson counties is dead from alternate freezing and thawing weather. These four counties are the four largest in Kansas. Kinyon, Barrell's crop expert, wired from Salina, Kan., which is nearer the center portion of the state, that the outlook for the crop is good and that the mills have fair sized supplies. Reports from St. Louis indicated that the wheat near St. Charles in the southern portion has been badly damaged by freezing following a thaw.

The flax market was fairly quiet, being characterized by light speculative buying toward midday, which caused an advance of 4¼c over the opening. The May option closed 2¼c up from yesterday's close. Finley Barrell & company said that the country's offerings are about in and that in a few days the offerings will be few and far between. It was reported today that European dealers have sold linseed oil for shipment to New York at 6@8c under current prices, duty paid.

Durum closed ¾c off, the high quotation for the day being 98c. Oats closed ⅛c up, rye was unchanged, barley the same and cash wheat was on a parity with May.

Chicago May closed ⅛@¼c off, Minneapolis unchanged to ⅛c off. New York ¼c off. Kansas City ⅛c off and St. Louis ¼@⅜c off.

MARKET GOSSIP

Spring wheat receipts at leading markets in January in recent years follows:

| Year— | Min'polls. | Duluth. | Chicago. | Totals. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1909 | 10,825,000 | 1,885,000 | 835,000 | 13,540,000 |
| 1908 | 5,211,000 | 836,000 | 294,000 | 6,341,000 |

Primary receipts of wheat, 832,000 bu; last year, 462,000 bu; shipments, 316,000 bu, last year 248,000 bu; clearances, wheat, 123,000 bu; flour, 6,000 bbl; wheat and flour, 150,000 bu.

Primary receipts of corn, 781,000 bu; last year, 355,000 bu; shipments, 491,000 bu; last year, 456,000 bu; clearances of corn, 378,000 bu.

Wheat stocks at the Head of the Lakes increased 294,000 bu in the last four days. Minneapolis stocks increased 450,000 bu in five days.

* * *

The decline in wheat late today was checked by buying against downs.

* * *

Winnipeg wired that the cash situation there was unchanged, the demand good and offerings light.

Cash at Minneapolis was 1½@2c over May, showing a slight improvement. Flour shipments amounted to 71,235 bbl and wheat shipments 70 cars against 34 last year.

Winnipeg received 8 cars of barley, 6 cars of flax and 65 of oats. Minneapolis got 25 cars of flax against 32 last year, 32 cars of oats, 55 of corn.

Broomhall wired from Liverpool: "Our Argentine agent estimates wheat shipments this week at 2,400,000 bu; last week, 952,000 bu; last year, 5,584,000 bu. Corn this week, 480,000 bu; last week, 358,000 bu; last year, 178,000 bu. The corn crop in the North promises to be a good yield. Liverpool—The wheat market developed heaviness with increased offerings and poor support, and opening values were ½@¾d lower, and during the morning showed a further decline of ¼@⅜d. Selling was in the way of realizing by recent purchases on the continued decline in American markets and lower Winnipeg market, with Manitoba offerings larger at a decline. A further incentive for selling was the expectation of larger shipments from Argentina this week and continued liberal Russian shipments, with Australia offering freely. There was a poor demand for both parcels and cargoes, and cargoes were freely offered at a decline, and spot markets were easy and generally lower. At midday the market was weak and ⅞d to a penny lower than yesterday. Corn was easy at the start and ¼d lower, being influenced by the improved crop prospects in Argentina and larger La Plata cargoes, which are 3 pence lower. Following the opening, the market was very dull. Wheat cargoes arrived off coast, 2, and waiting orders, 2. Wheat cargoes in distant positions easy, with a small inquiry. Corn easy and offered at 1½@2 pence decline."

A large shipper from Dickinson, N. D., wired—"No wheeling, no sledding; no more grain for some time to come."

* * *

Price Current, said—"With little exception wheat crop maintaining good position. Where tops of plant appear brown, the root is not impaired. Interior grain marketings enlarged in various sections. Unfinished corn husking progressing favorably. Marketable hay getting reduced."

* * *

Foreign markets closed today as follows:

Liverpool—Wheat, ½@⅞d lower; corn, ⅜c lower. Berlin, wheat, ¼c lower. Budapest, wheat, ¾c higher. Paris, wheat and flour steady, unchanged.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Quickly Rallies After Having a Weak Opening.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—Wheat rallied slightly in the first hour today after a weak opening, prices steadying at ⅛@¼c lower than the previous close. Large arrivals and a repetition of cables telling of foreign weakness were the principal bearish factors. A fairly good demand in the pit stayed the decline which at the opening was ¼@⅝c. May advanced from $1.09⅞@1.10⅜, other futures steadying with less advance. Opening figures for May were at $1.09⅞@1.10⅛.

The market flucuated later in the session, May declining to $1.09⅜ and again advancing toward the close. The close was firm, with May at $1.10¼, which was ⅛@¼c lower than yesterday.

Corn started generally ⅛@¼c lower under the influence of comparatively large arrivals and the expectation of increased future receipts. In the first hour some firmness was developed by an improved demand which carried May prices from 66⅝c to 66⅝@66¾c. Opening figures for May were 66⅝@66½c.

The market kept generally firm through the remainder of the session, May advancing to 66¾c. The close was firm, with May at 66¾c, a price ⅛c higher than the final figures yesterday.

Oats at the outset eased off a shade to ¼c, and kept within narrow limits, developing some firmness on improved buying and generally regaining the initial decline in the first hour. Opening figures for May were 46⅜@46½c.

Easier conditions in the live hog market were reflected in the provisions pit by a decline of 2½ to 20c, pork showing the greatest slump. In the first hour some of the decline was recovered but prices variations were small. Opening figures for the May products were: Pork, $21.70@21.75; 15@20c lower; lard, $12.00@12.02, 7½@10c lower; ribs, $11.72@11.75, 2½@5c lower.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

May Wheat Price Fluctuates Within Narrow Range.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 3.—May wheat opened today ⅜c lower than yesterday's close, and after fluctuating in a range of ⅞c closed ¼-⅜c higher than the opening. The uneasiness prevailing in the stock market and financial circles was reflected in wheat. Lower cables, prospects of liberal Argentine shipments, continued heavy receipts at Minneapolis and a decline yesterday in cash premiums changed sentiment to the bear side. Howevr, the light stocks at all primary points continued a strong bullish factor. Prospects are that the heavy local movement will continue for a month or more. Local elevator stocks of wheat increased 450,000 bu for five days. Minneapolis today received 473 cars of wheat as compared with 257 cars a year ago. Duluth, 27 cars, against 13 cars; and Winnipeg, 109 cars against 39 cars. May opened $1.10⅛; high, $1.10⅝; low, $1.09⅝@1.09¾; closed, $1.10⅜@1.10½. July opened, $1.09¼; high, $1.09⅝@1.09¾; low, $1.09; close, $1.09⅝@1.09¾.

Cash wheat was steady with yesterday. Supplies were in excess of the demand and consequently the market continued slow. Demand was only fair, millers being the only buyers. No. 1 northern sold for 1@2c above the May option and No. 2 northern for 1c under to the even May price. Closing price on track: No. 1 northern $1.11½@1.12¼, to arrive $1.11@1.12¼; No. 2 northern, $1.09½@1.10¼, to arrive, $1.09@1.10¼; No. 3 wheat, $1.06½@1.09¼; No. 3 yellow corn, 58¾@59¾c; No. 3 white oats, 44¾@45c; No. 2 rye, 76¼@77¼c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,447 tons. There was no change in the market today. Demand continued good. Shipments heavy and prices firm. Bran in 100-lb sacks, $23.00@23.50.

Millers reported that sales of flour are booked daily for small amounts. Demand was generally considered fair. [illegible] Prices were unchanged. Shipments, 71,235 bbl. First patents, [illegible]; second patents, [illegible]; first clears, [illegible]; second clears, [illegible].

Flax—Receipts, [illegible]; year ago, [illegible]; shipments, [illegible]. [illegible] Closing price, $2.18¼.

Barley—Receipts, 68; year ago, 68; shipments, 37. The market was about steady. Demand was fair for both feeding and malting grades. Prices steady. Closing range, 58@65c.

ATTACK BY THE BEARS

Caused Violent Break in Stocks on New York Exchange.

Prices Rallied Toward Close, Which Was Strong and Animated.

New York, Feb. 3.—A flood of stocks was put on the market at the beginning of business today, and caused a violent break in prices. The declines ran from a large fraction to a point in practically all of the prominent issues except Reading, which was run up ¾. United States Steel, on 14,000 shares, sold at 80¼@80¾, compared with 80⅞ last night. Denver & Rio Grande broke 2½, American Cotton Oil at 2¼, Wabash preferred and Cleveland, C. C. & St. Louis, 1¾; American Smelting 1½, and Chesapeake & Ohio, Rock Island and Allis-Chalmers preferred, 1¼. A fractional rally followed the opening sales.

The rally carried Southern Pacific, United States Steel, Amalgamated Copper and a few other stocks back to yesterday's closing level, or slightly above.

A fresh outbreak of liquidation in the specialties then occurred and the whole market again slumped badly. United States Steel and Union Pacific sold at the lowest of the year, the former at 79¾ and the latter at 183½. American Cotton Oil dropped 3¾, American Hide & Leather preferred 3⅝, Westinghouse Electric 2½, Western Maryland certificates 2⅜, United States Rubber, National Enameling and International Paper preferred 2, and the rest of the list 1 to 1¾. Kansas & Texas preferred advanced 1¼.

Efforts were made to sustain United States Steel above 80. When it broke through that price to 78⅝, the fact was a signal for wholesale liquidation in all parts of the list. The leading speculative railroads and industrial stocks all broke 2@3 points. In special stocks, losses were even more severe. Vulcan Detinning preferred lost 7⅝, Wells-Fargo 7, Metropolitan Street railway 5, American Hide & Leather preferred and Federal Mining preferred 4¼, Westinghouse Eelectric, United States Rubber and American Car 4, Denver & Rio Grande and American Smelting 3⅝, and Consolidated Gas 3¼.

Feverish reaction of more than a point were poorly held and the tone remained much unsettled at noon. Bonds were weak.

Prices broke to new low levels during the noon hour when United States Steel fell to 78 and Union Pacific to 181⅞. Reading, after showing resistance gave way 3⅜. Other losses were Allis-Chalmers preferred, 7; American Smelting, 6⅝; American Locomotive, American Cotton Oil and Utah Copper, 4¾; American Car 4½, Wabash preferred 4¼, Chesapeake & Ohio, Reading second preferred and Bethlehem Steel preferred 4, Louisville & Nashville and Delaware & Hudson 3¾, and Peoples Gas, Distillers Securities and National Lead 3½. There was another pause in the liquidation before the hour expired.

The market closed strong and animated. Another drive reduced still further the level of prices, but this was followed by rallies showing more vigor than previously. United States Steel fell 3⅛ to 77¾, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific 3, Missouri Pacific 3¾, National Lead 4½, Westinghouse Electric 5, American Hide & Leather preferred 6¾, American Smelting 8⅛, and Central Railroad of New Jersey 10. Rallies ran from 1 to nearly 3 points for most of the active market leaders.

BUTTE-ALEX SCOTT — This property has about 2,000 feet of very strong ledge matter, which runs from the high ore of the Anaconda through the Scott into the Leonard, the biggest mine of the Boston & Montana. High-grade ore has been opened up on the 1,400-foot and other levels. Now then, if this mine is only worth $500,000, what then are the North Butte, Amalgamated and Butte Coalition properties worth? Either our stock is selling away too low, or others are selling away too high. We have a virgin mine with all deposits intact, while the North Butte and others have been mining for years and years and it stands to reason that a new mine with its high grade ore still in the mine, is worth more money than a mine that has been continually drawing on its reserves.

TULOUMNE with 800,000 shares and a new mine, can start now where the other fellows began years ago. Stop, think what this means.

CENTRAL VERMILION IRON—Located on the great Vermilion range and near the famous Macomber property, which Mr. George St. Clair is now working looks good to us for we know the property and have seen it. They own the fee and this means much to the investor for there are no royalties to pay.

ST. MARY'S was strong all day at 28 cents bid at the close. No stock was offered even at 30 cents. Buy this one whenever you can at these prices.

CALUMET & SONORA
This Great Mine
Is producing over $3,000 worth of ore daily in 300 days, at that rate it will earn at least $900,000, or $15 per share dividend, which will be 60 per cent on the present price, or 150 per cent on the par value. This is a conservative estimate accordingly. (Cut this out.)

IS CERTAINLY HOODOOED.

Whisky Warehouse Has Figured in Three Disasters.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 3.—The whisky warehouse of Sol. & Sig. Frieberg company was burned down on the Wednesday preceding Christmas. On Wednesday of last week a wall of the ruined building collapsed on a small frame building and three lives were lost. Yesterday the fall of a derrick on the ill-fated ruins killed two more and seriously injured four others.

The three disasters have proved too much for the nerves of the people living in a rooming house beside the ruins and tonight they are preparing for a hurried exit.

PREDICTS A PANIC.

Prof. Fisher of Yale Says Interest Rates Must Rise.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 3.—In the course of a lecture here yesterday Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale university, a member of the committee of 100 national health officers, said that a business panic, possibly more serious than the one of 1907, will soon come if there is not an immediate change in the present situation. He laid the rising prices to the influx of gold and declared that an increase in interest rates alone would check speculation and its inevitable results.

C. W. COCKRELL KILLS HIMSELF AT BUTTE.

Butte, Mont., Feb. 3.—C. W. Cockrell, formerly in the brokerage business and well known in brokerage circles throughout the Northwest, committed suicide yesterday, as a result, it is said, of financial and domestic difficulties. Cockrell had been wealthy, but lost everything in the panic of 1907.

Motor Concerns Combine.

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 3.—Announcement is made by Henry W. Nichols, vice president and general manager, that the Columbia Motor Car company has become part of the United States Motor company, a $16,000,000 holding corporation, which absorbed at the same time the three Maxwell-Briscoe plants. The basis of the combine is purely that of a holding company.

ABANDONED BY LAWYERS

Would-Be Peer Gets Into a Quarrel With Counsel in His Suit.

Sackville-West Will Do His Own Pleading in British Court.

London, Feb. 3.—Sir Edward Clarke, counsel for Ernest Henry Sackville-West in the latter's suit to establish himself as the legitimate son and heir of the late Lord Lionel Sackville Sackville-West, withdrew abruptly from the case today following a disagreement with the plaintiff as to the procedure.

Several depositions denying the reputed marriage of the late Lord Sackville-West and Josefa Duran had been read when Sir Edward arose and announced his retirement in consequence of a letter which had just been handed him and in which the attorney was instructed to request the court for an adjournment pending the production of important documents from Spain. The letter, which the barrister proceeded to read aloud, concluded:

"Should Sir John Bigham refuse, I wish you to retire from the case, as I do not care to go on further with such an unfair trial."

Junior Counsel Quits Too.

Sir Edward explained he was not prepared to apply for an adjournment, as he could not say that the Spanish documents referred to were material. Accordingly, he would withdraw. The petitioner's junior counsel followed suit, and President Bigham suspended the sitting for one hour to allow the claimant opportunity to consider the situation.

The action is defended by the present Lord Sackville, a nephew of the former British minister to the United States. Among the depositions offered when court opened was a statement by the diplomat in which he had said:

"When my daughters stayed in Washington they passed as my legitimate children, but everybody knew that they were illegitimate."

It was at the conclusion of the reading of this disposition that Sir Edward announced his withdrawal.

Will Plead His Own Case.

When court reconvened the petitioner announced that he desired to plead his own case, adding:

"I know that I shall lose, but I shall have a good try."

Thereupon adjournment until tomorrow was taken.

WYOMING ANIMALS ANCESTORS OF THE BREEDS IN AFRICA.

Berlin, Feb. 3.—The first shipment of prehistoric bones collected by the German expedition in German East Africa, comprising forty-six boxes, has reached the Berlin Paleontological museum. Reports from the explorers indicate that they have been highly successful in finding important specimens. One of the most treasured is a thigh bone which measures 6 feet, 11¾ inches, as compared with the 4 feet, 11 inches measurement of the corresponding bone of the American doplodocus. The African specimen is the largest femur in existence, it is claimed.

Te explorers have reached the conclusion that the African saurians were direct progeny of those whose remains were found in Wyoming.

The expedition was dispatched by the government to investigate the remains of antediluvian animals discovered by Prof. Fraas of Stuttgart in 1907 in the southern part of German East Africa, and to make more thorough search.

DR. WILEY SINGS THE LAY OF THE HEN.

Washington, Feb. 3.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley intimated at a public food hearing yesterday that the American hen is in league with the boosters of the cost of living by laying eggs which are too small. But the chief of the bureau of chemistry declared it is not the hen's fault, as she was being bred for commercial purposes to lay smaller eggs and more of them. A hen's egg-producing capacity was limited, the doctor said, and she could produce only so much, though it may be in large or small instalments.

The little discourse on the capacity of a hen came out as a side issue to a discussion on what the size of a loaf of bred should be.

GIVES $10,000 TO DOGS AND $10,000 TO HUSBAND.

New York, Feb. 3.—Her husband and her dogs are treated alike in the will of Mrs. Minnie Knoch, who recently died in Harlem. The document leaves $10,000 as a trust fund, the income to be used to support the dogs in luxury. An equal sum is left to the husband, Henry Knoch. If the dogs die, the $10,000 trust fund is to go to a son of the testatrix. Mrs. Knoch left $3,000 to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

WAS NOT ENGINEER'S FIRST TRIP ON BRANCH.

Supt. K. M. Nicoles of the Northern Pacific road, who has been investigating the wreck on the Washburn branch on Tuesday morning last, in which Engineer, A. J. Burton was killed, stated today that a wrong impression had gone out relative to the dead engineer never having gone over this branch before.

Supt. Nicoles said that Burton had been running on this branch continuously since Jan. 7. The fireman and conductor were old men on the run also, the conductor having been on it continuously for three years.

ENTERTAINMENT AT BOYS' DEPARTMENT.

The entertainment at the boys' department Friday evening promises to be the best one given this season. Mrs. Lulu Tyler Gates, one of the most successful of American readers, will be the attraction and she will present "Polly of the Circus," and in addition to this will give a short program of miscellaneous numbers.

Mrs. Gates comes highly recommended. Her ability is claimed to be much greater than that of a mere mimic. She is a thorough student of her art.

The entertainment will be given at the boys' building Friday evening at 8 o'clock, and is open to the general public.

BROKER FOUND GUILTY IN FRAMINGHAM CASE.

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 3.—Guilty of larceny and uttering a forged note was the verdict rendered by the jury today in the case of Charles S. Cummings, a Boston broker, who was tried in the Middlesex county superior court at East Cambridge in connection with the forged notes of the town of Framingham.

BALLINGER-PINCHOT INQUIRY ADJOURNED UNTIL NEXT FRIDAY

Vertress of Tennessee and Rasch of Montana to Act for "Defense."

Glavis' Attorney Insists on Accused Secretary's Furnishing Papers.

Senator Nelson Directs That Evidence Be Submitted as Requested.

Washington, Feb. 4.—John J. Vertress of Nashville, Tenn., and Carl Rasch, formely United States district attorney for Montana, have been selected to represent Secretary Ballinger and Commissioner Dennett and Field Agent Schwartz in the investigation now being held by the senate committee in the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy.

Prior to the meeting of the committee today a report was in circulation that a postponement until Monday might be taken in order to permit counsel to prepare for a cross-examination of Louis R. Glavis, the star witness for the "prosecution." The adjournment, however, was until next Friday.

Mr. Glavis is to stay in the city until full opportunity for cross-examination is given. Members of the committee have questioned him in desultory fashion, but owing to a lack of familiarity of the subject in hand they have been limited in their quest for information from the witness other than what he has given voluntarily in response to questions framed by the counsel representing himself and his backers.

Glavis Ready For Quiz.

Glavis has concluded all of his original testimony and was cross-examined briefly last Monday afternoon, at which time an adjournment was taken until this morning.

It developed at the brief public ses-

LAST DESCENDANT OF PRISCILLA DEAD

Claim of Man Killed By Train Is Recited in Salt Lake City.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Feb. 4.—Harry Alden, whose mutilated body was found Wednesday by a railroad track at Cucamonga, Cal., was the last descendant of John and Priscilla Alden, made famous by Longfellow. This statement was made by Alden to many Salt Lake friends during his residence here. He traveled for a local drug firm, and left here last summer to enter a laboratory at Berkeley, Cal.

DOMESTIC TRADE ON LAKES GROWS

Tonnage Is Less Than in 1907, But One-Third Above That for 1908.

Washington, Feb. 4.—Domestic commerce on the Great Lakes during the calendar year of 1909 aggregated 80,974,605 tons of freight shipped between ports in this country alone. This tonnage, while about one-third larger than for the year before, is about 2,500,000 below the tonnage for 1907, the largest total in the history of the lake trade, according to a report by the department of commerce and labor.

The 1909 total does not include the volume of exports to Canada, or the imports from Canada, which were carried on the lakes, nor does it include the volume of local commerce within the various ports. If these were included, the department estimates that the total lake commerce for 1909 would approximate 90,000,000 tons.

Lake Superior Leads.

Of the total domestic lake shipments for the year, 44,087,071 net tons are credited to ports of Lake Superior; 14,120,029 to ports on Lake Michigan; 1,510,879 net tons to Lake Huron ports; 18,699,221 tons to Lake Erie ports and 535,943 tons to Lake Ontario points.

In the case of Lake Superior and Lake Michigan, the bulk of the shipments were iron ore and grain, the shipments on the other lakes being made up of diversified freight, including much coal and manufactured goods.

SUCCEEDS PARSONS IN NEW YORK POLITICS

—Copyright, 1910, by George Grantham Bain.

LLOYD C. GRISCOM.

Mr. Griscom has succeeded Herbert Parsons as chairman of the New York Republican county committee. Mr. Parsons was elected to that position as a "silk-stocking," and a reformer; but he proved a disappointment to his backers in the administration. Mr. Griscom is expected to conduct the affairs of the committee on a higher plane. Mr. Griscom is son of Clement Griscom of Philadelphia, the steamship man, and recently has been ambassador to Italy.

AIM PROBE AT STORAGE

Grand Jurors Find Meat Ten Months Old in One Building.

Canned Eggs Seized By Inspectors in New York Food Fight.

New York, Feb. 4.—The probe was pushed further into the cold storage system in metropolitan territory today. The reported discovery of meat ten months old in one of the plants across the Hudson has stimulated the interest of the New Jersey inquisitors, so that today's sessions of the Hudson county grand jury which is investigating the Jersey City warehouses, has promised interesting developments.

Prosecutor Garvan made it evident today that he was looking for evidence to show conspiracy in an effort to manipulate the food products market by use of the storage system in such a way as to regulate supplies and maintain prices regardless of natural conditions.

Lackawanna and Erie railroad officials were asked today to produce before the grand jury way bills and bills

RELIGION AND UNION AT OUTS

Coopers in Ohio Town Go on Strike in Row That Began Over Church Views.

East Liverpool, Ohio, Feb. 4.—All coopers working in the pottery and stave mills here went on strike today because some men working at the trade declined to join the union.

The refusal was because of religious views. The employes who kept away from the labor organization are either members of the Free Methodist church or are "Holy Rollers." The international union ordered that all union coopers walk out. The order was obeyed.

Probably 250 coopers are idle, but the religious ones are still on the job.

FAITHFUL SUNDAY SCHOOL PUPILS GET TICKETS TO MOVING PICTURE SHOWS

St. Louis, Feb. 4.—The pretty little cards once used to attract children toward regular attendance at Sunday school have been supplanted in the Union Methodist Episcopal church of this city, one of the largest churches here, by tickets to a moving picture show.

Commencing next Sunday, each child at Sunday school will get a ticket entitling him to attend a show the following Saturday afternoon, in the church basement. A regular nickelodeum equipment has been purchased for the weekly entertainments.

The church also has a staff of six attorneys, who spend each Tuesday evening in the church, giving legal advice free to members of the congregation.

A gymnasium and swimming pool, with a physical director, will be added to the church equipment Feb. 15.

LICENSE MEN END MEETING

Adopt Resolutions Condemning the Anti-Saloon League as Political.

"Solution of Liquor Problem" Is Presented in Measures Passed Upon.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 4.—The National Model License league convention today heard the report of the resolutions committee and the addresses of invited guests. The convention closed this afternoon with an executive session.

Rev. Wallace M. Short of Kansas City, Rev. W. D. Archer of Evansville, Ind., and Judge William A. Babcock of Cleveland were speakers.

The resolutions presented by Mayor H. A. Schunk of Dubuque, Iowa, chairman of the committee, were adopted after prolonged debate. They attack the anti-saloon league by saying:

"It is not a true reform association, but a political movement that is undertaking to use churches to enable it to control the political situation in the several states."

Solve Liquor Problem.

The only solution of what is known as the "liquor problem," according to the resolutions, lies in the adoption of legislation under which the retail liquor dealer will have a right to continue his business as other men. This means that the retailer can hold his license as long as he obeys the law, providing the licenses are limited to one to every 500 population and are not excessive. The penalty for first conviction for a violation of the law is thirty days' suspension. For a second violation it is the revocation of the license.

The annual renewal of the license, it is stated, causes liquor dealers to go into politics to protect their rights.

PLAN PERSONNEL FOR TRIP SOUTH

Scientists May Ask North Pole Hunters to Go to the Antarctic.

New York, Feb. 4.—Should the proposed dash for the South Pole be undertaken by American explorers, as proposed by Commander Peary, several members of the Peary polar quest probably will be selected as members of the Antarctic expedition.

Dr. Herman C. Bumpus of the American Museum of Natural History is authority today for the statement that Capt. Bartlett of the Arctic ship Roosevelt, Prof. McMillan and George Borup, who were with Commander Peary, will be selected for the South Pole expedition.

Brazil Wants $50,000,000.

Rio de Janeiro, Feb. 4.—The government today authorized the minister of finance to negotiate with the Rothschilds for a loan of $50,000,000, the funds to be used for the conversion of the outstanding external debt, issued at 5 per cent, into 4 per cent bonds.

LAST BODY IS REMOVED

Missing Boss Found in Ruins of the Mine Near Drakesboro.

Coroner's Jury at Primero, Colo., Fails to Find Cause of Disaster.

Drakesboro, Ky., Feb. 4.—After fifty-two hours' search, the body of the last victim of the explosion in the Bowder mine, which cost thirty-four lives on Tuesday, was found last night. This victim was Pete Kelly, mine boss, who had often described to his family how he would save himself in such a catastrophe as that on Tuesday.

Cause Is Unknown.

Primoro, Colo., Feb. 4.—"Cause unknown," is the verdict reached by the coroner's jury that investigated the mine explosion in the mine of the Colorado Iron & Fuel company Monday afternoon, that caused the death of at least seventy-three men. No more bodies have been taken out since the fifty-first was found yesterday, although twenty-two are believed to be in the mine.

Cherry Is Excited.

Cherry, Ill., Feb. 4.—All Cherry was excited today over the near prospect of removing bodies from the St. Paul mine. The report spread rapidly last night that the corpse found near the air shaft had been taken out, and that the others would be recovered within a couple of days. The runway from the hoisting shaft to the air flue was finally opened and repaired last night. With this done, it is said that the smoldering fire in the mine can surely be conquered. Pumping aparatus to eject the stale water from the bottom of the mine was taken down to the second level of the mine today.

The dead men on the bottom level probably will be taken out first.

FACE MADE OVER BY THE SURGEONS

St. Louis Man With Thirty-Three Fractures Will Have New Features.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 4.—When Thomas Herbert leaves the city hospital he will have a brand new face. Half a dozen physicians and surgeons are making the visage for him, and they promise such an improvement over the countenance that nature gave that even his best girl will not know him.

While driving a wagon Wednesday, Herbert fell off and the hind wheel passed over his face. The hospital physicians found thirty-three fractures in the bones in his face. In fixing him up it was necessary to remodel his features along entirely new lines. The surgeons are now wiring the bones so the fractures will knit, and are readjusting the flesh so as to give the face symmetry and character.

Castro Has Moved.

Madrid, Feb. 4.—The report that former President Castro of Venezuela has gone to Las Palmas, is confirmed.

TEDDY TO BE BACK IN JUNE

Roosevelt Party in Africa Has Arrived at Nimule, Uganda.

Ex-President Will Make No More Speaking Dates in Europe.

Nimule, Uganda protectorate, Feb. 4.—The Smithsonian African scientific expedition arrived here today on schedule time. All are in excellent health. Before leaving Rhino camp in Belgian Congo the hunters obtained three more white rhinoceroses, a bull buffalo and other game not before reported. Kermit Roosevelt made some splendid photographs of a living rhinoceros. All the members of the party were delighted with their visit in the Congo.

It is expected that no more game will be shot until Gondokoro is reached. The distance to that place from here over what is known as the Upper Road, the one which the party will travel, is about 108 miles.

Col. Roosevelt's mail has brought him a number of requests to speak in European cities, but he will be unable to arrange for addresses other than those already promised.

Will Return in June.

He expects to speak in Paris April 15, at the University of Berlin, May 1, and soon afterwards before the Nobel Prize Committee at Christiana. Col. Roosevelt was the recipient of the Nobel peace prize of 1906. Roosevelt will arrive in England May 15, and soon after his arrival, will deliver an address at the Oxford university. He plans to return to New York about the middle of June.

The expedition probably will get under way again tomorrow. The objective point is Gondokoro, where a launch will be in waiting to take Col. Roosevelt and party down the Bar el Jebel, the most southern tributary of the Nile, en route to Khartoum. They expect to arrive at Gondokoro, Feb. 17.

METEOR BURSTS OVER ILLINOIS

Concussion Jars the Earth in That State and Over in Iowa.

Quincy, Ill., Feb. 4.—A meteor is supposed to have struck near here at 1:30 this morning. The whole countryside was aroused and buildings trembled. Those about the streets saw a great glare in the sky. A terrific report followed.

Several saw the meteor explode, accompanied by a detonation, followed a few seconds later by trembling of the earth lasting five to ten seconds.

Seen in Iowa.

Burlington, Iowa, Feb. 4.—Reports from Keokuk and Hannibal state that about 1:30 this morning the eastern sky was suddenly lighted up with great brilliancy, and in a minute was followed by a heavy shock which caused the earth to tremble. It is supposed to have been an explosion of a meteor, but may have been caused by an explosion of dynamite at one of the Central Illinois mines.

STEAMER KENTUCKY IS SINKING AND HAS SENT WIRELESS CALL

CONSPICUOUS IN THE HOCKING STOCK MESS

JAMES R. KEENE.

James R. Keene, who figured so conspicuously in the Hocking Coal stock disaster, which resulted in big failures of stock exchange houses, is an Englishman by birth. He was taken to California when only 14, became a miner, and made a fortune, chiefly through speculation in mining stock in the "bonanza" days. He was for a time president of the San Francisco stock exchange. He has been a conspicuous figure in Wall street since 1877.

Battleship Louisiana and Steamship Alamo Ordered to the Rescue.

Revenue Cutter Yamacraw Also Is in Vicinity of Helpless Steamer.

Former "Lincoln" Going Down in "Graveyard of the Atlantic."

New York, Feb. 4.—The steamer Kentucky of the Alaska-Pacific Steamship company, is reported sinking while struggling through heavy seas, 240 miles southeast of Sape Hatteras. Her captain and the seventy-five men of her crew are endeavoring to keep the vessel afloat until aid can reach her.

News of the Kentucky's desperate plight was received here today in a dispatch from the United Wireless Telegraph company's station at Cape Hatteras.

The first distress calle from the Kentucky was received by the Mallory line steamed Alamo, which immediately proceeded to the rescue, heading for latitude 32.18, longitude 76.43, where the Kentucky reported her position.

The message was the new international signal "S. O. S.," the most urgent call that can be sent for al dby a disabled craft.

Battleship to the Rescue.

Immediately upon the receipt at Washington of news of the Kentucky's plight, the battleship Louisiana, which is in the vicinity of Cape Hatteras for speed trials, was ordered to go to the assistance of the Kentucky. Instruc-

STATE RESTS FORD CASE

Blackmail Trial Is Brought Very Near an End at Cincinnati.

Colored Dressmaker and Ida Brockway Appear as Witnesses.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 4.—The state suddenly rested in the Ford case today. The defense announced that it would finish its testimony today.

With Charles L. Warriner, the chief witness out of the way, the road was open for a speedy termination of the trial of Mrs. Jeanette Stewart-Ford on the charge of blackmailing, although several other interesting personages were on hand to give testimony.

Among those summoned was Ida Brockway, former stenographer in the custom house here, and estranged friend of Mrs. Ford. Warriner in his testimony, declared that he believed Miss Brockway had learned through Mrs. Ford that he was short in his accounts, and that the exposure followed.

Couden and Comstock.

BROKAW WILL APPEAL CASE

Wife's Divorce Suit Already Has Cost Him $75,000, It Is Said.

New York, Feb. 4.—W. Gould Brokaw's defense of his wife's suit for separation is estimated to have cost him $75,000, while the court's decision filed yesterday will compel him to pay the former Mary Blair $1,250 a month alimony. Brokaw's counsel are understood to be preparing to appeal. A report to that effect, however, did not seem today to affect the spirits of the victorious plaintiff.

"I never really had much doubt about the verdict," she declared.

Mrs. Brokaw was equally confident that if an appeal were [illegible] ed it would meet with no success.

According to James A. Blair, her father, Mrs. Brokaw will go abroad shortly with her mother and sister.

REBELS CAPTURE TOWN OF BOAC

Troops of Opposing Forc in Nicaragua Are on the Move.

Managua, Nicaragua, Feb. 4.—Th hundred insurgents under command Gen. Mazis yesterday captured Boace, a town sixty miles east of Managua. The fighting lasted two hours, but the casualties are not known here. The town was defended by seventy-five government soldiers led by Col. Barquero. The Madriz men were surrounded, but fought their way through the insurgent lines, the survivors reaching the main body of the government army at Toustepe.

The Estrada forces are advancing in three columns with an aggregate of 1,000 men. President Madriz is confident that the march will be checked at Tipitapa, twenty miles east of the capital. Five hundred additional men and a Maxim gun have been dispatched to that point by the government.

Gen. Medina declares that the originals of Zelaya's telegrams instructing Medina to cause the executions of Groce and Cannon were surrendered to the ex-president before the latter's departure for Mexico. This statement is corroborated by the telegraph operator, who says that the originals were turned over by him at the request of Zelaya.

MEAT BOYCOTT HITS CHOP SUEY

Pittsburg Devotees of Celestial Dainty Say It Is Not What It Was.

Pittsburg, Feb. 4.—Habitues of local Chinese restaurants are perturbed. Chop suey, once toothsome and possessed of life-giving properties, has lost its flavor. It has fallen under the influence of the meat boycott. Proprietors of Pittsburg's celestial food emporiums were not slow to get in line with the boycott. Normal chop suey is supposed to be constructed of about one-third meat, principally pork, the other constituent parts being celery, onions, Mongolian artichokes and rice sprouts

Meat now has been abandoned, and a substance with fiber resembling woolen yarn and about the same flavor has been substituted. Complaint is made that the chop suey at present is composed largely of potatoes and onions.

GIRL IS DRAGGED BY CAR AND FALLS OFF BRIDGE ONTO WIRES, BUT UNHURT

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 4.—So absorbed in the thoughts of a new pair of shoes she was going to buy was little Arla Mercer yesterday that when she started to alight from a street car she wasn't careful and her skirts caught in the door. The conductor hurriedly signaled his car on. It started over a trestle thirty feet high and the girl was dragged along by her skirts.

Arla grabbed the trolley rope and hung on for a few seconds. Then the rope gave way and she was dropped over the edge of the bridge. A few feet down her body caught in a net of highly charged feed wires. Several men rescued the girl from her perilous position. Her father wanted to summon a physician to examine her.

"No," said Arla, "we'll buy the shoes first and see a doctor afterwards. You know we started out to buy shoes."

The shoes were bought. Arla hasn't seen a physician yet and will not.

DULUTH BOY WILL DIE

Howard Sexton, Who Was Shot at Walker, Minn., Cannot Recover.

Assailant Barricades Himself in House and Defies the Officers.

Walker, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—As the result of four bullet wounds inflicted with a 44-caliber revolver by Walter McDonald of this city, Howard T. Sexton of Duluth lies at the Walker hospital, close to death. The attending physicians say this morning that he cannot live.

After the shooting McDonald fled to his home where he has barricaded himself and he says he will shoot any one who tries to arrest him. The sheriff has the house well guarded so that he cannot escape.

The shooting was the outcome of a quarrel, the cause of which is unknown.

Howard Sexton is 28 years old and is a scaler by trade. He was employed at the Chase hotel as day clerk. He is a son of the late Thomas Sexton, who was one of the earliest residents at the Head of the Lakes. He was formerly employed by the Duluth, Minnesota and Northern as fireman. He has a brother Thomas in Huntington, W. Va. Another brother, James, is employed at the Marshall-Wells company as a bookkeeper. His sister, Florence, lives with the mother at the old family home at 616 East Fourth street.

Howard Sexton was very well and favorably known in Duluth. He was educated in the Duluth schools and was a musician of no mean ability. He has at numerous times appeared in concert in this city. Only yesterday a friend of the family called on the mother and conveyed to her a message of love from Howard. Later in the afternoon came the word that he had been shot and the mother left later in the afternoon to be at his bedside.

BOTTLES EXPLODE IN DRUG STORE

Fire at Abbett's Pharmacy Causes Loss Amounting to $1,500.

Fire in Abbett's pharmacy, Tenth avenue east and Second street, caused damage amounting to about $1,500 early last evening. The fire started in the prescription room and the damage was to the rear of the building and the stock.

A clerk was lighting a gas stove in the prescription room and considerable gas had escaped before the match was applied. The flames shot up and a bottle on a shelf above exploded, scattering fire around the room. Other bottles exploded and the clerk was forced to flee. An alarm was turned in and the department extinguished the fire quickly, but not before the stock had been badly damaged and the building scorched. The clerk was uninjured.

WOMEN INJURED IN RUNAWAY

Horse Runs Away and Occupants of Buggy Are Thrown Out.

Miss Hilda Oberg and her cousin, Miss Marie Oberg, were thrown from a light buggy drawn by a runaway horse on Woodland avenue above Vista street early this morning. Miss Hilda sustained a badly wrenched back and she was painfully bruised. Miss Marie lost considerable skin from her face. She was unconscious for a few minutes after the accident and was in an extremely nervous condition when she was revived.

The two young women live near Arnold, about two miles north of Duluth. They came to town this morning with butter and eggs for private customers. They were driving a spirited horse attached to a light road wagon. The animal became frightened at a passing automobile half a mile above the scene of the accident. The horse ran down Woodland avenue and Miss Hilda, who was driving, lost control of the animal when the buckle joining the reins became unfastened permitting one line to fall to the ground. The horse swerved and the buggy was tipped over. The animal stopped when it ran into a fence at the side of the road.

Passersby helped the injured women into a neighboring house. Medical aid was summoned and a man was sent to Arnold to notify relatives of the accident.

STATE RESTS FORD CASE

house, also had been subpoenaed. He was in the same office with Miss Brockway and, according to Warriner, learned of the shortage through her and informed the high officials of the Big Four railway.

Another witness to be heard is Frank Comstock, who Warriner testified was short $10,500 when the former turned the treasurer's office over to him.

Mrs. Annie E. Jackson, colored, a dressmaker, was called as a witness for the state today. She first knew Mrs. Ford in 1901, and had written several letters at the dictation of the defendant, because the latter's eyes were under treatment. The witness identified two missives addressed to a "Mrs. Stewart." Under cross-examination Mrs. Jackson stated that she had heard Mrs. Ford speak of "Pop" and of "Pop's" wife, but did not know who "Pop" was.

Says She Was Extravagant.

Ida L. Brockway then appeared. She did not glance in the direction of her quondam friend, but the defendant watched the witness sharply. Miss Brockway was asked about Mrs. Ford's financial circumstances.

"She seemed to be able to get anything she wanted," was the reply. "In fact, she was extravagant."

Asked about the source of the funds, Miss Brockway added:

"She had no means of support that I knew of. Mrs. Ford never took me into her confidence."

BALLINGER-PINCHOT INQUIRY ADJOURNED UNTIL NEXT FRIDAY

sion of the committee today that under date of Feb. 2, Senator Nelson, chairman of the committee, wrote to Secretary Ballinger, saying he had been directed by the members to suggest to him the importance of being represented by counsel to examine and cross-examine witnesses and to present to the committee in orderly fashion such evidence as would be material to the "other side."

Replying to this letter under date of Feb. 3, Mr. Ballinger said he had followed the suggestion of the committee, but that it would require several days for his attorney to reach Washington and some additional time to familiarize himself with the case.

Letter from Ballinger.

Mr. Ballinger said he had been of the opinion that by not having counsel present he would be assisting the committee, or at least would not be hampering it, in making a full inquiry of its own. In view of the suggestion by the chairman, however, he could do nothing but follow the recommendation of the committee. He asked that the further hearings be postponed until Monday, Feb. 14.

Following an executive session of the committee which lasted nearly an hour, the above letters were read to the public and the adjournment until Feb. 11 ordered. It was said that there had been a lively discussion in the executive session over the question of postponement.

Attorney Brandeis, representing Glavis, complained to the committee over the delay of the interior department in furnishing the committee with documentary evidence called for by the "prosecution."

Nelson Adopts Suggestion.

He said Mr. Ballinger "might have good and sufficient reasons" for withholding this evidence from examination by counsel representing Mr. Glavis but, in view of his statements that he wanted a free and full investigation, he thought it incumbent upon him to furnish the evidence in installments as fast as it could be collected.

Chairman Nelson said it had been decided at the executive session to request Secretary Ballinger to furnish the evidence in installments and that he would direct him a letter to that effect and send it by special messenger today.

GREEN ON THE STAND.

Man Alleged to Have Prompted Killing Testifies in Goff Trial.

Crookston, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—John McDonald was recalled to the stand this morning in the Goff murder trial and gave a more minute description of the action of Goff after he had battered the door of the home of Mrs. Bell at East Grand Forks, down with an ax, and during the fatal shooting.

Dr. Wilson testified as to the fatal nature of any of the three bullet wounds and W. A. Green, who had been in the Bell home just prior to the shooting, the jealousy of whom on the part of Goff is supposed to have caused the tragedy, was on the stand when court adjourned for lunch. The state may finish this afternoon.

WEIGHING MAIL IN WESTERN STATES

Great Northern Will Probably Get Government Contract Again.

The weighing of the mails in the Western district is now in progress, and for three months the mails on trains in the West will be weighed daily. On the basis of the average the compensation to be given the railroads for carrying the mails will be determined.

It is expected the Great Northern will be given the contracts for the next four years for carrying the mails to Puget Sound, intervening points and Alaska. The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, which intended to put on a fast mail to compete for the contracts, has given up the idea on account of the unstable condition of the new roadbed. The fast train put on by the Great Northern last fall is a great improvement on the service.

The mail-weighing forces of the government will work in Minnesota next year, beginning Feb 15.

CONTENTMENT IS HAPPINESS

Build Character, for Character Is Destiny, Says Blind Optimist.

Fred S. Atwood, known as the "blind optimist," spoke last night in the Knights of Pythias hall. Mr. Atwood, a former clergyman in the Christian church, lives at Sleepy Eye. He became blind about five years ago, but his affliction has not dampened his ardor nor curtailed his energies. He will preach the dedicatory sermon at the formal organization of the Independent church next Sunday. The church was founded by the Rev. Bruce B. Black, former pastor of the First Christian church here.

"Everyone wants to be happy," said Mr. Atwood. "Some desire physicial happiness, some spiritual, some mental." He contrasted wealth with riches, describing the former as a condition in which one has everything one can use and the latter a state in which one possesses more than one can use. Dissatisfaction with environment and station in life cause most of the unhappiness in the world," he indicated, as he emphasized the statement that it is vain and useless to envy some one else who may appear to be more advanced in so-called society, politics, religion or business.

Mr. Atwood illustrated his remarks with many humorous word pictures. He explained that an optimist is a man who starts out to "make a night of it," but who is the same man the next morning, and a pessimist is a person, presumably, who is a different person the morning after.

The world does not owe anyone a living, said the preacher, but it is indebted to everyone in opportunity. Every person, he said, has the right to a chance to earn a living and competence. A person takes from the world only one thing that he does not bring into it—character. Thoughts become habits, he said, habits become conduct, conduct character and that character is destiny.

CANNOT PAY ALIMONY.

Homer Davenport Says He Gave Wife All His Property.

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 4.—After reading dispatches that a warrant for his arrest had been issued in New York on a charge of failing to pay $400 a month alimony to his wife, Homer Davenport, the cartoonist, who is recuperating from an illness here, declared that he deeded to Mrs. Davenport all his property, left her a large life insurance, his library and paintings.

TRY TO PUMP UP GEMS.

Police Apply Instrument to Thief Who Swallowed Booty.

New York, Feb. 4.—A prisoner charged with engineering a hold-up and robbery of a United States army captain and then swallowing the evidence, was the subject of two stomach pump operations in a police station yesterday.

Capt. George Rochfuss was held up at a pistol's point by two men in the early hours. One of them scampered off with a pearl and diamond pin from the captain's cravat. The army man was knocked into unconsciousness, but the scuffle attracted a policeman who chased the thieves. He caught one fugitive, but claimed to have seen him tear the stones from their setting and cram them into his mouth. The stomach pump was brought into play to recover the gems. It failed to have the desired effect either on this occasion or when the operation was repeated after the man was taken in court with an attack of cramps.

The prisoner, who gave his name as James McBurt, was held.

BABIES DESERTED.

Five Young Children Have Been Abandoned During Past Month.

According to Mrs. D. S. Forgy, assistant in the office of the county probationer, child desertion is very common in the Zenith City.

Mrs. Forgy says that during the past month, five babies have been deserted.

Only yesterday a woman entered the office with a 2-week-old child, and claiming that it had been left at her house by an unknown woman, insisted that the probation officer take care of it.

There are many cases of like nature according to those in charge of the Duluth office.

Paulhan Has Close Call.

Denver, Colo., Feb. 4.—Louis Paulhan had a narrow escape from death yesterday when his Farman bi-plane collided with the fence guarding the race track to Overland park, smashing through it, and came down in a heap of wreckage on the track. Paulhan was thrown headlong, but beyond a severe shaking up, escaped, unharmed.

SAVED FROM ALCOHOL

Eight Years a Slave: Now Free.

A report has just come to the White Ribbon Remedy Co., of Boston, from a lady in New York state, that her husband, practically a drunkard for eight years, has been entirely freed from the alcohol habit for over a year, due entirely, in her opinion, to the use of White Ribbon Remedy. White Ribbon Remedy is odorless and tasteless and may be given with or without the knowledge of the patient. Contains absolutely no habit-forming drugs. $1.00 per box, or $5.00 for six boxes. At the E. M. Tredway store, 108 West Superior street, or direct from the White Ribbon Remedy Co., Boston, Mass.

Saturday, a Day of Royal Values

We begin the month of February with an unprecedented series of specially priced opportunities thruout the store. It is as it were "A Clearance Within a Clearance" because all remaining small lots of merchandize take on NEW PRICES—in every instance lower than those quoted during the January Out-Clearing. New Spring Goods are pouring in and lingering sale stuffs must hurry out, hence February Riddance Quotations will establish a new price record—THE LOWEST OF THE YEAR.

GIRLS' DAY TOMORROW!

Early Friday morning the garment expert went thru all the juvenile stocks and remarkt individual garments with new February prices. We look for an unusually large exodus of big and little girls Saturday.

Girls' Suits

Only thirty-six girls can share in this offering. The Suits are divided into two lots—one consists of an enticing group of $15.00 and $16.50 models that are cut to $6.75—girls' and misses' sizes.

Lot No. 2 comprises $19.50 to $24.50 Suits that will sell Saturday to first comers at $9.50. There are quality Broadcloths, Diagonal Serges, etc., in Copenhagen blue, old rose, red and green.

Children's and Misses' Coats

From 2 to 18 years, in Chinchilla, flannel and plush, with a price range of from $4 to $24.50, are reduced to HALF PRICE.

Little Children's Dresses

From 6 to 12 years, in red and blue plaids and worsteds, at $2.00 instead of $3.95.

Another Line of Children's Dresses from 6 to 12 years, at $3.00 instead of $4.75 and $5.00.

The Clean-Up of $15 Suits

We have marked all the odds and ends and broken sizes of Suits at $15.00. If you were not among the women who profited by the former $15.00 events, the opportunity has come again—for the last time, in all probability.

We don't need to use adjectives or superlatives in describing their fine and lustrous quality and distinctive tailoring—and as for the price—well, their tags show prices from $25.00 to $45.00—and mind you, they will make lovely spring suits.

A $7.75 Coat Offer

All we have to say of them is this store was proud to sell them in regular stocks, not so very long ago, at prices between $17.50 and $29.50. The colors are good, the materials better and the quality is de luxe. When a coat opportunity like this comes your way, it is an occasion to be made the most of.

Black Jap Lynx Fur Sets $19.50 Regularly $45.00

Saturday, you can buy for the modest sum of $19.50, glossy Black Jap Lynx Sets that we sell at $45.00. The large shawl collar, rug muff with shirred silk lining—animal trimmed, show you what an extraordinary opportunity awaits you here tomorrow.

A Flurry Among the Waist Stocks

Starts Saturday and continues till further notice.

Silk Waists $6.50—

Have you seen those Silk Waists at $6.50? Women are buying them by twos and threes. A lucky purchase that we are giving Duluth women the benefit of, and are glad to do so—all new spring styles, including all sorts of Waist Silks that are good every day values at from $9.50 to $15.00. Satisfactory assortments are still here.

More Sale Waists—

A heaping tableful of immaculate Lingerie Waists—some tailored—in lawns, bar muslins and black and white stript Madras that were up to this writing $1.75, $2.50 and $2.75. Saturday, to hurry them out with a rush, $1.50.

Another table shows you Waists that were from $2.75 to $4.50, cut to $2.50, comprising linen, tailored, lingerie and baby tuckt waists, also with large tucks—French knot and lace trimmed—all at the new price of $2.50.

NOTE—It is truly waist time for practical believers in economy.

Quality Sale of Silk Umbrellas

Saturday morning you can choose from a special lot of Silk Umbrellas with gun metal and fancy handles that were until this writing from $5.00 to $9.00, at ONE-HALF OFF—Saturday only.

NEW TURBAN HAIR PADS

An ideal help for new fashion hair dressing. These new Turbans are made of human hair, and sell at the unusual price of 50¢.

Silberstein & Bondy Company.

Well Gloved Hands

Are essentially the mark of the gentlewoman. She is always careful that her gloves harmonize with her costume, fit well and are of the best quality. These "sale gloves" fulfill all these requirements and certainly won't strain her pocketbook. Every fashionable color in kid and mocha—regular dollar gloves on sale Saturday at 69c the pair.

Children's Tan Gauntlets, fleece lined, 75c quality—at 39c per pair.

Leather Goods at Stock Clearing Prices

From our own stock. Only one or two of a kind. Rather than keep them we have put NEW February prices on them. Hand Bags, Collar Bags, Jewel Bags, and Travelers' Requisites. Some one-third, others one-half, and in many cases less than half. The range of prices start at 10c for a 25c article and goes to $5.00 for a $10.00 article.

If you did not share in the leather goods sale of last Saturday, you will want to look over these—in all probability the last of the season.

Sale of Pretty Neckwear

We will hold a sale of Neck Fixings Saturday. The frills and furbelows of some need an iron and some soap and water, but the low price fully compensates for such trouble. When you can buy 50c and 75c neckwear at 29c, it is an occasion to be made the most of!

A becoming fancy stock puts a new face on many a well worn suit—all fancy stocks—Half Price Tomorrow.

New Malines

This fine cobwebby waterproof stuff is a new favorite of fashion for spring—makes execeedingly smart, fancy bows for dressup occasions.

A full line of colors at the modest price of 25c yard.

New Veils and Veiling

Nothing enhances the beauty of a fine complexion like a becoming veil—besides being an absolute necessity these days against the ravaging winter winds of Lake Superior.

The New Hexagon Veiling comes at 50c a yard.

The New Russian Veiling that is so popular along the boulevards of St. Petersburg and Berlin begins at 50c and goes up to $1.25 yard.

PLEASE NOTE—That $3.00 Chiffon Veils in all colors can be had at this store Saturday at $1.75.

Two Saturday Specials

A very rich looking Moire Silk Ribbon—all colors at 29c yard.

New Silk Beltings, good assortment—Saturday ONE-THIRD LESS than every day prices.

Newer Ruchings

We have rarely seen anything more becoming and daintier than these new gold and silver corded ruchings (for collar and cuff trimmings in particular, and of course lots of other things)—that made their appearance a day ago. Every woman that sees them will want some. On display at the embroidery section.

New Coronet Hair Pins

For latest Fashion Coiffures—plain, carved and some set with rhinestones—25c to 65c each.

We will offer from time to time until further notice, as a practical example of good store keeping, a "ONE-DAY-ONLY-PRICE" on one or more special New Spring Items pickt from a particular stock. This time it is a Black Cotton Hose for women, which is sold everywhere at 35c—Saturday at ........................ 23c

Take notice of this fact and govern yourself accordingly.

SILBERSTEIN & BONDY COMPANY.

Men's $2.50 Silk Lined Gloves $1.50.

Our entire stock of men's plain and silk lined gloves, the $2.25 and $2.50 qualities, Saturday for $1.50. Livingston Glove Shop.

SMOKED "PILLS" AGAINST RULE

Two Roomers at Y. M. C. A. Are Invited to Pack Their Belongings.

The first penalties have been imposed at the Y. M. C. A. on men who had either forgotten that cigarettes are now against the rule, or else made themselves believe that the new rule was a joke and would not be enforced.

Two rooms will soon be vacant as the result of the war declared on the paper pipes some time ago, by the association officials.

The law was made and passed about six weeks ago. All the roomers were informed that the smell of the pill could be endured no longer, and notified that those who persisted in their use, would have to leave the building.

For some time the janitors and others have searched in vain for traces of the use of the "nail." It was thought that its use had been completely stamped out. Yesterday evidence of its use was found in the rooms of two of the lodgers and letters received later in the day by the men, informed them that their stay at the Y. M. C. A. was over.

Since the law became effective, pipes have become very common among the smokers at the building.

RABBI RAISES A BIG ROW.

He Refuses to Attempt to Convert Christians—Is Suspended.

Copenhagen, Feb. 4.—The Jews of Denmark are greatly agitated because of the irreconcilable attitude of Dr. Lewenstein, the chief rabbi, on many important questions.

He is opposed to any attempt to convert Christians to Judaism, and after vainly attempting to effect a reconciliation, the board of management of the chief Jewish congregation in Copenhagen suspended him from the office of chief rabbi.

Nevertheless, Dr. Lewenstein declares that he will preach in the synagogue as usual, although the representatives of the congregation say that he will be forcibly prevented, if necessary.

Dr. Lewenstein declares that, inasmuch as he has been appointed by the Danish government, he holds the office of chief rabbi for life.

L. A. SULCOVE HAS RESIGNED

N. A. Young Will Probably Succeed Him as Assistant County Superintendent.

L. A. Sulcove has resigned as deputy county superintendent of schools. N. A. Young, formerly superintendent of the Aurora schools is filling the position temporarily. At the next meeting of the county board, Mr. Young's name will be considered for the position.

S. W. Gilpen, county superintendent says that Mr. Sulcove has been planning to leave the county office for some time in order that he might resume his law practice. It was at first rumored that Mr. Sulcove's resignation had been asked for.

Among the young women who yesterday took examinations for first grade certificates in the county superintendent's office at the courthouse were Gertrude Flynn, Ethel Larson, Effie M. Pfeiffer, Alma Halverson, Rebecca Brown, Pearl Earr, Edna A. Betz, Sarah Swanson, Minnie E. Johnson, Bessie Boerner, Dorothy E. Scott.

MISSISSIPPI SUING HINES LUMBER COMPANY.

Poplarville, Miss., Feb. 4.—The state of Mississippi has brought action here against the Edward Hines Lumber company of Chicago, charging violation of the statute prohibiting a corporation from owning more than $2,000,000 worth of timber lands in the state. The petition alleges that the Hines company has acquired under various titles $8,000,000 worth of timber land and it is asked that $6,000,000 worth of this property be forfeited to the state under the provisions of the act.

RABBIT HUNTER KILLED.

Milaca, Minn., Feb. 4.—His gun slipping in his hands while he was hunting, Lawrence Schull, aged 16, was shot through the body near here a few days ago and so seriously injured that death ensued in a few hours. He was hunting with his brother near Ronneby, several miles from here.

WEST END

WILL PUSH EXTENSION

Work on Street Railway on Piedmont Avenue Will Begin in Spring.

Extension of the West Fourth Street Line Is Proposed.

As soon as the frost has left the ground in the spring, work will begin on the extension of the Piedmont avenue car line from Nineteenth avenue west and Third street to Twenty-third avenue west and Tenth street. It is expected that operations will begin by the first of next month.

The work of grading Piedmont avenue is almost finished. Last fall it progressed so slowly that there was no possibility of the street car company laying the tracks before winter set in, and the proposed extension had to be postponed until this spring. At the present time, with the exception of an unfinished portion at the upper end of the grade, the street is in passable condition.

If the work is commenced about March 1, it will then be only a matter of a few weeks before cars will be running up the avenue. This will be a welcome improvement to the hillsiders. It is the intention of the street car officials to connect the Piedmont avenue line with the West Fourth street line, which now runs to Twelfth avenue west.

This will give a through service from Fifth avenue west and Fourth street around the Sixth avenue east loop and back to Twenty-third avenue west and Tenth street. The small cars will be put on the new line at first. When it is sufficiently well patronized the "dinkies" will be replaced with double truck cars.

Another proposed street railway extension is being agitated for by the members of the Fifth Ward Hillside Improvement club. This is an extension of the West Fourth street car line from its present terminal, Fifth avenue west, to Sixteenth avenue west, where it will connect with the boulevard. The grade, it is claimed, is not impracticable and it can be built at comparatively little expense.

A committee was appointed last evening at a meeting of the club to secure signers to a petition asking the city council to require the street railway company to build the extension. The committee expects to get between 3,000 and 4,000 signers to the petition.

SERVICES IN HALL.

Temporary House of Worship for St. Clement's Congregation.

The congregation of St. Clement's Catholic church, whose edifice was ruined by fire last Sunday evening will hold services Sunday at the usual hours at the church hall, on Twenty-first avenue, near Third street.

The hours of service will be the same as usual. In the morning there will be three masses, at 8 o'clock, at 9:15 and 10:30. Sunday evening the congregation will meet to make plans for the erection of a new church at the West end.

WANT NEW PARK IN FIFTH WARD

City Will Be Asked to Purchase Tract Near Emerson School.

The park board will be asked to secure two blocks between Eighth and Tenth avenues west on the south side of Third street for park and playground purposes. The north half is suggested for a playground for the children of the Emerson school, the other portion to be improved for a park.

The property, it is claimed, is especially adapted to the purpose. It extends up the side of the Point of Rocks and is also conveniently located near the center of the city. The Fifth Ward Hillside Improvement club met last evening and appointed a committee to secure names to a petition for the acquisition of the property for this purpose.

R. J. Kircher is president of the club and Charles Tenbrook is secretary.

ADAMS CO-EDS TO DANCE.

West End Girls Have Novel Social Organization.

The first social event under the auspices of the girls who root for the Adams Athletic association teams will be given this evening at Columbia hall, when the young ladies will entertain at a dancing party.

The girls organized some time ago under the name of the Adams Co-eds, with the following officers: Miss Hannah Gyllen, president; Miss Lillie Peterson, vice president; Miss Lillie Whittle, secretary and treasurer, and Miss Agnes Peterson, mascot.

The charter members of the organization are Miss Selma Mattson, Lilly Peterson, Sophronia Pinney, Molly McDonald, Thyra Peterson, Lillie Whittle, Agnes Peterson, Helen Gyllen and Hannah Gyllen.

P. Strombeck Funeral.

The funeral of Peter Strombeck of 2835 West Third street, who died of tuberculosis Tuesday in a Minneapolis hospital, was held this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the undertaking rooms of Olson & Crawford, 2010 West Superior street, and at 2 o'clock from the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street. Rev. C. G. Olson officiated and interment was at Park Hill cemetery.

Funeral of James Hawkins.

Funeral services were held this afternoon for James Hawkins, who died under peculiar circumstances at his boarding place, 2825 West First street, Tuesday morning. At a post-mortem, it was decided that his death was due to acute meningitis. The funeral was held from the First Swedish Baptist church, Nineteenth avenue west and First street at 2 o'clock, with Rev. Swante Nelson officiating. Interment was made at Park Hill cemetery.

West End Shortrails.

George Trosby of 2612 West Fifth street, has left for Norway, where he will visit his parents for the next three months.

The Busy Bee Society of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, will be entertained tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Widholm of 1910 West Third street.

A special Sunday school meeting and Young People's rally will be held tonight at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street. Rev. J. J. Daniels will give an address.

The Young Men's Sodality of the St. Clement's church has postponed the basket ball game arranged with Two Harbors for this evening.

The La Coterie Club of the Second Presbyterian church, will be entertained tomorrow evening at the home of Miss Hulda Olson of 1827 West Superior street.

North Star lodge, No. 11, Independent Order of Good Templars, entertained the members of the Harmony lodge of Superior, last night at a social at Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street.

The Misses Athley and Esther Anderson of 2013 West Sixth street, entertained the Tabitha Society of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, last evening at their home.

Mrs. E. Bouchaine of 27 Eighteenth avenue west and Mrs. F. B. Thomas of 1715 West First street, have gone to Centerville, S. D., where their mother, Mrs. V. Haag, is very ill.

The midwinter festival of the First Swedish M. E. church, was held last evening at the church parlors. A program was rendered, followed by refreshments.

Beneficient degree, Modern Samaritans, gave a masquerade ball last evening at Steinway hall, about 100 couples attending. Prizes were awarded to the following: Miss Grace Smith, R. P. Christie, P. A. Bryant, Miss Margaret Smith, Mrs. F. Thiry, G. F. Todd and Adolph Helgren.

PAIR LIE DEAD FOR MANY DAYS

Widower and Woman Companion May Have Been Killed By Coal Gas.

Philadelphia, Feb. 4.—Coal gas from a small stove is believed to have been the principal contributing cause of the deaths of William Bohrer, a prosperous lapidary, and a woman companion, identified as Anita Habermehl or Habermuhl, whose bodies were found yesterday afternoon in Bohrer's apartmeents here. The coroner says there is no evidence of foul play or suicide. They were only partly dressed when found. Scattered about the bedroom were empty whisky bottles and the remnants of a lunch.

Bohrer, who was close to 50 years old, and the woman, who was twenty years younger, evidently had been dead more than a month. On Dec. 31, Anita Habermehl told an acquaintance that she expected to spend a pleasant New Year's day with a wealthy friend. That was the last day she was seen alive.

Bohrer had not been seen about his place since before the first of the year, but as he frequently went away on long fishing trips, the neighbors thought nothing of his absence.

Bohrer was a widower. The woman had been an employe in the restaurant of a department store.

COL. ANDREWS SHOWS NO IMPROVEMENT.

Washington, Feb. 4.—Little change is reported in the condition of Col. Wesley R. Andrews, chairman of the Pennsylvania state Republican committee, who has been ill here for some time. Today it was given out that the colonel's physicians could not give any encouragement, and that the patient showed a slight decline, if anything.

ARCTIC OWLS INVADE NORTHWESTERN MINNESOTA.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Terald.)—The northwestern part of the state is apparently invaded by hosts of the beautiful Arctic owls, known as the northern or snowy owl. Dozens of them have been captured by farmers and trappers this winter. Their favorite resorts are the farm buildings and out on the prairie, roosting on the straw or haystacks, and their food consists of rabbits and occasionally a barnyard fowl. They have been brought into the city frequently by parties who have shot or trapped them and one taxidermist alone has sixteen now on hand to mount.

ONE VICTIM OF ACTOR'S BULLETS SUCCUMBS.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Mrs. Mary Servoss, who on Jan. 20 was shot by her son-in-law, Walter Barnes, an actor, died today. The assailant, who also shot his wife, has not yet been found. Mrs. Barnes' condition is not serious. The shooting was the culmination of domestic quarrels.

Brothers Killed by Gas.

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 4.—John and Duncan McMillan, bachelor brothers, living forty miles south of Swift Current, Sask., were found dead by neighbors in a shack yesterday. They had been asphyxiated by gas from a coal stove.

Joplin the Oasis.

Joplin, Mo., Feb. 4.—By majorities of 172 and 132 respectively, Carthage and Carterville adopted prohibition in elections that closed a county-wide local option campaign yesterday. Returns from all over the county assure county-wide prohibition by probably 2,000 majority. This will leave Joplin the only "wet" spot in Jasper county.

Man Thrashed to Pieces.

Des Moines, Iowa, Feb. 4.—While repairing the machinery in the Des Moines Cabinet company's plant last night, Thomas Parks, the engineer, was caught in the shafting and literally thrashed to pieces. Employes found him whirling about in the air at the rate of sixty revolutions a minute.

Won't Need a Crutch.

When Editor J. P. Sossman, of Cornelius, N. C., bruised his leg badly, it started an ugly sore. Many salves and ointments proved worthless. Then Bucklen's Arnica Salve healed it thoroughly. Nothing is so prompt and sure for Ulcers, Boils, Burns, Bruises, Cuts, Corns, Sores, Pimples, Eczema or Piles. 25c at all druggists.

CONGREGATIONALISTS WILL MEET IN FARGO.

Fargo, N. D., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Congregationalists of the state will hold a ministerial institute and retreat here Feb. 14, at which Dr. Davis of the Chicago Theological seminary will deliver an address.

Several other prominent speakers are on the program. In the evening the annual meeting of the Red River Valley Congregational club will be held and this will be followed by a banquet.

Re-elect Fargo Educators.

Fargo, N. D., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Superintendent Hoover of the Fargo city schools has been re-elected for the fifth time with an increase in salary of $200 per year. Principal Spaulding of the high school was also re-elected at an increased salary. Both educators have proven immensely popular here.

Takes Marinette Bonds.

Marinette, Wis., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Stevens Manufacturing company has issued bonds for $20,000. Half of the bonds have been taken up by prominent Marinette firms.

The first big consignment of potato planters shipped from the Stevens factory here, went to Peoria, Ill.

IN THE DAY'S WORK AT WASHINGTON

Washington, Feb. 4.—The house passed the agricultural appropriation bill, carrying appropriations aggregating nearly $13,500,000, being a net increase of over $400,000 over the appropriations for last year. This increase was chiefly for the forest service, and was made necessary by the addition to the national forests of 26,526,439 acres.

The house began consideration of the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill.

Amend Postal Bill.

The senate devoted the greater part of the day to the consideration of the postal savings bank bill, agreeing to several amendments. The Lodge food investigation resolution was reported from the committee on finance, and the fact that it received so much more prompt attention than the resolution of Senator Elkins, on the same subject, was interpreted by the West Virginia senator as a discrimination against him. He made a speech complaining seriously of the treatment and asserting that it was intended to protect the trusts and the tariff against the inquiry, hinted that he might turn "insurgent."

Will Protect Corporations.

President Taft announced that he did not consider an amendment to the corporation tax law necessary in order to prevent rival concerns from obtaining information as to private affairs of competitors. This statement was called out by a visit from S. C. Mead, secretary of the Merchants' Association of New York, who asked that the publicity feature of the law be eliminated. President Taft stated that it was necessary for the government to have access to the books of the various corporations, but that the information would be treated as confidential.

Hearings on Commerce Court.

Hearings on the administration bill for the creation of a court of commerce, to consider appeals from rulings of the interstate commerce commission, were begun by the senate committee in charge of interstate commerce legislation. General support was given to the measure by James C. Lincoln, president of the National Industrial Traffic league, and Rush C. Butler, representing the Traffic league, the Association of Commerce of Chicago, and the Chicago Bar association. These speakers suggested amendments giving shippers the same right to have cases reviewed by the proposed court as is given to railroads.

Railroads and Express.

The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce continued its hearing on the bill, and H. C. Barlow, representing the Chicago association, suggested several changes. He asserted that virtually 55 per cent of the earnings of express companies went into the pockets of railroad owners and that the railroads practically owned the express companies.

In time, he said, all of the express business of the country would be controlled by three or perhaps two of the big railroad systems.

Cannon Favors Drainage.

Speaker Cannon has pledged himself to the support of the project for a survey of the 6,000,000 odd acres of land in Arkansas to be drained in the St. Francis valley. A delegation consisting of most of the members of the Arkansas delegation in congress and others called on President Taft, Vice President Sherman, Speaker Cannon, Chairman Scott of the house committee on agriculture and will confer with Secretary of Agriculture Wilson. The speaker was advised that the survey itself could be made within $100,000. He characterized the project of the utmost importance.

Wants Water Power Sites Opened.

J J Brown of Spokane, Wash., a representative of the Western Conservation league, had an interview with President Taft in which he urged the early opening of water power sites which have been withdrawn by Secretary Ballinger and his predecessors in the interior department.

Mr. Brown said that the power was urgently needed and argued that the use of the water would tend materially to conserve the timber and coal of the country which was now being used to create power.

President Taft had indicated that he was anxious at this session to have the law validating withdrawals of water power sites, etc., passed, saying that the laws as to the disposition of the sites could wait if necessary. Mr. Brown urged that both measures should be passed at the same time.

WAS SHE POISONED?

Austrian Authorities Exhume Body Buried Five Years for Proof.

Vienna, Feb. 4.—A sensational development has taken place in the case of Lieut. Hofrichter, the army officer who was arrested several weeks ago for attempting to kill a number of officers of the general staff by sending them poison through the post.

The inquiry into the case has been conducted secretly by the military authorities, but recently a commission was sent to exhume the body of Johanna Amlacher, Lieut. Hofrichter's former sweetheart, who died suddenly, five years ago.

At the time of Fraulein Amlacher's death it was rumored that she had committed suicide, but the cause of death was certified as heart failure. In view of Lieut. Hofrichter's present position, however, it was thought possible that a box of chocolates which he sent to her just before her death may have contained poison.

When the coffin was opened, the myrtle wreath which is put on the heads of girls who die while they are engaged to be married was still resting on her hair, while at the side of the body lay the last love letter written by Lieut. Hofrichter.

Experts have been asked by the authorities to determine whether the girl died from the effects of poison.

TEN FARMERS ON GOFF JURY

Twelve Men Selected to Try Alleged East Grand Forks Murderer.

Crookston, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The jury to try William Goff, the colored man charged with the murder of Georgia Bell, colored, Dec. 2, in her home at East Grand Forks, was completed late Thursday afternoon and is composed of the following: J. P. Marcum, A. T. Campion, J. P. Johnson, James Vavra, H. A. Kelly, Ole Larson, Donald Hamilton, B. H. Cochrane, Orin Simmons, O. H. Richardson, Ed Roberts and D. H. Miller. All are farmers excepting Hamilton, a machinery dealer of Fisher, and Johnson, a hotel keeper at Beltrami.

The state, before adjournment last evening, examined three witnesses, John McDonald, who was in the Bell house and saw Goff fire three shots into the body of the Bell woman; Sigrid Odlaug, a hardware clerk who sold Goff the revolver shortly before noon the day of the shooting; N. E. Goulet, who runs the feed store across the street from the Bell home, who loaned Goff the ax with which he knocked in the door before the shooting, and David Heston, clerk in the feed store, who said that Goff watched through the feed store window till a colored man named Green left the Bell house, after which Goff knocked in the door and is alleged to have done the fatal shooting.

County Attorney Hagen is making out a strong case, while Attorney Finlayson has not intimated his line of defense but the cross-examination would seem to indicate insanity. The state expects to finish its side of the case today.

DR. JEKYLL CASE FOUND.

Hotel Keeper Went Out By Night to Commit Burglary.

Pontiac, Mich., Feb. 4.—Awaiting trial in the county jail on charges of wholesale burglary, James Monroe, proprietor of the Clinton hotel here, repeated parts of his strange confessions to visitors and declared that he was driven to burglary by some impelling influence that came over him.

Specialists at the state asylum for the insane here, who have seen and talked with Monroe, declare him to be one of the plainest cases of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde in their experience. A decent, law-abiding citizen and genial hotel host, by day; he was a crafty, successful burglar on nights when the other personality was dominant, furnishing his hotel with the proceeds of his confessed crimes.

Monroe was arrested on the immediate charge of robbing the Home Furnishing company. He implicated his brother-in-laws, George and Richard Hicks. William Brown also has been arrested in connection with the burglaries and a fifth man is sought.

The police took several dray loads of loot from the Clinton house, furniture, silverware, jewelry, etc., that Monroe had used in fitting up his hostelry.

ENGLAND CALLED THE MOST BESOTTED NATION.

London, Feb 4.—Dr. Albert Wilson, addressing the Society for the Study of Inebriety on "Alcoholism and Crime," said every year 1,000,000 persons were arrested. Sixty or 70 per cent of those arrests were associated with alcohol, while four out of five of the victims of execution were brought to the gallows by drink.

Crime cost every year about $30,000,000. Criminal tendency was, he maintained, accelerated by alcohol in the parents.

There was no nation which showed so much mental deterioration as the British and there was no nation so thoroughly alcoholized. They had an object lesson in the Jews—a non-alcoholized race, who always came out on top, while the alcoholized Christians went under. There was no brain poison so subtle or far-reaching as alcohol, which had the same effect as chloroform. It seemed to him they had been on the wrong track in dealing with these questions. They must check drinking, condemn idleness as a crime and endeavor to raise the poor by improving them, not, as at present, by pauperizing them.

MAY TALK THOUSAND MILES.

London-Madrid Telephone Line to Be European Distance Record.

London, Feb. 4.—Telephone engineers all over the world are endeavoring to solve the problem of long-distance work, and it may be possible soon to speak from London to Madrid, via Paris.

The French postal administration has forwarded to Madrid for signature a preliminary agreement on the question of a Paris-Madrid telephone line. When the agreement is signed the laying of the telephone wires will be commenced. The line from London to Madrid via Paris would be about 1,000 miles long. The British postoffice regard 700 miles as the limit for ordinary working, but in some recent tests telephone conversations were held between Liverpool and Marseilles, a distance of over 1,000 miles.

There are two main difficulties in the way of long-distance telephony. The first is that the greater the distance the weaker will be the sounds heard in the telephone; the second is that an electrical property of all telephone wires known as "capacity" bends the waves transmitted through the wires out of shape and distorts the sounds. The twenty miles of submarine telephone cable between Sangatte and St. Margaret's Bay on the London-Paris line is as great a drawback as 200 or 300 miles of overhead line, and it is this that demands caution in talking of speaking from London to great distances abroad.

Telephone engineers are trying to overcome the distorting effects of long lines by what is called "loading." At short intervals along the line small coils of wire are placed across the two telephone lines, and these, if spaced at distances properly in accord with the now historical calculations of Pupin, overcome the effects and render speech possible over much greater distances. As in wet weather the distortion of the speech waves is hardly suitable for overhead wires; it has, nevertheless, been tried and is stated to increase the limit of speaking about three times. The longest distance over which speaking is possible is stated to be between Boston and Omaha, a distance of about 1,600 miles.

WHITE SLAVER CAUGHT.

He Received $30 for Each Young Girl He Lured Away.

Paris, Feb. 4.—The police raided a house in a prominent part of the city a few days ago and arrested several members of an organization concerned in the white slave traffic. One of the prisoners is a soldier in the Fifty-fourth regiment stationed at Compiegne. He obtained sick leave and came to Paris, where he devoted himself to the entrapping of young girls, for which he was paid $30 each.

The chief of the band is a man against whom a long list of convictions is recorded. He passed under various aliases, and as he was usually released on bail he failed to appear when his trial came on. Being tried by default, the court, for contumacy, awarded him the maximum penalty. It has been discovered that in the last twelve years he has been sentenced to terms of imprisonment totaling nineteen years, of which he has not served a single day.

PINNEY IS PARDONED.

Minot, N. D., Court Commissioner Granted Executive Clemency.

Minot, N. D., Feb. 4.—Earl B. Pinney, formerly United States court commissioner here, who has been pardoned by President Taft was convicted seven years ago for embezzlement of federal money intrusted to him by homesteaders making final proofs before him as United States commissioner. At the time federal authorities alleged that he was $5,000 short in his funds. He was sentenced to ten years after fighting the case vigorously.

Mr. Pinney was prominent in Minot social life, and high living was responsible for his downfall. He is the son of S. B. Pinney, one of the most highly respected attorneys of the Northwest.

His duties as commissioner was to take final proofs and in many cases where claimant commuted they left $200 with him. Neither money nor proofs was turned in and when the homesteaders did not receive their patents an investigation was made, leading to his arrest.

INTERNATIONAL FALLS MEN ARE GIVEN DEGREES.

Bemidji, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—A largely-attended special convocation of Bemidji chapter, No. 70, R. A. M., was held Wednesday noon and evening for the purpose of conferring the chapter degree on three out-of-town candidates.

The men given the degree were F. S. Lang, L. A. Ogard and E. L. Smith of International Falls, who were accompanied from the northern boundary by J. E. Burdick, also of International Falls, a member of the chapter.

SCHOOL VENTILATION

Of Wisconsin Declared to Be Worse Than Cow Stables.

Marinette, Wis., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—In a stirring appeal for better school accommodation in Marinette, Supt. Landgraf, president of the Teachers' association of Wisconsin, declared that cow stables in the county were better ventilated than some of the city schools. The suggestion of a new school building met with considerable opposition.

Bemidji Contest Friday.

Bemidji, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The final oratorical contest for the selection of the two students of the Bemidji high school who will represent this city in the annual declamatory contest with other high schools of this section, will be held at the high school building tonight, when the six who participated in the former contest will again participate, and the best for the humorous and serious selections will be finally chosen.

Fishermen Will Petition.

Lung Trouble—Loss of Appetite.

MRS. G. BUSCH.

When Doctors Gave Her Up Mrs. Busch Decided to Take Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. She is Now a Strong, Well Woman.

Mrs. G. Busch of New York City, who had been so benefited, wrote to The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co. as follows: "I write this letter to let you know what Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has done for me. Six years ago I took your Malt Whiskey for lung trouble and loss of appetite, my family physician having told me he could do nothing for me. I have been taking it ever since, and now I have a splendid appetite and feel like a different woman. I have recommended it to several of my friends and will continue to do so. I had my photograph taken, and it surprised my friends to see how much I had changed for the better. Knowing as I do what Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has done for me, I know it will benefit any one who has lung trouble or loss of appetite." MRS. G. BUSCH, 283 Ave. A. New York, N. Y.

Ministers of the gospel, doctors of medicine, nurses and people everywhere unite in commending Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey—the only perfect tonic stimulant, the one true medicinal whiskey.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

has to its credit fifty years of public service. It is the result of years of careful work and is an absolutely pure distillation of carefully malted grain. Overworked men, delicate women and sickly children will find in Duffy's Malt Whiskey the health and strength-giving parts that are so necessary to them. It is a wonderful remedy in the treatment and cure of consumption, pneumonia, grippe, bronchitis, coughs, colds, malaria, low-fever, stomach troubles and all wasting, weakening conditions, if taken in time and as directed. It is recognized as a family medicine everywhere. You should have it in your home.

If in need of advice, write Medical Department, The Duffy Malt Whiskey Company, Rochester, New York, stating your case fully. Our doctors will send you advice free, together with a valuable illustrated medical booklet, containing rare common sense rules for health which you cannot afford to be without and some of the many thousands of gratifying letters from men and women in all walks of life, both old and young, who have been cured and benefited by the use of this great medicine, and who continue to enjoy good health. It is sold everywhere by druggists, grocers and dealers or shipped direct for $1.00 per large bottle.

HIGH PRICES FOR FARMER

Receiving More for Products Than He Has Ever Done Before.

Tawney's Chances to Succeed Speaker Cannon Are Being Discussed.

Washington, Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Former Congressman James W. Walsworth, who for ten years was chairman of the committee on agriculture of the house of representatives, disagrees with Secretary Wilson upon the subject of "Who Gets the Advance on Account of the Present High Price of Food."

Mr. Wilson, in his testimony before the committee recently, asserted that the farmer is not receiving any of the increase of price and he further added that 2-year-old steers are bringing no more today than they did twelve years ago.

Commenting upon the secretary's testimony, Mr. Walsworth said today: "It is absurd to say that the farmer is not receiving any of the additional money which is being paid for food products. I have been in the cattle business ever since my early manhood, and I am receiving higher prices for my range fed cattle than at any time since the Civil war, with the single exception of one occasion when there was a sudden call for steers in Boston which increased the price in Western New York. I am speaking now of cattle that have never had a pound of grain fed to them. My recent sales netted me $5.80 per 100 pounds for such stock, which is considerably higher than I have been able to obtain before in the last thirty years. Then, too, feeder lambs are bringing 6½ cents per pound, which is very much higher than the average price for the past ten years. I am not speaking now of fancy fatted lambs, but what are commercially known as 'feeders.' In the village of Geneseo in which I live, baled hay is selling at $17.50 per ton which means net to the farmer, $15. Baled straw brings $15, or net $12. What wheat I had to sell last fall brought $1.25 a bushel, while white beans, which are the staple money crop of several of the counties of Western New York, will bring $2.25 per bushel.

An Offer to Wilson.

"Secretary Wilson asserts that 2-year-old steers bring no more today than they did twelve years ago. I am willing to enter into a bond to buy 10,000 head of those animals at the same price as my books show I paid twelve years ago and in addition will pay the secretary a commission of $5 per head or $50,000 in all if he can obtain the animals for me at the price prevailing in 1896.

"There are innumerable causes for the increase in price of all food products," continued Mr. Wadsworth, "and it may be true that the farmer is not receiving proportionately as much more for his products as he should when comparisons are made with the retail prices, but the secretary is careless when he makes the assertion credited to him, for every one who knows the agricultural conditions of this country knows that the farmer today is receiving much better prices than he has ever done before. Take one item, which shows how some of the farm products have advanced in recent years, and that is the item of cheese. The ruling price for New York state factory cheese in the cheese centers of the state, (and New York is admitted to be the greatest cheese state in the Union), today is in the neighborhood of 17 cents per pound. In 1870 and 1871 the price ruled from 5 cents to 8 cents and so far as my recollection goes there never was a time when cheese brought the price it is bringing today. Cheese is made directly for the farmer. They carry the milk of their herds to the factory where it is made into cheese at a uniform price ranging from $1.50 to $1.75 per hundred pounds. It is sold by the manufacturers for the benefit of the farmer and the farmer is certainly receiving the benefit of the present high prices."

Tawney and the Speakership.

Whether or not Mr. Cannon of Illinois decides to become a candidate for re-election as speaker of the Sixty-second congress, in the event of the Republicans retaining control of the house, it is certain that Uncle Joe will have a very strenuous opposition. The most ardent supporters of Uncle Joe admit that the so-called insurgent opposition to him is virile and widespread and many of his most earnest friends hope that he will not permit his name to go before the Republican caucus in the next house if the Republicans control that body.

It is of course to be expected that the West, and especially the Middle West, will make vigorous efforts to secure the honor for one of its sons, and ordinarily it would appear that James A. Tawney of Minnesota would become the most formidable candidate for the honor. If the West is to have that important position, Tawney will perhaps go into the contest with more strength than any other man who could be named from the region west of the Mississippi. Mr. Tawney is one of the most able and forceful members of the house of representatives. Like Uncle Joe himself, he has served for a long time on the committee of appropriations and has shown a deep-seated knowledge of all affairs relating to the conduct of the government business. Also, like Uncle Joe, he has fearlessly fought for reductions in appropriations for government expenses which he regarded as extravagant and also, like his able predecessor, he has been frequently "turned down" by the majority in the house. But Mr. Tawney comes from the state of Minnesota where insurgentism has obtained a powerful foothold, and this may act as a check upon his ambition to secure the gavel which gives the holder a position second only to that of the president in the United States.

Olmstead May Be Chosen.

Not since Mr. Reed stepped down from the speakers rostrum has the East furnished the presiding officer for the house, and for this reason the East will probably insist upon consideration in the next caucus, and when the Eastern candidates are looked over Representative Olmstead of Pennsylvania looms up in the foreground as by long odds the most formidable of the available candidates. Mr. Olmstead is regarded as a parliamentarian second to none in the lower house. He has had long experience in congress. He has the faculty for surrounding himself with followers, who will fight for him and who believe in him, and he is without intangling alliance. He is by no means objectionable to the so-called progressivists, and at this time it would appear that, if the Middle West is to be side-tracked, Mr. Olmstead's chances of succeeding to the speakership are better than those of any other man.

GUIDE SAVED BY TOURIST.

Holds Him Suspended By Rope Over Precipice for Two Hours.

Zermatt, Switzerland, Feb. 4.—Hermann Biner, one of the most popular Alpine guides at Zermatt, had an ascent of the Breithorn, and was only saved from death by the heroism of the tourist who accompanied him.

Biner was engaged by Dr. Shivel, a Munich physician, to guide him to the summit of the Breithorn, which is 13,000 feet high. After the doctor had crossed a snow-covered crevasse above the Theodule pass Biner attempted to follow, but the snow bridge collapsed.

The guide dropped thirty feet over a precipice and remained suspended by the rope which bound him to Dr. Shivel. The latter, notwithstanding the terrible strain, managed to hold the guide in mid air for two hours, meanwhile shouting for help.

When the doctor was nearly exhausted and Biner had shouted to him to cut the rope and save himself, two Italian smugglers, heavily laden, came over the Theodule pass.

Hearing the shouts, they rescued the guide and assisted Dr. Shivel, conveying him nearly to Zermatt. Then the smugglers disappeared, having refused to accept any reward for their services.

ROORBACKS NUMEROUS

British Campaign Was Full of These Political Expedients.

First Sir Robert Peel's Housemaid Was Pressed Into Service.

London, Feb. 4.—The word "roorback" has not yet penetrated to England, but, notwithstanding this fact, the campaign just ended was full of "roorbacks." The Tories were the greatest promoters of these political expedients, and floated some of the most astounding yarns to help along their cause. The Anti-German party regaled their frightened supporters with amazing tales of the Krupp works from time to time. The German firm at Essen are not manufacturers, if these romances are to be believed, but magicians. Some time ago either the Daily Mail or Mr. Blatchford, the Socialist editor, reported that so great was the activity at the Krupp yards that they had "recently taken on 28,000 new hands." There was nothing remarkable in this assertion when placed side by side with others of the same tenor that proceeded regularly from the same sources. Someone, however, had the curiosity to inquire what foundation there was for the purpose of 28,000 men. He ascertained that the Krupps had not increased their staff since 1907, when it totaled 28,000 men. Yet the malicious invention did duty in millions of jingo election leaflets.

From the Servants' Hall.

The first Sir Robert Peel's housemaid, now 90 years of age, was pressed into service as secondary evidence of Sir Robert's fear of free trade. This interesting survival of the servants' hall in the Peel household told a charming story of how Sir Robert summoned his servants and warned them against the perils of free trade. He foretold, with astounding accuracy and correctness, the exact evils which the Tories now claim to have flowed from free trade, and almost in the identical language they employ. Sir Robert Peel did not know probably what a jewel of a housemaid he had. These predictions were made before he entered the campaign for the repeal of the corn laws. The whole thing shows to what a depth of imbecility electioneering has sunk in London. At the same time it would be injudicious to imagine that Sir Robert Peel's up-to-date monogenarian housemaid did not have her believers.

That Letter Mystery.

The stream of vapid letters from Highbury, with the name of Joseph Chamberlain appended to them, provided one of the strangest political mysteries of modern times. In view of the character of these publications, and the notorious fact that Mr. Chamberlain had not been able to write for over three years, there was some curiosity to ascertain on what evidence the candidates who read these letters at their meetings satisfied themselves of their authenticity.

It has now been ascertained that there was no internal physical evidence whatever in the communications that Mr. Chamberlain was that author. They were all either typewritten or written in a hand which is not and could not tend to be Mr. Chamberlain's. Not one of them was signed by Mr. Chamberlain, and in view of their entirely ineffective style, so unlike that of the Birmingham dictator, the presumption is that they were mere "roorbacks."

Had to Apologize.

A story is told that a prominent politician (probably A. J. Balfour) recently visited a golf course where he sometimes plays and, passing through the smoking room, his attention was attracted by a copy of a newspaper spread out on the table, with some words written upon it in large characters. He took up the paper and found the writing was the following: "The Liars' Stakes—Alexander Ure (attorney general for Scotland), 1; his own name, 2; and Ananias, 3." He put back the paper, which, however, was found afterward by another member, who brought the matter to the notice of the committee.

Inquiries were made as to the author. He was finally traced, and was asked to explain how he came to use his position as a member of the club to offer such an insult to another member. He was a well-known Unionist politician and his explanation was that he had written the little jeu d'esprit without any intention of insulting the other member. Further, when he heard that the gentleman was playing he went into the clubhouse, cutting short his game of golf, to remove the paper, but found it had already been seen.

He expressed his regret, but he had also to write a very ample apology to his brother member, couched in terms satisfactory to the committee, to escape being requested to resign. Golf clubs are usually free from displays of political animus, for men go to them for recreation, not to engage in exciting discussions.

Irish Laborer's Experience.

The experience of John Patrick O'Leary, an impressionable Irish laborer, at Southampton, is not calculated to intensify his sympathies with England. He was charged at Southampton with smashing a window of the Conservative election agent's committee rooms, containing pictorial cartoons. Asked why he committed this act of violence, O'Leary explained that one of the cartoons showed a German shooting an Englishman, which so incensed him that, carried away by his emotions, he shattered the window. The police gave O'Leary a good character—though he may have been a little elevated on this occasion—but the stipendiary, ignoring the evidence, of an aggressive loyalty in O'Leary's conduct, sent him to jail for a month with hard labor.

The Educational System.

England was once piously believed to lead the world in practical things. England, at least, said it was first, and some people outside of England came to believe that it must be telling the truth. Of late the English are boasting less and thinking more.

Of this change there have been many signs. A conference just concluded at Leeds adds a striking example. Three thousand men, teachers and school officials of various degrees, met at Leeds to air their views on the educational system of England, from national schools and technical schools to universities.

It is remarkable to find on studying the reports that scarcely one speaker had one good word for any detail of the system. The chairman, James Baker, described as some time special commissioner of the board of education in Central Europe, said boldly that the existing methods of elementary education have "killed the race of English inventors and buried the genius of the English people."

Give Your Stomach A Vacation

By Using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Which Digest Food Without Any Aid.

A Trial Package Sent Free.

The stomach should have a rest when it is tried out and irritated from dyspepsia and indigestion. One should not call upon the stomach in this condition to do its full and complete duty. What the stomach needs is natural assistance and when this is given it the stomach responds quickly to the needed rest and comes back to its duties refreshed and invigorated.

When you feel as though your stomach were a piece of lead, when gases or foul odor issue from your throat, when your tongue is coated and your appetite gone, it is high time to send your stomach on a vacation.

The stomach is constantly coming in contact with foreign substances, which it must reduce in form to give strength and health to the other organs of the body. It is the commissary department of the human system and must furnish from such supplies as come to it all that such a system demands.

If the stomach becomes deranged and cannot furnish all that is necessary, it weakens the entire machinery of man and is itself placed out of commission. It cannot cure itself because the curative powers of Nature receive their force from the stomach, so that if the stomach issues imperfect nourishment it cannot receive perfect curative means for its own benefit.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets impart all the power, vigor and strength necessary to the stomach. They do the stomach's work and without calling on this organ for assistance.

If you would put your meal in a glass jar and with it place the correct amount of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets you could sit down and watch these little tablets digest the meal as perfectly as the most healthy stomach. This demonstration has been made in almost every stat in the Union by these tablets, one grain of a single ingredient being capable of digesting 3,000 grains of food.

If you have the slightest doubt about your stomach, go to the nearest drug store and buy a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, price 50c, or send us your name and address and we will immediately send you by mail a trial package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

BUGS THAT ARE WORTH A FORTUNE

The University of Kansas Collection Is Invoiced at $47,000.

Lawrence, Kan., Feb. 4.—Prof. S. J. Hunter of the entomological department of the University of Kansas has just finished invoicing the collection of insects belonging to the university and has valued them at $47,000. The collection was begun by Dr. F. H. Snow in 1873 and now numbers approximately 130,000 specimens, all of which are labeled and mounted for use in the classes of the department. The collection probably would sell for $50,000 if the university would part with it.

Beetles, flies and butterflies make up the larger share of the collection. Most of the specimens are of American insects, though a fair foreign collection has been built up by exchanging with foreign collectors. This exchange is going on all the time and the university collection is now one of two or three best collections owned by educational institutions in the world. By far the larger share of the insects were collected by Dr. Snow and his students in the summer vacations, and the cost to the university was very small.

"We have one of the best collections in America," Prof. Hunter said today, "and it is arranged in such a way as to make all of it useful to our students. We are going to keep adding to it until it is absolutely the best we can make it." Prof. Hunter and his students collected insects in the summers of 1897, 1898 and 1899.

One of the most useful and interesting to the state is the collection of harmful insects that has been arranged. All the known Kansas crop pests are mounted together with samples of their devastations. It is in this line of the work that Prof. Hunter is specializing his advance students.

DIAMOND NIPPED FROM HER RING

By Pet Trout When Mrs. Devereaux Bade It Goodbye.

New York, Feb. 4.—"I came East on the trail of a fish," remarked Jean Devereaux, a business man of Omaha, at the Grand Central station. "It was like this: Last summer I went fishing in Cut-off lake, north of Omaha, at one time a part of the Missouri river. I hauled up a big trout. How that trout got in Cut-off lake is a mystery, because trout are scarce in that whole section of the country. I knew the only way to make my friends believe me when I told them I caught the trout in the lake was to take it home alive.

"I tied a string to the trout's tail and fastened it to a seat in the boat. Then with my hat I dipped up enough water to half fill the boat, and taking off my clothes jumped overboard and pushed the boat ashore.

"Just as I had finished dressing, a milk wagon came by, and for a couple of dollars the driver consented to help me. We filled the cans with water and then stood the trout on his tail in one of them. As we drove home I changed the trout from can to can to keep him in fresh water.

"At home my wife had the bathtub filled with water, and we dumped the trout into the tub. We kept that fish in our tub until a week ago, when the neighbors began to kick because we had to go to their houses every time either one of us wanted a bath. So we decided to ship the fish to a friend of mine here in New York.

"Would you believe it; my wife cried when I sent that trout away. You see, it had become so tame it would eat out of her hand. Now, it was on account of this habit of his that all our subsequent trouble came about and I had to come East.

"Just half an hour before I put the fish into the tank to ship it away, my wife went to the bathroom to bid the fish good-bye. In her grief she forgot to take it any bread, and when she put her hand in the tub to pat it on the head the trout snapped at her hand. Later she found that one of the diamonds in her ring was missing. She didn't tell me about the trout stealing the stone until the fish was on its way to New York.

"I telegraphed to my New York friend not to dispose of the fish until I arrived. I got here yesterday, just in time for the autopsy. There in the trout's mouth, caught in its gills, was the diamond from my wife's ring."

The Story of a Medicine

Its name—"Golden Medical Discovery" was suggested by one of its most important and valuable ingredients—Golden Seal root.

More than forty years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that he could, by the use of pure, triple-refined glycerine, aided by a certain degree of constantly maintained heat and with the aid of apparatus and appliances designed for that purpose, extract from our most valuable native medicinal roots their curative properties much better than by the use of alcohol, so generally employed. So the now world-famed "Golden Medical Discovery," for the cure of weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness and kindred derangements was first made, as it ever since has been, without a particle of alcohol in its make-up.

A glance at the full list of its ingredients, printed on every bottle-wrapper, will show that it is made from the most valuable medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. All these ingredients have received the strongest endorsement from the leading medical experts, teachers and writers on Materia Medica who recommend them as the very best remedies for the diseases for which "Golden Medical Discovery" is advised.

A little book of these endorsements has been compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and will be mailed free to any one asking same by postal card, or letter addressed to the Doctor as above. From these endorsements, copied from standard medical books of all the different schools of practice, it will be found that the ingredients composing the "Golden Medical Discovery" are advised not only for the cure of the above mentioned diseases, but also for the cure of all catarrhal, bronchial and throat affections, accompanied with catarrhal discharges, hoarseness, sore throat, lingering, or hang-on-coughs, and all those wasting affections which if not promptly and properly treated are liable to terminate in consumption. Take Dr. Pierce's Discovery in time and persevere in its use until you give it a fair trial and it is not likely to disappoint. Too much must not be expected of it. It will not perform miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will. It will cure the affections that lead up to consumption, if taken in time.

You can't afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, having a complete list of ingredients in plain English on its bottle-wrapper, the same being attested as correct under oath.

STOLE COAL UNDERGROUND.

English Collier Wormed Ten Thousand Tons From Neighbor's Mine.

London, Feb. 3.—A singular charge against a colliery owner of abstracting coal from another mine was heard at the Worcestershire sessions this week. Robert Fellows, colliery proprietor, was charged with stealing 5,000 tons of coal belonging to Frank Hipkiss from a mine at Cradley.

Mr. Matthews, for the prosecution, said he had never heard of such a charge before in any country. The allegation was that the prisoner for a period of many months worked coal under the prosecutor's land which was the richest vein in the United Kingdom.

He took an average of twenty tons a day, and the total amount so taken, though it could not be exactly ascertained, amounted probably to 10,000 tons.

The prisoner had approached the prosecutor several times with a view to the purchase of his property, offering him from $3,000 to $3,500 per acre for it, but though negotiations proceeded with that end, no purchase was ever completed. The prisoner, in an affidavit, admitted that he had encroached on the prosecutor's property, but said he believed he had a bona fide binding contract for purchase, and when he found there was no possibility of becoming owner he ceased working the coal.

The case was adjourned.

NEW THEORY IS RAPIDLY SPREADING OVER COUNTRY

L. T. Cooper's theory concerning the human stomach, which he claims to prove, with his new medicine, is being given more respect and comment every day.

Cooper claims that 90 per cent of all ill health is due to stomach trouble. When interviewed about his theory recently, he said: "Stomach trouble is the great curse of the 20th century so far as the civilized races are concerned. Practically all of the chronic ill health of this generation is caused by abnormal stomachic conditions. In earlier days, when the human race was closer to nature, and men and women worked all day out of doors, digging their frugal existence from the soil, the tired, droopy, half-sick people that are now so common, did not exist.

"To be sure, there was sickness in those days, but it was of a virulent character, and only temporary. There was none of this half-sick condition all the time with which so many are afflicted nowadays.

"I know positively that every bit of this chronic ill health is caused by stomach trouble. The human stomach in civilized people today is degenerate. It lacks tone and strength. This weakness has gradually come through a sedentary existence. I further know that few people can be sick with the digestive apparatus in perfect shape. The sole reason for my success is because my New Discovery medicine tones the stomach up to required strength in about six weeks' time. That is why I have had more people come and thank me wherever I have gone to introduce my medicine, than I have had time to talk with."

Among the immense numbers of people who are now strong believers in Cooper's theory and medicine is Mrs. M. E. Delano, a prominent resident of the suburb of Brookline, Boston, Mass. She says: "For several years I was broken in health, caused primarily by stomach and nerve troubles. I gradually became worse, until recently I was compelled to go without solid food for days at a time. I had sour stomach, palpitation of the nerves of stomach and heart, dyspepsia, and extreme nervousness. I suffered terribly with insomnia, and my liver, bowels and whole system gradually became deranged. I felt instant relief the first day I began this Cooper medicine. I now feel like a new being. Today I walked all over town, shopping—something I have not done for years.

"I make this statement wholly from a sense of duty. I feel I owe it to any one who might find relief and renewed happiness as I have done."

Cooper's New Discovery is sold by all druggists. If your druggist cannot supply you, we will forward you the name of a druggist in your city who will. Don't accept "something just as good."—The Cooper Medicine Co., Dayton, Ohio.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

A special meeting of the Women's Council was held this morning at the club room of the library to consider the resignations of Mrs. Z. D. Scott, who was elected president of the Council at the January meeting, and of Mrs. W. S. Woodbridge as vice president. Mrs. Woodbridge accepted the vice presidency of the Council at the November meeting conditionally, and she felt unable to continue in the office. That Duluth women are not self-seeking is most evident in the struggle that the Women's Council has to secure officers, for the office of president of the Council is the most important that Duluth women have to give. A nominating committee of Mrs. M. R. Baldwin, Mrs. Robert Smith and Miss Ensign was named and they reported, naming Mrs. J. L. Washburn for president, Mrs. R. N. Marble, first vice president, and creating a new office, second vice president, with Mrs. E. W Matter named for that office. The report of the committee was accepted and the officers so named were unanimously chosen.

The lecture by Mrs. Florence Kelley, secretary of the National Consumers' league was discussed. The Duluth lecture will be delivered early in March and a committee will be appointed to attend to the details.

Other matters were informally discussed, but no action was taken.

"PULSE AND RHYTHM"

Subject of Talk By Mme. Hallock.

Mme. Mary Hallock delivered an informal lecture this morning at the assembly hall of the Normal school before the students of the school and a number of the members of the Matinee Musicale. "Pulse and Rhythm," was the subject of Mme. Hallock's talk, which was presented in an informal manner. The relation between the rhythm of verse and in music and between the two and the beat of the human pulse was most interestingly brought out by the speaker. The study of this relation has occupied much thought and research on the part of the speaker and she was heard with much interest.

LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY

SINGS LOLA.

Duluth Girl Appears in "Cavalleria Rusticana."

The opera class of the Chicago Musical college presented "Cavalleria Rusticana" Friday of last week in the Ziegfeld theater at a benefit performance for the Frances Willard Temperance hospital. A Duluth girl, Miss Marie Clark, had the role of Lola, and of her work the Chicago Inter-Ocean wrote:

"A beautiful girl from Duluth—Miss Marie Clark—sang, Lola, and did it with a voice of velvet quality and a cleverness of action that were surprising."

SHE IS DIVORCED.

May Buckley Secures Freedom From Western Man.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 4.—Mrs. Marie Martin, known on the stage as May Buckley, was today granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from W. S. Martin, whom she married in Denver Jan. 27 last year. She obtained the divorce on the grounds of cruelty. The suit was not contested.

Miss Buckley appeared in Duluth this season as leading woman with Dustin Farnum in "Cameo Kirby."

MORE CLOTHES.

Bethel City Missionary Desires Some Assistance.

Miss Jean Fraser, city missionary for the Bethel, is appealing to the women of Duluth for clothing, and this time it is especially desired that women's dresses be sent. A weekly meeting is held at the Lake avenue Bethel for the help and encouragement and pleasure of the women of the neighborhood. Many of them who would enjoy the meeting and could arrange for the time to attend have no clothes except the one dress in which they work every day, and they do not wish to leave their homes so dressed. All of the family funds usually go toward providing the necessary food and the clothing for the children. It is to provide clothes for these women that Miss Fraser is appealing to the citizens. Dresses and hats and skirts and waists for women and school dresses for girls are the particular needs. Housewives may reach Miss Fraser over either 'phone, Zenith 182 or the Duluth 'phone 1582, and the contribution will be called for.

Luncheon.

Mrs. W. J. Pierce and Mrs. S. J. Carter entertained at luncheon yesterday at the home of the former, 529 First avenue east in compliment to Mrs. C. A. Helme of Chicago. The guests were:

Mesdames—
W. H. Sansam,
C. W. Helme,
E. Helne,
W. J. Jager,
A. Ross,
J. Schmauss.

THE EVENING STORY

THE CLINK OF GOLD

By Strand C. Bulleit.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

On a visit to the Lakeland hospital for the insane, the patient who attracted my attention most was an old man with white hair and beard. He sat constantly at a table, with a pile of golden coins before him, which he counted over and over, muttering at the same time: "Drops of blood; drops of blood; fifty drops of innocent blood."

This man's actions and words were so peculiar that I begged my friend, Dr. Carey, to tell me his story. So we went into an adjoining room, where, over a couple of excellent Havanas, the doctor complied with my wishes.

"That man in there is Henry Gilbert, who was noted for being the stingiest as well as the wealthiest man in Carsvale. In fact, he was miserly, and, though worth upwards of $50,000, he denied himself and his daughter the very necessities of life.

"Yes, he had a daughter—Helen. She was a beautiful girl, and any other man would have been proud of her, but he—well, he considered her as an extra expense, and begrudged every penny spent on her. Her mother had died when she was only 7 years old, and the girl had had, literally, to rear herself. But she was possessed, naturally, of a refined and lovable disposition, and, at the age of 20, she was a beautiful and intellectual woman.

"Lovers she had in plenty, but she only cared for one, and as she was in no ways a flirt, the others had gradually drifted away. Will Gost was the favored suitor; he was a farmer, and, while not wealthy, he would be able to give a wife a good home. The two were betrothed, but the miser refused to let his daughter marry.

"He, desirous of getting back some of the money spent on the girl—and goodness knows it was little enough—had resolved that she should make a rich marriage, and Harry Melton, arriving on the scene at the time, the old man thought he saw the way for the consummation of his desires.

"This Melton was very rich; in fact, a millionaire, and Helen's pretty face attracted him; he saw that there could be nothing gained by a dishonorable proposal, so he offered to marry the girl. Gilbert eagerly consented, but Helen was obdurate; she would marry Will Gost.

"Finally, Melton got tired of waiting, and, going to Gilbert, told him that he would receive $1,000 in gold on the day Helen should become Mrs. Melton. This sum, while comparatively small, assumed enormous proportions in the eyes of the miser, and he made every effort to get the money.

"As a starter, he attempted to cause trouble between his daughter and Will Gost. The latter was compelled to go into another state on business, and Gilbert intercepted all letters that passed between the lovers. In this way he raised doubts of her lover's fidelity in Helen's mind; then Melton got in his fine work. Gost was in Arton, and Melton paid a visit to that town. There was a newspaper published there, and he, by a free use of money, persuaded the editor to print an extra copy of the paper, removing a news item and inserting in its stead, a bogus report of the marriage of Will Gost to a girl in Arton. This doctored copy was sent to Helen Gilbert, and, after reading the report, she was almost heart broken.

"In this state of mind it was easy to persuade her to marry Harry Melton, and the miser received his $1,000, in fifty golden eagles, on the wedding day. Gost arrived just as the bridal party was leaving the church, and the truth was soon told; but it was too late, and Helen had to follow her husband.

"Gost was all broken up by the affair. His farm, in which he once took so much pride, is now overgrown with weeds, and he himself is a common sot.

"But the miser was happy, his daughter had made a rich marriage and he had the fifty pieces of shining gold. He would take these out and finger them lovingly, and count and recount them, so as to be sure that they were all there. His conscience did not reproach him for the means he had used to acquire the money, for his whole life was the quest of gold, gold, gold.

"It was six months after the wedding of his daughter and Melton that the miser was sitting in his room counting the gold. All at once the door opened and his daughter stood before him. But it was not the Helen of a half year ago, but a pale emaciated woman with an expression of utter dispair on her features.

"'Father,' she said, in a dull, spiritless voice, 'I have come home.'

"'What,' screamed the miser, 'what are you saying? Where is your husband?'

"'I have no husband,' was her reply, in the same lifeless voice, and she told her story. Melton had another wife before he married her—that was all, and she had come home.

"'Father,' she said, 'you have sold me, and, there, you have my price. You have destroyed all my hopes for a happy life, a life dominated by love instead of money. You have made the man I love a wreck, while I—I am not even an honorable wife. Do you never think of the woman that was my mother? Did you have no love for her? or was she sold even as I was? Thank God, she is dead, and I will soon be with her, God will surely not condemn me for taking a life that is already blasted.'

"She drew a pistol from the folds of her dress, pressed the muzzle to her forehead and pulled the trigger. She fell to the floor and the blood flowed from the wound, drop by drop.

"I happened to be passing the house at the time, and, hearing the shot, I rushed in. The girl was lying on the floor—dead, and her father was watching her with horrified gaze. I could hear him count the drops of blood as it oozed from the wound—there were just fifty, and the blood ceased to flow. The miser then went back to the table, on which lay the gold pieces—the price of his daughter, and he counted them again; there were fifty. Then his reason gave way and he still counts the gold—this same blood money, and mutters to himself as you can hear."

As the doctor finished his story I arose from my chair, and, going to the door, peered into the next room. The miser was still seated at the table counting his gold and muttering:

"Drops of blood; drops of blood; fifty drops of innocent blood."

HAS PLAN TO SELL CHIPPEWA TIMBER

Secretary Ballinger Calls Cannon's Attention to Situation in Minnesota.

Washington, Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The secretary of the interior today sent a letter to Speaker Cannon of the house requesting the enactment of legislation amending existing laws relating to the sale of pine timber on lands in the ceded Chippewa Indian reservations in Minnesota. Secretary Ballinger says in his letter that the commissioner of the general land office, in attempting to carry out the provisions of the existing law, has discovered certain difficulties and recommends an amendment to the statutes for the disposal of the timber where the amount is so small that loggers will not purchase it.

The legislation suggested by the secretary contemplates the opening of the land containing such unsold timber for homestead settlement, with the condition that the settler at the time of making his original homestead entry shall pay for the timber at a rate per 1,000 feet to be fixed by the secretary of the interior, which shall not be less than the minimum price provided by the existing law.

ACCUSED SUPERVISOR OF MARINETTE ACQUITTED.

Marinette, Wis., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The indictment case against C. R. Johnson has been thrown out. Mr. Johnson was charged with selling insurance to Marinette county while a member of the board of supervisors. His attorney entered a demurrer, declaring that the information filed failed to show that the insurance was issued while Mr. Johnson was a member of the board of supervisors. The demurrer was sustained by Judge Hastings.

Orrine Cured Him of DRUNKENNESS

Her Husband Now Spends His Evenings at Home.

She bought Orrine from the druggist in her home town—she bought it after reading the Orrine Free Booklet. In the Booklet she read of the wonderful cures of drunkenness which were accomplished by the aid of Orrine. On page ten of the booklet she read the liberal guarantee to refund all money paid for Orrine if it failed to effect a cure. After reading the booklet she became convinced that Orrine was a remedy of unusual merit. She decided to purchase it and cure her husband of drunkenness. Orrine cured him. Now she is a happy wife in a happy home. Orrine helped to purchase the home. Read the following letter from Walter K. Schmidt Co., 84 Canal street, Grand Rapids, Mich.:

"For a number of years we have been agents for Orrine. During that time we have had occasion to be convinced, beyond a doubt, that Orrine is a reputable remedy, worthy of recommendation. One of the many cases coming to our attention, a mechanic earning $22.50 per week, who had not taken a full pay envelope home for over five years, was induced to try Orrine, a complete cure being the result. The man became worth more to his firm, receiving an advance in pay, and has purchased a home. The house stands there showing the merits of Orrine. We can not help but feel that we were most fortunate when we secured the agency for this reliable liquor cure."

Orrine is prepared in two forms. No. 1, a powder, absolutely tasteless and odorless, given secretly in food or drink. Orrine No. 2, in pill form, is for those who wish to cure themselves. Orrine costs only $1 a box. The guarantee is in each box. Write for Free Orrine Booklet (mailed in plain sealed envelope) to Orrine Co., 457 Orrine building, Washington, D. C. Orrine is for sale in this city by W. A. Abbett, 129 West Superior street, 930 East Second street and 101 West Fourth street.

They know Orrine is a reliable and efficacious remedy for drunkenness and they will not offer you a substitute.

WILL RENT ITS RADIUM

London Bank Will Charge Doctors $200 a Day for Use.

It Requires $4,000 Worth to Perform an Average Operation.

London, Feb. 4.—A response far and away beyond the expectations even of the promoters of the scheme has attended the institution in London of a Radium bank, a place where that ultra-precious element may be stored in security and hired out to medical men, scientists and others who wish to use it but cannot afford the $80 a milligramme which is its present market price.

The actual locale of the bank is ultimately to be in the neighborhood of Cavendish square—in the heart of the "doctorland"—but, for the present, temporary offices have been opened in Morgate street.

"We have been perfectly amazed," said the manager, "at the stir that the announcement has already caused, although it was only made a day ago. I have been besieged by applicants, principally, of course, by medical men, for whose use the bank is being chiefly organized.

"As you know, the enormous expense of radium is, and will be for some time, the great drawback in its use, both for medical and scientific purposes. For an average operation some fifty milligrammes are needed, costing about $4,000, and it is therefore only at one or two of the large London hospitals that it can be used now to any extent.

Only $200 a Day.

"So a little body of well-known men have decided to establish this bank, from which we shall 'let out' radium at $200 for one day's use of 100 milligrammes, and for each subsequent day at ½ per cent on the value of the amount used. Securities will, of course, have to be given, and it is happily one of the characteristics of radium that its faculties are to all intents and purposes inexhaustible.

"Apart from getting the required radium," continued the manager, "the whole thing is supremely simple. There is no need of spacious strong-rooms. Half a million dollars' worth takes up no more space than a duchess' tiara, and we shall only stock it to the value of $250,000.

"But the getting it is the difficulty. Hitherto the main source has been the pitch blende from the Joachim Thal mine, in Bohemia. This yields one part in 3,000,000, but it is practically monopolized by Austria. The discovery of radio-active autunite, now being worked by an English company, in the bed of a stream near Guarda, in Portugal—where 'miraculous cures' used to happen, not unconnected with the radium—has added to the supply, but not to a very cheapening extent.

"So far as England itself is concerned, there are two Cornish mines that have yielded a little, but the whole available supply of pure radium is intensely limited, owing to the enormous difficulty of extraction. Although radium exists in air, sea water and almost everywhere, there is hardly a pure ounce in the world. Undoubtedly one of the first things that we shall have to do is to set about finding new sources of supply.

How to Test Radium.

"As to our bank, it will be organized very much after the model of the similar institution in Paris, through which most of the radium used in England has hitherto come, and of other radium banks which are being established in New York, Berlin and Vienna. We have plenty of capital already, and shall not appeal to the public. Among those particularly interested are: Sir Alfred Turner, Lord Montague of Beaulieu, Sir William Holland, Gen. Pole-Carew and Sir David Salomons.

While giving these details the manager laid out some tiny test-tubes—the size of a tin-tack—containing each $80 worth of radium itself, and with them some chunks of greenish crystal-bearing rock which represented the radium ore from Guarda in its rough state. The presence of radium is, by the way easily proved by the ability of each piece of rock to photograph itself in a dark room by merely being laid on to a sensitive plate.

From the medical point of view some farther interesting facts were mentioned by the secretary of the London hospital, which has from the first led the way in the use of radium for the cure of certain malignant diseases.

"There can be no gainsaying," he said, 'that we have found the use of radium actually effective in numberless instances of rodent ulcers. For those who regularly use it, our supply comes direct from Mme. Curie, in Paris. I fear, however, that as yet the much-hoped for cure of cancer can hardly be claimed. There have undoubtedly been instances where in early stages of the disease a surgical operation followed by the application of radium has had encouraging results.

"But one must not go beyond hope. It would be cruel to pretend more. As regards the use of radium by private medical men, there is, so far as I know, no particular reason why it should not be effectual. The method is very simple, the radium being stamped on to the place like a seal."

ROMANCE OF THE AIR.

Gabriele D'Annunzio's New Novel Keeps Step With Science.

Milan, Feb. 4.—The first volume of Gabriele d'Annunzio's new novel, "Forse che si, Forse che no" (Perhaps Yes, Perhaps No), has been published. As is already generally known in literary circles, the hero is an aviator, and several of the most important episodes of the novel takes place in a certain Monticlari aerodrome, for instance, the magnificent fight of Paolo Tarsis, and the terrible death of his friend Giulio Cambiaso, who falls to the ground in his aeroplane.

As to the literary value of the work, it is, as may be said of all d'Annunzio's writings, almost perfect in form, style and vividness of description. In the exposition of the feelings of all mankind, it is without an equal in modern Italian literature.

MASKED BALL HELD BY MODERN SAMARITANS.

The first annual masquerade ball given by Alpha Council No. 1, Modern Samaritans, was given last night at Steinway hall. About 100 couples attended.

Prizes were awarded as follows: First prize, Miss Grace Smith and R. P. Christie; second, Miss P. A. Bryant; third, Miss Margaret Smith. Mrs. F. Thiry carried off the prize for comic costumes. G. F. Todd, as the funniest man, carried off honors. Adolph Helgren was conceded to be the best dressed man present.

AFTER DOCTORS FAILED

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Her

Knoxville, Iowa. — "I suffered with pains low down in my right side for a year or more and was so weak and nervous that I could not do my work. I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, and am glad to say that your medicines and kind letters of directions have done more for me than anything else and I had the best physicians here. I can do my work and rest well at night. I believe there is nothing like the Pinkham remedies." — Mrs. Clara Franks, R. F. D., No. 3, Knoxville, Iowa.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills, and suffering women owe it to themselves to at least give this medicine a trial Proof is abundant that it has cured thousands of others, and why should it not cure you?

If you want special advice write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. It is free and always helpful.

TARIFF WAR IS AVERTED

Germany and the United States Reach End of Important Negotiations.

Cattle and Dressed Meat Issue Will Come Under Separate Agreement.

Washington, Feb. 4.—Concessions by both the United States and Germany have averted a threatened tariff war.

Negoations have been concluded between the two countries which settle the question of minimum and maximum rates with the exception of the cattle and dressed meat issue, which was eliminated from the present negotiations and which will be pursued hereafter in separate diplomatic representation.

The result of the negotiations agreed upon is to exchange American minimum rates for the entire and unqualified minimum list of Germany. The result is considered just and advantageous to both countries. In the calendar year just closed, the direct interchange of commodities between Germany and the United States exceeded $409,000,000, and the allowance being made for the German importations throughout the country, the actual values is probably in excess of $500,000,000.

German Attitude Friendly.

The solution reached was in a large measure due to the friendly and conciliatory spirit of the German government.

As showing the increase in the trade between the United States and Germany statistics are shown that during the calendar year 1899, the United States imports from Germany amounted to $89,579,339 and in 1909, $161,951,672. An increase of 80.8 per cent.

During the calendar year 1899 the United States exported to Germany goods valued at $161,405,852 and in 1909, $247,310,084, an increase of 53.2 per cent.

For Your Hair

Here Are Facts We Want You to Prove at Our Risk.

Marvelous as it may seem, Rexall "93" Hair Tonic has grown hair on heads that were once bald. Of course it is understood that in none of these cases were the hair roots dead nor had the scalp taken on a glazed, shiny appearance.

When the roots of the hair are entirely dead and the pores of the scalp are glazed over, we do not believe that anything can restore hair growth.

When Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will do as above stated, it is not strange that we have such great faith in it and that we claim it will prevent baldness when used in time. It acts scientifically, destroying the germs which are usually responsible for baldness. It penetrates to the roots of the hair, stimulating and nourishing them. It is a most pleasant toilet necessity, is delicately perfumed and will not gum nor permanently stain the hair.

We want you to get a bottle of Rexall "93' Hair Tonic and use it as directed. If it does not relieve scalp irritation, remove dandruff, prevent the hair from falling out and promote an increased growth of hair and in every way give entire satisfaction, simply come back and tell us and without question or formality we will hand back to you every penny you paid us for it.

We lend our indorsement to Rexall "93" air Tonic and sell it on this guarantee, because we believe it is the best hair tonic ever discovered. It comes in two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain it only at our store—The Rexall Store, E. M. Tredway, 108 West Superior street.

CRUSADE IS ORGANIZED

Fight in New York Against Food Trust Extortion Proceeds.

People Demanding That Police Rid Town of Highway Thugs.

New York, Feb. 4.—With all the forces of the law and city authorities at its back the greatest crusade against food trust extortion that ever swept this city has been finally organized and set in motion here. Under the probe of a specal grand jury and the stern surveillance of every branch of the municipal administraion, the beef and milk magnates, together with the other dictators of food prices, are already showing signs of retreat from a position that has begun to spread starvation throughout the poorer quarters of this town. While diet boycotts are being taken up by New Yorkers of all classes to the horror of the retail food men, the heart of the matter will not be reached, it is declared, until the trust heads are brought to book by the strong arm of law and official regulation. At the very start, the legal inquisition has resulted in the retreat of the milk barons whose prices have been lowered a cent a quart in most cases. Cent by cent it is the intention of the authorities to reduce the present prohibitive prices for food until the cost of living in this metropolis is brought within reasonable reach of the pockets of all its people.

Garroting Grows.

Shocked by the street robbery that resulted in a haul of $28,000 from Warner Van Norden, just off Fifth avenue, the other night, the people of Gotham are today demanding that the police at once scour the town to rid it of its hordes of highway thugs. Women as well as men are playing Jesse James on the open stretches of streets that form the main night highways of town, it has been known for months, and no one can now be considered safe from the violence and thievery of the garroters. Since the days of Bingham at police headquarters swarms of crooks have descended upon this island and preyed upon its inhabitants in every possible way. Though the police are today promising to take emergency measures to check highway robbery under the bright light of the main thoroughfare, it is believed that it will take many months to dislodge the expert criminals who now make New York a dangerous place for a walk at night.

Heelers Hustle.

More work for less money is today being delivered in the offices of this city's new administrative heads than has ever been brought forth for the benefit of Father Knickerbocker in all past history in this community of pull and politics. Scores of useless job holders have already been separated from the city pay rolls to the tune of many thousands of dollars saved in salaries. The men still possessed of places in the public departments have just been ordered to keep office hours stretching from 9 till 5, while real work has been stacked upon their desks. This brutal insistence upon labor has horrified not only the formerly pampered city employes, but their political patrons as well. Meanwhile the city is waxing financially fat under some semblance of business management, and its taxpaying stockholders rejoice in a regime that threatens to upset all traditions in Tammany town.

Famous Fighters.

Pitted against each other in what promises to prove the sensation of this state during the Allds-Conger inquiry into legislative bribery charges, James W. Osborne and Martin W. Littleton are today preparing in this city for the fray. Each of these legal battlers has a record for furious fighting in court, that is equalled by few lawyers of the town.. Both are considered past masters in all arts of oratory, crafty cross-examination and court generalship. As the chief prosecuting bulldog of the district attorney's staff, Jim Osborne has made a deep mark in the Molineux, Patrick and other notorious murder trials, while Littleton has proved himself just as much of a legal Napoleon in his recent defense of Harry Thaw. With these two men in the ring when the state senate begins to thrash out the charge of graft, New Yorkers feel sure of a beautiful battle as well as a searching conduct of the case.

Reid's Rights.

Just because a neighbor is trying to hang a wicket gate on his own private passage, way behind the mansion of Whitelaw Reid, a drawn battle has been today begun by two forces of sturdy laborers for both parties. Lawyers with briefs, butlers with buckets and coachmen with whips are guarding the gangway behind the British Ambassador's big brownstone house against a brigade of stone masons and iron workers who seek to impinge thereon with an ornate gate frame. More briefs than blood have been drawn thus far in this civil warfare; but a constant crowd on the block is being afforded endless amusement by the farce.

WAS ALWAYS POOR.

But When Taken Sick Fortune Was Found in Her Stockings.

Toledo, Ohio, Feb. 4.—Like a tale of Aladdin's lamp in Arabian Nights reads the discovery of wealth of Emily Carman, aged 75, a widow of Bradner, Wood county.

Mrs. Carman always pleaded poverty. Recently she was taken sick, and when her stockings were removed $8,228.23 in money was found concealed. Several valuable diamonds also were found.

Sir Henry Norman Once Defended an Evicted Peasant Girl.

Dublin, Feb. 4.—Sir Henry Norman, the Radical member since 1900 for South Wolverhampton, who has been appointed to the newly created parliamentary office of assistant postmaster general, is, as one of the greatest travelers of his generation, well suited for a position conversant with the expeditious communication of intelligence to and fro between places far apart. Sir Henry Norman by joining the administration will break the record in being its only member who has been placed under arrest in Ireland, although John Burns suffered in his early days a term of imprisonment in England, of which he is very proud, in connection with the assertion of the right of holding public meetings.

Sir Henry Norman in the '80s of the last century was in Ireland as the representative of an English newspaper to give his impressions of the Land league agitation, which was then in its full strength. He was present at the evictions of Bodyke, on the O'Callaghan estate, in the county Clare. He was allowed as a pressman to go within the cordon of police and military surrounding the cabins from which their inhabitants were to be driven, on promising that he would be a mere spectator and not interfere.

On seeing the constabulary deliberately breaking the furniture in the cabins he felt it hard to remain passive, but when a constable struck a poor girl who was not resisting the evictors a violent blow on her bosom, Sir Henry Norman, who is of powerful physique, forgot his promise and felled the ruffian to the ground. He was immediately placed under arrest, but after some hours he was, on prudential grounds, liberated by the authorities. Sir Henry Norman keeps among his treasures a little ornament for his watch chain presented to him by the people with whose sufferings he sympathized.

MURDER CHARGES FAIL.

"Mad Magician" Is Held on Charge of Assaulting Man.

New York, Feb. 4.—The case against Herbert Dennison, the "Mad Magician," accused of the murder of little Willie Lomas and Arthur Shibley, has been dismissed for lack of evidence. Dennison was held, however, in $10,000 bail for felonious assault on John Fredericks, who positively identified Dennison as the man who had shot him while in the Bronx on Jan. 8.

S.S.S. NATURE'S CURE FOR RHEUMATISM

In a disease so painful as Rheumatism, medicines containing opiates and nerve-quieting drugs are often used. Such treatment is dangerous not only because it frequently causes the sufferer to become addicted to the drug habit, but medicines of this nature are always injurious to the system. Rheumatism is a disease of the blood, and its cure depends entirely upon a thorough purification of the circulation. As long as the blood remains saturated with uric acid, an inflammatory condition of the nerves, muscles and tendons of the body will exist, and the pains, aches, soreness, and hot, feverish flesh of Rheumatism will continue. The one safe and sure cure for Rheumatism is S. S. S. It is nature's remedy for this disease, made entirely of the healing, cleansing juices and extracts of roots, herbs and barks from the natural forests. S. S. S. does not contain anything that is in the slightest way injurious to the system. It is absolutely and purely vegetable, and free from opiates or sedatives of any kind. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism by removing the uric acid from the circulation, it makes the blood pure, rich and heaalthy so that instead of depositing sharp, uratic impurities into the muscles, nerves, joints and bones, it nourishes every portion of the body with natural, healthful properties. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free to all who write and request it.

PER CAPITA COST OF CITY GOVERNMENT WAS $8.71

Average Duluthian Paid That Amount Toward City Expenses in 1909.

City Comptroller's Annual Report Is Most Detailed Ever Issued.

The annual report of W. S. McCormick city comptroller, has just been finished. It is the longest report of all the city officials, containing sixty closely type-written pages, and is the most detailed report of the kind that has ever been issued.

The work of each department is taken up separately as is the condition of each city fund, with the receipts and disbursements. Itemized accounts of each department of the city are shown.

The report shows that the largest increase in receipts and expenditures has been in the water and light department. The increase in receipts last year over five years ago, was $212,995.39, and the increase in expenditures for the same period was $118,158.25.

The principal increase in other receipts during the past five years has been in the collection of taxes, $126,136.72, liquor licenses, $10,000; building inspector, $2,399; miscellaneous licenses $1,620.87.

The principal increase in expenditures during the past five years follow: Fire department, $15,856.61; police department, $17,507.76; street lighting, $9,396.51; hydrant rentals, $5,494.29; board of public works, $3,220.31; city engineer's department, $7,552.83; maintenance of streets, $2,679.67; municipal court, $3,285.83; water and light department, $118,158.23; boarding prisoners (county jail), $1,311.29; health department, $5,574.26; infectious diseases, $9,199.61; improvements to city property, $25,429.79; maintenance canal ferry bridge, $1,431.73; damage claims, $1,762.64.

The Bonded Debt.

The bonded debt of the city is shown in detail. The outstanding general bonds are $2,426,000 and the total of the water and light bonds is $3,121,000, the latter debt being a general lien against the water and light plant.

Man Who Substituted for Him May Be Honored With Statue.

Washington, Feb. 4.—The soldier who fought through the Civil war as the personal substitute of Abraham Lincoln may have a statue erected in commemoration of his services. Few people know that President Lincoln sent a substitute to the front during the Civil war, but his name will be engraved in the niche of fame if the bill providing for a statue in his honor becomes a law.

A bill appropriating $20,000 for the purpose has been presented in the house by Representative Palmer, Democrat, of Pennsylvania.

The name of this hitherto almost unknown hero is J. Summerfield Staples of Stroudsburg, Pa. He died there some ten years ago, and it is at Stroudsburg that it is now proposed to erect the statue. In the burial ground there a small tablet marks the resting place of Staples, bearing on its face the inscription:

"Here lies the body of J. Summerfield Staples, representative recruit of Abraham Lincoln."

No particular record of valor or heroic service is recorded in the favor of Lincoln's substitute, but the annals of the war department showed that Staples served throughout the war with honor to himself and his country.

JEWEL THEFT CLEARED UP.

Ex-Convict Admits Robbery of Iowans in Memphis.

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 4.—James J. Dolan, at several times an inmate of state prisons, brought the trial of Harry Bernstein, pawn broker of Memphis and New York, charged with implication in the theft of jewels valued at $30,000 to a climax yesterday when he acknowledged it was he who planned and accomplished, with an accomplice, the robbery.

The jewels, the property of Garret F. Lamb and Mrs. Lamb of Clinton, Iowa, stolen two years ago from the residence of Frank G. Jones of Memphis, where Mr. and Mrs. Lamb were guests, were traced to New York, finally located and Bernstein arrested in that city as having acted as receiver for the stolen goods. Dolan was arrested after his admission.

Leaves Candy on Doorsteps and Little One Eats It.

Oconto, Wis., Feb. 4.—As the result of poisoned candy left on the doorstep, the 3-year-old daughter of Nels Nelson of Suring is dead and a younger son is not expected to live.

The candy, it is supposed, was left by some demented person, for a letter last year threatened death in this manner.

CHICAGO PLANS BIG CONSERVATION MEETING.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—"Unless congress is urged to action, the entire agitation for conservation of the national resources will end in nothing."

This is the slogan of a movement, joined in by many of Chicago's commercial and economic clubs, which plans a big conservation meeting to be held here. It is planned to set forth at the meeting just what action congress ought to take. President Taft will be asked to appear. A committee has sent the president a telegram asking him to set a time to receive a delegation which will convey an invitation to him at Washington.

DOUBLE DEATH MYSTERY.

Decomposed Bodies of Man and Woman Are Found.

Philadelphia, Feb. 4.—What might have been a double murder, a consummated suicide pact, or two sudden deaths from natural causes, was discovered yesterday when the bodies of William Bohrer, a prosperous lapidary, aged 55 years, and an unidentified woman about 30 years of age were found in a room where they had lain probably for more than a month.

The room where the bodies were found was used by Bohrer as a sleeping apartment and adjoined his shop. The lapidary had not been seen since Christmas week. Bohrer's body was stretched face downward across a chair, while that of the woman lay on the bed.

There was nothing to indicate that the couple had entered a suicide pact. Neither was there any evidence of murder or robbery. Both bodies were badly decomposed.

DENIES RELATIONSHIP.

Iowa Banker No Kin to Youth Who Followed Chorus Girl.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dwight J. Meyers, the young man who waltzed his way to Duluth in order to follow his affinity, one of the chorus girls of "The Merry Widow" show, is no relative of C. D. Meyers, cashier of the First National Bank of Glenfield, Iowa. Mr. Meyers himself says. Mr. Meyers, the banker, simply wrote the police of Minneapolis, saying that several fraudulent checks had been received that were signed by the young man, and the report that he is a cousin of the cashier's is without foundation.

QUITS THE MINISTRY TO RUN A LAUNDRY.

Dickinson, N. D., Feb. 4.—Rev. W. J. Brown of the First Congregational church of this city has resigned his pastorate here to take effect April 15, when he will engage in the laundry business with E. P. Lee, formerly of Montevedio, Minn. Mr. Brown has been in the ministry for twenty years. Messrs. Brown and Lee recently incorporated the Northwestern Laundry Company of Dickinson. They will also operate at Mandan.

COOPER CASE NOW IN HANDS OF THE COURT.

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 4.—Whether Col. Duncan B. and Robin Cooper must serve twenty years for the slaying of former United States Senator F. W. Carmack, or whether they will get a new trial, now rests with the five justices of the supreme court of Tennessee.

The arguments in the motion for a rehearing were concluded yesterday. There is but one hope for the Coopers in case of an adverse decision—Governor M. R. Patterson, who is their close friend. Gen. Luke E. Wright closed the argument for the defense.

"THE BAROMETER OF TRADE."

Wall street calls itself the "barometer of trade," and again it has been busy proving beyond question that it is no such thing.

Wall street is no barometer of trade, or of business, or of prosperity or of anything else that is honest and important. It is, however, a barometer of panic, of silly fears and of manufactured alarms. It is something like a mettlesome horse which pretends to be scared to death at every sound and movement; and again it is very unlike the horse because the latter has no ulterior motive in pretending alarm. Wall street, however, has a motive. Its motive is to scare holders of securities into dumping them upon the market at a loss, and the loss becomes profit to those who manipulate the alarms. When Wall street gets all the easily scared holders of stocks to let loose of them at great loss, Wall street turns brave again, buys back these abandoned stocks, points to the richness and stability of the nation, orates about the greatness of the country and the certainty of its prosperity, and proceeds to put stocks up to their former levels.

And then, when stocks are high, the timid speculators who have been scared out pluck up courage and get back in again, just in time to have this "barometer of trade" throw another fit and precipitate another collapse in stocks. It sells at high prices the securities it bought at low prices, and then pounds them down again in order to repeat the process.

Wall street is no "barometer of trade." It is a place where gambling is done with the "securities" representing the nation's business as counters; and the average investor has about as much business buying chips in the Wall street game as a half-blind imbecile has playing poker with a deft-fingered card sharp.

A ROW ABOUT CHARTS.

Duluth has no interest in the dispute between the weather bureau and the hydrographic office about which is to make meteorological charts. The charts cover the oceans that enclose the continent, and they do not cover the Great Lakes. But since there is a dispute, and since it has been taken up locally, it may be better to get it straight than to get it crooked.

The statement has been made that the weather bureau is trying to get away from the hydrographic office the work of issuing these charts, and a great to-do has been made about what an outrage this would be. It is pointed out gravely that the weather bureau doesn't know a marlinspike from a fore-topgallant-standing-sail boom or a reef from a channel; and therefore it is asserted that it is perfectly ridiculous for that bureau to seek to steal from the hydrographic office, which knows all about these things, the work of getting out meteorological charts.

It will easily be realized from these statements that a great deal of absurd misinformation has been set afloat. In the first place, the weather bureau isn't trying to get this work away from the hydrographic office; the hydrographic office is trying to get it away from the weather bureau. In the second place, these charts have nothing to do with hydrography, or any duty pertaining to the hydrographic office; they have to do with weather: with wind directions and velocity and matters of that sort. Because meteorological charts were the proper product of the weather bureau, that bureau has been making them. Because the hydrographic office, by the very nature of its name and functions, knows nothing about weather, it hasn't been making them. So while nobody here is greatly interested in this petty row between bureaus, the work should be left where it is.

DR. ELIOT'S ANTI-STRIKE BILL.

Dr. Charles W. Eliot has asked the Massachusetts legislature to pass a bill which he has drafted for the prevention and settlement of industrial strikes.

While there appears to be nothing like an agreement as to methods, there seems to be a nearly unanimous agreement, at least on the part of the innocent bystanders who make up the third party in all industrial conflicts—the public—that something should be done. That something, whatever it is, must be fair alike to employer, worker and public; and above all it must work to prevent the disastrous and costly interruptions to industry that now result from strikes and lockouts, and that hit and hurt the employer, the worker and the public.

One thing that will count largely in giving any proposed plan a respectful hearing is to have it come from a fairminded man who is known to be just. Dr. Eliot may be just; certainly he is wise and learned: but it will not help his particular plan that he has hailed the "strike breaker" as a "hero." He might conceive a fair plan in spite of the bias that produced that remarkable utterance, and it may be that his present plan is fair and feasible; but it starts in with a handicap because of that unfortunate remark of his.

His bill is called "an act to provide for the public investigation of industrial disputes and the prevention and settlement of strikes and lockouts," and it is modeled upon the lines of the excellent Canadian industrial disputes act. It goes further than the Canadian law, however, and covers not only public utilities, but all industries—public, private and quasi-public. It provides that all labor disputes shall be referred, on petition of either side, to a board of investigation to be appointed by the commissioner of labor. There shall be no strike or lockout until the board has heard all the facts. Books, papers and witnesses may be introduced, and lawyers may be barred from the hearing if the board regards them as a menace to peace and settlement. During the investigation the parties "may" agree in writing to abide by the decision; but if they do not the board of investigation falls back on the weapon of publicity. It files a full statement of the proceedings, with its recommendations, with the commissioner of labor as a public document, and then adjourns, leaving the situation to public opinion.

Though the intention in this measure may not be questioned, its efficacy may be and will be. The Canadian act goes much further than merely to become a basis for forming public sentiment regarding any proposed industrial conflict. Whether publicity is in this case a sufficient remedy, and whether compulsory compliance with the terms of the recommendations of the investigating board is enforceable, are questions that Dr. Eliot's measure makes ripe for discussion.

THE TAX ON BUTTER.

The National Livestock exchange, representing the beef producers of the country, has appealed to congress to repeal the law taxing oleomargarine to keep up the price of butter.

That makes it clear enough that the beef producers do not milk their cows, or else that their cattle are mostly steers. Cattle raisers who are in the dairy business take an opposite view, and would rather see the oleomargarine tax raised than repealed.

Clearly, however, a fight is on against the oleo tax. With butter at its present price, it will be hard to get the average consumer excited about preserving the oleo tax. The specific purpose of this tax is not to raise revenue, because a lower tax would raise more revenue. Its object is to prevent the use of oleo in competition with butter. If it were not for the tax, colored oleo would sell much cheaper than colored creamery butter, and as oleo is good food, though not so tempting as butter, many would use it and suffer no harm.

If the country considers it proper, as a measure of encouragement to the dairy and creamery interests, to retain the tax on oleo, well and good. But it should not be done upon any hypocritical presumption that it is a measure to protect the people against imitation butter or that it is a revenue measure. Laws requiring oleo to be labeled as such and punishing severely attempts to palm it off for butter amply protect the public. If revenue is required, a lower tax would raise more. If the tax is kept, it should be clearly understood that consumers of butter are being taxed for the profit of the dairy and creamery interests.

The tax on oleo is a tax on butter, paid by the consumer to the creamery proprietor. If it is justified, it should be justified in that light, and in no other light.

RYE BREAD AND LENTILS.

Profitable discussion came out of one feature of the recent British campaign. The Liberals declared that if the Unionists won and adopted a protective tariff, the people of the British isles would be ground down to such a level that they would have to eat the black bread which the people of protectionist Germany consume in large quantities.

Now the opponents of a protective tariff easily could have found much better arguments than that; and to be just with them, they did. They told about the conditions in this country that have grown out of the application of the principle of high protection, and they made effective use of horrible examples borrowed from the United States.

But the debate over this black bread question brought out something worth while. It was quite fierce and heated, and after its political aspect had been thoroughly threshed out its economic and medical side had a showing. And this was all in favor of Germany's "black bread."

The black bread of Germany is nothing more or less than rye bread, or rather pumpernickel. Pumpernickel is bread made out of unbolted rye flour. Those who have cultivated a taste for bread made out of wheat flour don't like it. Those who have cultivated a taste for pumpernickel think wheat bread flat and tasteless. Usually rye bread is used where wheat bread is scarce and too expensive. There is no disgrace about using it, however, and it is mighty good food. Germany has been born and bred on it, and Germany can make a pretty good showing with any nation so far as physical endurance and efficiency are concerned.

But the British debate on the black bread of Germany brought out some more important things about it. The London Lancet, one of the world's leading medical authorities, took up with energy the cause of pumpernickel. It showed that it contains about the same amount of nutriment as wheat bread, though of a different kind. There is more carbon and hydrogen, but somewhat less gluten. There is about the same amount of nitrogen in each. A distinct advantage of rye bread is that it keeps fresh much longer than wheat bread. One of its disadvantages—if it is a disadvantage in the light of the present price of wheat bread—is that once you have acquired a liking for it white bread is flat and unsatisfying.

Pumpernickel has helped materially to make the German nation and the German army. If it were not for pumpernickel and lentils Germany would have a hard task to feed its army: and pumpernickel and lentils contain nearly all the food elements needed to keep the human body going well.

Great Britain has thus far escaped the protective tariff, so it has not been driven to the black bread of Germany. This country has not escaped "protection," so it is looking about for means of cheapening its food. It may be driven to the black bread of Germany yet; and if it does it will not be a great deal worse off, so far as nutriment is concerned, than it is now. As to cost—rye is now about 80 cents a bushel and wheat is well over a dollar.

Anyway, Charles L. Warriner is fixing for a nice respite from prison life by a long series of sessions on the witness stand.

Some Kansas farmers plan to "get even" with the labor unions that are boycotting meat by working against the protective tariff. It is refreshing to see this spirit of returning good for evil.

The North Dakota Implement Dealers "resolved" against the parcels post and also against the high express rates. Just another case of hating to be sick but refusing to do anything to get well.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about live topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

THE LAST WORD ON SHIP SUBSIDY CONTROVERSY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The person from Duluth who tries to defend "ship subsidy" asks: "How could ship subsidy * * * be a defense to special interests?" and inserts the provision, "providing that ships carrying our flags shall transport supplies to our navy in time of war."

One reason that ship subsidy is asked of congress is to enable those "special interests" (men who wish to build ships in this case) to draw an amount from the treasury sufficient to offset the difference in cost of building ships in the United States, under the high-tariff conditions, and in those countries which have no high tariff, which difference is nearly 50 per cent in some instances. In other words, it would defend "special interests" in the shipping industry as against those iniquitous, overbearing impositions produced by high tariff and tolerated by the sufferance of the people by aiding those "special interests" financially in sufficient amount to enable them to build boats in America under the existing circumstances. Do all lines of business receive from the government a little "coin" to establish business?

If our government must pay one-half the cost of building a merchant marine, why not build the entire amount and hold possession and run it, and derive the entire benefit, and call it the auxiliary?

Any person who knows anything about an agreement knows that any contract made with ship owners flying the American flag could not be enforced to that extent that they "shall transport supplies to our navy in time of war," because the enemy may cut them off. Such arguments are null and void because of the impossibility to deliver goods when there are men of war to intercept them.

They may try to deliver a valuable cargo, but it would be, if intercepted by the enemy, supplying the enemy under duress. And our navy is capable of capturing such contraband of war itself if the enemy may have any such cargoes.

I believe any citizen has the right to question the action of any public servant who does not carry out the wishes of the constituency.

WHY NOT LIGHT, TOO?

To the Editor of The Herald:

While on the subject of municipal ownership, I would like to add my say. I can hark back to the days when we had to pay 75 cents a month for just one cold water tap, without a waste pipe, and now we have hot and cold water in both kitchen and bath room and basement, and use all we want, and the cost is not over 70 cents, and more often 53 cents per month.

I presume everybody pays accordingly, and I would like to see the electric lights given us in the same way. It would seem that the cost of furnishing light would not exceed the cost of furnishing water, and we could then have enough light, and better light, at a much less cost.

Think of a seven-room house, not over-well supplied with light, at a cost of $5.50 per month. This would make it seem that some one was getting more profit than they should.

To the Dove of Peace.

(A Toast.)

Here's to the Dove of Peace!
May she find a mate some day,
And may her tribe increase
As fast as she can lay!

With cooing doves galore
Then may the sky be dark
Until the Dogs of War
Can hear each other bark!
—Oliver Herford in Collier's.

The Substance of Life.

Harper's Weekly: In middle age we no longer expect to find happiness lurking round the corner. All the more do we begin to look life in the face to see what it really is; and thus seen, it acquires a value, a substantiality we had not noticed before.

Some men never reach middle age—as thus defined—at all. The poet that dies young in every man, rarely ifever does. The professional poets went young to their graves, whether with Chatterton's years or Walt Whitman's. They have their compensations—assuredly, the poets—but no man who has tasted knowledge of life, real and solid and good in itself, would wish to return to the stage in which life is a mere medium for sentiment, or love, or animal spirits. Perhaps this is a reason why so many men of business and affairs are inclined to be rather contemptuous of poets and their works. They know that better even than fine things said about life is the life itself.

Romantic passion is out of sight in the wake, gone down the wind, but the affections are quite satisfying once one reaches them. After all, the only romantic lovers who hold out to the end are the unhappy lovers. Since time was, matrimony and work and steady aims have always ploughed the romantic emotions under. While the strong patience and affection that can work easily in double harness would never burn Troytown or lose Actium's sea-fight, it creates the world three times anew each century and does the world's work faithfully. No lovers would change with Philemon and Baucis, but no hard-working couples of whom we have record would be young lovers again. They would as soon change to a pair of whispering trees or to harmless and beautiful green and gold snakes sunning themselves in a mountain dell. Work done, no more fevers and chills, no more fits and starts for them; rather reabsorption into the strength and silence and patient endurance of the natural world.

Yesterday, Today and Forever.

We are very slightly changed
From the semi-apes who ranged
India's prehistoric clay.
Whoso drew the longest bow
Ran his brother down, you know,
As we run men down today.

Dowb, the first of all his race,
Met the mammoth face to face
On the lake or in the cave;
Stole the steadiest canoe,
Ate the quarry others slew,
Died, and took the finest grave

When they scratched the reindeer bone
Some one made the sketch his own—
Filched it from the artist—then,
Even in those early days,
Won a simple viceroy's praise
Through the toil of other men.

E'er they hewed the sphinx's visage
Favoritism governed kissage,
Even as it does in this age.

Who shall doubt the secret hid
Underneath the pyramid
Is that the contractor did
Cheops out of several millions,
Or that Joseph's sudden rise
To comptroller of supplies
Was a fraud of monstrous size
On King Pharaoh's swart civilians?

Thus the artless songs I sing
Do not deal with anything
New, or never done before
As it was in the beginning
Is today official sinning,
And shall be, forevermore.
—Rudyard Kipling.

THE WEATHER.

The weather last night was really great, and so it is today. There is a little wind that blows the dust around downtown, but the sun is shining brightly, the temperature is not uncomfortable and, taken all in all, the weather is enjoyable, the kind that makes one glad to live in Duluth. What's more, the weather man promises a continuance of the conditions. The mercury touched 18 deg. last night as a low point, and a minimum of 10 deg. is predicted for tonight.

A year ago today was warm and cloudy.

The sun rose this morning at 7:29 and it will set at 5:15, giving nine nine hours and forty-six minutes of sunshine.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The Eastern storm is central off the New England coast. During the past twenty-four hours snow or rain resulted in most districts to the eastward of the Mississippi river, except in the western lake region. Another depression apparently central near Hudson bay has caused warmer weather in Minnesota, the Lake Superior region and the Missouri valley. An increase in pressure throughout Southern and Eastern states is attended by colder weather. The barometer continues abnormally high over Wyoming. Zero temperatures prevail there and in Nevada.

"A continuance of pleasant weather may be expected at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Some men and many phonographs have bad records.

You can save yourself lots of trouble by not borrowing it.

Charity that expects a return on the investment isn't charity.

Many a woman holds her mirror up to art instead of to nature.

The flower of a flock of girls isn't a flower at all; she's a peach.

Ever notice how much better a sample is than the real thing?

Judge a man by his daily talk rather than by his Sunday prayers.

Many a man at the age of 50 wishes he was half as smart as he thought he was at the age of 21.

And when a man meets a woman with genuine blonde hair he always wonders if it is genuine.

While it may not be lucky to have a rabbit's foot, every intelligent rabbit knows that it is unlucky to lose one.

Husbands, occasionally, are men who stay at home and earn money to pay the bills of wives who go away on vacations.

City Bred Boys.

Life: President Finley of the College of the City of New York, says the country-bred boy is having his innings in this generation, but in the next generation it will be the city boy who will do the big things. City problems are to be the great problems of the future, he says, and city boys will solve them.

Dr. Finley is a country-bred boy from Illinois, in charge of a big, free college for city boys. When he says the city boy is the coming winner, he talks with commendable fidelity to his job.

The city boy is a highly stimulated product. The great danger is that the stimulation will begin too soon and conflict with development. The hardest things to provide for them are clean, fresh air and play space. The country is ideal if the mind can be actively alive there. The city is admirable if it does not stunt the body's growth and restrict contemplation. Dr. Finley may be right, but the combination of the country for childhood and the city for manhood has worked well heretofore, and we do not expect to see it beaten.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

E. E. Sherwin, general agent of the American Express company here for some time, has been succeeded by Agent Brown, late of Fargo. Mr. Sherwin will go into the real estate business.

The citizens of Tower have re-elected Mayor Shephard for another term. The remainder of the ticket was elected as follows: Recorder, J. M. Sovde; treasurer, C. H. Oppel; aldermen, John Noslund, James Tippett and Neil McInnis; judge, Seth Scott; assistant judge, J. Brown; assessor, John Murphy; constable, James Beatty.

About 200 voters of Duluth at the recent city election evidently did not understand the Australian system of voting, and as a result their ballots were not counted. Notably this was the case in the First ward. Some voted for all three candidates for mayor and left the rest of the ticket blank; others scratched out the name of the mayor they wanted to vote for and voted for all the aldermen. Some voted for three aldermen and took no notice of the head of the ticket; others wrote the names of their choice on the back of the ticket. Taken altogether, the rejected tickets were remarkable literary productions

Louis Ramstadt of West Duluth was married on Feb. 1 to Miss Inga Hammer of Duluth at the residence of Rev. Peterson of the Norwegian Lutheran church. They will reside on Fourth street west, near Sixth avenue.

At the West Duluth council meeting last evening a communication was received from W. J. Holmes of Fergus Falls, affering to build a street railway in West Duluth within one year, if granted a franchise. The matter was laid over until the next meeting. Mr. Holmes has purchased the village bond issue to the amount of $30,000.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Should Have No Opposition.

Virginia Virginian: When the late Governor John A. Johnson selected Judge Martin Hughes of Hibbing to preside over the destinies of the range court he exercised that same high grade of intelligence which made him such a successful governor and so great a prime favorite with the people of Minnesota.

Martin Hughes was appointed a district judge about two years ago and since that time has made a distinct hit with every litigant who has been brought before him. The attorneys of St. Louis county have come to know that Judge Hughes possesses all the necessary qualifications for the high office to which he has been appointed and the majority of them would like to see him returned to office when election time rolls around next fall.

May Miss Fire Altogether.

Deer River News: We notice a lot of the politicians who are mentioned for bigger offices come out with the statement that they will be mighty glad to be returned to their present station. And some of them won't get that.

Prefer to Tax the People.

Hutchinson Leader: There are methods which could be adopted that would legitimately encourage American shipping, but they would not enable the privileged class to get their greedy hands deeper into the United States treasury, hence they are not approved by the "business interests."

The Real Reasons.

Fairmont Sentinel: There are but two principle reasons for the increasing cost of all the necessaries of life—first, the tariff prevents all possibility of competition from abroad; second, the trusts and other combinations stifle competition at home and arbitrarily raise prices to suit themselves. Congressional committees and others may investigate until doom's day but they can not get around the two chief reasons why the people are compelled to pay so much more than formerly for the right to live, even in the most humble manner.

Making Democratic Arguments.

Ortonville Herald-Star: Some of the Republican boys are putting up a fine line of argument for the Democrats next fall.

"There's a Reason."

Madison Independent-Press: It is claimed that Taft favors and wants to see Kellogg made senator from this state in place of Clapp. Well, of course, Clapp, you will remember, branded Taft's tariff bill a monstrosity.

Both Are Good Citizens in Disguise.

Swanville News: When a Republican does something extraordinarily good—which is sometimes actually the case—he is lauded by the Democratic press as a Democrat in disguise. Likewise is a Democrat accused of parading masked if his acts are approved of by the Republican press. Did you ever notice this?

Lots of Saving Needed.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: New Yorkers are urging the immediate return of Mr. Roosevelt, as he is looked upon as the only man who can "save" the Republican party of that state. Unless appearances are mighty deceptive there are many other states that are sadly in need of Republican saving.

Adam Easily Persuaded.

Brainerd Dispatch: J. Adam Bede intimates that if "the boys" want him he will be a candidate for congress again in the Eighth district. Just which boys he means is not made clear, but it is not expected that a very great amount of urging will be necessary to put Adam in the running.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: A woman's mirror tells her the truth; she interprets it falsely.

Even a man with sense can prove he hasn't any when he makes a speech.

A married man brags more about it in the first six months than all the rest of his life.

A man can get a reputation for most anything if he has enough money to prove it.

There doesn't seem to be more than half a dozen ways to make money, but a million to lose it.

Unalive.

Puck: The bluff old sea-dog in the sea-story raised his battered trumpet to his lips.

"Look alive, mum!" he shouted over the roar of the gale.

But the beautiful girl only shook her head.

"How can I?" she asked with touching pathos. "If the book weren't illustrated, I might; but as the case stands, alas! I can only look as the artist makes me!"

And walking to the taffrail, she gazed woodenly out over the yeasty deep.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Philadelphia Ledger: "How do yoah 'possum taste, suh?" asked the solicitous waiter.

"Well," responded the patron who had ordered the article, "it tastes pretty good, but it isn't 'possum."

"No, suh," rejoined the waiter, "an' dat's a sign it's genuine. De genuine 'possum is a great pretender, suh; yas, suh."

Detroit Free Press: "Brown has an idea that he can do things that other people fail at."

"Is that so?"

"Yes, he insists that he is going to keep a diary."

Buffalo Express: The hose wagon passed at a gallop and then the hook and ladder truck clanged along. "Look at that man stealin' a ride!" exclaimed Uncle Jeb, pointing to the tillerman.

Catholic Standard: "Nevertheless," said the young Roman, "he is an ambitious poet. He would serve the muses all his life."

"But," replied the elder, "he makes the mistake of supposing that Bacchus is one of the muses."

Boston Herald: Hank Stubbs—I see by the papers that Madison Square Garden is to be done away with.

Bige Miller—Jest like them city folks, sp'ilin' all outdoors fur the sake uv gittin' up another buildin'.

Washington Star: "Why do you call your engine Central American Republic?"

"Because," answered the inventor, "it yields a maximum number of revolutions with a minimum application of initial force."

Judge: Madge—Did you tell him you didn't believe him when he told you that you were the first girl he'd ever loved?

Marjorie—No; but I came right back at him with another whopper. Said he was the first man who had ever kissed me.

Chicago Tribune: "Maria, I can't stand it any longer. Where did you put my pipe?"

"Up in the attic, John, behind the old trunk, along with a package of chewing gum I put there at the same time. You may as well bring them both down."

Chicago Record-Herald: "I have just been reading that Lord Byron was a very clever boxer."

"There must be some mistake about it."

"Why do you think so?"

"If he could box, why did he waste his time writing poetry?"

Cleveland Leader: "Who is that fellow who has been advertising for a chauffeur?"

"The author of 'Paddle Your Own Canoe.'"

Tit-Bits: Small Boy—Pa, what is an optimist?

Pa—An optimist, my son, is a man who doesn't care a rap what happens, so that it doesn't happen to him.

Boston Transcript: Maud—Do you believe in palmistry?

Ethel—In a way. I've known it to work splendidly as a starter when the young man was shy.

SUPERIOR

SWITCHMAN IS INJURED.

Sam Butler Falls Under Moving Car in Terminal Yards.

Sam Butler, a switchman, fell under the wheels of a moving boxcar yesterday afternoon in the terminal yards, sustaining serious injuries. His right leg was badly crushed and it may be found necessary to amputate it.

He was engaged in making a coupling between a string of moving boxcars when he stumbled and fell under the cars. His hand and elbow were also badly injured. He is at St. Mary's hospital.

ACCEPT CERTIFICATES WITHOUT ANY CHANGES.

Wood & Oakley, bond attorneys, have passed upon the $100,000 issue of school bonds recently authorized by the council. The report of the attorneys on the certificates of indebtedness require no changes and reflect much credit on City Attorney Lyons, who prepared the bonds.

As soon as the certificate of the approval of Wood & Oakley has been printed on the back of the bonds they will be forwarded to the Security Trust company of St. Paul, which made the highest bid. The Farwell Trust company of Chicago is associated with the St. Paul concern in the purchase.

Fire Destroys Home.

A blaze starting from a defective stovepipe destroyed the home of John Hudlacek, a laborer at the Duplex factory at South Superior, last night. There was no insurance, and the family saved nothing from the fire. The owner had $300 in paper money, representing a year's savings, sewed in a mattress and the money was destroyed.

CONTRACTS FOR NORMAL SCHOOL DORMITORY LET.

Sedlachek & Aris, a Superior contracting firm was yesterday awarded the general contract for the erection of the new normal school dormitory for women. The bid was approximately $39,000. Martin & Wigman of Green Bay will install the heating plant for $4,000. On their bid of $3,500 Stack Bros. of Superior will do the plumbing work. Neil & Co. of Superior were awarded the contract for the wiring. The total cost will be $51,000. The contracts were let yesterday at a meeting of the normal school regents at Madison.

DETECTIVE DILL RESIGNS.

Officer Who Was Suspended Recently Quits Superior Police Force

Detective P. A. Dill, who was recently suspended by Chief McKinnon for alleged insubordination, today tendered his resignation from the force. He was suspended two weeks ago following the removal of Patrolman McIntosh from the force for misconduct. It was claimed that Dill became too much interested in the matter at the time, not conforming with the rules of discipline in force in the police department.

Richelieu Hotel Sold.

W. B. Silvey of Duluth, former owner of the Spalding hotel of that city and the owner of the Hotel Superior, has purchased from John M. Szarkowski the Richelieu hotel, Sixth street and Ogden avenue. The price paid was about $22,000.

State Treasurer on Visit.

State Treasurer Andrew H. Dahl arrived in Superior yesterday to audit the books of the local office of the Wisconsin State Grain & Warehouse commission. It will take several days to do the work.

Held for Watch Theft.

The police are holding Robert Robertson, a cook employed at the saloon of Halverson & Simson on Third street between Tower and Banks avenues for the alleged theft of a watch from Simson late yesterday. Simson accuses Robertson of the theft, but nothing incriminating was found upon him.

INDIANS' FRIEND'S SUDDEN SUMMONS

International Falls, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—L. M. Bowlin, pioneer homesteader and hotel keeper of Rainy Lake City, friend of the Indians along the Rainy river for years, and one of the best known pioneers of this section, died very suddenly the night before last, being found dead in bed yesterday morning.

For several years Mr. Bowlin lived on his homestead and kept a stopping place at what was once Rainy Lake City, remaining there after the boom ended and every other family had moved away.

A widow and five children survive. The funeral will be held here tomorrow.

BIG DEBTS TO NOBLES

Of France and Great Britain Incurred By Count De Castellane.

Were Piled Up After His Marriage to Jay Gould's Daughter.

New York, Feb. 4.—None of the members of the firm of Coudert Bros., the Franco-American lawyers who represent the 120 creditors of Anna Gould, the Princess de Sagan, in collecting their claims, amounting in all to about $6,000,000, would talk about the case. Nor would and member of the Gould family discuss the affair. It appears of record that Coudert Bros. also represent the American princess in some of the most important transactions involved in the litigation.

They have filed schedules of creditors which show that Princess Anna's one-sixth of the income from her father's estate of $120,000,000 is obligated by the terms of settlement in amounts ranging from a few hundred to several hundred thousand dollars, and among her creditors are small tradesmen and scions of the produest families in Europe.

Some of the Big Claims.

Following is a list of the heaviest claimants whose claims have been allowed by Judge Lacombe in the United States circuit court:

|---|---|
| The Duchess de Noailles | $344,995 |
| Le Soleil Life Insurance company | 310,077 |
| Barclay, Harris, Campbell & Coleman | 390,400 |
| Leonard Tredante and Edouard Hagues | 160,772 |
| Susman, Rheims & Co. | 46,795 |
| Charles Mannheim | 45,379 |
| The Levys and their wives | 137,971 |
| Charles Wertheimer | 311,886 |
| Asher Wertheimer | 477,103 |
| Redfern | 3,287 |
| Minna King, the Marchioness of Anglesey | 2,898 |
| Henri E. Lesetu | 21,228 |
| S. H. Spiegler Paschal | 12,911 |
| Adolph Siegler | 12,035 |
| Isadore Siegler | 62,615 |
| Ambroise S. Vincent | 30,201 |
| Andre Aucoc | 23,532 |
| Frederick Bouchenon | 71,933 |
| J. Boin and Henry | 14,165 |
| Jean Baptiste Chaumont | 23,043 |
| Ernest Landeau | 39,349 |
| Charles Sene | 13,406 |
| Baudet, Donon & Co | 48,845 |
| Brochon & Fils | 41,356 |
| A. Cruchet | 29,738 |
| Le Roy & Co. | 22,899 |
| A. Valet | 14,864 |
| Hector & Espouy | 15,265 |
| E. Sanson | 14,721 |

Explanations Withheld.

Nobody supposed to be acquainted with the character and cause of these debts could be induced to explain them. It was pointed out as probably significant that what appear to be millinery and such bills, presumably contracted by the Princess De Sagan herself when she was the Countess De Castellane, are among the smallest items.

The items that are arousing the most interest are those presented in the names of the Duchess De Noailles and the Marchioness of Anglessey. The former's bill is for the enormous amount of $344,995.

How that huge amount of indebtedness was accumulated by so aristocratic a lady of Europe against the then Countess De Castellane—it was all piled up in the first four years of Anna Gould's married life with the little count—is not understood by the friends of the Gould family here.

About half of the debt has been paid. The entire amount has been approved by the Princess De Sagan and the court here.

Creme De La Creme.

The Duchess De Noailles is one of the most aristocratic of society leaders in Paris. Where the De Noailles are seen at their best and where the haughty old dowager duchess has entertained Anna Gould is at their country seat at Maintenon, in the department of the Euro-Et-Loire.

It was a present from Louis XIV to his morganatic wife, Mme. De Maintenon, who in turn gave it to her niece, wife of an ancestor of the De Noailles family. Acquaintance with this family, and especially with the dowager duchess, is a passport to the world. As the duchess is engaged in no form of business, as is none of the members of her immediately family, friends of the Goulds in New York are at a loss to understand why Anna Gould should have become indebted to her for more than $300,000.

Recalls Cause Celebre.

The debt to the young marchioness of Anglesey is small, but almost of equal interest to New Yorkers. The marchioness is the widow of the eccentric marquis of Anglesey of England, who was twice her age, when she married him, and whom she was about to divorce when he conveniently died. She is the daughter of Sir George Chetwynd, a member of King Edward's set and scion of one of Britain's most aristocratic families.

One of her maternal ancestors was Minna King of Georgia, who was one of the first of American beauties to marry into the English aristocracy. Soon after the death of her eccentric English lord, the marchioness married a Mr. Galliat of France, but retained her English title. She and Anna Gould have been fast friends, both in France and England, for a decade.

It is assumed that the marchioness made advances to the princess when the latter's income was first cut down by her family here with the view of liquidating her large indebtedness.

How Nervous Men Get Most Out of Life.

(From "Successful Men.")

Every normal minded man wishes to get all he can out of life—but many a man knows that he is falling far short.

The successful man works, eats and plays with the keenest enjoyment, because his nerves are keenly sensitive. He tastes, hears, sees and feels all with the highest emotions of vigorous healthy nerves. As a consequence he has stamina, endurance and personal magnetism, which makes those near and dear to him, worship his manliness, chivalry and strenuousness.

Without keen, sensitive, well nourished nerves, such a man would be an object of pity, and not the brilliant success he is. All men should have well-nourished nerves, but if the blood and vital organs do not supply the chemical or substance known as nerve fluid, then the waste of the nerves is not renewed daily and hourly as it should be. The nerves become exhausted, giving rise to such symptoms as trembling hands and limbs, cold feet and hands, melancholia, hysteria, timidity, nervousness, sleeplessness, dizziness, heart palpitation, pains in the back, headache, langour and weariness at all times. A most valuable nerve treatment, restorative in every sense, is to be found in the following prescription, emanating it is said, from a brilliant and successful specialist on nervous ailments.

The treatment can be prepared in the privacy of home and thus causes no one any embarrassment. First get three ounces of syrup of sarsaparilla compound in a six ounce bottle. To this add one ounce of compound fluid balmwort, shake well and let stand two hours. Then add one ounce of tincture cadomene compound (not cardamom) and one ounce of compound essence cardiol. Mix. Shake well and take a teaspoonful after each meal and one when retiring.

It is astonishing to feel the new nerve force, the steadied nerves, and the control of every muscle in the body after using this. Overworked office men, and the many victims of society's late hours and dissipation will surely find in this the restorative, rejuvenating force they are sorely in need of. The ingredients are used in various prescriptions and any good druggist can supply them.

NEW SKIN REMEDY STOPS ALL ITCHING

Skin Troubles of Adults and Infants Quickly Cured.

When it is known that poslam, the new skin discovery, will stop the torturous itching attending eczema with first application and bring immediate relief and comfort to sufferers from all skin troubles, its merit will be appreciated and its wonderful success understood. On the tender skin of chafing infants, poslam may be used with soothing and beneficial effects. It is applied externally, and its remarkable healing powers begin at once.

All skin diseases, including eczema, acne, herpes, rash, tetter, etc., yield immediately to poslam. Occasional applications, in small quantities will quickly banish pimples, hives, blackheads, blotches, and will relieve and cure itching feet, scaly scalp, humors, etc. A special 50-cent package is prepared for those who use poslam for these minor skin troubles. This, as well as the regular two-dollar jar, is on sale at the Lyceum Pharmacy and W. A. Abbett's in Duluth and the A. E. Holmberg Drug Co., in Superior, and other leading drug stores.

An experimental supply of poslam may be obtained free of charge by writing to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York.

President Helps Orphans.

Hundreds of orphans have been helped by the President of the Industrial Orphans' Home at Macon, Ga., who writes: "We have used Electric Bitters in this Institution for nine years. It has proved a most excellent medicine for Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles. We regard it as one of the best family medicines on earth." It invigorates all vital organs, purifies the blood, aids digestion, creates appetite. To strengthen and build up pale, thin, weak children or rundown people it has no equal. ## SEXTON SHOT BY MISTAKE

McDonald Fired at Wrong Man—Not Expected to Live.

Late this afternoon a long distance call was received by James Sexton, a brother of Howard Sexton of this city, who was shot twice through the body yesterday at Walker, from his mother who is at Walker, saying that it is believed that the shooting of Sexton was the result of a mistake, McDonald thinking he was another man, against whom he bore a grudge of long standing.

McDonald has not been apprehended. Young Sexton is in a very serious condition as a result of the shooting and it is not expected that he will live.

McDonald Still At Bay.

Walker, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Walter McDonald, who late yesterday fatally shot Howard Sexton of Duluth, a hotel clerk, on being refused a drink of liquor and who then barricaded himself in his home, is still holding out despite a cordon of deputy sheriffs about the place.

When the sheriff called on McDonald he said:

"You'd better come with me, Mac, because we are going to get you."

McDonald replied:

"Bob, if you've got anybody down town you don't like, send 'em up here to arrest me and I'll bore a hole through 'em."

With that he shut the door.

NO INDIGESTION OR SICK STOMACH

Gas, Heartburn, Dpspepsia and All Misery in Stomach Vanishes.

Take your sour, out-of-order stomach—or maybe you call it Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gastritis or Catarrh of Stomach; it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and let you eat one 12-grain Triangule and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your former misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; the Digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite, pressure and fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, biliousness, sick heahdache, nervousness, dizziness or many other similar symptoms.

If your appetite is fickle, and nothing tempts you, or you belch gas or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself in five minutes that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.

Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take a little Diapepsin.

COLLECTOR WILLCUTS TO THANK THE PRESIDENT.

Washington, Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator Nelson has made an appointment whereby he may introduce L. M. Willcuts, collector of customs at Duluth, to President Taft tomorrow morning, in order that Mr. Willcuts may have an opportunity to thank the president in person for his reappointment.

You Can Always Have a Clean Home—Usa a Peerless Suction Cleaner.

Sometimes when you are down town, come in and see the "Peerless"—it's the best you can possibly find. It costs $65. Most other makes—if they approach the "Peerless" in goodness, size, or ease of operation, cost you $100.

The "Peerless" suction cleaner is easily attached to any electric fixture—there is absolutely no dust to settle on things—it cleans rugs, carpets, drapery, upholstered furniture, walls, stairs, hardwood floors, etc., and you will more than save the cost of it in a year. Any one can operate it—it is not complicated.

Beside having your home free from dust and dirt, it saves the rugs and carpets. People ruin fine rugs and carpets by having them cleaned with a stick or beater—with a "Peerless" you can clean your rugs and carpets right on the floor.

These cleaners are easily carried about from place to place—you can use them in any room and it only takes a small space—about the size of a water pail—in your closet.

Remember — the only place where you can buy the Peerless Suction Clearners in Duluth is at

FOWLS COURT ADMIRATION

Hundreds of Chickens Stand at Attention in Duluth Show.

Biggest Exhibit Ever Held By Local Association Is Opened.

If one wants to hear noise, varied and of most peculiar nature, one may wander into the poultry show and his desire will be gratified. There are 800 fowls of varied social standing, from the dignified Plymouth Rock to the cocky bantam, and as dignity in a chicken is as important as it is in the chairman of a German picnic committee, the lengths to which the fowls are going to draw attention to themselves are obvious.

There is every variety of fowl—Leghorns, bantams, Plymouth Rocks, Houdans, Wyandottes, Andulusians and every other breed. They are all there, and they all seem intensely proud of the fact.

Some of the Polish fowls, owned by Mayor Bert Williams of Ashland, have been accused of wearing rats in their combs. They sure do something to make their combs stand out, as the up-to-date maiden of today makes her hair stand aloof and proud, drawing admiring attention to its erectness.

The show which opened this afternoon will be the largest and most complete ever given in Duluth. The largest show ever given by the poultry association in the past had something over 500 fowls. The show which was officially opened this afternoon has something like 827 chickens, one-third of these being from out of the city.

Breeders from several states have their best fowls here and the competition is sure to be very close. Some of the prize winners at the Minneapolis show are on hand and will meet new competition in the local and outside fowls. The show is even thought to have a stronger number of entries than the Minneapolis show.

James A. Tucker, the official judge, began his work this afternoon. In every class there is a very large number of fowls, for there are seventy-seven breeders represented at the show. Some of the prize winners of the Northwest will be seen in competition and according to the dope, some of the famous old money getters of the past are due to be deposed by younger blood.

EXPRESS RATE CHARGES HEARD

Examiner Lyons Takes Testimony Under Complaint By Minnesota Man.

New York, Feb. 4.—In an effort to find out whether the four principal express companies of the country are really competitive or whether there is a working agreement between them to maintain rates, Examiner Frank Lyons of the interstate commerce commission began hearings today in this city.

The investigation is on complaint of State Senator B. L. Sundburg of Kennedy, Minn., who, in his complaint, alleges that the American, the Adams, the United States and the Wells-Fargo express companies are not competetive in the strict sense of the word, but that their rates have been raised to and maintained at an exorbitant level as the result of an agreement which has eliminated competition.

Tells About Directors.

Edward T. Platt, treasurer and director of the United States Express company, testified regarding the interests of various directors of his company. He declared that Francis Lynde Stetson did not represent the American Express company interests in the United States Express directorate. Mr. Stetson was elected at the same time as Levi C. Weir, Mr. Platt stated. The United States Express directorate was not increased to admit them, Gen. Alger and one other resigning to make way for them. The witness said he could not remember the other resignation.

In reply to a question as to whether the stockholders ever had elected a director, counsel for the defendant instructed Mr. Platt not to make answer.

Funeral of Mrs. Kohnen.

The funeral of Mrs. Julia Kohnen, who died Wednesday at her home, 2803 West Superior street, will be held Saturday morning from the Sacred Heart cathedral at 9 o'clock, interment at Cavalry cemetery. Mrs. Kohnen was a pioneer resident of Duluth. She is survived by her husband, Henry Kohnen, three daughters and one son, all living in Duluth. They are: Mrs. Julia McIntosh, Miss Angelina Kohnen, Mrs. Agnes Sheltry and Frank Kohnen. Three sisters, Mrs. Ed Devine, Mrs. J. J. Sullivan, and Mrs. O'Leary and one brother, J. W. Sullivan, also live in Duluth.

Reopen Spanish Schools.

Madrid, Feb. 4.—The government today issued a decree authorizing the reopening of the free schools the conduct of which is in keeping with the law. The schools in question were closed following the revolutionary outbreak at Barcelona.

BRAVE MEN ARE NEEDED

Census Men Will Ask Questions That May Be Resented.

He's Paid to Get Information and Doesn't Frame Questions.

"Are you prepared for the census man?" may well be asked at this time, especially of the women. He may ask some questions that are not considered quite the proper thing. The age, for instance.

He will also ask the girls, whether they are old maids. It requires a brave man to take a census. He will also ask how long each person has been married. If one refuses to answer the questions of the impertinent census man and slam the door in his face, he will go around to the back door and start over again. He is paid to gather facts.

Every person is expected to give his real age to the census man, however guarded the secret has been these many seasons. It is hardly expected that the average age of the women of the city of Duluth will be found as great as that of the men.

The census man will ask if the subject of the question can speak good English. He may have been carrying on a fluent conversation, in which not even the slightest allusion has been made to the weather. One will naturally be surprised but one shouldn't be angry or doubt the sanity of the census man. He is paid for asking questions and he had nothing to do with the framing of the questions.

Another question that is calculated to make some women confused, others miserable, some regretful and others jubilant, is the question as to whether she is married, divorced, widowed, or unmarried. The census man does not ask, if one is divorced, the casus belli; for the census man is only human and should not be called to take undue chances for a small salary.

In some neighborhoods of Duluth one of the questions asked by the census man, might be considered very impolitic, even dangerous. The census enumerator asks what the relations between neighbors are. One might tell him that it was none of his business, but it is. In some parts of the city, the census man might have to duck a hat pin.

Each person will be asked his or her birth place, number of children, whether he owns his own home and whether it has been mortgaged. He will ask the nature of employment, how long each has been in the country, whether a person is naturalized, and the birth place of the father. Each person will be asked how long he worked in 1909.

But if, as the patient and perhaps penitent census enumerator is leaving the steps with a resigned look plastered on his placid countenance, he suddenly stops, hesitates and turns an appealing face, from which shoots the halting question: "Are you deaf or dumb?" one should be charitable and forbearing with the humble fellow. He is only a human interrogation mark. One should not slam the door in his pleading face, but come close to him and with a gentleness in dulcet voice answer: "No."

MARINE BILL BY LA FOLLETTE

Senator Introduces Measure to Better Conditions of the Seamen.

Washington, Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator La Follette introduced a bill today to ameliorate the condition of seamen in the merchant marine. The bill aims to abolish involuntary servitude of American seamen on foreign merchant vessels and involuntary servitude of foreign seamen on American merchant vessels; to encourage young men to enter the merchant service as seamen, and to train them for the work, and to enforce standards of food and wages in such service.

MATRIMONIAL MARKET NEWS OF THE DAY

The demand for fat ladies, young or old, is still very light. The willowy girl with the animated eyes and straight front aspect, is, however, much sought after.

The ceaseless stream of Gibson and Fisher girl pictures, advertised by every magazine cover, continues to perpetuate this situation.

There is only one chance for the fatter woman, and that is for her to reduce. If she can quickly grow into the likeness of the front cover fascinator without the hard labor of exercising or the purgatory of dieting, it seems she ought to try. This is not impossible—nay, it is a fact, demonstrated by thousands in 1909. Let her take the elegant Marmola Prescription Tablets after meals and at bed time. It will reduce her a pound a day.

This suggestion is made in all seriousness. Why not reduce when it entails no trouble, causes no wrinkles, costs very little cash? One can start today, take off the fat where most noticeable—from hips, abdomen, bust, etc.—and do it uniformly and safely. Ask for the tablet named, being made from the famous prescription ½ oz. Marmola, ½ oz. Fl. Ex. Cascara Aromatic, 3½ oz. Peppermint Water—absolutely noninjurious. Tender your druggist seventy-five cents for a large case or write for same to the Marmola Co., 421 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

ON THE IRON RANGES

DR. H. R. WEIRICK AGAIN CANDIDATE

Former President of Hibbing Board Will Re-enter Political Game.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. H. R. Weirick, ex-president of the village, generally denominated the mayor, will again enter the political game and will be a candidate against Frank Ansley, who is seeking re-election. Dr. Weirick has been president three times, but resigned last spring, shortly after election, because the board would not confirm his appointments.

Others mentioned are: For trustees, W. C. Barrett, William Wearne and Peter McHardy; for recorder, Peter Bardessono; for treasurer, Dennis Healy.

F. A. Klass, who has been looked upon as a very probable candidate for village treasurer, refuses to run.

O. J. Tucker has announced his candidacy for re-election as treasurer of the township of Stuntz. He will be opposed by John Munter.

INDIVIDUALS TO CLEAN PROPERTY

Eveleth Council Decides on That System Rather Than Letting Contract.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The plans and specifications for paving Grant avenue with various materials were accepted by the council last night and filed in the city clerk's office for bidders.

The city clerk was instructed to inform the public of a hearing that will be held before the city council March 1 for the purpose of thoroughly discusssing the Grant avenue paving matter, and deciding upon the material to be used.

The city clerk was instructed to advertise for bids for the hauling of city garbage. The question of cleaning the premises of the city was thoroughly discussed. Some of the aldermen favored the city cleaning up the properties, arguing that much money could be saved to the taxpayers by having the job let by contract. Others advocated that property owners should clean up their premises and argued that the city would be cleaner by individual cleaning and their claims were verified by Health Commissioner Brown, who stated that since the inauguration of the individual system the city has been in a better sanitary condition.

HIBBING ENTERTAINMENT.

Seventh Grade of School Renders Program This Afternoon.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Athena Literary society of Miss Herum's seventh grade will give an interesting program this afternoon, as follows: Song, by society; original story, Lawrence McCabe; "Seven Ages of Man," Wilbur Hooker, Louis Heasley, Linton Pickard, Evered Williams, Robert Ekstrom and Alfred Lundberg; recitation, Ellen Jackson, "Tom's Practical Joke;" cast, Tom, Charles McCabe; Aunt Emma, Helen Booth; Sophie Sacks; charades, Anna Derrickson, Mabel Teal, Harold Friday, Vendoe Stople; "Current Events," Sadie Macki; song, by society; critic report, Vivian Anderson.

At the meeting of the Knights of Pythias Wednesday evening Rev. F. S. Atwood, the blind prelate of the Knights of Pythias of Minnesota, delivered an exceedingly interesting lecture to the Knights of Pythias, and the Pythian Sisters, on the subject of "Happiness." Mr. Atwood is a very forceful speaker and has the undivided attention of his audience every minute of his oration.

AURORA COUNCIL NOTES.

New Boiler Is Paid for and Other Matters Transacted.

Aurora, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village council met Wednesday night with all present except Trustee Hill, who is on jury duty in Virginia.

The new boiler for the power house was ordered paid and a bill for $1,309 for it was allowed.

The report of Justice Tillmans for January showing fines to the amount of $80 was read and accepted.

Insurance to the amount of $24,000 as a builder's risk was ordered placed on the new hall, in the Home Life Insurance company, A. W. Corwin, agent.

Trustees Nicholas and Darrow were placed on a committee to interview the Aurora Mercantile company, and get their prices on furnishing the furniture for the new hall.

FIREMEN WILL MEET.

Gathering at Cass Lake to Prepare for Grand Rapids Tournament.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The executive committee of the Northern Minnesota Firemen's Tournament association has been called to meet at Cass Lake on Friday evening, Feb. 25. Officers will be elected for the coming tournament which will be held at Grand Rapids some time next June, the date to be announced later.

The holding of the sixteenth annual tournament here promises to be the most successful in the history of the association. Besides the five teams represented at Cass Lake last year, all of which will be at Grand Rapids this year, there will be several range towns to draw from to increase the number of fire companies competing for prizes.

Park Rapids, which made such a wonderful record here last year, winning half the prize money, will retain the championship banner, having won the banner twice in succession, and a new banner will be up for competition by the different companies at Grand Rapids next summer.

ANOTHER STEAM SHOVEL WORKING AT LA RUE MINE.

Nashwauk, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Butler Brothers, the contractors, have received another steam shovel and will start it to work as soon as possible in the open pit at the LaRue mine. Charles Hagen and Frank McCollough, formerly employed at Hibbing, have taken positions with this company and will operate the new shovel.

The basket ball and equipment arrived at the high school building and the boys have been working strenuously at the game for positions on the high school basket ball team which will be chosen soon and the boys are now showing very fast work. They will probably play some of the range high school teams later on in the season. The remainder of the gymnasium paraphernalia will arrive soon.

Capt. Harry Tallent and family arrived Tuesday evening from Biwabik. Mr. Tallent has taken a position as captain of the underground works at the LaRue mine.

Mrs. Frank Kolar was a Hibbing visitor Tuesday.

William LeClaire spent a few days at Hibbing this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCollough arrived the latter part of the week from Hibbing and will reside here.

TWO CANDIDATES IN VIRGINIA

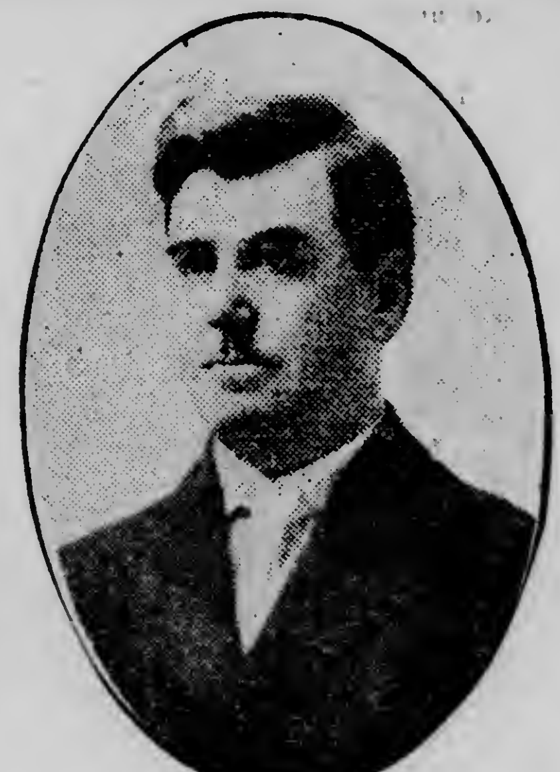
W. H. EATON,
Former Mayor Who Seeks That Office Again.



JUDGE J. P. CAREY,
Of Municipal Court Who Is Out for Re-Election.

MAY PURCHASE BIG TRACT OF TIMBER

Alger-Smith Company Is Figuring on Buying the Gilbert Tract.

Tower, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—From present indications the Alger-Smith Lumber company will continue to operate the mill at this place for several seasons.

The company is still considering the purchase of the Gilbert tract of timber, which is said to contain about 35,000,000 feet of timber, which, if purchased, would enable the company to run here for at least three years.

Several purchases of timber have been made during the winter, and it is almost an assured fact that the mill will run during the coming season at least.

NEW TOWER CONCERN.

Finns of Soudan Are Organizing a Mercantile Concern.

Tower, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Finnish residents of Soudan are considering the organization of a stock company for the purpose of engaging in the mercantile business here.

Stock is being sold at $10 per share, and a large number of shares have already been subscribed for. No stockholder is allowed more than twenty shares. With the sale of the required amount of stock the organization will undoubtedly be perfected. John Kukko of Ely is named as the manager of the new company. No business location has as yet been decided upon.

Dr. G. C. Sherrard of Kansas City, Mo., has located here as physician for the various new mining companies.

"JACK, THE HUGGER."

Unknown Individual Said to Be Worrying Women in Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is claimed there is a party in town who has been following women and hugging them without warning. It was reported that the real "Jack, the Hugger" had been captured by the police. But the person suspected proved his innocence and was released. In the meantime the police are watching carefully for "Jack the Hugger" and if such a party really exists it is expected the police will be able to apprehend him soon.

FALLS INTO AIR HOLE.

Twig Man Nearly Drowns While Taking Out Ice.

Twig, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—John M. Wolin had a narrow escape from drowning recently on Beaver lake while taking up ice. Mr. Walin fell into an air hole in the lake and but for the timely arrival of his two sons might have been unable to get out.

FOR LAKE COUNTY ROADS.

County Commissioners Appropriate $5,000 for That Purpose.

Two Harbors, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The county commissioners this week appropriated $5,000, to be expended on the State road during 1910.

A. D. Bayne of Knife River, requested a refund of balance on liquor license money paid the county, account now being within the village of Knife River. The request was denied.

Application of Tillie Rutley for a liquor license in Crystal Bay township was denied.

The following families were granted county relief, per month: Mrs. Knute Lundberg, $10; Mrs. Peter Norberg, $10; Mrs. Anna Johnson, $5; Mrs. Charles Kothin, $10; Mrs. Millie Schwartz, $10; Mrs. Anna Pearson, $5; Mrs. Charles Ogren, $10; Mrs. Nels Larsen, $10.

VIRGINIA BOASTS FINE DEPARTMENT

Fire Fighters of Range City Voted Among Best in State.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—A new buggy has been added to the fire department equipment for the use of Fire Chief A. F. Thayer. The buggy was manufactured by George C. Hale of Kansas City and is equipped with the fire gong, is rubber tired and ball bearing and cost the city $250. A new team of horses has also been purchased. The team weighs 3,000 pounds and are gray in color, the purchase price of which was $700, but as one of the old horses was traded in on the account the actual cost of the team was $400. The department is now supplied with five of as fine looking horses as ever struck a pavement, physically sound and well trained for the use they are put to. Virginia has one of the best equipped fire departments of any town of its size in the state, all brought about through the efforts of Chief Thayer and the present city administration. Since the inauguration of this almost complete fire fighting outfit insurance rates throughout the city have been reduced 10 per cent. During the past year the city has had an exposure from fires of over $100,000 and so quickly did the fire department destroy the incipient blazes that the actual losses amounted to but little over $10,000. This is a record breaker and shows that not only the equipment is of the best, but that the members of the department are well trained and know their business. The fire fighting apparatus has become so numerous that the present quarters is inadequate for their reception and it is expected that during the coming summer an addition to the building will be erected for the accommodation of the new steam fire engine and other equipment, which will be added from time to time as the needs of the department demand.

SUES RAILROAD FOR TWO HORSES

Joseph Ahlin Claims Missabe Road Should Pay Him Damages.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The case of Joseph Ahlin against the Missabe Railway company is on trial in district court. The plaintiff is suing for damages for the loss of two horses which it is alleged were killed by being struck by a train near Biwabik.

The case of Fred Engel against Frank Siebert, on trial yesterday, came to a settlement before the case had progressed very far. The case involved a certain amount of produce and meats sold by the plaintiff to the defendant.

Court will probably adjourn tonight until Monday morning, when it is expected that the criminal calendar will be taken up.

Attorneys for Agabits Fuciarelli, indicted for the murder of Loni Grillo at Gilbert last December, made a motion for a continuance of the case, which was to have come up for trial next Tuesday. Judge Hughes has the matter under advisement.

LOGGING IS HEAVY.

The Alger-Smith Company Shipped 4,000 Carloads During Last Month.

Two Harbors, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Logging business is better this winter than in years. Shipments of logs off the Alger-Smith line alone were over 4,000 carloads during January. Pulpwood shipments are lighter than expected on account of a shortage of cars, and unless there is some relief soon, the pulpwood shipments will extend far into the summer and will mean a considerable loss to the contractors in the extra handling of the wood and the maintaining of their camps beyond the usual period.

Pulpwood receipts for Curry and White are now increasing. About 2,000 cords have been received so far and about 7,000 cords more are expected before the break-up.

VIRGINIA IN BRIEF.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. M. Erickson, great sachem of the Red Men of the state of Minnesota, will arrive Monday to attend a meeting of the Red Men.

An examination for census enumerators will be held at the local post-office tomorrow afternoon at 10 o'clock. Three enumerators are to be selected by Congressman Miller.

Miss Elida Faleen entertained at bridge at the home of R. W. Martin last evening. A dainty luncheon was served.

Mrs. John Mesberg is confined to her home on account of illness.

Harry Files, who has been in the city the past several weeks visiting his cousin, Walter Darcy, left yesterday for England to visit his parents whom he has not seen for eighteen years.

John Mesberg was a business visitor in Biwabik yesterday.

Assistant County Attorney James Boyle of Eveleth was in attendance at district court yesterday.

Attorney Murphy of Aurora attended court here yesterday.

DIES WHILE VISITING.

Henry Rotell, Formerly of Duluth, Expires in Virginia.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of Henry Rotell, who died Wednesday night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. B. Hanson, was taken to Ashland, Wis., yesterday for burial. Mr. and Mrs. Rotell came here about two weeks ago to visit their daughter, when Mr. Rotell was taken ill with an acute attack of stomach trouble. Deceased resided in Duluth and was employed as locomotive engineer on one of the roads leading into that city. He was about 45 years of age and leaves a wife and several children.

SETTLES FAMILY ROW.

Mrs. Sellimpa and Her Husband Have Settled Differences.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Nestor Sellimpa, who recently left her husband's home in the Spruce location, taking three children to Minneapolis for alleged cruelty, without notifying Mr. Sellimpa of their determination to leave, returned yesterday morning from the Twin Cities, where they had been staying with relatives. The differences in the Sellimpa family have been adjusted. Mr. Sellimpa is a miner in the Spruce and was agreeably surprised by the unexpected appearance of his family.

PUTS IT OVER MONAHAN.

Gilbert Boxer Bests His Antagonist in Lively Bout.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Billy Trenholm of Gilbert defeated Jack Monahan of Virginia in a 15-round bout here and easily won the decision on points. At no stage of the bout was Trenholm in danger of defeat.

In the preliminaries Nick Constantine of this city and Lee Ryan of Minneapolis sparred three fast rounds, and both showed much cleverness. The bouts were refereed by Dr. Clapper of Hibbing. The exhibitions were well attended and many out-of-town sportsmen were present.

REBUILDING ORE DOCK.

Many Men Employed on the Work at Two Harbors.

Two Harbors, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The work of rebuilding Ore Dock No. 2 is in progress. The spouts have been removed and the taking off of the dock will soon be under way. About half of the structure will be rebuilt, and there will be employment for about 150 men for three or four months. About 2,500,000 feet of new timber will be put in.

CO-OPERATIVE STORE OF TWO HARBORS ELECTS.

Two Harbors, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The People's Co-operative Mercantile company at its annual meeting elected the following: President, L. D. Rose; vice president, H. C. Doerr; secretary, F. E. Evans; treasurer, Albert Courselle; managers, Andrew Niggler, C. A. Anderson, E. R. Fitch, Axel Gofvert and L. H. Bryan. The business was reported in a satisfactory condition, a large increase being noted since the shop was moved to the present location.

TWO HARBORS DELEGATES TO BEMIDJI MEETING.

Two Harbors, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Delegates from here to the Northern Minnesota conservation meeting to be held at Bemidji Feb. 17 and 18 are Mayor M. K. Knauff, John A. Barton, Thomas Owens and D. H. Lawrence.

HIBBING NOTES.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Hibbing high school hockey team will play the Virginia team in Virginia Saturday. The Hibbing team has been practicing very regularly and hopes to be in good condition for the game.

The Blue lodge held a special meeting at the Masonic temple Thursday evening and the first degree was conferred.

The Hibbing high school basket ball team will play the Grand Rapids high at Grand Rapids this evening. Hibbing defeated Grand Rapids here a short time ago, but has never yet won a game at Grand Rapids.

JAPANESE HAVE KILLED OFF BIRDS

Poachers in Hawaii Cut Off Their Wings and Leave Them to Die.

Honolulu, Jan. 27, via San Francisco, Feb. 4.—A million birds have been slaughtered by Japanese each year for several years past, in the Hawaiian islands bird reservation, according to Capt. F. D. Walker of the government boat Thetis, who effected a recent capture of Japanese on Midway island. That island and all others in the group, with the exception of Laysan, are said to have lost practically all their once teeming bird population.

There is no evidence of any marketing of the bird skins and feathers in Honolulu, the poachers' spoils, it is said being sold by Osaka merchants in London, Paris and New York.

The bird poaching, it is believed, is handled direct from Japan. Japanese schooners ostensibly in the shark fishing business are frequent [illegible] the bird island group, which stretches northwest from Hawaii.

Capt. Walker says the birds were so tame on all the islands that they could be caught by hand. The poachers, he says, captured the feathered prey, cut off the wings and left the helpless creatures to die a slow death.

NORTHERN PACIFIC PLANS MUCH WORK

Many Improvements in the System to Be Made This Year.

Brainerd, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—R. B. Arnold of Partridge & Co., who have the contract for all the boarding car outfits on the Northern Pacific railway, prophesies the biggest year in improvement and construction work on the Northern Pacific. Ten work trains will be employed the coming season between St. Cloud and Little Falls. The double track between St. Cloud and Detroit will be put in this year, making the road double track all the way from St. Paul to Fargo. Much work will also be done in North Dakota and farther west.

George M. Huss, chief engineer of the Cuyuna Iron Range and Soo railways, announces that the headquarters of the engineer force will be moved from Aitkin to Bemidji in the near future. He says that no more track-laying will be done until the grading was so far progressed that the graders could keep out of the way of the track-laying machine clear to Thief River Falls.

Crow Wing Land Sale.

The annual state sale of school lands for Crow Wing county will be held here Friday, May 6, under the usual conditions. While there is considerable good land yet on the market in Crow Wing county, it is doubtful if much is sold. The fact that the state reserves the mineral rights "queers" the deal. No farmer wants to improve a farm and then have some mining company make a lease from the state and come in and take possession of his farm and cover it with debris and otherwise damage it. The question of his right to recover for the damage done the surface is questionable.

PARIS IS MAKING GOOD PROGRESS

Papers Predict City Will Be Cleaner Than It Ever Was Before.

Paris, Feb. 4.—The fall of the river Seine was more rapid today. The appearance of the city is approaching the normal, but the subway system is still inoperative. Water still remains in the tubes which, after they have been emptied, must be cleaned and disinfected. The progrss toward the restoration of the lighting, telephone and telegraph lines is slow but noticeable.

The work of disinfecting and other precautions against an epidemic of typhoid has been so thorough that some of the newspapers predict that Paris will not only escape contagion, but will emerge from the flood cleaner than ever before in her history.

Main Sewers Unharmed.

The superintendent of sewers reports that from the examinations he has been able to make, it is evident that few of the sewer mains burst, the ruptures occurring in the branch pipes leading into buildings.

Despite the attempts of some of the opposition papers to make it appear that dissensions are rampant among the various relief organizations, investigation indicates that all are co-operating with zeal and devotion to a common purpose.

Foreign contributions to the relief fund totalled today $700,000.

SMITH OUT OF GAME.

Hubbell Man to Quit Michigan Senate After Long Service.

Houghton, Mich., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator Charles Smith of Hubbell, representing the Thirty-second district in the state senate and the dean of the upper house, announces that he will not seek re-election. It is the intention of Senator Smith to retire from political activity, after serving his party in Houghton county for almost half a century.

It is believed that Representative William A. Oates of Laurium will be Senator Smith's successor, as he is eminently qualified for the duties of the office, is strong politically in this district and will have the support of the larger interests here. The district comprises Houghton, Keweenaw, Baraga and Ontonagon counties.

AIM PROBE AT STORAGE

of lading showing the amount of stuff received and shipped by the various concerns over the railroad lines in the last year. The documents obtained will be compared with the cold storage companies' books which officers of these concerns have been subpoenaed to produce.

Meat Tends Upward.

In all metropolitan territory, eggs seem to be the one staple food product to show a downward tendency. Meat prices today showed, if anything, a tendency to advance. Consumption of meat is still away below the normal.

In Swift & Co.'s plant, it was learned last night, the grand jury found stored 460,000 pounds of beef, 5,000 pounds of poultry and a great quantity of lamb, mutton, pork, butterine, sausage meat, hearts, livers and tripe. Some of the meat, according to James Brady, superintendent of the plant, had been in storage since last April.

United States inspectors seized 300 cans of liquid eggs from a cold storage warehouse. The contents of the cans represented 80,000 eggs. In their liquid form they are sold to bakers for use in cake making.

The seizure was made in the course of an examination of products in the warehouse. Samples were removed, and when analyzed were found to be unfit for consumption, the inspectors declared.

Plan Co-operative Stores.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 4.—Women of Pittsburg have joined in the revolt against high prices and last night they formed the Housekeepers' Co-operative association with several hundred delegates from the women's clubs of the city. The women charged the merchants of the city with selling short weights and measures and raising prices unnecessarily.

A series of general stores is to be established which will purchase the stock direct from the farmers and other producers and a scale of prices will be established which will produce a profit only sufficient to cover expenses of the enterprise.

Legislation that will place cold storage warehouses under federal and state control as far as the distribution of food products is concerned is advocated by State Senator James L. Adams, who has prepared a bill for the next legislature. A federal or state license for these warehouses is the first step in Mr. Adams' plans.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

AGAINST THE PARCELS POST

North Dakota Retail Implement Dealers Resolve Against Proposed Law.

But Agree That Present Express Charges Are Out of Reason.

Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The parcels post idea is wrong and will injure the retail trade, but the present express charges are too high, declared the North Dakota Retail Dealers' association at their annual meeting just held here, which has adjourned to meet next year in Devils Lake.

The association is made up of retail implement dealers of North Dakota and Western Minnesota and the session held here this week while not as well attended as former ones has been on the whole successful. Many interesting papers were read and discussed.

New Officers Chosen.

The followingn officers were elected: President, D. E. Towle, Park River; vice president, Paul N. Allen, Jamestown; delegate to national meeting, George F. Carpenter, Crookston; members executive committee, W. F. Powell, Warren; Paul Allen, Jamestown; F. A. H. Smith, Bottineau and D. E. Towle, Park River.

The election of the secretary-treasurer is in the hands of the executive committee, and George F. Carpenter of Crookston will undoubtedly be again elected to the position, having served in that place faithfully for a number of years.

Essence of Resolutions.

The resolutions declare in part "that we consider the passage of the parcels post will be detrimental to retail trade, therefore be it resolved that we recommend that each member write his member of congress and senate to oppose the measure.

"That the express charges now made by our common carriers are entirely too high in proportion to other commodities, as it costs more to ship a 25-cent casting than $1.000 in gold.

"That our legislative committee be requested to have prepared and introduced in the next session of the legislature, a bill repealing all lien laws of every nature except the labor and sire liens, believing them to be unfair and class distinction."

Duluthian on Freight Charges.

One of the notable addresses of the meeting was delivered by C. M. Springer of Duluth on "Overcharges and Freight Charges," in which he reviewed at length the conditions confronting the patrons of the railroads in an exhaustive manner. Mr. Springer dwelt at length on the question of classification, pointing out how money might be saved in this respect.

Speaking of costly errors made by shippers, Mr. Springer said:

"I venture to say that you implement dealers in the state of North Dakota alone pay annually $100.000 in excess of the amount which you would be required to pay were all of your shipments forwarded in the manner prescribed in the tariffs and classifications in order to obtain the lower rates.

"This would mean only about $125 per town or station, assuming that there are 800 stations in the state. From the illustrations I have given you as to plows, castings and trucks, which are only a few of the articles pertaining to which similar conditions exist, you can easily figure out just what amount you contribute at an average to make up this total of $100,000.

As I stated before, these charges are not exacted from you unjustly, but because the requirements entitling you to the lower rates have not been met, and you should not censure the transportation company in the least.

What Duluth Is Doing.

"In our city of Duluth we have four jobbers who have traffic departments, and they have also recently organized a traffic department under the direction of the Commercial club. For this purpose an appropriation of $26.000 was made, of which one-half was contributed by these four jobbers who already maintain their own departments. I do not know just how long the $26.000 is supposed to cover the necessary expense of maintenance, but probably not longer than two years. There is also a similar organization in Chattanooga, Tenn., except in this case they dispense with the services of the individual traffic man, and the organization not only handles the same work as that done in Duluth, but also handles all of the claims for the individual members. This is the only similar department that I know of in actual operation, but at the present time several cities are looking into the merits of this plan, and no doubt some of them will eventually adopt it. There can be no doubt that the action of these people in regard to this is wise, and if so, why would it not pay the business men of the Northwest, and particularly the implement dealers, who in the aggregate pay more freight than a small number of jobbers or manufacturers?"

GREAT NORTHERN PAYS FOR GRAVEL

Settles With Homesteader Near Brookston for Material Taken.

Brookston, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ed Donley of this village, who brought suit against the Great Northern Railway company for taking gravel from his forty-acre tract of homestead land near here, has secured a settlement from the company.

About a year ago the action was commenced and after many adjournments and postponements was finally set for trial at the January term of court. However, the Great Northern was not overly anxious that the case should come to trial, and after the case was called and a part of the jury selected an agreement was entered into whereby the company would give Mr. Donley $1.300 and pay the costs of the case.

This was satisfactory to Mr. Donley and he withdrew the suit. The land in question was homesteaded by Mr. Donley nearly five years ago, and was afterward found to contain the finest pit of gravel in this part of the state, and extremely valuable.

FORMER CONGRESSMAN DEPUTY U. S. MARSHAL.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 4.—Former Congressman C. B. Buckman of Little Falls has been appointed deputy United States marshal by Marshal W. H. Grimshaw. Mr. Buckman succeeds H. A. Rider, recently appointed member of the fish and game commission, and still later elected as its executive agent.

This is the first office Mr. Buckman has held since his congressional defeat by C. A. Lindbergh. Marshal Grimshaw admitted there were about twenty-five applicants, and said he named Mr. Buckman because of his qualifications and because the former congressman and the marshal have been friends for the past thirty years.

TO MAKE RAPIDS TERMINAL POINT

Great Northern Plans Much Improvement in Itasca County Seat.

Brookston, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thursday the Great Northern inaugurated a new schedule for the operation of the local freight trains. There were formerly three regular crews and one extra crew employed to handle the trains, but under the new arrangement three crews will be able to handle the work. One train crew will have a regular run from Cass Lake to Grand Rapids and return, while two crews will have regular runs between Superior and Grand Rapids.

The company intends to make Grand Rapids a terminal point, and will erect a roundhouse and make several other improvements at that point. It is also said that during the coming summer the double track will be extended from Brookston to Grand Rapids.

The railroad officials are now negotiating with the Brookston Townsite company for the purpose of having more yard room, and it is rumored that a roundhouse will also be erected there.

HAVE TRAVELING FEVER.

Lumberjacks Leaving Woods Rapidly Because of Warm Weather.

Walker, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Woodsmen are quitting the lumber camps in large numbers and if the exodus of wood choppers continues much longer, logging contractors will have difficulty in finishing up contract work this pring.

Every train out of Walker carries from eight to fifteen lumberjacks. A call has been sent out from this place for 100 men for the camps. It is said the extremely mild weather of the past month has given the men a touch of "spring fever" as no other reason can be assigned for their leaving at this time of the year. One or two men can generally disrupt a whole camp with this traveling fever.

STRUCK BY COASTERS.

Aged Walker Woman Badly Injured En Route to Prayer Meeting.

Walker, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Crandell of Laporte, daughter of Edward Crandell, the first settler of that town, was run over by a coasting party Wednesday evening while on her way to weekly prayer meeting, suffering injuries from which it is thought she will not recover.

The boys were coasting down the main street of the town at the time and the front runners hit the lady squarely in the back, breaking one of her legs and causing internal injuries it is feared. She is 78 years old.

VAN HISE IN DENIAL.

Wisconsin University Had Nothing to Do With Goldman Lecture.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 4.—"As there has been some misunderstanding in regard to the relations of the authorities of the University of Wisconsin to Miss Emma Goldman on her recent visit to Madison, I desire to make the following statement in regard to the facts," said President Charles R. Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin.

"The university authorities had nothing whatever to do with Miss Goldman's coming to Madison. None of her meetings were held in buildings over which the university authorities have any control. None of the university authorities have taken any action which can fairly be construed as approving Miss Goldman's doctrines.

"In view of these facts a great injustice is done the university by the implication that the university authorities sympathize with or give encouragement to the doctrines advocated by Miss Goldman."

ANDY JONES SAYS HE HAS NOTHING

Convicted Bank Wrecker Denies That He Has Any Coin "Planted."

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Andy Jones, the convicted wrecker of the First National Bank of Rugby, N. D., was brought here yesterday by United States Marshal James F. Shea of Fargo and Hector Barners, a guard on his way to the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan., to serve a concurrent sentence of ten years.

He was locked up in the Ramsey county jail until last night when accompanied by the officers he left for the South on the final lap of his journey.

"I shall be out in seven and a half years if I can behave myself, and I hope to," said Jones. "I am past 46 years old, and so if everything goes well I shall be free when I am nearing 53 years. That is not so old. Then I shall start all over again.

"No, I have no money. Stories that I have planted as much as $50,000 or more are not true. I had some money when I was arrested in Texas, but on my trial I had to call on my friends for financial help. If I had not been such an extravagant spender I would have some left, but I have none.

"I am perfectly resigned to my fate. I shall ask no favors. Just now I feel that if I should be put to manual labor it would be a good thing for me. I shall not ask for an office position.

"In time my wife may go to Leavenworth to live so she can call on me every two weeks when visitors are received. For some time she will be busy looking after business matters in North Dakota."

PREDICTS HOT SUMMER.

Mankato Prophet Blames New Comet for Unusual Conditions.

Mankato, Minn., Feb. 4.—J. M. Broome, the veteran weather prophet and astrologist, states that the coming summer will be a hot one. "Summers when there has been a comet have always been very hot ones," he said. "The people ought to save their money this year, because the summer of next year will be a very cold one."

Mr. Broome lays the floods in France and other European countries to the comet, largely, and says that people do not realize how much influence the stars have on this earth.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Menominee—The Lloyd company is the first manufacturing concern to establish a dining room for employes in the factory. The plan is said to be popular.

Negaunee—Jacob Kilomaki, aged 22, who sustained a fracture of the skull by falling down a stair in Negaunee Saturday night, died Tuesday afternoon at the Finnish hospital, in the Mitchell block. He was unconscious most of the while from the time he received the injury until he passed away. The funeral was held Thursday.

Ishpeming—Miss Jeanette Tonneson has been appointed to the position of second assistant at the Carnegie public library, succeeding Miss Beatrix Eddy, who was married Wednesday to A. H. Tillson. There were twenty-eight applicants for the position.

Negaunee—The Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company has resumed mining operations at the Lucy property, on the hill south of the Lake Superior & Ishpeming Railway company's passenger station, where preparatory work was started about six weeks ago. Only about twenty men are at present employed underground, but a double shift will be put on next week.

Hancock—Ralph Royce of Ripley, son of George Royce, secretary of the Portage Lake Foundry & Machinery company, has been advised by the examining board for West Point that he had passed the examination and would be admitted to the academy. Mr. Royce took the examination at Columbus Barracks, Ohio, three weeks ago.

Marquette—The Eagles' dance at Fraternity hall Wednesday night was very largely attended, at least 250 people being present. All enjoyed the party hugely, and the Eagles proved themselves royal hosts and entertainers. The hall was beautifully decorated with red, white and blue electrical effects.

Calumet—William Hill, father of John Hill of the Calumet postoffice, and uncle of Harry Hill, vice president of the Santa Rosalia Mining company, died Wednesday at his home on Willow avenue. He was aged about 65 years, and had been in poor health for a long time. A widow and five children survive.

Houghton—The Laird Milling company, capitalized at $25,000, has been incorporated. Most of the stock is held by farmers residing in the vicinity of Laird. The company has taken over the flour and sawmill formerly conducted by the Laird Flour & Sawmill company and will operate it.

Hancock—Miss Theresa M. Hesse of Tamarack City and Amiel Weinberg of Hubbell were married Wednesday by Rev. Father Zimmermann, pastor of the Catholic church of Hubbell. The bride was attended by Miss Lizzie Hesse, her sister, and Edward Decker, cousin of the groom was best man.

Calumet—The funeral of Margaret Craig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Craig of Tamarack, was conducted from the residence on Thursday afternoon at 2:30. Rev. Mandus Barrett, pastor of the Red Jacket Congregational church, officiated and interment was made in the Lake View cemetery.

Hancock—A memorial service was held Monday evening by the Knights of Columbus in honor of the late Thomas J. Ryan, who died last month. The address was delivered by Dr. P. Scholler of Hancock and the oration by Dr. M. A. Thometz of Calumet.

Laurium—Fred J. Sherman, an insurance agent, has announced himself as a candidate for the office of treasurer of Laurium. Mr. Sherman has been a resident of Laurium for the past fifteen years.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Brainerd—The boilermakers at the Northern Pacific shops were put on nine hours per day Tuesday, and the others on the locomotive side are living in hopes of an increase to the same hours.

St. Cloud—John T. Brouwer.Ancher. pany of Minneapolis and owners of the local pickling plant has closed the deal for the purchase of the big 920-acre farm in the town of Collegeville, and about from fifteen miles from St. Cloud.

Little Falls—Tuesday, F. B. Logan of Royalton was appointed by the county commissioners to take charge of the Morrison county exhibit at the state fair this fall. Mr. Logan's work of the past two years has been so satisfactory that the commissioners decided that he was the proper person to be given charge of the exhibit.

Crookston—At the meeting held in the M. E. church, relative to the Y. M. C. A. proposition, the matter was discussed by a number of speakers. No definite action was taken further than the authorization of J. W. Wheeler, who presided, to name a number of committees, the plan being to make a thorough canvass of the city and see what can be done.

East Grand Forks—R. E. Austin, manager and editor of the Valley View, is fathering a scheme for the organization of a Polk County Newspaper association. The association will have for its main object, the furthering of the interests of the papers in the county, aside from the benefits to be gained by getting together and discussing the various subjects pertaining to newspaperdom.

Crookston—At the regular meeting of the Crookston school board, Supt. E. E. McIntire was re-elected as superintendent for a period of three years, at an advance of $200 per year, making his salary $2,200 per year.

Fergus Falls—O. A. Quam, a prominent farmer of Carlisle, is a very successful breeder of hogs, and has just sold and delivered sixty-five fine big ones to the Fergus Falls Packing company, at a handsome price.

Owatonna—The Owatonna Sugar Beet Growers' association, a syndicate of business men formed to test out the sugar beet-growing proposition, encouraged by the success of the past year, has reorganized for the season 1910, and has rented the Hutchinson farm of seventy-five acres, in the southern part of the city. This will give the association nearly twice the acreage planted last year on the Alexander farm.

Rochester—A head-on collision, in which two engineers and two firemen saved themselves from serious injury by leaping from the cabs of their engines, occurred in the Chicago & Northwestern yards in this city late Wednesday afternoon.

Minneapolis—Stephen E. Foster, a member of the Territorial Pioneers' association, died Wednesday at his residence here. Mr. Foster was born in Cooper, Maine, in 1829, and came to St. Anthony in 1849. In 1861 he established a carriage business at First avenue south and First street, continuing the business in that location for about twenty-five years, when he retired.

Stillwater—L. H. Seymour, president of the Booster club, has applied to the city council to vacate parts of streets east of North Main street, to give uninterrupted room for a site for a proposed new pottery and sewer pipe factory. The matter is being investigated by the committee on streets.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Bathgate, N. D.—B. P. Chappel, president of the state institution at this place, underwent an operation for appendicitis at the hospital at Rochester, Minn., recently. His condition was at no time dangerous and the most cheering news of speedy recovery are received.

Fargo, N. D.—Feb. 22 will be a big day for the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A, who are making arrangements for a big Colonial party on that date. The joint session of the Y. M. and the Y. W. that was held at Christmas time was successful.

Devils Lake, N. D.—The new bridge across Grand Harbor bay, six miles west of Devils Lake is complete except the 24-foot span of steel and concrete work. It is expected that the work will be finished and accepted by the county before the ice goes out.

Jamestown, N. D.—Col. C. A. Lounsberry of Washington, D. C., writes local friends that he is preparing a North Dakota history and desires some accurate data as to the Jamestown newspaper publications, particularly the Alert, which he says was established as the third newspaper in the state.

Valley City, N. D.—Sheriff Casper Winkler has gone to Jamestown, taking Oluf Olson, who was ordered committed at that institution by the insanity board at their meeting yesterday. Mr. Olson is not violent but insists on taking off all his clothes.

Deadwood, S. D.—A head-on collision of an eastbound freight and a westbound light engine on the Burlington two miles east of Nahant Wednesday afternoon resulted in the death of Ralph Holden, fireman, and serious injury to A. J. Eckern, engineer, and William Wright, car foreman.

Fargo, N. D.—Five carloads of orange plants were shipped through the southwestern part of the state recently from Seattle to Texas. They were sent over the Milwaukee line in heated cars. They had reached Seattle by steamer from Asia.

Grand Forks, N. D.—There will be no appeal to the supreme court in the case of J. J. Smith vs J. D. Taylor, mayor of Grand Forks, in which the plaintiff was successful in securing a writ of mandamus. This is the case involving the signing of a certain warrant allowed J. J. Smith, the former engineer of the city, for rent of a transit.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Manitowoc—Simon Sokolwitz, shoe dealer, has filed a petition in bankruptcy. Liabilities are given at $5.200 with assets of $3.000, mostly represented by merchandise.

La Crosse—As the result of further investigation into the affairs of the defunct First National Bank of Mineral Point, it is understood here that another grand jury will be called to consider new phases of the case which have come to the knowledge of the authorities since the adjournment of the last grand jury here in December.

Sheboygan—The Bank of Sheboygan was the successful bidder for $10.800 sewer and paving improvement bonds, offering a premium of $570. They carry 6 per cent interest.

Stevens Point—Angus MacMillan, manager of Mercer hospital, committed suicide by dringing carbolic acid. He was 37 years old and leaves a widow and three stepchildren.

Oconto—Southbound Northwestern passenger train, due here at 2:09 Wednesday afternoon, struck and killed John Mehberg, a Little River farmer, near what is known as Hart's switch, a few miles north of this city. He was about 72 years old and leaves a family.

Washburn—The hearing in the water works rate case coming from this city, was heard before the Wisconsin railway commission. The city asks that the rates be lowered and consumers allowed the use of meters if they so desire. The value of the plant here was placed by the commission at far below the figures of the company.

Madison—One of the gas holders of the Madison Gas company exploded on Wednesday, causing $25,000 damages. Owing to its location at an isolated spot, the damage was confined to the holder.

Ashland—Charles Cody of Caspar, Wyo., formerly of this city passed through Ashland Tuesday on his way to New York city. Mr. Cody will take a steamer for Brazil, where he is to take charge of a large cattle ranch. Mr. Cody has had experience in his business, having charge of a ranch in Caspar.

Milwaukee—The funeral of Mrs. Eliza P. Hawkins, aged 100 years, 2 months and 8 days, who died on Sunday at the home of her son-in-law, Dr. W. C. Raynor, was held Wednesday noon from the residence to Forest Home cemetery, the Rev. Henry Coleman officiating. Mrs. Hawkins was born in Vermont in 1809, and was married in 1836.

OFFERS TO FIGHT IN PRIVATE

Nelson and Wolgast Nearly Come to Blows, But Are Separated.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 4.—Loudly denouncing his coming adversary, Ad Wolgast tore off his coat last night in the office of Sid Hesler, fight promoter, where an effort was being made to settle the terms for the Wolgast-Nelson fight and offered to fight Battling Nelson then and there. Nelson never rose from his chair.

When Wolgast had finished Nelson offered to wager $5,000 against $2,500 of Wolgast's money, he and Wolgast to lock themselves in any room in the building with the agreement that the one who could unlock the door first should collect the big bet. Others present interfered, and the two pugilists were kept apart.

CLINE WINS FROM DEMAREST

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Harry P. Cline of Philadelphia last night defeated Calvin Demarest of Chicago for the national billiard championship at 18.2 balk line and purse of $1,000. The score was: Kline, 1,500; Demarest, 1,387. The game was for 1,500 points in blocks of 500, Cline took the first two blocks, while Demarest captured the final block.

The play last night was the most interesting of the match. When the men faced the table for the final block, Cline had 1,000 points to his credit, while Demarest had but 759. Cline opened with an unfinished run of 74. Play was slow up to the fourteenth inning, the champion having but 45 markers and Cline 108. In the fifteenth Demarest started with a rush and, playing his speed in graceful style, soon counted 72, missing an apparently easy carom. He followed with runs of 35 and 28 the next two innings, which gave him a comfortable lead. From that time forward the lead alternated between the two men.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 4.—Willie Hoppe ran up a second block of 500 points last night in his 1,500 championship 18.2 balk line billiard match with Ora Morningstar, but the latter was close on his heels in the cue race with 495. The total score now stands, Hoppe, 1,000; Morningstar, 867.

Hoppe ran out his 500 in nineteen innings for an average of 26 6-19, while Morningstar's 195 were made in eighteen innings with an average of 27 9-16. Morningstar caught the gallery with a marvelous masse, which was not more spectacular than a brilliant two-rail masse turned by Hoppe.

SUSPICION IS CONFIRMED.

New York, Feb. 4.—The suspension from amateur ranks of Melvin W. Sheppard, the crack runner, has been confirmed by the Amateur Athletic union. A jury composed of members of the legislation committee of the metropolitan association, called at the direction of Everett C. Brown of Chicago, president of the A. A. U., decided yesterday that Sheppard had been fairly tried by the Military Athletic league, that the verdict against him of demanding exorbitant expense money and of conduct unbecoming an athlete and a gentleman was well founded and that there is no ground for a protest, notwithstanding the contention of the Irish-American Athletic club to the contrary.

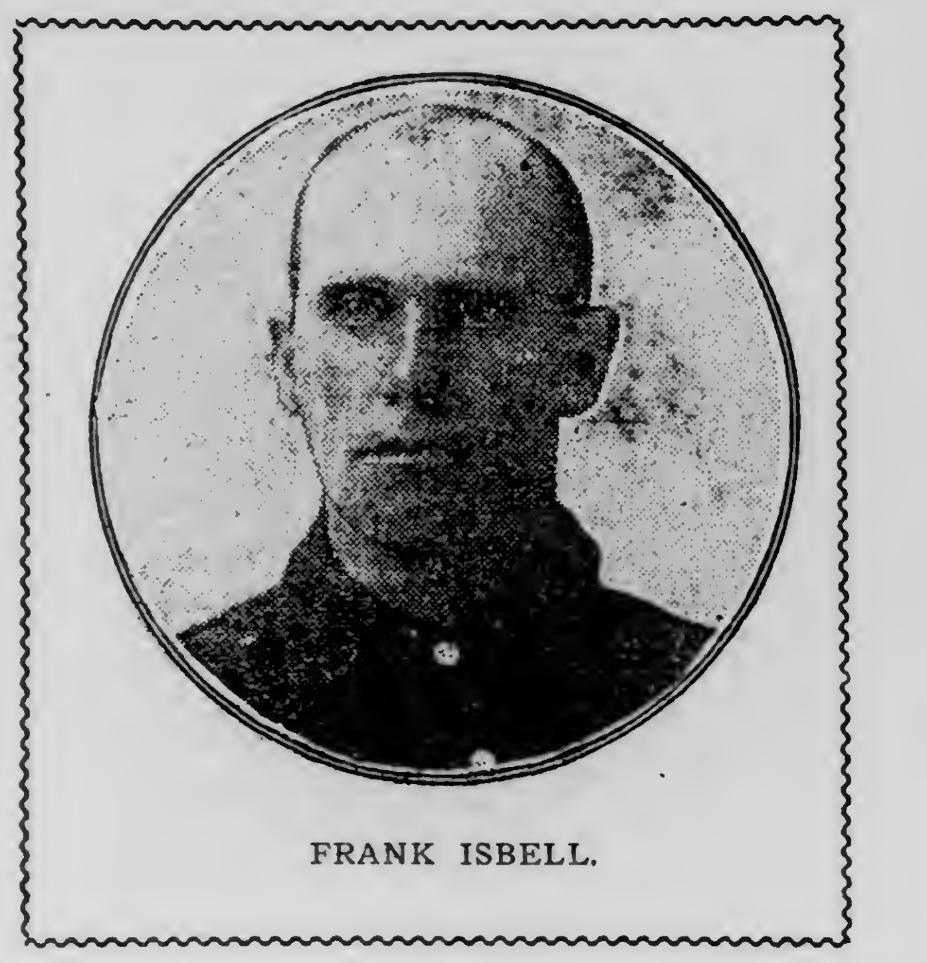
ANOTHER "GRAND OLD MAN" OF BASEBALL GOES BACK TO MINORS, BUT AT OWN REQUEST



FRANK ISBELL.

(BY BRUCE)

Once upon a time, though this is not a fairy story, a Rube, one of the most verdant, delightful, rubiest Rube you ever saw, wandered from the country to the city. In the city he seemed out of place. The noises worried him, and when he tried suddenly to get out of the way of passing people, he fell over his own feet. He flushed pink if any one stared at him, and his excessive shyness would make the familiar sweet girl graduate appear as bold as a suffragette at an afternoon tea.

The Rube in question was none other than the bald eagle of the American league, Old Man Isbell. He was on the original team that Comiskey took to Chicago when the American league was formed, and since that time Frank Isbell has been a useful citizen of baseball.

The writer remembers well the first time Isbell came on to the field at St. Paul. It was during morning practice at Lexington park. The Isbell party was as shy as a lass who has felt the first touches of the bacteria known as love. He looked as if he would be at home and at his ease in a plow field; but on a baseball field, it did seem as if the awkward guy was out of place.

St. Paul had a lot of kidders on the team that year. There was veteran Billy George, a big league star in his day, who was coming down the ladder of fame. He always loved to play some joke on some one. He informed Isbell that the proper way to get into condition was to run around the track which encircled the field fifteen times. As four trips around the track made a mile, you can imagine what a good imagination the George person had.

Isbell ran until his tongue hung out of his mouth. That afternoon he was given his trial with Comiskey's team, and strange enough he won his game.

Comiskey somehow, somewhere, in some way, got the idea that Isbell would make a good first baseman. If he had not had a great deal of patience he would have forgotten the original idea. He must have filed away the idea in his letter press, for he kept referring to it occasionally. Every time he referred to his idea he insisted that Isbell go out and play the initial bag. And for a long time Frank played the initial bag in an initial manner.

But finally the shrewd judgment of the old comanche was rewarded. Isbell astonished the natives of the American league one day by scooping one out of the sand. He kind of acquired the habit, and since that day the big man, with the homely, stay-to-hum face, has been surprising the managers, pitchers and opposing players with his performances.

In the autumn the White Sox won the world's championship from the chesty Cubs. It was the playing of old man Isbell that really made the rather unexpected victory possible. He hit like the ghost of the late Ed Delehanty, and his long and timely clouts were the factors that gave the victory to the team that was expected to lose.

The real importance to this story is the fact that Isbell has been given his release by Comiskey. A tear has already started to trickle down the ruddy countenance of some of you. But hold, as George Fawthingham shouts in "Why Ladies Don't Stick at Home," there is no crying in this release. It came as a present.

Isbell is the owner of the Wichita, Kan., team. He couldn't play with his own team while he was under contract as a player to Comiskey. Isn't that funny, a man not being able to play in his own baseball park and on his own team? That is the baseball of the land, and Old Man Isbell is too meek to violate a city ordinance, let alone a majestic thing like a baseball law. Therefore he came and played for Comiskey as long as the owner of the White Sox needed him.

So, therefore, citizens of North Branch, your former townsman thanked Comiskey, with the emotion of gratitude doing a gay and tremulous Salome in his capacious throat. He can now go back to Wichita, dear old Wichita, and be the star of the whole darn team.

We are proud of Isbell from the very fact that he was born, raised and educated in the great and fertile state of Minnesota. He went to Macalister college, near St. Paul, and until the time Comiskey packed his team, bag and baggage, and departed for larger fields, Minnesota was the scene of the activity of the old warhorse. Though he has departed, we love him much.

Isbell is the Abraham Lincoln of baseball. He is as peaceful as the gently running brook and as mild and as placid as the bovine that chews its cud in the peaceful sunshine of midday. But never rile the big man. Ball players who have tried it have lived to rue the day. He was one of the great characters of the game, and it will be with a sigh of regret that many fans will cease reading of the doings of Isbell.

One writer has it that the Johnson-Jeffries fight will be an interesting study for psychologists. It may also be an interesting and instructive study for young surgeons.

Steve Ketchel is matched to fight Frank Klaus before one of the Pittsburg clubs. The boy from the furniture town is evidently bent again.

Governor Spry of Utah is all that his name would indicate. As a press agent he is one of the best space fillers since Theodore departed for the dark continent. Fight or no fight, Governor Spry has gained a newspaper bowing acquaintance almost equal to that of Auntie Carrie from Kansas.

At last an opponent has been found for Samuel Adams Langford. His name is Jim Flynn, but that is not his real name. You would naturally think he is an Irishman, but again someone is liable to yell, guess again. He is an Italian and a tough one. But, considering all angles of the case, there is a well grounded suspicion that the man from Pueblo is very foolish to fight the Boston tar baby. But then someone has to fight Langford or those eight pickanninies can't eat meat.

Out on the coast some Siwash near-wrestler, an Indian chief or something of the sort, went on with Champion Frank Gotch. The buck became light in the head and peeved in the liver region and started a roughhouse with the Iowa farmer. That is the last thing he should have done. It also came near being the last thing he did do. Gotch stood for some rough work, but when the big chief sank his teeth into the champion, rage got a hammer hold on the Gotch temper.

In turn Frank secured a double hammerlock on the brother of the plains, and if Doc Roller had not given Gotch the fall and called off the match, it is very probable that the Siwash would have worn his arms in splints for the next two or three months.

Verily, it does not pay to get gay and intensely familiar with the champion of the world.

Coming so close together, Zybszko and Gotch, it will be only natural that many followers of wrestling in this city will draw closely the line of comparison between the Pole and the American. The opportunity will be the more interesting, from the fact that Gotch and the challenger for the title will meet in the near future to decide which is the better man of the two.

If all of the things said about Poland's champ are true, he is one of the most remarkable wrestlers of the age. He is a freak from an anatomical point of view, for there are few men in the world, no matter how tall, who can boast of a chest 55 inches in circumference. The very fact that Zybszko is so powerful through the chest and shoulders makes him hard to handle.

Aside from his strength his mere weight makes it fatiguing for the other fellow. The methods of Zybszko and Gotch will be very interesting to study. The foreigner must be a great knight of the mat if he hopes to cope with the present holder of the title.

If Jeffries wins the coming fight with Lil Artha, he will make a trip around the world and take, among others, Farmer Burns. What a pleasant recreation for the old man of Omaha. In old and blissful age things like that are nice. Dare you to show this to Burns.

STAR SHINES AT SARANAC LAKE

Edmund Lamy Takes Most of the Honors at Skating Meet.

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Feb. 4.—Edmund Lamy duplicated his usual performance yesterday by winning the final in the 220-yard, the half-mile, the mile and 3-mile events at the second day of the international outdoor skating championships.

Summaries: 220 yards—Final, Lamy won; Fred Robson, Toronto, second; Phil Kearney, Brooklyn, third. Time, 21 1-5 seconds.

Half-mile—Final, Lamy won; R. Wheeler, Montreal, second; Kearney, third. Time, 1:32.

One mile and 16 yards—Final, Fred Logan, Montreal, won; Claude Lamy, Saranac Lake, second; Gowett, third. Time, 3:37 4-5.

One-mile—Final, won by Edmund Lamy; Wheeler, second; Joe Miller, New York, third. Time, 3:19.

Three miles—Won by Edmund Lamy; Miller, second; Wheeler, third. Time, 9:51. Lamy did three miles and an extra lap in the time given.

Half-mile backwards—Won by A. Mason, Montreal; Parent, second; W. G. Finlayson, Montreal, third. Time, 2:41.

The annual meeting of the International Skating Union of America was held here yesterday and Alan A. Blanchard of Chicago was elected president; John Harding of Saranac Lake, first vice president; James A. Taylor of Montreal, second vice president, and Fred H. Tucker of Brooklyn, secretary-treasurer.

The rules governing skating events were revised. Among the important decisions was the adoption of a new rule whereby a skater winning an event is to be credited with 30 points, the second man with 20 and the third with 10. In addition, contestants are to be awarded a point for each lap won. A special medal and emblem of championship will be given to the winner of the highest number of points at a meeting.

MAKES HIT ON THE COAST.

Kenosha Boy Has Better of Los Angeles Fighter at Portland.

Portland, Or., Feb. 4.—Frankie Conley of Kenosha, Wis., had all the better of a 10-round "no-decision" boxing contest last night with Danny Webster of Los Angeles. It was Conley's first appearance on the Pacific coast and he proved a great surprise to the immense crowd that saw the bout. Only Webster's superior footwork and ability to duck saved him from a possible knockout.

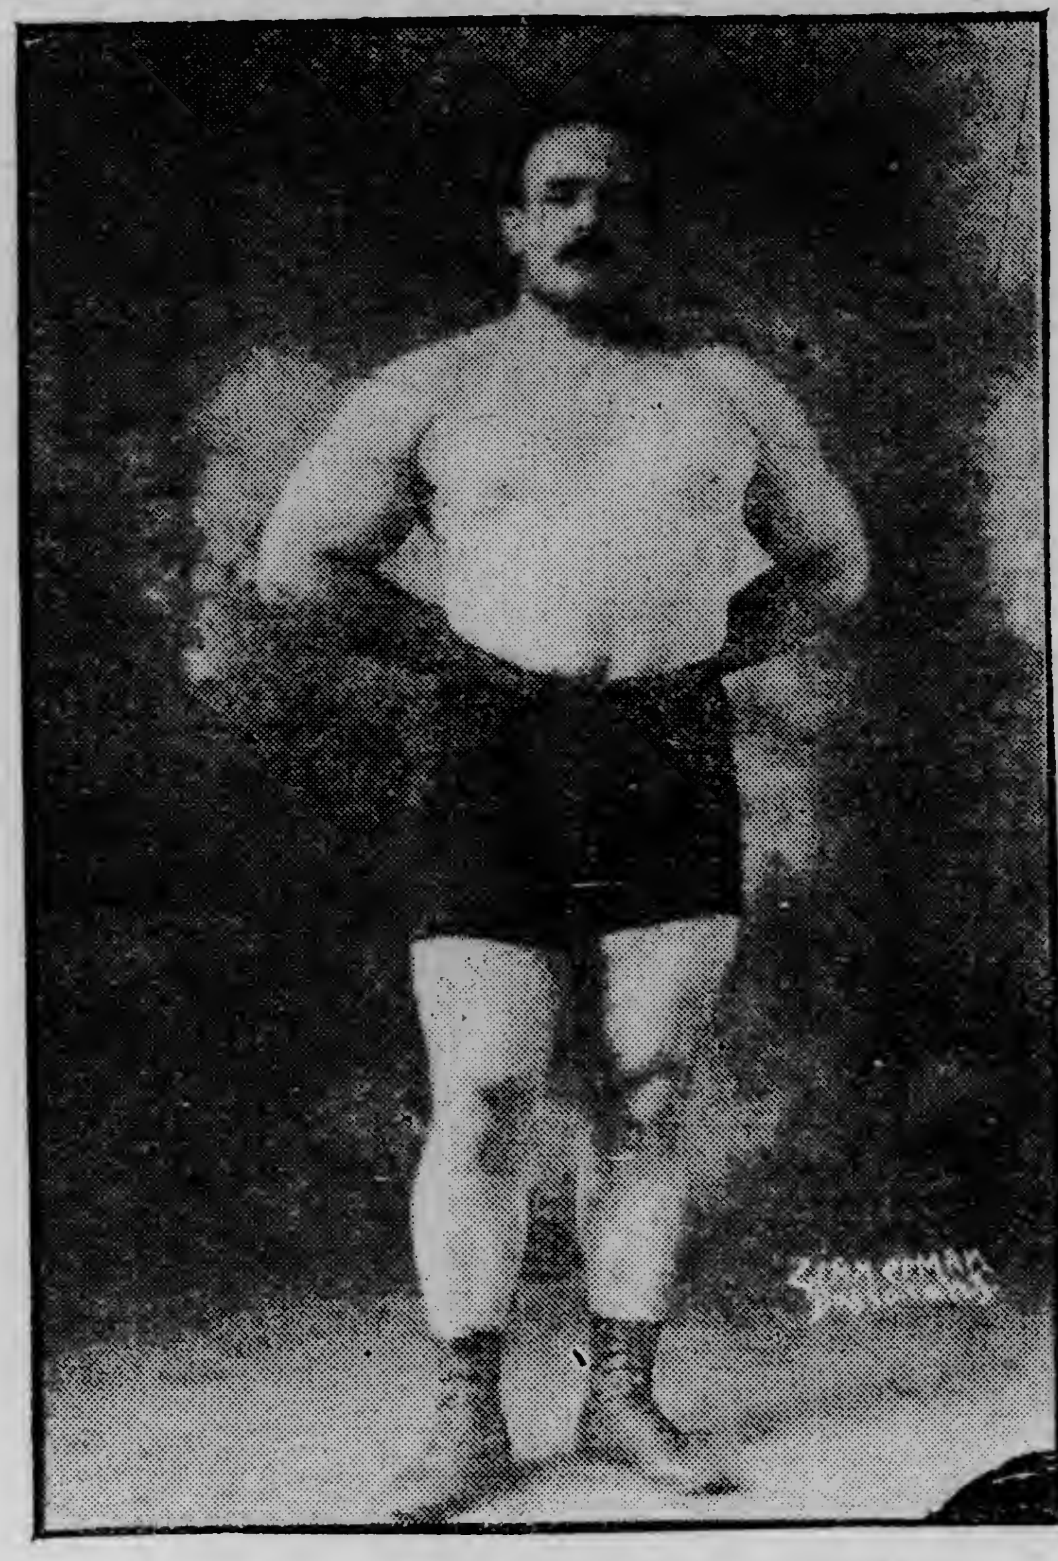
ZBYSZKO AND PERSON THE WRESTLING CARD AT ARMORY



ZBYSZKO, POLAND S CHAMPION WRESTLER.

William Trepanier vs. Al Harper.
Olaf Johnson vs. Carl Nelson.
Stanislaus Zbyszko vs. Chris Person.

Zbyszko the great, Poland's champion wrestler, and the greatest mat artist of Europe, owing to the length of the Ordemann match in Minneapolis last night, missed the last train out of the Mill City, but will reach Duluth this afternoon over the Great Northern. A delegation of his countrymen will meet Zbyszko at the train and escort him to his hotel, where a public reception is planned.

If there was any doubt of the class of the big Pole in the minds of wrestling followers throughout the country, the defeat of Henry Ordemann in Minneapolis last night, has removed it. Zbyszko defeated Ordemann two straight falls, something that no wrestler in the country has been able to do for the past year. During the hour and forty minutes of wrestling the Pole was never in danger.

Every detail of the match this evening has been completed. It will be to a finish, and in attempting to throw Person in a short time, the Pole will be stacking up against one of the most resourceful wrestlers on the mat; a man versed in every trick and every fine point of the game. Person has met them all, McLeod, Burns, De Rouen and Gotch, and he will not be awed by the prestige or name of the great Zbyszko.

William Trepanier, athletic instructor of the Duluth Athletic club, and Al Harper of the West Duluth Athletic club, and Carl Nelson and Olaf Johnson will furnish the prelude to the big match of the evening. The doors of the Armory will be thrown open at 7 o'clock and the first preliminary of the evening will be called at 8:30.

The mayor and city officials will be the guests of the Duluth Athletic club and will occupy a special section that has been provided for them. It is also expected that there will be a large sprinkling of the fair sex throughout the audience.

Martin Johnson, the well-known wrestler of this city, will referee the main bout of the evening.

By winning his match last night in Minneapolis in a decisive manneer, Zbyszko has disposed of the last American wrestler who has stood in the way of a meeting with Frank Gotch. The victory of last evening assures a meeting with the world's champion early this spring.

Zbyszko is the best that Europe can send to this country. He is massive, Herculean in strength, but is said to possess a degree of speed with his immense weight. Zbyszko weighs, in condition, about 236 pounds. He has a chest of 55 inches and has the tapering waist of the athlete. Hackenschmidt is the only great man of Europe that Zbyszko has not beaten, though two matches were made between the pair.

In every city of the country Zbyszko has been honored by his fellow countrymen. In Buffalo, where there is a large colony of Polish citizens, Zbyszko was met at the station and hauled through the streets in a carriage drawn by his countrymen. In Cleveland he was also given a royal reception. He will be given a public reception here this afternoon.

BOWLING SCORES

Last night on the Central alleys the Fitwells defeated the Majestics two games out of three. The Fitwells lost the first game by five pins and won the second by four pins. The last game was taken by the Fitwells by the margin of 19 points.

Stevenson of the Fitwells made the high score of the evening, 226, and Berini received the highest average of the evening, 219.

ELLIOTT EXPECTED HERE.

President John Elliott of he Minnesota-Wisconsin league is expected in the city tomorrow. He is making a swing around the circuit and Duluth is one of the league cities he has planned to visit. It will probably be learned when Mr. Elliott visits Duluth, just when the league meeting will be held.

Tennis Ranks May Split.

New York, Feb. 4.—Lawn tennis delegates from the many sectional associations in America, reached New York today for the twenty-ninth annual meeting of the National association at the Waldorf-Astoria tonight. That a disruption is pending in the National association was the belief of many delegates, who regarded as serious, a difference of opinion which has developed as to the proposed national clay court championship tournament. It is understood that the West and the South stand solidly for placing this event on the fixtures list.

Bantamweights Matched.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 4.—Johnny Coulon, champion bantamweight of the world, and Jem Kendrick, champion bantamweight of England, have been matched for a fight here Feb. 19. The bout will take place under the auspices of the Royal Athletic club.

CONFER ON FOOTBALL

Rules Committee Will Look for Weak Spots in Collegiate Game.

Many Suggestions to Eliminate Danger in the Present Game.

New York, Feb. 4.—Football doctors met here today to diagnose the case of the American collegiate sport, and decide upon a means to cure the ills that are threatening the existence of the pastime.

When the national football rules committee met at the Murray Hill hotel, the prospects were that a prolonged session was ahead, as the need for drastic changes in the rules seemed to be generally recognized, and every member of the committee had suggestions that called for discussion. It was soon apparent that a solution of the problem of how to make the game safer and at the same time keep it the absorbing sport it has been for years would not fail for lack of ideas, but the very multiplicity of them promised difficulty for the conferees.

That the fate of the game is in the balance and that everything depends upon the outcome of the committee's deliberations was believed to be fully recognized. "Accidents must be minimized and fatalities made practically impossible," was the way one conferee put it. The indications were that much attention would be given to the forward pass. Some of the more radical reformers were intent on preventing this particular play from being made "the goal," in the demand for a safer game. They declare that there are other and grosser evils that only liberal use of the surgeon's knife upon the body of the rules can remedy

STAR PLAYERS TRADED IN THE NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 4.—Manager Clark Griffith of the Cincinnati National league baseball team last night announced that he had traded Second Baseman Miller Huggins, Outfielder "Rebel" Oakes and Pitcher Frank Corridon to the St. Louis National league club for Pitcher Fred Beebe and Utility Infielder Allen Storke.

FRANKLINS VS. EMERSONS.

Grade School Basket Ball Teams to Meet at Boys' Department.

Standing of the Teams.

| Clubs— | Won. | Lost. | Pct |
|---|---|---|---|
| Ely | 1 | 0 | 1.000 |
| Franklin | 1 | 0 | 1.000 |
| Washington | 1 | 0 | 1.000 |
| Emerson | 0 | 1 | .000 |
| Bryant | 0 | 1 | .000 |
| Nettleton | 0 | 1 | .000 |

The Franklins and Emersons will meet this afternoon at the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. in the grade school basket ball series. The game will be called at 4:30.

The Blaine and the Duluth Central basket ball teams will meet tomorrow afternoon at the boys' department gymnasium. This game is expected to be one of the best ever played on this side of the bay.

COMPANY A CONFIDENT.

Military Team Will Attempt to Defeat All Stars in Benefit Game.

The indoor baseball game tomorrow evening between the All Stars and Company A team, winners of the pennant in the Military league, promises to be one of the best contests of the season. The Company A boys were defeated earlier in the season by the All Stars, but on that occasion they suffered from stage fright and a bad break in a critical point of the game.

The members of, Company A team believe they will get revenge in the game of tomorrow evening. They are out for a victory and have been making every preparation to be in great shape for the contest.

The contest will be followed by a dance. The proceeds of the game will go to the benefit of Private Hagberg, who suffered the loss of an eye from a rifle shot.

Three Games Played.

Three games were played at the Duluth Curling club last evening, Dinham, Brewer and MacGregor winning their games. The scores in the three games played were: Dinham 9, McLeod, 7; Brewer, 13; Roulo, 9; MacGregor, 11; Pugh, 10.

Y. M. C. A. Team Wins.

The senior class team of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. last evening defeated the sophomore class basket ball team of the Central high school, by the score of 13 to 6. The lineup:

| Boys' Dept. | Position | Sophomores. |
|---|---|---|
| Whiteside | f | Cook |
| Johnson | f | Osman |
| Simon | c | Mars |
| Maske | g | Currie |
| Otto | g | Bates |

Gophers Beat Hawkeyes.

Iowa City, Iowa, Feb. 4.—Minnesota university defeated Iowa here 22 to 18 at basket ball.

IT'S "ZBYSZKO" AND YOU SNEEZE IT.

The name of the Polish wrestler who will meet Chris Person at the Armory here tonight has been giving the press and people of the United States considerable trouble since he first landed on the shores of America. When he first arrived, the newspaper men hearing his name pronounced and seeing it in print, decided that it could be more easily pronounced by English speaking people if it were spelled "Zybszko." But the man himself spells it "Zbyszko," so the sport writers couldn't do anything but adopt his spelling. Polish names as a rule have many superfluous letters and Zbyszko's is no exception. They are easy to pronounce, when you know how. If you don't know how, just sneeze, cough or hiss and you'll probably land it.

THE MARKET WAS NERVOUS

But Scattered Buying and Supporting Orders Stop the Decline.

The market was nervous today with a stronger undertone, due to scattered buying and resting orders, placed to protect some of the leading issues, which had been declining sharply for some time. The decline in Amalgamated was halted and the aid given Steel common was such as to send it higher at the close than at the opening. The support accorded several of the leaders was helped by good buying when the shorts tried to take profits. The shorts covered their retreat and after noon returned to the atttack but soon gave it up and stocks rallied.

The trend of the market was comparatively narrow except in the specialties, which were subject to rapid fluctuation. The outlook in the immediate future is not especially bright. Some think the battom has about been reached, and others believe the market will seek lower levels. That the upturn, when it comes, or the natural reaction, will be in the same proportion as the decline is not likely. The Standard Oil decision and the general political situation are enough to put a crimp in a market for two or three seasons. If the decision of the United States supreme court decides adversely to the American Tobacco company, and the government gets the decision in some of its initial efforts to dissolve minor combinations, the market will get a solar plexus wallop. The condition of the market in the near future will be such as to inspire caution, especially until after the members of congress have adjourned.

Amalgamated sold at $76.62½ down ½ point, up 1 point, down to $76 and back to $76.50, North Butte at $32.50 down to $31 and up to $33.50. Steel common at $79.50 up to $80, down to $78.37½ and then at $79.87½, Calumet & Arizona at $67 up to $70, Butte-Ballaklava at $9.50 up to $10.50, Giroux at $9.87½ up to $10 and down ½ point. Greene at $9, up ½ point and back to the opening.

The local market was quiet, but trading was broad and of a good character.

Copper Queen sold at 65 cents; Cactus at $5.25; Denn at $3.12½; Greene at $9.12½; North Butte at $33.50; Red Warrior at $4 down to $2.87½; Shattuck at $19.87½ down to $19.75; Zenith Lead at $1 and $1.06¼; Butte & Superior at $2.81¼ down to $2.75; Calumet & Montana at $1.43¾; Carman at $1; Cliff at $1.06¼; Keating at $2; St. Mary's at 30 cents, and Sierra at $4.12½.

An incident of interest in the local market today was the placing of a resting order for 2,000 shares of North Butte at $30 by a Duluth man. The stock did not get to $30, $31 being low.

At the Live Oak mine the sulphide ore in drifts 308 310 and 311, which are now 248, 180 and 90 feet long respectively, has been averaging 2.58 per cent of copper for the last several days. Prospecting with additional churn drills will be started soon.

Additional details concerning the Comet Development company, which is being organized here to take over the Comet mine in the Mineral Hill Mining district, Blaine country, Idaho, concern the financial end of the new concern.

The company will have a capitalization of $300,000, comprising 60,000 shares with an initial payment of $1. The promoters believe that only one subsequent payment of $1 a share will be required and that the remainder of the purchase price can be taken care of from returns from the mine.

The holders of the option retain a minority of the stock for turning over their rights to the development company. This stock is issued paid up to the extent of $2 a share and if further payments are needed the entire issue of 60,000 shares is subject, without discrimination, to assessment. The purchase price of the property is $150,000, the first two payments being $20,000 each. The balance falls due in obligations of $15,000 each payable every three months ending February, 1912, the last payment amounting to $5,000.

Within a short time, it is expected, the holdings of the development company will be transferred to a mining company with a capitalization of about 1,000,000 shares with a par value of $1.

WELCOMED BY LARGE CROWD

Wrestler Met at Depot By 500 Enthusiastic Wrestling Fans.

A crowd of more than 500 people lined the tracks of the Union depot and stood outside the gates this afternoon, to catch a glimpse of Zbyszko, who, with his manager, J. H. Herman, arrived from Minneapolis on the afternoon train.

There were many of the countrymen of Zbyszko in the crowd and the hand of the wrestler was warmly grasped by many Polish citizens as he forced his way through the crowd and walked to the Spalding, followed by the gaping, cheering crowd.

In the spacious lobby of the Spalding an impromptu reception was given to the wrestler. A more formal reception will be given this afternoon. A committee of Polish citizens has the arrangements in charge.

"Zbyszko is the only man in the world who can beat Gotch," said J. H. Herman at the Spalding. "If Gotch doesn't beat Zbyszko in the first few minutes, the Pole will tear Gotch to pieces. He is the strongest man in the world and the brightest wrestler who ever came to this country. He speaks the English language as well as eight other languages. He is a student and a reader. He is a very entertaining fellow. His tour has been a triumphant one, and Zbyszko is confident that he will return to his native land with the world's championship in his possession."

DEADLOCK THREATENS IN MINE CONFERENCE.

Toledo, Ohio, Feb. 4.—In the joint wage scale conference of miners and operators today a threatened deadlock was averted for a time by referring back to the credentials committee a controversy over the seating of the employes' delegates from Illinois. The mine owners of that state are not taking part in the conference.

The credentials committee, however, disagreed again on the seating of the Illinois miners, and so reported to the conference.

ASSAULTED IN OWN HOME

West Duluth Girl Victim of Bold Attempt at Robbery.

Two Strangers Enter House During Absence of Her Father.

Claiming that two men tried to hold her up and then assault her, 16-year-old Lucy Nowak, daughter of Charles Nowak, grocer at 221 North Sixty-third avenue west, ran crying to a neighbor who lived upstairs at the same place, and the latter notified the police. The alleged holdup is claimed to have taken place about 11 o'clock this morning.

According to the story that the girl told this morning to Lieut. Wilcox and a Herald reporter, two strange men entered the store shortly before 10 o'clock today and inquired if she knew where a man named "Gospel" lived. When she told them she did not, they asked if her father was at home.

Charles Nowak, the father of the girl, was out at the time delivering orders, but for fear that the men would molest her, she said, she told them that her father was upstairs. One of the men then seized her and said that he wanted to know the truth about the matter.

The girl says that he told her that he saw her father leave the place about fifteen minutes before, and told the girl that there was "no use to bluff" him about that. While one of the men held the girl, she says that the other one looked cautiously about the store, evidently for the cash till.

At this point, the girl claims that she called for help, but the man who was holding her muffled her voice by placing his hand over her mouth. When she made another attempt to cry for help, the other man came to her side and told her that they would not hurt her.

Neither of the men had a gun, she says, but claims that while one of them held her, he threatened her life if she did not give him some money. When one of them thought that he heard a noise at the door, they both hurried out of the store.

The girl said that she went to the telephone and called for the police and that the men waited outside until they saw through the window that she was telephoning, when they hurried away. The girl then ran upstairs where T. L. Highmark resides.

She told Highmark and his wife the same story that she told the police later. She described one of the men as having a dark complexion, and wearing a false mustache, short black overcoat, brown overalls and an old black cap. He was about 29 years old and weighed about 130 pounds. He was about five feet seven inches in height.

No. 2 was described as being about the same age and weight and perhaps an inch or so taller than the other man. He wore black trousers, an old black cap, a short overcoat and had a smooth face.

The police are not inclined to the theory that the men came into the store with the intention of robbing the place, but rather of assaulting the girl. A story which she tells today of two men stopping her last night on a bridge near her home, may have some bearing on the case.

When asked as to whether the two men who stopped her last evening on the bridge across Keene's creek at Sixty-third avenue west might not have been the same two parties who entered the store this morning, she said that although she could not positively identify them, she thought that they might be the same men.

Last evening, about 8 o'clock, she claims that two men jumped out from under the bridge and called to her to stop. She says that at first that she thought that it was a friend, but when they came up to her she could not recognize them.

One of them grabbed her by the wrist and wrenched it, she says, so that today she is obliged to carry it in a bandage. The men said that they wanted to talk to her awhile, but she insisted upon going home. She claims that they let her go when a passerby came close to where they stood.

The Nowaks have been having their share of excitement since the first of the year. On New Year's eve, while neighbors in that vicinity were celebrating, four pistol shots were fired through the building. One of them struck the window pane smashing it and the others entered the walls of the house above the store.

Funeral of Mrs. Govette.

The funeral of Mrs. George Govette of Proctor, who died early today at the Duluth hospital after a long illness, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence of her mother-in-law, Mrs. James Meddling of 711 North Fifty-eighth avenue west and at 3:30 o'clock from the Westminster Presbyterian church. The deceased is survived by a husband and a daughter, 6 years old. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jason of 2824 Helm street.

W. O. W.

All sovereigns of the W. O. W. are requested to attend the funeral services of our late sovereign, James W. Forsythe, to be held at his home, 817 East Second street, Saturday, Feb. 5th, at 3 p. m.

"OWL" CARS FOR WEST DULUTH

When the West Duluth Commercial club meets tonight a resolution may be introduced by J. J. Frey asking the Duluth Street Railway company to place "owl" cars on the West Duluth lines.

The club will hear a report from its banquet committee and also from the committee appointed to ask the Northern Pacific road to lower its fare between West Duluth and the steel plant.

ATTENTION!

WE-KE-MA-WUP TRIBE NO. 17, I. O. O. R.

All members are requested to meet at 817 East Second street tomorrow, Saturday, at 3 o'clock p. m., to attend services and escort remains of Brother J. W. Forsyth to depot, who died at 10:55 today. By order of FRANK MAKOWSKI, Sachem.
D. A. McRAE, Scrbe.

"DIVE" OPENS NEAR STEEL PLANT

Complaints are coming from the people residing in the vicinity of the steel plant site and the officials in charge of the work that a house of ill repute has opened up on the Wisconsin side of the bay, where there is also a saloon doing a land office business.

The laborers at the steel plant frequent the place and it is said that it is the cause of much disturbance in that neighborhood.

DIVISION AMONG THE CANADIANS

Political Parties Opposed on the Question of a Navy.

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 4.—A line of cleavage has been established between the two political parties of Canada on the policy of building a Canadian navy.

In the house of commons Sir Wilfred Laurier, the prime minister, yesterday moved the second reading of the naval bill, affirming the principle that the Dominion should undertake the construction of a navy consisting of five second-class cruisers and six destroyers. He stated that the time had come when Canada should begin preparations for the defense of her coasts and trade routes and to participate in the defense of the British empire generally should the emergency arise.

The leader of the opposition, R. L. Borden, who previously had supported the proposal, broke away and offered an amendment censuring the government for having inaugurated a permanent navy policy without first submitting the question to the people for approval. He advocated that money be given the British government to build dreadnaughts.

It is recognized that the government bill will be passed without substantial change and that tenders will be invited for the construction of the vessels in Canada.

A WORD ABOUT ORANGES !

You have undoubtedly complained that the oranges have been woody, dry and sour this year. The reason is that nearly all oranges have been slightly frozen on the trees in the orchards. Only a few orchards escaped the frost. We have just received a lot of oranges from the Redland Heights where no frost appeared and hence this fruit is as sweet and juicy as you can wish. We have different sizes for 25c, 30c, 35c and 40c a dozen.

MURDER TRIAL BEGINS MONDAY

Jackson McPherson Must Answer for the Killing of Otto Frey.

Jackson McPherson will in all probability go on trial Monday morning in the district court.

The trial has been delayed owing to the illness of County Attorney John H. Norton.

McPherson will stand trial on a second degree murder charge. He is accused of having killed Otto Frey, a fellow worker, on the Mutual Transit steamer North Lake, during September of last year.

KILLS HERSELF BECAUSE MAN SHE LOVES DIES.

New York, Feb. 4.—"Well, I have done it!" was the exclamation of Miss Jessie Spiller, daughter of a wealthy retired Brooklyn manufacturer, as she returned to the parlor today after a moment's absence and fell unconscious at the feet of a caller in her father's home. Within an hour she was dead from poisoning.

Miss Spiller was a victim of despondency over the death of the man she loved.

St. Louis County Case Decided.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The supreme court today handed down the following:

St. Louis county—Bernard Bandler et al, respondents, appellants, vs L. G. Bradley, et al, defendants, C. H. Bradley, appellant, respondent.

Action on a promissory note. Affirmed on defendant's appeal and reversed on the plaintiff.

DEATH COMES SUDDENLY

L. R. Martin, Well-Known Lumberman, Passes Away After Hemorrhage.

Was Ill for Two Years, But End Was Not Expected.

L. R. Martin, 36 years of age, one of the best known lumbermen at the Head of the Lakes, died last evening at his home, 6005 London road.

Mr. Martin has been ailing for the last two years, suffering from mental troubles. Death came quite suddenly, resulting from a hemorrhage.

He leaves a wife and one child. Other relatives are three brothers, Carl and George of Duluth and Lloyd of Seattle, and five sisters, Mrs. Mattie Holmes of St. Joseph, Mo., Mrs. Al Peters of Carlton, Mrs. Sukeforth of Duluth, Mrs. Chapin of Seattle, and Miss Alice Martin of Duluth. His mother is also at his home.

Mr. Martin came to Carlton from Ontario, Can., twenty years ago, and came to this city fourteen years ago. He has been in the pine and pulpwood business. He was a member of many lodges and clubs, among them being the Knights of Pythias, Athletic Club of Chicago, the Kitchi Gammi club and the boat club of this city.

The funeral arrangements will be announced later. Up till noon word had not been received from some of those who will probably attend.

STEAMER KENTUCKY IS SINKING AND HAS SENT WIRELESS CALL

tions also were sent to the revenue cutter Yamacraw, which is on special duty in the same region, to look for and assist the Kentucky.

The Kentucky was recently bought by the Alaska-Pacific steamship company from the Eastern Steamship company for the passenger trade between San Francisco, Seattle and Alaskan ports. She was fitted out here for her trip to the Pacific, and just before her sailing a wireless apparatus was installed on board. To this precaution the Kentucky owes her ability to summon speedy aid today, and it is hoped it will be the means of saving the lives of all on board.

The Kentucy is a steamer somewhat more than 200 feet in length, is commanded by Capt. Moore, and for her trip around the Horn, shipped a crew of seventy-five men. She sailed from New York to Seattle on Jan. 23.

Nearly Turned Turtle.

Six hours after she passed Sandy Hook a wireless dispatch was received here form her saying that she was leaking badly. Before she reached Newport News, where she put in for repairs, she nearly turned turtle during a heavy storm. Repairs were effected at the Virginia seaport and she sailed on Feb. 2 from Newport News in continuation of her long voyage down the Atlantic coast, and up the Pacific.

Since her departure from Newport News the Kentucky found herself buffeting seas which battered her sides and opened her seams. The weather off Hatteras,—"the graveyard of the Atlantic coast,"—has been very heavy recently, and fears were expressed that the steamer might not successfully make the trip. T. A. McLarney, the wireless operator who manipulated the key on the Kentucky between here and Newport News, declined to continue with the steamer on her further voyage, his place being taken by W. G. Maginnis, who sent out the "S. O. S." distress call when the steamer began to sink today.

Formerly Named Lincoln.

On board the ship when she left here was the superintendent-engineer of the Alaska-Pacific company, E. Palaskett of Seattle, who superintended the refitting of the steamer of this port.

The Kentucky was built in 1897 at Bath, Me., and christened the Lincoln. She ran between Boston, Bath and Booth Bay for the Kennebec Steamship company, which sold her to the Flagler interests for service in Florida. The steamer's name was changed to the Martinique, and after some service between the ports of Miami, Nassau and Key West, the Martinque was sold to the Eastern Steamship company for service between New York and Boston. She was then rechristened the Kentucky.

RANGE MAN ASKS HEAVY DAMAGES

A. C. McCutcheon Wants $25,297 From Virginia & Rainy Lake Company.

A. C. McCutcheon wants general damages to the amount of $25,000 and $297 as special damages from the Virginia & Rainy Lake company for injuries alleged to have been sustained July 22 of last year when he fell about twenty feet to a lumber pile while trying to right a truck that had run off the track. The case was begun this morning before Judge Cant of the district court.

The accident happened at Virginia and the complaint in the action does not state the specific injuries sustained. He does claim, however, that since the fall he has endured severe pain.

McCutcheon worked for the Virginia & Rainy Lake company as a lumber inspector. In doing his work he was required to stand on the lumber pile while four laborers loaded to the trucks. One of the trucks ran off the track and McCutcheon and the laborers tried to right it. In some way the car was tipped and McCutcheon forced to the edge of the track and, losing his balance, he fell to the lumber pile below.

MAY GIVE MEDAL TO DEAD NURSE'S FAMILY.

Washington, Feb. 4.—The Carnegie hero fund commission has announced its intention of sending a special agent here to investigate the case of Miss Mary Brown, a nurse, who died here of wounds received while she was taking a pistol from a frenzied typhoid fever patient whom she was attending. The medal, if it is granted, will go to her nearest relative.

Machinists on Strike.

South Bethlehem, Pa., Feb. 4.—Between 600 and 800 machinists of the Bethlehem Steel company went on strike today. Their demands for time and a half for work outside of regular hours had been refused.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

INTEREST IN INDOOR BALL

Duluth Nine Will Play Copper Country Team at Hancock.

Wrestling and Hockey Are Also Popular With Michigan Fans.

Houghton, Mich., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Hancock Elks' Indoor Baseball club of the Fraternal league is arranging for a series of games at Hancock with Newt Randall's Duluth team, to be played some time late this month.

Copper country indoor baseball teams are attracting recognition in every part of the country. Requests for games are coming in to the Elks and Hibernians of Hancock, the Y. M. C. A. team of Calumet and the Odd Fellows of South Range. Chicago, Duluth, Milwaukee, Green Bay and Cleveland all want games. Three of the Copper country teams are planning barnstorming trips and will visit several of these towns.

The Cleveland Grand Fraternity hockey team, which is looking for the amateur championship of the United States and Canada, will play the four teams of the Copper Country league at Mohawk, Calumet, Hancock and Houghton during March. Arrangements for the series are now being made. Charlie Marcotte, formerly with the Calumet team, is with the Cleveland team. The Clevelanders were recently defeated two games in Pittsburg by Arthur Smith's professional team. The games were among the roughest ever played in the Smoky City. The Grand Fraternity team will play at New York, Toronto, Ottawa, Port Arthur and other Canadian towns and also at the Michigan and Canadian Soos, in the Copper country towns and at Duluth. Winters, formerly of Duluth, is with the team.

John Rowett, Bessemer, Mich., world's champion heavyweight Cornish style wrestler and Karl Lehto, Hancock, Northwestern heavyweight champion at Graeco-Roman and claimant of Northwestern honors for catch-as-catch-can style, meet in Calumet Saturday night. Mixed Graeco-Roman and catch-as-catch-can styles will be used. Lehto came here from Tommeforst, Finland, recently. The match is for $500 a side and the gate receipts.

RACE HORSE SOLD FOR "MERE TRIFLE"

Demund Cost $45,000, But Failed to Make Good on Track.

Cotton Plant, Miss., Feb. 4.—Demund, the race horse for which Paul J. Rainey of New York paid $45,000 as a 2-year-old, has been disposed of as a 4-year-old for a "mere trifle," it is announced, to Roy Rainey. Although Demund at the time he entered the Rainey stables gave promise to accomplish much on the turf, the animal has failed and will be shipped to the Rainey farm in Virkinia. The amount of the purchase price was not given.

ALMOST LIKE DULUTH BOATS

Thousand Islands Yacht Club Also Adopts Uniform Motor Craft.

The Thousand Islands Yacht club has adopted an official motor boat that will be built along the lines of the boat adopted recently by the Duluth club. The St. Lawrence river club's boat will be more costly than the one adopted by the Zenith City club, but in essentials it differs but little.

In a great many ways the two styles are identical. The boat will be of moderate length and generous beam, designed for utility, and will be in no sense a strictly racing machine. The speed will probably be between eighteen and twenty miles an hour.

The Thousand Islands club adopted the official boat that there might be from now on, more interest in motor boat racing. As the boats up to this time have been very different in size, shape, construction and power, it was impossible to race one against the other. The uniform boat will give all an equal chance.

Charles D. Mower designed the boat adopted by the St Lawrence club. The day to be surgeon general of the navy, craft will be twenty-eight feet over all and with a five-foot beam. The hull has the lines of a speed boat below the water line, while the high freeboard and generous flare of sections will make her dry and comfortable for runabout service.

The engine will be of the four-cylinder, thirty horsepower variety.

Contracts and Releases.

New York, Feb. 4.—President Thomas J. Lynch of the National league today promulgated the following: Contracts: With New York—Richard W. Marquard. Released: By Boston to Chicago, National league, C. H. Beaumont; by Brooklyn to Shreveport, T. S. L., George Smith; by Chicago to Boston, National league, Fred Liese; by Chicago to Danville, I. I. I. Fisher, M. F. Woods and O. G. Wolfe; by Chicago to Anderson, C. A., J. C. Smith; by Chicago to Peoria, I. I. I. league, Joseph E. Cook, Jr.; by Cincinnati to Troy, N. Y., S. L., John C. Ashley; by Cincinnati to Birmingham, S. L., John Lower; by Pittsburg to McKeesport, O. and P. L., Eugene B. Elliott.

Goes to Galveston.

Auburn, N. Y., Feb. 4.—The national board of the National Association of Baseball Leagues rendered a decision today on the claims made by the Galveston, Tex., and Burlington, Iowa, clubs to the services of C. A. Baumgartner of Cincinnati. The claims of the Burlington club were disallowed, and Baumgartner was awarded to Galveston.

HAS WIFE IN EACH CITY

Former Duluth Man Arrested in Saginaw, Mich., for Wife Desertion.

Wife No. 2 Visits Him in the Michigan City Jail.

Oliver J. Gerow, 20 years old, formerly of Duluth and now of Saginaw, Mich., has a wife in each city, it is claimed, and not only faces a charge of bigamy but is under arrest in the Michigan city on a Duluth warrant, accusing him of deserting his child.

The Duluth warrant revealed Gerow's double life. When he had been brought into the police station he was visited by a young woman who said that she was his wife. She stated that he married her since leaving Duluth and that a child has been born to them. Mrs. Gerow No. 1 is employed in a Lakeside home.

The Duluth police records show that Gerow was arrested here Nov. 4, 1907, on a statutory charge. At that time he was but 17 years of age, and the girl still younger. Upon promising to marry the girl, which he did, the case against him was dismissed.

Shortly after his marriage, it appears, his folks went to Saginaw. He followed them, and the police say that their child was born after he had left Duluth. His whereabouts were ascertained a short time ago and the warrant issued. Under the Minnesota laws the crime of child desertion is a felony and extraditeable. Gerow said that he would come back without extradition papers. When he was arrested he had a prolonged weeping spell, according to a dispatch received from there today. He told the police that his Duluth matrimonial experience was the result of indiscretion and was brought about practically by force.

Stokes is Nominated.

Washington, Feb. 4—Medical Director Charles F. Stokes was nominated today to be surgeon general of the navy, to succeed Rear Admiral Presley M. Rixey, who retires voluntarily.

CHINESE BOYCOTT SAN FRANCISCO PORT.

San Francisco, Feb. 4.—Because of alleged unfair treatment of Orientals at the new immigration station at Angel island, a boycott has been declared against the port of San Francisco by the Chinese of this city and the entire Pacific coast. Following a meeting of representative Chinese here yesterday, cablegrams were sent to China instructing all Chinese to avoid this city as a port of entry, and to come by Northern ports until changes in conditions are made here.

WASHINGTON'S LODGE ASKS TAFT TO BANQUET.

Washington, Feb. 4.—President Taft has agreed, other engagements not interfering, to attend the annual banquet of the Alexandria-Washington Lodge of Masons, at Alexandria, Va., Feb. 22. This lodge, of which George Washington was the first master, has under consideration the erection of a memorial Masonic temple to the first president of the United States.

Wants Powers to Step In.

Paris, Feb. 4.—In the pourparlers in progress concerning Greece and Crete, France is inclined to favor the reoccupation of Crete by the powers as the most effective means of preventing complications.

THE SLUMP CONTINUES

Wheat Declines Under Heavy Receipts and Light Buying Orders.

Flax Is Dull, Closing One Point Lower in Duluth.

Duluth Board of Trade, Feb. 4.—The wheat market was soft and dull today, although sensitive and responsible to the slightest movements of traders. Lower cables, easier cash premiums, a slack milling demand, continued heavy receipts and light buying, caused the decline.

May wheat opened at $1.10½, ⅛c under yesterday's close, advanced to $1.11, lost ⅛c and regained it, declined to $1.10⅛ bid. May flax opened at $1.17½ and declined to $2.16⅝, closing $2.16½ bid.

The opening today was weak in sympathy with lower cables, Liverpool closing ⅜@¾c off. The market became oversold, however, especially at Minneapolis, which lead in the advance after the opening. The market fluctuated briefly and then closed off when the atmosphere cleared and the situation resumed its scalping character. The slump at Minneapolis was more severe, as the millers were unable to give the market the support it had been accustomed to receive.

Receipts in the Northwest continue heavy. The car receipts were cut down about 225 cars today, on account of a wreck on the Great Northern, northwest of Minneapolis. This number of cars was prevented from reaching the Mill City. Primary receipts today were 600,000 bu and the clearances 43,000. Bradstreet estimates the week's clearances at 2,466,000. The world's shipments exclusive of North America, are estimated at 9,200,000 bu. These figures are indicative of the increasing movement in other exporting countries.

The foreign situation was made easier by the increasing shipments from Argentina. The shipments from that country this week are placed at 2,608,000 bu against 952,000 last week. The interior movement is broadening and the prospect is for increased exports. The quality of the shipments is poor. The visible supply of wheat in Argentina is placed at 3,240,000 bu against 2,904,000 last week.

The Northwestern situation was weakened by the slump in cash premiums. Cash wheat in Minneapolis sold at 1@2c over May and spot here was on a parity with May. Most of the cash wheat at Minneapolis, it is said, was offered at 1c over the near option. A disturbing element was the closing of the Christian mill at Minneapolis on account of a lack of shipping orders. Bearish reports in the milling world came from along the Ohio river, where, it is said, several mills were closed and more will be shut down on account of the slackening flour demand. The customers of these mills are said to be well stocked, and the mills have a considerable supply on hand.

Crop reports continue bearish, individually, but general survey of the condition of the growing crop, leads to optimistic conclusions. The damage to wheat seems to have occurred in unprotected regions. Individually farmers report considerable young wheat killed, but these conditions appear to be isolated and have no appreciable bearing on the crop as a whole, thus far.

The wheat supplies at the Head of the Lakes will increase about 500,000 bu for the week. The increase in the last four days amounts to 382,000 bu. The increase in stocks at Minneapolis in five days has been 575,000 bu. On account of bad weather, receipts have eased off the last day or two but the movement is expected to continue at its present high level next week.

The export trade today was not noticeable. The foreigner appears to be independent of the United States just now and some people believe that there is enough wheat outside of the United States to take care of all needs until the next crop comes along and that the foreigner can afford to ignore this country. The present situation, however, revolves about Argentina. The foreigner is trying to get wheat as cheaply as possible from that country.

The flax market was quiet, and trading was light. There were no car receipts. Offerings from the country are about in, available supplies being reserved for seeding purposes. The Argentine shipments of flax this week were 1,784,000 bu, of which 176,000 bu were imported by Eastern crushers by way of New York. A small amount of flax was imported by this country last year, but it is expected that imports will break all records during the current year. Until the next crop is marketed there will be a shortage, and if the experience of the last two years is duplicated, the condition will not be alleviated.

Durum closed ½c off; cash wheat equalled May. Oats closed ½c off, barley was unchanged and rye was ½c off. Durum reached a high point of 98¼c.

The near wheat option at Chicago closed ¾@⅞c off, at Minneapolis ¾c off, at New York ¾c off, at Winnipeg ⅝c off, at Kansas City ¾c off, at St. Louis ¾c off.

Bartlett-Patten said — "Chicago cables on wheat ¼@¾c lower. It's evident the English buyer is independent of the United States. While we believe there is plenty of wheat to supply all wants between this and next crop and that we will have wheat to carry over, yet Chicago stocks are light, cash wheat is firmly held by one or two parties, milling demand is poor in the winter wheat district and it is claimed is smaller in the spring wheat territory. Receipts in the northwest are good. Prospect for the new crop fair, yet Chicago stocks are light and we do not advise too heavy a short selling as the market easily becomes congested and reacts quickly. We believe prices will sell lower. Corn receipts continue large. Stocks are accumulating. The demand is poor."

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool—"Argentine shipments: Wheat, 2,608,000 bu, this week; 952,000 bu last week; 5,584,000 bu last year. Corn, 488,000 bu, this week; 358,000 bu, last week; 178,000 bu, last year. Visible supply in chief ports: Wheat, 3,240,000 this week; 2,904,000 bu, last week; 6,160,000 bu, last year. Corn, 569,000 bu, this week; 561,000 bu last week; 228,000 bu, last year. Wheat market is dull with less inquiry. Arrivals from interior increasing and quality poor. Stocks increasing, owing to larger arrivals and a dull demand. Corn market firm, with a quiet demand and offerings small. Arrivals from the interior very small. The weather for corn is favorable. Wheat at the start was steady with prices unchanged. Offerings for a time were light, stimulated by steady American cables yesterday. Later and during the morning the market developed pronounced selling pressure and prices declined ½@1d with principal weakness in March, which was offered freely. Argentine shipments about as expected and advices state they will continue to show an increase from now on."

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Opening Decline in Wheat Is Followed By an Upward Trend.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Shipping conditions favorable to increased arrivals of wheat gave ammunition to the bears today at the outset. So did a slight decline at Liverpool. Influential buying based on the present moderate stocks of grain changed the decline, however, to an upward trend, which carried prices back to about yesterday's closing level. May opened at $1.09⅞@1.10, and declined ¼@⅜. Much of the trading was in the neighborhood of $1.10⅛.

The early rally carried May prices up to $1.10⅜@1.10½. Later a decline set in and May fell off to $1.09⅛@¼, the other futures dragging less heavily. The close was weak at nearly the low point with May at $1.09¼@1.09⅜, ⅞@1c under yesterday's final figures.

Generous accumulation of stocks together with a sluggish demand for cash corn gave a bearish tinge to the corn pit. Opening figures were ⅛c higher to ¼c lower, May showing the only initial firmness and losing its lead in the first hour.

Fluctuations were within narrow limits, May opening unchanged to ⅛c higher at 66¾@66⅞c, and declining to a resting place at about 66⅝c.

Subsequently, the market sagged because of poor demand. The decline was from ½@⅞c. The close was weak at the low point with May at 66⅛c, a price ⅝@¾c less than the last quotation yesterday.

In oats, a belief that a larger arrival is certain to come afforded bearish sentiment encouragement, but fluctuations in the first hour did not exceed ⅛c. Opening figures for May were unchanged to a shade lower at 46⅝ to 46⅝@46¾c.

Increased receipts of live hogs at the packing centers and lower prices for the animals caused a decline in provisions. Opening prices for the May products were: Pork, $21.60, 12½c lower; lard, $11.90, 7½c lower, and ribs, $11.57, 7½c lower.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Opens Steady and Closes Somewhat Under First Prices.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 4.—The wheat market opened steady with yesterday's close to ⅛c firmer, on account of light local receipts. May advanced ¼c above the opening and fluctuated in a range of 1⅛c and closed 1@1⅛c below the first quotation. Local elevator stocks of wheat increased 575,000 bu for the week, making the total about 5,060,000 bu. The light movement today was caused by a railroad wreck. Foreign markets were weaker, and Argentine shipments showed a material increase. Minneapolis today received 250 cars of wheat as compared with 269 cars a year ago; Duluth, 49 cars, against 12 cars, and Winnipeg 88 cars against 100 cars. May opened $1.10½; high, $1.10¾; low, $1.09⅝; closed, $1.09⅝@1.09¾. July opened $1.09⅝; high, $1.10@1.10⅛; low, $1.09⅛ and closed at $1.09⅛.

Cash wheat was about steady with yesterday. Demand was only fair for the light offerings. Millers bought sparingly and elevators picked up a few cars at bottom prices. No. 1 northern sold for 1@2c above the May option and No. 2 northern for 1c below to the even May price. Closing prices on track: No. 1 northern, $1.10½@1.11½; to arrive, $1.10¼@1.11½; No. 2 northern, $1.08½@1.09½; to arrive, $1.08¼@1.09½; No. 3 wheat, $1.04½@$1.08½. No. 3 yellow corn, 58¾@59¾c. No. 3 white oats, 44⅜@44⅝c. No. 2 rye, 76¼@77¼c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,493 tons. There was no change in the situation today. Demand continued active, shipments heavy and prices firm. Bran in 100-pound sacks, $23.00@23.50.

One small local flour mill closed down today on account of lack of shipping directions. All the big mills were running about full on accumulated orders. Demand was reported fair. Shipments continued heavy and prices were unchanged. Shipments, 69,976 bbl; first patents in wood, f. o. b. Minneapolis, $5.40@5.60; second patents, $5.20@5.40; first clears, $4.35@4.45; second clears, $3.10@3.40.

Flax—Receipts, 27 cars, year ago, 30; shipments, 3. Demand was strong for both spot and to arrive at 1c above the Duluth May option. Closing price, $2.17¼.

Barley—Receipts, 53 cars, year ago, 49; shipments, 42. Demand was a little firmer today and the majority of the sales were made at 1c higher than the closing prices, which were unchanged. Inquiry was equally strong for both feeding and malting barley. Closing range, 58@65c.

Total balance in general fund, $81,793,734.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Feb. 4.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 4 to 11 points in response to steady cables and continued bullish trade advices from Manchester. Old crop months were relatively firm and although there was a renewal of Wall street selling, prices worked up to a net gain of 7 to 17 points before the end of the first half hour. May contract sold at 16.67, a new high point counting from the culmination of the January slump. Realizing caused slight recessions during the middle of the morning.

Spot closed quiet, 15 points higher; middling uplands, 14.90; middling gulf, 1515. Sales, 28 bales. Futures closed steady; closing bids: February, 14.61; March, 14.64; April, 14.62; May, 14.70; June, 14.62; July, 14.61; August, 14.14; September, 13.17; October, 12.79; November, 12.65; December, 12.61; January, 12.58.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 4.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Dakota dealers were greatly in evidence today and a number of good sales of farm horses were booked. Dealers say that they will have the heaviest consignments of general purpose horses the market has ever known during the next few days and already have twenty-five loads of horses in sight for the opening auction Wednesday, Feb. 9. Buyers want a better quality of horses than heretofore and the pluggy classes move slow, making a much better call for the better grades of farm horses and mules.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Opened Higher But Advances Wiped Out Under Heavy Selling.

Substantial Rallies in Final Dealings and Close Very Strong.

New York, Feb. 4.—A rush of buying orders at the opening today carried prices of stocks comprehensively upwards. The rise in Americans in the London market alarmed the uncovered shorts here and they bought heavily. Central Leather started 2 points higher than last night, Great Northern preferred 1½, American Smelting and Pacific Mail 1⅜, and Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific, Reading, Rock Island, New York Central, Erie first preferred, Chicago & Alton, Atchison and United States Rubber 1. National Biscuit sold at a decline of 3.

The opening rise invited heavy selling under which the advances were wiped out and most of the leading stocks were driven below yesterday's final prices.

The pressure was especially severe against American Smelting and the Hawley stocks. American Smelting broke from 83⅝@80½, placing it on a level with yesterday's low figures and 1¾ below last night's close. Chesapeake & Ohio dropped 1⅜ below yesterday's final price and Toledo, St. Louis & Western preferred 4½. Other notable losses were National Biscuit 7 points, Westinghouse Electric 2½, Tennessee Copper 2, Great Northern ore certificates 1½, Colorado & Southern first preferred 1¼ and Amalgamated Copper and American Car 1.

Supporting orders checked the break and there was a rally of 2 points in American Smelting and a point or more in a number of other stocks. Delaware & Hudson jumped 3 points and Federal Mining preferred 3⅜.

Prices rose again, a few stocks showing a bucyant tone. A rise of 5½ in Hocking Coal was a feature. Rock Island advanced 2¾, Great Northern preferred 2½, Northern Pacific and United Railways and Investment preferred 2⅜, Pullman 3½, Distillers Securities, and Norfolk & Western 1¾, Reading 1⅝ and American Cotton Oil 1½. Minneapolis & St. Louis fell 3, Iowa Central preferred and Federal Mining 2. Bonds were irregular.

The market closed very strong. The drive carried American Smelting 2⅝ under yesterday's close and United States Steel and American Sugar 1. Other active speculative stocks sold at the lowest of the day. Resistance was encountered and substantial rallies followed, but left the market dull. The advance was resumed in the final dealings, Rock Island rising 4 over last night.

MRS. LOWRY PAYS TAX ON GIFTS FROM HUSBAND.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Thomas Lowry today paid into the state treasurer's office $41,216.75 inheritance tax on property which was given her by her husband several months before his death. This, with $8,000 paid on Wednesday, completes the payment of the tax on this estate. The money was received by the treasurer on the first anniversary of the death of the Twin City street railroad king.

This is the first instance in the history of the state when an inheritance tax has been paid on gifts of property made before death.

COUNTY ROAD LAW IS INVALID

Hennepin County Plans for $100,000 Work Knocked Out By Court.

St Paul, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hennepin county has lost in its campaign for good roads. The state supreme court, Justice C. L. Brown writing the opinion, held today that the act granting counties of more than 275,000 population the right to issue special bonds for work on roads and bridges is unconstitutional.

In his opinion Justice Brown calls the act special legislation, as the classification adopted is purely arbitrary and has no proper relation to the subject matter of the legislation.

The case went to the supreme court on an appeal from the Hennepin county district court in which Horace Lowry sought to enjoin the county auditor, Hugh R. Scott, from an issue of $100,000 in bonds which had been sold and were about to be delivered.

Stops Big Road Program.

The supreme court decision stops a big road-building program that has been started by Hennepin county. It was intended to issue $1,000,000 worth of bonds in all. The suit was started at the instigation of the Minneapolis Automobile club as a friendly way of settling doubt as to the legality of the project, but it is understood that internal dissension in the club turned the action into a battle in earnest. Some members were dissatisfied with the improvements that were decided upon.

TOSCAS BOUND OVER.

Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. Toscas was bound over to the district court of Grand Forks county today for attempting to obtain passes from the Great Northern road under false pretenses.

PRIVATE WIRES TO ALL MARKETS.

Friday, February 4, 1910.

As we predicted yesterday, the stocks were at the bottom and from now on, we expect the market to gradually improve, and get higher prices in all the issues during the coming week. Butte & Superior has been very strong, being $2.75 bid for very large blocks. Duluth-Moctezuma should be bought on this break as the news from the property continues to be very encouraging. In fact, all the good stocks on the Duluth market are purchased at the present time. Stocks bought yesterday and today will be bought at the bottom.

Paid up Capital, $50,000. Resources Over $250,000.

The present weakness in copper stocks, contrasted with the strength in iron stocks, emphasizes the desirability of the latter. On any advance in coppers, would advise switch to better class of iron issues for big profits.

AGITATION HAS EFFECT

The Produce Prices Go Down Under Movement Against High Living Expenses.

Principal Reduction in Butter and Eggs, But All Staples Are Lower.

Practically all branches of the produce trade have been affected by the agitation over the high cost of living. The principal reductions, however, have been in butter and eggs. These products have sold at a big decline in the last two weeks. Cheese has derived some benefit from the campaign against high prices of meat, and has experienced a better demand. Poultry trade was slightly depressed, but values were practically unchanged. Fruits and vegetables met with a fair inquiry, but supplies are generous and the sales are only moderate.

Quotations on butter and eggs are several cents lower than two or three weeks ago, and from 1 to 2 cents lower than at the close of last week. Fresh eggs are selling at 29 to 32 cents wholesale and storage eggs are bringing 23½ to 26 cents. Fresh butter commands a wholesale price of 31 cents and storage butter is bringing 29 and 30 cents. The receipts were fairly heavy this week, and this combined with the fact that the market was laboring under heavier accumulations of stock than are usually carried at this season, was responsible for the concessions in prices.

Retailers lacked confidence in the market, also, and the cry against the high cost of living contributed to the weakness. The general situation was abnormal, and some jobbers realized that they would be compelled to resort to extreme measures before the market could be established on a sound basis. They made further reductions in prices, therefore, and were rewarded with a material improvement in the demand.

The decline in storage butter was somewhat unexpected, as some holders had been endeavoring to reduce the amount in transfer from storage stocks to distributors. No recessions were reported last week in storage stuff, but this week, storage butter slumped in sympathy with fresh butter. Dairy butter and the cheaper grades of creamery have met with a good outlet at lower prices.

Storage eggs declined about on the same ratio as fresh offerings. Strictly fresh eggs were more plentiful than for several weeks. The demand is assuming breadth, however, and some dealers look for a strengthening in prices as soon as receipts become less burdensome. The local demand for eggs was good.

While other dairy products were selling at lowered prices cheese encountered an urgent inquiry. Prices are tighter than a few days ago. Fancy cream is bringing 18 cents, block Swiss 20 cents, wheel Swiss 21 cents, and limburger 18 cents. The supplies are comparatively limited and the consumption is said to be improving because of the agitation against high meat prices. Nearly all shapes and sizes have benefitted from the increased demand. The retailers did a good business.

* * *

Weather conditions have been more favorable for the handling of dressed poultry and receivers were able to sustain values despite the agitation against excessive prices. A few small recessions were made in some live offerings but these were exceptional. Live poultry values have been well held. The only offerings which have shown an easier tendency are geese and spring chickens. The receipts in this part of the country are small compared with the storage business.

* * *

Potato prices which have declined in other parts of the country held well here, being sustained at a level of from 48 to 50 cents a bushel. This quotation has held for the last two weeks. The quality of the offerings is fair and dealers have had no trouble in disposing of stocks at the firm prices. The receipts have been only fair. Good, well packed sweet potatoes met with an excellent inquiry and sold at firm figures. The common stock was less in demand. Celery has met with good inquiry at moderate prices. The market for sound cabbage, string beans and head lettuce is good.

* * *

Strawberries are coming into the market and are selling at an advance over prices which prevailed some time ago. The trade in some instances, according to retailers, seemed willing to pay high prices for the delicacy than to pay stiff quotations for meats and necessaries. Cranberries are not in such favor as formerly and prices are inclined to be soft. There is some difficulty in moving stocks. Grapes are selling slowly and prices show no material change. Receipts are too light to make accumulations burdensome.

* * *

Fruits are meeting with a fair sale. Apples and oranges are finding a good outlet although the trade seeks a high quality. Prices are inclined to be firmer. Red apples in barrels have been favorites. Greenings and boxed apples have not moved with such dispatch. California and Florida oranges and lemons were in demand and were well sold. Sound fruit is being disposed of at fairly good figures, but there is little or no outlet for frost-bitten stuff, and on this class of goods the dealers are forced to take a loss. There has been a dearth of fancy pine apples, but plenty of the common offerings. The former have met with a brisk demand at good prices.

HEATWOLE VERY SICK.

Northfield, Minn., Feb. 4.—Joel Heatwole, ex-congressman, well-known politician and local editor, is very sick at his home here of acute Bright's disease.

Last summer he took an extended Southern trip, hoping to benefit by the change, and returned much improved, but later the old trouble returned. Visitors have been denied admittance to the sickroom. While his condition was admitted as dangerous, the family would not say that his case was hopeless.

Train Kills Pioneer.

Menominee, Mich., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Peter Mellberg, an aged pioneer of Oconto county, whose family resides here, was struck by a train and ground to pieces.

Calumet Attorney Arrested.

Calumet, Mich., Feb. 4.—(Speacial to The Herald.)—August J. Moilanen, a former attorney, now of Calumet, has been arrested on the charge of misusing funds entrusted to him in a real estate deal. He was held under $1,500 bail.

Test Seizure Made.

San Francisco, Feb. 4.—Collector of the Port Fred S. Stratt on order has seized a large number of valuable articles found in the trunks of Mrs. Edward G. Price, wife of the Chicago millionaire, who arrived here Monday on the world-girdling steamer Cleveland.

PARKERS PRAIRIE FARMER MURDERS WIFE AND FOUR CHILDREN WHILE SUFFERING RELIGIOUS MANIA

William Ruckheim Thinks He Is Saving Family From Wrath of the Almighty.

Follows Crimes By Prayer and Then Tries to Follow Victims in Death.

Father Prevents Consummation of Tragedy and the Man May Survive.

Parkers Prairie, Minn. Feb. 5.—Firm in the belief that he was saving his family and himself horrible torture because of failure to carry out a religious decree that he believed had been pronounced against them, William Ruckheim, aged 35 years, a thrifty farmer of Ottertail county, murdered his wife and four children yesterday and stabbed himself. He probably will live.

Ruckheim talked freely today of his crime. He declared with every evidence of sincerity that he had received a divine message demanding that he and the members of his family go to the cemetery at South Effington, there to exhume with their bare hands several bodies deeply buried. The ground of the burying plot was frozen. Ruckheim knew, and he was in deep despair over the magnitude of the task.

"Before Easter," the decree declared and the penalty for failure struck terror into the man's heart. Unless the command was carried out as pronounced, Ruckheim and his family would be dragged to death.

With such a fate, seemingly inevitable, before him, Ruckheim says he decided to kill his family and himself. He hacked his wife's body almost to pieces. Each of the children's bodies also contains a number of deep cuts made by the ax. They all were in bed, when he attacked them, and could make no resistance nor effort at escape.

Prayed After the Crime.

After the murder of his family, Ruckheim went into the barnyard, where he slaughtered four head of cattle in order that his dogs might not suffer for want of food. Then he returned to the house, and after he had knelt in prayer stabbed himself below the heart with a jackknife. He did not die and having awaited the end a brief time, he arose and sought his shotgun.

His father, who was to have helped him draw wood, arrived at this time. The son approached him and told of his crime, and of his purpose to make his own death sure by shooting. As he was in a weakened condition his father had little difficulty in preventing this final deed.

Ruckheim lies in a critical condition at the home of a brother, but doctors say he probably will live.

Ruckheim had been a steady-going farmer. Though religious and a faithful member of the German Lutheran church, which has a strong following in the community, he did not appear abnormally zealous at any time.

PUT CHLORINE ON THE STREETS

New York Professor Has Scheme for Making War on Germs.

New York, Feb. 5.—The streets of New York will be daily sprinkled with a chlorine solution to kill bacteria, if the suggestion of Prof. Charles Baskerville, head of the department of chemistry of the College of the City of New York, is adopted. He declared that more than 10,000 tons of impurity is poured into the city's air daily, bearing innumerable millions of germs. He urges upon the authorities more thoroughgoing methods of fighting this danger.

ADOPTED BY REICHSTAG

New German-American Tariff Agreement Is Passed Without Debate.

Berlin, Feb. 5.—The reichstag without debate today adopted unmodified the bill approving the government's tariff arrangement with the United States. Only for the protest of a few of the extreme conservatives, the measure would have passed all three readings unanimously.

Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg's statement to the reichstag regarding the terms of the German-American tariff agreement was as follows:

"The American government has declared that the livestock question is withdrawn wholly from the negotiations on the condition that the unlimited enjoyment of Germany's convention-

WALTER M'DONALD, WHO SHOT HOWARD SEXTON OF DULUTH, SHOOTS HIMSELF AT WALKER

Cheats Cordon of Sheriff's Officers That Surrounded His Home.

Body Is Found With Bullet Hole in the Head By William Sitzer.

Death of Victim of His Attack Is Expected Hourly By the Physicians.

Walker, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Howard T. Sexton of Duluth, who was shot by Walter McDonald in this city Thursday, died at 11:30 this morning. The body will be taken to Duluth tonight, by his mother and brother, who were with him when he died.

Walker, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Walter J. McDonald, who has been defying the sheriff's posse since Thursday night, when he barricaded himself in his house after shooting Howard Sexton of Duluth, committed suicide today by shooting.

The death of Sexton, who was shot twice through the body, is expected hourly. His mother, Mrs. Thomas Sexton, arrived here yesterday.

McDonald was found dead in the bath-room of his home this morning at 9:15, by his wife's brother-in-law and Sheriff De Lury. He had ended his own life with a revolver, the bullet crashing through his head. It is thought that the suicide occurred at about 5 o'clock this morning, as smoke was seen coming from the chimney of the house prior to that.

William Sitzer, brother-in-law of Mrs. McDonald, went to the house this morning, but got no response to his calls, and with the sheriff and Deputy McCabe, he broke in the front door.

Sheriff's Scheme Fails.

Sheriff De Lury has been playing a waiting game, believing that McDonald would leave his home sooner or later, and each of the twelve deputies surrounding the place had orders to shoot. The arc lights of the village were kept on all night, that the town might be thoroughly lighted. The McDonald home is located about two blocks from the business portion of the town, occupying a corner lot. No one was allowed the use of the street or sidewalk past the premises, as it was thought that the man had become crazed over the realization of his act and the effects of liquor, and would stop at nothing.

The man had been despondent for

CAREW MARTIN IS ACCUSED OF THEFT

Art Critic Arrested on Charges of Forgery and Embezzlement.

London, Feb. 5.—Carew Martin, widely known as an art critic, was remanded in the Bow Street court today charged with embezzling and forgery. The prosecutors are the directors of the Royal Society of British Artists, of which body Martin has been keeper and secretary since 1898. It is charged that he has robbed the society of large sums. He was admitted to bail under a $5,000 bond.

Martin was born in New York of British parents, in 1860.

FAIRBANKS RECEIVED BY THE KING OF ITALY.

Rome, Feb. 5.—King Victor Emanuel today received Former Vice President Fairbanks in private audience, and the two were engaged in conversation for half an hour. His majesty inquired about affairs in the United States, with the politics of which country he showed himself to be quite familiar.

MAY SERVE LIMIT FOR USING STATE'S MONEY

FRANK P. GLAZIER.
Former Treasurer of the State of Michigan.

GLAZIER IS SENTENCED TO FROM FIVE TO TEN YEARS

Former Michigan Treasurer May Serve Limit for Misusing State Funds.

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 5.—Former State Treasurer Frank P. Glazier was sentenced by Judge Wiest today to serve not less than five nor more than ten years in prison for misappropriating $685,000 of the state funds. Glazier controlled a bank at Chelsea which failed and in which money had been deposited, contrary to law.

The state has recovered $100,000 from bonding companies and it is expected that another $100,000 will be thus obtained. The assets of the bank are not expected to yield any considerable dividend.

In affirming Glazier's conviction, the supreme court recently held that the former treasurer had unlawfully used state money to promote the affairs of his bank and other financial enterprises.

Judge Wiest recommended the maximum term of ten years.

SAYS NATION IS EXTRAVAGANT

Senate Committee Reports Bill Providing for an Investigation.

Washington, Feb. 5.—In an effort to put an end to government extravagance and waste, Senator Aldrich today reported from the committe on public expenditures, a bill providing for the appointment of a commission to make investigation and suggest needed reforms. The committee will consist of nine members, three from the senate, three from the house and three to be appointed by the president.

TWO THOUSAND COUPLES DANCE NEXT DOOR TO FIRE

Orchestra Plays Louder to Drown Out Noise of Firemen at Work.

New York, Feb. 5.—More than 4,000 merry makers danced happily and unconcernedly in the big Terrace Garden hall on East Fifty-eighth stret in the early hours today while a dangerous fire in a room adjoining the ballroom was being fought by half a hundred firemen. The blaze was extinguished after an hour's work without the dancers having been aware of their peril.

A woman's cool headedness made the fire "a still alarm," and averted what undoubtedly would have ben a dangerous panic among the dancers. The orchestra was asked to play their loudest selections. The cornet and trombone players and the drummer did their noisiest best, with the result that the work of the firemen went on unhindered. The loss was not heavy.

POWERS TO HEAD OFF CRETE MUSS

They Will Take Steps to Avoid Graeco-Turkish Crisis.

Paris, Feb. 5.—Foreign Minister Pichon today announced that the four protecting powers — France, Russia, Great Britain and Italy—had agreed to make representations to the executive committee of Crete. These, with the declarations received from the Greek and Turkish governments, assure the avoidance of complications which would have arisen had the Cretans planned to send delegates to the forthcoming sessions of the national assembly at Athens.

CREW OF THE KENTUCKY SAVED—VESSEL IS LOST

Wireless Operator on Doomed Steamer Is Hero of Sea Disaster.

New York, Feb. 5.—Safe and sound on board the Mallory liner Alamo, the captain and crew of forty-six men of the ill-fated steamer Kentucky are speeding today for Key West. The Kentucky lies on the sea bottom off Cape Hatteras—wrecked before she was fairly under way on her projected voyage to the Pacific.

No wireless messages were received early today from the Alamo giving any further details of the thrilling rescue of the Kentucky's crew, which is thanking today the wireless "S. O. S.," the marine call for help. The Kentucky struggled for more than a day in the waves off Cape Hatteras.

MRS. FORD SOON TO HEAR FATE

Blackmail Trial Has Gone to the Jury at Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 5.—Mrs. Jeanette Stewart-Ford, on trial charged with blackmailing Charles L. Warriner, defaulting former local treasurer of the Big Four railway, will know her fate probably before another day has passed. All that remained this morning to bring the sensational case to a close was the closing argument of the attorney for the defense, the judge's charge to the jury and the latter's verdict.

Judge Swing announced yesterday that he would not charge the jury until Monday, but the trial progressed so rapidly that he decided to change this plan and endeavor to bring the case to a close today.

The prosecution made only brief reply to the closing statements of the attorneys for the defense. Judge Swing began his instructions to the jury at noon, their delivery consuming half an hour. The jury then retired.

CHERRY ALL EXCITEMENT

Recovery of One Body From Mine Has Made People Urge Haste.

Four More Bodies Recovered From the Workings at Primero, Colo.

Cherry, Ill., Feb. 5.—Every effort is now being made to reach the scores of bodies still remaining in the St. Paul mine as a result of the fire that cost nearly 300 lives. About thirty bodies are in the lowest vein, and 135 are in the second level.

The recovery of the body of Maostro Llitie, yesterday, from the second level, where he fell and died of suffocation near the air shaft, has set Cherry wild with anxiety for the removal of the other bodies still in the mine.

As the mine is infected with the odor of decaying bodies, General Manager Taylor has ordered that the work be continued at top speed, day and night. State mine inspectors say the mine is safe from a renewed conflagration.

Americans' Bodies Found.

Primero, Colo., Feb. 5.—Four more bodies were recovered last night from the Primero mine. Two were those of Americans, J. W. Hoskins and W. H. Pannell. The number of bodies recovered now totals fifty-five.

Fisheries Hearing Date Fixed.

The Hague, Feb. 5.—June 1 has been fixed as the date for the first meeting of the international court of arbitration for the adjustment of the differences between the United States and Great Britain, growing out of the Newfoundland fisheries case.

A HEROIC RESCUE.

CHICAGO CITY ENGINEER IS INDICTED FOR CONSPIRACY

New Scandal Evolved in Connection With Lawrence Avenue Sewer.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—Four true bills charging city hall officials with conspiracy in connection with the "shale rock" sewer frauds were returned by the county grand jury today. The men indicted are:

John Ericson city engineer.
Michael H. McGovern, contractor.
Paul Redieske, former deputy commissioner of public works.
Ralph A. Bonnell, former assistant city engineer.

All four, with the exception of Ericson were indicted a short time ago on a charge of attempting to defraud the city out of about $250,000 in the building of "Section N" of the Lawrence avenue sewer.

The "shale rock" scandal was in regard to the construction of "Section D" of the same sewer. The city paid the McGovern company more than $45,000 for the removal of a large quantity of so-called "shale rock."

"Shale Rock" Just Clay.

Upon examination by experts it was stated that the "rock" was nothing more than clay and offered little obstruction in excavating. McGovern was the man paid for the removal of the "shale rock," and Bonnell certified that it was rock. Ericson and Redieske approved Bonnell's decision.

Second indictments were returned against McGovern, Bonnell, Redieske and the eight others who were indicted last week.

W. H. LAIRD DIES IN EAST

Winona Lumberman and Capitalist Succumbs to Abdominal Trouble.

Had Been Prominent in State Business and Church Work for Years.

Winona, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Harris Laird, a prominent Winona lumberman and capitalist, died suddenly this morning at Baltimore, where he went three weeks ago for treatment for abdominal trouble.

Mr. Laird was a Winona lumberman since 1855 and was closely identified with a number of Weyerhaeuser enterprises.

Mr. Laird was the first secretary of the Mississippi River Logging company, and for years was president of the Mississippi Valley Lumbermen's association. He was president of the Deposit Bank of Winona. He was a leader in Congregational church circles in Minnesota and was president of the trustees of Carleton college, and with a gift of $100,000 built and endowed the gymnasium buildings there. He was public spirited locally and made many substantial gifts to the city of Winona.

Former Negaunee Merchant Dead.

Negaunee, Mich., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Stricken with heart disease Joseph Matthews, a well-known resident of Negaunee, died very suddenly. He was 58. Mr. Matthews was a member of the firm of Harris & Mitchell, which for a number of years conducted one of the largest and most prosperous grocery establishments in the county. He was well-to-do.

LIABILITIES ARE TWELVE MILLION

New Estimate Made in the Failure of Firm of Fisk & Robinson.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 5.—The liabilities of Fisk & Robinson, bankers of this city, New York, Chicago and Worcester, who failed this week, are now estimated at $12,000,000 instead of $7,000,000, as originally stated. The assets are approximately $11,000,000. The increase over the statement shown on the day of the firm's failure, is accounted for by the inclusion of customers' securities on both sides of the balance sheet totaling $5,000,000.

EARNINGS OF PAST YEAR

Duluth Edison Electric Company Made $31,963.16 Net in 1909.

Annual Report of Company Is Filed With City Comptroller.

The gross earnings of the Duluth Edison Electric company in 1909 were $390,650.86 and the expenses were $358,687.70, leaving a net income of $31,963.16, according to the annual report filed today with William S. McCormick, city comptroller.

Among the expenses 3 per cent, or $82,875.15 is allowed for depreciation. The interest on bonds amounted to $56,877.51. Other expenditures were: $97,720.17 for power purchased; $34,799.71 for carbons, arc globes and incandescent lamps; $15,558.21 for maintenance of pole lines, arc lamps, meters and transformers; $15,499.92 for salaries of general officers; $6,727.70 for clerks' salaries, and $12,566.17 for general office expenses.

The receipts were derived as follows: Municipal arc lighting, $23,460.47; municipal incandescent lighting, $6,846.67; commercial lighting, $277,905.96; commercial power, $52,801.446; steam heating, $4,570.08, and miscellaneous sources, $25,066.22. The value of the plant is given as $2,762,505.05, including $92,451.02 spent during the year. The incumbrances include $1,209,000 in 5 per cent gold bonds.

TWELVE MEN ARE ENTOMBED IN MINE

Dynamite Tears Bracing and Timber to Pieces at Ernest, Pa.

Indiana, Pa., Feb. 5.—An explosion caused by dynamite tore the timbers and bracing to pieces today and buried twelve men alive in the lower levels of Mine No. 2 at Ernest, five miles north of here. Several men were taken from the mine burned and injured. Rescue parties have as yet failed to reach the entombed miners.

First reports from the mine said that 100 men were in the mine at the time of the explosion, but President Clark of the Rochester & Pittsburg Coal company, of which the Jefferson & Clearfield Coal & Iron company, operating the Ernest mine, is a subsidiary, announced from Punxsutawney that only a dozen miners were in the workings when the explosion occurred.

LITTLE GIRL BURNED.

Probably Fatally as Result of Playing With Kerosene and Fire.

Pine River, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Wilcox at Jenkins probably was fatally burned yesterday while her mother was away shopping. With two other children the child was playing with kerosene and ran from the stove to the bed setting the bed on fire. The other children ran from the house to a neighbor, who, on arriving and extinguishing the fire, found the child just inside the door where she had tried to get out. There is small hope for her recovery.

DOES NOT KNOW THE NAME OF THE GIRL HE MARRIED

Youth Under Arrest for Wife Desertion Denies Bigamy Charge.

Says He Was Forced to Marry and Wife Deserted Him.

> "How long have you been married?"
>
> "I don't know. About three years, I guess. It has seemed much longer."
>
> "Have you more than one wife?"
>
> "Oly one. She has been plenty."
>
> "What was your wife's name?"
>
> "I don't know. I can neither pronounce or spell it. I guess she is Polish. You have to have a hot potato in your mouth to make a noise that in the least resembles it."

Oliver J. Gerow, 20 years old, now in the county jail awaiting the action of the next grand jury on a charge of bigamy, was anxious to talk this morning when seen at the jail.

"I don't seem to know much about myself," he said. "Everything is sort of misty and hazy. I never had but one wife and the first that I knew of having two, was when I was arrested in Saginaw. They have a nice charge cooked up against me, but before they are through, they won't think themselves so smart," and he waved his hands as though that were about all there is to it.

"You see it was this way. A long time ago—ever so long ago—they arrested me. There was a marriage license awaiting me and also the girl and her father. I had not seen the girl more than a few times in my life. I didn't even know her name. They told me I had to do it, and being only 17 years old, I did.

"I provided for her, but she was soon tired and told me that she wanted to go to St. Paul and so I gave her the money and she went the same afternoon. I have not seen her since and that was about three years ago, although I wouldn't be cock sure about the exact time.

"She didn't come back and as my folks moved to Saginaw I went with them. That is all I know about the affair. She went away before the baby was born and I haven't seen it yet. I am willing to go back and live with her, but insist that if there was any deserting done it was by her. In Saginaw I told the officers who arrested me that I wanted to go home and get my clothes. He asked if I had a wife there and I said yes, so that he would let me go. That, I suppose, is the way the bigamy story got out.

"I wish they would hurry up and do something for this jail is not the most pleasant place in the world."

Young Gerow does not look to be over 16 years old at the present time. He claims to work in a boiler shop and hopes to be a boiler maker some day.

In municipal court yesterday he waived an examination and was immediately bound over to the grand jury and bail fixed at $500.

The police records show that Gerow was married about Nov. 4, 1907, which is just a trifle over two years ago.

ALL PARIS BUSY MAKING GOOD LOSSES FROM FLOOD

Paris, Feb. 5.—The River Seine is today more than thirteen feet below its flood maximum, and the city has begun to assume a normal appearance. The streets are clear of water. Wreckage left by the flood is rapidly disappearing.

Above and below the city, the waters have returned to the river bed. Householders everywhere are busily engaged cleaning and drying their homes. Train service in all directions is being restored, and some of the factories have resumed operations, thus decreasing the number of the unemployed.

In many quarters the gas and electric light services have been renewed, but it will be many days before the transportation facilities, telegraph, telephone and other public utilities are in complete operation.

Hospitals and other places of refuge, as well as the soup kitchens, continued crowded today and the distribution of food and clothing proceeded systematically.

A group of generous women is engaged in a house to house canvass collecting such furniture and even toys, as can be spared to replace losses of flood victims.

The fund collected by Manager Amiette, archbishop of Paris, has reached $120,000.

Many industrial concerns are allowing their employes half pay for the time that the men are in enforced idleness.

Among the American contributions received today, were $4,000 additional from societies of New Orleans, $5,000 from the Red Cross and $1,000 from Mrs. W. H. Bliss of New York.

DEMAND FOR MEN HEAVY

Activity Promised in All Branches of Industry Next Season.

Employment Agents Have Many Orders and Immigration Will Be Heavy.

An unusual condition exists in the fact that long before the usual starting of industrial activity in the early spring months, there is already a very great demand for men from all parts of the country, if the report of six of the largest of the Duluth employment agencies can be taken as a correct statement of the situation.

The reports of these managers indicate that the increase in all branches of industrial activity will be so great the coming spring and summer months that at the present time railroads, mines and large manufacturing concerns are beginning to engage men.

One employment company in Duluth at the present time has 300 orders on its books that have been received within the past week for men wanted on the railroads, in the lumber camps and for large manufactures. Some of the orders have come from as far away as Chicago, which is taken to indicate that there is a large demand for men at the present time all over the West.

A number of managers of employment agencies were consulted today and they stated that they found every sign points toward a heavy demand for men in every industry. These managers are in close touch with the mines of the range, the lumber camps of the northern part of the state and also with the railroads, in so far as the employment of labor is concerned.

If there are not enough men at the present time to fill the positions, and there is already a heavy advance demand for more labor, with the indications pointing to more men wanted in the early spring, the question naturally arises as to what the industries will do for labor when the spring activity opens.

The immigration agents of the railroads answer this question in a measure.

According to their statements one of the biggest immigration movements in the history of the country is expected the coming spring. Immigration agents say that a heavy tide of immigration invariably follows a year of prosperity in this country. The past year was one of prosperity and therefore the precedent in regard to immigration is expected to prove true.

Employment men say that there will be one of the heaviest labor payrolls in the history of the iron range mining operations. They also state that many of the lumber camps of the northern part of the state will operate next summer. The railroads, too, after two years of curtailment of expenses, are planning the employment of a large number of laborers.

Wages have shown an increase during the past two weeks, increasing in many cases from $20 to $35 a month to $40 a month. The increase is brought about, according to employment men, by the increase in the demand for men.

Officials of the Missabe and the Duluth & Iron Range railroads as well as several Duluth lumbermen, all bear out the statement of the increase in general industrial activity the coming spring preparations for which are going on at the present time.

BRADLEY QUIZZED IN EXPRESS PROBE

Sundberg's Charges Are Being Investigated By the Traffic Board.

New York, Feb. 5.—Express rates in the West were under inquiry today before Examiner Lyon of the interstate commerce commission. The hearings are on complaint of State Senator Sundberg of Minnesota, who charges that the American, United States, Adams and Wells-Fargo Express companies are in combination to maintain high rates.

There was objection to questions asked John H. Bradley, vice president of the American company, regarding his company's rates in Nebraska. It was explained that rates in that state had been reduced by statute, and that the subject was still in the courts. When instructed to answer, Mr. Bradley said that the rates of his company in Nebraska were higher than those of other companies; that rates in the West were higher per mile than in the East, and that Nebraska rates were higher than those in adjoining states.

THE POLICE COURT GRIST

John Salo Fined for Threatening to Kill His Wife.

"William Jennings Bryan" Was Not a Good Democrat.

John Salo raised veritable "cain" when he reached his home on St. Croix at midnight after he had toyed many hours with the flowing bowl. His entrance was similar to that of a small cyclone.

So strong were his execrations and his threats that his wife and two lady roomers became so badly frightened that they fled out, in scanty attire, into the frosty night to the home of a neighbor. They did not dare to return until Salo had been taken in charge by a policeman.

The trouble started in the afternoon when the woodman came to Mrs. Salo to collect a bill. She knew her husband was spending good cash in a saloon. So she went inside to ask him for it. He threw her out and later struck her, it is claimed. When he came home he wanted to finish matters and threatened to kill her, according to her story in police court this morning.

Salo tried to talk her out of appearing against him, but she refused. She said that he had promised too much in the past. Salo was arrested a short time ago for hurling rocks through windows on Lake avenue and threatening to do various things to people on the highway. He got off then with a small fine on account of his wife. This morning the court gave him $40 and costs or thirty days. He didn't have the cash and will likely board with the sheriff for awhile.

* * *

William Jennings Bryan, not famous outside of the police court, was in for the third time this morning. He made the mistake of telling his politics. In his plea for mercy he told the court that it was after election and that he would "straighten up."

"Why did you get drunk during election?" asked the court.

"Because I'm a Democrat," said Bryan.

"Did you vote on election day?" next asked the court.

"No," came back the response.

"Why not?"

"I was full."

"You're not a good Democrat if you don't vote on election day," was the court's verdict. "Forty dollars and costs or thirty days at hard labor."

Bryan was so shocked that he wilted into his seat like a wet rag.

Minnie Esterlund, an old-timer, was arraigned again this morning. She admitted that she had been drunk and got $40 and costs or thirty days.

* * *

Lizzie Moore, a negress, got $5 and costs or fifty days on pleading guilty to a statutory charge.

* * *

Robert Orey, the bartender of the Clarendon hotel bar, arrested on the charge of selling liquor to Mike Atel, 18 years old, was discharged in police court this morning. The boy pleaded guilty to stealing a box of cigars in the bar, and put up the defense that he was drunk. He got the limit, $100 and costs or ninety days, whereupon his mother swore out the warrant for the bartender. The evidence did not substantiate her claims. The only testimony to prove that Orey had sold Atel liquor was the boy's own statement.

MAY SEND CLIENT TO ELECTRIC CHAIR

Lawyer's Perfunctory Motion Changes Aspect in New York Trial.

New York, Feb. 5.—An unexpected decision on the perfunctory motion to set aside the verdict may finally end in Frank McGrath's going to the electric chair for the slaying of Benjamin Rose.

After being out all night, the jury in the case today handed in a verdict of murder in the second degree. The charge was murder in the first degree. Robert Hibbert, counsel for McGrath, asked Justice Goff to set aside the verdict as being against the weight of evidence. Quick as a flash, Justice Goff granted the motion, and a new trial will be ordered. Such an occurrence never before has been seen in the criminal courts in this city, it is declared by experienced lawyers.

Eleven of the jurors, it is said, were in favor of a verdict of murder in the greater degree.

BALLINGER PAPERS SEEN

Congressional Committee Has Received Documents Bearing on the Inquiry.

Gifford Pinchot Introduces Personal Counsel for the Investigation.

Washington, Feb. 5.—An unexpected public session of the Ballinger-Pinchot congressional investigating committee was held today, following the receipt of two bundles of documentary evidence called for from the interior department by Mr. Brandeis, the attorney representing Louis R. Glavis.

Mr. Brandeis had complained yesterday of the delay of the interior department in forwarding these papers. Accordingly the committee decided today to dispose of the documents at once by fixing rules under which they could be examined by counsel.

Following an executive session of an hour, Chairman Nelson announced that the committee had adopted a resolution providing that the papers should remain in the custody of the clerk, who would make a complete schedule of them and allow the attorneys to inspect them in his presence so as to determine which had been offered in evidence.

Sees Ballinger Papers.

Mr. Brandeis remarked that he had only a few hours to remain in the city and would like to begin inspection of the papers at once. Chairman Nelson said it would be necessary first for the clerk to make the schedule. Senator Flint, however, offered a compromise by suggesting that as fast as the papers were scheduled they should be turned over to the attorneys.

This was agreed to, but it was announced that the attorneys alone should have access to the papers and that no one else would be permitted in the room while the lawyers were making the examination. Mr. Brandeis said he would have to be absent from the city on Feb. 10 and 11, and suggested that the hearing might go over until Monday, Feb. 14. The committee, however, adhered to its purpose to resume the hearings on the 11th.

The brief session today was marked by two interesting incidents, Gifford Pinchot making his first announcement in the case, and John J. Vertress of Nashville making his first appearance as counsel for Secretary Ballinger.

Pinchot Introduces Counsel.

Mr. Pinchot arose and asked that Nathan A. Smythe of New York be added to the list of counsel as his personal representative and be permitted to examine the papers.

Representative Denby questioned Mr. Pinchot as to what angle of the case the latter's testimony would be directed at.

"The story I have to tell," replied Mr. Pinchot, "is my connection with conservation."

"And that includes the Alaska coal land cases and water power sites?" interjected Senator Sutherland.

"Yes."

The committee agreed that Mr. Pinchot would not be called until after the cross-examination of Mr. Glavis is concluded.

Adjournment was taken until Friday next.

The attorneys in the case began immediate examination of the papers sent by the interior department.

Secretary of Proctor Y to Tell Hibbing What Organization Is Doing.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—E. C. Davis, secretary of the Proctor Y. M. C. A., in company with Mrs. Davis and a singer, will appear at the Y. M. C. A. meeting in the Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon. Mr. Davis will also give a stereopticon lecture in the evening, illustrating the work of the Young Men's Christian association.

The literary societies of the high school held a meeting and elected officers. The girls elected: President, Violet Talty; vice president, Lillian Keifer; secretary, Phena Bay; treasurer, Marie Killorin. The boys elected: Ralph Adams, president; Fred Cobb, vice president; William Hooker, treasurer; Gerhard Mehl, secretary. Prof. W. S. Rogers, sergeant-at-arms.

The decorators and painters held a meeting at the shop of Thomas Peterson and discussed plans forming an association of master painters. It was thought by some that the rate charged by painters in this town, of 50 cents an hour, is not enough, and that the price should be raised to 65 cents an hour. This question was debated for some time, but no decision was reached, the question being left open to be taken up at the next meeting, which will be held on next Thursday evening.

The new Italian political club held its regular meeting this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Since the organization of this club a few days ago many new names have been added to the membership, all of which were at the meeting today. The officers elected are as follows: President, John Michla; vice president, Peter Spina; secretary, Anton Schiros; treasurer Joseph Flower; chairman executive committee, Herman Antonelli.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald)—Prof. E. S. Clem of the science department in the high school met with an accident recently. While experimenting with some chemicals they exploded and the acid flew into the instructor's face, burning him. Some of the glass also flew into the air and cut his hands.

Anna Mulligan of the chemistry class, while experimenting with some acids, was badly burned about the chest from an explosion that followed her experiment.

STUDENTS GIVE FAMOUS COMEDY

"Midsummer Night's Dream" Is Well Presented By Eveleth Amateurs.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—"A Midsummer Night's Dream" was given last evening in the high school auditorium by the high school students and was in every particular a success.

Anna Mulligan as Hermia, daughter of Egeus, carried her part in a capable manner, and her interpretation of the character was excellent. Dale Cerveny as Demetrius and Walter Corbin as Lysander did well. Irene Davey as Helen in love with Demetrius proved a hit. Curtis Bent as Theseus, duke of Athens, and Gilbert Finnegan as Egeus, Harry Rabinowitz as Bottom. Hazel Stockstedt as Oberon, Emma Perrault as queen of the fairies, Ena Mantel as Puck, Eleanor Shea, Rita Zeni, Myrtle Nathanson, Martin Lister, Florence Robb, Muriel Nichols, Ida Mattson, Alice Falk as the fairies all won applause. Esther Ferris as Hipplyta, Queen of the Amazons; Elmer Hill, William Saari, Percy Pryor, Victor Mulligan, Harry Anderson, George Peterson, as the Athenian mechanicals, also carried their parts in a capable manner.

Music for the play was rendered by the Williams orchestra. During the intermissions Miss Italia Broscaughlie sang a few merry songs in a captivating manner. The drill work by Ruth Jesmore, Ethel Wilk, Anna Sholund, Mamie Burke, Elvira Forsman, Mary MacDonald, Mae Furlong, Gertrude Owens, Della Stanaway, Mary Pentilla, Albina Viger, Rosalie Viger was well executed.

People were present from Virginia, Gilbert, Biwabik and other range towns. The proceeds will be used in purchasing a memorial for the high school. The play will be repeated this evening in the high school auditorium.

A PREMIUM FOR BONDS

The School Board Gets Par, Accrued Interest and $2,363.

Complaint From Smithville Considered---Truant Officer and Inspector Busy.

At its meeting last night the school board awarded to the William R. Compton Bond & Mortgage company of St. Louis, Mo., the $100,000 in bonds for which bids were asked, the issue being the first part of an authorized issue of $200,000 for the erection of the new Washington grade and manual training building. The successful company bid par, accrued interest, and $2,363 premium.

Competition for the bonds was keen, fifteen bids being submitted. They ranged all the way from a bid of par with a request that $1,500 be paid for attorney's fees and expenses, to the successful bid. There were three bids of a premium of $2,000 or over.

Three bids were submitted from local companies. N. J. Upham & Co. bid par, $330 premium and accrued interest, and in a second bid offered to pay par and a premium with accrued interest of $1,375, providing they be allowed to take up the bonds as the money would be needed by the board. The Commercial Investment company bid par, accrued interest and a premium of $675, taking all of the bonds at once or furnishing the money in installments as the board might need it.

F. A. Brewer of the committee on maintenance of buildings and grounds said that all of the money would be needed between now and the first of May. He said requirements to be met in the next sixty days will take $50,000 and the board might well make the payment on the site of the new Washington building, saving the 6 per cent interest now being paid.

The bonds were accordingly awarded to the St. Louis firm and they will be disposed of as soon as the company's attorney can pass upon their legality. The bonds bear interest at 4½ per cent, are to mature in thirty years and may be retired after twenty years.

"I think the impression that we could have done better by issuing 4 per cent bonds is a wrong one to go out," said W. E. Magner, chairman of the board, this morning. "Before we made the issue, we learned that the bond market was not in the best of condition. We decided that we would be doing better by issuing 4½ per cent bonds and allowing the competitors to offer premiums, as in issuing bonds at 4 per cent we might possibly have difficulty in finding a market.

"The awarding of the bonds to the highest bidder was a business proposition. I would like to have seen the bonds go to a local company, but the local bids were not nearly as advantageous as that of the successful bidder. The board had to keep faith with the outside companies and follow business rules. If we did not award the bonds to the company making the best bid, the company being a responsible one, of course, we would not have followed the course we advertised as ours. We would be looked upon with suspicion by outside investors in the future and the time might come when we would have difficulty in floating our bonds just on that account. I believe we took the best possible course for the present and the future of the district."

The proposed changes in the contract with Jacobson Bros. for the erection of the new Washington grade and manual training school, so that a central heating plant for the Washington and high school buildings may be installed in the latter building, were approved by the board last night. The net cost of the new plant to the district will be $12,094, while it is estimated that the saving on account of the central plant will be from $2,600 to $3,000 a year.

Mr. Barnes presented to the board a complaint from the people of Smithville on the condition of the school there. It is claimed that the stovepipe is in such condition that the coal gas from the stove escapes into the room. The windows cannot be opened, according to the complaints, and the opening of the door would make the building too cold. Mr. Barnes said the people are complaining bitterly and he asked that something be done, to improve the ventilation and arrange matters so that the stove will not leak.

Mr. Brewer said that the last report from the school contained no such complaint. He said the windows can be opened and the ventilation should be all right. He agreed to look into the matter and remedy conditions immediately.

"Some of the people in the outside districts think that they are not given the attention that they think they should have. We don't want any such idea to become prevalent. I think that the people of the district should know that this board is attempting to treat all alike and will listen and deal rationally with any complaints," said Mr. Barnes.

W. G. Crosby reported that there is nothing for the board to do in regard to the organization of the Teachers' Retirement Fund association. Under the law, he says, the council must approve the association, but the board has only to certify to the number of teachers who wish it. The law, he said, was passed primarily to allow the teachers of St. Paul and Minneapolis to organize associations, but he thought it could be construed to apply to Duluth also.

* * *

The application of the Fifth Ward Civic Improvement club for the use of a room in the Emerson building for a meeting place caused some little discussion. Some of the members of the board were opposed to establishing a precedent of the kind, but a compromise was finally effected by granting the request with the restriction that there should be no smoking, that the meetings would be purely for the purpose of discussing civic affairs and that there should be no purely social gatherings of any kind.

* * *

Superintendent Denfeld reported that the truant officer is at work and also that the medical inspector and visiting nurse have begun their duties. He asked that he be allowed to attend the meeting of the Department of Superintendence of the National Educational association at Indianapolis the first four days of March and the request was granted with an appropriation of $50 for expenses. Mr. Denfeld reported that the Lowell school is crowded and there is no room for additional pupils. The building was originally planned for an eight-room building, but only four rooms were constructed. He recommended that a four-room addition be built on the west side. The matter was referred to the committee on buildings and grounds.

Mr. Denfeld reported that the enrollment of the schools Jan. 7 was 12,437.

The treasurer's report showed that there is a balance of $57,458.90 on hand in all funds. The building fund is overdrawn $16,746.60.

* * *

Mr. Barnes brought up the matter of the petition of residents of Oneota for an addition to the Oneota school and asked that the committees on schools and teachers and buildings and grounds get together on it. Mr. Magner said that the proposed new building in that district should relieve the situation. The committee on schools and teachers is to hold a meeting some time this month and at the same time, the committee on buildings and grounds will meet and the Oneota residents will be given a hearing.

ASKS CONGER TO GIVE THE NAMES

Allds Makes Demand on His Accuser in New York Senate.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 5.—A demand for a specific statement of his charges has been made by counsel for Senator Jotham P. Allds on Senator Benn Conger, who alleges that Senator Allds accepted $1,000 on or about April 23, 1901, as the consideration for having refrained from pressing the passage of certain legislation. Conger has been asked by Allds to give the name of the person he alleges paid him the money, the name of the person or persons from whom he is alleged to have demanded the payment of the money, and the title of the bill that he is alleged to have agreed to assist in defeating.

The notice was served on Senator Conger, who, it is understood, will not comply with the request.

IN THE DAY'S WORK AT WASHINGTON

Adjourn Because of Death.

Washington, Feb. 5.—The death of Representative Lovering of Massachusetts yesterday morning had the effect of causing both houses of congress to adjourn in advance of the usual hour. The house was in session less than half an hour and the senate only two and a half hours. The house transacted practically no business and the senate devoted its time to listening to speeches by Senators McCumber of North Dakota and Heyburn of Idaho.

The North Dakota senator delivered a prepared argument to demonstrate that the farmer does not obtain his due share of the prices paid for food products. Mr. Heyburn concluded his speech in opposition to the postal savings bank bill.

Attack on Postal Banks.

Senator Heyburn, criticising the postal savings bank bill in the senate declared the bill had been drawn so loosely that if enacted into law it must inevitably result in scandal. He instanced the corporation tax law, which he said had already proved unsatisfactory.

He said there was no provision for securing deposits; that, in providing for secrecy regarding deposits it would prove a shield to dishonesty, and that in the end it would be found to be impossible to find investment for the postal savings funds.

The bill he declared to be a mere skeleton and he advised the committee to take it back and put some sinews and flesh upon it.

Mr. Heyburn spoke at length regarding the possible abuses that might grow out of the secret methods provided in connection with deposits.

Mr. Carter protested against this line of reasoning, saying that no legislation proceeded on the theory that the average man was a crook.

Mr. Heyburn pronounced the bill to be utterly vicious and predicted that in the end it would be necessary to pay the deposits by appropriation out of the national treasury.

During the discussion Mr. Smith of Michigan made the prediction that if the bill became a law it would become the football of politics and the rate of interest would prove a fruitful base for promises by the unscrupulous office seeker.

Roosevelt in Widows' Class.

Carriage free of postage of all mail matter sent by Theodore Roosevelt is proposed by Representative Hamilton Fish of New York, who introduced a bill to that effect. The bill reads: "That all mail matter sent by Theodore Roosevelt, late president of the United States under his written autograph signature shall be conveyed free of postage during his natural life."

Franking privileges are now enjoyed by both Mrs. Cleveland and Mrs. Harrison, widows of ex-presidents.

Fraternal Press Aroused.

Representatives of the fraternal press of the country appeared before the house committee on postoffices and postroads to protest against the recent ruling of the third assistant postmaster general which prohibits them from carrying in their columns commercial advertising not directly germane to their fraternity.

The fraternal press alleges discrimination in this regard against them and in favor of all other publications which enter the mails as second class matter.

Curtis Is Confirmed.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury James F. Curtis, who has charge of the administration of the customs in the treasury department, was confirmed by the senate yesterday. He has been serving under the temporary commission since his appointment last fall to succeed Former Assistant Secretary Reynolds, who was promoted to the new tariff board.

The appointment of Mr. Curtis was made by the president at the suggestion of Secretary MacVeagh and without consultation with the Massachusetts senators. For a long time the nomination was held up in the senate finance committee. It has been charged frequently in executive sessions of the committee that the views of Mr. Curtis, so far as the tariff was concerned, were too advanced to suit some members of congress.

Release Indians' Money.

In order to meet expeditiously the needs of the Indian in handling of the individual accounts which the government holds in trust for him, the bureau of Indian affairs will put into effect a new rule which will enable Indian agents to give to the Indians from their individual funds, without reference to the department at Washington, amounts not exceeding a specified sum, probably $100 in any one month, for the purpose of meeting their actual needs. Thus Indians will not have to have their petitions acted upon at Washington, which practice caused the red men to complain because of the delay involved.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Head of the Lakes chapter of the American Institute of Banking elected officers in the First National bank building last evening as follows: President, Carl E. Longren, receiving teller, American Exchange National bank; first vice president, A. W. Taylor, receiving teller City National bank; second vice president, W. J. Bemrick, paying teller American Exchange Bank of Superior; secretary, John L. Evans, teller First National bank; treasurer, Freeman Randall, chief clerk, City National bank; member executive for two years, C. J. Grogan, receiving teller of the Northern National bank.

Past experience had during more than 20 years with Oxy-Tonic in Throat and Pulmonary complaints has proven its efficacy as an honest reliable treatment for these diseases. The first action of Oxy-Tonic in taking is upon the digestive tracts, toning these up to a proper equilibrium, and thus providing efficient strength and vitality to the blood vessels, which in turn carry new tissue and cell-building material to take the place of the waste and decay going on, so rapidly in persons afflicted with pulmonary ailments. As a positive germicide, Oxy-Tonic at once, in using it, enters upon the role of destroying the germs ravaging the system, and also neutralizing through its oxidation properties the toxic poisons left in the body from the germs. With the germs removed, and the appetite increased, together with a proper digestion, the patient will quickly feel the tonic effects produced by the use of Oxy-Tonic. The blood itself again becomes a life-giving and preserving one thus uplifting and upbuilding an otherwise run-down system. Oxy-Tonic shows its wonderful action within 48 hours in all cases of lung and throat or bronchial troubles when once started with

IS FORMER DULUTH BOY

Learned Telegraphy in Navy Before Entering Wireless Station.

William Graham McGinnis, the wireless operator, who sent the international distress signal "S. O. S." on board the steamer Kentucky, now at the bottom of the ocean off the South Carolina coast, is a former West Duluth boy.

He is the son of John McGinnis, who formerly resided near Sixty-third avenue west and now lives at Portland, Or. Many young men about the western end of the city remember him, and since learning his identity have been recounting the days they used to go to the old swimming hole together. He left the city about seven years ago. He spent four years in the navy, where he learned telegraphy and since that has been in the employ of private companies on the Atlantic coast.

With the ship settling nearer the water's edge, lurch by lurch, he struck pluckily to his key and was the means of saving the entire crew of forty-nine men, including Capt. Moore. They were taken off by the Alamo, which caught the signals which he flashed out across the Atlantic, calling for help and stating their latitude and longitude.

Not until the water flooded the dynamo, destroying the electric current, did he leave his key. Almost at the same moment the smoke of the Alamo was seen on the edge of the horizon. The captain of the rescuing ship had ordered the stokers to pile in coal, in order that the funnels might spout black smoke to bring encouragement to those whose life hung in the balance on the rapidly sinking ship.

When the men had been taken on aboard the Alamo, Capt. Moore publicly thanked Operator McGinnis for his services, which recognition was followed by cheers from the crew of the wrecked vessel.

EIGHT RINKS TO ENTER BONSPIEL

Curlers of City Will Compete at Duluth Rink Lincoln's Birthday.

Eight rinks from the Western Curling club at West Duluth will be represented in the bonspiel that will be held at the Duluth rink on Lincoln's birthday, Feb. 12. The following have entered: Zauft, Wade, Miller, Evered, Meldahl, Holland, Clark and McAuley.

The playing will be between the Duluth and West Duluth rinks and if the affair proves successful it will be made an annual event. Two or three more rinks may enter from West Duluth.

Last evening at the West Duluth rink, Hewitt lost to McAuley, 5 to 13, in the West Duluth Commercial club trophy race and Wade took a game from Clark, 12 to 8 in the Buckley event. This evening, two more games will be played, one in each event. McAuley and Olson will clash in the Commercial club affair and Keyes will play Method for the Buckley cigars.

The lineup and scores last evening follow:

TO KEEP LIBRARY OPEN EVENINGS

When the library board meets Monday evening next, L. A. Barnes, a member, will present the resolution passed at a recent meeting of the West Duluth branch of the W. C. T. U. asking that the West Duluth branch of the public library be kept open evening and a part of the day Sunday.

The hours at the present time are in the afternoon only and the library is closed Sundays. It is claimed that if the branch was also opened in the evenings and on Sunday afternoons, many more people could take advantage of the privileges than if the present hours are kept.

According to the monthly report of the West Duluth branch the circulation was 50 per cent greater during the past month than in January, 1909. 3,590 books having been loaned out, compared with 2,384 during the same month in the previous year.

The attendance last month was 4,418. In January, 1909, it was 3,251. During the month eighty-four new cards were issued, forty-eight more than in January, 1909. The library will be closed Feb. 12, Lincoln's birthday, and on Feb. 22, Washington's birthday.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED.

Commercial Club Moves for Creamery and Street Railway Extension

Agitation for a creamery at West Duluth was started last evening at the meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club when a committee of three was appointed composed of A. H. Merriman, Thomas Olafson and P. H. Martin.

A committee was also appointed to confer with the street railway officials with the view of securing an extension of the Grand avenue lines to the old site of the steel plant. F. W. Jolitz, E. J. Zauft and J. J. Frey were placed on the committee.

Opposition Lining Up.

A number of West Duluth citizens are planning on attending the council meeting Monday evening, when the aldermen expect to take final action on the granting of a franchise to the Canadian Northern Railway company. It is said that strenuous opposition will be made to it by the property owners in the Sixth division.

New Basket Ball Team.

A basket ball team was organized last evening by the Boys' Club of the Holy Apostles' Episcopal church, at a meeting held at the home of Robert Scott of 5803 Olney street. The material will be chosen from the following: Harry Scott, Robert Scott, Lloyd Mathews, Ralph Harzog, Clyde Gardener, Charles Evered, Clayton Burnside, Harold Laubach and Reynold Briggs. During the evening the club held a debate on "Resolved, That Napoleon Bonaparte was a greater general that Robert E. Lee." The affirmative was taken by Charles Evered and Clayton Burnside. The negative was defended by Harry Clark and Robert Scott.

Chickens From Farm.

Frank H. Wade, who was fortunate in securing a homestead at the drawing of the Rosebud reservation last year, today received the first return from his farm in South Dakota in the form of a box of chickens. Mr. Wade has 160 acres of good land in the Rosebud district.

Old Folks' Dance.

The Old Folks' club dance, which was held Wednesday evening at Wade's hall, was one of the finest social events of the season at West Duluth. Many married people of West Duluth were present. The guests were: Dr. Judson, P. H. Martin and Messrs. and Mesdames D. A. Keefe, D. A. Fitzpatrick, Charles Wilcox, J. Hammill, F. E. Watson, L. J. Brotherton, J. Foubister, Alfred Anderson, C. J. ### Funeral of Mrs. Govett.

The funeral of Mrs. George Govett of Proctor, who died Thursday evening at the Duluth hospital, was held this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence of Mrs. James Meddling of 711 North Fifty-eighth avenue west, and at 3:30 o'clock from the Westminster Presbyterian church, with Rev. W. G. Botle, pastor of the Asbury M. E. church officiating. Interment was made at Oneota cemetery.

Early Start in Politics.

When the West Duluth Republican club meets this evening at the Commercial club rooms, plans will be made for an early start in state politics. The result of the late election will also be discussed.

Engagement Announced.

The engagement is announced of Miss Clara L. Johnson to A. T. Gordon of Virginia, the wedding to take place some time next month. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Johnson of 6324 Worden street, and has lived in Duluth a number of years. During the past year she has been teaching school at Virginia.

New Members of Club.

Eleven new members were added this week to the new Salter club, which has been recently organized at the Plymouth Congregational church, Fifty-fourth avenue west and Bristol street. They are: Debora, Lucille and Ralph Feely, Teddy Hall and Marguerite Hall, Bernice Murray, Katherine Gardner, Devier Ketchum, Paul Peterson, Maggie Gibbons and James Smith.

Services to Continue.

The special services which were held every evening last week at the Asbury M. E. church, Sixtieth avenue west and Raleigh street, will be continued tomorrow and every evening, except Saturday, during the coming week. Dr. M. M. Hurch of Minneapolis, is the principal speaker. Tomorrow, there will be special children's service.

ENTERTAIN AT A DANCING PARTY.

BURNED BY GASOLINE

Thomas Larsen, employed on a steam shovel at the workings of the steel plant site at Spirit Lake, was probably fatally burned in a gasoline explosion this morning.

The big torch used for lighting the workings of the shovel in the early hours before daylight and in the evening ignited in some manner. Larsen was standing near by and the flaming gasoline saturated his clothes, burning him horribly about the head, face, body, arms and legs. The men of the crew made desperate efforts to put out the blaze, but were not quick enough. They tried to smother the human torch with their coats and caps, some of them sustaining burned hands and fingers before the flames were extinguished.

Larsen was immediately rushed to St. Mary's hospital on a special train. He was given immediate attention, and was still living up to a late hour this afternoon, although his condition is critical.

COMPANY IS ACTIVE.

Duluth-Husa Copper Mines Company Preparing for Operation.

There is a great deal of activity these days in the offices of the Duluth-Husa Copper Mines company, owing to the company's first stock flotation, which has attracted interest in all parts of the United States and in some foreign countries.

This company now owns the celebrated Husa and Froa copper mines of Jemtland, Sweden, some of which have been operated for nearly 150 years, and all of which are said by engineers of Europe and America to be very rich and so extensive that centuries of mining would not exhaust them. The new owners, the Duluth-Husa Copper Mines company, 218 West Superior street, Duluth, have a corps of men at work on these mines at the present time, repairing buildings, roads, water channels, etc., in preparation for heavy operations next summer, when the property will be equipped with American machinery. The mines are being unwatered and everything else needful at this stage of developments is being attended to.

In view of the fact that the promoters are all Minnesota people, most of them residents of Duluth, who have made good in other mining enterprises, the local interest manifested in the big Husa deal is considerable.

New Freight Service.

Announcement was made by the Omaha today of the inauguration of a through freight service from Green Bay, Wis., and Fox river points to Duluth. There is a large amount of paper hauled from the plpwood mills in that district to Duluth, and it was to accommodate this traffic that the new service has been installed.

NORTH DAKOTA DEMOCRATS TO MAKE VIGOROUS FIGHT

Will Nominate Complete Ticket and Expect to Win All Along the Line.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—North Dakota Democrats who have been in St. Paul this week are unanimously of the opinion that recent political developments in their state have been of the utmost importance and will go far towards shaping the political destinies of the state for years to come. The appointment by Governor Burke of W. E. Purcell as United States senator to succeed Senator Thompson is everywhere in North Dakota regarded as a most fortunate escape from a situation which threatened in a way the disruption of the party. Now everybody is happy, and it is generally understood that the various factions of the party are lining up for a great contest with the divided Republican party which numerically outnumbers the Democrats by at least 15,000. The new senator is said to be popular with all factions of his own party. As a campaigner he has few equals in the Northwest, and it is understood that he will make a real fight for election, going first before the people for a primary nomination by his party. The program includes the nomination of Governor Burke, and his chances for re-election are said by disinterested observers to be good. Burke will contest the field with the winner of the primary fight between the Stalwarts and Insurgents, and whichever side triumphs it is expected that history will repeat itself and he will be given a good many votes from the disappointed faction of the Republicans.

Breach Is Wide.

Doubtless extraordinary efforts will be made to bring the warring Republican factions together under the fear of the common enemy, but the breach is so wide that there is practically no hope of any compromise, and the bitterness will continue up to the general election. Besides nominating Purcell for senator and Burke for governor, the Democrats will name a full state ticket with candidates for congress and will make a determined effort to put through the whole state ticket. The tariff, with some minor state issues, will be the slogan, and while the North Dakota delegation in congress voted for the bill and justified their votes by claiming a strong home support, the growth of insurgency in the state is pointed to as indicating the deep dissatisfaction and even resentment at the terms of the Payne bill. The result of the congressional election in Missouri, to elect a successor to Congressman De Armond, where the normal Democratic majority in the district was increased 2,000, is pointed to as an indication of the coming landslide. The North Dakota Democratic leaders insist that that will put congressional candidates in the field even though the insurgents should secure the nominations for the congressional jobs. It is admitted, however, that Democratic chances for success would be somewhat reduced in this event.

Board of Regents.

The death of Sidney M. Owen of Minneapolis has created another vacancy on the board of regents of the university, to be filled by appointment by Governor Eberhart. It is said that the appointment "will go to the country." P. V. Collins, the Minneapolis agricultural journal publisher, is a candidate and is said to have strong backing, but like B. F. Nelson, another regent whose term is about to end, he is opposed by the Furlong faction in the state agricultural society, and will probably not be appointed. It is said that H. C. McNair of St. Paul has the call for one of the vacancies, that Mr. Nelson will be given a reappointment and that the third place will go to some up-state Republican. The contest for places on this board is unique in that it is the first time in some years where out-and-out political campaigns have been made with appointive power as to the objective point of resistance. During the administrations of Governor Johnson, comparatively little pressure was brought to bear on him for or against candidates for places on the board of regents. It is recalled that one of the last appointments made by Governor Johnson to the board was the reappointment of E. A. Rice of Willmar. Mr. Rice was known to have opposed Governor Johnson at the election preceding the end of his term and was in fact the leader of the republican opposition in Kandiyohi county. He was said to be a valuable member of the board, being especially interested in the agricultural college, and Governor Johnson, without effort on Rice's part, reappointed him for another six years. It is not recalled that the governor received any deputations of other state officers protesting against the appointment.

Dunn for Extra Session.

R. C. Dunn of Princeton has the temerity to propose an extra session of the legislature. In an interview in St. Paul Friday Mr. Dunn stands sponsor for an extra session to be limited to thirty days and to be charged with the duty of passing a bill proposing an amendment to the Constitution providing for a 1-mill tax for improved state highways. Senator L. O. Cooke of Wabasha, who initiated the judicial proceedings that ended in the knocking out of the last roads and bridges "pork barrel bill" seconds Mr. Dunn's motion. The former state auditor justifies the expense of an extra session by declaring that the legislation would mean in a few years 500,000 new settlers in Minnesota. Interviewed, other Northern Minnesota members backed up Dunn's proposition for the extra session, but insisted that reapportionment was fully as important a subject as good roads and should also be considered if the session were held.

Mr. Dunn, as one who usually has something to say with the nomination of Republican candidates for state office, is understood while in St. Paul to have conferred with some of the more important state leaders of his party. There has been a revival of the talk of William E. Lee of Long Prairie as a candidate for the nomination for governor, and, while Mr. Dunn has been generally understood to be quite friendly to either Lee or Brower, it is said by his friends that he was not over-sanguine of the success of either. While Dunn would not talk for publication, it was reported about the hotels that he had about come to the conclusion that Governor Eberhart would inevitably be nominated. He was not so positive, however, of the governor's success at the polls. A number of the leading Republican papers of the state are talking along lines which would apparently justify the Princeton statesman's fears.

McEwen For Senator.

There are rumors at the state capitol that involve the St. Louis county delegation in the next legislature. One of these says that William E. McEwen, state labor commissioner, is thinking about getting into the contest for a seat in the state senate from his home district at Duluth. McEwen refuses to be interviewed on the subject, but his friends say that he may listen to the voice of his constituents and become a full-fledged candidate for a senatorial seat. This would probably involve his resignation as labor commissioner early in the autumn months.

Crow Wing Senatorship.

Ole Erickson, former sheriff of Crow Wing county, is said to have ambitions to succeed Senator S. F. Alderman in the state senate. Erickson is known as a great vote getter, and his entrance into the contest would insure a lively contest. It is told that a few years ago, when Ole was making a canvass of his county for the office of sheriff, his opponent called at a farmer's home to invite his support. The farmer listened in decorous attention, and when his visitor had completed the story of his ambitions, blandly inquired, "Is Ole dead?" He had voted for Ole so many times that it had never occurred to him that there could be another candidate. His entrance into the senatorial contest guarantees that there will be something doing in Crow Wing and Morrison counties in the primaries.

SUPERIOR

WANTS DIVORCE FROM PRISONER

On the grounds of cruelty, Mrs. Lincoln Holden has started divorce proceedings against her husband at Waukegan, Ill. Holden is in jail at Superior awaiting trial for an alleged attempt to shoot his wife's father, Charles Cole, a prominent county politician of Douglas county, who resides at South Range.

Mrs. Holden has not been living with her husband for some time and about a year ago left for Illinois, where she supports herself and one child. On Christmas last, Holden called at the Cole home to ask to see his son, and he was told that he was with his mother in Illinois.

He grew infuriated at the answer given him and demanded an interview with his father-in-law, whom he blamed for the separation of his wife from him. Mrs. Cole stated that her husband was not at home and it is claimed that he threatened to find him and shoot him down.

He found Cole in a saloon at South Range. When he flashed a gun in Cole's face, the latter was too quick for him and dashing the pistol out of his hand, he gave Holden the beating of his life. Cole when he returned to Superior started a civil suit for $5,000 damages against his father-in-law.

When Cole heard of the action, he had a warrant sworn out against Holden, on a charge of threatening to kill. About a week ago, Holden was arraigned in municipal court, where he pleaded not guilty. He was bound over to the superior court. In default of $500 bail, he went to jail.

McALVON CASE WILL BE OPENED FEB. 14.

The case against Alex McAloon, member of the board of supervisors and chairman of the town of Gordon, who was indicted for grand larceny in two counts, it being charged that he issued and cashed county orders for which there was no claim due, will come to trial, Feb. 14.—At this time, Judge Wickham of Eau Claire, who will preside, will come to Superior.

Normal Teams Win.

Before a big crowd of basket ball fans, the first and second teams of the Normal school walloped the first and second aggregations of the Nelson Dewey high school at the normal gym last night. The scores of the first team were: Normal, 24; Nelson Dewey, 16. The seconds scored as follows: Normal, 14; Nelson Dewey, 12.

OBITUARY

Col. Wesley R. Andrews, who was private secretary to Senator Penrose and was chairman of the Republican state committee of Pennsylvania died in Washington, Feb. 5, of pneumonia. At the bedside of Col. Andrews at the time of his death were his brother, W. H. Andrews, delegate to congress from the Territory of New Mexico, his physician and nurses. Friday evening the sick man was visited by Senator Penrose.

Beside his brother, Col. Andrews is survived by two half sisters, Mrs. Ella Lakin of Jamestown, N. Y., and Mrs. J. T. White of Minneapolis, Minn. The body of Col. Andrews will be taken to Brooklyn, N. Y., for burial beside those of his wife and their only child.

Col. Andrews was a soldier, editor and statesman. He was born in Sugar Grove, Warren county, Pa., Dec. 23, 1837. At the outbreak of the Civil war he enlisted in a New York regiment. In 1862 he was authorized by Governor Curtin to recruit a regiment of infantry. In Philadelphia he enlisted 700 men in three days. After the war Col. Andrews established the Meadville, Pa., Republican, which he ran for several years. Since 1895, he has been actively engaged in political work.

The Very Rev. Gilbert L. Benton, vicar general of the Catholic diocese of Harrisburg, died suddenly at his residence in Steelton, Pa., Feb. 5. He was 52 years old. In addition to being a vicar general, he was a few years ago appointed democratic prelate with the title of monsignor.

Thomas F. Strong, general manager of one of the largest lumber companies in Northern New York and president of the Marine Transportation company, which operates a fleet of lumber carriers on the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence river, died at Ogdensburg, N. Y., Feb. 5, of heart failure.

James William Marshall, former postmaster general, is dead at Washington. General debility, incident to old age, was the cause.

Worst Time For Colds

What to Do to Prevent or Break Up Any Cough or Cold Quickly.

A cold—chronic cold—cough—catarrh—bronchitis—consumption—Death. This is the history of thousands of victims who "take cold" this time of year.

And yet many of us go on our happy-go-lucky way, catching cold, letting it run itself out, laughing at danger. Every time we let a cold run itself out we are running strength out of our body. We are making it easy for disease to catch hold of us.

At the best a cold or cough is disagreeable, and it's mighty foolish to suffer its discomforts when it is not necessary. It's much easier to prevent colds and coughs than cure them, but the safe, antiseptic home remedy, Salubrin, will do both.

Those who have tried Salubrin attest the positive, the wonderful cures it has wrought not only in coughs and colds, but in all lung and bronchial troubles, and catarrh of the throat and nose.

The 50-cent bottles of Salubrin now for sale at all druggists are intended for professional as well as home use. Don't be careless. Avoid danger by taking Salubrin for coughs and colds. It's the greatest and safest home remedy known.

All Ready for Orange Week

Greatest Sale of "Sunkist" Oranges

SUNKIST ORANGES

Sale Opens Everywhere on Feb. 7th

Forty-five carloads of seedless, tree-ripened "Sunkist" oranges will be on sale during "Orange Week." Your dealer—every dealer—will take part in this great sale. Keep the date in your mind.

Fresh-Picked "Sunkist" Seedless Oranges

"Sunkist" oranges fully ripen on the tree, thus giving them that matured deliciousness that only tree-ripening can effect, and fast freight trains, which are given full right of way wherever possible, bring "Sunkist" oranges to you. Hence your "Sunkist" oranges are just as fresh, if not fresher, than the fruit that is eaten in California cities.

These oranges are deliciously juicy and luscious. The California Fruit Growers' Exchange picks, packs and ships millions of bushels of oranges. The choicest of all these countless millions of oranges are carefully selected and they alone wear the "Sunkist" wrapper. Hence the "Sunkist" brand means orange perfection. The "Sunkist" wrapper is placed on these oranges so that you may know the highest quality oranges that California produces. Insist that the oranges you buy are wrapped in the "Sunkist" wrapper.

SUNKIST LEMONS

"Sunkist" Navel Oranges Are Seedless

They are tree-ripened, exquisitely rich in sweet orange juices and the pulp is deliciously tender.

"Sunkist" Lemons Highest Grade

"Sunkist" lemons are firm and full of juice, such as are found only in lemons that wear "Sunkist" wrappers. For "Sunkist" is also the highest grade of all the lemons grown in California. We select only those lemons that pass the rigid tests to which they are put by our experts, and the choicest are placed within "Sunkist" wrappers.

Save the Wrappers

It is important that the oranges and lemons you buy are wrapped in tissue paper coverings, bearing the "Sunkist" label. Not only are you assured of "Sunkist" quality but we will give you a

Rogers' Orange Spoon—FREE

with each 12 "Sunkist" wrappers—either orange or lemon—and 6 two-cent stamps. These spoons are Rogers' full standard plate of handsome design. It is easy to get a full set in a very short time. # THE WEEK AT THE NORMAL

Mme. Mary Halleck Talks to Students on "Pulse and Rhythm."

Cost of Living Problems Interests Students of Domestic Science.

Mme. Mary Hallock, who has been lecturing in the city under the auspices of the Matinee Musical society, gave a very informal talk, which proved most interesting on the subject of "Pulse and Rhythm," at the Normal on Friday.

With the aid of the metronome and many bits of verse from nursery rhymes to portions of Tennyson's and Shakespeare's works, and also, by means of selections from Bhrams and Beethoven and other musical composers, she showed that time and not accent determines rhythm. "Expression," she said, "must be felt rather than measured."

Mme. Hallock spoke of the most prominent things in the world which are possessed of rhythm. Of this class are heat, light, color, planets and tides, which may be called "outside rhythms." "Inside rhythms" are comprised of the very minute rhythms made in a muscle movement, in respiration and in the pulse.

"The normal pulse beats at the general rate of from seventy-two to seventy-six beats in one minute," she said. "If we believe in evolution, we are told that since the time when our ancestors were insects the blood has been beating at a certain rate in our heads against the brain and so we have always found it natural to dance, sing and play in the same rhythm as our pulse beats. This explains the fact that the works of Beethoven and Bhrams, as well as of other musical and poetical composers, have a standard movement or rhythm corresponding to our normal pulse beat, and it seems natural that they should be played only with this movement."

Mme. Hallock told of the incidents which made her interested in this problem, and at the conclusion of the lecture favored her audience with two selections. One was from Chopin and the other was "The Sky Lark."

Since the opening of the domestic science department it has been the custom for the girls of that department to serve a series of luncheons, dinners and breakfasts. The first meals of this year's series were served on Tuesday and Wednesday. Food enough for six people, costing not more than 50 cents, was prepared and served by the girls. Among those present at the luncheons were: Miss Long, Miss Van Stone, Miss Carey, Miss Pettingill, Mrs. Lyons. The girls who served and acted as hostesses were: Vera Rockwell, Winnifred Wright, Rebecca Walker, Mabel Fix, Catherine Nubaner, Marie Angermier.

Miss Crow, critic teacher in the fifth and sixth grades, was forced to be absent from school several days last week because of illness.

J. L. Washburn paid a short visit to the school on Monday morning. He bade the members of the faculty and student body a farewell and expressed his appreciation of the good work being done both in the training and model school departments. Mr. Washburn left during the week for his winter home in North Carolina.

After chapel exercises on Friday morning, Mr. Bohannon made mention of the fact that the students would be required to take an examination in spelling in the near future. The examination consists of 100 words selected from a list of 1,000, which was compiled by Miss Carey and appeared in one of the numbers of the Bulletin. Before graduation from the school it is necessary that each student shall pass this examination with an average of 100 per cent.

Miss Ely gave a talk during chorus period Wednesday on the cataloguing of books. She spoke of the advantages of the new card system of listing books over the printed pamphlet catalogues of the old system. Familiarity with this method will be of material benefit to teachers even more than to other persons, and will often be a means of saving an immense amount of time and labor. Miss Ely explained and illustrated the three ways of entering books on the card system, namely, under the name of the author, the subject or the title of the book.

After chapel exercises on Tuesday morning, Mr. Bohannon spoke of a visit he made to the evening schools of Hibbing last week. These schools are a part of the public school system of that city. The enrollment closely approached 500. In the main, men, some of them 40 years of age and over, comprise the classes, which study there. Representatives of many occupations and as many nationalities come there and are taught the rudiments of American education. The interest they show is not to be surpassed anywhere. "They are willing and most anxious to gain even the smallest point and their attitude towards their teachers is most courteous," said Mr. Bohannon.

The Thalian Literary society members are practicing on a short play to be given in a few weeks.

Negro Triple Murderer.

Savannah, Ga., Feb. 5.—The mystery of the murder of the three women, Mrs. Gribble, Mrs. Ohlander and Mrs. Maggie Hunter on Dec. 10 last, has been cleared up by the confession of Bingham Bryan, a negro, arrested last month and held on suspicion. Bryan says he entered the house bent only on robbery, and carrying a hammer as a weapon.

CAPTAINS' CLUB MAY BE FORMED

Duluth and Superior Skippers Anxious to Organize Ship Masters Association.

It is now very probable that a branch of the Shipmasters' association will be formed in Duluth.

The skippers at the Head of the Lakes are enthusiastic over the organizing of the order here and they are now planning a meeting to be held soon to find out how much real interest there is. If a sufficient amount is displayed, the association will be formed. The date and place of the meeting have not as yet been decided upon, but it will likely take place at one of the local steamboat offices or the hydrographic office in the Torrey building.

Announcement of a definite meeting will be made later by card and through the columns of The Evening Herald.

For the information of the public the masters have announced that the Shipmasters' association is not a union organization and does not, in a body, deal with matters pertaining to salaries and other disputes. It is simply a society for skippers with its work of mutual benefit.

It is strictly a captains' club. The rooms will be fitted up for club purposes. There will be reading rooms, billiard rooms and other modern club conveniences. Meetings are held from time to time and important matters on navigation will be discussed.

At many of the lake ports, where the club flourish, the vessel owners have helped greatly in getting the club started by giving the association financial support at the beginning.

A Safeguard to Children.

"Our two children of six and eight years have been since infancy subject to colds and croup. About three years ago I started to use Foley's Honey and Tar, and it has never failed to prevent and cure these troubles. It is the only medicine I can get the children to take without a row." The above from W. C. Ornstein, Green Bay, Wis., duplicates the experience of thousands of other users of Foley's Honey and Tar. Sold by all druggists.

CUSTOM HOUSE RULES REVISED

Line on Admission of Personal Effects Free of Duty Is Drawn Closer.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Revised regulations governing the admission free of duty of personal effects of passengers arriving in the United States draw closer the line that has prevailed during recent years when other than actual personal effects were allowed to be included within the $100 exemption. The change is made in conformity with recent decisions of the courts and the board of general appraisers. It is specifically provided that:

"Residents of the United States are allowed $100 worth of articles in the nature of personal effects at their present foreign value, free of duty, provided they are not intended for other persons or for sale or to be used in business and are properly declared."

Use, it is declared, does not exempt from duty wearing apparel or other articles obtained abroad, and cigars and cigarettes are not included with the $100 exemption. Each passenger over 18 years is entitled to bring in free either fifty cigars or 300 cigarettes for his or her bona fide individual consumption.

Privileges of Foreigners.

Foreigners are privileged to enter free such articles which are in the nature of wearing apparel, of personal adornment and similar effects accompanying the passenger necessary for wear and for use for the journey and not intended for other purposes or for sale, without regard to the $100 limitation. Citizens of the United States may have this privilege provided they are bona fide residents of a foreign country.

NEGRESS TAKES PRIZE.

Wins Gold Medal for Scholarship From 10,000 White Children.

New York, Feb. 5.—Estelle F. Gibbs, a negro girl 14 years old, of Hoboken, N. J., received the first prize, a gold medal, at the graduating exercises of the Hoboken public school pupils. She had the highest average of any public scholar in the city—99 1-3 per cent in six subjects. There are 10,000 white pupils in the schools and only fifteen negroes. Estelle is the daughter of a Pullman car porter.

SAY QUAKER CITY IS SPENDING TOO MUCH.

Philadelphia, Feb. 5.—Averring that more than $8,000,000 in excess of the income of the city has been expended during the last three years for the current expenses of the city and that preparations are being made to expend more than the income of the city during the present year, a bill in equity has been filed by Logan M. Bullitt and other taxpayers against the mayor and other officials, asking that they be enjoined from making expenditures or incurring any liabilities on behalf of the city in excess of the income from its tax levy and other sources exclusive of bond issues.

LaGrippe pains that pervade the entire system, LaGrippe coughs that rack and strain, are quickly cured by Foley's Honey and Tar. Is mildly laxative, safe and certain in results. Sold by all druggists.

NEW STEEL BRIDGE OF INTERSTATE TRANSFER COMPANY OVER THE POKEGAMA RIVER.

Although actual construction on the proposed steel plant of the Minnesota Steel company has not been started, rapid progress is being made on the preliminary work.

The Interstate Transfer company, the belt line of the United States Steel corporation, extending from the proposed docks on Wisconsin Point to the plant of the Minnesota Steel company near New Duluth, on the Minnesota side, is being rapidly constructed and will be ready long before the plant is completed.

The bridge over the Pokegama river in Wisconsin is of steel construction and is about completed. Work has been started on the piers and foundation for the steel bridge which will span the St. Louis river. Between 300 and 400 men are at work on preliminary construction around the bridge and the steel plant site.

A big gravel pit is being excavated on the Minnesota side, preparatory to the erection of cement buildings. Tracks are being laid, quarters built for workingmen and temporary buildings erected.

PSYCHOLOGY OF CHILDREN

Sunday School Worker Talks on Importance of Early Training.

Christian Churches Are Neglecting Most Important Field of Work.

Among the papers that proved highly instructive and entertaining at the session of the West Duluth district of the St. Louis County Sunday School association Wednesday was the one read by Miss Florence Williams, who represented the First Presbyterian church.

Speaking of "The Psychology of Child Training in the Sunday School," Miss Williams said: "As in every seed there is the germ of life and the power to grow under certain conditions, so in every child is the germ of religion, dormant at first, but easily awakened under the right sort of guidance. We are familiar with the old saying, 'As the twig is bent, the tree is inclined,' but do we realize the great importance of beginning early with the bending of the twig? Psychology has proved and demonstrated that the brain cells are plastic only in the young child, and gradually harden as he grows older, so that the impressions received during his training when he is young will last forever while those received later in life will not be so strong or enduring.

Years ago when the center of vice and crime in New York city was the celebrated Five Points, several children were taken from there and sent to good homes in different sections of the country, away from the terrible environments of the city. Only those under 2 years of age grew up to be good citizens; the rest returned to the old life.

It is commonly said that Roman Catholics affirm that if they are given a child for the first ten years of its life, that it will belong to them. The carelessness and indifference obtaining among many of the so-called Protestant churches regarding the training of the little ones is a sad neglect of our mission as Christians. The work that has been done has not always brought satisfactory results because it was not suited to the age or needs of the child. St. Paul himself said: 'When I was a child I spake as a child, I understood as a child, and thought as a child.' Mark you, he did not then possess a man's understanding, and yet we find many who have been trying to force an adult's thoughts and ways into the child mind and wonder at his lack of interest.

"We grown folks need to reach down to the child nature and live in the child world if we desire to do them any real good and touch their inner lives.

"We must get back to the elemental and the concrete and take into account a child's interests and the persons in whom he trusts.

"Many changes have taken place along educational lines in our day schools during the past twenty years or more. The old methods have given way to the more scientific ones and better results have followed Education is adapting itself to the needs of the children at the different stages of their development.

The Bible school has been slow in realizing this in spite of the fact that Frederick Froebel, the great child-student and lover of children lived nearly fifty years ago and his kindergarten has been in vogue for a long time. At last we have courses of study arranged along pedagogical lines that come very near being everything they should be and that take into account the spiritual, mental and physical. The international graded Sunday school lessons have a special course for beginners under 6 years of age. The quarterlies for this course have been carefully prepared by Miss Francis W. Danielson and much attention has been given to the details of the work. The stories are told from the Bible in words the child understands, a circle talk is planned, there are songs, verses, and various other helpful suggestions. Each lesson is illustrated by a large picture, smaller copies of which are given to the children.

"Everything is so fully described in the course that a person with almost no experience with children could follow the work and get good results. The course begins, not with the creation, which is ages away from the child, but with the only world he knows—namely his home, his mother and father and brothers and sisters. From that it takes him out into the world of nature to the flowers, birds, and animals that he loves and from nature up to nature's God. As he learns of God's care for all of His creatures it is easy to take the next step. Thanksgiving and gratitude for all His blessings and an expression of gratitude on the part of the child in doing and giving, leads him up to the Christmas thought and the Christ Child, and so going, on through the year, each Sunday's work is based on the preceding one and thus all are within the child's grasp and experience. The aim of the two years' work of the course is to lead the little one to know His Heavenly Father and His loving care over him. The difference between right and wrong is thus inculcated and the expression of love for others led up to. The music and songs are an important feature and are chosen to express the thought of the story and lesson and create a quiet and reverent atmosphere. In order to develop the complete child we must not only pay attention to the spiritual and mental needs, but also develop the physical side of his nature. This can be done by using exercises which illustrate the lesson and connect his experiences with the points brought out. Occasionally, hand work is given in the course and is of great benefit in leading the child to self-expression and therefore strengthening the impressions received. Only knowledge that finds expression in life or deed or word is a part of the person. Herein lies the reason for our teaching. The young child can often express with his hand what he cannot express with his lips and so it is well to occasionally give him the opportunity. Drawing and pasting are practical in the Sunday school and should be entered into simply as an expression and not as an end in themselves. The story telling is perhaps the most important feature of all and the teacher should spend much time and study upon this part of the work. While the stories in the course each Sunday are told in simple language suited to the child, it is for him to adapt them as he or she sees fit for the needs of the children.

"Their effectiveness can be greatly added to by the teachers incorporating them in language of their own before they are told. They should, however, be told instead of read aloud.

"Whenever it is possible, and this should be often, the children should be given an opportunity to express in some tangible way the truths they have been talking about. Doing for others, helping some one and sharing things with others are points to be impressed. This can be done in the Sunday school room, at home, on the street, at Thanksgiving, Christmas or Eastertide, or at any other time. Living and doing are so much better than mere telling. The children should learn very early the joy of service. One thing very necessary to be learned is provision for the right kind of an atmosphere. It is important that there be a quiet and reverential spirit, and if insisted upon at first, no trouble will appear.

"Firm discipline, backed by a real love and sincere sympathy, accompanied by a bright, happy manner will soon win the confidence of the children. If much is expected of them it is surprising how they will attempt to reach the standard. With the right kind of training it ought not to be difficult to develop the little child spiritually. They are naturally so trustful and confiding and believe so readily what their elders tell them.

"We need to be careful and prayerful in the guidance of these little souls, of whom the Master Himself said: 'Except ye become as little children ye cannot enter the Kingdom of God.' The courses represented in the different denominations are known under different names. The Presbyterians call theirs the 'Westminster,' the Congregationalists label theirs 'The Pilgrim Series,' the Methodists denominate theirs the 'Berean' while that of the Baptist brethren is known as 'The Keystone.' All follow the same line of work so that a description of one is an explanation of the other. The 'Westminster' sends out quarterlies during the year.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

PIN FAITH ON DULUTH

Time Near When All Northern Minnesota Must Find Its Market Here.

Chairman Mackenzie of Northern Minnesota Development Meet Lauds Duluth.

Bemidji, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—"I believe that the time is not far distant when it will be shown that the ultimate market of the whole of Northern Minnesota will be Duluth. This is a fact which is being brought about by the construction of the new lines of railways and by the natural commanding position of Duluth, at the head of the Great Lakes. The interests of Duluth are identical with those of this entire northern section. Her sympathies are with us, and we owe it to the Zenith City to co-operate for our mutual benefit."

This was the declaration of W. R. Mackenzie of Bemidji, chairman of the Northern Minnesota Development association, in discussing what it was hoped to be achieved at the meeting to be held here Thursday and Friday, Feb. 17 and 18, to work for the future of Northern Minnesota.

Reapportionment Big Need.

"My first aim in organizing the Northern Minnesota Development association was prompted by talking with many people throughout Northern Minnesota who are interested in reapportionment," continued Mr. Mackenzie.

"There is no question that reapportionment should be the one great topic to be discussed at the convention on the 17th and 18th insts. Without a just and equitable reapportionment of our representation in the legislature we cannot hope to get any deserved recognition for this section for many years to come.

"While I was at St. Paul last winter, I found that many members of the legislature who were pledged to look after the people's interests were totally indifferent to the reapportionment of the present representation in the legislature. Our meeting should, therefore, arrange in some manner to pledge every candidate for election to the legislature to an honest scheme of reapportionment.

"The federal census which will be taken this year will show where the different districts stand, and our Northern Minnesota representation should be chosen with the single eye to our requirements; they should simply stand to their guns until we have our victory for reapportionment won; they should let nothing else obscure their vision. We will fight for reapportionment, and by putting up an honest fight, will enlist the people with us, to the end that senators and representatives who are today holding seats through an unfair distribution, will, of necessity, surrender them to those really entitled to the seats.

Subjects to be Discussed.

"Good roads and advanced methods of tilling the soil of this section, as well as dairying, should be discussed as vital subjects for consideration. Other matters to be considered are in connection with Minnesota state lands. How should they be sold? Should the state pay its share of the cost of developing good roads, where the lands are undoubtedly benefited? Should the state pay taxes on its lands on which it is deriving an income through sales of timber and grass? Should the state loan its money to parties within its own borders, or continue to loan the money at a low rate of interest in other states? Should Northern Minnesota get together on all questions involving our common welfare? All of these matters will be thoroughly threshed out and discussed from every standpoint at the meeting to be held here Feb. 17 and 18."

AGED MAN SUFFOCATES WHEN SHACK BURNS.

Sebeka, Minn., Feb. 5.—Andrew Ostrum, 73, who has made his home in Rockwood township, near here, for twenty years or more, was found dead in his shack Sunday morning. Death was evidently due to suffocation, as the shack had been on fire, but the blaze had evidently died out. From the position of the body when found it appeared that the man had writhed in death agony or had had a fit or spasm.

Neighbors found Sunday morning that Ostrum's shack had caught fire from the stove. One side of the shack had been burned to some extent, but the fire had evidently died out of its own accord. The body was not burned.

Ostrum had no relatives in this country. He leaves forty acres of land and a lot in this village.

Millions of Lives Lost

An Awful Toll Collected by Consumption. Many Unnecessary Deaths from this disease.

If people could only understand that systemic catarrh is an internal disease that external applications cannot cure, they would not need to be warned so often about this malady, which, when neglected, paves the way oftentimes for consumption, at the cost of millions of lives every year. Yet catarrh may be cured, if the right treatment is employed.

Catarrh is caused by a general diseased state of the system which leads commonly to annoying and perhaps serious local conditions, which may prove a fertile breeding ground for germs of consumption. External remedies give but temporary ease.

The only way to successfully treat catarrh is by employing a medicine which is absorbed and carried by the blood to all parts of the system, so that the mucous membrane or internal lining of the body is toned up and made capable of resisting the infection of consumption and other diseases.

We have a remedy prepared from the prescription of a physician who for thirty years studied and made catarrh a specialty, and whose record was a patient restored to health in every case where his treatment was followed as prescribed. That remedy is Rexall Mucu-Tone. We are so positive that it will completely overcome catarrh in all its various forms, whether acute or chronic, that we promise to return every penny paid us for the medicine in every case where it fails or for any reason does not satisfy the user.

We want you to try Rexall Mucu-Tone on our recommendation and guarantee. We are right here where you live, and you do not contract any obligation or risk when you try Rexall Mucu-Tone on our guarantee. We have Rexall Mucu-Tone in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Very often the taking of one 50-cent bottle is sufficient to make a marked impression upon the case. Of course in chronic cases a longer treatment is necessary. The average in such instances is three $1.00 bottles. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Duluth only at our store.—The Rexall Store, E. M. Tredway, 108 West Superior street.

FARGO TO AGAIN VOTE ON BONDS

Three Times They Have Been Issues and Will Again Come Up.

Fargo, N. D., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although the municipal election is two months in the future, there is already considerable interest evident. A mayor, city treasurer, police magistrate and an alderman from each of the seven wards are to be elected.

A special bond issue proposition for the improvement of the water works system, the addition of a filtration plant and the stablishment of a municipal lighting system will also be submitted at the same time.

There have already been three attempts on the bond issue. The first carried but the courts declared the issue illegal, because both propositions were coupled together under one resolution. In the second attempt the light plant was left out and some people became indignant, defeating the proposition on an extremely light vote. The third time the election was called off because of the alleged irregularities the resolution and the failure to publish the proper election notice.

There is some difference of opinion over the electric light bonds, but practically none on the water bonds.

For some time there has been a movement to get all factions united on one candidate and avoid a bitter municipal campaign. So far this has not been accomplished, but it is still among the possibilities. Only two petitions for mayoralty candidates have been circulated, one for W. D. Hodgson, a local realty man, and another for J. W. Hodges, one of the present aldermen.

Among the other candidates suggested are Former Mayors Sweet and Wall, Lieutenant Governor Lewis and Col. J. D. Benton.

LIKE POSITION OF DEAN WOOD

His Advocacy of Agricultural College Extension Work Popular.

Crookston, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The patrons of the Crookston school of agriculture view with keen satisfaction the statement of Dean A. L. Wood of the state agricultural college, that he is a strong advocate of agricultural college extension work, because it is practical results he is after.

Supt. L. P. Harrington, who was named by the board of regents to succeed the late Supt. Robertson for the balance of the year, was the originator of extension work in this state. Before coming to Crookston Supt. Harrington for twenty years was the county superintendent of schools of McLeod county, resigning his position when he came to the Crookston school of agriculture, three years ago, and his majority the last time he was elected was the largest he ever got. Four years prior to that he started the extension work in McLeod county. He began by organizing corn-growing clubs in various parts of McLeod county, issued selected seed, gave special instructions regarding planting and care, etc.

Plan Worked Splendidly.

The plan worked splendidly and he later extended the work to cooking, sewing, fruit culture and all other departments, till the plan worked out to such proportions that he induced the county fair association to erect a separate building for the industrial work carried on throughout the county, and a regular school fair was held in connection with the county fair in which the result of the school childrens' efforts in field, shop and home. The results obtained were remarkable.

Since his connection with the Crookston school of agriculture Supt. Harrington continued along the same lines and there is no question but he is responsible more than any one man for the increased interest in corn-growing in the Red river valley, and the wonderful advancement that has been made along that line within the past four years, resulting in the splendid showing of the Red river valley in the corn contests at the Minnesota state fair the past two years and especially the past year.

Supt. Harrington has organized corn-growing clubs throughout this section and has awakened an interest which has resulted in the demonstration that corn can be and is rapidly becoming, one of the staple crops of the Red river valley.

BUILDING FLYING MACHINE.

North Dakota Company Constructing Aeroplane for Driscoll Man.

Bismarck, N. D., Feb. 5.—A general business meeting of the stockholders and directors of the Metcalf Multiplane company was held at the Woodburry hotel at Driscoll this weeek. The object of this meeting was to elect officers and directors for the coming year and to transact such other business as the company saw fit. They talked of their future prospects, which look good.

Mr. Metcalf expects to have his machine in working condition in the near future, but the machine he is building at present is only an experiment and if it will raise its own weight off the ground he then will build one in proportion to the weight he wishes to carry.

Mr. Metcalf has good ideas as to the construction of a multiplane, and all who see his model and hear his plans speak highly of his work.

The following is a list of directors and officers elected at the meeting: Directors, C. W. Hensler and Frank Jaszkowiak of Bismarck, R. M. Metcalf, A. S. E. Metcalf, L. H. Langley, G. V. Conningham and S. F. Matthews of Driscoll, and H. S. Darling of Steele. Officers: R. M. Metcalf, president; Frank Jaszkowiak, vice president; M. B. Finseth, treasurer, and I. R. Matthews, appointed secretary.

MENOMINEE ARMORY SITE

Is Donated By Trustees of Samuel Stephenson's Estate.

Menominee, Mich., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The trustees of the estate of the late Congressman Samuel Stephenson, one of Menominee's greatest benefactors, have offered the site of the old McKinley hall on Ludington avenue as a site of the proposed new armory for Company I. Application will be made at once for the state grant of $15,000. The state of Michigan appropriates $30,000 annually with which to build armories, allowing each company $15,000.

There are at present five cities in the state which have obtained their site and are awaiting their turn for an appropriation, so that it will be three years before Menominee can expect the new armory.

Prompt action extinguished the flames before all the guests were aroused.

WRETCHED LADY NOW RESTORED

Mrs. Boggs Tells All About Her Years of Wretched Health and How She Was Restored by Cardui.

Nebo, Mo.—"I am almost unable to describe what used to be my feelings," writes Mrs. Sarah Boggs, of this place.

"I suffered for years with a pain in my left side, dragging feelings and was almost unable to stand on my feet. I couldn't sleep nights, and had smothering spells. I had pain in my back, head and side, and had taken medicines till I had got out of heart.

"On your advice I took Cardui, the woman's tonic, and now I am glad I am so much better. I can do by washing now and all my housework and can walk two miles all right. I owe you all a debt of gratitude for the good that Cardui did to me."

Cardui is not a chemical, prepared synthetically from coal tar, or other minerals. It is the natural extract of the plants of which it is composed and contains all their real theraputic, curative value, on the prinicple of herb medicines, favorably known to mankind for thousands of years.

It is therefore a natural medicine, a medicine you can feel confidence in, a safe, harmless vegetable remedy, of long known merit.

You know that Cardui will help you, because it has helped so many others.

Try it.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Hancock—Chase S. Osborn of the Soo was eulogized, heartily indorsed as Michigan's candidate for governor, and pledged the undivided support of Hancock at the meeting of the Republican club, held in the city hall Wednesday evening.

Houghton — The funeral of Mrs. James Moon of Hurontown, who died Wednesday morning, will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Hurontown M. E. church. Houghton Moon is expected to arrive from his home in McKinley, Minn., Friday afternoon or evening.

Calumet—Village Clerk N. K. Kaiser reports a total of six births and one death for the village of Red Jacket for the month of January, while Township Clerk Tom Sweeney of Osceola reports eleven births and three deaths for the same period in Osceola township.

Lake Linden—The members of the German aid society of Lake Linden will hold their regular meeting Sunday afternoon in the Hermann Sons hall. The new officers for the year will be installed after which a social time will be enjoyed.

Houghton — John B. Doetsch was awarded a verdict and costs Wednesday by a jury in the court of Justice Brand against Ernest Hartman, whom he was suing for the amount due as Hartman's share toward the Dodge street sewer, which the complainant built some months ago.

Hancock—The St. Joseph's Young Men's Catholic club held a regular meeting Wednesday night and authorized the purchase of a piano to cost $450, which has already been installed in the clubrooms. The sum of $50 was also allowed the athletic committee to purchase gymnasium paraphernalia.

Calumet—Word has been received of the death of James Moyle at Tucson, Ariz., where he had been spending some time in search of health. Just previous to going to Arizona Mr. Moyle resided in Detroit. He was aged about 28 years, and was well known in Calumet, where he formerly lived.

Marquette—D'Urbano's Italian band, which gave nightly concerts at the opera house for a week last fall, has been secured for a second engagement on Thursday, Feb. 10.

Newberry—The St. James Cedar company, operating in the vicinity of Newberry, has sold its shingle mill and all its timber holdings and personal property to the Detroit Cedar & Lumber company. The transfer will in no way affect the lumbering operations that have been carried on by the St. James company, which will be conducted as usual.

Marquette—Manager H. R. Harris of the Cleveland Cliffs railroads has received notice of the shipment of four of the eight engines purchased last fall. The remaining four engines are to be shipped within a very few days and all should arrive here before the end of next week.

Ishpeming—W. H. Johnston and wife and Mrs. E. J. Canfield expect to leave Sunday night for Florida, where they will spend the next two months. They will be accompanied by Mr. Johnston's chauffeur, Henry Collins.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Madison—Commissioner of Banking Bergh has issued a charter authorizing the Farmers' State Bank of Markison, capital, $30,000. H. P. Friday is president, and J. W. Deniger, cashier.

Oshkosh—At its annual convention here the Wisconsin Consumers' league re-elected its former officers and passed six resolutions of importance. The officers are: President, Mrs. Carl G. Stern, Milwaukee; recording secretary, Mrs. J. A. Strathearn, Kaukauna; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Guy D. Goff, Milwaukee, and treasurer, Frank Sensenbrenner, Neenah.

Madison—The board of control adjourned Thursday without having made the choice of a successor to Dr. W. A. Gordon as superintendent of the Northern Hospital for the Insane.

Wausau—Rena Burns is seriously ill in the hospital here, due to the loss of blood drawn from her veins in an effort to save the life of her sister, Nina Burns. The heroic measures adopted by the doctors failed and the sister died.

Milwaukee—George A. McGarigle, Milwaukee's only survivor of the Mexican war, died Thursday morning at the home of his son, Byron P. McGarigle, 726 Cass street. Mr. McGarigle was 79 years of age. He had been ill since early in December, 1909. He once served as a member of the council and as justive of the peace.

Madison—The State Association of Shropshire Sheep Breeders elected the following officers here: Arthur Broughton, Brodhead, president; R. E. Roberts, Corliss, vice president; W. E. Renk, Sun Prairie, secretary; Frank Kleinhaus, University of Wisconsin, secretary.

Ashland—The heirs of the late Jacob Beck have commenced suit for damages against the Ashland Cigar & Tobacco company, over a controversy that has arisen regarding the west wall of the old Koleman block, now occupied by the tobacco company. It is claimed by the heirs that the wall is partially upon property owned by them.

Chippewa Falls—Three young men, John Sullivan, Alex Guspelers and Earl Skamser of Eau Claire, charged with trying to "mash" young women on the streets, were fined $10 or fourteen days in the county jail each. They took the jail sentence.

Fond du Lac—Police Justice R. C. Fairbanks is the victim of a thief who seemingly knows how to figure out safe combinations. The justice's safe was opened and $20 abstracted. Later the safe in Attorney H. C. Swett's office was unlocked but no booty was secured. Fred J. Wolf's safe was opened several days ago. The jobs seemingly were done by the same man.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Devils Lake, N. D.—Inspector Appleyard reports that work on the federal building is progressing in a highly satisfactory manner and thinks that the structure will be fully completed and ready for occupancy by April. Conditions were especially favorable during the month of January.

Fargo, N. D.—Hereafter the tuition fee ruling of the Fargo board of education is to be strictly enforced. This means that people who come to Fargo for the express purpose of sending their children to the Fargo schools, and who do not intend to make this their permanent home must pay the tuition fee.

Sioux Falls, S. D.—The raising of the snow blocade in practically all parts of the state has resulted in a great rush of grain to market. Much of the grain has been loaded in cars, which have been standing on the sidetracks for weeks awaiting the raising of the blockade.

Grand Forks, N. D.—The divorce mill in Grand Forks is certainly grinding bonds of matrimony in four cases in half a day. Decrees were granted Mrs. Zena Burtscher, Mrs. Monte Ferry, Mrs. Mary Piece, Arville, N. D., and Mrs. Emma Erickson. In three of the cases desertion was alleged.

Fargo, N. D.—There are at the present time 1,170 students enrolled at the North Dakota Agricultural college. These figures were tabulated Thursday and show the college to be far above all past records for attendance. At this time last year there were 1,083 students enrolled.

Minot, N. D.—The Tracy flats on the South hill were completely destroyed Wednesday afternoon by a fire starting shortly after noon. The building was occupied by several families, some of whom succeeded in saving their household effects. The building was originally built by E. H. Stenvick and later purchased by Mr. Tracy, who had it greatly improved.

Aberdeen, S. D.—J. H. Firey, immigration agent for the Milwaukee, has left for Chicago, where he will be given one of the exhibit cars of the road and will make a tour, demonstrating the products of the lands along the line of the Puget Sound extension.

Grand Forks, N. D.—A decision has been rendered in the district court in favor of Hattie Harrington, guardian of the minor child of the late Charles E. Rich, who brought suit against the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York for the recovery of $1,000 life insurance money.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Mankato—The Hubbard Milling company has stopped work on thee new well, at 915 feet, as it has plenty of water, and if it had more the size of the sewer is not large enough to take the water away. Such a large flow having been obtained, the city does not have to bear any of the expense of sinking the well, under the terms of the contract.

Princeton—The Princeton Co-operative creamery will shortly install a 300-gallon Wizard agitator, the increased business having made this necessary. About 360 pounds of butter per week more than last year at this time is being turned out. The agitator—or cream vat—in use now holds nearly 400 gallons.

Long Prairie—Ray Lee has been offered the position of manageer of the machinery department of the state fair and has accepted. The offer of the position came as a complete surprise to him, the first he knew of it being a telegram Tuesday.

Crookston—Florence Walters, who would have been 32 years of age Feb. 13, and had grown to womanhood in Crookston, died very suddenly Wednesday evening at St. Vincent's hospital, following an operation.

Mora—Mrs. A. G. Peterson, mother of Charles F. Serline of this village, died at her home at Grass Lake Thursday afternoon, Jan. 27, at 4:10 o'clock, of pneumonia, after a comparatively short illness. Her age was 64 years 8 months and 13 days.

Cambridge—Miss Selma M. Nordgren and Abram Naslund were married here Tuesday evening at the home of Rev. P. J. Nelson, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Olof Bodien of Minneapolis. Mr. and Mrs. Naslund returned to Mora Wednesday afternoon and will reside there temporarily.

Staples—Paul Fichtenau, manager of the Staplpes Cash grocery, has disposed of nearly all the stock and the balance was packed up and shipped to Duluth. Mr. Fichtenau will go to Duluth to accept a position in the wholesale house of the Stone-Ordean-Wells company. Herman Commans, one of the clerks, will accompany him to Duluth.

Little Falls—State Auditor Iverson has notified County Auditor Butler that he will hold a sale of state lands in Little Falls on Friday, May 6, at 9 o'clock in the morning.

Deerwood—James McCarvill has been circulating a subscription list this week to raise funds for the erection of a Catholic church in Deerwood. He is reported to be having good success, and another house of worship is practically assured for this village.

Brainerd—Cladius Tucker, son of J. J. Tucker, Northern Pacific agent at Fort Ripley, who was taken sick with typhold fever about four weeks ago while attending the Brainerd high school, and who has since been in St. Joseph's hospital, has so far recovered as to be able to return home.

Ada—Mrs. John Melbery died suddenly this week. The deceased was 36 years of age, and leaves a husband and six children.

Crookston—Next Tuesday afternoon and evening and Wednesday morning a stewardship conferencee will be conducted at the Baptist church. Dr. Frank Peterson, Dr. E. R. Pope and Rev. Mr. Risinger will be present to make the conference interesting and profitable. Tuesday evening a stereopticon lecture will be given.

A STUDY IN PSYCHOLOGY

Jeffries and Johnson Compared to a Bull and a Panther.

"The Fighting Heart" Will Have Much to Do With Outcome.

(By Harry C. Carr.)

William T. Hornaday, the naturalist, says that two tigers, put into the same cage for the first time, seldom actually fight. They bristle up their hair and hiss and snarl. One of them perceives that his snarl isn't the real thing and sulkily surrenders.

Thus animals test that subtle and almost mysterious quality, called the "fighting heart."

It is not exactly the same as courage; it is altogether different from the mere self-confidence; something more than consciousness of power.

It is something inside which tells you that you can't be beaten. Something that makes you feel yourself a victor when your ship is sinking. Because of it, John Paul Jones captured the Serapis with a wretched sinking old tub. Some nations and some races are filled with it to a marked degree.

There is about to be a most interesting test of the extent to which the negro race has it. This test is to be a prize fight between Jim Jeffries, a white man of almost pure Anglo Saxon type, and Jack Johnson, a negro, for the championship of the world.

It is very curiously true that the Jeffries-Johnson fight will be quite as interesting to the psychologist and the ethnologist as to the sport.

The mere courage of the negro race has been tested on a hundred battle fields. One of the most desperate exhibitions of valor in the history of modern warfare was the charge of the negro troops before Petersburg. The colored troops stood like rock at San Juan Hill when some of the white troops faltered. In the days of our Indian wars on the plains, the Ninth and Tenth Cavalry and the Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth Infantry showed that negro troops will endure any hardship and face any danger, however horrible. But they had officers, and their officers were white men and the very highest type of white men.

"Psha," says one of the characters in George Bernard Shaw's play, 'Arms and the Man,' "the courage to rage and kill is cheap. I have an English bull terrier who has as much of that sort of courage as the whole Bulgarian nation and the whole Russian nation at its back. But he lets my groom thrash him just the same. That's your soldier all over."

Not Behind Him.

When Jack Johnson faces Jim Jeffries in the prize ring he will not have behind him a white officer whom he has learned to trust and obey as a child trusts its mother.

He will be alone on his own resources with the champion of the world in front of him and a hostile crowd bawling behind him.

"These," as the prestidigitator says, rolling up his sleeves, "is the apparatus with which the experamunt is proformed."

First, Jeffries:

Jim Jeffries, the white man, is not the natural fighting type. He is an amiable bull, goaded to combat rather than a bulldog.

Some prize fighters, notably Battling Nelson, the lightweight champion, are as naturally fighting animals as are short haired dogs. They fight because they love fighting. They fight on the slightest provocation. They fight from pure blood lust.

Jeffries, on the other hand, is not in the least pugnacious. Fighting, with him, is not instinctive.

Just before his retirement, he confided to a newspaper friend in this city that he cordially detested prize fighting and never would have stepped into a ring if he could have made as much money any other way.

Logy Jim.

Temperamentally, he is slow and logy and rather dull, slow of speech, slow of decision, but sound of decision, with a fund of practical common sense. He talks very little, is peculiarly unresponsive and, luckily for himself, is hard to influence.

He is best judged and best understood as a Britisher. He has a Britisher's respect for authority, a British horror of making a "show" of himself, English shyness that is hidden under an aloofness and a mind-your-own-business air.

As a boy at school, Jeffries was a different, obedient plodder who struggled doggedly and without inspiration over his lessons, seldom got into school boy fights and made no trouble for the teachers.

With some 250 pounds of solid muscle developed at the forges of an iron foundry, Jeffries simply had to become a prize fighter.

It was uphill business for him. It was hard for him to learn to box. He was hopelessly slow. But, unskilled as he was, he fought with dogged pertenacity and a strength that was simply prodigious.

A Ring Tradition.

It is a tradition of the prize ring that Jeffries has never dared to hit a man with his full strength for fear of killing him.

In time, and by painstaking effort, Jeffries finally learned to box well, with a sort of heavy bovine skill of execution.

It must be confessed, however, that most of his fights were won more by his overpowering gigantic strength than by any other quality.

One of his fiercest fights was with Tom Sharkey, a rough, ignorant sailor. It resembled a collision of two locomotives; Jeffries was the stronger locomotive. Bob Fitzsimmons lashed him with blows over the eyes until Jeffries was almost blind; but became exhausted by the effort of pounding this mountain of strength. At the end of this last fight with Jim Corbett, the latter said as they were carrying him to his corner: "It's no use; he's too big and strong." Strength has always been his big asset.

In all these fights, Jeffries showed ability to endure punishment—but no such sublime indifference to blows as is shown by natural-born fighters like Nelson.

The truth is, Jeffries never developed any remarkable talent for fighting. If Young Corbett or Bat Nelson or Terry McGovern had been Jim Jeffries' size, any one of them could have whipped a whole regiment of Jeffries.

When he had fought every one who presented himself, Jeffries retired; got married; became a rancher; loaned his name to a saloon, and became a staid, well-behaved man of business.

His return to the ring was brought about solely by the chance to make a great deal of easy money. Perhaps, also, a little, on account of the prejudice, born of his iron-worker days, against a negro, and his secret respect for the championship.

Any fighter with theatrical instincts would have burst back into the ring with a blast of defiance; but, in his slow, earnest way, Jeffries would not at first give an answer, because he said (unheroically) he was not sure he could win!

That's the sort of man upon whom the "fighting heart" of the negro race is to be tried. In a word, Jeffries is a commonplace, uninteresting mechanic with enormous strength and a full upply of Anglo-Saxon determination of spirit.

Now For Jack.

Jack Johnson:

Whatever Jeffries lacks in picturesqueness is made up by Johnson, the negro.

Johnson is the kind of sporty "coon" you read about in comic papers. He is a minstrel joke—a scream—a cake walk.

A logician could see Johnson and deduct (or rather "induct") the jungles of South Africa. Seeing Johnson arrayed in his diamonds the day after winning a prize fight, the thoughtful visitor from Mars would know that, somewhere on this earth, there must be savages who hang rings through their noses, and, dancing naked by the light of the jungle moon, answer the howl of the gorilla with their yells.

Johnson is not very far removed from the original Fuzzy Wuzzy whom Kipling conceded to be a "big, black, boundin' beggar; but a first-class fightin' man."

Like Jeffries, however, the negro is not instinctively a fighter. That is to say, he is not of the fighting type of animal. He is instinctively a boxer. Jeffries is a bull: Johnson is some kind of fastidious jungle cat.

Plainsmen say that one of the most remarkable sights in the world is to see a cat fight a snake. Pussy sits placidly, apparently paying not the slightest attention to the snake as the latter coils and gets ready to strike. But as the long, sinuous head darts out to the attack, she stops him with a biff in mid air, digging her claws in behind the head: then she resumes her thoughtful attitude of complacency.

Adroitness.

That's very much the way Johnson fights in a prize ring. His flashes of motion are a most extraordinary spectacle. There is no room to doubt that he has never had a superior as a boxer.

Not to go into a description of punches and jabs, this remarkable skill is interesting as illustrating a phase of Johnson's character.

When you see him box in his training quarters, or even in the ring, you are impressed with two facts, that he never seems to be really in earnest about it; and that he fights very much after the manner of a rapier fencer.

He has the easy fastidiousness of the foil fencer. His defense seems to be without the slightest effort. During his fight with the dangerous Tommy Burns, the negro carried on a careless conversation with the ringside spectators. While Burns was making his most furious, if futile, assault, Johnson asked the referee about the climate of Australia and chatted about the size of the audience, as though Burns were merely a little child playing about his knees.

His defense was so fine and adroit that he seemed only to be gently pushing away the vicious, little fight champion with his hands. Burns futilely pounded the air, like an angry baby.

Occasionally, as Burns started a blow, Johnson would shoot his brown arm across and land like a catapult on the white man's face before Burns' fist could reach him.

These fight details are related for the purpose of laying a foundation for this question:

Where does this ridiculous negro get the brain power to direct this remarkable art of fighting? With him it is an art.

To land a "counter" blow, the following thoughts must flash through the brain of the fighter:

I will strike him with my left hand and break the force of the blow by hitting him before he hits me. Here goes!

Almost all Johnson's blows are counter blows. He almost never leads. It is obvious that the negro has not the brain to actually think with the rapidity and accuracy that this style of fighting implies. What then?

He has the mind of a child, or a barbarian.

Most of his early fights were in Los Angeles. He was practically the slave of his manager, at that period.

The manager supported him and thus acquired the right to nearly all his winnings. After each fight his "master" would hand him a few dollars and Johnson would burst upon the rialto blazing with paste diamonds, broad-soled shoes and the most astounding striped shirts.

Johnson still has the same tendencies; only now his diamonds are real and he substitutes fast-going automobiles for his majestic cake walk up and down the actors' promenade.

As soon as he had become champion, he discarded his negro wife for the more elegant white variety.

The ambition of his life is to rush through the streets at break-neck speed in a racing automobile and be stared at. Being arrested for speeding and paying his fine from a pocket bulging with money is his idea of being impressive.

He likes to use big words that mean nothing in particular. He is delighted to accept invitations to deliver lectures before associations of colored people. Having been around so much with men of affairs, and having been in the public eye for so long, Johnson has picked up a sort of "patter" and an etiquette, both of which he practices with excruciating elegance. Result: In the art of being interviewed, he makes Jeffries look like a dub.

The Contest.

When Jeffries, the sedate mechanic, meets the amusing but adroit barbarian, the general opinion is that Johnson will be overawed and generally scared to death.

It is a mistake, however, to suppose that Johnson is actually afraid of Jeffries. The danger that he faces is more subtle; it is Jeff's Anglo-Saxon will power.

It has been observed that the weakness of colored prize fighters is their susceptibility to impressions. It is imagination that makes an Irishman a terror in a fight, but it seems to run in the other direction with Africans.

A peculiar trait of all negro prize fighters, for instance, is that they always listen to the shouts of the crowd about the ringside. White prize fighters assert that they never hear the crowd after the fight once begins. Taking advantage of this trait of colored men, their white opponents call them vile names and station men about the ring to yell ribald abuse in the hope of driving them into futile, wild fits of negro wrath.

However, this is of small importance. Johnson's danger is the negro susceptibility to an altogether different sort of impression: that of being attacked by sudden discouragement. Loss of morale, army men call it.

Joe Gans would have beaten Battling Nelson with ease at Goldfield, but for the fact that he could not beat down the white boy's belief in himself. Two or three times, Gans saw the chance for the knockout blow and hammered in with all his might. When the white boy did not drop, but bored in for more, something seemed to ooze out of the colored fighter.

Johnson has fought tough, hard fighters; but they have always dropped when he got ready to drop them.

The Crucial Moment.

It will be interesting to watch the effect upon his fighting spirit when he lashes in with the knockout blow upon an enormous bulk that, perhaps, will not drop.

That will be the crucial moment for Johnson and, in a way, for the fighting spark in the negro race.

It will be the test whether a negro, without moral support, can fight when the fight is going against him.

In that moment, when Johnson delivers the blow that falls, all the superstitious awe in which he has held the champion, and all the backs of his race that have bent before the white men, will come to him in a flash. Then we will see if Johnson can brush aside that feeling and fight on with the exalted conviction that he can't lose either.

Many of Johnson's adherents point back to the black man's career and show that he has never worked hard to win. Like so many elements of this meeting of the white and black, this is temperamental.

Johnson can't work hard and continuously in a prize fight. He hasn't the concentration. The same trait that makes him hear the shouts of the crowd makes him appear to be "fooling round" in the ring.

James J. Jeffries can look out for the "flashes" because, as the side show barker announces "the sting of death is in every blow."

The buffalo bull can look out for the sudden leap of the lazy-looking panther.

Polo Players Arrive.

New York, Feb. 5.—Three players of the championship English polo team which is to play several matches with American experts on the Pacific coast, have arrived in New York. They are Maj. Romer Lee, Maj. G. W. Hobson and F. B. Hurndall. They will start for California next week.

WILLIE HOPPE DEFEATS RIVAL

Ora Morningstar Loses 1500-Point Billiard Match at Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 5.—Willie Hoppe last night won his 1,500-point match at 18.2 balk-line billiard with Ora Morningstar by the grand total of 1,500 to 1,032. Hoppe's victory in running out his last block of 500 was the most decisive of any of the three nights' play. He did it in ten innings while Morningstar had only 225.

Hoppe's average for the three nights' play was 30 flat, while Morningstar's was 21 45-47.

Hoppe's marvelous playing was the feature of the final play. He started with a tally of 128, clicked off a 786 count in his fifth inning, and finished his string in ten innings for an average of 50 flat for the evening's match. Morningstar in nine innings totaled 225 for a 25 average.

RULE MAKERS ARE CONFUSED

Chaotic Conditions Confronts Intercollegiate Committee on College Football Reform.

New York, Feb. 5.—A chaotic situation confronted the football experts in session here when they resumed today their task of remodeling the rules of the game to make the sport safer and saner. A whole day's labor yesterday served only to increase the multiplicity of ideas, the diversity of which proved a stumbling block in the way of immediate progress.

At the same time, the labor of yesterday was found not to be wasted, and there was promise of light ahead through the gradual process of elimination which went on throughout today's session. The impracticable and the conflicting were thron out and before the days' session was over it was expected that something like a rational and logical program could be maped out, at least tentatively.

Despite the reticence of the deliberating body—the intercollegiate football rules committee—it was readily gathered that the members considered the situation a serious one in view of the wide outcry which followed last season's accidents on the gridiron and not one of the delegates seemed to doubt that there would be radical rule changes.

It is believed, however, that no positive policy will result from the present sitting, but with the tentative plan of changes, now being mapped out the rule makers will take time to consult with the college authorities in the various sections. Out of these conferences is expected to come another meeting in March for definite action.

The members of the committee, all of whom were present, are as follows: L. M. Dennis, Cornell, chairman; James A. Babbitt, Haverford; E. K. Hall, Dartmouth; C. Blagden, Harvard; J. C. Bell, University of Pennsylvania.

BOWLING SCORES

Two games out of three were won last night by the Big Duluths of the Commercial league from the Wolvins. Endreas made the high score of 226 and Berg captured the high average of 203. The score in detail:

WESTERNERS SCORE VICTORY.

Secure Vote to Hold Clay Court Tennis Championship in West.

New York, Feb. 5.—Under the leadership of Dr. P. B. Hawk of Urbana Ill., western delegates won a victory in the annual meeting of the national lawn tennis association in New York by carrying a vote to hold a Clay court championship to be designated as the Clay Court Championship of the United States. The contest will be held at the Omaha field club, Omaha, Neb., on a date to be announced later.

Auto Carnival Opens.

New Orleans, Feb. 5.—The second annual Mardi Gras automobile racing carnival began here today. Oldfield, Robertson and De Palma were among the leading drivers contesting.

PERSON WAS OUTCLASSED

Duluth Wrestler Game, But No Match for Giant Pole.

Wonderful Strength of Zbyszko Gives Him Two Straight Falls.

Chris Person, Northwestern champion, was beaten in two straight falls by the great Zbyszko at the Armory last night after putting up a wonderful battle against the big muscled man of Europe. The first fall was won by Zbyszko in 31 minutes, and the second fall came at the expiration of 21 minutes.

Only the cleverness and the speed, as well as a thorough knowledge of the game, enabled Person to stay as long as he did against the Pole. Possessing almost superhuman strength, the strength of an untamed grizzly bear, and a quickness that is deceiving because of his close in method of wrestling, Zbyszko is one of the hardest men in the world to keep away from.

Zbyszko is on top of his man all the time. He is also close in all the time. The massive strength of his swelling biceps and the great strength of his legs makes it almos impossible for the average wrestler to clamp an effective hold on the pole. Time after time, last night, Chris secured a hold on the gigantic foreigner that would have proved effective against an ordinary wrestler. With a contraction of his huge body, or simply the straightening of his legs, Zbyszko would shake loose from the hold.

The contest last night proved a most interesting study from which to speculate as to the possible outcome of the match with champion Gotch. There is no longer any doubt of the Pole's wonderful strength and ability on the mat. When watching Person, a man weighing 185 pounds and possessed of great strength, tugging at the mountain of muscle without hardly moving the great bulk from a perfect balance, one wonders what Gotch, with all his deep knowledge of the game and all his brilliancy of attack, will accomplish in a finish match with the Pole.

Time after time last night, Person escaped from dangerous holds. But each time he got free, he found the Pole right on top of him again. When Person moved fast, it was noticed that his large opponent also executed a bear-like movement that was not without speed and a certain elephantine agility.

Many times before the first fall, the Pole had Person in dangerous holds but the big Dane would break loose. He broke away from a half hammer lock, escaped from several crotch holds and a half Nelson. But each time the Pole was coming in after the hard-pressed Person. Finally he gave a kind of leap, with his body, forcing Person to back to the mat by strength and weight alone. Securing a crotch and half Nelson, Zbyszko slowly forced the shoulders of the local champion to the mat.

Deafening cheers greeted the victory of Zbyszko. His countrymen were crowded into the ringside seats and they were not slow in giving loud-voiced utterance to their sentiment. Men prominent in Polish circles crowded forward to shake the hand of Poland's champion. With an engaging little smile and a courteous little European salute the big wrestler acknowledged the salutations of his countrymen.

Person also came in for congratulations from his followers. The sentiment of the big crowd seemed about equally divided. The Polish people were for their countryman to man and woman, for there were many of the gentler sex in the audience, while the Americans and Scandinavians were lusty and vociferous encouragers of the Duluth man.

The second fall came quicker than the first. It may have been because Person was worn out by tearing and hauling against the bulk and strength of the Pole, or it may have been because of a sudden opening spied by the bright little eyes of the placid giant of Europe.

As in the first bout, Zbyszko was after his opponent all the time. Person escaped from a full Nelson that seemed fatal, escaped from a crotch that turned his shoulders almost to the mat and with agile speed wriggled out of a partial hammer lock. Person went right after Zbyszko, as in the first bout, but strain and tug as he did, he could not make effective any hold on the huge arms, the powerful limbs and the broad body of the Pole.

Securing a wrist hold, Zbyszko simply by his great strength brought Person to the canvas. Then he quickly clamped on a double bar and, placing his immense weight with the hold, bore the unwilling shoulders of his smaller opponent to the mat.

At the conclusion of the match Zbyszko, in response to the requests of his countrymen, made a little speech. He stated that it was no disgrace for Person to be beaten by him, because of his advantage of weight, and extended the hand of good fellowship to his defeated opponent. Person also came to the front with some words of praise. He stated that he had met Gotch on the coast and that, in his opinion, Zbyszko was much the stronger of the two, and just as good in every way as the world's champion.

In the preliminaries to the main event William Trepanier, athletic instructor of the Duluth Athletic club, threw Al. Harper of the West Duluth Athletic club in seventeen minutes. The fall was secured by a chancery hold.

Olaf Johnson, a heavyweight wrestler of Wisconsin, agreed to throw Carl Nelson, the local middleweight, in two falls in thirty minutes. The big Norwegian did not succeed in securing one fall.

The bout was staged under the auspices of the Duluth Athletic club. Martin Johnson was the referee. There was a very good attendance and a large number of women in the audience. Many of the countrymen of Zbyszko brought their wives and children.

A STUDY IN PSYCHOLOGY

Jeffries and Johnson Compared to a Bull and a Panther.

"The Fighting Heart" Will Have Much to Do With Outcome.

(By Harry C. Carr.)

William T. Hornaday, the naturalist, says that two tigers put into the same cage for the first time, seldom actually fight. They bristle up their hair and hiss and snarl. One of them perceives that his snarl isn't the real thing and sulkily surrenders.

Thus animals test that subtle and almost mysterious quality, called the "fighting heart."

It is not exactly the same as courage. It is altogether different from the mere self-confidence; something more than consciousness of power.

It is something inside which tells you that you can't be beaten. Something that makes you feel yourself a victor when your ship is sinking. Because of it John Paul Jones captured the Serapis with a wretched sinking old tub. Some nations and some races are filled with it to a marked degree.

There is about to be a most interesting test of the extent to which the negro race has it. This test is to be a prize fight between Jim Jeffries, a white man of almost pure Anglo-Saxon type, and Jack Johnson, a negro, for the championship of the world.

It is very curiously true that the Jeffries-Johnson fight will be quite as interesting to the psychologist and the ethnologist as to the sport.

The mere courage of the negro race has been tested on a hundred battle fields. One of the most desperate exhibitions of valor in the history of modern warfare was the charge of the negro troops before Petersburg. The colored troops stood like rock at San Juan Hill when some of the white troops faltered. In the days of our Indian wars on the plains, the Ninth and Tenth Cavalry and the Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth Infantry showed that negro troops will endure any hardship and face any danger, however horrible. But they had officers, and their officers were white men and the very highest type of white men.

"Psha!" says one of the characters in George Bernard Shaw's play, "Arms and the Man," "the courage to rage and kill is cheap. I have an English bull terrier who has as much of that sort of courage as the whole Bulgarian nation and the whole Russian nation at its back. But he lets my groom thrash him just the same. That's your soldier all over."

Not Behind Him.

When Jack Johnson faces Jim Jeffries in the prize ring he will not have behind him a white officer whom he has learned to trust and obey as a child trusts its mother.

He will be alone on his own resources with the champion of the world in front of him and a hostile crowd bawling behind him.

"These," as the prestidigitator says, rolling up his sleeves, "is the apparatus with which the experamunt is proformed."

First, Jeffries:

Jim Jeffries, the white man, is not the natural fighting type. He is an amiable bull, goaded to combat rather than a bulldog.

Some prize fighters, notably Battling Nelson, the lightweight champion, are as naturally fighting animals as are short haired dogs. They fight because they love fighting. They fight on the slightest provocation. They fight from mere blood lust.

Jeffries, on the other hand, is not in the least pugnacious. Fighting with him is not instinctive.

Just before his retirement, he confided to a newspaper friend in this city that he cordially detested prize fighting and never would have stepped into a ring if he could have made as much money any other way.

Logy Jim.

Temperamentally he is slow and logy and rather dull, slow of speech, slow of decision, but sound of decision, with a fund of practical common sense. He talks very little, is peculiarly unresponsive and, luckily for himself, is hard to influence.

He is best judged and best understood as a Britisher. He has a Britisher's respect for authority, a British horror of making a "show" of himself, English shyness that is hidden under an aloofness and a mind-your-own-business air.

As a boy at school, Jeffries was a diffident, diligent plodder who struggled doggedly and without inspiration over his lessons, seldom got into school boy fights and made no trouble for the teachers.

With some 250 pounds of solid muscle developed at the forges of an iron factory, Jeffries simply had to become a prize fighter.

It was uphill business for him. It was hard for him to learn to box. He was hopelessly slow. But, unskilled as he was, he fought with dogged pertinacity and a strength that was simply prodigious.

A Ring Tradition.

It is a tradition of the prize ring that Jeffries has never dared to hit a man with his full strength for fear of killing him.

In time, and by painstaking effort, Jeffries finally learned to box well, with a sort of heavy bovine skill of execution.

It must be confessed, however, that most of his fights were won more by his overpowering gigantic strength than by any other quality.

One of his fiercest fights was with Tom Sharkey, a rough, ignorant sailor. It resembled a collision of two locomotives; Jeffries was the stronger locomotive. Bob Fitzsimmons lashed him with blows over the eyes until Jeffries was almost blind, but became exhausted by the effort of pounding this mountain of strength. At the end of this last fight with Jim Corbett the latter said as they were carrying him to his corner: "It's no use; he's too big and strong." Strength has always been his big asset.

In all these fights, Jeffries showed ability to endure punishment—but no such sublime indifference to blows as is shown by natural-born fighters like Nelson.

The truth is, Jeffries never developed any remarkable talent for fighting. If Young Corbett or Bat Nelson or Terry McGovern had been Jim Jeffries' size, any one of them could have whipped a whole regiment of Jeffries.

When he had fought every one who presented himself, Jeffries retired; got married; became a rancher; loaned his name to a saloon, and became a staid, well-behaved man of business.

His return to the ring was brought about solely by the chance to make a great deal of easy money. Perhaps, also a little, on account of the prejudice, born of his iron-worker days, against a negro, and his secret respect for the championship.

Any fighter with theatrical instincts would have burst back into the ring with a blast of defiance, but, in his slow, earnest way, Jeffries would not at first give an answer, because he said (unheroically) he was not sure he could win.

That's the sort of man upon whom the "fighting heart" of the negro race is to be tried. In a word, Jeffries is a commonplace, uninteresting mechanic with enormous strength and a full supply of Anglo-Saxon determination of spirit.

Now For Jack.

Jack Johnson.

Whatever Jeffries lacks in picturesqueness is made up by Johnson, the negro.

Johnson is the kind of sporty "coon" you read about in comic papers. He is a minstrel joke—a scream—a cake walk.

A logician could see Johnson and deduct (or rather "induct") the jungles of South Africa. Seeing Johnson arrayed in his diamonds the day after winning a prize fight, the thoughtful visitor from Mars would know that, somewhere on this earth, there must be savages who hang rings through their noses, and, dancing naked by the light of the jungle moon, answer the howl of the gorilla with their yells.

Johnson is not very far removed from the original Fuzzy Wuzzy whom Kipling conceded to be a "big, black, boundin' beggar, but a first-class fightin' man."

Like Jeffries, however, the negro is not instinctively a fighter. That is to say he is not of the fighting type of animal. He is instinctively a boxer. Jeffries is a bull. Johnson is some kind of fastidious jungle cat.

Plainsmen say that one of the most remarkable sights in the world is to see a cat fight a snake. Pussy sits placidly, apparently paying not the slightest attention to the snake as the latter coils and gets ready to strike. But as the long sinuous head darts out to the attack, she stops him with a biff in mid air, digging her claws in behind the head: then she resumes her thoughtful attitude of complacency.

Adroitness.

That's very much the way Johnson fights in a prize ring. His flashes of motion are a most extraordinary spectacle. There is no room to doubt that he has never had a superior as a boxer.

Not to go into a description of punches and jabs, this remarkable skill is interesting as illustrating a phase of Johnson's character.

When you see him box in his training quarters, or even in the ring, you are impressed with two facts, that he never seems to be really in earnest about it and that he fights very much after the manner of a rapier fencer.

He has the easy fastidiousness of the foil fencer. His defense seems to be without the slightest effort. During his fight with the dangerous Tommy Burns, the negro carried on a careless conversation with the ringside spectators. While Burns was making his most furious, if futile, assault, Johnson asked the referee about the climate of Australia and chatted about the size of the audience, as though Burns were merely a little child playing about his knees.

His defense was so fine and adroit that he seemed only to be gently pushing away the vicious, little fight champion with his hands. Burns futilely pounded the air, like an angry baby.

Occasionally, as Burns started a blow, Johnson would shoot his brown arm across and land like a catapult on the white man's face before Burns' fist could reach him.

These fight details are related for the purpose of laying a foundation for this question:

To land a "counter" blow, the following thoughts must flash through the brain of the fighter:

I will strike him with my left hand and break the force of the blow by hitting him before he hits me. Here goes!

Almost all Johnson's blows are counter blows. He almost never leads. It is obvious that the negro has not the brain to actually think with the rapidity and accuracy that this style of fighting implies. What then?

He has the mind of a child, or a barbarian.

Most of his early fights were in Los Angeles. He was practically the slave of his manager, at that period.

The manager supported him and thus acquired the right to nearly all his winnings. After each fight his "master" would hand him a few dollars and Johnson would burst upon the rialto blazing with paste diamonds, broad-soled shoes and the most astounding striped shirts.

Johnson still has the same tendencies: only now his diamonds are real and he substitutes fast-going automobiles for his majestic cake walk up and down the actors' promenade.

As soon as he had become champion, he discarded his negro wife for the more elegant white variety.

The ambition of his life is to rush through the streets at break-neck speed in a racing automobile and be stared at. Being arrested for speeding and paying his fine from a pocket bulging with money is his idea of being impressive.

He likes to use big words that mean nothing in particular. He is delighted to accept invitations to deliver lectures before associations of colored people. Having been around so much with men of affairs, and having been in the public eye for so long, Johnson has picked up a sort of "patter" and an etiquette, both of which he practices with excruciating elegance. Result: In the art of being interviewed, he makes Jeffries look like a dub.

The Contest.

When Jeffries, the sedate mechanic, meets the amusing but adroit barbarian, the general opinion is that Johnson will be overawed and generally scared to death.

It is a mistake, however, to suppose that Johnson is actually afraid of Jeffries. The danger that he faces is more subtle: it is Jeff's Anglo-Saxon will power.

It has been observed that the weakness of colored prize fighters is their imagination and their susceptibility to impressions.

It is imagination that makes an Irishman a terror in a fight; but it seems to run in the other direction with Africans.

A peculiar trait of all negro prize fighters, for instance, is that they always listen to the shouts of the crowd about the ringside. White prize fighters assert that they never hear the crowd after the fight once begins. Taking advantage of this trait of colored men, their white opponents call them vile names and station men about the ring to yell ribald abuse in the hope of driving them into futile, wild fits of negro wrath.

However, this is of small importance. Johnson's danger is the negro susceptibility to an altogether different sort of impression: that of being attacked by sudden discouragement. Loss of morale, army men call it.

Joe Gans would have beaten Battling Nelson with ease at Goldfield, but for the fact that he could not beat down the white boy's belief in himself. Two or three times, Gans saw the chance for the knockout blow and hammered in with all his might. When the white boy did not drop, but bored in for more, something seemed to ooze out of the colored fighter.

Johnson has fought tough, hard fighters; but they have always dropped when he got ready to drop them.

The Crucial Moment.

It will be interesting to watch the effect upon his fighting spirit when he lashes in with the knockout blow upon an enormous bulk that, perhaps, will not drop.

That will be the crucial moment for Johnson and, in a way, for the fighting spark in the negro race.

It will be the test whether a negro, without moral support, can fight when the fight is going against him.

In that moment, when Johnson delivers the blow that falls, all the superstitious awe in which he has held the champion, and all the backs of his race that have bent before the white men, will come to him in a flash. Then we will see if Johnson can brush aside that feeling and fight on with the exalted conviction that he can't lose either.

Many of Johnson's adherents point back to the black man's career and show that he has never worked hard to win. Like so many elements of this meeting of the white and black, this is temperamental.

Johnson can't work hard and continuously in a prize fight. He hasn't the concentration. The same trait that makes him hear the shouts of the crowd makes him appear to be "fooling round" in the ring.

James J. Jeffries can look out for the "flashes" because, as the side show barker announces "the sting of death is in every blow."

The buffalo bull can look out for the sudden leap of the lazy-looking panther.

Polo Players Arrive.

New York, Feb. 5.—Three players of the championship English polo team which is to play several matches with American experts on the Pacific coast, have arrived in New York. They are Maj. Romer Lee, Maj. G. W. Hobson and F. B. Hurndall. They will start for California next week.

WILLIE HOPPE DEFEATS RIVAL

Ora Morningstar Loses 1500-Point Billiard Match at Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 5.—Willie Hoppe last night won his 1,500-point match at 18.2 balk-line billiard with Ora Morningstar by the grand total of 1,500 to 1,032. Hoppe's victory in running out his last block of 500 was the most decisive of any of the three nights' play. He did it in ten innings while Morningstar had only 225.

Hoppe's average for the three nights' play was 30 flat, while Morningstar's was 21 45-47.

Hoppe's marvelous playing was the feature of the final play. He started with a tally of 128, clicked off a 186 count in his fifth inning, and finished his string in ten innings for an average of 50 flat for the evening's match. Morningstar in nine innings totaled 225 for a 25 average.

RULE MAKERS ARE CONFUSED

Chaotic Conditions Confronts Intercollegiate Committee on College Football Reform.

New York, Feb. 5.—A chaotic situation confronted the football experts in session here when they resumed today their task of remodeling the rules of the game to make the sport safer and saner. A whole day's labor yesterday served only to increase the multiplicity of ideas, the diversity of which proved a stumbling block in the way of immediate progress.

At the same time, the labor of yesterday was found not to be wasted, and there was promise of light ahead through the gradual process of elimination which went on throughout today's session. The impracticable and the conflicting were thron out and before the days' session was over it was expected that something like a rational and logical program could be maped out, at least, tentatively.

Despite the reticence of the deliberating body—the intercollegiate football rules committee—it was readily gathered that the members considered the situation a serious one in view of the wide outcry which followed last season's accidents on the gridiron and not one of the delegates seemed to doubt that there would be radical rule changes.

It is believed, however, that no positive policy will result from the present sitting, but with the tentative plan of changes, now being mapped out the rule makers will take time to consult with the college authorities in the various sections. Out of these conferences is expected to come another meeting in March for definite action.

The members of the committee, all of whom were present, are as follows: L. M. Dennis, Cornell, chairman; James A. Babbitt, Haverford; E. K. Hall, Dartmouth; C. Blagden, Harvard; J. C. Bell, University of Pennsylvania.

BOWLING SCORES

PERSON WAS OUTCLASSED

Duluth Wrestler Game, But No Match for Giant Pole.

Wonderful Strength of Zbyszko Gives Him Two Straight Falls.

Chris Person, Northwestern champion, was beaten in two straight falls by the great Zbyszko at the Armory last night after putting up a wonderful battle against the big muscled man of Europe. The first fall was won by Zbyszko in 31 minutes, and the second fall came at the expiration of 21 minutes.

Only the cleverness and the speed, as well as a thorough knowledge of the game, enabled Person to stay as long as he did against the Pole. Possessing almost superhuman strength, the strength of an untamed grizzly bear, and a quickness that is deceiving because of his close in method of wrestling, Zbyszko is one of the hardest men in the world to keep away from.

Zbyszko is on top of his man all the time. He is also close in all the time. The massive strength of his swelling biceps and the great strength of his legs makes it almost impossible for the average wrestler to clamp an effective hold on the pole. Time after time last night, Chris secured a hold on the gigantic foreigner that would have proved effective against an ordinary wrestler. With a contraction of his huge body, or simply the straightening of his legs, Zbyszko would shake loose from the hold.

The contest last night proved a most interesting study from which to speculate as to the possible outcome of the match with champion Gotch. There is no longer any doubt of the Pole's wonderful strength and ability on the mat. When watching Person, a man weighing 185 pounds and possessed of great strength, tugging at the mountain of muscle without hardly moving the great bulk from a perfect balance, one wonders what Gotch, with all his deep knowledge of the game and all his brilliancy of attack, will accomplish in a finish match with the Pole.

Finally he gave a kind of leap, with his body, forcing Person to back to the mat by strength and weight alone. Securing a crotch and half Nelson, Zbyszko slowly forced the shoulders of the local champion to the mat.

Deafening cheers greeted the victory of Zbyszko. His countrymen were crowded into the ringside seats and they were not slow in giving loud-voiced utterance to their sentiment. Men prominent in Polish circles crowded forward to shake the hand of Poland's champion. At the conclusion of the match Zbyszko, in response to the requests of his countrymen, made a little speech. He stated that it was no disgrace for Person to be beaten by him, because of his advantage of weight, and extended the hand of good fellowship to his defeated opponent. Person also came to the front with some words of praise. He stated that he had met Gotch on the coast and that, in his opinion, Zbyszko was much the stronger of the two, and just as good in every way as the world's champion.

In the preliminaries to the main event William Trepanier, athletic instructor of the Duluth Athletic club, threw Al. Harper of the West Duluth Athletic club in seventeen minutes. The fall was secured by a chancery hold.

MEMBER OF A FAMOUS ROWING FAMILY MAY COME TO DULUTH TO COACH BOAT CLUB CREWS

Ten Eyck, a Name Famous in Rowing Circles --Zbyszko, Big Polish Wrestler, Speaks Eight Languages.

(BY BRUCE)

EDWARD H. TEN EYCK.

Edward H. Ten Eyck, son of the famous old time oarsman, and himself one of the greatest oarsmen that modern sculling [illegible] America has produced, is being talked of as the coach of the Duluth Boat club for the coming season. The securing of Ten Eyck as the coach [illegible] would undoubtedly result in a great increase in the interest [illegible] in this city.

[illegible] have been many [illegible] regarding the coming of the [illegible] at the present time is [illegible] the crew candidates of the University of Wisconsin. Negotiations have been opened with Ten Eyck and if satisfactory arrangements can be made he will in all probability be secured [illegible] for the finishing touches of the present season's junior eight.

While Ten Eyck has not succeeded in getting a winner out of the material of the University of Wisconsin, he has made a good showing at the Eastern college regattas. Considering the fact that the material the young man has had to work with is not up to the standard of that of some of the larger Eastern colleges, his work has been [illegible] satisfactory. In fact he is rated as one of the best coaches in the West today.

It was the reputation of Ten Eyck and the knowledge that he is one of the best coaches of rowing material in the West that led the officials of the Duluth Boat club to open negotiations with him. The officials of the local club have made up their minds that the best coach in the country is none too good for the material that is in sight for the present season, and if Ten Eyck is secured and a large list of new candidates can be secured for the crews the present season, should see the junior eight of the Duluth Boat club carrying off the honors at Kenora, Ont., where the Western regatta will be held the present season.

For some seasons past the stroke of the Duluth crews has been criticised by the coaches and rowing authorities of other clubs. At Winnipeg the season before last many wondered how the Duluth men could make even as good a showing as they did with the stroke the men were using. Last season at St. Paul the crews, as far as their physical make-up was concerned, [illegible] words of praise from the [illegible] at the Minnesota [illegible]. But again the stroke of the crews was criticised freely and harshly. There is of course the question as to whether the crews were rowing the stroke as it should be rowed.

The question resolves itself into a [illegible] as to whether there is the right sort of material up here, whether the weather is against the [illegible] or whether the men have been [illegible] a stroke that is not as effective as the strokes used by the other crews of the Western association.

It is the purpose of the rowing officials of the club to attempt to secure an answer to that all important question the present season. With that determination in view, the officials have opened negotiations for a coach, and Ten Eyck is the first man who will be approached in the matter.

Ten Eyck is a college man and understands the handling of men. He is a clean cut young chap who has been associated with both college men and the professional rowing element of the East. Therefore he should combine the best of the two systems.

The young man comes from a rowing family that is famous in the history of rowing in this country and Canada. [illegible] the name of Hanlon, Gaudaur and Ten Eyck [illegible] and yet will have produced three of the greatest [illegible] and in Canada. Not only was the elder Ten Eyck a great oarsman but the brother of the [illegible] was [illegible] of the greatest young scullers ever produced in the United States.

Zbyszko has come and gone. He presented one of the most interesting studies of the athlete of any man who has ever appeared in this city. He perhaps represents more than even Dr. B. F. Roller, the great American wrestler, the educated man, who is following professional athletics.

Between falls last night Zbyszko told the writer some of his impressions of Frank Gotch. "He is a very powerful man," said Zbyszko, "though I would not say that he is the strongest man I have ever met. He is one of the greatest men the mat has ever produced. I have done most of my wrestling at the Graeco-Roman style, where strength counts more than agility and knowledge of the science of the game. However, I like the catch-as-catch-can game very much. I am learning new tricks about your American style of wrestling every day and when I meet Mr. Gotch for a finish match, I hope to be able to make a wonderful showing against him. I believe that I will take the championship from your country."

Lieut. A. P. Watts of the United States army met and talked with Zbyszko after the match. The big Pole was a lieutenant in the Austrian army and is well up in military affairs. He can discuss with perfect familiarity the affairs of the nations of Europe, the military situation abroad, as well as international politics.

J. H. Herman, manager of the Pole, said last night that while in Chicago, Zybszko carried on a conversation in eight languages in the lobby of one of the Chicago theaters. There were Greeks, Russians, Italians, French, Germans, Poles and other men of other nationalities who were anxiously and eagerly asking the big wrestler rapid questions. Zybszko was enswering each man as fast as he could in their native languages. Herman says Zbyszko converses with many of the Polish priests in Latin. The big wrestler is a lover of the best books, if the statement of his manager is correct. He reads Shakespeare and the Russian authors, according to Herman, and is content in the quiet of his room.

At the St. Louis last night, the wrestler was tendered a banquet, by some of the leading Polish citizens of Duluth. During the course of the dinner he made a speech in his native tongue, and if the applause that greeted the speaker when he sat down was any indication of the neatness of his speech, he was there with the flowery stuff.

ONE DULUTH RINK WILL GO TO WINNIPEG 'SPIEL

Local Club Also Represented at Wisconsin Association Meet.

Trophy Events Are Dragging Slowly Along---May Not Be Finished.

W. C. Fechler will take a rink to Winnipeg for the big Canadian bonspiel which begins in that city Wednesday morning of next week. It is possible that another rink will go, and a number of the curlers are planning to go up Friday night to remain over Sunday just for the fun of being in attendance at a part of the bonspiel.

D. W. Stocking's rink will return from Pardeeville, Wis., tomorrow. It is not known how this rink came out in the events at the Wisconsin town, but a fake telegram sent to Stephen H. Jones, president of the Duluth club, states that they have won one game and wish to know whether or not to go direct to Winnipeg. The rink that attended the Wisconsin Curling association bonspiel was composed of Charles Owen, Jim McLennan, Marshall Alworth, and D. W. Stocking, skip.

From present indications the big bonspiel at Winnipeg will be the largest ever held in the Canadian city. There are eight clubs in this town and every member of each club is an enthusiast. There will be many entries from the several clubs located there, and in addition many rinks from the clubs of the surrounding towns will attend. The Duluth club had hoped to send a large delegation to the Canadian event, but just at this time the Duluth men as a rule find it hard to get away.

The events at the Duluth club are keeping the local curlers very busy. The Northwestern bonspiel which was held here in January gave them a decided setback and it has seemed impossible to get them up to the point they were at this time last year.

In the president's event, which is played squad style, five squads are still in doubt. F. Jamar is the winner of squad 1, Roy Deetz is the winner of squad 5 and Charles Roulo is the winner of squad 6.

In the Bagley, a bonspiel style event, there has as yet been only four games played. Dinham defeated R. J. McLeod, McGregor defeated Pugh, Wagner defeated Woodruff, and C. D. Brewer defeated Charles Roulo.

Play in the Manley-McLennan event was started last night.

The play or forfeit rule was not severe enough to bring the opposing rinks together, and the board of directors, the rink committee, the house committee, and the games committee got together recently and made a rule requiring the contests to begin at 7:45. For every ten minutes that one side shall be kept waiting by the nonappearance of the other they are entitled to count up one point. The rinks have been more prompt in getting down to the club on time since this rule was made.

The St. Louis event is getting down to a point where the end is in sight. This trophy is played for bonspiel style and Macrae, Oldham, Dinham, Feetham, Roulo, C. F. West, Deetz, W. G. Hall, McLennan, Smith and Stillman are still in the race.

Princeton, N. J., Feb. 5.—Announcement is made by W. W. Roper, '02, director of athletes, that William J. Clark, manager of the Albany, N. Y., State league baseball team, has been appointed to coach the Princeton nine for the first six weeks of the coming season.

Free to Boys

Sled That Steers Will Be Given to Every Boy Who Will Do Me a Small Favor. You Can Have One.

This is the greatest sled for boys and girls ever manufactured. Known all over the country as "the sled that steers." Runner are spring steel and when you coast down hill a slight pressure of the feet curves them and steers the sled to one side. No digging in the snow with your feet or plowing the snow with your feet. Not one boy in a hundred has one of these sleds. You can have one for a little easy work. Write me today and I will tell you all about it.

A surprise was sprung last evening in the City Amateur hockey league circles by the defeat of the Northern Juniors, last year's champions of the league, by the Hunter's Parks, by the score of 4 to 1. Up to the game of last evening the suburbanites had failed to show the class of the Northerns and the defeat caused a great surprise.

In the game of last evening the Northern Juniors lacked team work and the dash that has characterized their work in former games. Unless the juniors can defeat the Adams in their coming contest, they will be out of the running for the pennant.

Steinback, a brilliant player of the Northerns last season, made his appearance with the former champions, but his presence failed to have the desired effect. The Northerns clearly were out of form and failed to play the game they put up against the Big Duluths.

Clark scored first for the Hunter's Parks. Harbison scored the next goal in two minutes. With the score even up, Ted Mackenzie scored the second goal for the suburbanites. In the second half Feetham scored the last net of the game, shooting a clever shot from the side.

HIGH SCHOOL BASKET BALL.

Blaine and Central Teams Will Meet in Important Contest.

Blaine high school, which is reputed to have the strongest basket ball team on the other side of the bay, will clash with Duluth central team in the boys' gymnasium of the Y. M. C. A. this afternoon. The game promises to be one of unusual interest, from the fact that both teams have much at stake.

If the Duluth team wins the victory it will be in line for the Head of the Lakes interscholastic championship and will retrieve itself for the defeat at the hands of Nelson-Dewey. If the Duluth team loses it will be more or less out of the running. If Blaine loses, it will bring a howl of exultation from the gleeful Nelson-Deweyites.

The fur promises to fly.

The teams will await the whistle of the referee in the following fashion:

| Blaine | | Duluth |

| J. Bradley | f. | Harris |
| W. Bradley | f. | Boyle |
| Hoehle | c. | Waldron |

ORIGINALITY IN BOXERS

Set Styles of Fighting Has Developed Few Champions in the Past.

Methods of American Pugilists Proved Undoing of "Masters of Style."

(By W. W. Naughton.)

San Francisco, Feb. 5.—Is there a recognized school or method of boxing now or has the game of the glove come to a pass where originality and individuality mean success?

The writer inclines to the latter view.

My reasons for asking the question is that an English critic claims that Fitzsimmons is an exponent of the Mace school. Says the writer in question:

"English boxing reached is apotheosis in Jim Mace. Mace taught Foley in Australia all he knew and found Foley wonderfully apt in the assimilation of fistic knowledge. Then Foley in his turn became a teacher, and from his place in Sydney emanated the wonderful band of Australian boxers—Fitzsimmons, Jackson, Slavin, Dawson, Griffo and others, who overran England and America and beat everyone against whom they were pitted with consummate ease.

"These men were true exponents of the real English style of boxing and upholders of the American school would, in our opinion, be hard put to it to find their equals at the present day. Jackson, could he only revisit these 'glimpses of the moon' would, we feel convinced, be only too delighted to attend to Mr. Johnson's requirements; Bob Fitzsimmons, in his prime, would have proved rather too hot a handful for Messrs. Langford, Ketchell and Papke; and unbeaten George Dawson would be quite equal to holding Battling Nelson at bay; whilst what Griffo would have done to all the featherweights, with the possible exception of Driscoll, will hardly bear thinking about. Truly there were giants in these days and they boxed in the true English style—the old English style which some would have us believe is antiquated and out of date."

There is food for thought here. A fellow with a glib tongue, an active brain and some knowledge of his subject could make a plausible argument along half a dozen different lines. He could undertake to prove that it isn't so much that the English style is antiquated and out-of-date, as that the English opponents of things pugilistic are slower thinking and slower moving than former heroes of the British and Australian prize rings. He could take the stand that the "Mace school" has been absorbed in the American school, and so revamped and improved upon that it has been lost sight of almost entirely, or he could cloud the whole discussion by insisting that every successful boxer is his own schoolmaster. When he instanced such capable performers as Jack Johnson, Stanley Ketchel and Battling Nelson, his position would be a hard one to attack.

Then dally with the Mace school of boxing for a while. There is no denying that when Peter Jackson and Bob Fitzsimmons, George Dawson and a few others came to town from Australia they were a revelation to the followers of the fistic sport.

The most perfect exemplifications of Mace's ideas of the art of self defense were to be found in Peter Jackson's work, yet we have the record for it that Jim Corbett, a self-taught American sapling, stood up to Jackson in battle that almost achieved a record for longevity, and found an antidote for everything that good old Peter with all his vast knowledge of the Mace system attempted.

This is not in disparagement of Jackson, who, I have always held was one of the greatest heavyweights the game has ever known. But just to suggest that the Mace system was not perfect enough to be overpowering.

As another setback for the Mace school I recall the case of Abe Willis, bantam champion of Australia, who was brought here to box George Dixon before the California Athletic club twenty years ago. Willis was a pupil of Foley, who has been a pupil of Mace. He was a compact compendium of all that was effective in the Mace-Foley system, yet he was virtually licked in the opening round with a punch that Jim Mace himself would have pronounced impossible.

The Mace blows were straight from the shoulder, assaults to which the Englishman still pins his faith. The smash that stung Willis and prevented him from getting in his licks during the five rounds which were boxed, was the left rip that won for Dixon in most of his contests. It started its upward flight somewhere about Willis' hip and it found lodgement beneath his chin. It was the first time in the little Antipodean's life that he had sampled such a crazing, crashing clip from a glove, and no doubt he wondered how it was that the Mace school had not devised a block or getaway for just such cases.

It was plainly to be seen that he did not recover fully from the Dixon rip, and while he fought like a wasp for the better part of five rounds, he was finally "sent to grass."

These are simply one or two instances that occur to me where graduates of the Mace college of boxing ran against snags in the shape of American pugilists, who were known as natural fighters, and claimed allegiance to no particular school. That the invasion of the disciples of Jim had an influence for good on American boxing methods is not to be denied. But as I have stated at the beginning of this article, it looks to me as if the days of the Mace school and all other schools have passed.

Will some one who thinks otherwise please assign Battling Nelson to some particular school? In Nelson's case his face is his fortune. He offers it as a target for the other man's blows until the other man grows weary, and then he wades in and conquers. When Nelson grows stale through length of service, if another Durable Dane can be located, he may fall heir to the Battler's laurels and triumphs over the fellows who lift the real science of boxing down to the finest of points.

Then there is Stanley Ketchell, another world's champion. To what school does he belong? To the writer it appears that Ketchell's method of fighting is merely a succession of shifts. He wades in hand-over-hand and being possessed of rare hitting power, he generally manage to finish his man with the first well-plied punch.

Billy Papke—he of the lifting punches—is another who seems to be the product of no particular school, while Jack Johnson has a private punch which deserves to be known as the Johnson uppercut. Of a certainty all the front rank men in the fighting game appear to be specialists, rather than graduates of any common school.

No Sunday Shows.

New York, Feb. 5.—Sunday vaudeville shows and moving picutre theaters have received a hard blow and New York may have a closed Sunday as a result of a decision of the appellate division of the supreme court in declaring illegal all Sunday performances in theaters except concerts and performances of educational character. The decision affirmed the legality of the ordinance passed by the board of aldermen under which the city sued a theater for violation of the ordinance.

GRAND OLD MAN OF TURF

Edward F. Geers Has Raced and Trained Harness Horses Forty Years.

Almost 60 Years Old, Veteran Still Greatest Driver in America.

(By J. L. Hervey.)

A few days ago I had the pleasure of a chat with the "grand old man of the trotting turf," as his admirers love to call him, Edward F. Geers. He had been indulging in something rather unusual for him—a little pleasure trip North to visit some friends—and stopped off in Chicago for a few hours between trains. Mr. Geers is not only the foremost trainer and driver of harness horses in the world—the dean of the profession—but the hardest-working one as well, and it is but rarely that he forsakes his duties, even during the long winter layup, to "play hookey" solely for the purpose of having a good time.

It was a pleasure to me to see him looking so well. Geers is now getting well on toward 60, and a few years ago he seemed for a season or two to begin to show his age and the strain of the nearly forty seasons of strenuous work in the sulky that he had performed. And this worried the trotting public, for the Tennesseean has so long stood before it, not only as the leader in his profession, but a man whose example was a standing incitement to the rising generation of horsemen to do not only well but worthily—to not only achieve success, but to deserve it—that no one looks forward with equanimity to the day when he will, in the fullness of time, have to relinquish that position. But this proved only temporary. During the past few seasons Geers seems to have renewed his youth. He is rugged and hearty, his bright blue eye is like that of a young man and he appears in every way destined to adorn the grand circuit for many a year to come.

As usual, Geers is wintering his stable at Memphis. It is now nine years since the famous "world's record" track was built there by C. K. G. Billings, and ever since Geers has made it his headquarters. One of the attributes which have helped him much in the attainment of pre-eminence in his profession has been his exemption from that tendency to variability which seems to be ingrained in the average trainer's nature. Having found something which gives satisfactory results, he conforms to it, instead of flying off at a tangent, in chase of a rainbow, at every time the excuse offers—or, if the spirit moves, without an excuse. There are few trainers who can content themselves at the same winter training ground twice in succession. In this respect they are veritable wanderers. No matter how complete the appointments, how pleasing the surroundings, or how good the results attained at a certain track, it is good betting that the next winter finds Mr. Trainer at another one. Of course, he always has a reason—or a dozen of them—for his change of base, and he can set them forth with the greatest plausibility, for, be it known the trainer is not seldom as good at winning a talking match as he is at driving a race. But the real reason, one may be sure, he will studiously neglect to mention—the same being that a change of scene has become something which his system demands and will have. He has got the wandering habit, and unless he gratifies it, he will be in much the same miserable condition as the dope fiend who is deprived of his opium or chloral.

In Geers nothing of this tendency has ever manifested itself. Beneath an exterior kindly and easy, he conceals unusual firmness of character and tenacity of purpose—and nothing aside from his inborn skill as a horseman has been more largely accountable for the success that he has won. It largely accounts for the really remarkable manner in which he commands the confidence, as well as the admiration of the public. They feel toward him as probably they have never felt toward but one other trotting trainer. That was the celebrated Hiram Woodruff, who was in his glory in ante-bellum days, and who then occupied practically the same position in the turf world that Geers now does. There are comparatively few men yet alive who ever saw Woodruff drive a race, but in the world where fame is one of the most transitory of all possible things and the hero of today is in oblivion tomorrow, his name is still one which is like unto a beacon light.

Few winters find Geers with less than forty horses in his stable, and it is no wonder that although as second trainers he has two exceptionally skillful men—Lafe Shaffer and John Benyon—he finds little time to idle. He now has above the forty mark in charge and from them he will sift out the string that he will race on the Great Western and Grand circuit the coming season. They embrace every variety of real or would-be racer from the free-for-aller of national reputation to the unfledged candidate for the colt stakes, and, as usual, it may be depended that the "G. O. M." will select an aggregation which will place him at or near the top of the table of winning drivers for the year.

The fastest trotter by the records, that he has in hand, is the famous bay gelding Highball (2:03¾). This horse, one of the most sensational, also one of the most unlucky, that the turf has ever seen, was unable to get to the post during 1909 owing to lameness, the result of a breakdown in 1908. He had been shifted to the pace, in the hope that, as that gait is notoriously easier upon an ailing leg than the trot, he might stand up at it, but the hope proved fallacious. He hung out the danger signal before the stable was shipped away to the races, in early June, and was at once thrown out of training. After a long let-up he was then put at road work, which he did all the late summer and fall. This did him much good and he has been going sound all the winter thus far. Mr. Geers stated that it would depend entirely upon how he trained, whether he was kept pacing or put back to trotting. A mere difference of two ounces in the weight of his shoes is sufficient to switch him from one gait to the other. It was the opinion of those who saw Highball work at the pace last spring, that, if he had stood up to get even as far as the Detroit meeting he would have shown a mile in 2:00 or better. If he will stay sound at the trot, Mr. Geers said simply, "I don't think any horse alive can beat him."

Owing to the uncertainty regarding Highball, the star driver of the stable is, therefore, really The Harvester (2:06¾). We can no longer write the word "unbeaten" opposite his name, for in his last race, late last fall, the wonderful son of Walnut Hall was forced to submit to defeat, sickness having overtaken him after he had won two heats and apparently had his field at his mercy. It was only a temporary illness, and Mr. Geers reports that he is now in the finest possible condition. The task which will be set him this year, in his 5-year-old form, will be the lowering of the world's record for trotting stallions, the 2:02¼ of Cresceus, which has now stood for nine years. In the opinion of the majority of horsemen, if this record is ever beaten, The Harvester will do the trick. His trainer, who is one of the most modest of men, did not say so to me—but I think that such is also his own opinion.

MEMBER OF A FAMOUS ROWING FAMILY MAY COME TO DULUTH TO COACH BOAT CLUB CREWS

Ten Eyck, a Name Famous in Rowing Circles --Zbyszko, Big Polish Wrestler, Speaks Eight Languages.

(BY BRUCE)

Edward H. Ten Eyck, son of the famous old time oarsmen and himself one of the greatest oarsman that modern sculling in America has produced, is being talked of as the coach of the Duluth Boat club for the coming season. The securing of Ten Eyck as the coach of the local would undoubtedly result in a great increase in the interest in rowing in this city.

Already there have been many inquiries regarding the coming of the man, who at the present time, is coaching the crew candidates of the University of Wisconsin. Negotiations have been opened with Ten Eyck, and if satisfactory arrangements can be made, he will in all probability be secured to at least put the finishing touches on the present season's junior eight.

While Ten Eyck has not succeeded in getting a winner out of the material of the University of Wisconsin, he has made an excellent showing at the Eastern college regattas. Considering the fact that the material the young man has had to work with, is not up to the standard of that of some of the larger Eastern colleges, his work has been more than satisfactory. In fact, he is rated as one of the best coaches in the West today.

It was the reputation of Ten Eyck and the knowledge that he is one of the best coaches of rowing material in the West that led the officials of the Duluth Boat club to open negotiations with him. The officials of the local club have made up their minds that the best coaching in the country is none too good for the material that is in sight for the present season, and if Ten Eyck is secured and a large list of new candidates can be secured for the crew, the present season should see the junior eight of the Duluth Boat club carrying off the honors at Kenora, Ont., where the Western regatta will be held the present season.

For some seasons past the stroke of the Duluth crews has been criticised by the coaches and rowing authorities of other clubs. At Winnipeg the season before last, many wondered how the Duluth men could make even as good a showing as they did with the stroke the men were using. Last season at St. Paul the crews, as far as their physical makeup was concerned, elicited all sorts of praise from the loungers on the float at the Minnesota Boat clubhouse. But again the stroke of the crews was criticised freely and harshly. There is of course the question as to whether the crews were rowing the stroke as it should be rowed.

The question resolves itself into a simple query as to whether there is the right sort of material up here, whether the weather is against the club or whether the men have been handicapped with a stroke that is not as effective as the strokes used by the other crews of the Western association.

It is the purpose of the rowing officials of the club to attempt to secure an answer to that all important question the present season. With that determination in view, the officials have opened negotiations for a coach and Ten Eyck is the first man who will be approached in the matter.

Ten Eyck is a college man and understands the handling of men. He is a clean cut young chap, who has been associated with both college men and the professional rowing element of the East. Therefore he should combine the best in the two systems.

The young man comes from a rowing family that is famous in the history of rowing in this country and Canada. Mention the name of Hanlon, Gaudaur and Ten Eyck, the elder, and you will have recalled three of the greatest oarsmen produced here and in Canada. Not only was the elder Ten Eyck a great oarsman, but the brother of the subject of this sketch was also one of the greatest young scullers ever produced in the United States.

The younger Ten Eyck went to London and won the famous diamond sculls. So peeved were the English over the fact that an Ameeican should win the classic rowing event, which has been won by Englishmen for many years, that they declared the young Ten Eyck hap a professional. He was not, however, and clearly proved in the great English race that he was far the superior of the oarsmen of Oxford and Cambridge.

If heredity counts, and it generally does, the present coach of the crew of the University of Wisconsin should be one of the best men in the country. He comes from a rowing family and the love of the sport should be in his veins. It is to be hoped that the officials of the Duluth Boat club can make some satisfactory arrangements with the young man.

EDWARD H. TEN EYCK.

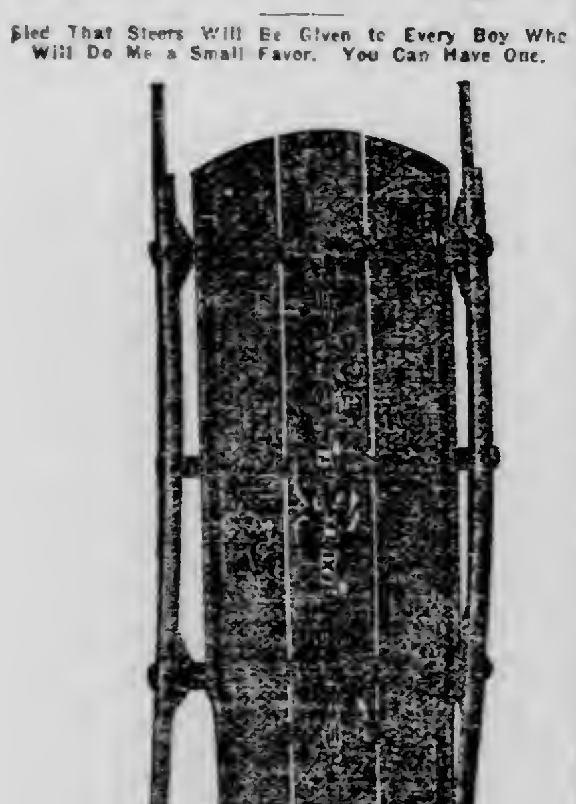
Zbyszko has come and gone. He presented one of the most interesting studies of the athlete of any man who has ever appeared in this city. He perhaps represents more than even Dr. B. F. Roller, the great American wrestler, the educated man, who is following professional athletics.

Between falls last night Zbyszko told the writer some of his impressions of Frank Gotch. "He is a very powerful man," said Zbyszko, "though I would not say that he is the strongest man I have ever met. He is one of the greatest men the mat has ever produced. I have done most of my wrestling at the Craeco-Roman style, where strength counts more than agility and knowledge of the science of the game. However, I like the catch-as-catch-can game very much. I am learning new tricks about your American style of wrestling every day, and when I meet Mr. Gotch for a finish match. I hope to be able to make a wonderful showing against him. I believe that I will take the championship from your country."

Lieut. A. P. Watts of the United States army met and talked with Zbyszko after the match. The big Pole was a lieutenant in the Austrian army and is well up in military affairs. He can discuss with perfect familiarity the affairs of the nations of Europe, the military situation abroad, as well as international politics.

J. H. Herman, manager of the Pole, said last night that while in Chicago, Zybszko carried on a conversation in eight languages in the lobby of one of the Chicago theaters. There were Greeks, Russians, Italians, French, Germans, Poles and other men of other nationalities, who were anxiously and eagerly asking the big wrestler rapid questions. Zybszko was enswering each man as fast as he could in their native languages. Herman says Zbyszko converses with many of the Polish priests in Latin. The big wrestler is a lover of the best books, if the statement of his manager is correct. He reads Shakespeare and the Russian authors, according to Herman, and is content in the quiet of his room.

At the St. Louis last night, the wrestler was tendered a banquet, by some of the leading Polish citizens of Duluth. During the course of the dinner he made a speech in his native tongue, and if the applause that greeted the speaker when he sat down was any indication of the neatness of his speech, he was there with the flowery stuff.



Free to Boys

Sled That Steers Will Be Given to Every Boy Who Will Do Me a Small Favor. You Can Have One.

This is the greatest sled for boys and girls ever manufactured. Known all over the country as "the sled that steers." Runners are spring steel, and when you coast down hill a slight pressure of the foot curves them and steers the sled to one side. No digging in the snow with your heels or plowing the snow with your feet. Not one boy in a hundred has one of these sleds. You can have one for a little easy work. Write me today and I will tell you all about it.

ONE DULUTH RINK WILL GO TO WINNIPEG 'SPIEL

Local Club Also Represented at Wisconsin Association Meet.

Trophy Events Are Dragging Slowly Along---May Not Be Finished.

W. C. Poehler will take a rink to Winnipeg for the big Canadian bonspiel which begins in that city Wednesday morning of next week. It is possible that another rink will go, and a number of the curlers are planning to go up Friday night to remain over Sunday just for the fun of being in attendance at a part of the bonspiel.

D. W. Stocking's rink will return from Pardeeville, Wis., tomorrow. It is not known how this rink came out in the events at the Wisconsin town, but a fake telegram sent to Stephen H. Jones, president of the Duluth club, states that they have won one game and wish to know whether or not to go direct to Winnipeg. The rink that attended the Wisconsin Curling association bonspiel was composed of Charles Owen Jim McLennan, Marshall Alworth and D. W. Stocking, skip.

From present indications the big bonspiel at Winnipeg will be the largest ever held in the Canadian city. There are eight clubs in this town and every member of each club is an enthusiast. There will be many entries from the several clubs located there, and in addition many rinks from the clubs of the surrounding towns will attend. The Duluth club had hoped to send a large delegation to the Canadian event, but just at this time the Duluth men as a rule find it hard to get away.

The events at the Duluth club are keeping the local curlers very busy. The Northwestern bonspiel which was held here in January gave them a decided setback and it has seemed impossible to get them up to the point they were at this time last year.

In the president's event, which is played squad style, five squads are still in doubt. F. Jamar is the winner of squad 1. Roy Deetz is the winner of squad 5, and Charles Roulo is the winner of squad 6.

In the Bagley, a bonspiel style event, there has as yet been only four games played. Dinham defeated R. J. McLeod, McGregor defeated Pugh, Wagner defeated Woodruff, and C. D. Brewer defeated Charles Roulo.

Play in the Manley-McLennan event was started last night.

The play or forfeit rule was not severe enough to bring the opposing rinks together, and the board of directors, the rink committee, the house committee, and the games committee got together recently and made a rule requiring the contests to begin at 7:45. For every ten minutes that one side shall be kept waiting by the nonappearance of the other they are entitled to count up one point. The rinks have been more prompt in getting down to the club on time since this rule was made.

The St. Louis event is getting down to a point where the end is in sight. This trophy is played for bonspiel style and Macrae, Oldham, Dinham, Feetham, Roulo, C. F. West, Deetz, W. G. Hall, McLennan, Smith and Stillman are still in the race.

The standings in the St. Louis and Herald events follow:

NORTHERNS DEFEATED

Hunter's Park Team Springs Surprise in Hockey Game.

Show Brilliant Form and Defeat Leaders in League Race.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS.

| | P. | W. | L. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Big Duluths | 4 | 4 | 0 |
| Adams | 3 | 2 | 1 |
| Hunter's Parks | 4 | 2 | 2 |
| Northern Juniors | 3 | 1 | 2 |
| Fairmonts | 4 | 0 | 4 |

A surprise was sprung last evening in the City Amateur hockey league circles by the defeat of the Northern Juniors, last year's champions of the league, by the Hunter's Parks, by the score of 4 to 1. Up to the game of last evening the suburbanites had failed to show the class of the Northerns and the defeat caused a great surprise.

In the game of last evening the Northern Juniors lacked team work and the dash that has characterized their work in former games. Unless the juniors can defeat the Adams in their coming contest, they will be out of the running for the pennant.

Steinback, a brilliant player of the Northerns last season, made his appearance with the former champions, but his presence failed to have the desired effect. The Northerns clearly were out of form and failed to play the game they put up against the Big Duluths.

Clark scored first for the Hunter's Parks. Harbison scored the next goal in two minutes. With the score even up, Ted Mackenzie scored the second goal for the suburbanites. In the second half Feetham scored the last net of the game, shooting a clever shot from the side.

The lineup of the two teams:

| Northerns. | Position. | Hunter's Park. |
|---|---|---|
| Feetham | g | Blanchard |
| Caulkins | p | G. MacKenzie |
| MacCrea | c.p | M. Ashley |
| Harbison | r | T. MacKenzie |
| Taylor | r.w | Cargill |
| S. MacCrea | l.w | B. Thayer |
| J. Steinbeck | c | S. Clark |

Referee—John Horn. Timekeeper—Connor. Goal referees—M. Bondy and A. Grant.

HIGH SCHOOL BASKET BALL.

Blaine and Central Teams Will Meet in Important Contest.

Blaine high school, which is reputed to have the strongest basket ball team on the other side of the bay, will clash with Duluth central team in the boys' gymnasium of the Y. M. C. A. this afternoon. The game promises to be one of unusual interest, from the fact that both teams have much at stake.

If the Duluth team wins the victory it will be in line for the Head of the Lakes interscholastic championship and will retrieve itself for the defeat at the hands of Nelson-Dewey. If the Duluth team loses it will be more or less out of the running. If Blaine loses, it will bring a howl of exultation from the gleeful Nelson-Deweyites.

The fur promises to fly.

The teams will await the whistle of the referee in the following fashion:

| Blaine | | Duluth |
|---|---|---|
| J. Bradley | f | Harris |
| W. Bradley | f | Boyle |
| Hoehle | c | Waldron |
| Hansen | g | Johnson |
| Holman | g | Solheim |

Find Girl Not Guilty.

Rugby, N. D., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Selma Franzen, charged with the murder of the illegitimate child of her brother and a hired girl, was found not guilty by the jury. Attorney E. R. Sinkler of Minot was acting for the defense.

ORIGINALITY IN BOXERS

Set Styles of Fighting Has Developed Few Champions in the Past.

Methods of American Pugilists Proved Undoing of "Masters of Style."

(By W. W. Naughton.)

San Francisco, Feb. 5.—Is there a recognized school or method of boxing now or has the game of the glove come to a pass where originality and individuality mean success?

The writer inclines to the latter view.

My reasons for asking the question is that an English critic claims that Fitzsimmons is an exponent of the Mace school. Says the writer in question:

"English boxing reached is apotheosis in Jim Mace. Mace taught Foley in Australia all he knew and found Foley wonderfully apt in the assimilation of fistic knowledge. Then Foley in his turn became a teacher, and from his place in Sydney emanated the wonderful band of Australian boxers—Fitzsimmons, Jackson, Slavin, Dawson, Griffo and others, who overran England and America and beat everyone against whom they were pitted with consummate ease.

"These men were true exponents of the real English style of boxing and upholders of the American school would, in our opinion, be hard put to it to find their equals at the present day. Jackson, could he only revisit these 'glimpses of the moon' would, we feel convinced, be only too delighted to attend to Mr. Johnson's requirements; Bob Fitzsimmons, in his prime, would have proved rather too hot a handful for Messrs. Langford, Ketchell and Papke; and unbeaten George Dawson would be quite equal to holding Battling Nelson at bay; whilst what Griffo would have done to all the featherweights, with the possible exception of Driscoll, will hardly bear thinking about. Truly there were giants in these days and they boxed in the true English style—the old English style which some would have us believe is antiquated and out of date."

There is food for thought here. A fellow with a glib tongue, an active brain and some knowledge of his subject could make a plausible argument along half a dozen different lines. He could undertake to prove that it isn't so much that the English style is antiquated and out-of-date, as that the English opponents of things pugilistic are slower thinking and slower moving than former heroes of the British and Australian prize rings. He could take the stand that the "Mace school" has been absorbed in the American school, and so revamped and improved upon that it has been lost sight of almost entirely, or he could cloud the whole discussion by insisting that every successful boxer is his own schoolmaster. When he instanced such capable performers as Jack Johnson, Stanley Ketchel and Battling Nelson, his position would be a hard one to attack.

Then dally with the Mace school of boxing for a while. There is no denying that when Peter Jackson and Bob Fitzsimmons, George Dawson and a few others came to town from Australia they were a revelation to the followers of the fistic sport.

The most perfect exemplifications of Mace's ideas of the art of self defense were to be found in Peter Jackson's work, yet we have the record for it that Jim Corbett, a self-taught American sapling, stood up to Jackson in battle that almost achieved a record for longevity, and found an antidote for everything that good old Peter with all his vast knowledge of the Mace system attempted.

This is not in disparagement of Jackson, who, I have always held, was one of the greatest heavyweights the game has ever known. But just to suggest that the Mace system was not perfect enough to be overpowering.

As another setback for the Mace school I recall the case of Abe Willis, bantam champion of Australia, who was brought here to box George Dixon before the California Athletic club twenty years ago. Willis was a pupil of Foley, who has been a pupil of Mace. He was a compact compendium of all that was effective in the Mace-Foley system, yet he was virtually licked in the opening round with a punch that Jim Mace himself would have pronounced impossible.

The Mace blows were straight from the shoulder, assaults to which the Englishman still pins his faith. The smash that stung Willis and prevented him from getting in his licks during the five rounds which were boxed, was the left rip that won for Dixon in most of his contests. It started its upward fight somewhere about Willis' hip and it found lodgement beneath his chin. It was the first time in the little Antipodean's life that he had sampled such a crazing, crashing clip from a glove, and no doubt he wondered how it was that the Mace school had not devised a block or getaway for just such cases.

It was plainly to be seen that he did not recover fully from the Dixon rip, and while he fought like a wasp for the better part of five rounds, he was finally "sent to grass."

These are simply one or two instances that occur to me where graduates of the Mace college of boxing ran against snags in the shape of American pugilists, who were known as natural fighters, and claimed allegiance to no particular school. That the invasion of the disciples of Jim had an influence for good on American boxing methods is not to be denied. But as I have stated at the beginning of this article, it looks to me as if the days of the Mace school and all other schools have passed.

Will some one who thinks otherwise please assign Battling Nelson to some particular school? In Nelson's case his face is his fortune. He offers it as a target for the other man's blows until the other man grows weary, and then he wades in and conquers. When Nelson grows stale through length of service, if another Durable Dane can be located, he may fall heir to the Battler's laurels and triumphs over the fellows who hit the real science of boxing down to the finest of points.

Then there is Stanley Ketchell, another world's champion. To what school does he belong? To the writer it appears that Ketchell's method of fighting is merely a succession of shifts. He wades in hand-over-hand and being possessed of rare hitting power, to generally manage to finish his man with the first well-plied punch.

Billy Papke—he of the lifting punches—is another who seems to be the product of no particular school, while Jack Johnson has a private punch which deserves to be known as the Johnson uppercut. Of a certainty all the front rank men in the fighting game appear to be specialists, rather than graduates of any common school.

No Sunday Shows.

New York, Feb. 5.—Sunday vaudeville shows and moving picutre theaters have received a hard blow and New York may have a closed Sunday as a result of a decision of the appellate division of the supreme court in declaring illegal all Sunday performances in theaters except concerts and performances of educational character. The decision affirmed the legality of the ordinance passed by the board of aldermen under which the city sued a theater for violation of the ordinance.

GRAND OLD MAN OF TURF

Edward F. Geers Has Raced and Trained Harness Horses Forty Years.

Almost 60 Years Old, Veteran Still Greatest Driver in America.

(By J. L. Hervey.)

A few days ago I had the pleasure of a chat with the "grand old man of the trotting turf," as his admirers love to call him, Edward F. Geers. He had been indulging in something rather unusual for him—a little pleasure trip North to visit some friends—and stopped off in Chicago for a few hours between trains. Mr. Geers is not only the foremost trainer and driver of harness horses in the world—the dean of the profession—but the hardest-working one as well, and it is but rarely that he forsakes his duties, even during the long winter layup, to "play hookey" solely for the purpose of having a good time.

It was a pleasure to me to see him looking so well. Geers is now getting well on toward 60, and a few years ago he seemed for a season or two to begin to show his age and the strain of the nearly forty seasons of strenuous work in the sulky that he had performed. And this worried the trotting public, for the Tennesseean has so long stood before it, not only as the leader in his profession, but a man whose example was a standing incitement to the rising generation of horsemen to do not only well but worthily—to not only achieve success, but to deserve it —that no one looks forward with equanimity to the day when he will, in the fullness of time, have to relinquish that position. But this proved only temporary. During the past few seasons Geers seems to have renewed his youth. He is rugged and hearty, his bright blue eye is like that of a young man and he appears in every way destined to adorn the grand circuit for many a year to come.

As usual, Geers is wintering his stable at Memphis. It is now nine years since the famous "world's record" track was built there by C. K. G. Billings, and ever since Geers has made it his headquarters. One of the attributes which have helped him much in the attainment of pre-eminence in his profession has been his exemption from that tendency to variability which seems to be ingrained in the average trainer's nature. Having found something which gives satisfactory results, he conforms to it, instead of flying off at a tangent, in chase of a rainbow, at every time the excuse offers—or, if the spirit moves, without an excuse. There are few trainers who can content themselves at the same winter training ground twice in succession. In this respect they are veritable wanderers. No matter how complete the appointments, how pleasing the surroundings, or how good the results attained at a certain track, it is good betting that the next winter finds Mr. Trainer at another one. Of course, he always has a reason—or a dozen of them—for his change of base, and he can set them forth with the greatest plausibility, for, be it known, the trainer is not seldom as good at winning a talking match as he is at driving a race. But the real reason, one may be sure, he will studiously neglect to mention—the same being that a change of scene has become something which his system demands and will have. He has got the wandering habit, and unless he gratifies it, he will be in much the same miserable condition as the dope fiend who is deprived of his opium or chloral.

In Geers, nothing of this tendency has ever manifested itself. Beneath an exterior kindly and easy, he conceals unusual firmness of character and tenacity of purpose—and nothing aside from his inborn skill as a horseman has been more largely accountable for the success that he has won. It largely accounts for the really remarkable manner in which he commands the confidence, as well as the admiration of the public. They feel toward him as probably they have never felt toward but one other trotting trainer. That was the celebrated Hiram Woodruff, who was in his glory in ante-bellum days, and who then occupied practically the same position in the turf world that Geers now does. There are comparatively few men yet alive who ever saw Woodruff drive a race, but in the world where fame is one of the most transitory of all possible things and the hero of today is in oblivion tomorrow, his name is still one which is like unto a beacon light.

Few winters find Geers with less than forty horses in his stable, and it is no wonder that, although as second trainers, he has two exceptionally skillful men—"Lafe" Shaffer and John Benyon—he finds little time to idle. He now has above the forty mark in charge and from them he will sift out the string that he will race on the Great Western and Grand circuit the coming season. They embrace every variety of real or would-be racer from the free-for-aller of national reputation to the unfledged candidate for the colt stakes, and, as usual, it may be depended that the "G. O. M." will select an aggregation which will place him at or near the top of the table of winning drivers for the year.

The fastest trotter by the records, that he has in hand, is the famous bay gelding Highball (2:03¾). This horse, one of the most sensational, also one of the most unlucky, that the turf has ever seen, was unable to get to the post during 1909 owing to lameness, the result of a breakdown in 1908. He had been shifted to the pace, in the hope that, as that gait is notoriously easier upon an ailing leg than the trot, he might stand up at it, but the hope proved fallacious. He hung out the danger signal before the stable was shipped away to the races, in early June, and was at once thrown out of training. After a long let-up he was then put at road work, which he did all the late summer and fall. This did him much good and he has been going sound all the winter thus far. Mr. Geers stated that it would depend entirely upon how he trained, whether he was kept pacing or put back to trotting. A mere difference of two ounces in the weight of his shoes is sufficient to switch him from one gait to the other. It was the opinion of those who saw Highball work at the pace last spring, that, if he had stood up to get even as far as the Detroit meeting, he would have shown a mile in 2:00 or better. If he will stay sound at the trot, Mr. Geeers said simply, "I don't think any horse alive can beat him."

Owing to the uncertainty regarding Highball, the star driver of the stable is, therefore, really The Harvester (2:06¾). We can no longer write the word "unbeaten" opposite his name, for in his last race, late last fall, the wonderful son of Walnut Hall was forced to submit to defeat, sickness having overtaken him after he had won two heats and apparently had his field at his mercy. It was only a temporary illness, and Mr. Geers reports that he is now in the finest possible condition. The task which will be set him this year, in his 5-year-old form, will be the lowering of the world's record for trotting stallions, the 2:02¼ of Cresceus, which has now stood for nine years. In the opinion of the majority of horsemen, if this record is ever beaten, The Harvester will do the trick. His trainer, who is one of the most modest of men, did not say so to me—but I think that such is also his own opinion.

NEWS of the THEATER

AT THE LYCEUM

"A Stubborn Cinderella" Will Open the Week Followed By The Yankee Doodle and the New Franklin Stock Companies.

Of making musical comedies there appears to be no end. In some cases it might be said it would be well if there had been no beginning. That comment, however, does not apply to any of the successes produced by Mort H. Singer, the managing director of the Princess theater, Chicago, whose latest success, "A Stubborn Cinderella," will be seen here at the Lyceum, Sunday afternoon and evening and Monday evening.

"A Stubborn Cinderella" was written by Messrs. Hough and Adams, with music by Joseph Howard, who are also the authors of Mr. Singer's past successes, "The Time, the Place and the Girl," "Honeymoon Trail," "The Girl Question," "Prince of Tonight," "The Girl at the Helm," "The Goddess of Liberty," "The Golden Girl," etc., and has been pronounced to be superior to any of the above successes.

This play, captioned "the quality musical comedy," had a run of over 400 performances in Chicago, running all through the torrid summer.

The authors have succeeded in getting a great deal into this piece, including a large section of that improbability which acts as spice to the development of the story. This is illustrated by the fact being made known early that the heroine is a young person who, until she meets the fun-loving hero of her imagination, has never spoken with a young man. It is very easy to imagine what mirthful situations may be made out of such unprecedented innocence. When the story is developed, it is observable that the hero, known as "Mac," a student in a co-ed school, is in disgrace for misconduct. This is no new experience, and the opening scene is taken up by a lot of college pranks, in which the scholars of both sexes participate. Up to this point no complaint can be made that matters are not progressing in a spirited manner. But they grow even more so on the arrival of Lady Leslie upon the scene.

Lady Leslie is the daughter of a severe Scotch family which has studiously prevented her from associating with the opposite sex. She takes a deep interest in "Mac," which is heartily reciprocated and her thirst for knowledge is insatiable. In fact at times "Mac" is stumped to answer her questions.

The action shifts from the college to the border of Mexico, and during a halt caused by a railroad wreck, "Mac" tells Lady Leslie the story of "Cinderella." With great naivette she declares her love for him. He insists that he is not worthy of her, but she is stubborn, says he is and, of course, womanlike, has her way.

The girl contingent comes in very extensively. They take part as archer girls, Scotch girls in kilt costumes, ballet girls, bathing girls, Mexican girls and other varieties which lend themselves delightfully to the picturesque graces of the various scenes. The incidental songs and choruses are plentiful and melodious.

The large cast is headed by Homer B. Mason, who plays the part of "Mac" vigorously and humorously. The production is a big one, requiring three special baggage cars to transport the scenery, electrical effects and necessary properties. The company carries a working crew of eight special stage mechanics and electricians.

"ST. ELMO."

The Yankee Doodle Stock Company in Stage Version of Popular Novel.

The Yankee Doodle Stock company will play a three nights' engagement at the Lyceum commencing with a Wednesday matinee Feb. 9 in a clever dramatization of Augusta Evans Wilson's popular novel "St. Elmo."

The story deals with the redemption of a gentleman, of St. Elmo Murray, through the example of a young girl.

In his youth a generous hearted soul of refinement and intellect, he becomes embittered through the baseness and deception of a friend and plunges into dissipation and vice until nothing but the brute in him remains.

Until he is 35 years of age he continues his wild life and then a young girl, Edna Earl, comes into his life and by her patience and forbearance, he is led back to himself again.

The play contains a delightful vein of comedy and an abundance of heart interest.

It will be played on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights and at the Wednesday matinee.

The company has been materially strengthened.

MELODRAMA AT LYCEUM.

New Franklin Stock Company Coming in "Chinatown Charlie."

At the Lyceum on Tuesday night, Feb. 8, George V. Haliday will present his new Franklin Stock company, recently organized in Superior, in the sensational melodramatic success, "Chinatown Charlie."

The piece will be produced from the original manuscript and with all the properties and effects that made the New York production such a genuine success.

The story is that of the regeneration of a young man, the son of wealthy parents, who contracted the opium habit and became a hop fiend and who was reformed through the love of a girl whom he saved from the streets of Chinatown.

The piece abounds in startling situations and effects, and contains a generous mixture of comedy and pathos. It is melodrama pure and simple, but it teaches its moral in a strikingly effective manner.

The company has never been seen before in Duluth.

"Chinatown Charlie" will be played for one performance only, that of Tuesday night.

Lyceum Notes.

Among the early bookings at the Lyceum is Henry B. Harris' production of James Forbes' latest comedy success, "The Traveling Salesman," which will be seen here on Monday, and Tuesday, Feb. 14 and 15, with the Eastern metropolitan cast. Mr. Forbes in his latest effort has produced "life on the road" as successfully as he depicted "life behind the scenes," in "The Chorus Lady." The story of "The Traveling Salesman," the scenes of which are laid in Grand Crossing, a village of the Middle West, opens on Christmas day. The first act shows the interior of the railway station, with the meeting of the principal characters, Bob Blake, the traveling salesman, and Beth Elliott, the pretty telegraph operator. Beth owns a piece of apparently worthless land, which suddenly acquires value since it is necessary to a scheme of improvement planned by the railroad company. Blake's employer tries to defraud the girl of her property through a perversion of the law governing the sale of land by the township for unpaid taxes. Of course Bob Blake comes to the rescue. The second act transpires in the drummer's room in the Elite hotel and here is shown what is regarded by everyone who has seen the play, the most laughable situation ever employed by a playwright—a poker game.

The play is a series of laughs from start to finish, and if the New York, Chicago and Boston critics are to be credited it is the most mirth-provoking comedy seen in years.

The company which Mr. Harris will send to this city will be one of exceptional merit, made up of metropolitan players who were so contributory to the remarkable success of the attraction during its long runs in the East.

Without redcoats or gunshots, without politics or prison scenes, Bernard Daly and his new romantic Irish play, "Sweet Innisfallen," will tour the country this season appearing in Duluth on Feb. 18 and 19 at the Lyceum.

"Metz in Ireland," the new play in which that popular singing comedian, Al. H. Wilson, will be seen at the Lyceum, is said to be the best vehicle that he has ever had. This season Mr. Wilson has composed several new songs which he sings. Manager Sidney R. Ellis promises a cast of New York actors and an elaborate equipment of scenery, costumes and electric effects.

Of the many books that have been written, none has caused so much laughter as "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," by Anne Warner. May Robson, the well-known comedienne, while reading the novel, saw in the character of Aunt Mary, herself, and one that she had long looked for. Miss Warner, who dramatized the book, making it one of the best comedies ever presented to the theatergoing public, has added more comedy than is in the original story. L. S. Sire, under whose management Miss Robson is starring, has spared no pains or money in staging the production. Miss Robson's supporting company is a strong one. Many new and novel stage effects will be found in "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," which is coming to Duluth.

Louis James will be here in the near future in an elaborate revival of Henry VIII.

This season Aphie James will again be his leading lady and appear as Queen Kathrine. The supporting company and production will be up to the usual excellence of this organization.

AT THE BIJOU

An Excellent Bill of Modern Vaudeville Will Open Monday Afternoon and Continue All Next Week.

The difficulty of preventing acts of a similar nature coming to the Bijou week after week is one of the hardest tasks of a manager, but the bill that will open at the Bijou Monday afternoon will be entirely different from that which preceded it. On the program will be both American and European acts, and it would be hard to say just which act of the coming week is entitled the headline attraction of the program, as each is a first-class attraction.

On the bill will be the famous troupe of European gymnasts, "The Five Laagards." This act is one of the best in this line and one that has appeared at the leading hippodromes and music halls of Europe. It is their first visit to America, and their new and sensational feats will be a surprise to all who see them.

Few people who attend theaters have not seen or heard of the oldest team in the show business, namely, Fox and Ward, the noted and well-known minstrels. They have appeared before the footlights as a team for over forty years, joining the old Carncross Minstrels when they were young boys, and from that time to the present they have appeared in all the leading minstrel organizations of the country. They have made nine different tours of Europe, besides having been featured in some of the big city musical comedies, and have again returned to vaudeville in which they are making the same big success they have always made. There are few minstrel comedians today who can compare with Fox and Ward, whose interpretation of the Southern negro is perfect. They deal out comedy that offers a laugh every second.

What is considered to be the biggest and most pretentious sketch that has ever appeared at the Bijou will be "The Man From Minnesota," presented by the Charles Lindholm-Joseph Creaghen company. There are five people in the act and when it was recently played at Minneapolis the press of that city described the piece as being the best that had ever appeared in Minneapolis. Manager Elliott of the Unique theater of that city says that the sketch, "The Man From Minnesota," proved to be the biggest drawing card that he has ever played, breaking all business records. The act includes Charles Lindholm, who was the principal comedian with the Ferris Stock company in Minneapolis for several seasons, where he was a great favorite. Joseph Creaghen has been a musical comedy star for years as well as Miss Myra Kelly and Ivy Stuttz. In the act is also Louis Le Velle, who has appeared in Duluth in grand and comic opera and is one of the best-known singers that has deserted the musical shows to take up vaudeville.

Frank Whitman, the dancing violinist, is rightly named. There are violinists of various kinds, but none who combined the melodies from this instrument with expert dancing. Whitman's act is a distinct novelty. His playing is claimed to be delightful, his dancing artistic, and his fun making fast and furious.

Another European feature that will be one of the leading attractions will be Mier and Mora in their artistic combination of songs, dances, music and juggling. A feature of this act will be Miss Mora, who is considered to be Scotland's most clever comedienne. They carry a complete set of special scenery for their act, and it is one of the prettiest costumed acts that has appeared at the Bijou this season.

Earl Morse will sing, illustrated, the now popular song hit entitled "The Hat My Father Wore."

The moving pictures, which close the performance, will be up to the usual good standard, showing only exclusive subjects, with the new 1910 motograph.

Matinees are given daily at 2:45 and night performances at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved by either telephone. Special school children's matinee at 2:30 Saturday afternoon when all scholars under 14 years of age will be admitted for 5 cents. Performances are given Sunday afternoon and night.

GOSSIP OF THE RIATLO

Maxine Elliott's New Play "The Inferior Sex," Pleasing — William Vaughn Moody's "The Faith Healer" Disappointing — Dixey's New Play a Failure.

New York, Feb. 5.—Maxine Elliott's new comedy vehicle, "The Inferior Sex," in which she made her appearance last week at Daly's is of a light but amusing farcical consistency. It was written by Frank Stayton, an English playwright. The plot deals with a woman hater and the woman who reforms him. The scene is laid aboard Charles Winslow's yacht, the Firefly, and the entire action of three acts takes place in mid-ocean.

He has taken to the main in order to be undisturbed in writing his book on the inferior sex, when his yacht picks up a small boat in which Eve Addison, a young lady novelist, has ben tempest tossed for thirty-six hours. Winslow is most inhospitable, almost rude. But he has to make a virtue of necessity. Eve pre-empts his bunk, turns the cabin into a boudoir, and as he refuses to put her ashore, stirs up a mutiny among the crew. The mutiny assumes a more serious character than Eve bargained for, and they have to barricade the cabin. Winslow is stabbed in the leg, but with Eve's assistance and that of the butler, Bennett, the men are subdued, while the strangely assorted trio navigate the craft until their signal of distress is seen by a British passenger steamer. An officer comes aboard and Eve is taken off, but not until the woman hater has asked for her address and promised to "make himself agreeable when they shall meet again in London.

Miss Elliott was most charming as Eve and Arthur Byron was excellent as Winslow. Except for the incidental share in the action of the crew, the plot is carried by Eve, Winslow and the butler, and the latter, at the hands of O. B. Clarence, had by no means a minor share in the acting honors. The piece moves over the boards at a lively tempo, and there is an abundance of good lines and laughable situations, but the tendency of the plot is so obvious at all times that the outcome is seen as soon as the curtain rises. The first two acts are better than the last. An amusing situation is created when both realize that there are no accommodations aboard for ladies. They agree ot share the bunk equally, Eve sleeping at night and Winslow in the daytime. As Eve is not prepared for her visit, Bennett considerately lays out a pair of pajamas for her, and the crew turn themselves into ladies' maids in her service.

"The Faith Healer" has not made the expected impression here, and is to be taken off. Frank Keenan will take Henry Miller's place at the Savoy in a new play, "The Heights," in which the actor himself had a literary hand, I hear. "The Faith Healer" is the second play from the pen of William Vaughn Moody, who, as you know, wrote "The Great Divide." Naturally his new play created a wonderful interest, although the fact that it had been tried on tour and then been given a rest made people skeptical. It failed to create interest and the majority of the papers slated it unmercifully. When it was produced here it had been considerably altered. It ran smoothly enough, but the life-thrill was not there. With scenes laid in Southwest Missouri, it is little characteristic of Missouri in its characters.

The plot deals with the miracles of faith cure in one Ulrich Michaelis, who comes out of a New Mexican desert, like a prophet of old, and is conducted to the home of a prosperous farmer named Beeler, whose wife he cures of paralysis by prayer. His fame has long ere this spread along the countryside, and invalids from all sections flock to Beeler's house to see this doer of wonders and be cured of their bodily ills. In the crucial moment love for the niece of the farmer destroys his power, and the clamorous mob invades his house Easter morning. He tells them his power is gone, but declares that another will come after him to carry on his work.

As he is about to take his departure the girl sacrifices her love for the inspired one by disclosing the fact that she has sinned and is not worthy of him, and presently the healer is confronted by the man who wronged her, a young physician summoned to treat Mrs. Beeler. In the scene between the two men and the girl the healer's nobility of character triumphs over the materialistic doctor; a higher love enters his soul and his power miraculously returns. With their love purified Michaelis turns from the girl to perform his wonders on the waiting mob.

Henry Miller on the whole was heavy in the part, and a fantastic make-up did not help him. Jessie Bonstelle acted the girl intelligently, but without special force, while Theodore Friebus, as the young physician, was rather good, and Robert McWade scored in the role of an old negro.

Henry E. Dixey farced no better than Henry Miller in the new comedy in which he appeared at Weber's theater. It is called "Mr. Buttles," and was written by Frederic Arnold Kummer, a new author. The piece has a unique idea for its basis.

The butler of an English country estate, whose owner, the young Earl of Everdun, has run out of money and prepares to close the Towers and dismiss the servants, proposes to the earl to take over the place and run it on a profit-taking basis with the rest of the servants. The necessary revenue is to be provided by the visiting guests in the shape of tips. He arranges with the earl to pay him a royalty of £300, and Everdun departs for Paris, leaving his chauffeur, who bears an extraordinary resemblance to him, in his place as master of the house.

This chauffeur is really a disguised newspaper man and a George Bernard Shaw Socialist, and he uses his opportunity to fall in love with an American girl, whose father is a Chicago pork magnate and mother a determined tuft hunter. The last two acts are consumed in sketching the intrigues of the various guests, including a double elopement, in which Mr. Buttles, the enterprising butler, naturally plays the role of the confidant of all the parties.

The piece went astray because Buttles, after the first act, does not maintain himself on the level of interest that his novel proposition leads us to expect, and the complications set forth are not sufficiently unique to excite either great merriment or suspense. Dixey was only passively amusing in the title role. The piece will come off tonight and Dixey will look around for a new play.

To offset these two failures, Broadway experienced a relief in a special matinee performance at Daly's, in which Marguerite Clark, the dainty, diminutive musical-comedy starlet, appeared as the heroine of "The Wishing Ring," by Owen Davis. This is no fairy drama, but a straight character comedy. Owen Davis, the author, has a reputation in another field of dramatic activity. Some of the most gruesome penny thrillers of the minor stage are charged against him, but though he got the inspiration for "The Wishing Ring" from a short story of Dorothea Deakin, he has given it the charm of a remarkable simplicity of construction and style.

The scene is laid in rural England, and deals with the capture of a rose thief, who has been regularly pilfering Mr. Annesley's fine rose garden. The invader proves to be a queer little thing in cotton gown and a broad straw hat, named Sally, and her captor is the sturdy young Giles, who is taking care of the Annesley rose garden. Sally is a quaint, old-fashioned little thing, quite as quaint, old-fashioned and charitable as her father, the dried-up little village parson, who is giving everything away to the needy and has little left for himself and Sally, who runs his household.

Sally only came over the garden wall to gather roses for the communion table, and had no notion of wrongdoing, which Giles soon realizes. Of course he falls in love with her, but Sally is made unhappy when she discovers that her rich American girl friend, whom she calls the Goddess Girl, also has a love affair with a certain gardener closely connected with Mr Annesley's rose garden. Although this is William, Sally imagines that it is Giles, and it is not till the last that the truth is revealed to her. Then it comes out that Giles is the scion of Bates Hall and has run away from his father because of a family quarrel and become custodian of the Annesley rose garden.

There is nothing startling in all this. It sounds like a modern edition of "Cinderella," and it may be very sentimental and juvenile. But I wish that all of you might see Marguerite Clark play Sally and William Norris the parson. She is the daintiest little body on the stage and her art has the artlessness of nature. She is as quaint and old-fashioned and as pretty and merry as a Dresden doll, if that simile will do, and she draws the character of Sally with a persuasiveness of manner and grace that reflects in the highest terms of her acting ability.

The performance was little more than a try-out, and the company was the same that supported Miss Clark at the regular evening performances of "The King of Cadonia," which closed last Saturday night to make room for Maxine Elliott, in "The Inferior Sex." Robert Dempster played Giles, Melville Stewart was William, Clara Palmer was the Goddess Girl, and Albert Gran acted as Mr. Bates of Bates Hall. Miss Palmer, who is known only in musical comedy, gave a remarkably good account of herself in the emotional scene, in which she dismisses William, on discovering that he is not, as she supposed, the rich Mr. Annesley in disguise, though she afterward lures the truant back again, as Shakespeare has it. Very likely "The Wishing Ring" will become a regular evening attraction at another theater ere long.

Another substantial hit scored was Paul Armstrong's adaptation of O. Henry's short story "A Retrieved Reformation," produced at Wallack's the other night under the title of "Alias Jimmy Valentine." It introduces H. B. Warner, a young English actor and son of the late famous star in "Drink." Though he was eminently qualified for the role of the reformed convict, it was the big situation in the last act, showing the ex-safebreaker exercising his marvelous skill of opening a bank vault by the touch of his fingers to save the little girl who has been entombed in the prison of steel, which landed the piece one of the season's successes.

This is one of the most stirring scenes of any melodrama seen in New York in a term of years. It showed Warner to be an excellent actor, and it gave Laurette Taylor a chance to add to her already well established popularity, who loves the ex-convict. The piece is a rattling good thieves' comedy, opening with a scene in the warden's office of Sing Sing prison. Rose Lane (Miss Taylor) recognizes in Jimmy Valentine, a convict led out for the inspection of a group of benevolent women interested in prison reforms, a young man who protected her from insult on a New York Central train. She influences her uncle, the lieutenant governor, to pardon him, and her father, a banker of Springfield, Ill., to give him a position of trust in his bank. After three years the former convict is discovered by Doyle, a New York detective, who has a warrant for his arrest on a charge of crime committed in Massachusetts. Randall, alias Valentine, has lived an upright life, and expects to marry Rose. The banker believes in him and his future is rosy, when Doyle obtrudes himself upon the scene.

But Randall outwits the man-hunter by proving an alibi, and the detective is leaving the room, confessing himself defeated, when the bank watchman bursts into the office and exclaims that Rose's little sister has been accidentally shut up in the iron vault in the basement of the bank. The vault has only been completed and the combination is not yet set. The detective pauses in the half open door to listen. All his life he has wished to see Valentine do the trick of opening a safe by touch. If he now performs that feat he has proof positive that Randall is Valentine, the bank burglar.

Randall responds to the call of humanity. The stage grows dark for an instant. When the lights are flashed forth again we see him at work in the cellar with the watchman by his side, his coat off, working his marvelous feat on the combination. In the door in the foreground, concealed in the semi-gloom, stands the sleuth, alert. The precious seconds pass as Randall works away at the lock. He rubs his fingers on sand paper till they bleed, to add to the sensitiveness of his touch. He has the watchman tie a handkerchief over his eyes to concentrate his faculties. After repeated attempts, during which the suspense is wrought up to the highest pitch, he gives a cry of triumph. A twist of the handle and the huge steel door opens. The little girl falls, half asphyxiated, into the arms of the faithful watchman, and Randall half collapses from the strain.

GEORGE V. HOLIDAY,
Organizer of the Franklin Stock Company, Which Will Be Seen at the Lyceum Next Week.

When his eyes open again they fall upon the relentless man-hunter and he knows that the game is up. But Rose has silently entered by another door and been a witness of the scene. Even the detective's heart is melted by the tender farewell of the lovers, and saying that perhaps Rose wants him worse than the state of Massachusetts he gives up the quest and goes out.

Armstrong has done some clever work in elaborating the little story into a four-act play. The acts tell it all in a clear-cut manner, with apt embellishments of witty dialogue and good, strong character-drawing. The piece is highly improbable, but the incidents come in such rapid succession that no time is given for deliberate analysis and the drama rushes hotpace to a thundering climax.

Besides Warner as Randall, and Miss Taylor as Rose, the Liebler company has provided a good actor for each part. Frank Monroe is notably good as Doyle, James E. Wilson, as Rose's father; Edmond Elton, as Bill Avery, and Earl Brown, as Red Joclyn, two reformed pals of Valentine, as well as Harold Hartsell as Handler, the warden. The play made an instantaneous hit.

Henry B. Harris is to present Percy Mackaye's play, "The Scarecrow," next season, with Edgar Selwyn in the title role. The piece has had a hard time finding a producer, as it was originally written for Richard Mansfield. James K. Hackett, George Orliss and Frank Keenan were others mentioned as possible occupants of the leading role, but nothing ever materialized until the present announcement. Possibly Harris will change his mind, thus placing Selwyn with the above mentioned.

Charles Frohman made his sixteenth original stage production this season in presenting Miss Ethel Barrymore in Sir Arthur Wing Pinero's "Mid-Channel" at the Empire theater last Monday night. There could scarcely be a more inviting bill than Ethel Barrymore, returned to the stage, in a new Pinero play. The announcement fairly bristles with interest. "Mid-Channel," with Miss Barrymore in the character of Zoe Blundell, is announced by Mr. Frohman for a two months' engagement at the Empire theater, "no more, no less." The play is in four acts and it is the first serious work of Sir Arthur Pinero's to find production in America since "His House in Order." Briefly put, the story of "Mid-Channel" is as follows:

It seems that midway between Folkstone and Boulogne in the English channel there is a reef over which the sea, however smooth elsewhere, is always troubled. At that spot, however agreeable you may be before or after, you are uncomfortable and grumpy. So, it is explained in the typically expository speech in Pinero's new play, there is a "mid-channel" phase in every marriage. The Blundells—Theodore and Zoe—have reached the "mid-channel." Theodore Blundell and Zoe, his wife, have got on each other's nerves. Zoe is harassed by Theo's bad temper and tendency to bully. Theo is harassed by Zoe's vixenish temper and by her troop of "boys." They are thus at cat-and-dog. Their old friend Peter Mottram's channel parable makes them momentarily ashamed and they kiss again with tears. To patch up things, Theo offers Zoe a fortnight in Paris, and sits down then and there to telegraph for rooms at a hotel. But he chooses a hotel not entirely to Zoe's extravagant taste and she declares she will not stay in Paris at any hotel that is not "top hole." Then Theo flares up and there is the usual scene customary with them all over again. Zoe rushes out of the room screaming to her husband that he can go to the devil; thereupon he packs up his bag and leaves the house. This is the way the piece opens. The people of the play are typical Pinero types—strongly drawn and finely chiseled.

Klaw & Erlanger's "Rebecca, of Sunnybrook Farm," has taken a wonderful hold on Boston audiences. The growth of interest in the play has been steady. It is one of those productions whereof audiences become the best medium of advertising. Full of radiant optimism, it cheerfully violates dramatic traditions and gives the most critical no chance but just to fall in love with the girl who says, "It is just as good to be alive." Kate Douglas Wiggin has put a lot of wit and philosophy into the mouths of her characters.

Judging from the speeches and reports of the unveiling of the Wallace statue, the fame of Gen. Lew Wallace rests almost solely upon his authorship of "Ben Hur." Little was said or written about his career as a soldier or a diplomat. Klaw & Erlanger's production of "Ben Hur" was playing in Washington at the time of the unveiling. The guests at the exercises attended performances of the great play. "Ben Hur" goes into the Boston theater shortly for a brief engagement. The company, headed by Richard Buhler, is one of the best ever assembled to interpret the great Biblical drama.

W. S. Hart, who is playing the role of Dan Stark, in Klaw & Erlanger's production of "The Barrier," has used as a model for makeup his recollection of "Wild Bill" Hickock, the greatest gun fighter that ever lived. Hickock had a strong, powerful figure. He was the typical Western sheriff and gambler of the seventies. He always wore a sombrero, black coat and trousers, a narrow black string tie, white shirt and carried his gun in his suspenders. Hart as a boy knew Hickock. His recollections of him are vivid. In "The Barrier" he is revived as realistically as the character and the situations permit.

One of the biggest theatrical hits of the year has been made by "just a plain dog," discovered by Will Carleton, the stage manager of "Little Nemo," Klaw & Erlanger's big musical comedy, which is now playing in the South. A dog was needed in a burlesque which Joe Cawthorn, the comedian, was using in the play. Carleton found the animal actor, a yellow, shivering "mutt," hanging about the stage alley. He was a sorry sight. Objection was made to his presence in the theater but Carleton had faith in him. A bath, a little food and more kindness and "Flip," as he was named, began to expand. He took to his work right away. After his first few appearances in public, he began to wear a distinguished look and it seemed as if he might be on the brink of enlargement of the head. But he seemed to look important simply because he was with the largest show on the road, and thought that he should do this mite toward maintaining the dignity of the organization.

That the dog is a marvel of intelligence is shown by the fact that he knows his cue as well as the seasoned actor. The animal pays no attention to the various musical numbers of the show, running around below the stage as if nothing was going on. But when the orchestra strikes up the air "It's the Irish," for Joe Cawthorn's song, Flip is a different dog. He tears madly at the steps leading to the stage and ascends them three at a time. He remembers that to cross the stage in view of the audience would be wrong and so goes to the back wall behind the scenery and crosses over to his place. He knows his proper entrance and goes to it without coaxing or instructions. He jumps in the shaft of his sled and takes the bit in his mouth and when the real cue for his appearance comes, he is tugging away so that it is hard to hold him, so anxious is he to get out before the footlights and contribute his share of the entertainment. To show that the dog has friends, there have been sixty-eight applications requesting permission to take him when the season closes.

All Chicago continues to talk about the great newspaper play, "The Fourth Estate," which is now entering upon its sixth week at the Grand Opera house, with every prospect that it will be necessary to give an extra matinee some day to accommodate those disappointed theatergoers, who were not wise enough to secure their seats for the regular performances far in advance.

Despite the fact that the demand for seat, for "The Fourth Estate" is the biggest by far of any play in Chicago, and one of the greatest in the last half dozen years, the management have succeeded in keeping tickets completely out of the hands of speculators and out-of-town patrons who write or telephone in advance to the theater are able to get seats in any location they wish, provided they do so sufficiently far ahead.

The management have succeeded in adding one more week to the time allotted originally to "The Fourth Estate," and it consequently will remain at the Grand until Feb. 13.

No play in many years has succeeded in arousing the discussion which has been caused by the big theme of "The Fourth Estate," and its pitiless, bald, brutal exposition of the forces and corruptions which are endeavoring to dominate the honest man and honest enterprise today, as well as the delightful love affair of the two principal characters, send every spectator of the play an enthusiastic herald of its merits.

The thrilling realism of the composing and pressroom scene of the big newspaper are so vivid, unusual, and show such might mechanical power in operation that it grips the spectator as no other scene in the theatrical world today can do, and the audience is invariably half out of its seats with excitement at the climax of the big situation. The cast remains absolutely intact, and includes Pauline Frederick, Charles Waldron, Charles A. Stevenson, Alice Fischer, Tom Findlay, Robert McWade, Thomas Thorne, Tom Hadaway, Jr., and Mary Marshall.

All New York and Chicago as well is laughing at "Seven Days," the new comedy which Wagonhals & Kemper are offering simultaneously in New York at the Astor, and at the Illinois theater, Chicago. "Seven Days" is a scream from start to finish without a dull moment, and it will not bring a blush to the youngest person who sees it. The characters are some of the smart set, quarantined in their house in New York, through the illness of the cook, and their attempts to escape through the coal hole, and the windows are very funny.

Max Rogers and Maude Raymond in "The Young Turk," under the direction of Klaw & Erlanger, is the current attraction at the New York theater. The musical play is now in two acts. The first is laid in New York city, and the second in Constantinople. The music is by Max Hoffman, book by Aaron Hoffman and lyrics by Harry Williams. In the cast are Violet McMillan, Frederick V. Bowers, John Dunsmore and Joseph Carey and a big singing and dancing chorus. The plot tells the story of a young American who becomes involved in a Turkish revolution. The best songs are "I'll Be Happy Too" "Parisian Glide," and "Oriental Moon." Miss Raymond has a very amusing number in "I Thought I Wanted Opera." Max Rogers plays a dialect role, similar to the ones assumed by him in the series of entertainments which the Rogers' brothers made famous. "The Young Turk" is at the New York for a limited engagement.

William Faversham has secured the American rights to Conan Doyle's play, "The House of Temperly," which has achieved a great success at Adelphi theater, London. In securing the American rights, Mr. Faversham must impersonate the leading role. The story of the play is laid in England at the time of Napoleon. One of the features of the play is a prize fight, much after the manner of the famous bout in Doyle's popular novel, "Rodney Stone." It is Mr. Faversham's purpose to produce this play after the completion of his season in "Herod."

Guy Standing, who was in the cast when Henry Miller produced "The Servant in the House" in London, is now appearing in the British capital with Amelia Bingham, in her vaudeville sketch, called "Great Moments From Great Plays." Miss Bingham has just acquired the rights for America of a comedy which is called "The Violet Widow," and which she will produce here next season.

Margaret Anglin has secured the right to Maeterlinck's medieval drama, "Sister Beatrice," and has also arranged with Percy Mackaye to deliver a comedy to her next December.

Crystal Herne did not fare well with her first starring venture. The comedy, "Miss Phelura," which Henry Blossom wrote for her, and in which Liebler & Co., starred her, did not prove to be very satisfactory, with the result that the play has been abandoned.

The new Shubert theater in Boston was opened last week by Sothern and Marlowe. Not the least interesting feature of the opening was the fact that the night's receipts amounted to $2,700.

Edith Wynn Matthison has joined the New Theater company. Her first appearance will be in Maurice Maeterlinck's "Sister Beatrice," to be produced shortly. Miss Matthison is the wife of Charles Rann Kennedy, in whose "The Servant in the House," and "The Winterfest" she made her last appearances in America.

E. H. Sothern, about fifteen months ago gave the plot of a play he had in his mind to two dramatists. It deals with a woman-hater who is forced into close social relations with a member of the deserted sex. One of them was Frank Stayton, an English playwright; the other was Agnes Bangs Morgan of New York. The two writers set about their task, and when Miss Morgan had completed hers, calling it "The Pilot," she submitted it to Mr. Sothern and it was accepted. In the meantime Mr. Stayton completed his. Mr. Stayton's version fell into the hands of Maxine Elliott and it was produced at Daly's theater last week under the title of "The Inferior Sex." Miss Morgan, whose play is still to be staged, was painfully surprised when the nature of Miss Elliott's play was disclosed in a published synopsis in a Canadian newspaper, and talked of legal proceedings, but deferred action on receiving assurances that her play would be produced in due time by Mr. Sothern and Julia Marlowe. The plays are very similar except in the climaxes.

A. . Delamater and William Norris, who produced a dramatization of George Barr McCutcheon's "Beverly" last spring, will dramatize John Fox's novel, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," this spring. Robert M. Baker of Boston, who dramatized "Beverly," has finished the dramatization of Fox's novel.

Lew Fields is to give up "Old Dutch" this summer for a big musical review which is now in course of preparation.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The office of business manager of the Zenith is one of the most important offices in connection with the senior class publication. Next to the editor-in-chief, the business manager has more responsibility than anyone else on the Zenith board. The success of the book, especially the financial side, is largely due to the work of the business manager, and for this reason the office must be filled by a competent person.

Lloyd Burg, who holds this office in the class of 1910 is well deserving of the honor. He takes an active part in school life, is liked by the pupils of the senior class, and under his management the annual publication is certain to be a financial success.

LLOYD BURG,
Business Manager of the Zenith.

Examinations are over and Monday morning the second semister begins. The marks have not yet been given out, but the cards came out Monday and the students are anxiously awaiting the outcome of their examinations.

* * *

The junior class held its regular meeting Wednesday afternoon, but there were no matters of importance discussed. The meeting was interesting, however, as a letter received by Stanley Lamb, president of the class, from Miss Wells, was read.

Miss Wells thanked the class for the flowers they sent to her during her illness at St. Luke's hospital and assured them she would be back next June.

Miss Wells left Duluth for her home in Saginaw, Mich., two weeks ago yesterday, and although she is far from being entirely well, she is improving rapidly and her statement that she would again be at Central next year was good news to all the pupils.

Although defeated at Combridge last Friday night, the debating team is not at all discouraged, and under the coaching of Mr. Brackett the members of the team as well as the members of the Forum, are working hard. A week from Monday two teams will be picked from the Forum and a debate to which all the students are invited, will be held. One week from Friday the first team will meet a team composed of alumni during chapel exercises.

The illness of Miss Taylor is delaying the senior class play, as Mr. Custance says he is unable to proceed with it until Miss Taylor returns to school. Miss Taylor is expected to be back Monday and in all probability Mr. Custance will begin choosing the cast and hold the first rehearsal next week.

The freshman basket ball team is surely on the road to the championship, having defeated both the senior and junior teams, which victories will put the first year boys in the championship series with the leading team of the other three classes. This is the first year since the inter-class basket ball league has been organized that a freshmen team will be represented in the championship series.

The school basket ball team is playing the Blaine team of Superior this afternoon, and the seating capacity of the Boy's Y. M. C. A. will certainly be tested.

The election of Roy Johnson to the captaincy of the football team for next fall was good news to the high school pupils. Johnson is popular with the students and one of the best athletes in school. His playing at right tackle on the football team was unexcelled by any player put against him last season. He is also a star basket ball player, holding down guard on this year's team.

The midwinter musical concert took place in the school auditorium last night and a large number of the pupils attended. A collection was taken up for the Smith memorial fund, which is being raised by the high school alumni association.

The new high school pins have been sent for and are expected to be here in about three weeks.

THE TALE OF THE ONE-EYED CAT, THE ONE-EYED MAN AND THE SUPERSTITIOUS WOODSMAN

This is a tale of a one-eyed cat on a one-eyed man at the fateful hour of 1.

The stirring incidents of this panhandled tragedy happened in a Bowery saloon after closing hours the other morning to the edification of the gentlemen who mops the bar and slings sundry liquids across to lubricate the whistles of various lumberjacks wearied from the trying journey up the hill from the union passenger station.

Two 'jacks were playing a quiet game of seven-up for the drinks and one became involved financially. He had held a king, tray and jack of hearts, and had given his opponent one point. His companion thereupon proceeded to take the tray with a ten of trumps on the first lead, yielded a paltry four spot to the king on the third lead and regaining the lead on the fourth hand with a deuce he swung with the ace and caught his opponent's jack. He had made high, low, jack and the game, and had secured a gift of one point.

No one, no matter how deft the fingers and how rapid the movements of the hands, could beat this kind of luck. The loser was bankrupt and his only collateral was a dollar watch and a bottle of squirrel whisky. His opponent regarded his own pile of chips thoughtfully, caressed a blue one lovingly and then issued an ultimatum that "money talks."

The other 'jack turned to ask Boots, the genial barkeep, if the house was in a reckless mood and would buy a drink, when he saw a sleeping form in the corner back of the stove. Closer inspection revealed the battle scarred visage of one who may for present purposes be known as Bingo, the Human Canthook Fiend, or the King of the Broadax. The penniless 'jack knew Bingo sufficiently well to presume on acquaintance.

"I'll borry two bits off'n him," said the 'jack senteniously as he shuffled over to the recumbent sleeper. At the sound of the hobnailed boots a bundle of fur on the breast of the inert man uncurled itself, a red mouth yawned and a gaunt cat, whose fur was like shredded shadows of night, arched its back and its one eye, gleaming malevelently, transfixed the startled 'jack. He remembered vagrely something of younger days and hurriedly crossed himself.

The man at the table rose unsteadily, mouthed an oath and directed a torrent of words at his companion delivering a blasphemous impeachment against that gentleman's courage and valor, harsh words that under normal circumstances would be answered with avenging wallop of brawny fist.

With a well directed kick the boot of the second 'jack lifted the snarling cat. The animal described a parabola and landed on all four feet where it stood grotesquely, spitting, its back in a sharp curve, its tail distended. Its one eye shed a baleful ray that struck terror to the first lumberjack who leaned unsteadily against the ice box and clutched spasmodically at the wet bar towel.

The second 'jack bestowed a withering look of contempt on his companion and turned the sleeping man on his side. He started to reach for the sleeper's pistol pocket which bulged as though it contained a wallet when the unconscious man's face came full into the light and one eye gave forth a phosphoric gleam that reduced the first lumberjack to a state of blubbering helplessness and so paralyzed the second that his hand stopped in midair and he balanced on one knee over the sleeper like the guardian angel in a tableau at a society pageant.

The second 'jack though dazed, recovered sufficiently to notice that the sleeper's other eye was closed, but the first still shed its malignant ray. One eye watched while the other slept. This thought was too overpowering, too productive of analysis and conjecture, for two lumberjacks, "half seas over." They watched the man as he slept. Even when they moved so that the eye was in a shadow it mocked them with a dull glow.

So the two 'jacks settled down for the long watch. On one side was the one-eyed man and on the other was the one-eyed cat. The clock struck one and the barkeep took one on the house.

Finally the sleeper stirred, roused himself, calmly removed the glittering eye, polished it, replaced it, bought a bottle at the bar and departed unsteadily.

The two 'jacks turned expectantly toward the cat. But Thomas merely showed a blinking eye and settled down to sleep.

NEW PAN-ANGLE TELESCOPE.

Boston Post: A pan-angle telescope, by means of which it is possible to aim guns and rifles around corners, over the tops of sky-scrapers and mountain ranges, and down into the depths of the ocean, has been recently perfected and patented by a Bay State man, and the United States has already adopted the device for army and navy use.

Dana Dudley of Wakefield, is the inventor of the novel war appliance, and he has to his credit many other devices which are even now in use throughout the world.

The pan-angle telescope is one in which a mirror is set at every angle, so that the image thrown in at one end is projected around any number of angles by means of these mirrors.

In his own home Mr. Dudley has a pan-angle telescope of his own making, two inches in diameter. The front of the telescope projects from the top of the house. The eyepiece is in his own workshop, three floors below. By looking into the workshop eyepiece one may see the Winship house, over a mile away, and then, as the front of the telescope is revolved by a clever mechanical contrivance, the observer may see the whole town of Wakefield, east, west, north and south.

It may be used for field guns and heavy artillery, especially artillery to be used for the demolition of aeroplanes and dirigible balloons. With the telescope attachment the gun may be pointed straight up into the air or straight back over the sighter's head without any change of position the part of the man who is doing the sighting. By looking straight forward into the telescope he can get the image of the aeroplane or dirigible balloon as it flies over him.

But that isn't the end of its uses by any means. It may be attached to rifles at a small expense.

It could be installed, together with an underwater searchlight, in the bow of any sort of vessel, and run back to the steering house. Then the steersman could see exactly where he was going under water. It would be of inestimable value to submarines.

DISCRIMINATION WINS !!!

In every walk in life discrimination between the true and the false wins and enjoys success. In questions of form, of style and of values, whether financial, commercial or medicinal, the judgement of the men and women who select and appreciate and utilize the true and genuine product, proves most profitable and most satisfactory to themselves and to all who follow them.

Therefore, in connection with so important a subject as the physical well-being of the people, the most eminent physicians insist on full information as to the wholesome nature and truly beneficial character of the component parts of the remedies used and prescribed by them, and the wise manufacturer not only supplies them with the knowledge desired, but also combines for them in proper proportions the very substances most approved by them and omits every objectionable substance. The world-wide acceptance of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna by physicians and the well-informed of the world, as the best of family laxatives, is due to the universal satisfaction which it has given for more than a quarter of a century and also to the fact that it is a remedy of known quality and known component parts and to the further fact that the California Fig Syrup Co. presents it to the world simply as the ideal strengthening personal laxative to cleanse and sweeten the system gently, yet effectually, and to dispel colds and headaches and to assist in overcoming constipation. To get its beneficial effects—always buy the original and genuine, for sale by all leading druggists. The full name of the company—California Fig Syrup Co.—is always plainly printed on the front of every package.

Henry Miller on the whole was heavy in the part, and a fantastic make-up did not help him. Jessie Bonstelle acted the girl intelligently, but without special force, while Theodore Friebus, as the young physician, was rather good, and Robert McWade scored in the role of an old negro.

Henry E. Dixey fared no better than Henry Miller in the new comedy in which he appeared at Weber's theater. It is called "Mr. Buttles," and was written by Frederic Arnold Kummer, a new author. The piece has a unique idea for its basis.

The butler of an English country estate, whose owner, the young Earl of [illegible], has run out of money and proposes to close the Towers and dismiss the servants, proposes to the earl to take over the place and run it on a profit-taking basis with the rest of the servants. The necessary revenue is to be provided by the visiting guests in the shape of tips. He arranges with the earl to pay him a royalty of £300, and [illegible] departs for Paris, leaving his chauffeur, who bears an extraordinary resemblance to him, in his place as master of the house.

This chauffeur is really a disguised newspaper man and a George Bernard Shaw Socialist and he uses his opportunity to fall in love with an American girl, whose father is a Chicago pork magnate and mother a determined title hunter. The last two acts are consumed in sketching the intrigues of the various guests, including [illegible] elopement, in which Mr. [illegible] the enterprising butler, naturally plays the role of the confidant of [illegible] parties.

The piece went astray because [illegible] after the first act, does not maintain itself on the level of interest that his novel proposition leads one to expect, and the complications set forth are not sufficiently unique to excite either great merriment or suspense. Dixey was only passively humorous in the title role. The piece was taken off tonight and Dixey will look around for a new play.

To offset these two failures, Broadway experienced a relief in a special matinee performance at Daly's, in which Marguerite Clark, the dainty, [illegible] musical-comedy starlet, appeared in the title role of "The Wishing Ring," by Owen Davis. This is no [illegible], but a straight character [illegible] Davis the author, has [illegible] in another field of [illegible] activity. Some of the most [illegible] thrillers of the minor stage are charged against him, but [illegible] the inspiration for "The Wishing Ring" from a short story of [illegible], he has given it the [illegible] of a remarkable simplicity of construction and style.

The scene is laid in rural England, and deals with the capture of a rose thief who has been regularly pilfering Mr. Annesley's fine rose garden. The [illegible] proves to be a queer little thing in cotton gown and a broad straw hat, named Sally, and her captor is the sturdy young Giles, who is taking care of the Annesley rose garden. Sally is a quaint, old-fashioned little thing, quite as quaint, old-fashioned and charitable as her father, [illegible] village parson, who [illegible] everything away to the needy [illegible] little left for himself and [illegible] household.

Sally [illegible] over the garden wall [illegible] for the communion [illegible] had no notion of wrong-[illegible] Giles soon realizes. Of [illegible] falls in love with her, but [illegible] made unhappy when she dis-[illegible] her rich American girl [illegible] whom she calls the Goddess [illegible] has a love affair with a certain [illegible] closely connected with Mr. Annesley's rose garden. Although [illegible] Sally imagines that it [illegible] Giles, and it is not till the last that the truth is revealed to her. Then it [illegible] out that Giles is the scion of [illegible] Hall and has run away from [illegible] because of a family quarrel [illegible] the custodian of the Annesley rose garden.

There is nothing startling in all this. It sounds like a modern edition of "Cinderella," and it may be very sentimental and juvenile. But I wish that [illegible] of you might see Marguerite Clark [illegible] Sally and William Norris the parson. She is the daintiest little body on the stage and her art has the artlessness of nature. She is as quaint and old-fashioned and as pretty and merry as a Dresden doll, if that simile will do, and she draws the character of Sally with a persuasiveness of manner and grace that reflects in the highest terms of her acting ability.

The performance was little more than a try-out, and the company was the same that supported Miss Clark at the regular evening performances of "The King of Cadonia," which closed last Saturday night to make room for Maxine Elliott in "The Inferior Sex." Robert Dempster played Giles, Melville Stewart was William, Clara Palmer was the Goddess Girl, and Albert Gran acted as Mr. Bates of Bates Hall. Miss Palmer, who is known only in musical comedy, gave a remarkably good account of herself in the emotional scene in which she dismisses William, on discovering that he is not, as she supposed, the rich Mr. Annesley in disguise, though she afterward lures the [illegible] back again, as Shakespeare has it. Very likely "The Wishing Ring" will become a regular evening attraction at another theater ere long.

Another substantial hit scored was Paul Armstrong's adaptation of O. Henry's short story "A Retrieved Reformation," produced at Wallack's the other night under the title of "Alias Jimmy Valentine." It introduces H. B. Warner, a young English actor and son of the late famous star in "Drink." Though he was eminently qualified for the role of the reformed convict, it was the big situation in the last act, showing the ex-safebreaker exercising his marvelous skill of opening a bank vault by the touch of his fingers to save the little girl who has been entombed in the prison of steel, which landed the piece one of the season's successes.

This is one of the most stirring scenes of any melodrama seen in New York in a term of years. It showed Warner to be an excellent actor, and it gave Laurette Taylor a chance to add to her already well established popularity, who loves the ex-convict. The piece is a rattling good thieves' comedy, opening with a scene in the warden's office of Sing Sing prison. Rose Lane (Miss Taylor) recognizes in Jimmy Valentine, a convict led out for the inspection of a group of benevolent women interested in prison reforms, a young man who protected her from insult on a New York Central train. She influences her uncle, the lieutenant governor, to pardon him, and her father, a banker of Springfield, Ill., to give him a position of trust in his bank. After three years the former convict is discovered by Doyle, a New York detective, who has a warrant for his arrest on a charge of crime committed in Massachusetts. Randall, alias Valentine, has lived an upright life, and expects to marry Rose. The banker believes in him and his future is rosy, when Doyle obtrudes himself upon the scene.

But Randall outwits the man-hunter by proving an alibi, and the detective is leaving the room, confessing himself defeated, when the bank watchman bursts into the office and exclaims that Rose's little sister has been accidentally shut up in the iron vault in the basement of the bank. The vault has only been completed and the combination is not yet set. The detective pauses in the half open door to listen. All his life he has wished to see Valentine do the trick of opening a safe by touch. If he now performs that feat he has proof positive that Randall is Valentine the bank burglar.

Randall responds to the call of humanity. The stage grows dark for an instant. When the lights are flashed forth again we see him at work in the cellar with the watchman by his side, his coat off, working his marvelous feat on the combination. In the door in the foreground, concealed in the semi-gloom, stands the sleuth, alert. The precious seconds pass as Randall works away at the lock. He rubs his fingers on sand paper till they bleed, to add to the sensitiveness of his touch. He has the watchman tie a handkerchief over his eyes to concentrate his faculties. After repeated attempts, during which the suspense is wrought up to the highest pitch, he gives a cry of triumph. A twist of the handle and the huge steel door opens. The little girl falls, half asphyxiated, into the arms of the faithful watchman, and Randall half collapses from the strain.

When his eyes open again they fall upon the relentless man-hunter and he knows that the game is up. But Rose has silently entered by another door and been a witness of the scene. Even the detective's heart is melted by the tender farewell of the lovers, and saying that perhaps Rose wants him worse than the state of Massachusetts he gives up the quest and goes out.

Armstrong has done some clever work in elaborating the little story into a four-act play. The acts tell it all in a clear-cut manner, with apt embellishments of witty dialogue and good, strong character-drawing. The piece is highly improbable, but the incidents come in such rapid succession that no time is given for deliberate analysis and the drama rushes hotpace to a thundering climax.

Besides Warner as Randall, and Miss Taylor as Rose, the Liebler company has provided a good actor for each part. Frank Monroe is notably good as Doyle, James E. Wilson, as Rose's father; Edmond Elton, as Bill Avery, and Earl Brown, as Red Joclyn, two reformed pals of Valentine, as well as Harold Hartsell as Handler, the warden. The play made an instantaneous hit.

Henry B. Harris is to present Percy Mackaye's play, "The Scarecrow," next season, with Edgar Selwyn in the title role. The piece has had a hard time finding a producer, as it was originally written for Richard Mansfield. James K. Hackett, George Orliss and Frank Keenan were others mentioned as possible occupants of the leading role, but nothing ever materialized until the present announcement. Possibly Harris will change his mind, thus placing Selwyn with the above mentioned.

Charles Frohman made his sixteenth original stage production this season in presenting Miss Ethel Barrymore in Sir Arthur Wing Pinero's "Mid-Channel" at the Empire theater last Monday night. There could scarcely be a more inviting bill than Ethel Barrymore, returned to the stage, in a new Pinero play. The announcement fairly bristles with interest. "Mid-Channel," with Miss Barrymore in the character of Zoe Blundell, is announced by Mr. Frohman for a two months' engagement at the Empire theater, "no more, no less." The play is in four acts and it is the first serious work of Sir Arthur Pinero's to find production in America since "His House in Order." Briefly put, the story of "Mid-Channel" is as follows:

It seems that midway between Folkstone and Boulogne in the English channel there is a reef over which the sea, however smooth elsewhere, is always troubled. At that spot, however agreeable you may be before or after, you are uncomfortable and grumpy. So, it is explained in the typically expository speech in Pinero's new play, there is a "mid-channel" phase in every marriage. The Blundells—Theodore and Zoe—have reached the "mid-channel." Theodore Blundell and Zoe, his wife, have got on each other's nerves. Zoe is harassed by Theo's bad temper and tendency to bully. Theo is harassed by Zoe's vixenish temper and by her troop of "boys." They are thus at cat-and-dog. Their old friend Peter Mottram's channel parable makes them momentarily ashamed and they kiss again with tears. To patch up things, Theo offers Zoe a fortnight in Paris, and sits down then and there to telegraph for rooms at a hotel. But he chooses a hotel not entirely to Zoe's extravagant taste and she declares she will not stay in Paris at any hotel that is not "top hole." Then Theo flares up and there is the usual scene customary with them all over again. Zoe rushes out of the room screaming to her husband that he can go to the devil; thereupon he packs up his bag and leaves the house. This is the way the piece opens. The people of the play are typical Pinero types—strongly drawn and finely chiseled.

Klaw & Erlanger's "Rebecca, of Sunnybrook Farm," has taken a wonderful hold on Boston audiences. The growth of interest in the play has been steady. It is one of those productions whereof audiences become the best medium of advertising. Full of radiant optimism, it cheerfully violates dramatic traditions and gives the most critical no chance but just to fall in love with the girl who says, "It is just as good to be alive." Kate Douglas Wiggin has put a lot of wit and philosophy into the mouths of her characters.

Judging from the speeches and reports of the unveiling of the Wallace statue, the fame of Gen. Lew Wallace rests almost solely upon his authorship of "Ben Hur." Little was said or written about his career as a soldier or a diplomat. Klaw & Erlanger's production of "Ben Hur" was playing in Washington at the time of the unveiling. The guests at the exercises attended performances of the great play. "Ben Hur" goes into the Boston theater shortly for a brief engagement. The company, headed by Richard Buhler, is one of the best ever assembled to interpret the great Biblical drama.

W. S. Hart, who is playing the role of Dan Stark, in Klaw & Erlanger's production of "The Barrier," has used as a model for makeup his recollection of "Wild Bill" Hickock, the greatest gun fighter that ever lived. Hickock had a strong, powerful figure. He was the typical Western sheriff and gambler of the seventies. He always wore a sombrero, black coat and trousers, a narrow black string tie, white shirt and carried his gun in his suspenders. Hart as a boy knew Hickock. His recollections of him are vivid. In "The Barrier" he is revived as realistically as the character and the situations permit.

One of the biggest theatrical hits of the year has been made by "just a plain dog," discovered by Will Carleton, the stage manager of "Little Nemo," Klaw & Erlanger's big musical comedy, which is now playing in the South. A dog was needed in a burlesque which Joe Cawthorn, the comedian, was using in the play. Carleton found the animal actor, a yellow, shivering "mutt," hanging about the stage alley. He was a sorry sight. Objection was made to his presence in the theater but Carleton had faith in him. A bath, a little food and more kindness and "Flip," as he was named, began to expand. He took to his work right away. After his first few appearances in public, he began to wear a distinguished look and it seemed as if he might be on the brink of enlargement of the head. But he seemed to look important simply because he was with the largest show on the road, and thought that he should do this mite toward maintaining the dignity of the organization.

That the dog is a marvel of intelligence is shown by the fact that he knows his cue as well as the seasoned actor. The animal pays no attention to the various musical numbers of the show, running around below the stage as if nothing was going on. But when the orchestra strikes up the air "It's the Irish," for Joe Cawthorn's song, Flip is a different dog. He tears madly at the steps leading to the stage and ascends them three at a time. He remembers that to cross the stage in view of the audience would be wrong and so goes to the back wall behind the scenery and crosses over to his place. He knows his proper entrance and goes to it without coaxing or instructions. He jumps in the shaft of his sled and takes the bit in his mouth and when the real cue for his appearance comes, he is tugging away so that it is hard to hold him, so anxious is he to get out before the footlights and contribute his share of the entertainment. To show that the dog has friends, there have been sixty-eight applications requesting permission to take him when the season closes.

All Chicago continues to talk about the great newspaper play, "The Fourth Estate," which is now entering upon its sixth week at the Grand Opera house, with every prospect that it will be necessary to give an extra matinee some day to accommadate those disappointed theatergoers, who were not wise enough to secure their seats for the regular performances far in advance.

Despite the fact that the demand for seat for "The Fourth Estate" is the biggest by far of any play in Chicago, and one of the greatest in the last half dozen years, the management have succeeded in keeping tickets completely out of the hands of speculators and out-of-town patrons who write or telephone in advance to the theater are able to get seats in any location they wish, provided they do so sufficiently far ahead.

The management have succeeded in adding one more week to the time allotted originally to "The Fourth Estate," and it consequently will remain at the Grand until Feb. 13.

No play in many years has succeeded in arousing the discussion which has been caused by the big theme of "The Fourth Estate," and its pitiless, bald, brutal exposition of the forces and corruptions which are endeavoring to dominate the honest man and honest enterprise today, as well as the delightful love affair of the two principal characters, send every spectator of the play an enthusiastic herald of its merits.

The thrilling realism of the composing and pressroom scene of the big newspaper are so vivid, unusual, and show such might mechanical power in operation that it grips the spectator as no other scene in the theatrical world today can do, and the audience is invariably half out of its seats with excitement at the climax of the big situation. The cast remains absolutely intact, and includes Pauline Frederick, Charles Waldron, Charles A. Stevenson, Alice Fischer, Tom Findlay, Robert McWade, Thomas Thorne, Tom Hadaway, Jr., and Mary Marshall.

All New York and Chicago as well is laughing at "Seven Days," the new comedy which Wagonhals & Kemper are offering simultaneously in New York at the Astor, and at the Illinois theater, Chicago. "Seven Days" is a scream from start to finish without a dull moment, and it will not bring a blush to the youngest person who sees it. The characters are some of the smart set, quarantined in their house in New York, through the illness of the cook, and their attempts to escape through the coal hole, and the windows are very funny.

Max Rogers and Maude Raymond in "The Young Turk," under the direction of K[illegible] & Erlanger, is the current attraction at the New York theater. The musical play is now in two acts. The first is laid in New York city, and the second in Constantinople. The music is by Max Hoffman, book by Aaron Hoffman and lyrics by Harry Williams. In the cast are Violet McMillan, Frederick V. Bowers, John Dunsmore and Joseph Carey and a big singing and dancing chorus. The plot tells the story of a young American who becomes involved in a Turkish revolution. The best songs are "I'll Be Happy Too" "Parisian Glide," and "Oriental Moon." Miss Raymond has a very amusing number in "I Thought I Wanted Opera." Max Rogers plays a dialect role, similar to the ones assumed by him in the series of entertainments which the Rogers' brothers made famous. "The Young Turk" is at the New York for a limited engagement.

William Faversham has secured the American rights to Conan Doyle's play, "The House of Temperly," which has achieved a great success at Adelphi theater, London. In securing the American rights, Mr. Faversham must impersonate the leading role. The story of the play is laid in England at the time of Napoleon. One of the features of the play is a prize fight, much after the manner of the famous bout in Doyle's popular novel, "Rodney Stone." It is Mr. Faversham's purpose to produce this play after the completion of his season in "Herod."

Guy Standing, who was in the cast when Henry Miller produced "The Servant in the House" in London, is now appearing in the British capital with Amelia Bingham, in her vaudeville sketch, called "Great Moments From Great Plays." Miss Bingham has just acquired the rights for America of a comedy which is called "The Violet Widow," and which she will produce here next season.

Margaret Anglin has secured the right to Maeterlinck's medieval drama, "Sister Beatrice," and has also arranged with Percy Mackaye to deliver a comedy to her next December.

Crystal Herne did not fare well with her first starring venture. The comedy "Miss Phelura," which Henry Blossom wrote for her, and in which Liebler & Co., starred her, did not prove to be very satisfactory, with the result that the play has been abandoned.

The new Shubert theater in Boston was opened last week by Sothern and Marlowe. Not the least interesting feature of the opening was the fact that the night's receipts amounted to $2,700.

Edith Wynn Matthison has joined the New Theater company. Her first appearance will be in Maurice Maeterlinck's "Sister Beatrice," to be produced shortly. Miss Matthison is the wife of Charles Rann Kennedy, in whose "The Servant in the House," and "The Winterfest" she made her last appearances in America.

E. H. Sothern, about fifteen months ago gave the plot of a play he had in his mind to two dramatists. It deals with a woman-hater who is forced into close social relations with a member of the deserted sex. One of them was Frank Stayton, an English playwright; the other was Agnes Bangs Morgan of New York. The two writers set about their task, and when Miss Morgan had completed hers, calling it "The Pilot," she submitted it to Mr. Sothern and it was accepted. In the meantime Mr. Stayton completed his. Mr. Stayton's version fell into the hands of Maxine Elliott and it was produced at Daly's theater last week under the title of "The Inferior Sex." Miss Morgan, whose play is still to be staged, was painfully surprised when the nature of Miss Elliott's play was disclosed in a published synopsis in a Canadian newspaper, and talked of legal proceedings, but deferred action on receiving assurances that her play would be produced in due time by Mr. Sothern and Julia Marlowe. The plays are very similar except in the climaxes.

Henry B. Harris will produce his first musical comedy, "A Skylark," at Wallack's theater, Easter Monday.

A. . Delamater and William Norris, who produced a dramatization of George Barr McCutcheon's "Beverly" last spring, will dramatize John Fox's novel, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," this spring. Robert M. Baker of Boston, who dramatized "Beverly," has finished the dramatization of Fox's novel.

Charles Frohman has engaged the following for his production of Winchell Smith's "Love Among the Lions:" W. L. Abingdon, Jane Oakes, Zelda Sears, Ernest Lanford and Wallace Edinger.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The office of business manager of the Zenith is one of the most important offices in connection with the senior class publication. Next to the editor-in-chief, the business manager has more responsibility than anyone else on the Zenith board. The success of the book, especially the financial side, is largely due to the work of the business manager, and for this reason the office must be filled by a competent person.

Lloyd Burg, who holds this office in the class of 1910 is well deserving of the honor. He takes an active part in school life, is liked by the pupils of the senior class, and under his management the annual publication is certain to be a financial success.

Examinations are over and Monday morning the second semister begins. The marks have not yet been given out, but the cards came out Monday and the students are anxiously awaiting the outcome of their examinations.

* * *

The junior class held its regular meeting Wednesday afternoon, but there were no matters of importance discussed. The meeting was interesting, however, as a letter received by Stanley Lamb, president of the class, from Miss Wells, was read.

Miss Wells thanked the class for the flowers they sent to her during her illness at St. Luke's hospital and assured them she would be back next June.

Miss Wells left Duluth for her home in Saginaw, Mich., two weeks ago yesterday, and although she is far from being entirely well, she is improving rapidly and her statement that she would again be at Central next year was good news to all the pupils.

Although defeated at Cambridge last Friday night, the debating team is not at all discouraged, and under the coaching of Mr. Brackett the members of the team as well as the members of the Forum, are working hard. A week from Monday two teams will be picked from the Forum and a debate to which all the students are invited, will be held. One week from Friday the first team will meet a team composed of alumni during chapel exercises.

The illness of Miss Taylor is delaying the senior class play, as Mr. Custance says he is unable to proceed with it until Miss Taylor returns to school. Miss Taylor is expected to be back Monday and in all probability Mr. Custance will begin choosing the cast and hold the first rehearsal next week.

The freshman basket ball team is surely on the road to the championship, having defeated both the senior and junior teams, which victories will put the first year boys in the championship series with the leading team of the other three classes. This is the first year since the inter-class basket ball league has been organized that a freshmen team will be represented in the championship series.

LLOYD BURG,
Business Manager of the Zenith.

The school basket ball team is playing the Blaine team of Superior this afternoon, and the seating capacity of the Boy's Y. M. C. A. will certainly be tested.

* * *

The election of Roy Johnson to the captaincy of the football team for next fall was good news to the high school pupils. Johnson is popular with the students and one of the best athletes in school. His playing at right tackle on the football team was unexcelled by any player put against him last season. He is also a star basket ball player, holding down guard on this year's team.

* * *

The midwinter musical concert took place in the school auditorium last night and a large number of the pupils attended. A collection was taken up for the Smith memorial fund, which is being raised by the high school alumni association.

The new high school pins have been sent for and are expected to be here in about three weeks.

THE TALE OF THE ONE-EYED CAT, THE ONE-EYED MAN AND THE SUPERSTITIOUS WOODSMAN

This is a tale of a one-eyed cat on a one-eyed man at the fateful hour of 1.

The stirring incidents of this panhandled tragedy happened in a Bowery saloon after closing hours the other morning to the edification of the gentlemen who mops the bar and slings sundry liquids across to lubricate the whistles of various lumberjacks wearied from the trying journey up the hill from the union passenger station.

Two 'jacks were playing a quiet game of seven-up for the drinks and one became involved financially. He had held a king, tray and jack of hearts, and had given his opponent one point. His companion thereupon proceeded to take the tray with a ten of trumps on the first lead, yielded a paltry four spot to the king on the third lead and regaining the lead on the fourth hand with a deuce he swung with the ace and caught his opponent's jack. He had made high, low, jack and the game, and had secured a gift of one point.

No one, no matter how deft the fingers and how rapid the movements of the hands, could beat this kind of luck. The loser was bankrupt and his only collateral was a dollar watch and a bottle of squirrel whisky. His opponent regarded his own pile of chips thoughtfully, caressed a blue one lovingly and then issued an ultimatum that "money talks."

The other 'jack turned to ask Boots, the genial barkeep, if the house was in a reckless mood and would buy a drink, when he saw a sleeping form in the corner back of the stove. Closer inspection revealed the battle scarred visage of one who may for present purposes be known as Bingo, the Human Canthook Fiend, or the King of the Broadax. The penniless 'jack knew Bingo sufficiently well to presume on acquaintance.

"I'll borry two bits off'n him," said the 'jack sententiously as he shuffled over to the recumbent sleeper. At the sound of the hobnailed boots a bundle of fur on the breast of the inert man uncurled itself, a red mouth yawned and a gaunt cat, whose fur was like shredded shadows of night, arched its back and its one eye, gleaming malevolently, transfixed the startled 'jack. He remembered vaguely something of younger days and hurriedly crossed himself.

The man at the table rose unsteadily, mouthed an oath and directed a torrent of words at his companion delivering a blasphemous impeachment against that gentleman's courage and valor, harsh words that under normal circumstances would be answered with avenging wallop of brawny fist.

With a well directed kick the boot of the second 'jack lifted the snarling cat. The animal described a parabola and landed on all four feet where it stood grotesquely, spitting, its back in a sharp curve, its tail distended. Its one eye shed a baleful ray that struck terror to the first lumberjack who leaned unsteadily against the ice box and clutched spasmodically at the wet bar towel.

The second 'jack bestowed a withering look of contempt on his companion and turned the sleeping man on his side. He started to reach for the sleeper's pistol pocket which bulged as though it contained a wallet when the unconscious man's face came full into the light and one eye gave forth a phosphoric gleam that reduced the first lumberjack to a state of blubbering helplessness and so paralyzed the second that his hand stopped in midair and he balanced on one knee over the sleeper like the guardian angel in a tableau at a society pageant.

The second 'jack though dazed, recovered sufficiently to notice that the sleeper's other eye was closed, but the first still shed its malignant ray. One eye watched while the other slept. This thought was too overpowering, too productive of analysis and conjecture, for two lumberjacks, "half seas over." They watched the man as he slept. Even when they moved so that the eye was in a shadow it mocked them with a dull glow.

So the two 'jacks settled down for the long watch. On one side was the one-eyed man and on the other was the one-eyed cat. The clock struck one and the barkeep took one on the house.

Finally the sleeper stirred, roused himself, calmly removed the glittering eye, polished it, replaced it, bought a bottle at the bar and departed unsteadily.

The two 'jacks turned expectantly toward the cat. But Thomas merely showed a blinking eye and settled down to sleep.

NEW PAN-ANGLE TELESCOPE.

Boston Post: A pan-angle telescope, by means of which it is possible to aim guns and rifles around corners, over the tops of sky-scrapers and mountain ranges, and down into the depths of the ocean, has been recently perfected and patented by a Bay State man, and the United States has already adopted the device for army and navy use.

Dana Dudley of Wakefield, is the inventor of the novel war appliance, and he has to his credit many other devices which are even now in use throughout the world.

The pan-angle telescope is one in which a mirror is set at every angle, so that the image thrown in at one end is projected around any number of angles by means of these mirrors.

In his own home Mr. Dudley has a pan-angle telescope of his own making, two inches in diameter. The front of the telescope projects from the top of the house. The eyepiece is in his own workshop, three floors below. By looking into the workshop eyepiece one may see the Winship house, over a mile away, and then, as the front of the telescope is revolved by a clever mechanical contrivance, the observer may see the whole town of Wakefield, east, west, north and south.

It may be used for field guns and heavy artillery, especially artillery to be used for the demolition of aeroplanes and dirigible balloons. With the telescope attachment the gun may be pointed straight up into the air or straight back over the sighter's head without any change of position the part of the man who is doing the sighting. By looking straight forward into the telescope he can get the image of the aeroplane or dirigible balloon as it flies over him.

But that isn't the end of its uses by any means. It may be attached to rifles at a small expense.

It could be installed, together with an underwater searchlight, in the bow of any sort of vessel, and run back to the steering house. Then the steersman could see exactly where he was going under water. It would be of inestimable value to submarines.

DISCRIMINATION WINS !!!

In every walk in life discrimination between the true and the false wins and enjoys success. In questions of form, of style and of values, whether financial, commercial or medicinal, the judgement of the men and women who select and appreciate and utilize the true and genuine product, proves most profitable and most satisfactory to themselves and to all who follow them.

Therefore, in connection with so important a subject as the physical well-being of the people, the most eminent physicians insist on full information as to the wholesome nature and truly beneficial character of the component parts of the remedies used and prescribed by them, and the wise manufacturer not only supplies them with the knowledge desired, but also combines for them in proper proportions the very substances most approved by them and omits every objectionable substance. The world-wide acceptance of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna by physicians and the well-informed of the world, as the best of family laxatives, is due to the universal satisfaction which it has given for more than a quarter of a century and also to the fact that it is a remedy of known quality and known component parts and to the further fact that the California Fig Syrup Co. presents it to the world simply as the ideal strengthening personal laxative to cleanse and sweeten the system gently, yet effectually, and to dispel colds and headaches and to assist in overcoming constipation. To get its beneficial effects — always buy the original and genuine, for sale by all leading druggists. The full name of the company — California Fig Syrup Co.— is always plainly printed on the front of every package.

GREAT SULPHIDE ORE BODY

Believed to Underlie Eureka Claims of the Cordova Company—Churn Drill Now Sinking in Sulphide Ore of Commercial Grade.

Globe, Ariz., Feb. 5.—The development of the Eureka group of claims belonging to the Cordova Copper company has been given a most favorable aspect by the striking of commercial chalcocite in churn drill hole No. 1 at a depth of forty feet. This drill hole is located near the Jennie shaft and a short distance from the Inspiration property. The drill is still sinking in sulphide ore of commercial grade. The percentage of copper is increasing as greater depth is attained increasing as greater depth is attained. This strike on the Cordova land opens up wonderful possibilities for the future of the Cordova Copper company, as there is ample reason for believing that a sulphide ore body of great extent underlies the Eureka group of claims. The churn drill work to be prosecuted during the next few months should prove this theory correct.

On the 475-foot level of the Sullivan shaft on the east end of the Eureka group, the new drift being driven north from the main drift at a point 350 feet from the shaft is seventy-two feet long and is running through ground containing considerable chalcocite.

Between seventy-five and eighty tons of chrysocolla ore running 10 per cent copper are being shipped daily from the Warrior mine to the El Paso smelter. The drifting and raising in progress on the 300-foot level are exploring new territory with favorable results each week. Most of the ore to make up the smelter shipments is being taken from the stopes on the 250-foot level. Henry B. Hovland and S. R. Kaufman have been visiting Globe during the past week, making daily visits to the various mines operated by the Hovland and Smith interests.

At the Inspiration Copper company's mine a force of 150 men is engaged in underground construction and general surface work. Drifting to block out ore and explore new ground on the 100-foot level of the Joe Bush shaft is progressing at the rate of about 600 feet a month. Most of this work is now being done west and north of the shaft. At present the Joe Bush workings extend from the shaft about 375 feet west, 300 feet north, 200 feet south and 150 feet east. The vertical extent of the ore body, as shown by the shaft work, is approximately 325 feet. The grade of the ore is nearly 3 per cent copper. A new 80-horse power boiler is being installed at the Joe Bush shaft.

GREENE-CANANEA COMPANY

New Management Has Put Cost of Production Down to Less Than 11 Cents as Against 18 Cents Under Col. Greene.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 5.—After crediting gold and silver recoveries to the cost of producing its 1909 copper, and after making various adjustments, the 45,000,000 pounds of copper produced by the Greene-Cananea Copper company during the past twelve months was turned out at a cost of between 10 cents and 11 cents per pound. Estimating the average price for the product sold during the twelve months to have been 13 cents, there is an indicated profit of 2½ cents per pound, or $1,125,000, equal to a little less than 50 cents per share on the company's 2,350,000 shares outstanding.

The reconstruction work which was started some two years ago for the present management has been for the most part completed, but only after heavy expenditures have been made. These expenditures have been distributed, some to the cost of producing copper and some to capital account. It is believed that the current year's operations will witness a somewhat lower cost sheet.

A large amount of development work has also been done on portions of the property hitherto undeveloped. The Indiana-Sonora tract, recently acquired from the Phelps-Dodge interests, is being explored, and some small shipments have been made from this part of the Greene property.

During the past year the company has cleaned up the old Sierra Madre Land & Lumber company matter, an inheritance from Col. Greene, and a $500,000 loan was satisfied by the sale of the timber tract to F. S. Pearson interests, who turned it over, together with various small railroad lines, into a new corporation.

For some time the predecessor company, the Greene Consolidated Copper company, paid dividends bi-monthly and from time of organization until taking over by the present corporation, there was disbursed to stockholders a total of $6,194,000. Notwithstanding this benevolence on the part of Col. Greene, then president of the company, there was never attained a low cost of operation, for during his extravagant administration the cost of laying copper down in New York is now declared to have averaged 18 cents per pound.

The new management has had serious difficulties to overcome. They have been in large part conquered under the Cole-Ryan management, and much of the credit is given to Dr. L. D. Ricketts, who has been in charge of operations.

SECOND UNITED VERDE SEEN

Blue Bell Mine One of Greatest Copper Properties in Arizona---Size of Ore Body Increasing as Development Goes Ahead.

Prescot, Ariz., Feb. 5.—Conservative and reliable reports have been for several days in circulation in this city that the Blue Bell mine, under operation at the present time by the Consolidated Arizona Smelting company, is unquestionably one of the greatest copper mines in the territory, and will soon take rank alongside the United Verde.

Less than one year ago the property was taken over by the above syndicate, and after the 400-foot level was reached a new and rich body was cut into by a winze sunk from that point. Previous to that development no noteworthy determination was accomplished, and the yield carried the usual values, with geological conditions prevailing that indicated nothing of an unusual character.

A short time after the 400-foot level was passed, however, big and higher grade bodies of the sulphides were cut into, and as depth and development were continued, the immensity of the property was appreciated, and at the present time it is practically out of range for a definite estimate to be formed, other than it is one of the greatest pieces of mining ground in Arizona, and of which the miner and others are perfectly convinced, basing this belief on actual observation made of underground conditions.

Locations along that belt running to the Bradshaws are being made in view of the property coming so prominently into life in the past few months, and from Mayer to the De Soto it is said to be practically a continuous strip of locations running from one claim to the other for nearly fifteen miles, with several parallel strips taken up that show inviting surface conditions.

Work on this new bonanza continues uninterruptedly, and a force of over fifty men employed. Up to a short time ago the product was shipped to the smelter at Humboldt, but this has been discontinued, owing to the lack of facilities to handle it.

Thousands of tons of the ore are on the dumps of the mine, and until the smelter resumes in March, will not be transported to the work for reduction.

The coming into prominence of another big producer for this county, such as is believed to be unquestioned for the Blue Bell, dissipates the theory that there is but one big mine in this field, and exemplifies the wisdom of practical and energetic mining, with depth as an integral factor to make the determination.

BIG ORE BODIES OPENED UP

Five Working Faces on Live Oak Property Show Up Continuous Values—Low Grades Run Nearly 3 Per Cent Copper.

Globe, Ariz., Feb. 5—The development work at the Live Oak property continues to open the ore body on the 300-foot level of the workings. Five working faces, now being advanced daily, are showing up a continuous ore body. This, however, has been the case throughout the entire underground workings. At the contact between the oxidized and sulphide ore, which is plainly shown at the various parts of the 200-foot level, a leanness of the schist is noticeable. Below this, the sulphide appears throughout the schist body and is found at all parts of this level, where the depth from the surface is sufficiently great to protect the rock from the leaching and oxidation so much in evidence in the shallower portions of the ground of the southwestern part of the Miami district. Above the 200-foot level a considerable portion of chrysocolla ore was stoped and shipped to the smelter by the former owners of the property. The large vein of this oxidized ore, showing for a length of over 600 feet in a north and south line, makes available large tonnages of this ore, much of which is comparatively high grade ore. About 500 feet of the oxidized vein has been opened south of the double compartment shaft and 100 feet north of this shaft. On the north side the ore does not appear confined within the walls of a vein, but is more of an impregnation of the quartzose schist. Two 50-foot blocks of ore have ben cut by drifts here, running west from the main drift, and it is here that the sulphide-bearing schist is best represented at this level. The 300-foot level of the mine may be entered from two different points about 900 feet apart. The sulphide tunnel measures 900 feet nearly due north from the portal. It enters at the base of the hill and follows the strike at the ridge of the shaft. From the shaft northward, the continuation of the tunnel is called Drift No. 306. From this shaft, which runs north for a distance of about 400 feet, lateral drifts have been driven at intervals of 200 feet to the east and west. The ore averaging 27 per cent copper is plainly in evidence throughout all of these drifts, as well as in the raise. Only one drift has been driven from the sulphide tunnel. This drift runs eastward 310 feet. Near its present face, the assays show 2½ per cent copper ore, most of which is in leached ground.

AT THE LAKE COPPER MINES

Bohemia Company Organized to Develop Henwood Tract Northeast of Indiana Property—Another Drill Hole at Indiana Entering Rich Copper Ground—Good Showing at Ojibway.

Houghton, Mich., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following closely upon the sensational developments in the Indiana property, local parties have caused the organization of the Bohemia Mining company to take over and develop the so-called Henwood tract lying immediately northeast of the Indiana property. The new company has the regular Michigan capitalization of 100,000 shares of the par value of $25. Only a very small amount of the stock of this company was offered at public subscription. There will be about 75,000 shares outstanding. The property comprises 800 acres along the eastern portion of the Michigan copper belt, and it is thought carries the northerly extension of the several lodes disclosed by diamond drilling in the Indiana, Lake, North Lake and Adventure properties to the southward. It was first explored in 1853 by Detroit parties through an organization known as the Douglass-Houghton, but operations apparently were conducted too far to the westward to reveal the new lode in which the several neighboring companies are now obtaining such sensational results.

Indiana.

At the Indiana property diamond drilling continues without interruption and apparently with no limit to copper ground in the No. 2 drill hole. This hole, which first entered copper ground at a depth of 1,441 feet and continued in ground of rather sensational character to a depth of 1,481 feet, has passed through a hundred feet of ground carrying some copper, but apparently not in commercial quantities and is again opening into first-class copper ground. The new copper ground has been entered for a distance of twenty feet and is showing up equally as rich as that had between the 1,441 and 1,481-foot marks in this drill hole. Whether or not the new ground is a second lode or is a part of the first rich ground encountered from which it is separated by an intrusion of trap 100 feet thick has not been determined.

Ojibway.

Recent developments in the Ojibway property disclosed ground of exceptional character at the 500-foot and 650-foot levels in the No. 1 shaft. The situation in the No. 2 shaft is not materially changed from that noted in the past, and while quite all of the ground opened tributary to No. 1 shaft is of good grade, that in the No. 2 shaft is rather variable and probably not more than 50 per cent of the ground there opened would be classed as stoping ground. Both shafts remain bottomed at the 1,250-foot level reached some time ago and all activity is now centered in the creation of lateral openings.

Atlantic.

The operations of the Atlantic company continues centered in crosscutting at the sixteenth level, the object being the disclosure of the southerly extension of the Superior lode. The crosscut has been extended for a distance of quite 1,000 feet in the direction of the eastern sandstone, and it is thought that the Superior lode may be one of the several lodes cut in this work. This wil be determined by drifting within another month. At the twenty-fifth level, drifting is in progress both ways in the Baltic lode, and some of the finest ground opened in this property is being developed at that depth. The company is doing a limited amount of stoping at the thirteenth level and making occasional shipments of rock to the stamp mill, but nothing like a regular production is possible. This rock is yielding thirty pounds copper per ton of rock milled.

Oneco.

The diamond drill operations of the Oneco company have resulted in a further disclosure of the Oneco lode. The new core was taken from a depth of about 1,000 feet and is said to carry copper in about the same proportion as that obtained in the first boring at a depth of 350 feet. The lode is found to be between twelve and fourteen feet wide, carrying its copper well distributed to a foot of hanging wall and apparently is a first-class milling rock. A second diamond drill outfit was recently rigged up near the southwest corner of the property and is now drilling to intersect the unidentified lode recently cut in No. 5 drill hole and which may or may not be the famous Tomahawk lode for though this lode lies in the presumed horizon of the Tomahawk lode it is an amygdaloid, while the Tomahawk lode is popularly supposed to be a conglomerate. Diamond drilling just begun in the new No. 6 hole is expected to prove or disprove once for all the existence of this famous lode on the Oneco property.

Franklin.

Franklin has rigged up a diamond drill in the horizon of the Hancock

OUTPUT YET BELOW NORMAL

Inclination in Butte District to Keep Down Production—Three or Four Corbin District Companies Expected to Be Producing Copper in Considerable Quantities Within a Year.

Butte, Mont., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new year starts off very badly for the Butte district, so far as copper production is concerned, and while January will show a production larger than that of December, it will still be far below the normal for the district. At present there appears to be an inclination to keep the production down, and three or four of the most important mines in Butte remain idle, although the causes that led to their suspension have been removed for some time.

While the Butte output is restricted, all evidence goes to indicate that within the next year or two Montana will again take rank as a copper producer so far in the lead that no other state can hope to equal it. This condition will be brought about by the contribution from the Corbin-Wickes district. Mining men and engineers familiar with the conditions there and the extensive development work that is being done, say three or four companies will be producing copper in considerable quantities within a year. It will be an unusual record for a new copper district, and it was only within the past few years that the attention of copper mine operators has been attracted to the district. For instance, the Boston & Corbin Copper company, of which N. L. Amster is president, has already blocked out, ready for the concentrator, no less than 234,000 tons, according to the last annual report of President Amster. This company is installing a very large and complete electrical equipment, and it is expected that during the current year even a larger tonnage will be made available than there was blocked out when the president made his last report.

President Stephen R. Dow of the Corbin Copper company, says that company has blocked out sufficient tonnage of copper ore to justify the installation of a large concentrator which could be kept running for many years. It is understood that orders have been placed for the machinery for a mill by the Dow company.

Robert Emmet Company.

which will shortly be ready for production, is the Robert Emmet Copper company, which probably has the most completely equipped property in the district. The plant is electrified in its entirety, and is said to be one of ten of the finest electrical plants that have ever been installed. The transformer plant is ine of the best ever built. The company receives 65,000 volts from the high tension line of the United Missouri River Power Company. The Robert Emmet properties are fortunately situated, so far as the procurement of cheap power is concerned, as the United Missouri River Power company, which transmits 35,000 horse-power to the mines of Butte, passes within less than a mile of the Emmet properties. Butte engineers who have visited the district and examined the underground workings of the Robert Emmet are very enthusiastic, not only about the tonnage exposed, but because of the high grade of the ore. The ore carries an unusually high percentage of copper and runs well in silver and lead. Average samples across the face of the drift on the 200-foot level assayed 7 per cent copper, forty ounces of silver and 15 per cent lead. Selected samples gave $150 to the ton. The Robert Emmet expects to begin the shipment of ore in the spring, and is now completing arrangements to construct a mill for the treatment of its low grade ore. In the meanwhile development operations are conducted on a maximum scale, and the property, it is predicted, will be one of the largest tonnage and net value producers in the Corbin-Wickes district. William Q. Ranft, president of the Robert Emmet, is also president of the Iron Mounatin Tunnel company, which has just completed a tunnel more than a mile in length, tapping the vein of the Iron Mountain at a point 1,600 feet below the apex. Mr. Ranft is regarded as one of the shrewdest mine operators in Montana, and his entrance into the Corbin-Wicks district means that the Robert Emmet would not have gone into its extensive operations of he had not satisfied himself that the district would yield large profits on investments. The company has already expended more than $200,000, and has a shaft down more than 350 feet with extensive openings on the vein on two levels.

Butte & New York.

The board of directors of the Butte & New York Copper company has been reorganized and the Butte & Superior company now has six members on the board, the last of the old directors to retire being H. E. Mittenhal of New York. When he retired there were three vacancies which were filled by the election of I. Freimuth, J. B. Becher and John F. Killoran of Duluth. The other Butte & Superior members on the board are A. B. Wolvin, Theodore Hollister and John G. Williams, who were elected several weeks ago. Rather slow progress is being made in driving the long crosscut from the Butte & Superior mine to that of the Butte & New York, but higher facilities are being added and later the work will be pushed.

British-Butte.

The British-Butte Mining company has made an annual report of its financial condition, showing a gross indebtedness of $221,580. Its capitalization being $5,000,000. The impression seems to be growing that the company's big placer proposition west of Butte, is not going to prove a success or paying

LAKE SUPERIOR IRON MINES

Stockpiles in Crystal Falls District Growing Rapidly—Michigan Mine to Resume Operations—M. A. Hanna & Co. Start Drilling at Monongahela Property—Exploratory Work at Chicagon Tract Successful.

As is the case in all the fields where underground mines are the producers, stockpiles in the Crystal Falls district of the Menominee range are growing rapidly. The only active property at which this is not the case is Corrigan, McKinney & Co.'s Great Western. Only a small force is employed there and very little mining is being done. Nevertheless the Great Western is expected to be one of the biggest shippers in the district this year. This is because a very large stockpile has been carried over from last season and because the blowing in of the company's Riverside furnaces will call for much ore of the Crystal Falls grade. Both the Dunn and Tobin mines of Corrigan, McKinney & Co. are being operated at practically their maximum capacity and their stockpiles are increasing at a rapid rate. The Dunn in particular will be a heavy shipper the coming season. Corrigan, McKinney & Co.'s Armenia mine also is stockpiling ore. This property was recently restored to the producing list, after having been closed since the fall of 1907. Adjoining the Armenia is the McDonald property, which the Huron Iron company is engaged in developing. Various annoying setbacks have been experienced at this mine and it is likely that the shipping season will be well advanced before the property will be in condition to send out much ore. The water problem has been a big one and there have been provoking delays in the receipt of much-needed machinery. Once the surface equipment is in readiness, underground development will be pushed with vigor.

Oglebay, Norton & Co.'s Bristol mine, which led all the Western Menominee producers in point of shipments last year, will likely duplicate the achievement the coming season. Its outgo will approximate that of 1909, when nearly 400,000 tons were forwarded. Mining and development are proceeding vigorously. A new shaft at this mine is a probability. The underground haul is a long one, and there are other inconveniences which an additional shaft would obviate. The Steel corporation's Mansfield mine at Crystal Falls is maintaining a steady production which presages a shipment of practically similar proportions to that of last year. The 1909 output was 120,000 tons. The Mansfield ore is of much better grade than that mined at most Crystal Falls properties, but the vein is narrow and the mine is deep, in consequence of which production necessarily is limited.

Michigan to Resume.

The Steel corporation's Michigan mine, a property in the same field, will be hoisting ore prior to the opening of the season of navigation. It continues inactive at present, however, although preparations for the resumption of work are in progress. The shaft at M. A. Hanna & Co.'s Hollister mine has been completed to the 500-foot level and the deposit is now being opened at that depth. The ore measure, which is comparatively narrow in the upper levels, has widened materially, it is understood, and the appearance of the property is said to be better now than at any time heretofore. The last level opened at Pickands, Mather & Co.'s Hemlock mine at Amasa, also is reported to have revealed a notable improvement in the appearance of the deposit. The outgo from this property this year will approximate 125,000 tons. This has been about the average production for a number of seasons past, and it can be maintained for a lengthy period yet, notwithstanding that 1,600,000 tons have already been taken from the mine. The Hemlock is known as the "Old Reliable"—as is the Quincy mine, in the Lake Superior copper region—and it is well deserving of the title. Shaft-sinking is in progress at Pickands, Mather & Co.'s new Channing property, three miles from the Hemlock. The operators are not quite satisfied with the showing so far met with, and before additional equipment is installed and preparations are made to begin production on any material scale a new level will be opened and tested.

To the west of the Tobin mine, M. A. Hanna & company have lately instituted diamond drilling operations at the Monongahela property. This tract is very favorably located and has the ear-marks of a prospective producer. A new shipper last year was the Gibson mine, north of Crystal Falls. Not quite 40,000 tons were sent out. The product this year will show a considerable increase. Shaft sinking is under way and an additional level will be available within the next few months. The Gibson is a property of the Rogers-Brown Ore company. This latter concern, which is also developing a property on the new Cuyuna range, in Minnesota, has not been taken into the so-called Rogers-Brown merger, as reported from the East. As understood in mining circles, the merger includes only the varied Buffalo & Susquehanna interests and their affiliated Munro Mining company.

THIRD SHAFT AT THE CACTUS

Arrangements Being Made to Sink It—Employment of Churn Drills to Thoroughly Explore the Property Also Under Consideration.

Globe, Ariz., Feb. 5.—New plans for the continued development of the Cactus Copper company's property are now being outlined by the management. Supt. T. W. Hamilton and C. W. Pritchett, consulting engineer for the Cactus Copper company, are now at the mine, making arrangements for sinking a third shaft. The employing of churn drills to thoroughly prospect the Cactus and Pinto group of claims and thus determine the limits of the chalcocite ore body is also under consideration. The Hamilton shaft on the Cactus property is 540 feet deep and level work done so far on the 300, 400 and 500-foot levels of this shaft aggregates about one mile. At a depth of 540 feet, where the sinking of the Pinto shaft was discontinued, carbonate ore prevails, running about 15 per cent copper. The ore was first struck in sinking at the 530-foot point. The Hamilton shaft first struck ore at a depth of 320 feet. Exploratory drifting at the Cactus mine is now advancing at the rate of about 1,000 feet a month.

The steady driving on the 500-foot level of the Telfair shaft of the Arizona-Michigan copper property is exploring the formation at that depth with promise of ultimate success. Although no copper ore has yet been developed by the work in this shaft, the surface indications as well as the character of the formations where prospect work has been done, gives the property a very favorable appearance. The shaft was sunk in quartzite to the depth of 400 feet, from which point diorite prevailed to the level to which it had been planned to begin the crosscutting.

On the 300-foot level crosscuts have been driven north and south, the latter one continuing in the diorite to its present length of 410 feet. Northward from the shaft, the crosscutting work went through diorite for a distance of 304 feet. From this point to the present face, 420 feet nearly due north from the shaft, the ground opened is conglomerate and quartzite. The latter formation has prevailed from the 364-foot point. The general observation of the surface rocks shows the limestone so common in other parts of the Copper Hill district. Should the contact between this formation and the quartzite be explored at the depth of crosscutting, as is quite probable, the development of an ore body should result.

PROGRESS IN PROVING APEX

Tuolumne Copper Company Pushing Work on Jessie Vein—Making Regular Shipments of High Grade Ore to Butte Reduction Works.

Butte, Mont., Feb. 5.—Simultaneously with the taking out of 100 tons of ore, a day, which is being shipped to the Butte Reduction works, and the blocking out of extensive ore bodies, the Tuolumne Copper Mining company is pushing the work of proving the apex of the Jessie vein, the ownership of which is being disputed by the North Butte company.

It has been demonstrated that the main Jessie vein diverges into two branches somewhere in the neighborhood of the 1,200-foot level. One branch of the vein is nearly vertical and, it is declared, apexes in the Tuolumne ground. The other branch has a greater dip and, it is believed, apexes in the Jessie claim of the North Butte company. In order to prove the apex of the vein appearing on the Tuolumne ground, the latter company is now drifting along the vein at a depth of about 20 feet from the surface. At this depth the vein is clearly defined, and the drift is being run along the foot wall. The hanging wall has not been touched, although it is known to be within the Tuolumne ground. The values at this depth, which practically is the surface, are about ten ounces in silver, $4 in gold and with strong oxidization and strong indications of copper.

On the 1,200-foot level the vein is being opened by stoping, and it is here that the company is taking out some of its richest ore. The ore now being shipped to the smelter averages better than 15 per cent copper, and is being shipped as it is being taken from the full width of the stopes. There is very little waste. The ore is principally a copper glance, with considerable covalite.

The vein is now being explored on the 1,000-foot level, where great ore bodies have been developed, and it is the policy to open up the vein on every level at intervals of 200 feet until the surface is reached, thus proving the continuation of the vein beyond all possibility of doubt.

During the past week or two the Tuolumne company has run a crosscut about 70 feet on the 1,000-foot level, opening into the workings which have been made by the North Butte company on the Jessie vein. This portion of the vein apexes, it is claimed in the disputed portion of the Tuolumne ground, which is a wedge-shaped strip, about seventy-five feet width at its eastern extremity, extending westerly a distance of about 450 feet, where it comes to a point. On this vein, it is said, about 400 feet is in the undisputed Tuolumne ground.

ARE NOT FOUNDED ON FACTS

Rumors About Calumet & Arizona Not Believed at Bisbee—Physical Condition of Property Better Than Year Ago—Smelter Figures Cited.

Bisbee, Ariz., Feb. 5.—Rumors have been circulated in the East regarding Calumet & Arizona. One story was that there was a big row on among the principal stockholders. Another report sent out from Boston stated that stockholders were afraid of underground conditions in the Calumet & Arizona and were getting out.

The Review has investigated these rumors, both locally and in the East, and has failed to have them confirmed in any manner to stamp them with authenticity. So far as the physical condition of the Calumet & Arizona and the Superior & Pittsburg properties is concerned, all competent testimony available is to the effect that the situation is better than a year ago. If there is anything in the rumors of deterioration which come from Boston and other distant points, no well informed person connected with the properties here will admit it for a moment.

The smelter figures certainly do not support the declaration that ores are petering out, and the miners who work underground, and who might be expected to let fall some significant remarks if the situation were bad, are saying nothing whatever to give the color of truth to the outside report.

Successful copper mining anywhere consists largely of turning up new ore bodies as the old ones become smaller and in this work the companies have been very fortunate. Just now the sulphide body at Oliver, on the 1,350-foot level, has 100,000 tons in sight, while it may extend 100 feet further down. The discovery of ore bodies like this is a common thing in Bisbee, and there is a vast extent of ground that has not yet been cut or explored. Further drifting and sinking may bring to light more sensational finds than have yet been announced.

But the proof of the pudding is in the eating, which means, applied to this particular case, that the proof of the ore is in the smelter output. In view of the fact that this output has averaged about the same for months past, and has shown a slight increase lately, the alarming reports can be taken with a grain of salt. It is the belief of many who ought to know that the physical condition of the Calumet & Arizona properties is not the real cause of the current disturbance on the stock market. In fact, the statement is justified that the underground conditions were never better.

Calumet & Arizona is producing at the present time at the rate of about 27,000,000 pounds of copper per annum, and if the present metal market affords a profit of only 4 cents per pound, the indicated yearly profits are equal to $5.40 per share on the company's 200,000 shares. Dividends at the rate of $4 per annum, are now being declared.

The output of the Calumet & Arizona smelter which treats the output of the Calumet & Arizona and Superior & Pittsburg mines, was, for the year 1909, 26,284 tons of bullion against 25,269 tons in 1908, and 20,256 tons in 1907.

AT THE SUPERIOR & BOSTON

One Hundred Men Employed in Underground and Surface Work—Bins Filled With Ore in Readiness for Shipping.

Globe, Ariz., Feb. 5.—A force of over 100 men is employed in underground and surface work on the Superior & Boston property, located in the Copper Hill district, four and a half miles east of Globe. The company is now directing its energies toward putting the mine in a position to ship ore profitably. The 200-ton bins recently constructed just north of the McGaw shaft have been filled with ore, and the dump is now receiving much of the ore taken from the mine in the course of development. The pump station on the 600-foot level of the McGaw shaft was finished the first of last week and has been timbered throughout. A force of men is now engaged in finishing the station north and south of the shaft on that level. The large pump station on the sixth level is east of the shaft. This station is fifty-two feet long and is being most substantially timbered. The crosscut connection between the McGaw shaft and the Great Eastern workings of the Superior & Boston mine was made last week and the connection of the Superior & Boston Copper company's Great Eastern drift with one of the main drifts driven east from the Eureka shaft of the Arizona-Commercial mine is practically completed. This 600-foot level connection will afford better ventilation for both mines.

The railroad leading from the Arizona-Commercial to the McGaw shaft on the Superior & Boston property has been finished, so that shipments of ore from the McGaw to the smelter can be made at any time when the management desires to begin production. The date for commencing shipments has not yet been set.

At present, two raises are being put up on the Great Eastern ore body from the 600-foot level. One of these raises is located in the Great Eastern drift, seventy-five feet west of the Great Eastern winze and the other one is 100 feet east of the Great Eastern winze. These raises will connect with the intermediate level, ninety feet above the 600-foot level. The management of the Superior & Boston Copper company is now making preparations to resume sinking the Great Eastern winze. This winze now extends thirty feet below the sixth level and goes down in ore with the vein. The sinking of the McGaw shaft has also been continued.

TRAFFIC CONDITIONS WILL BE INVESTIGATED.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 5.—Governor Eberhart has asked the state railroad and warehouse commission to make an investigation of traffic conditions in the state, especially at the three big terminals, St. Paul, Duluth and Minneapolis, to determine whether the public is still suffering from the switchmen's strike and how much. The commission will make a report to the governor in a few days.

CONCERT AT HIGH SCHOOL

Collection of $89 Taken for Smith Scholarship Fund.

The usual happy, satisfied crowd of Duluthians, made up in large part from the high school students and former high school students, gathered at the high school last evening for the annual midyear concert, which has been presented under the direction of A. F. M. Custance for many years and is always anticipated with much pleasure just before the Lenten season.

Last evening's affair was as carefully planned, showed the results of Mr. Custance's energetic and appreciative training and had the usual joyous attractiveness of the high school

A new feature was the accompaniment for the chorus work by Flaaten's orchestra, and it was an innovation that was much appreciated.

The proceeds of last night's concert were pledged to the Charles Alden Smith scholarship fund, and $89 resulted from the collection, to go for this high school scholarship. The society's chorus appeared in four numbers that were well selected and given with a nice appreciation and well-balanced ensemble. The assisting soloists were Charles O. Applehagen, who sang by request, "Big Chief," and in response to an enthusiastic encore gave Mr. Custance's own Swedish dialect love song, "Little Steena Yonson," that was most cordially received. Don Cole also sang a Custance number, "Ask Me No More." The soloists from the society were: Miss Marion Merritt, Miss Loretta O'Gorman, Miss Frances Dickerson, Jean Wanless and Myrtle Hobbs. The accompanists were Mrs. L. C. Merritt and Misses Ethleen Fee and Florence Webb.

INDEPENDENT PACKERS TAKEN UP BY "TRUST."

Chicago, Feb. 5.—The purchase of a packing plant in New York by Chicago interests, said to have been affiliated with the National Packing company, and the negotiations between Chicago packers and a New York banking firm which resulted in a loan of $15,000,000 for the organization of the National Packing company, will be investigated by the federal grand jury according to a report current about the federal building.

How the Chicago packers within the last six months got control of what was originally intended to be an independent packing company will be made a subject of inquiry by the grand jury it is said.

ENGINEER WAS A HERO

Stuck at His Post Trying to Stop His Train.

Applied Brakes When He Might Have Jumped From Cab.

Engineer A. J. Burton of the ill-fated train on the Washburn branch of the Northern Pacific railway which left the track last Tuesday at Lenowee, about fifteen miles from Iron River, died at the post of duty, as it was found that he had applied the air brakes and had probably done all he could to stop his train when he might have jumped and saved his life. He was crushed beneath the engine, which rolled down the embankment, a drive wheel resting on his body.

The fireman, Dave Gibson, also went down the bank with the engine and in some miraculous way was thrown out of the cab as the engine went over and escaped without serious injuries. Eight of the nine freight cars left the track and were demolished. The coach did not leave the rails and none of the passengers were injured.

A special train was sent to the scene of the wreck from Ashland by the way of Iron River, taking out the doctors, Judge Savage, and a jury. The body of Engineer Burton was brought to Duluth and from here it was taken to Mr. Burton's old home at Windom, Minn., for burial. He was 32 years of age, unmarried, and had been on this branch only about two months. He has three brothers, O. E. Burton, an engineer on the Northern Pacific; W. C. Burton, general car foreman in Duluth, and F. A. Burton of Jamestown, N. D.

PETITION FOR WATER MAINS

Residents of West End Hillside Want An Extension.

Since the water bonds were voted at the city election the members of the West End Hillside Improvement club have been encouraged in their movement for an extension of the water system to Tenth and Eleventh streets.

The committee which was appointed at last evening's meeting of the club will now take up the matter of circulating the petition among the residents of the hillside for presentation to the city water board.

The club is working for an extension from the present terminus at Fourteenth avenue west and Fifth street to Piedmont avenue, and up Piedmont avenue as far as Eighth street, and then along Eighth street to Lincoln park. From here they want pipes laid up the avenue to Tenth and Eleventh streets.

Funeral of Mrs. Kohnen.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Kohnen, 50 years old, who died Tuesday at a local hospital after an illness lasting nearly two years, was held from the cathedral, with interment at Calvary cemetery.

MRS. JULIA KOHNEN.

Mrs. Kohnen lived at Twenty-eighth avenue west and had been a resident of the West end for a number of years. Her husband is the proprietor of the Western hotel. She is survived by three daughters and one son.

Scratch Proves Serious.

A scratch on the finger is responsible for a bad case of blood poisoning from which E. A. Swanstrom, 2310 West Second street, is suffering.

When he received the scratch about two weeks ago, he paid no attention to it. It began to bother him and while he was cutting some string on a bandage with an old knife, it slipped and cut a gash in another finger.

The blood poisoning developed from the second wound.

WEST END SKI TOURNAMENT.

Under the auspices of the West End Ski club, which is an amalgamation of the Zenith Ski club with a few of the members of the Adams Athletic association, a tourney for amateurs will be held above the boulevard on Miller's creek tomorrow afternoon.

There is a good hill for jumping. Among the members of the club, who have made long jumps for amateurs are Ole Wick, Hans Peterson, Sigmund Strom and Peter Peterson, who has jumped ninety-five feet on the West end slide. The officers of the club are W. H. Johnson, president; Sigmund Strom, secretary, and Ole Wick, treasurer.

Sleighride Party.

The confirmation class of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, forty in number, enjoyed a sleighride party last evening to the pumping station at Lakeside, Rev. C. G. Oel Olson, pastor of the church accompanied the class.

WILL ERECT NEW CHURCH

The St. Clement's Catholic Congregation Plans a $35,000 Structure.

Will Not Build on Site of Building Destroyed By Fire.

When a parish meeting of the St. Clement's Catholic church is held tomorrow evening at the church hall, Twenty-first avenue west near Third street, the preliminary arrangements will be made for the erection of a new church to replace the one destroyed by fire last Sunday.

During the past week, Rev. Augustine Brockmeyer, pastor of the church and his assistant, Rev. Raymond Basil, have been conferring with architects relative to the building of the new edifice. The matter, however has to be sanctioned by the bishop and also must meet the approval of the parishioners.

Carpenters have been at work this week at the church hall remodeling it so that it can be used as a temporary church. The auditorium stage has been converted into a pulpit. It has nearly as large a seating capacity as the church that was ruined by fire had.

In all probability the new church will be put up on the southeast corner of Twenty-first avenue west and Third street as far as possible from the street. The building that the church officials have in mind will be one of the finest in the West end, costing in the neighborhood of $35,000.

The new church will occupy the largest portion of four lots on the corner. It will probably be about 125 feet long and have a frontage of between fifty and sixty feet on West Third street. If the church is built along these plans, it will necessitate the moving of the present church hall to another site. The plan of building the new church on the site of the burned building will not be considered.

It is probable that when the parish meets tomorrow evening that a committee will be appointed to look the matter up. The insurance adjusters have been in the West end this week adjusting the fire loss. The congregation will receive about $6,000 in insurance.

The actual loss to the building will amount to $10,000. The fire broke out last Sunday evening about 5 o'clock, presumably from defective electric wiring in the church building.

The usual services will be held tomorrow morning at the church hall at the following hours: 8, 9:15 and 10 a. m.

Since the hall is being used as a temporary church, all of the gymnasium apparatus of the Young Men's Sodality has been moved to the new school hall of the French Catholic church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street, where it will be stored this winter.

All basket ball games in which the Young Men's Sodality is involved, have been cancelled.

Midwinter Conference.

At the midwinter missionary conference, which will be held tomorrow afternoon at the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street, Dr. Frank Peterson, district secretary of the American Baptist Missionary union and Dr. B. R. Pope, state superintendent of Baptist missions, both of Minneapolis and Rev. W. E. Risinger of St. Paul will be the principal speakers. All Baptist churches of the city will be represented at the meeting. Several of the lectures will be illustrated with stereopticon views.

Glee Club Banquet.

The annual banquet of the Svea Glee club of the West end will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock at Eagles' hall, a good program having been arranged for the occasion. Besides a number of songs, there will also be speeches by members and music by an orchestra.

West End Shortrails.

Eugene Faneault, superintendent of the shaft work for the Sheely Mining company at Gilbert, Minn., is in the West end on a few days' visit with his family at Twenty-eighth avenue west.

Dr. Frank Peterson, district secretary of the American Baptist Missionary union, arrived in Duluth today to be the guest of Rev. and Mrs. Swaney Nelson of 2212 West Third street. Tomorrow he will speak at the Swedish Baptist church in the morning.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers held a brief business meeting yesterday afternoon at Columbia hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street.

Rev. and Mrs. Edward Stromberg of 314 North Twentieth avenue west entertained the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Swedish M. E. Church at their home yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Widholm of 1910 West Third street entertained the Busy Bee Society of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran Church at her home this afternoon.

The Swedish Christian Benefit society of the West End held a business meeting last evening at Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street.

A young people's rally and Sunday school meeting was held last evening at the Swedish Mission church. Rev. J. J. Daniels was the principal speaker.

Miss Hulda Olson of 1827 West Superior street will entertain the La Coterie club of the Second Presbyterian church at her home this evening.

The Adams Co-eds gave a dancing party last evening at Columbia hall for the friends of the Adams Athletic association teams. The affair was largely attended.

Joseph Clayton is back from a three months' visit in Victoria, B. C. Mr. Clayton has property there.

J. R. Batchelor, a manager of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. will speak tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Second Presbyterian church. In the evening there will be a special meeting of the Christian Endeavor society at 7:45 o'clock.

A missionary meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. A. M. Worthington, 2720 West Third street, next Wednesday, Feb. 9, at 2:30.

WIRES WILL SOON BE UNDERGROUND

Duluth Telephone Company Begins Work in Downtown District.

The Duluth Telephone company started putting the last of its wires in the downtown district underground this morning. The work will be rushed to completion with a large crew of men.

The wires now being removed from the objectionable overhead poles are those on First street between Second avenue west and Mesaba avenue, which intersects with First street near the incline on Seventh avenue west. The company has done much of this kind of work the last year.

The crew will work Sundays in order to have the wires down as soon as possible. The cutting down of the tall poles is dangerous, and this will be done on Sunday when few people are on the streets and the traffic is very light.

Mr. E. A. Kelley, Belvidere, Ill., writes us: "I am an ex-engineer with 22 years active service to my credit. About three years ago my kidneys were affected so that I had to give up my engine. First I was troubled with severe, aching pain over the hips. Then followed inflammation of the bladder, and specks appeared before my eyes. A sample of Foley's Kidney Pills that I tried so benefited me that I bought more. I continued to take them until now I can safely testify they have made me a sound and well man." ## DEADLOCK HALTS MINE WAGE TALK

Miners and Operators at Toledo Have Adjourned Sine Die.

Toledo, Ohio, Feb. 5.—Unable to effect an organization because of the deadlock over the admission of the miners' delegates from Illinois, the joint wage conference of the bituminous coal operators and miners of Ohio, Indiana and Pennsylvania has adjourned sine die. No provision was made for another meeting.

This, it is declared, does not mean necessarily a suspension of work at the expiration of the present contract, on April 1. This would affect all of the bituminous district controlled by the United Mine Workers, as they decreed at their Indianapolis convention that no district should sign a wage scale until the scales for all districts are negotiated. Both sides have declared, however, that they will not recede on the Illinois proposition.

Some plan may be worked out to get the miners and operators together again before April 1. What this will be neither President Thomas L. Lewis of the miners nor leading operators could say. It may be a call for another convention or the selection of a representative scale committee.

PLAY WAS A SUCCESS.

Duluth Heights Young People Display Talent Before Footlights.

Last night at the fire hall at Duluth Heights an enthusiastic audience witnessed "The Sweet Girl Graduate," a musical comedy, presented by the young people of the hilltop suburb.

The play was filled with enjoyable numbers and the youthful actors displayed much real ability. "When We Were Just School Mates," sung by Miss Reamer, was one of the hits of the evening. Miss Ethel Purcell had a leading part, which she handled in a capable manner, and Athelia Dolson was very dignified as the teacher in the play.

Mahon Emerson Donaldson furnished the comedy. He kept the large audience in laughter a greater part of the time. "The Music Critic," a recitation by Maceola and Lulu Williams, was greatly enjoyed.

The play was very successful from every standpoint and those who witnessed it are hoping that the young people will repeat with another very soon.

"GRANDPA" WOLLIVER, SOO CHARACTER, PASSES AWAY.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Grandpa" Wolliver, a character about here, aged 86, is dead. But little is known of the family and history of the generally loved old gentleman.

He had lived here for nearly thirty years. He would tell but little in regard to himself. Only one relative is supposed to be living, and that is a niece, whose whereabouts are unknown. He had mentioned a daughter. He had been in straightened circumstances financially for years, and when once asked why he did not save something for old age, he replied that he invested his money in real estate and lost it.

He was an industrious old gentleman and in spite of the great feebleness that came with more than four score years, he was a persistent paddler of his own canoe.

WALTER McDONALD, WHO SHOT HOWARD SEXTON OF DULUTH, SHOOTS HIMSELF AT WALKER

the last two weeks owing to business reverses and had been known to flash a revolver in the faces of three men during the last two days.

McDonald had been a resident of Walker for the past ten years, and recently ran a saloon here. In the 80's he lived at Eagle Rock, Idaho, now called Idaho Falls, and was classed among the men handy with a gun in those days.

McDonald early last evening permitted his wife to leave the house with her brother-in-law, William Sitzer of Cass Lake, who arrived in the afternoon and was permitted by McDonald to visit the house. There was considerable alarm among the watchers after Sitzer disappeared within the house, when he did not appear for fully an hour, it being feared that McDonald would shoot him and make way with his wife and himself. When Sitzer appeared Mrs. McDonald came with him, and both left last night for Cass Lake. Mrs. McDonald is a sister of Mrs. Sitzer.

Stories of the Crime.

Several stories have gained circulation regarding the incident which led to the shooting. The Walker saloons were closed a short time ago, and since McDonald has conducted a poolroom. It is claimed that he entered the hotel and demanded of Mr. Sexton a drink, but was refused. This angered him and he began to abuse the clerk, who was well acquainted with the reputation of McDonald as a bully, but thought him a bluffer and told him as much. McDonald left the hotel and returned shortly afterward, and, walking up to Sexton, who was standing quietly at the desk, quickly pulled his 38-caliber revolver and fired five shots, two passing through the victim's body. McDonald then intimidated the bystanders and flourished his revolver while he withdrew from the building and succeeded in escaping to his house.

More Murders Planned?

Sheriff Delury and members of the posse believe that McDonald had intended to kill several other men before dying himself. They declare that the man attempted to lure his intended victims to the house last night, planning to kill them as fast as they arrived.

Soon after his wife was taken from the house last night by her brother-in-law, McDonald began to call up acquaintances on the telephone. First he got Mayor J. S. Scribner and asked him to come to the house at once.

"I want to talk to you," he said. "I will throw up my hands and walk out to the sheriff if they won't shoot me."

Mayor Scribner did not believe him and refused to take the chance. Then McDonald called up the Hotel Chase and asked for Bert Chase, the proprietor, one of the two men he had sworn specifically to kill. Chase was in hiding and refused to answer the telephone. McDonald left a message, asking him to come to the house at once, as he "wanted to square everything with him."

Refused to Run Risk.

The next man called up was Robert McLean. McLean refused to go to the house, although McDonald protested that he only wanted to have a conference looking to surrender. He called up several other citizens, and finally got his long time chum and partner, Jim Valentine.

"Come up to the house, Jim," he said. "I want to have a talk with you."

"Not for me!" said Valentine, and hung up the receiver.

At 3 o'clock this morning McDonald was seen standing at one of the windows of his house. Any one of the posse could have shot him, but it was not their purpose to kill McDonald unless he showed fight. That was the last seen of him alive.

her seams parting, and the inrushing waters fast gaining on the pumps.

The rescue of the crew was effected a few hours before the Kentucky sank.

Operator a Hero.

Meanwhile another hero of the wireless has been found in the person of W. G. McGinnis, operator on the Kentucky. In the wireless room of the Kentucky Operator McGinnis sat hammering away on the call for aid and receiving the assurance that help was coming as fast as the engines of a liner and two revenue cutters which caught his message could drive them. He sat at his instrument until water rushing in drowned out the dynamo that enabled him to send out his signals. Then the wireless was choked and the Kentucky's crew could but wait until the vessel was found. Just as the electricity failed, the first sign of smoke from the Alamo's fires was seen.

The work of transferring the crew was attended with little danger. Wireless reports are to the effect that no one was injured.

His wife endeavored to assist him to his feet, but in her excitement fell beside her husband. Two daughters hurrying to the aid of their parents only added to the confusion and quickly fell themselves, all four lying on the court room floor before the judge's bench.

Excitement was intense, but all the Glazier family soon were assisted to their feet and Glazier was led across the street to the jail to await the completion of the commitment papers sending him to the penitentiary.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

Solves the Problem of Good Hair.

After Prof. Sabouraud confirmed the germ origin of dandruff, science was confronted by a new problem which was not solved until the discovery of Newbro's Herpicide. Herpicide being the first successful preparation compounded in harmony with this new theory, becomes the original remedy to kill the dandruff germ.

Since then, numerous preparations said to be "just as good" as Herpicide have been thrown upon the market; others have adopted Herpicide claims, but their remedies remain the same, but none have ever reached the same degree of popularity. Everywhere this remedy is recognized as the germ destroyer. As a result Herpicide has more satisfied users than all other hair preparations combined.

Being the original remedy, users expect more astonishing results from Herpicide than they would look for from any other preparation and they usually get them. So wonderful has been the success of this germicide that it is now recognized as the standard hair remedy of the world.

Herpicide kills the dandruff germ, checks falling hair. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

For sale at Drug Stores. One Dollar Bottles are guaranteed. Applications obtainable at the good Barber Shops. Insist on having real Herpicide. Send 10c in postage for sample and book to The Herpicide Co., Dept. 5B., Detroit, Mich.

If we think of religion only as a means of escaping what we call the wrath to come, we shall not escape it; we are under the burden of death, if we care only for ourselves.

—Froude.

WHY LIVING IS EXPENSIVE.

The cost of living is high in this country partly because there are too many people in the cities and too few on the farms, as James J. Hill and others declare: but it isn't because the soil does not produce enough to go around, as they seem to believe. It is because enough is exported to keep the domestic supply a little under the demand, and because the price of what remains is controlled by a few for their own excessive profit.

The cost of living is high in this country because too few people control production or distribution or both, and because before products reach the consumer heavy tolls in wastes and unfair profits are added.

The cost of living is high in this country because these powerful few who reap the fruits of the toil of others have established a scale of luxurious living that absorbs in the production of luxuries too large a proportion of the workers, and because that lavish scale of living is an example that is corrupting and demoralizing to those who are not able to maintain it but who try to maintain it with the inevitable result that they land in bankruptcy or crime.

The cost of living is high in this country because the government has kept its hands off and permitted a few to gain and use the power to make it high. Freeing itself from the oppression of individual restraints, this country formed its institutions upon the principle that there must be as little restraint upon individual enterprise as possible—and the result has been that individual liberty has been so grossly abused by a crafty and cunning few that they have reared, outside and above the fabric of government, an autocracy more powerful and more oppressive and more harmful than any other in all the world.

The cost of living is high because the government not only kept its hand off individual enterprises, even when those enterprises came into the control of corporations created by the people's governments, but because it has used its power to foster their schemes for exploiting the people, schemes whereby they reaped an undue proportion of the fruits of toil on one hand, and exacted from the worker an undue price for the things he has produced on the other.

The cost of living is high, for instance, because the throttling of domestic competition has been abetted by the use of the protective tariff to keep out foreign competition; so that the people are taxed today three billion dollars and more each year, of which the government gets but a tenth through the customs officers, while the remainder goes to the specially privileged arbiters of industry through the high prices they are permitted to charge with no conscience or competition or government regulation to restrain them. This protective tariff has been created in the name of American labor; yet American labor, because of low wages and high cost of living, is its chief victim. Surely history has failed to show a more wretched piece of perfidy and hypocrisy.

In short, the cost of living is high because the processes of supplying the people's needs have not been used to serve the people, as they should have been, but as a means of wresting from labor the greater part of the fruits of its toil, and as a means of exacting from the people the high prices that make possible the greatest luxury in all history on the one hand, and the greatest oppression and privation and industrial serfdom in the history of modern civilization on the other hand.

JUST A FEW CORRECTIONS.

The postoffice department and the president having declared that there is an increasing deficit in the postal revenues, amounting this year to $17,000,000, and having agreed that this is due to the loss in carrying newspapers and magazines, the magazine publishers have analyzed the official figures, and modestly have submitted their opinion that there are a few mistakes in them.

For instance, they say that there is not a deficit of $17,000,000, but a surplus of over $10,000,000, when the specific loss on rural delivery is excluded, as it should be.

They say that instead of there being an increasing deficit in the postal revenues, the deficit really is decreasing, because it was 21.4 per cent in 1870 and only 2.4 per cent in 1902, which is turned into a real surplus when the specific rural delivery beneficence is excluded.

The department says that it loses $64,000,000 a year in carrying newspapers and magazines, and the magazine publishers declare that this is wrong by over $60,000,000. The weight of second class mail is figured by the department at 792,580,967 pounds, and it should be 694,865,884 pounds. There has been improperly charged to second class mail a loss of $13,821,100 which is properly chargeable to the rural free delivery. Cost of transportation improperly charged to second class mail amount to $24,000,000. Expenses for railway mail service improperly charged to second class matter reach $4,098,829; for postoffice car service, $2,353,387. Overcharges on city delivery, compensation to postmasters, clerks, rentals and miscellaneous items amount to $16,000,000,

These are merely a few discrepancies that are pointed out by the magazine publishers in presenting their own case. It is, of course, unfair to assert that there is a deficit in the postoffice department so long as the rural free delivery is continued, because that is an addition to the service that was certain to result in heavy losses, and that always will result in losses until the parcels post is adopted. It is a beneficence, pure and simple, designed to make life on the farm more attractive; and as such it is entirely worthy and a proper investment of public money. But the losses it involves should not be used to make it appear that the deficit is caused by second class matter. Neither should the losses involved in carrying free of charge governmental and congressional mail matter—including vast quantities that ought to go by freight. The government should not claim that it loses on the second class mail rate when the express companies, which pay the railroads 40 per cent of their receipts, take business at that rate and make money on it. The government should not charge its deficit to second class matter when the Canadian government, which charges only a quarter as much for second class matter, makes money and shows a surplus.

Even if it were true that the postoffice loses money on newspapers and magazines, still it should maintain the present rate, for it is a concession not to the publishers but to the public. It makes cheap newspapers and magazines possible, and both in their own fields are doing a splendid work in the spread of knowledge and enlightenment.

And it is particularly inept in the administration to single out for attack the newspapers and magazines at a time when they are making difficult by exposure and criticism the prostitution of government to improper purposes. It makes it look too much as though the proposal to increase rates were a measure of retaliation and suppression, not one of economy.

GET TOGETHER.

The suggestion of this morning's News Tribune that a more coherent and more fully representative organization of strong business men is needed to make Duluth go ahead is worth considering. It is in line with what The Herald said several weeks ago when it suggested that what is needed is a definite organization, under a definite name, that will give substance to the fight for a Greater Duluth, and that will provide a definite movement behind which everybody can get, with a definite purpose that everybody can push, and with a definite name for which everybody can shout and from which everybody can take encouragement and direction. That is what has been done in other communities, and that is what should be done in Duluth, with the present organization of the Commercial club as its basis and rallying point.

SENSIBLE ADVICE.

Our esteemed rural friend the Holdingford Advertiser professes to be amused at "the howl put up by the city dwellers about the cost of living."

It is easy enough to imagine that from the viewpoint of the prosperous farming districts the outcry from the cities may seem amusing to the unthinking; but let us assure the Holdingford Advertiser that it is by no means amusing at close hand, and that back of the outcry against high prices there is real misery and real suffering.

But the unfeeling attitude of our rural friend is more acceptable because it is accompanied by a remedy.

"We suggest," says the Advertiser, "that some of those hungry city dudes get out in the country and raise their own pork and vegetables. There is lots of untilled land yet."

That's pretty fairly good advice, and if it could be adopted and carried out it would go far to improve the situation. Unquestionably it is true that the call of the city, while it has produced cities whose size is one of the wonders of the age, has been heeded at great cost to humanity. It has taken from the soil thousands who should be tilling it. It has drawn to the cities millions more than the cities can feed. When Chicago, for instance, gloats over its millions of population, it must take a considerable effort to forget the fact that of those millions a distressingly large proportion are face to face with poverty year in and year out, in good times and bad times, because the city hasn't employment enough and food enough for all.

If it were possible, by the waving of a magic wand, to take out of the cities of this country 25 per cent of their people and place them on the land, immediate betterment for all would follow. There would be more people raising foodstuffs, so there would be more to go around. Prices would be lower, yet still profitable. The congested labor markets of the cities would be relieved, and there might be work enough to go around at decent wages. It might even come about that no man honestly seeking the opportunity to earn his living in the sweat of his face should lack that opportunity; and today it is the greatest blot upon the fame of American democracy that in the most prosperous times there are thousands of men willing to work who cannot find work, and whose families go hungry because they cannot coin their willing energies into bread.

The Advertiser's suggestion is good, therefore; but it lacks something when it fails to tell how to accomplish the gigantic task of moving these suffering thousands out of their distressful city environments and giving them the peace and independence and comfort that await them on the fruitful land.

If Merlin were alive today, and his magic wand had all its oldtime potency,—and it would need it all, and more,—and if he could be induced to accomplish two things, he would do more for humanity than any single individual ever will do. These two things would be to change the tariff from a thing of hypocrisy, dishonesty, corruption and oppression into an instrument of honest service for the best good of the greatest number, and to rob the cities of at least a quarter of their populations and place them upon the land to till its soil.

FOOL'S GOLD.

There is hardly anything so pathetic as the manner in which men of small means are roped in by schemers who tempt them with glittering plans to make them rich quickly. The man on small salary or scant wages sees others who do not work half so hard as he does "rolling in luxury," and while he may not covet luxury, he does cherish the hope that by some sudden twist of Fortune's caprice he may win independence.

So the man with a mining scheme, or some other tempting get-rich-quick plan, never lacks victims. His prospectus reads well, always. In fact the prospectus of the mining scheme which is practically a certainty, though it calls for large capital, seldom reads so beautifully and promises so much as the prospectus of the man who has nothing but a plan to get other people's money. Men who wouldn't lend money on good real estate without a careful examination of the title will launch their money in faraway mining schemes merely on the promises of utter strangers. Save as he will, it is hard for the man who has the habit of testing such schemes to pile up his pennies fast enough to satisfy the greed of the schemers.

Nor is the money all lost to sharpers; impracticable dreamers dissipate a lot of money too. For instance, many humble toilers of Minnesota are now ruefully reading a letter which shatters their dreams of wealth and independence. Some time ago a company was floated to dredge the sands of a western river and get the gold out of it. There was gold in the sand; you could see it. All that was necessary, it seemed, was to build a dredge and set up machinery to take out the gold. The gold in the top sands was very fine, but they expected that down below, at bedrock, it would be coarser; and a man they sent out reported that bedrock was only a few feet deep.

So hundreds of poor people bought stock in this company, and sat back confidently to await rich returns. The other day they got a long letter from the head of the company, telling them that they had lost their money. The gold is in the sands, just as they said it was. They built the dredge, just as they said they would. The dredge dug up the sand, and the company put it through the machinery. But after spending $500 in operations, not counting the expense of the plant, and getting only $20 back, they realized that their dreams were shattered. The gold was too fine, the river water covered the sands with a slime that prevented the quicksilver from extracting the gold; oh, there were plenty of reasons. Besides, the hope of getting the coarse gold at bed rock was shattered by the discovery that government engineers had reported long before that bedrock was 100 to 200 feet below the surface, and their machinery would only go seventy feet down. This report was available if the company had thought of looking it up, but it didn't; and that lack of practical examination is the rock upon which many fair argosies of hope are wrecked.

This instance is mentioned not because of any particular importance of its own, nor because it is an isolated case. It is important only because it is typical of many.

The man who saves his pennies and when he has anything to invest buys land or city property or good bonds, even though his savings are small, will in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred achieve independence quicker than those who scatter their savings abroad in wildcat speculations, no matter how fair their promises of wealth.

AS TO MEAT AND VEGETABLES.

The other day, in commenting on the spreading meat boycott, The Herald said that the chief good that would come out of it would be the discovery by a very great number of people that they do not need so much meat as they thought they did, and that they are better off financially and physically for eating less of it than they have been eating. To that The Herald added, however, that people should not make the mistake of become vegetarians.

The opinion was expressed merely in passing, and without any controversial intent, but it has aroused the ire of the editor of the Appleton Press, who says in his current issue: "Now we should like to ask The Herald by what authority it refers to vegetarianism as a 'mistake'? The editor of the Press is a vegetarian, and would not eat meat if some one should pay him $10 a pound for all he could consume. However, we have always regarded flesh-eating as a personal matter between the eater and the eatee, and one with which we never feel disposed to meddle; but when some one rises up and calls vegetarianism a mistake, we want to know whether he speaks as one having experience or as one vaporing through his hat."

As to this latter alternative we shall have to plead not guilty to both horns of it. We have not tried vegetarianism, nor are we in the habit of "vaporing through the hat." Neither have we the disposition to enter upon a controversy as to the merits or demerits of vegetarianism. When The Herald stated that most people eat too much meat and that they would be better off if they ate less, but that they shouldn't make the mistake of abandoning meat altogether, it voiced what seems to be the best and latest verdict of science. It is not so much a matter of eating or not eating meat, but of eating enough or too much of certain food elements—proteids—which are found in meat and in some vegetables. If a person eats too freely of proteids, he taxes his system beyond its capacity, and necessarily he suffers as a punishment for his misdoing. If he ate too exclusively peas and beans, for instance, which contain much of this element, he would suffer just as surely as though he had eaten too exclusively of meat. Yet, thus far, it has not been proved that meat is not an essential of diet, especially for people who perform manual labor; therefore it would be a mistake to abandon meat altogether and permanently.

However, we will say this for vegetarianism: the editor of the Appleton Press, who confesses that he is a vegetarian, writes as vigorously as though he ate raw meat three times a day. If he lives and thrives and prospers without meat, and continues to write with as incisive and vitriolic a pen as he uses now, then for him vegetarianism is no mistake. He has The Herald's permission to continue his fast.

TO STOP SPECULATION IN EGGS AND MEAT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

An idea struck me after reading so much about the high cost of living, and of meats, fish, poultry, eggs, etc., that if our government were to pass such laws as the prohibiting of the sale of meats, fish and eggs, after they have become, say two weeks old, that there would not be any opportunity for the speculator to buy up these things, place them in cold storage houses, and command higher prices.

I venture to say, that there are millions upon millions of eggs today stored in the storage houses, also tons upon tons of poultry, and a great quanity of it is not fit to be eaten.

If my memory serves me right, there is such a law in Germany, whereby the fish must be sold alive to the consumer, and I believe it is a good law, which should be in force in this country. As you well know, it is impossible to get a fresh fish right here at home, many times the fish has been in the storage house at least six months, and what is more poisonous than an old fish.

I believe, if this were to be agitated and wide-spread over the country, it would find its way into our legislation halls, and a problem solved, which would eventually do away with the speculation in food products.

Respectfully yours,
FRED BAYHA.

DULUTH BEING HELD UP ON INSURANCE RATES?

To the Editor of The Herald:

Last year while the legislature was in session I called the Duluth Commercial club's attention to the fact that through a system of rating, Duluth people were being mulcted of thousands of dollars annually, and gave substantial reasons for the assertion.

Thereupon a committee was appointed to look into the matter, but unfortunately insurance men were selected to act on this committee and there was nothing done, except to send one or two men here to look over a rough bill and letters I had addressed to Mr. Congdon asking him to kindly look into the matter and confer with Mr. Laybourn who was chairman of the insurance committee. But for some unaccounted reasons the matter was pigeon-holed and Mr. Laybourn found it proper that the Duluth people should pay these rates, which, according to Mr. Cardigan nets the insurance agents of Duluth 100 per cent on the premiums.

Now that the matter in the Twin Cities is so strongly agitated will the Duluth people take the matter in their own hands and protect the Duluth people, especially the small property owners, who are compelled to insure to protect mortgages and all others who can ill afford to pay 100 per cent more than they ought to. Duluth, through the trust bureau in Minneapolis, is rated third class and yet we have the best fire department in the Northwest, as we all know. Our insurance matters need to be looked into.

THE WEATHER.

FAIR

The beautiful winter weather continues. It was a little colder this morning, the thermometer getting down below zero last night, but it is ideal winter weather, clear and crisp. The weather man expects the present conditions to continue during the night.

A year ago today it was warm and cloudy.

The sun rose this morning at 7:28 and will set at 5:17, making nine hours and forty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Somewhat colder temperatures attend a rise in pressure over Canada and Northern border states, but the center of highest pressure still overlies Wyoming. Zero weather prevails in Nevada, Wyoming, Saskatchewan, Ontario, Manitoba and the Lake Superior region. An area of high pressure central over Eastern Texas has caused colder weather in Florida. Barometric depressions are central over Northern New England, Missouri, Western Mexico and to the northward of Alberta. During the past twenty-four hours the New England and Alberta disturbances caused light snow in the lake region and the extreme Northern Atlantic districts.

"Indications favor a continuance of fair and moderately cold weather at the Head of the Lakes tonight and Sunday."

Words of Life.

How often when I've fainted by the way,
Or other people did in days of yore,
I've heard a heavenly voice low and tender say,
"Go thy way, and sin no more."

When once I wished to rest among the dead,
And wandered off upon a lonely lea,
I met some one with smiling face who said:
"Come unto me."

I lost my way upon a stormy night
And could not stand beneath my load of care.
He whispered, as He led me to the light,
"Daughter, be of good cheer."

When once my frail bark drifted out to sea,
And there was no one near to hear my cry,
I saw a light and some one said to me:
"Be not afraid, for it is I."

My soul forgot the raging of the waves,
My heart forgot the bitter pain and strife,
And, leaning on the arm of Him who saves,
Drank, eagerly, those blessed words of life.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

The Seamy Side.

Not often am I disposed to dwell upon the seamy side of human existence. Life seems to me on the whole so good, so full of promise and actual achievement that no other attitude than that represented by the word optimism seems reasonable or even possible. Things are bettering all the time. Those who are privileged to round out another half century of life on this globe are to be congratulated, for they will see abundant evidences of the fact that this world is not a failure or the men and women in it fools, dupes or knaves.

And yet now and then even an optimist has his faith in the future severely strained. Revelations come to him of the weakness and wickedness of his fellows and stunned for the moment he asks, "what is the trouble with this old world anyway. Why will men behave as they do?"

I am not now referring to the public and widely heralded frauds and corruption. The rich malefactors, the holders of predatory wealth and the so-called undesirable citizens in all ranks of society are not now my target. Indeed, I want to turn attention away from the cities where we see so much of entrenched evil to a quiet country village, with which I am somewhat familiar. Nor do I intend to emphasize the flagrant vices too often found in remote hamlets. I am simply going to tell about a drive the other morning with an intelligent country lad, 17 years old, who had lived all his life in the region and knew well every family and almost every individual along our route. Without any intention of gossiping, he managed to tell me about as somber a story as I have listened to for months. Yet there was not a particle of malice in his tale. His sense of humor is strong, and I think he rather enjoyed seeing my spirits sink under his recital of cold facts.

We passed two pleasant homes on opposite sides of the road. "The grown-up people in those houses," said he, "never speak to each other. The trouble came about because one man wanted to carry his drain through the other's premises." A little further on a story and a half house loomed in sight. "An old bachelor lives there who hasn't hardly done a stroke of work in his life. His folks left him enough money, so that he can loaf and booze all he pleases." Soon we came into a little settlement where most of the families, as I saw by the rural delivery boxes, had the same name. "Nice," I remarked, "that relatives can live so near together." He picked up my words. "Nice! Guess they don't look at it that way. They all have what we up here call the 'Dingale temper.' Why, I've heard some of the girls swear like pirates, and there is a standing feud between a number of the cousins."

We turned the corner of the road to confront a handsome homestead, evidently built for two families. "Yes, that's a double house," said my companion, "but the families might as well be on the opposite sides of the globe for all that they care for each other. Call on one and they spend most of the time complaining about the other. Then go to the other folks and you hear a similar story." And now the horse was in front of still another dwelling, in which, I was told, the husband and wife carried on the traditional cat-and-dog controversy from morning till night. I spare my readers further details, but at the end of that drive I felt as if I had had a look into the underworld. Yet mark you, the country through which we were passing would be considered as law-abiding. No missionary society would think of sending its colporteurs and evangelists there. And yet pride, envy, jealousy, implacability, the unforgiving spirit, the selfish and fiery temper were to be found in almost every house.

Whether this was an average community, whether these faults are more evident in the country, I do not now stop to consider. Suffice it to draw one conclusion that can hardly be gainsaid. In far too many places men and women are not living at their best. They need something to control their tempers, to lift them out of their narrowness, pettiness and selfishness. Do you know anything better for the seamy side of life than the Christian gospel?

THE INS AND THE OUTS

By SAVOYARD.

Since 1896 and even earlier, we have heard the epigram: "The Republican is the party that does things, and the Democratic is the party that says things." That is true, and it would be strange if it were otherwise. For forty-nine years, with brief intervals of Democratic supremacy, the Republican party has been in power. It is the office of the party in power to do things. On the other hand, during forty-one years of that forty-nine years the Democratic party has been the opposition. It is the office of the opposition to criticise. Indeed, since 1861, the Democratic party has been in full power but two years—1893-95. During the first term of Mr. Cleveland the senate was Republican, and in his second term the last two years the Republicans had majorities in both houses of congress.

If the situation of the two parties had been reversed, the Democrats in power and the Republicans in opposition, the Democratic would be the party that acts, and the Republican the party that talks. The party in power from very necessity must do something, whereas the party in opposition must devote so much time to the censure of what is done that it has no time to construct anything. We may put it this way: The party in power is practical; the party in opposition is doctrinal.

I will try to bring an illustration from English history. When the house of Brunswick secured the British crown, the Whig party got power, and Sir Robert Walpole ruled England for about a quarter of a century with consummate statecraft, though to retain the primacy he was necessitated to buy members of parliament like pigs in the pen. He was emphatically a practical man and did things. We are told that his administration was criticised by an opposition composed of Bolingbroke, Carteret, Chesterfield, Argyle, Pulteny, Wyndham, Doddington, Pitt, Lyttleton, Barnard, Pope, Swift, Gay, Arbuthnot, Fielding, Johnson, Thomson, Akenside, and Glover, an array of genius, talent and eloquence such as confronted no other administration in the Old World, or the new.

Finally the old statesman fell, and the opposition came in with Pulteny prime minister. The country had been led to expect that everybody would get everything as soon as the government was rid of Walpole. The new administration was a lamentable failure. They were agreed on nothing but antagonism to the old statesman, who had ruled England with unexampled success for more than two score years, and when they came to formulate measures they were impotent for virile, affirmative action, though there were more men of the highest order of talents in the party than any other political party England ever had could show. One wing of the party called themselves the "Patriots." Pultney and Pitt belonged to it. It was their action after the fall of Walpole that prompted honest, old Sam Johnson to define the word "patriot" in the first edition of his dictionary as "the last resort of a scoundrel."

But after the fall of Pulteny the Pelhams came in, and when they enlisted Pitt the administration was the most brilliant and successful England has known since Marlborough.

The opposition to the younger Pitt contained Burke, Fox, Grey and Windham, who could beat the world saying things; but it was left to Pitt to do things.

In our country John C. Calhoun and Daniel Webster were the two greatest thinkers our congress has ever known; but they contented themselves with saying things. Henry Clay was an exception. Beginning in 1829 when he was in his prime, Clay was in opposition the rest of his career, but he made the compromise of 1833 and the compromise of 1850. And thus he postponed secession, which would have been successful had it come ten years earlier than it did.

Samuel J. Tilden was both a doctrinaire and a constructive statesman. His discipline of Tammany Hall is a piece of political action never equaled in this country except by his administration of the office of governor of New York. One of our greatest political calamities is the fact that he was not inaugurated president after he was elected to that office. As a doctrinaire he was scarce second to Jefferson and as a political administrator this country never produced his match.

When the Republican party came into power in 1861 it was nothing but a critic, made up of old Whigs, antislavery Democrats and Abolitionists. It was agreed on nothing but hostility to slavery, and it was divided even on that question. The tariff plank of the platform on which Lincoln ran in 1860 was a milk and water declaration.

But stirring times were just ahead, and the Republican party had to act, or go out of the political business. It did not act wisely; but there is no denying that it acted tremendously. It was terribly in earnest and shed blood and expended treasure at an appalling rate. Its financial policy might have been invented by a legislature of lunatics. It was extravagant and it was corrupt. It taxed the people more for private aggrandizement than for public purposes. Its reconstruction policy was a mingled infamy and folly unexampled in the world's history. And wonder of wonders, the old thing sincerely believed that it was magnanimous! As I recollect, Charles Dickens says that old Pecksniff actually thought he was a virtuous man.

In 1874 the Democrats had a majority in the congress that year chosen; but when the first session was convened the idea of William R. Morrison was confronted by the idea of Samuel J. Randall and the party was impotent for affirmative action on the tariff until twelve years later, when Randall was unable to defeat the Mills tariff that passed the Democratic house of the Fiftieth congress.

But Ben Harrison was elected president in 1888 and it was a great calamity. Then the G. O. P. went through its great stunt of revising the tariff up. The people smashed that and brought in Cleveland again. The house was actually Democratic and made a Democratic tariff, which Gorman Randallized in the senate. Then the silver question came on, and everything went to pot.

What is the result of the partnership between the Democrats and the Populists? McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft in the White House and eight Republican congresses in succession. That is what the deposition of Grover Cleveland as the leader of his party cost the Democracy and the country. Had every Democrat supported the president the party elected, this blessed moment a majority of the supreme bench would be Democrats, the president would be a Democrat, and there would be Democratic majorities in both houses of congress.

Sixteen years of Republican rule in the house of representatives breaks all records, and unless the Democratic party minds its manners there will be sixteen years more of Republican supremacy in that body. We all indulge the hope that the Sixty-second congress will have a Democratic majority. But will it be Democratic? There's the rub.

If it shall prove Democratic, the thing for it to do is for its leaders, headed by Champ Clark, to go to New York, assemble the leading importers, have them get together their experts, and sit in council making a tariff bill for revenue only to put sufficient money in the treasury to bear the public expenditures when supplemented with internal taxes.

What! Have the importers make the tariff? Why not? They are taxpayers. For forty years our tariffs have been made by the manufacturers. They are tax-eaters. The blackmailers have been telling us for forty years how much graft we shall pay them. Let those who pay the tax fix the amount a while and see how the thing works.

There is nobody in congress, no dozen bodies, who know how to make a tariff. Aldrich, Payne, Dalzell, Smoot, Lodge, Cannon, and that whole Republican layout could not make a protective tariff without calling in the manufacturers to write their graft into it. Why, didn't S. N. D. North write "Schedule K," the most infamous feature of all the infamous features of the infamous Dingley tariff? Didn't the Massachusetts wool spinners give him $5,000 for it? Wasn't there some tall lying about it when the "hearings" were on in the ways and means committee a year ago? To be sure, to be sure.

Neither can the Democrats in congress make a tariff, for revenue only unless they call in the experts in the counting rooms of the importers. The Republicans lied when they denied the manufacturers made the Payne bill. Let the Democrats tell the truth and say our bill was made by the men who pay the taxes.

Then nominate Harmon, if he shall be re-elected governor, and go to the country on the issue of a tariff made by the taxpayers versus a tariff made by the tax-eaters and we will sweep everything as we did in 1892.

CONSTRUCTIVE SOCIAL SERVICE

By the Rt. Rev. Charles D. Williams, D. D., Bishop of Michigan.

There is an unfamiliar parable of the gospels which might be called the parable of the empty house. It tells of a man who was possessed of a devil. One day he made a supreme effort and cast his devil out. The devil had probably been a riotous guest and left the house filthy and in disorder. And so the man undertook a thorough house-cleaning. He swept and garnished the dwelling, he made it tidy and neat and also beautiful. But he left it empty. He invited in no new and better guests to occupy it. He trusted simply to his barred doors and locked windows to keep out the former inhabitant and he went securely about his business. The homeless devil after wandering a while through desert places came back to view his former habitation. He found it tidy and neat, clean and beautiful, swept and garnished, but to his delight empty. Forthwith he went and took unto him seven devils more wicked than himself and they entered in and dwelt there. And the last state of that man was worse than the first.

The parable has many applications, both to our individual and to our social life. In social work we are very apt to rest satisfied with the negative and repressive effort of mere reform and stop there. We cast out or repress the evil and put our social life in order but we fill it with no new interests or activities. Such work is always bound to prove abortive and reforms are apt to be succeeded by reactions that prove worse than the original evil. The negative and repressive effort must always be supplemented by the positive and constructive, by the offering of new and better opportunities, the inspiring of new and better interests than those which have been cast out. Two illustrations suggest themselves: One in connection with the work of temperance reform; the other in connection with the juvenile problem.

The local option movement is sweeping over the country. Prohibition is being established in county after county, town after town. The saloon is being closed. All that is well and good, where there is a strong enough public sentiment to make prohibition really prohibitory. If there is not a strong public sentiment behind it, prohibition will only result in blind pigs and secret drinking of cheap and adulterated liquors, which would be worse than the open and licensed saloon. But even where successful, prohibition is entirely negative and destructive. If it is to be really effective, it must be supplemented immediately by positive and constructive work. If we shut off the social vent of the saloon, we must immediately provide other opportunities of social activity, occupations and entertainment or we shall blow up our boilers. In spite of the sneers with which the assertion is often met, the saloon is the poor man's club. We who have a superabundance of social opportunity, can scarcely realize the social dearth of the average life. The laborer comes home from his day's work, weary and begrimed. He eats his supper in the kitchen, perhaps under the drippings of somebody's washing which hangs there to dry. His wife is tired and fretful possibly, as well she may be. There is no chance for quiet or for social intercourse. The saloon around the corner with its bright lights, its companionship, its entertainments invites him. It furnishes almost the only opportunity he has for recreation and social intercourse. If you shut that off, what are you going to offer him in its place? Home is the place for him, you may say. But we must make a home possible for him by a more just industrial and social system. At present the abode of many of our working classes are hardly worthy of being called homes. We must therefore furnish substitutes for and supplements to the home. There are many ways of doing that. In our rural communities the Grange might furnish bright, attractive and wholesome farmers' clubs in the various villages and towns. Institutional churches in small towns and Y. M. C. A. buildings can do much in a more distinctly religious or Christian way. If our churches would lay aside their denominational differences and unite in social service, much might be done by such combined effort in the way of providing social opportunity, wholesome occupations, interests and recreations for those who so sadly need them. The saloons themselves can be turned into restaurants, billiard and poolrooms, clubs and the like. Our public schools could be made into social centers. Social settlements could be established in our smaller towns as well as our cities. A thousand ways open, a thousand methods sugest themselves. But the one point to be emphasized is this: Along with our negative, repressive work of prohibition we must do some positive and constructive social work. If we stop up one vent, we must open another. If we cast out our devil, we must fill the empty house with better guests.

Still more applicable is the parable to our juvenile problem. We are awakening to the paramount importance of that problem. Men like Judge Lindsey of Denver are stirring mightily the conscience of that nation as to this matter.

What is the history of the ordinary juvenile "criminal" so-called? (I put the word "criminal" in quotation marks for I do not believe there is such a thing as a "juvenile criminal." The juvenile character is not sufficiently fixed and defined to deserve such a fixed and definite adjective. There are few "bad boys." There are boys who do bad things. But the badness is in most cases yet in externals, in the acts. It has not yet soaked into the character and become indelible there.) Usually the "juvenile criminal" or "bad boy" is a boy of more than usual energy and vitality. Often he is a natural leader. He has initiation, invention, imagination. He is looking for opportunities and avenues for the expenditure of this energy and vitality. In our crowded cities, particularly in the slums, he finds few wholesome interests or activities into which to throw himself. He is underfoot, in the way in the crowded tenement house which he calls "home." He is driven out into the streets by a tired and scolding mother or a rough and impatient father. There in the streets he is looked upon with suspicion by the police, perhaps driven back into the narrow, crowded rooms again. After parents and police have played battledore and shuttle-cock with him thus for a time he goes to the alley or the dump heap. There he finds other boys like-minded with himself, who have had a similar experience. If they are beginning their teens, the social instincts are beginning to assert themselves. These instincts which can find no better expression, issue finally in the formation of "de gang." They commit petty misdemeanors and mischiefs. By and by they are caught up with and arrested, brought to the police court. Our boy now has his name on the blotter, he has a record. He is a suspicious character. Society has knocked him down once. It will knock him down again at the first opportunity. If any mischief occurs again, he is promptly arrested and railroaded through. Perhaps he is shut up in jail, herded with common criminals, adepts who can teach him the art of crime. Soon a criminal is made and society has made him. Jacob Riis' little girl was once digging in the garden. Shortly she came into the house holding two defunct kittens by the tails and said solemnly, "see, papa, two perfectly good cats spoiled!" So the juvenile criminal may be a perfectly good citizen spoiled and spoiled by society's ignorant mistreatment.

We are slowly learning better things. We know now that the "bad boy" deserves different treatment. We have juvenile courts where sit judges who have once been boys themselves and have not forgotten how it feels to be a boy. They enter sympathetically into the problems of the boy's life. They counsel and discipline wisely and look out for opportunities for the boy's self-expression. If punishment must come, it is not in the form of jail sentences. There are detention rooms, best of all "boyvilles," junior republics, juvenile farms and the like. Here wholesome activities and interests are provided, vents for the brimming energies of the boy nature, under a sympathetic, but firm and wise discipline. And the transformations that take place in such places equal the stories of old-time religious conversions.

Still better is the prevention work that is being taken up all too slowly in our cities. Most mischief is misdirected energy. That energy ought not to be suppressed. If you suppress it, you have explosion and disaster. It wan's vent. Once a plug blew out of a faucet in a wash-basin in our bathroom. My wife was vainly trying to dip out the overflowing basin into the adjoining bathtub. But the stream steadily gained on her. My 6-year-old boy watched the process for a while and then said shrewdly, "Mamma, why don't you turn on both taps in the bathtub and then the water won't run so fast into the basin."

That is what is needed in the case of the mischievous boy. There is a high pressure of energy and vitality. Turn on the faucet of wholesome interest and activity and the energy overflowing in mischief will be directed into useful or at least harmless occupation.

The problem of the bad boy is the problem of recreation and amusement largely. It is the problem of his idle, unoccuppied time. Fill up the empty house with wholesome or harmless activities and the mischief will be crowded out. Organize his natural social instincts in the team game, and "de gang" will disappear. A social settlement in Cleveland started a large playground in the midst of the slums. There were individual occupations for the younger children. There were team games for the adolescents. Instantly 'juvenile crime" or mischief showed a large decrease in that part of the city. A vent had been opened. Idle lives were preoccupied. An old policeman said that "there playground is worth ten policemen. I used to have to arrest a gang of boys here every night. Now they are at baseball or football or on the skating pond."

The playground, the social settlement, the club, or if you can get none of these instruments, the man who knows boys and can win their loyalty and leadership, like John Bunbel of Toledo, these are our best methods of dealing with the juvenile problem.

And that problem is as insistent in the small town as it is in the large city, perhaps more so. In the city there is always life, activity; something is happening all the time. There are multitudinous interests on every side. The current of life moves swiftly. But in the small town there are few wholesome interests and activities. The current of life runs slowly, sluggishly, and often deposits much sediment. Time hangs heavy on the boy's or girl's hands outside of school and chore hours. There is noo place to go to except the streets and the railroad stations. They "loaf" together in one place or the other. And much mischief results. Indeed, I am inclined to think that the moral tone of the youth in our small towns and rural communities is even lower than it is in the large cities. There is more vile talk and often more vile actions.

Here is the problem for the churches and for all who are interested in social welfare, especially in the wholesomeness of our young life. And it can be secured only by positive and constructive social work, by giving that wholesome moral vent to the brimming energies of youth which shall relieve the pressure that would otherwise explode in mischief, by so occupying the idle young life with good interests and activities that it shall have no room for the bad. Institutions may be useful helps in that work. But there is all outdoors in the country, and what is chiefly wanted is men who know how to be boys and win their enthusiastic loyalty and following, and women who know how to be girls and win their whole-hearted love and confidence. If you have such men and women, your streets and your fields and your homes will furnish you all the apparatus and clubrooms you need.

IN THE LITERARY WORLD

SINS OF SOCIETY. A novel adapted by Cecil Raleigh from the English melodrama by Cecil Raleigh and Henry Hamilton. New York: G. W. Dillingham company. $1.50.

Lady Gwendoline Ashley set afoot a terrible train of events when she lost 230 pounds—that refers to English money, not to avoirdupois—playing bridge with that deft-fingered old cat the Hon. Mrs. Murgatroyd, in the Pontifex club. She couldn't pay the money, and the club was insisting that people pay their bridge debts whatever happened to tailors and milliners. Her sister, Lady Marion Beaumont, was notoriously poor pay, and herself in danger of being posted for her bridge debts; also, she had wasted all her money. Here is where Noel Ferrers, who is "dark, sleek, smiling and sinister," also "very resourceful, unscrupulous and determined," gets into the game. You see he meant to marry Lady Gwendoline, "by fair means or foul." Yes, really; the books says exactly that. And, as usual in such cases either because the villain is constitutionally addicted to a preference for foul means or because fair means won't work, he chose foul. We don't remember whether a real villian ever gave fair means a decent trial or not; certain it is that they work by foul means, and dark and deadly are their doings. So it was with the "dark, sleek, smiling, sinister" Noel Ferrets—which proves again that a man "may smile and smile and be a villain." Only there is a peculiar smile that goes with this part. It is a cruel curl of the lip; more of a sneer, indeed, than a smile.

Well, anyhow, Noel Ferrers, the "dark, sleek, smiling—" Or maybe we said that before. Anyway, Noel laid his plans deeply. Lady Marion, not to put too fine a point upon it, was broke, "stony broke." Noel put temptation in her way. Lady Goldbury, rich, brisk, self-confident and efficient, offered to lend Marion her costly and beautiful necklace to wear somewhere. Noel suggested that she pawn the necklace. Marion repulsed him with womanly scorn. But she had to have the money. She must pay her bridge debts or be posted, and very likely expelled from the club, so she could not go there and be ruined any more. She could hardly be ruined any worse than she was, but never mind that. To make the story shorter, though that means crowding into a few flat phrases all the agony of temptation and fear, expressed in the book by many dashes and asterisks separated by palpitating words of anguish, despair and distress, finally she succumbed. Noel said that if she would borrow 7,000 pounds on the necklace, she could put her money on his horse, which was sure to win the Grand Prix at Paris next day. So they fixed up two boxes just alike, brought in Morris the pawnbroker, got his money, gave him the empty box, carefully sealed, and returned the necklace to Lady Goldbury. Then Marion put her ill-gotton gains on Noel's horse, and Noel, the rascal, "threw" the race against himself. Then indeed were Marion and Gwendoline in his toils.

The pawnbroker became suspicious and insistent. Marion gave him a dose of morphine—when he would ever so much rather have had his money back—and stole the box. Meanwhile Dorian March—we nearly forgot him; he is the hero—had come along in time to save Marion, and to get himself suspected of having done the deed. So he has to fly the country, and things get dreadfully tangled by the end of the third act. Marion had to give Gwendoline to the dreadful Noel, and if you will believe it, the marriage was only prevented just as the fateful words that would have bound the innocent and beautiful Gwendoline to the "dark, sleek, smiling and sinister" Noel were about to be said. It is a dramatic finish indeed; but it is a pleasure to state that Noel is compelled to slink off the stage, remarking "Curses on them!" as he goes out. R. U. E., and all ends happily. Action is brisk and tempestuous from the fatal bridge game to the interrupted wedding.

THE KINGDOM OF SLENDER SWORDS. By Hallie Ermie Rives, author of "Satan Sanderson," "Hearts Courageous," etc. Pictures by Wenzell. Indianapolis: Bobbs-Merrill company. $1.50.

Barbara Fairfax, a beautiful and wealthy American girl, had gone to Japan because she loved it and was erecting a memorial chapel there to her father, who, she supposed, was dead. Austin Ware, her persistent suitor though ten years her senior, had arrived about the same time in his yacht, and his profligate brother Phil already was there. So was "Duke" Daunt, a sightly Wenzell-Rives hero, who was secretary of the American legation and an amateur air navigator. We are introduced to Dr. Berzonin, a large, fat, flabby man who exuded mystery, was an expert in explosives employed by the Japanese government, and had secretly invented a mechanism that would annihilate almost anything by destroying the attraction of molecules for each other. Also, he had contrived a scheme of beating the stock market and making a vast fortune by inducing Phil Ware to use his deadly invention to destroy a couple of vessels of the European squadron in a Japanese harbor. Haru, a dainty and delightful Japanese girl, sacrificed her honor to Phil Ware's brutality in order to worm the secret out of him, and the story of her sacrifice is dramatic and well told. How appearances made Barbara believe—she had fallen in love with Daunt by this time—that Haru was Daunt's victim, and that it was Daunt and not Phil that killed Austin Ware, are more conventional but sufficiently exciting.

It is a lively story in Miss Rives's best style. Moreover, it is full of charming descriptions of life in Japan, which, the reader is assured by an eminent Japanese statesman in the preface, are true and kind. The literary style is ornate, and much is made of color schemes. In one paragraph describing a Japanese landscape from the sea side, the following colors are discovered: Washed grays, greens, saffron, lilac, ermine, umbers, red, emerald, white, purple, golden wistaria, azure, mist, mother-of-pearl, porphyry, verd, jade—all in one paragraph of fifteen lines. Particularly vivid are the descriptions of a Japanese celebration and of the "street of the Geisha," into which Barbara blunders while lost, and from which she flies with burning blushes when she discovers its nature. A very entertaining novel, with plenty of incident thrillingly told—as when Daunt in his flying machine prevents Berzonin from carrying out his plot, and thus saves the world from war.

A MAN OF THE PEOPLE. By Robert A. Gunn, M.D. Boston. Mayhew Publishing company. $1.50.

Cranford, junior partner in the firm of Chandler & Cranford, shot and robbed his senior partner and put the blame on Arthur Middleton, Chandler's private secretary. Bruce Douglas, a millionaire lawyer with the pleasant habit of defending innocent poor people without cost, volunteers to defend him, and does so effectively. He got a disagreement in the first trial, which is described at length, but afterwards he happened to think of putting his negro servant in a clairvoyant state and having him describe just what happened in the offices of Chandler & Cranford, and then, of course, the whole truth came out. Funny more lawyers don't think of availing themselves of this simple method of establishing the truth. A good deal more than that happens in the book, but that is offered as a taste of the bill of fare it affords.

THE SEVENTH NOON. By Frederick Orin Bartlett, author of "The Web of the Golden Spider." Boston: Small, Maynard & Co. $1.50.

Just after Peter Donaldson had made it clear to him that he intended to commit suicide because he was selfish and didn't wish to live because he hadn't money enough to live as he wished to live, it was exceedingly careless of Prof. Barstow to exhibit a deadly poison he had just discovered. This poison killed without pain, in just seven days, and it couldn't be eliminated from the system in the meantime. Of course Donaldson stole the bottle. He had saved up $2,847, which isn't much of a fortune, but which is the weekly income on over $3,000,000. Spent in a week, it would enable a man to live like a three-millionaire, and then, on the seventh day—the drug would do its work. So Donaldson took a room at the Waldorf, and at noon took his dose. Then he began to spend money, lavishly, luxuriously, with barbaric delight in spending. And then, suddenly, his adventures began. He rescued a beautiful girl from a peril into which her opium-crazed brother had brought her, and he pursued the mad brother through a maze of exciting circumstances. But he gained, from this contact with a sweet and beautiful girl, a new and terrible view of the step he had taken and couldn't retrace. From this girl and from Bobby the messenger, he learned the joy of living for others and the folly of living for self alone. He learned that "we aren't just ourselves—that we're part of a thousand other lives," and that full life consists in realizing this relationship and playing your part in it like a man. It was worth a lot to find this out, this true secret of living—but it was hardly worth committing suicide. And yet— Well, we haven't told all the story. Maybe he didn't die after all. It is a pleasant story, and good to read.

REVISED LAWS OF MINNESOTA, SUPPLEMENT, 1909. Compiled and annotated by Francis B. Tiffany. St. Paul: West Publishing company.

Five years ago the Minnesota legislature adopted a new code of statutes which gathered up, more or less effectually, the product of the legislative mill for many years back and put it into tangible and accessible form. But that book didn't include everything; for instance, it didn't contain all of the old laws that had not been repealed. Also, since that time three legislatures have sat, and have repealed and amended old laws, and made many new ones. Also, the courts of nation and state have construed, and in accordance with their new extra-legal habit have amended and repealed, some of the laws. So the work of the revision commission has been considerably undone in five years

This new volume gathers the strands again into systematic and accessible form. It brings the laws of Minnesota down to date, and it is hard to see how those who frequently consult the statutes can afford not to have it on their book shelves alongside the Revised Laws of 1905. The annotations include court decisions up to and including 121 Northwestern Reporter, 29 Supreme Court and 168 Federal Reporter. The volume is complete, reliable and conveniently arranged. Its 1197 pages make it about the same size as the 1905 code.

Of Books and Writers.

On Feb. 26 Little, Brown & Co. will bring out a novel by Anna Chapin Ray, entitled "Over the Quicksands." Like this author's former books, "The Bridge Builders" and "Quickened," its scenes are laid in Quebec, and the social life of that delightful city again forms the background against which an interesting group of characters work out a dramatic story.

The theme of Miss Ray's new work is a wide departure from the type of book hitherto expected from her pen; she has probed deeper into the emotional side of life and depicted a situation in which the conventions play little part. Her subject is handled in a masterly manner, however, and with great delicacy. "Over the Quicksands" is perhaps the strongest work Miss Ray has yet produced.

Doubleday, Page & Co. found their experiment of prize review contests on some of their most popular publications so successful that they have already held three such contests. The first one, which was on E. F. Benson's "The Climber," brought in so many reviews of high grade that the judges announced that "fifty might have been added to the prize winners, if we had had so many prizes." The second contest was on Mrs. Humphry Ward's novel, "Marriage a la Mode," and the reviews submitted were "extraordinary in number, as well as in quality and interest." For the third competition, "The Lords of High Decision," by Meredith Nicholson, was chosen.

Commenting on the results of the first contest, the judges stated that the average contribution to the contest was better than the average review which is printed in the newspapers—more spontaneous and less conventional. They thus indicated a decided preference for amateur reviews over those coming from the professional pen. And now they have awarded the first prize in their latest contest to a gentleman, who, unbeknown to the judges at the time of the decision, proves to be the editor of an Arkansas paper! Clio Harper of the Arkansas Democrat is the recipient of first honors.

The latest volume to be added to the Macmillan series of pocket classics is Thackeray's "English Humorists." This has always been a favorite in the literature of criticism. Its incorporation in the pocket classics series places it, of course, within the reach of everyone. The price of this popular collection is only 25 cents a volume.

Rather a phenomenal record for a first book by a new author has been made by "The Up Grade," by Wilder Goodwin, which Little, Brown & Co. brought out in January, and which has already gone into three editions.

As the title indicates, "The Up Grade," deals with a man's struggle against the moral weakness and failure, and his final regeneration through his love. The story is laid in the Southwest, in a mining camp, and has all the picturesqueness of Western atmosphere, and the strength of life which is lived in the open, and is largely a serious struggle for existence. Mr. Goodwin writes of this camp from first-hand knowledge, and with a deep appreciation of its possibilities as a stage setting.

When the Greenleaf Law Library was destroyed by the great fire at Portland, over a year ago, the contract to rebind the books not utterly destroyed, and to replace those volumes lost with new books, was secured by Little, Brown & Co.

This firm has just started to ship the books for the new library. There are over 25,000 volumes in the lot, and it will require the work of one of Little, Brown & Co.'s law men for over two weeks to place the books upon the shelves and properly catalogue them.

John Stuart Thomson's new book on international politics, "The Chinese," (Bobbs-Merrill company), contains a remarkable arraignment of the Jews and Christians by a Chinese bonze on the subject of the delayed reclamation of Palestine. That a Chinese should be a Zionist, is astonishing enough, but he, of course, argues from the respect paid in his land to the sacred state of Confucius, Lu (modern Shantung). It is highly interesting to know that the recent establishment of a constitutional regime in Turkey has caused a great influx of Jews into the Holy Land from all the world, and the well-know religious enthusiasm of the German emperor, for the project has also propagated the sentiment, for the general lack of which the Chinese bonze, in Mr. Thomson's book, The Chinese, eloquently censures the great Occidental nations, which are the heirs of the religious born in Palestine. Jewish colonists have lately bought the fertile and historic valley of Jezreel (in Greek, Esdraelon), which was the battlefield where Gideon triumphed and where Saul and Jonathan were overthrown by the Philistines. Every ship now sailing from Odessa, for Palestine ports carries hundreds of Jewish colonists. New synagogues and schools are rapidly being erected in Jerusalem. Once more the Holy City is nearly all Jewish, and is even patrolled by a company of Jewish gendarmes, through the courtesy of the Turkish government, which the whole Jewish and Christian world devoutly hopes may not suffer a fanatic reaction.

Harold MacGrath is on his way around the world, having the very finest kind of a time, hob-nobbing with ambassadors, lunching in the shade of the pyramids and in the ruins of Karnak, storing his mind with a thousand romantic hints at Athens, at Bagdad, at Benares and Mandalay. A new serial from his fluent pen begins in February Ainslee's, called "A Splendid Hazard," and in the meantime "The Goose Girl," continues among the best-selling books.

Under the title of "Religion in the Making," Prof. Samuel G. Smith of the University of Minnesota has just published, through the Bobbs-Merrill company, what he describes as a study in Biblical sociology. For many years Prof. Smith has held the chair of sociology in the University of Minnesota. At the same time he has been teaching the Bible to special classes in connection with the People's Church of St. Paul. These two lines of activity have been combined in his new work to explain each other. Sociology, the author holds, is one of the best instruments for the interpretation of the Bible and, on the other hand, to the student of sociology the Bible is one of the greatest of treasure houses. Dr Smith's work will be a great revelation to the many who have found difficulty in forming any just idea of the real life and thought of the ancient Hebrews. Perhaps the book is best described by the author's own phrase: "A fresh study at first hand of the Bible in the light of the principles of sociology."

Among the Magazines.

What Goethe called the "time spirit" has very obviously inspired every feature in the newly arrived February number of Current Literature, the periodical which disarms criticism of itself by somewhat brazenly announcing that it is a magazine of timeliness. The boast recalls somehow Sir Edwin Arnold's regrets for the mass of splendid prose and still more splendid thought locked forever from mankind in the columns of so many daily journals. It was all so instant, so freshly caught from the fields of human action, that it had to be intelligible to a later day. One wonders how intelligible this February number of Current Literature will be, say, in 130 years. What will posterity make, for instance, of the long review of what the president has done to Pinchot? What would a twenty-second century man say were it possible for him to study what Current Literature says this month about "the cannonading of Speaker Cannon?" Will not the pun have become unintelligible in 125 years? There will be no cannon then, surely.

* * *

A Cheery, optimistic tone is characteristic of Lippincott's Magazine, and the February issue is no exception to the general rule. The number opens with a long and intensely powerful detective story by that versatile genius, Carolyn Wells. The new tale is entitled "The Golden Bag," and it is fully up to the standard of its famous predecessor by this author, "The Clue," which has been one of the most successful books of the season. "The Gold Bag" deals with a murder mystery, and is told in the first person by a young detective, who, despite his own astuteness, finds it necessary to call on that past master of deduction, Fleming Stone, a character which has figured in other detective stories by Miss Wells. Numerous clues are in turn run down, but all lead to blind alleys until the remarkable Mr. Stone succeeds in nosing out the true scent. Bright, snappy dialogue and a love affair add interest to the narrative. Another big feature is "Education Outside of Books," the second of an important series of six papers on "What is Wrong With Our Public Schools," by Joseph M. Rogers.

The North American Review for February affords the reader an interesting variety of information. Under the title of "Reform of Our Navy" are presented two articles, one by Rear Admiral Goodrich and the other by an anonymous writer on the "Recent Improvements in the Administration of the Navy." Mrs. Bellamy Storer writes upon "The Decadence of France." Samuel O. Dunn writes upon "Fair Regulation of Railroads," and Thomas Hastings, the New York architect, contributes a brilliant article on the Evolution of Style in Modern Architecture." "Nitrogen Starvation" is the title of an article by Charles E. Woodruff. "Four Years of English Liberalism," by "Britannicus," sets forth the results accomplished by England's last administration. William W. Gay writes "On the Origin of Waller's Couplets." Sir Robert Stout and Sir Joseph Ward, chief justice and prime minister of New Zealand, respectively, write upon "New Zealand, Its Problems and Policy."

The February month-end Popular opens with a complete novel bristling with excitement. It is called "The Long North Trail." The author is A. M. Chisholm. It is a narrative that pushes you forward breathlessly without any halting places. The scene is laid in Northern Canada. Ralph D. Paine unfolds a brand new plot in a college story called "With the Best Intentions." It concerns a footballer and his "dark secret." Francis Lynde pictures the life of the railroad man in "Hurricane Siding's Christmas Baby." "Mindanao," by Lester Griswold, is a Philippine story, narrating the adventures of the youngest officer in the United States army. The spell of the woods is apparent in Edgar Beecher Bronson's yarn of "The Three-Legged Doe."

The issue of Harper's Weekly for Jan. 29 contains an interesting article by Kirk Munroe, entitled "The New Northwest Passage," telling of Canada's projected outlet for her wheat through Hudson bay. This issue contains an account of the dedication of the Art Museum at Hartford, Conn., which has been erected by John Pierpont Morgan, as a memorial to his father. Raja Rama contributes to this number an account of the psychology of the woman of the Orient, now emerging from her seclusion. Alphonsus P. Haire tells of "The Theatrics of Advertising." Fred Niederhauser writes of "The Oldest Leaf Ever Found"—a gingko leaf that has a message 100,000 years old to bear. Richard Le Gallienne contributes "A Ballad of Woman." This issue contains also a double-page drawing by James Montgomery Flagg, and many other articles, with the usual editorial and humor pages.

Among the important features of the February number of the American Review of Reviews are three timely articles on the increased cost of living—a survey of the present situation as regards the prices of food, clothing and shelter, from the housekeeper's viewpoint, by Agnes C. Laut; an exposition and analysis of the various economic factors involved in the question, by Prof. Walter E. Clark, of the College of the City of New York; and a discussion of the relation of the gold supply to the cost of living, by Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale university. There are also informing articles on "The General Election in Great Britain," by W. T. Stead; "Our Coal Supply Today," by Guy Elliott Mitchell; "Intensive Railroading," by Charles F. Speare; "160,000 Automobiles This Year," by W. M. West; and "The $1,000 Automobile," by Julian Chase. Rev. Dr. Cyrus Townsend Brady writes on the alleged decrease in the ministry and Edwin Bjorkman contributes a brief sketch of Selma Lagerlof, the Swedish writer who received the Nobel prize for literature in 1909.

Much has been written about the fighting and social qualities of the Japanese, but little concerning their methods of doing business. The Book-Keeper for February covers this subject admirably in an article entitled very happily and justly "How They Hustle in Japan." The little brown people on the other side of the acific have some business characteristics which might well be cultivated by other nations, chief of which is their optimism. They are not discouraged in the slightest degree by the little things which they are compelled to do, and no task is too difficult to undertake. The author of the article, Monroe Woolley, has spent some years in the Far East and is qualified to write on any phase of life in Japan.

When intense public interest centers on the Capitol city the "Affairs at Washington,' by Joe Mitchell Chapple in the National, is like "news from the front." The passing glimpse of questions under discussion and the men engaged in the discussion with scowling brows are graphically portrayed. The Ballinger-Pinchot feud, and the anti-trust situation, are depicted with a peep at the men, and informally talked over as if conveyed in a letter from a personal friend living at the capital. The opening chapters of one of the most thrilling North pole documents ever published, containing the verified records of the famous Zeigler expedition, by Capt. Edward Coffin, commander of the steamer "America," appear in the February number. The Cook episode has intensified interest in anything that looks like genuine records, and experts who have read what Capt. Coffin has written have pronounced it one of the most accurate as well as one of the most graphic records of any expedition to Arctic latitudes. The log of this expedition shows that its experiences were more hopeless and appalling than any other from which the explorers have returned in safety.

The Popular Science Monthly for February opens with an article by Prof. Arthur Gordon Webster, of Clark university, on "Scientific Faith and Works," in which he reviews the important part played by scientific method in modern civilization. Prof. Charles Lincoln Edwards of Trinity college, in a fully illustrated article, describes the marine zoological station at Kristineberg, Sweden, where much important work in biology is being accomplished. Prof. Vernon L. Kellogg of Stanford university, gives an account of the important contributions to evolution made by the veteran zoologist, Prof. Ernst Haeckel. Prof. Irving King of the University of Michigan, gives a favorable account of morality among Australian aborigines.

The leading position in the Engineering Magazine for February is given to the first of a series of papers by H. L. Gantt on the compensation of workmen. These articles will present, with a fulness of demonstration never heretofore undertaken, Mr. Gantt's theory and practice and compensatoin and training of workmen so as to promote the profit and contentment of all concerned. The first of the series discusses the principle underlying the bonus system and the ideas embodied in it. An interesting illustrated feature is a series of photographs of notable gas-engine installations in Continental Europe, to which are appended captions briefly describing the plants. Jacques Boyer contributes a review of gold mining in France, showing in detail, with the aid of many illustrations, the mining and ore-dressing methods employed at the three producing mines.

"The Waning Power of the Press," by Francis E. Leupp, is the significant title with which the February Atlantic opens. Mr. Leupp, who was for many years Washington correspondent of the New York Evening Post and more recently United States Indian commissioner, discusses with complete candor the tendencies in American journalism, arriving at the general conclusion that the people of the United States are getting just about as good newspapers as they either demand or deserve. In this February issue begins the new series taken from the diary kept by Gideon Welles during the reconstructive days of President Johnson's administration, and with this number, unfortunately, ends the brilliant series of letters taken from the Japanese correspondence of Lafcadio Hearn. A salient paper in the issue is A. D. Noyes' "The Future of High Finance," while for readers whose primary interest is literary the Atlantic provides particularly good fare in "The Decline of Poetic Justice," by Raymond M. Alden, "Dante and Beatrice," a new interpretation by Jefferson B. Fletcher, and a delightful sketch of an Italian schoolmistress by Caroline Matthews.

SOCIETY

The Lenten season approaches and it is probable that it will be marked in Duluth by an increase of social activity. Few events nave relieved the monetory of white sales and spring sewing and the most informal of affairs, and when Lent really arrives in order to contrast the grayness of the season, a few little affairs will, as the sporting editor would say, "be pulled off."

Next week Duluth will be lectured again and there is particular interest in the coming of Mrs. Frances Squire Potter, who will be the house guest of Mrs. F. L. Burrows, during her visit in the city.

Duluth society was much interested in the wedding at Saginaw, last evening, of Miss Elise Benton Hanchette to Richard Frank Grant, formerly of this city. The following from the social columns of the Saginaw News will be of interest here:

"There were four pre-nuptial events Wednesday in honor of the Hanchett-Grant wedding which will be solemnized at St. John's church Friday evening of this week. The first of the events Wednesday morning was the bridesmaids' breakfast given by the bride, Miss Elise Benton Hanchett, at her home, 1600 North Michigan avenue, at 9 o'clock. Those present at the function were: Maids of honor, Miss Stark and Miss Ring; bridesmaids, Miss Knowlton, the Misses Marion and Barbara Deering, New York; Miss Hubbell, Miss Rupp, Miss Rust; Mrs. Harrison Musgrave, Chicago; matron of honor, and Miss Pamela Stark.

"At 1 o'clock a buffet luncheon was tendered the bridal party at the home of Miss Helen Knowlton, 1617 North Michigan avenue. Besides the bridal party, composed of the bridesmaids and ushers, those present were: Mrs. Richardson of Alma, and Miss Bousfield of Bay City. The decorations were yellow tulips and violets.

"A tea was tendered by the bride at 4 o'clock and in the evening Miss Jessie Ring will tender the immediate wedding party a dinner.

"Many of the out-of-town guests for the wedding have already arrived. Those who are present for the function are: Mrs. J. Finley Cameron, Grand Forks, N. D.; Robert De Golyer, Evanston, Ill.; Mrs. E. T. Barbour, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. William G. Henry, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Francis King, Alma; Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Musgrave, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Grant, parents of the groom; Misses Marion and Barbara Deering, New York; Richard Frank Grant, the groom, Cleveland; James D. Grant, Fargo, N. D.; James D. Ireland, W. L. Telford, Charles McBride, D. Gilbert Cutler, Jr., and Herbert Spencer, all of Duluth; Charles N. Hickok, Cleveland; Donald De Golyer, Evanston, Ill.

"It was a dainty and exquisite function that marked the compliment for the bride tendered by Miss Meta Rupp and Miss Katherine Rust in the form of a luncheon at the Saginaw club Tuesday at 1 o'clock. It was a violet luncheon served in the Holland room with a centerpiece of violets surrounded by silver candlesticks shaded in white. A pretty feature was the bestowal of favors of petite silver violet holders filled with violets and the satin bonbon boxes were ornamented with orange blossoms. In addition to Miss Hanchett, the bride-elect, the guests were: Mrs. Harrison Musgrave, Chicago; Miss Jessie Ring, Miss Helen Stark, Saginaw; Miss Marion Deering and Miss Barbara Deering, New York; Miss Helen Knowlton, Miss Ruth Hubbell.

"Thursday, at 1 o'clock, Miss Oliver P. Barber will give a luncheon for the bridal party at the Saginaw club and in the evening Miss Stark will give a dinner at the same place, to be followed by a dance."

PRIMA DONNA MARRIED TO ROCKEFELLER INSTITUTE PHYSICIAN

MME. GERVILLE REACHE.

Mme. Gerville Reache came to the United States two years ago, and made her first appearance before American audiences in "La Gioconda" with Mme. Nordica, at the Manhattan opera house. She had a voice of such depth and richness that it thrilled her hearers. The success she made in "La Gioconda," she repeated in "Le Prophete," "Samson et Delilah," and other operas. When she returned from Europe to rejoin Mr. Hammerstein's company this season, Mme. Gerville Reache quietly married Dr. Rambaud of the Rockefeller institute. She concealed the fact even from her friends until it leaked out this week.

CLUBS AND MUSICAL

SCHUBERT CLUB MUSICIANS

Will Give Program Before Matinee Musicale in Duluth.

The second reciprocity program of the year to be presented before the Matinee Musicale at the assembly hall of the Young Women's Christian association will be given Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when representatives from the Schubert Club of St. Paul will present the program. Local musicians represented the Duluth club at St. Paul early in December, and since that time the Minneapolis Thursday Musicale has sent its members here. The St. Paul organization will be heard for the first time Monday. These reciprocity programs are among the most interesting features of the enlarged work of the Matinee Musicale this year, and Monday's program is anticipated with much pleasure.

The Schubert club will be represented by Mrs. Bessie Parnell Weston, pianist; Miss Marie McCormick, soprano, and Miss Ina Grange, accompanist.

The program is as follows:

"O Had I Jubal's Lyre!"........Handel
"Litanei" ..........................Schubert
"Der Musensohn"...........Schumann
"Waldesgesprach" ..........Schumann

A WEEK OF LECTURES

Many Attractions for Club Women During the Coming Week.

The Twentieth Century club has a week of delightful lectures ahead. The corresponding secretary of the National Women's Suffrage league, Mrs. Frances Squire Potter, will come to this city for a series of lectures, and there is much interest in the woman and her work. Mrs. Potter delivered a lecture last year before the club and her literary style and charm of address made a return visit desirable, and it was so arranged. After these plans, Mrs. Potter severed her connection with the English department of the state university and identified herself with the suffrage movement of America and left Minnesota to make her headquarters in New York. The local lectures were to have been given in the autumn, but Mrs. Potter was so occupied with her new duties that it was necessary to postpone them until the present. She has been one of the leading speakers and writers in the crusade for equal suffrage, during the last few months. She was a guest and speaker at the now famous meeting at Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont's home, Marble house at Newport, and a guest at a meeting at the home of the daughter of Robert Ingersoll, at which other guests were Julia Marlowe, Ida Husted Harper, Dr. Anna Shaw and other prominent women.

The first Duluth lecture will be given Thursday evening, Feb. 10, and Mrs. Potter's subject will be "Women and Economics." Friday evening her address will be on "The Boys and Girls of America." The dates of the third lecture will be announced later.

These lectures will be free to members of the Twentieth Century club, and any woman may become a member on the payment of the annual dues.

Another lecture of the week that will undoubtedly prove interesting will be given Tuesday morning at 10:15 o'clock, before the Twentieth Century club members, and others interested, when the Rev. M. G. Alexanian, formerly connected with the Metropolitan art museums of Constantinople and Cairo, will speak on "The Origin and Significance of Design in Antique Rugs." The lecture will be given at the library club room.

Auxiliary Meeting.

The regular February meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of St. Paul's church will be held Friday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock at the home of Mrs. G. A. St. Clair of 1125 East Superior street. "The Hawaiian Islands," will be the spbject of study with Mrs. A. G. Priest as leader.

To Read "William Tell."

The reading and discussion of Schiller's "William Tell' will be begun Tuesday afternoon at the meeting of the literature class of the Twentieth Century club. The leader during the study of the play will be Miss Rose Dengler of the high school faculty. The class members and those interested in the study are urged to be present at the beginning of the course.

Shakespeare Class.

The evening Shakespeare class of the Twentieth Century club will meet Monday evening at the clubroom of the library. The meeting is at 7:30 o'clock and the study of "Julius Caesar" will be continued with Miss Leslie Gage as leader.

Kindergarten Lectures.

The meeting of the Duluth-Superior branch of the International Kindergarten union are planning to bring Miss Stella Wood of Minneapolis to Duluth and Superior Feb. 18 and 19, for two lectures, one on "Nature Study," and the other on "Games."

Linnaea Club.

The Linnaea club will met Tuesday afternoon of next week with Mrs. August Anderson of 211 East Fourth street.

JAMES GAYLEY AFTER DIVORCE

Steel Trust Official Has Filed Suit in Court at Reno, Nev.

Reno, Nev., Feb. 5.—Suit for divorce on the ground of desertion has been filed by James Gayley, second vice president of the United States Steel corporation. The complaint is one of the briefest ever filed here, containing merely the allegation of desertion, the date of the marriage and the names of the children.

No mention is made of the common property, and it is therefore presumed that a satisfactory settlement has been made and that there will be no contest on the part of the defendant, Julia Gardner Gayley, whose residence is given as 20 Washington square north, New York.

The names of the children are given as Mary, Agnes and Florence, living in New York city.

Desertion Is Charged.

The complaint recites that the parties were married at St. Louis Feb. 21, 1884, and that on July 1, 1908, the defendant deserted her husband without cause and has refused to live with him since that date, although he has repeatedly requested her to do so.

During his residence in Reno, Gayley has lectured at the University of Nevada on the iron industry. He recently purchased a lot in the residence district of Reno, and is having a $25,000 building erected.

Declines to Comment.

New York, Feb. 5.—Mrs. Julia Gardner Gayley, wife of James Gayley, second vice president of the United States Steel corporation, when reached over the telephone at her residence in New York and informed that her husband had filed suit for divorce at Reno, Nev., said:

"This is the first I have heard of it. I have nothing whatever to say. Please say nothing."

Then she hung up the receiver.

The HARE FAMILY AND THE FOXES

When the Two Foxes Had Come Within a Few Feet of Mr. Hare's Hiding Place They Paused to Talk.

BY MAUD WALKER.

MR. AND MRS. HARE were seated at the breakfast table, eating their toast and drinking their coffee. The children were not up yet, for it was on a Saturday, and there being no school, the little Hares liked to take an extra snooze before rising and plunging into their cold bath.

Now, before I go further with this story I must tell you that Mr. and Mrs. Hare (also their little son and two daughters) were not human beings. They were real, four-legged hares—rabbits, as we usually call them. And this, of course, makes the story more interesting, for where is the boy or girl who doesn't love to hear a story about the home life of the little wild creatures of wood and air?

Well, to return to the story. As Mr. and Mrs. Hare sat nibbling at their toast and sipping their coffee, they heard their children jumping from their beds and rushing about in their room overhead. "Ah, so the youngsters are up at last," smiled Mr. Hare, a loving and indulgent father. "And it's now 8:30 o'clock. We were late ourselves, this morning," he went on, putting his watch back into his vest pocket.

"Yes, dear. I didn't tell you that the cook has failed to put in her appearance this morning and that I myself prepared the breakfast, and as I was not so well acquainted with my own kitchen as I should be, it took me sometime to get the morning meal ready. But as soon as you have finished your toast there are some fine hot waffles and maple syrup for you."

"Well," said Mr. Hare, "what can have kept cook back from her work this morning? It is the first time she has ever been late, isn't it?"

"Yes; she's usually so prompt," replied Mrs. Hare. "And when she went away last night she said she'd be on hand at the usual hour—7 o'clock. I wonder if anything could have happened to her?"

"Perhaps we'd better send the children to meet her," suggested Mr. Hare. "If she has not left her home yet, they can go on there and inquire the cause of her delay."

Just then the children came in—the son, Snappy Hare, and the two daughters, Bright-eyes and Pink-ears, twins. The son was the oldest child and was a fine fellow, half grown and strong and athletic for his age. The girls were pretty and dainty and full of life and happy spirits.

"Good morning, Papa and Mamma," said the three young Hares in a voice. Then they each kissed their parents on the tip of their long ears, after which they seated themselves at table for breakfast.

"Cook has failed to appear this morning," explained Papa Hare, "and your mother has prepared the meal alone, so if everything is not to your taste, please make allowances, for Mamma has done her best to give us a good breakfast."

"Ah, Cook's failing to appear makes me think of something I saw on the road when coming from school the other day," cried Snappy. "As I came running down that long, wooded hill—the other side of the river—I saw that sly old Mr. Fox creeping along close to the hedge. And just as I was about to turn the corner in the road I beheld our cook, also creeping along the hedge, going in the direction of Mr. Fox. And he was advancing towards her. 'Ah, ha,' says I to myself, 'I wonder if they are meeting secretly.' So I sat me down under the hedge and waited to see what might happen. Our cook had caught sight of me, and was a bit cautious, but after I hid she thought I had gone on round the turn in the road, and that my view of the hillside was cut off by the high hedge. So pretty soon I saw her and Mr. Fox meet and shake hands. Then Cook took something from her pocket and gave to him. He turned and slunk off down the hill towards his horrid old shack of a house. Then Cook ran on home, and was here when I arrived."

"Why didn't you say something to me about all this?" asked Papa Hare sternly, addressing his son.

"Well, there was that party at the Coons that evening, you remember, Papa, and I was so full of preparations for the good time in store that I forgot all about Cook's meeting with Mr. Fox. I know I should not have let it slip my mind, but I did."

"Well, son, I want you to tax your mind with such important things after this," reprimanded Papa Hare. "For it is quite certain that if Cook is meeting sly old Mr. Fox that she is up to some mischief. Doubtless, she's robbing our pantry to give to those idle Foxes. You know there is a large family of them, and they are a menace to the neighborhood. Well, I'll go to meet Cook myself this morning, and I'll find out what her meeting with that old rascal means."

Pretty soon breakfast was over, and Mrs. Hare, assisted by her twin daughters, tidied up the house, and then she began looking into bags and boxes and cans in the kitchen, and to her amazement she found many things in the food line missing. The sugar was all gone, the spices almost gone, and there was not sufficient coffee in the canister to make a good-sized cupful. Ah, Madam Cook had surely been stealing food from the pantry, doubtless to carry off to Mr. Fox.

Mrs. Hare told her husband of her discoveries, and you may believe Mr. Hare was angry. "Well, well, well," he said, stamping his feet, "I'll have a peep into this matter." Then, putting on his long coat and mittens, and his high hat (which set well over his ears and kept them warm) he set out over the road leading towards the river. On reaching the hedge where he knew he could get a view of old Mr. Fox, were he to come up the river bank, Mr. Hare hid himself in the dark shadow of the thick hedge. He had not long to wait, for pretty soon up the bank nearby came Mr. Fox, and close beside him walked a creature who looked familiar to Mr. Hare, but whom he could not place in his mind. But as soon as she spoke Mr. Hare recognized her as his cook. Ah, and she was a Fox herself, a genuine Fox. Hitherto she had been disguised as a rabbit, wearing false ears and in other ways disguising herself.

When the two foxes had come within a few feet of Mr. Hare's hiding-place they paused to talk. And while they did so the cook took from a basket her false ears and put them on. Then she powdered up her face and made many changes in her appearance, looking quite like a rabbit after she had done with her disguise. "Ah, my dear, you are a real artist," laughed Mr. Fox. "One would swear you were a hare—if one did not know the truth. You are remarkable. And, now tell me, wife, what will you fetch from the Hares tonight for my dinner?"

"There is to be a dainty dinner at the Hares' tonight," said the cook, whom Mr. Hare now knew to be old Mr. Fox's wife. "And I'll bring the best part of the roast quail and the sweet potatoes. Oh, they are such trusting folk—are the Hares, and they never question me regarding the quantity of food we have on hand. Why, I brought you more things last week than the whole Hare family had to eat. We should have our larder quite well filled by this time, hubby."

"We have a sufficient supply of food to last us a month," grinned old sly Mr. Fox. "But you'd better be going, my dear, or some of the Hares will be coming to hunt you. And as they think you live over yonder in the village—under the fir trees—they might discover the mistake by going there in search of you. What excuse will you make for being so late at your work this morning?"

"I'll tell them that I was very ill all night," laughed Mrs. Fox. "I'd never dare tell them that I was just too lazy on this cold morning to get out of bed. Well, I'll be off now. Whet your appetite for a great dinner tonight."

So saying, the two Foxes parted, and the cook hurried on to the house of her employer. Mr. Hare had waited till he saw her disappear into the kitchen; then he ran home as fast as he could and entered by the front door. There were his wife and three children awaiting him. They had heard Cook's entrance into the kitchen, but thought it best to say nothing to her till the head of the house should return. Mr. Hare held a whispered conversation with Mrs. Hare and the children, and a few minutes later Mrs. Hare went into the kitchen, saying to the cook: "Why, Sprightly, you are late this morning. What delayed you?"

"Oh, good mistress, I was sick unto death last night, and I simply couldn't get up this morning," wailed the lying cook. "I hope you'll excuse me this time."

"Well, go right on with your work as usual," said Mrs. Hare, "and tomorrow will be time enough for us to go over this matter more fully. Of course, if one is sick one can't work."

That evening, after the fine dinner of which the cook had bragged to her liege lord that morning, the Hares—father, mother and three children—waited until they saw the cook steal out of the house, basket on arm; then they prepared to follow her. As it was dark the cook did not observe the five forms close behind her, and she went merrily along, singing to herself. At the top of the hill old Fox met her, and taking the basket from her said he would carry it home. But just as he did so a strong pair of arms had him about the neck, and another two pairs of strong arms had his wife about the neck, tying her hands behind her so that she could not fight. After both the foxes were hand tied and thrown to the ground Mr. Hare proceeded to remove the disguise from his former cook and to upbraid her for her lying and stealing from those who had given her a good home and trusted her.

Then, giving the basket of food to Snappy Mr. Hare said to the Foxes: "I give you just this night to make well your escape from this community, and if you are not many miles away by 8 o'clock tomorrow, both of you, I'll rouse the neighborhood of rabbits and in a body we'll drive you forth. There is no room for such a pair of thieves in this community as you two, so take my warning and begone."

The Foxes began to plead, but they soon saw that Mr. Hare was resolved, and so they betook themselves off, going as fast as they could run, not once looking back nor stopping at their house, where so much stolen food was stored. And the Hares went to the shanty and got the food, many baskets of it, and carried it to their own home, for it all belonged to them. And from that day the foxes were never again heard of in that part of the country and the Hares lived in sweet peace and happiness.

WINTER.

'TIS the merriest time of all the year
When the snow is on the ground;
When coasting on the hillside's
fine,
And there's skating on the pond.

When the air is crisp, the sun is bright,
And your toes and fingers tingle;
When the gladsome shouts of children dear
With the sleighbells intermingle.

Oh, wintertime is a joyous time,
When the evening fires glow;
When everywhere the world's made new
By its coverlet of snow.

Biographical Sketch of Abraham Lincoln.

PERHAPS no figure in the history of the United States is of more interest to the student of biography than is our own beloved Abraham Lincoln. Rising from obscurity, he reached the very heavens of greatness. His father was a shiftless, lazy man, devoid of any ambition higher than to feed his stomach and to "rest." His mother was a fine, sensitive soul, whose life ended while she was still young. She seems to have been of a finer make than her husband, if we are to judge from Lincoln's own words concerning her, and the sad story attending her death. When the truth dawned upon her that she could not recover from the illness (called the "milk sickness"), which had attacked her, she became resigned, and called her son, Abraham, and her daughter, Sarah, to her side to give them her last instructions and blessing. "Placing her feeble hands on little Abe's head she told him to be kind and loving to his father and sister, then to her daughter she gave the same dying instruction, ending with 'Love each other, love your kindred and worship God.'"

Thus, resigned and peaceful, with her trust in her Creator, did Nancy Hanks Lincoln pass from the scene of hardship and poverty. All about her was wilderness, unbroken save here and there a patch of corn field or wheat field. The house she died in is thus described by a biographer:

"The cabin into which the Lincoln family removed after leaving the 'half-faced' camp (in which they had dwelt for a year at the mercy of wind and weather) was rather a pretentious structure as compared to the one just left. It was of hewn logs, and high enough to admit of a loft, in which Abe slept, and to which he climbed at night by means of pegs driven into the wall. The rude furniture was in keeping with the surroundings. Three-legged stools answered for chairs. The bedstead, made of poles fastened into the cracks of the logs on one side, and supported by a crotched stick driven into the floor on the other side, was covered with skins, leaves and old clothes. A table of the same finish as the stools, a few pewter dishes, a Dutch oven and a skillet completed the household outfit. In this uninviting frontier structure the future president was destined to pass the greater part of his boyhood."

And here it was that he tasted the first deep grief of his life, the loss of his poor, suffering, neglected but everpatient mother. In after life Lincoln never spoke of his mother except in tones of reverence and sadness, and declared that any good traits he might possess had been inherited from her.

From an old portrait of Mrs. O. H. Browning, who, as Miss Mary S. Owens, refused Abraham Lincoln's offer of marriage.

One of the pleasures—if it can be said that he had any real pleasures in the midst of the poverty which was always theirs—was in going to mill with corn to be ground into meal for the family bread. He was fond of telling of this pleasure in later life, after he had become a man of affairs, and description of those visits, made by Abe's friend, David Turnham, who often accompanied Abe to mill, is quoted here:

"We had to go seven miles to mill, and then it was a hand-mill that would only grind from 15 to 20 bushels of corn in a day. There was little wheat in the country, but it was ground the same way, and was eaten unbolted. We made our excursions to mill on horseback, a bag of corn thrown over the horse's back behind the blanket on which the horseman sat. The journey through the woods, alive with birds and animals, was always a source of great delight to Abe and myself, and it was the event of our boyhood days at that time."

Thomas Lincoln, Abe's father, had little use for "book learning," and did not countenance reading in his son. When Abe began showing that insatiable desire for knowledge which characterized him throughout life, his father complained that he was "wasting time," meaning that he should employ the time occupied in study to various duties about the farm. It is certain that Abe could not write—and possibly could not read—when his stepmother came to take charge of the Lincoln home. She it was who fostered the boy's desire to learn, and she managed to have him and his sister attend school, such as it was. But it is asserted on good authority that all Abraham Lincoln's school days added together would not make a year in the aggregate. But his reading consisted of everything in print that he could lay hands on, and in this way he picked up a fair education.

A Few Facts About Abraham Lincoln.

HE knew the value of a merry jest and a hearty laugh.

He was simple in manner, dress and bearing; but was big of heart and brain.

His was too great a nature to care one way or another about his ancestry. The living generation was of vital importance to him.

He valued a man by his works, not by his social position or his wealth.

He did not advocate war for his own glorification, but to liberate human beings from the depths of degrading slavery. All men were his brothers and his equals before his Creator.

HOW MARY GOT TO GO.

BY ANNIE JAMES.

WELL, I guess Mary cannot go, after all." As Mrs. Brown said this, she dropped her sewing into the work basket and sighed deeply. There was only one other person in the room, and it was to him that Mrs. Brown spoke. He was her young son, Harry, 14 years of age.

Harry sat silent for a minute, busily thinking. Then he lifted his head and said: "And Mary has set her heart on going to pay Cousin Grace a visit over the week-end, hasn't she? Well, if she has to give it up now, it will be such a disappointment to her, won't it?"

"Yes, dear, she'll be sadly disappointed, for you know Grace is giving a series of little musicales at her home this winter, and she has invited Mary to sing at one on Saturday evening next. And Mary is so anxious to have some of those city people hear her voice. If she gets praise and encouragement from them, why she'll redouble her studies next summer, with a fond hope of making something out of her voice. But—if we can't afford to get the little evening frock for her—she can't go, that's all. She hasn't a dress fit to wear in the city, you know. Her last year's blue silk is so worn, and she has outgrown it dreadfully. Let's see, Mary is most 16, you know. She must at least be presentable, or she couldn't think of accepting Cousin Grace's invitation to visit her over the week-end, and to sing at the Saturday night musicale."

"And papa has declared he can't afford the evening frock for sister?" asked Harry, a look of disappointment in his eyes.

"Yes, I had a talk with papa last night, and he feels as badly over it as we—you and I—do, but he, poor man, can't help his present financial straits. There is a big note he must meet this month, and the interest on another loan falls due at the same time. And you know, Harry, business has been deplorably bad during the past year, and it has been hard on your father to meet the demands made of him. I fully realize how it is, and that the outlay of so small a sum as $10 means more to him just now than $50 would have meant this time last year. And he says that we must all begin helping him to curtail expenses, that he must hold his business together and tide over this financial crisis. If we help him he'll come out all right, and next year things will brighten up a bit for us."

"Yes, I know just the position papa is in from the failure of the crops," said Harry. "And of course, the poor farmers cannot spend money with the town merchants when they haven't anything to turn into money. It's hard on all of us—farmers and townspeople," he said sadly. Then his face brightened. "But, there's no use bemoaning our circumstances. If we live in a country town—where we are dependent on the farmers — or rather on the crops — we must put our shoulder to the wheel and make the most of circumstances. In the first place, we are not so bad off as we might be, for we at least own our home and papa owns his store. And if we live within our means, why, we'll come out on top next spring, and there's sure to be a crop then, for Nature is too kind to send us two failures in succession. But, my moralizing will do poor Mary no good," he quickly added. "The thing is, we want her to go to the city next Friday evening and we want her to go in the style she is entitled to."

"But I fear it's out of the question, dear," said Mrs. Brown, resuming her sewing. "Yes, Mary is a good, deserving girl, and I am very sorry we can't give her this opportunity to try her voice, and also to enjoy a taste of the social life of the city. She's been planning on it so long, too. Only yesterday she said to me: 'Oh, mamma, if we can arrange for me to go to visit Cousin Grace, I shall be just too happy for anything.' So you see how I hate to tell her it is impossible for her to go."

"Will $10 get the frock for her?" asked Harry eagerly.

"Yes, we can do with $10," explained Mrs. Brown. "You see, we'd get a pretty French batiste and make it over her old blue silk. The old frock will do admirably for a lining, and will give the color needed. And we'll make ribbon roses from some old ribbon we have on hand with which to adorn the bodice. Oh, we can do nicely on $10. But the ticket to and from the city is $4, and then there will be so many little expenses, such as trunk transfer at each end and some small change for her to have in her purse in case of emergency. So it will require about $17 to get her off rightly. And that's why we just can't think of her going, for at this present moment Papa needs every dollar he can raise to meet that note."

Harry got up and went out whistling. He did not return for several hours; then he called to his mother to come into the library, as he had something to say privately to her.

Mrs. Brown joined her son in the library. "What is it, son?" she asked, sitting on the couch beside him.

"Bub, you're a brick, a BRICK! and some day I'll share my honors with you."

"Mamma, have you said anything to Sis yet about her contemplated visit to the city?" asked Harry.

"No, the dear girl has not come in from school yet," replied Mrs. Brown. "And that makes me think, Harry, you said you were remaining away from school today to look up some data at the Public Library—something you are to use in your paper on 'The Age of the World.' Did you get the information you wanted?"

"No, Mamma, I haven't been near the library yet. I'll go this evening," explained Harry. "The fact is, I was occupied with something else—a bit of business I undertook to transact after you and I had our talk after luncheon. But, as you haven't said anything to Sis yet about her visit to the city, don't. For it will be possible for her to go." And Harry took from his pocket a roll of bills and counted out $22 to his mother. "There, Mamma, is more than Mary really needs for the trip. Use the change in some way for yourself."

"But, son, where on the earth did you get this money?" asked Mrs. Brown, dumfounded. "Why, you quite take my breath away. Explain at once, son."

"I've sold Fleetfoot," calmly replied Harry. "The truth is, Mamma, the pony was eating her head off. And I don't get any use of her in the winter. And I sold her to Fred Thompson. He offered me twenty-five for her two weeks ago, but I didn't care to sell her then. And when I went to him this afternoon—you know he's at home, suffering from an attack of mumps and can't be at school—he knew I was anxious to sell Fleetfoot, for I told him I simply must raise some money before tomorrow. So he took advantage of my need and said: 'Well, I'll give you $22, and not another cent.' Then he called to his mother, who allows him to do as he pleases in such things, and had her write a check for me for the amount of the sale. I got the check cashed at the bank as I came home. And now I am to ride Fleetfoot over to Fred's house at once. Although he can't ride her for sometime, he wants her in his stable. He was mightily pleased to get possession of the little pony—and at such a reasonable figure. But what's the matter, Mamma?"

Mrs. Brown was gently wiping tears from her eyes. "Harry," she said, in tremulous tones, "you are the best son and brother in the world. What a sacrifice you have made for Mary! Sold your beloved Fleetfoot that she might have the trip to the city and that she might sing before some of the musical critics. Dear son, I can't express my feelings; they are too deep." And Mrs. Brown put her arms about the broad shoulders of her boy.

Harry was supremely happy, and stroking his mother's hair, said: "I know all about it, Mamma, and I know that you think I am the greatest boy alive, but I'm not. I only want to do the right thing, you see. And by doing the right thing it helps Sis, it helps papa, for it removed the expense of keeping an idle pony in winter, and it helps you, and makes us all happier. So, I'm fully repaid for my loss."

Just then Mary came bounding in from school, and after she had been told of her brother's sacrifice, that she might have the visit with Cousin Grace, she threw her arms about Harry, crying: "Bub, you're a brick, a brick! And some day—if my voice ever becomes great—I'll share my honors with you, for I shall say: 'It was my brother Harry who made it possible for me to make my first appearance as a professional singer.' And then I'll help you, you old dear, in anything you want to pursue. Oh, how can I ever repay you?"

"By singing your level best at Grace's musicale Saturday night," laughed Harry. "And now let's talk over the dress."

LETTER ENIGMA—Dictionary.

ZIGZAG PUZZLE — Honesty. Cross-words are: 1. Hare. 2. Howl. 3. Pine. 4. Rose. 5. Mist. 6. Star. 7. Yoke.

HIDDEN STATE PUZZLE — Florida. The words containing the initials necessary to spell the name are: 1. First. 2. Lake. 3. Old. 4. Rich. 5. Inch. 6. Dark. 7. Ant.

PICTURED WORD PUZZLE—Groundhog. Words pictured: 1. Grate. 2. Rain. 3. Owl. 4. Urn. 5. Neck. 6. Duck. 7. Hare. 8. Ocean. 9. Girls.

OUR PUZZLE CORNER

If the words pictured above are rightly guessed, and written one below another in their proper order, their initial letters will spell the name of a great man.

LETTER ENIGMA.

My first is in lake, but not in deep;
My second is in hill, but not in steep;
My third is in neck, but not in head;
My fourth is in comfort, but not in bed;
My fifth is in owl, but not in tree;
My sixth is the same as my first, you see;
My seventh you found in my third, also;
And if you can solve me my whole you will know.
And you'll find a name
That's beloved by all
Who love right and justice
On this wondrous ball.

ZIGZAG PUZZLE.

This zigzag contains nine words of five letters each. If the words are rightly guessed and written one below another, it will be found that their zigzag letters, beginning with the upper left-hand letter and ending with the lower left-hand letter, will spell that which we all love to do in memory of great men or events. The cross words are: 1. An article of household furniture. 2. Something belonging to our shoes. 3. A healing ointment. 4. A company of ships. 5. That which a charwoman will do to make the floor clean. 6. To be clever. 7. A creeping thing in a shell. 8. The objectionable part of a wasp. 9. An imaginative, mischievous sprite.

THE BONANZA KINGS OF 1910

Written for the Herald by E. J. Edwards ("Holland")

One of the Men Who Has Taken the Place of the Bonanza Kings of Yesterday Was Riding the Brake Beams Not So Long Ago---How Senator Nixon of Nevada Gained His Millions By Grubstaking a Cowboy Stranger With $300---The Two College Graduates Who Made Their Big Strike Just at the Last Moment---Other Marvelous Tales of Luck and Pluck From the Mining Camps of the Far West.

(Copyright, 1910, by E. J. Edwards.)

Flood, Mackay, Fair, O'Brien—these were bonanza kings of yesterday. Nixon, Wingfield, Montgomery, Collins, Myers, Hayes, Davis, Monnette, Loftus, Lockhart—these are their successors today. And great as were the names of Flood and Fair, Mackay and O'Brien in their day, so the names of these, their followers, loom large in the mineral camps and exchanges of America of 1910. For now, that the excitement and distortion naturally accompanying the first few years of the opening of the latest national gold fields have given way to normal, it is seen that they are men who have come out of the rush and fight for gold true bonanza kings. And these are among the men who are adding vastly to our store of gold, an economic problem that economic experts are even now wisely talking about.

As a group these men average less than 45 years of age, and as a group, also, they have won great wealth by going out in the wilderness like gamblers and explorers and remaining there for years till the "big strike" was made, in each case a fabulously rich gold mine.

And these men run the social gamut from college bred men to cowpunchers, and before the turn came in their lives the keynote of their existence was largely misfortune. One of them, who now lives in a $200,000 castle, smilingly admits that not so very long ago he rode the brake beams. Others were so flat broke that they even borrowed money to pay for the food they ate. Still another remembers well when he did his own washing and was glad if he had even so much as a burro, a blanket and a side of bacon that he could call his own. His story is typical of the group. Today he is worth millions.

What thsese men endured would have killed an ordinary man: for example, the genuine Nevada desert, scoria, sand dunes, a pitiless sun, infinite alkali wastes, a day from one water hole to the next, and only one blade of grass to the square mile. It is in such earthly infernos that George Wingfield, George Nixon, E. A. ("Bob") Montgomery, Jim Butler, Alva D. Myers, and others of that heroic band, uncovered nature's hiding places, where she so cunningly secretes her precious yellow metal—always, it seems, in the most desolate spots, where she thinks man will never penetrate.

There is George Nixon, now representing Nevada in the United States senate. Not long ago he was a day laborer, but all unexpectedly fortune waved her magic wand, and the other day Nixon sold part of his gold mining interests for a sum reported at $5,000,000 to $7,000,000. His age is 49.

Then, there is Georfie Wingfield, cowpuncher, scarcely 35, whose wealth justifies the title "Napoleon of Nevada," won in gold mines of his own discovery. Some say that if Nixon hadn't staked Wingfield with $300, on a certain occasion, their lives would have been vastly different. Maybe so, but that loan eventually returned to the partners something like 17,000 to one. Until recently, they controlled what might be termed, without figure of speech, a gold zone some five miles long in Nevada. In the year recently closed the dividends from it were $5,500,000, and other years have been just as fat! And that isn't all. At one time, they had a chain of banks, but lately Wingfield has disposed of his interests and has concentrated on mining, while the senator has been emphasizing banking. The two also own vast areas of grazing lands.

Nixon's Hard Early Discipline.

George Nixon is what is euphoneously termed on the Pacific coast "A native son of the Golden West," that is, born there. His parents went West in a prairie schooner, from Arkansas, in the rough days following the early gold rushes which produced the world's first crop of bonanza kings. Young George, born in Placer county, Cal., on his father's farm, had the usual struggle for the three R.'s; and at the age of 18 years found him working as a "swamper" for the railroad, a rough school, but one that has produced strong men. He often worked in water to his waist, and for weeks at a stretch he slept in a shanty in the wilderness, eating bacon and beans and bear meat. But by and by he went up a slow step, and as Carnegie is now proud of the fact that Carnegie was once a telegraph operator, so Senator Nixon is now also glad that he learned the Morse alphabet. He found a key out on the desert, in plain sight of the hills of silver and gold, although at the time his thoughts were not straying in that direction. He had to trundle trunks around, sell tickets, sweep out, lock up, be there early and late as rough-and-ready station agent at a water-tank station in the Nevada desert.

It ws a monotonous, ambitionless existence, and no wonder that one day Nixon slipped away from the station, drifted to Winnemucca, Nev., and asked for and received a job in the little bank there. That day, while he was busy adding up a long column of figures a cow-puncher walked up to the counter.

"I'm George Wingfield," said the new-comer. "I hail from Lakeview, Ore., and I want a grubstake of $300." And Nixon a few minutes later was all ears for the latest story of hidden treasure to be had out in the fastnesses of the desert by those bold enough to go after it and stumble across it.

With burro, blanket, bacon and pick and shovel this stranger had wandered for years over the intermountain region of the United States, seeking vainly for gold. Now, flat broke and a cowboy, he had heard of a marvelous strike of gold in the desert and planned to try his luck there also, and so he had come into the little bank of Winnemucca as the most likely place to get a grubstake, and so he and Nixon met for the first time; and the tale that the cow-puncher told the incipient banker caused the latter to put up $300 of his savings with which to send his new found partner into the wilderness in search of gold. Today these men control, among other things, some 300,000 acres of mineral lands, with one of their properties, as already stated, paying last year a dividend of $5,000,000.

A Man Without Fear.

Wingfield is of the rough and ready type that goes up and down the Far West, seeking excitements, a personal friend of the cowboys, gamblers, range-riders, and others of the motley crew; and all these characters agree to the last man that he is just about the "nerviest" man that ever faced death—a man without fear, a quality, by the way, that unquestionably has important bearing on his present day riches and those of Senator Nixon, as well.

He is the man who, almost single-handed, put an end to the strike in the Nevada gold fields some time ago. The United States troops were called out and desperate men were enforcing lawlessness. Wingfield, revolver in hand and cocked for instant use, walked up and down the main street of Goldfield, pushed his weapon under the noses of the dynamiters and other trouble makers and ordered them to pack up and leave the region, if they valued their lives. When George Wingfield talked that way, those desperate men knew that he meant it, and to a man they grabbed their personal baggage and skidooed.

This thriling bit of byplay is characteristic of Wingfield's early life, passed in roving up and down among the nation's outposts. Cold-blooded, unexcitable even with revolvers cracking around him and men dying in a bar-room brawl or other rough scene of mining life, he is a master of men because at all times he is at least physical master of himself; and his friends say that it is sometimes amusing to see the deference that is paid to him by men who know Wingfield for his nerve, who know his reputation for being the West's nerviest man living. And just as it would be difficult to find a match for him in pure physical courage, so, in all the mining camps of the country, it would be equally difficult to find one with greater or as much abounding self-reliance.

As for his enthusiasm, it has all the heroic qualities of the enthusiasm of the gold hunter par excellence. Today you may go to the heart of the golden zone in Nevada in a Pullman train, thanks to William A. Clark and his desert-piercing and desert-skirting railway. But when Wingfield found fortune there, shortly after Jim Butler, after about his hundredth disappointment, had struck rich pay dirt at Tonopah, nobdy could reach the sun-blistered plains and gold hills where nature had hidden her treasures unless he were very much a man. No water, few trails, terrific sandstorms, as in the Sahara—only desperate men, keyed up to the highest pitch of enthusiasm, could enter there and hope to come out alive.

Yet in this dead waste Wingfield found more than fortune. It was beauty; and when he is in the mood he does not tire of telling of the wonderful charm of the desert, especially toward evening, when the ramparts of the encircling mountains are enshrouded in purple mists, as soft and luxurious as colors from Oriental looms.

The Bonanza King Who Did His Own Washing.

A totally different type of new bonanza king is to be found in E. A. ("Bob") Montgomery. Tall, refined, stylish, with small white hands as well kept as a woman's, you would never associate him with rough life in the gold hills. And that there is no false pride about him, now that he has acquired his fortune, is interesting, for when you talk with him about his early hard times he will smilingly admit that he was then doing his own washing and regarded himself rich if he owned a burro and a keg of water.

For years he lived among the lizards and the rattlesnakes of the fiery desert land in and around Death Valley. It was only when he at last came across that Aladdin's cave of gold which he later sold in part for $2,000,000 to Charles M. Schwab and his associates that Montgomery's life history was changed in a flash of a comet's tail from that of a struggling prospector to that of a millionaire.

The beginning of Montgomery's fortune was built on kindness. "Hungry Joe," a Shoshone, helped him locate some of his early strikes in return for kindnesses shown him by the paleface, and it is a fact that through favors to starving prospectors Montgomery was put in the way of picking up several paying gold mines located at an altitude of nearly 6,000 feet in the Panamints, on the western side of that gruesome sink known as Death Valley. Montgomery managed to secure a five days' option on the discovery, and at once started in an automobile through Death Valley. The water gave out and a severe accident to his leg all but prostrated him. At last he came across the "claim"—two 3-foot holes! But his practiced eye soon traced some 1,400 feet of gold ledge, of which, later 800 feet averaged $24 a ton. It cost Montgomery $250,000 to take water twenty-two miles to his discovery. The pipe had to be hauled hundreds of miles by mules, packed up stiff mountain sides and lowered down canyons by rope and tackle. This gives you an idea of what an aggressive man Bob Montgomery is. And the Far West is filled with these spirited personal romances.

He Used to Ride the Brakebeams.

Alva D. Myers, big hearted, big fisted, another of the bonanza kings of this day and year of grace, used "to beat it on the brakebeams," as he expresses it to his friends and acquaintances who visit him in his $200,000 mansion, one of the show places on the Southern California "Purple Coast," with the Pacific ocean rolling out to the horizon before his magnificent windows. Myers is only 38, yet his life throngs with stirring incidents. He has lived about ten ordinary lives, it would seem, to hear him tell of his ups and downs from Alaska to the Old Mexican line.

"Al," as everybody calls Myers, was "down and out"—as usual—when he borrowed a few hundred dollars from "Cal" Brougher, an old pal and a picturesque Western character, and with this grubstake went into the Nevada desert, digging on what was afterwards the site of the town of Goldfield, laid out and named by Myers himself. Here he hit on the combination of mines that made him rich. It was the one stroke for which he had wandered for years through Alaska, Idaho in the Coeur d'Alenes, the Montana ranges, often flat broke, and often beating it, as a last resort, on the brakebeams to pastures new.

In the past few years Myers has broadened a great deal by travel in the Eastern centers. He is of the plain, self-made American workingman type, and never had any educational or other opportunities in the early days. But he is a great-hearted, open-handed American miner, and has lavished his ready tens of thousands on his friends. His quick rise has made him easy with money, but that seems very human after on has struggled, as he did for years, on short rations.

So, too, Tom Lockhart, formerly of Burlington, N. J., worked and hoped for upwards of thirty years for the one stroke that would make him a bonanza king. Once a cow puncher, for a generation, almost, he followed the mining game as it is played in the Far West, his wanderings taking him over thousands of miles of rough country, without any special good luck. At last he made Goldfield when the town consisted of only four tents and a 12 by 12-foot blacksmith shop. When he saw the 10-foot hole of a mine that has since produced some $6,000,000 worth of yellow metal, it looked like any other hole, but somehow Lockhart took the chance, dumped his last red cent in exploration work, and at the very last minute uncovered the hidden vaults, stored with their millions of treasure.

Two College Men's Last Minute Strike.

Imagine two partners working for months on a piece of ground, with no results, sinking in the meantime their last cent, then suddenly breaking into a chamber of solid ore containing wealth enough to realize the dreams of Croesus. Such, in brief, is the story of the successful fight for riches made by two college trained men, G. H. Hayes and M. J. Monnette, the latter having been attracted from the comparative quiet of an Ohio city to the desert by the lure of gold.

Of this combination, Monnette, who met Hayes after reaching the West, put up the money, all that he had been able to get together "back home." Hayes furnished the practical experience, being an expert miner of years' standing; and as their great find was made on ground with no ledge or surface indication to suggest what might be below, there is but very little question that the uncovering of their treasure house was directly traceable to Hayes' disciplined mining sense, which prepared him to realize the possible value of the ground.

As bonanza kings, neither Hayes nor Monnette is as picturesque as Myers, for example, probably because they have that polish which education imparts to its imbibers. Then, too, neither has undergone the roughing that Myers has experienced, and to have money to spend does not appeal to them with the irresistible force that it does to some of the other lucky ones. But not one of the others has had a more dramatic fight for riches, nor found them in a more melodramatic manner.

Still another college graduate who has snatched riches from the desert is J. P. Loftus, who calls Amherst college his alma mater, and who at one time made his home in Clifton, N. Y. Loftus' present wealth is based on his unerring judgment of human nature; he loaned $80,000 to a man whom he had known only twenty-four hours, and the stranger not only returned the loan, but made something like $250,000 on it besides. That lucky chap was Jim Davis, who laid the foundation of his own fortune with the loan by leasing a ledge that has since become famous in the history of twentieth century gold mining. He had learned the art of "panning for the ledge," and this practical knowledge he put to excellent use the minute he had secured the necessary financial backing from Loftus.

The Farm Hand Who Made a Strike.

In W. S. Collins is to be found a bonanza man who was formerly a farm hand in the Hoosier State, who was born on a farm near Marion, Ind., and is only 45. Leaving the plow, he went into the music and jewelry business in Fairmont, Ind. Then, when his health broke down while he was so occupied, he went West to renew his strength and began dabbling in California real estate. He got the mining fever through striking up a friendship with Jack Thompson, a successful mining man of British Columbia; he tried unsuccessfully to make his strike in the Coeur d'Alenes, then he went with the rush into the Nevada desert, there grubstaked Frank Perrew, and a little later, with part of his profits, built a $250,0000 office building, purchased 1,000 acres of valuable ocean front land, and bought heavily into various Pacific coast commercial and financial companies.

The idea of going to bed hungry, penniless and in debt, and waking up a millionaire, and, maybe, a multimillionaire, is not yet an idle fancy in this country. But as far as the region where our newest crop of bonanza men have been produced is concerned, it is probably, almost certainly, an idle fancy, just as it would be idle to dream of making big strikes where Flood and Fair, Mackay and O'Brien made themselves national characters in the roaring days following the uncovering of the famous $100,000,000 plus silver lode.

FOLLOWING THE BAND.

Once upon a time a Philadelphia lawyer came South. He had a pair of big spectacles, an inquisitive mind, and he wanted to know, says Harris Dickson in Success Magazine. With his Southern friend he was hurrying to the courthouse. A negro parade blocked the street; negroes in carriages, on horseback, on foot; negroes with swords and axes; stumpy negroes with Masonic banners, lean negroes with Pythian devices, fat negroes with Odd Fellows' insignia, miscellaneous negroes with miscellaneous emblems.

The Philadelphian pushed through the crowd and ran back in great excitement. "What's it all about? What are they doing?

The Southerner couldn't explain, but beckoned to a very intelligent young negro—who, by the way, was a prominent politician—and asked, "Tom, what's the occasion for all this parade?"

The young negro laughed. "Now, Jedge, you ought to know dat a nigger don't need no 'casion for a parade."

Tom had spoken a mouthful. Pageantry appeals to the negro's tropical imagination. Churches and lodges furnish most of the social life that he knows. He does not ask why the brass band is playing; he keeps step with the fellow that beats the drum and is happy.

MAORI MARRIAGES.

Wide World Magazine: It is 12 o'clock, and already the father has been warned to repair to the "wharekarakia" (church) and to don his canonicals. So we obey the summons of the warning bell and take our way to the church.

The grinning, fantastic heads on the carved door-posts—posts which in the fighting days of not so long ago stood on either hand of the gateway of the stockaded "pah" (fortress)—look with impassive stare on the entering throng of friends and visitors. We, as honored guests, find a place near the altar.

Trailing ropes of white clematis and golden "kowhai" bloom festoon the building. The carved rafters of the roof are hidden in greenery, while here and there bunches of crimson "pohotukawa" flowers stand out in spots of vivid color.

Father Mahoney, assisted by the Maori "tohunga," performs the marriage service. The "tohunga" hands water in a cup of woven flax leaf to the bride, who, drinking first, presents it to the groom, to be emptied at a draught. The ceremony is now complete, and, with a loud voice, the "tohunga" pronounces the pair man and wife.

WAGES PAID WORKING MEN NOT EQUAL TO THE COST OF LIVING

Charitable Organizations Have to Help Families of Men With Jobs.

Commissioner Collecting Statistics From Working Men of State.

Claimed They Cannot Earn Enough to Remain Self-Supporting.

That the cost of living in Duluth is greater than the wages earned by the ordinary laboring man, and that there is at the present time much suffering in families where the father is constantly at work, is the assertion of Miss Jean Poirier, state factory inspector and James Walsh, head of the state free employment bureau.

So widespread is this condition in the state that State Labor Commissioner W. E. McEwen has sent out questions and asks that they be answered and sent back to his office in St. Paul. The situation is really alarming when a man cannot earn enough to feed and keep his family in comfort, and a number of local organizations as well as the state institution, are trying to secure all the data possible on the conditions.

The average laborer's wage in Duluth is about $1.60 daily. Some do not get this much, others get more. The sum mentioned is, however, a fair estimate of what the majority earn. In other words, a laborer earns 20 cents an hour. Working eight hours a day his daily income is $1.60. Giving the man twenty-six days a month to work, his total monthly income is $41.60. But as the men finish one job in a certain

COMET MAY NOT COME ROUND AGAIN

Astronomer-Priest Studying A1910 Also Says That Its Tail Is Growing.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 1.—Comet A1910 has a tail 43 deg. in length, and is rushing away from the earth, according to Father C. M. Charroppin, astronomer at St. Louis university.

The nucleus is diminishing in brilliancy, he says, and the nebulous matter about the nucleus has contracted, but the tail has grown to an enormous length.

Father Charroppin believes that the comet is paying its first and last visit to the earth. He is now figuring out whether its path is an ellipse or parabola. If the course is found to be elliptic, he says that the comet will visit the earth again in a few thousand years; otherwise the stranger will travel to some other star. He believes the path is a parabola.

COOPERS IN COURT AGAIN

Slayers of Senator Carmack Make Last Attempt to Get Liberty.

Ex-Secretary of War Wright Appears for Them at Nashville.

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 1.—The last deal in the legal game, the stake of which is the liberty of Col. Duncan B. and Robin J. Cooper, began in the supreme court of Tennessee today. It was the hearing of a motion for a new trial, and was asked by the Coopers, who had been convicted of the murder of United States Senator Carmack and had been sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment.

The killing, which took place on one of the prominent streets of Nashville a year ago last November, was the culmination of a bitter political feud. Carmack, brilliant as an editor and statesman, had been a protege of Col. Cooper. As editor of the Nashville Tennessean, Carmack criticised Col. Cooper and editorially referred to him as a "little baldheaded angel."

Self-Defense Plea Failed.

Cooper, according to testimony at the trial, sent word that if his name was mentioned again he would kill Carmack. The latter next day used Cooper's name. The same day the men met. Cooper was accompanied by his son, Robin. The latter shot and killed Carmack as the editor was drawing a revolver.

The Coopers pleaded self-defense, but the state proved that one of the bullets pierced Carmack in the back of the neck. The jury, after a trial lasting three months, found the Coopers guilty of murder in the second degree.

Luke E. Wright, former secretary of war, was one of the attorneys for the defense today.

NORTH DAKOTA'S NEW SENATOR HAS RESIGNED

FOUNTAIN L. THOMPSON.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Fountain L. Thompson, recently appointed a senator from North Dakota, has resigned on account of ill health and W. E. Purcell of Wahpeton has been appointed his successor. The announcement was made in the senate today by Senator Money, and Mr. Purcell was sworn in. Mr. McCumber, senior senator from North Dakota and a Republican, also lives at Wahpeton.

MARKET MAN DECLARES SOMETHING WILL DROP

Conditions in New York Are Getting Near Crisis in Food Supply.

Egg Men Already Are Throwing Over Supplies at Reduced Figures.

New York, Feb. 1.—With the demand from consumers fallen off to a greater extent than ever before in the history of the trade, retail dealers in meats found an advancing scale of prices in wholesale markets confronting them today. Wholesale rates went up a fractional part of a cent yesterday, and though the dealers were advised that curtailed shipments were likely to lead to a further advance during today, consumers kept up the campaign for abstention from meat until lower prices were forced.

"Something has got to drop hard pretty soon," said one prominent market man today. "Supplies are piling up and the cold storage capacity of the city is limited. Already egg men are

STATE'S WITNESS IS MURDERED

Rank Corruption Is Uncovered in Election Held in the Philippines.

Manila, Feb. 1.—One of the principal witnesses for the government in its investigation of the extensive election frauds in Laguna province was murdered after he had made damaging statements on the stand. It is claimed that those who were responsible for the corruption at the polls inspired the murder.

As a result of the inquiry, the government threw out the claim of Gen. Caillles, who was long governor of Laguna, and who contested the election after his defeat last November had been announced. The contest developed that there had been widespread bribery of election officials and other corruption at the polls.

PINCHOT TO BE THE NEXT

Ex-Chief Forester Will Succeed Glavis as Witness in Hearing.

Will Be Quizzed By Congressmen About the Public Land Service.

Washington, Feb. 1.—With the congressional investigating committee's hearings in the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy adjourned over until Friday, interest in the inquiry centered today in the probable course to be pursued. The cross-examination of Louis R. Glavis yesterday afternoon developed the fact that the committee has no fixed program. The questions were put to the witness at random, and Senator Nelson, chairman of the committee, rather intimated that it was an imposition that the "other side," as he expressed it, had no attorney present to take the witness in hand.

Mr. Glavis, Mr. Pinchot and the other officers of the forest service who were

NEW SOUTHERN PACIFIC LINE

Arizona Eastern Articles of Incorporation Indicate Plans of Railroad Men.

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 1.—Articles of incorporation of the Arizona Eastern Railroad company will be filed here today. The company is capitalized for $40,000,000, divided into 400,000 shares. This action indicates that the Southern Pacific is planning a new trans-continental line via Phoenix and Yuma. The new company is to take over all the Arizona properties of the Southern Pacific and to add further mileage. The incorporators include Robert S. Lovett, president of the Southern Pacific.

Fifty-One Others Are Believed to Have Perished in Explosion.

Rescuers Find Survivor Buried Beneath Bodies of Those Who Perished.

Whole Interior of the Works Said to Be Wrecked---Cause Not Known.

Primero, Colo., Feb. 1.—Twenty-eight dead victims of yesterday's explosion in the main line of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company, in this place were brought to the surface today, and fifty-one other dead were believed to be still inside.

As the day wore on, hope gave way, and the full import of the disaster broke upon the survivors, although from every quarter aid was being rushed to the scene. Rescuers worked all night, and at daylight, a fresh supporting party went in.

The first rescue party to enter in the slope proceeded to the seventh entry, then turned and made its way across the main slope. Some fire was found in the cross cut and extinguished.

Near the west end of the eighth entry, a pile of dead mules was encountered. A little beyond were found the bodies of fourteen men.

Survivor in Pile of Bodies.

Turning back toward the main slope, on entry No. 8, the rescuers penetrated until a big cave in was encountered.

Here in the midst of a pile of dead mules and the bodies of dead human companions, the rescuers found Donacio Vergen, whose survival is the miracle of the disaster. He was found by J. B. Maley, who was startled to see Vergen open his eyes and say in pleading tones:

"Please may I go home now?"

Vergen walked unassisted to the air shaft, where he was carried out this morning. He now is all right.

After finding the man alive the work of rescue was resumed with renewed activity, but the hope of finding any more alive almost vanished as time went on.

Days of Work Ahead.

Most of the victims were believed to be in entries 9, 10, 11, 12, and 13. It

FORMER MINNESOTAN ARRESTED

SHERIFF GILLETTE AND JAMES E. HALL.

The monotony of life on a prison ship palled on James Hall, formerly of Austin, Minn., and he plotted to escape it. He was a marine and confined in the prison at the Portsmouth navy yard. He knew that the authorities of Monroe county, N. Y. were looking for the murderer of Anna Schumaker, who was killed on a farm not far from Rochester. Hall decided that for purposes of discharge from the navy he had killed Anna Schumaker and he so announced. Rochester sent a deputy sheriff to investigate. Hall manufactured a plausible story and signed it in the presence of the deputy sheriff and a naval officer. Application was made to Washington by the county authorities, and the navy department discharged Hall from the navy so that he might stand trial for the crime.

Sheriff Gillette went from Rochester to Portsmouth and took Hall back with him to Rochester. Arriving in Rochester, Hall repudiated his confession and produced a perfectly good alibi. There is no doubt he will be discharged in time, but he still is in custody and and his case must go before the grand jury before it can be terminated. The county officials will try to have his discharge from the navy revoked so that he may go back to serve out his time at Portsmouth.

Frenzied Outbreak By Women Feared When Bodies Appear at Surface.

Cherry, Ill., Feb. 1.—Scarcely had the sun risen today before state mine inspectors, mine managers and a score of volunteer helpers set about opening the St. Paul mine, the purpose being to clear the clogged galleries and recover nearly 200 bodies of miners who were killed by fire Nov. 13.

The trapdoor of the seal over the main shaft was broken open at 9:45 o'clock. Mr. Newsam said the conditions were apparently propitious for entering the shaft. State Mine Inspector Moses of Danville and Expert Webb of the University of Illinois were soon ready to descend. Helmetman Williams of Urbana is expected later.

SAYS HE CAN FREE MAN IN STILLWATER

Montanan Is Ready to Prove That Dutch Henry Is Alive.

Great Falls, Mont., Feb. 1.—P. M. Price of Harlowtown, who, it is believed, can free from prison at Stillwater, Minn., Alexander Mackenzie, four years ago convicted in Roseau county, Minn., of murdering "Dutch Henry," is in Great Falls, where his family resides.

Price asserts "Dutch Henry" is still alive and says the proof can be established if interested persons will proceed in the proper manner.

Price declares that "Dutch Henry" is living in South America. He says three of Dutch Henry's old-time friends bade him adieu two years ago as he boarded a train in Valley county for South America. These men, he said, will furnish affidavits.

The city election is on today. Duluth is electing a mayor and an alderman from each of the eight wards, and voting upon the most important charter amendments which have been submitted for years.

The vote this morning was fairly heavy, but this afternoon it is certain that it will be big. Many men voted between 6 and 8 o'clock on their way to work, but more will go to the polls on their return home. The polls opened at 6 o'clock this morning and will close at 7 o'clock this evening.

The Republicans are confident of a sweeping victory. They expect to carry every ward in the city with the possible exception of the Second and Third. Considerable attention has been given to those two wards the last two or three days however, and the Republicans will make an excellent showing in the hotbed of the city Democracy.

"I believe that I will be re-elected," said Mayor Haven this morning. "I feel that my administration has been such the last two years that the people will continue the same administration another term. I am standing on a platform of positive accomplishments. There are some things under way which ought to be finished by this administration. The voters know what they are. I do not think that they have allowed any one to pull any wool over their eyes. ### Pennsylvania Law Works Out Into Puzzle at Holidaysburg.

Holidaysburg, Pa., Feb. 1.—Frank E. McMillen, who was placed on trial in the Blair county court here yesterday for the killing of his wife, became today a fugitive from justice. He had been at liberty under heavy bail.

McMillen left his boarding house at daybreak and after visiting his wife's grave in Greenwood cemetery, left for parts unknown. When court opened his bail was forfeited and officers are searching for him.

Under the Pennsylvania law a jury in a murder case cannot be discharged before verdict is rendered or the jury is unable to reach a verdict, and the court is now considering what shall be done with the jury until the return of the fugitive.

McMillen discovered his wife with a male companion and in attempting to kill the man, he shot his wife instead.

CUPS ARE INSANITARY

The Anti-Tuberculosis Society Members Up in Arms Against System.

They Ask That Running Water System Be Installed in Courthouse.

A crusade has been started against the drinking cups now being used in the new St. Louis county courthouse by members of the Anti-Tuberculosis society.

The matter, it is likely, will be taken up at the next meeting, and the building commissioners asked to remedy the custom now in vogue.

"It seems impossible said one indignant member this morning, "that in erecting a new building, modern in every respect, save one, the architects and others who had something to say as to the construction would allow the old-fashioned fountain and the old cup to be used when the sentiment is so strong against it. It is a public building and the people should have something, at least, to say."

The woman who did the talking seems to be backed up in her statements by a large number of others.

Der. E. L. Tuohy says that he is surprised that the old system should be renewed in the new building. He says that the system of a nickel top drinking plate with water constantly running over it as is now in use in the Central high and other schools, is a great idea, and that it should be installed in the courthouse building. "There could be nothing better than this idea," says Dr. Tuohy, "as the surface is kept clean by the runing water and the water itself is cool and fresh, the result of a constant flow."

Mrs. Z. D. Scott, the newly elected president of the Woman's Council says that the old drinking cup should go and should be replaced by a modern and sanitary system. She rather favors the paper cups now being used on railroad trains and in public places, but says that the system in the high school is good and could probably be installed at little expense.

B. P. Neff is against the old system in the public buildings. He says that it is a public place and that everybody is entitled to drink from the cups. He says almost anything is better than the present system and favors the adoption of the high school method.

Bishop McGolrick is emphatically in favor of changing the system. The bishop said:

"Down East they wouldn't think of installing the old system. All the new buildings have some means of getting around the old cup idea and the method is being installed in all the buildings, old or new. The new way could be installed at little expense and I am heartily in favor of the change, the sooner the better. I am surprised that the architects and others in planning our building overlooked this important fact."

Dr. Patton, health inspector, thinks a new system could be installed at very little expense. "It's bad business, this public drinking cup," said Dr. Patton this morning, "and I really believe something should be done, not only in the new courthouse building, but in other buildings as well. I am very much in favor of doing away with the old way and putting in the new. We want to be up to the times as well as taking care of our bodies as far as possible. Yes, the cup should be taken out of the new courthouse building."

Mrs. Florence Lee, visiting nurse for the Anti-Tuberculosis society, is much in favor of the change which she thinks should be made at once.

The Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad company has lately installed the paper cup on its trains and the system is said to be very satisfactory. As the cups are used they are thrown away. It has been put on trial only, it is understood, but so well is it succeeding that it is likely the method will be continued.

The cups complained of are on each floor in the new building. They are of the ordinary public drinking kind and hang by a chain.

It is said that the new system could be very easily installed and at very little expense.

675 OR GO RAGGED!

SUIT YOURSELF

SEE! SEE! SEE!

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling usually indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. Too frequent desire to urinate, scanty supply, pain or dull ache in the back, should also convince you that the kidneys or bladder are out of order.

What to Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, fulfills almost every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold urine, and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate.

The mild, pleasant and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful results in the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine, you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, and a book that tells about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.. When writing be sure to mention that you read this generous offer in The Duluth Daily Herald. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

LEAVES ON BUYING TRIP.

August Milek Will Also Attend the Merchant Tailors' Convention.

August Milek, manager of the M. L. Parker tailoring establishment, left last evening for the East and will visit Chicago, Washington, Philadelphia and New York.

While in New York he will purchase the best materials which are produced by the most exclusive foreign weavers of cloth fabrics for his spring trade. He will also attend the national convention of merchant tailors to be held at Hotel Astor Feb. 8, 9 and 10. To most tailors attending the convention the garment exhibition is of the greatest interest, comprising as it does garments from all parts of the United States and is thoroughly representative of the best productions of the craft.

Following his usual custom Mr. Milek has made arrangements to spend about ten days in one of the leading Fifth avenue establishments to study New York methods of tailoring.

TESTIFIES IN CONVICT GARB

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 1.—Charles L. Warriner, confessed embezzler of funds of the Big Four railway, of which he was the local treasurer, faced today the cross-examination of attorneys for Mrs. Jeannette Stewart Ford, who is on trial here charged with having blackmailed him. The direct examination of Warriner ended as court adjourned for the noon recess.

As on yesterday, Warriner answered the questions in a cool, unemotional manner. Again he entered the courtroom with an overcoat concealing the convict suit, and Mrs. Ford's counsel insisted that he remove the civilian garment.

Subpoena Ida Brockway.

Forthwith subpoenas were issued from the prosecuting attorney's office today for the appearance of Frank Comstock of Peoria, Ill., former local treasurer of the Big Four, and Miss Ida Brockway, who was a stenographer in the customs house here and is an estranged friend of Mrs. Ford.

In Warriner's testimony yesterday the prosecution took care to establish the point that the witness had not sought the acquaintance of Mrs. Ford, and had seen her only on those occasions when she demanded money of him. Further emphasis was placed on this aspect of the case today.

Warriner testified that Mrs. Ford had called upon him at hi ssuburban home one night last spring and told him that she had just come from Chicago, where she had a row with Edgar S. Cooke; that she was out of funds, and that she asked for money with which to pay her hotel bill. He said that he gave her $20 or $30, all that he had in his pockets. The fact that this interview took place on the porch of his home was emphasized by the questions of the prosecution.

Jealous of Cooke's Wife.

Then more letters from Mrs. Ford to Cooke were introduced. One dated Feb. 5, 1903, said:

"Saw Mr. W. today for the first time since I struck Cincy. Got some money from him to pay my hotel bill and for your birthday, but not enough to spare you a ten spot besides."

Letters were also introduced to show Mrs. Ford's jealousy of Cooke's wife. In them she referred in uncomplimentary terms to Mrs. Cooke, and accused the latter of interfering with the writer's affairs.

INSURGENTS ANNOUNCE PLAN

Washington, Feb. 1.—The Republican "insurgents" in the house will support the administration program on the subjects of railroad legislation, conservation, postal savings banks and anti-injunction. Unanimous decision to do so was reached at a meeting last night. Messrs. Gardner of Massachusetts and Hayes of California were authorized to so inform the president.

At the meeting of the Republican members of the New York state delegation in the house, a resolution will be presented binding every member to work for the early enactment of the administration program into law, and the redemption of the platform pledges of the party.

"Correct Dress for Women"

The great volume of our regular season business involves greater stocks of women's wear than found elsewhere in this vicinity. But at the "Gidding Store" every garment must be disposed of the season it is bought—consequently the riddance task is no small one, and in order to effect a quick and absolute clearance, price cuts must be radical.

But Gidding Clearances are unlike the "general run" of clearance sales—for Gidding Styles are advance styles—our buyers are in constant touch with the market, and here, new styles are brought in from the beginning of the season to its end—hence, many garments offered at fractions of former prices have been with us only a few weeks, and styles are as good for early Spring as for immediate wear.

FREE FLESH BUILDER

Any Man or Woman Can Now Be Plump and Well Developed.

50-CENT PACKAGE FREE.

"Look at that pair of skinny scare crows! Why don't they try Sargol?

Just because you are thin and underweight, do not think you have to stay in that condition.

Thanks to a new discovery, you can be plump, symmetrical, well developed and vigorous with the bones covered with good solid flesh, the hollow places filled out and the cheeks and face made plump, full and attractive.

And the beauty of it is, it will not cost you a penny to see whether this treatment will do all this for you or not, as a full-sized 50-cent package will be sent you by mail without charge if you simply write for it. (See coupon below.)

There is no strenuous exercising required, no drastic diet necessary. All you have to do is to take, four times a day, a little tablet of Sargol, the new flesh-building principle, then weigh yourself once a week to note the increase as the pounds pile up.

This new treatment increases the red corpuscles in the blood, strengthens the nerves and puts the digestive tract into such shape that your food is assimilated and turned into good, solid, healthy flesh instead of passing through the system undigested and unassimilated. It is a thoroughly scientific principle, this Sargol, and builds up the thin, weak and debilitated without any nauseous dosing. In many conditions, it is better than cod liver oil and certainly is much pleasanter to take.

Simply cut out the coupon in this notice and send it with your name and address and 10 cents to pay distribution expenses to the Sargol Company, 170-P Herald Building, Binghamton, N. J., and you will receive by prompt mail a regular 50-cent package without charges and without incurring any obligations.

COUPON.

This certificate and 10 cents to help defray distribution expenses entitles the holder to one 50-cent package of Sargol, the home treatment which makes thin folks plump and attractive.

GOOD FOR TEN DAYS.

NEW WEST DULUTH SCHOOL WILL PROBABLY BE COMPLETED BY APRIL 1

THE NEW FAIRMONT SCHOOL.

The new Fairmont school, on Redruth street, between Sixty-seventh and Sixty-eighth avenues west, was placed under roof this week, the superstructure having been practically finished. It is now thought possible, from the present outlook, that the building can be completed by April 1, the contract time.

The eighth grade students who were attending the old Fairmont school at the time it burned last fall, are desirous of graduating from the new building. The school board has been asked to see that the work is rushed and completed in the time allowed by the contract.

The contract was let to J. F. Schleunes, who expects to have his part of the work done by the first of April. He now has a force of about fifty men on the job. The inside work, electric wiring, plumbing and furnishing work will be started as soon as the superstructure is done. The boiler was placed in the school last week.

The total cost of the new building will be $65,000. It is modern in construction and handsome in architecture. A number of new ideas in public school architecture are being worked out in connection with its erection.

A new style of cloak room has been built which will not only economize space, but will also, by a ventilating system dry the pupils' garments, which may have become wet. The cloak room will be at one end of the class rooms, and will be concealed behind sectional blackboards, which will perform the functions of doors.

In the original plans, twelve rooms were called for in the specifications, but this was later changed on the request of residents sending children to the school, and through the wishes of the alumni association, to a ten-room building with an auditorium.

The building is constructed of brick, and is two stories high. Additional ground adjoining the property has been purchased by the school board for playground purposes.

APARTMENT HOUSE IS UNDER THE BAN IN DULUTH

Popular Residence Districts Being Closed to the Flat Building.

"Own Your Own Home" Motto Best Foundation for a City.

The apartment house business is growing. Nobody can controvert the statement, be he in Duluth or any other growing city in the country. On every hand buildings are being erected with accommodations for from two to twenty families and even more. Investors have discovered that in cities where living rooms are in demand they can get sure and steady returns on their investments in apartment houses and more and more are coming to see the matter in that light.

Among a certain class there is a disposition to fight against the growth of the apartment house habit, custom, convenience, craze or evil—call it what you will. They are the people who believe the apartment house is a departure from the policy that the home is the foundation of the nation, and that the crowded flat can never become a true home. They believe that the apartment house discourages the raising of children and they stand with the ever-popular Theodore in condemnation of race suicide.

Then there are the city builders, who believe that the erection of large apartment houses should be discouraged. There is no denying the fact that the separate house is the foundation of a great city. A city in which everybody lived in a five, six or eight-room flat would be but a congested hotel on a large scale. The real city is made up of its business district and its residence district, the residence district with its beautiful homes, its well kept lawns, its shade trees, its flower gardens, its air of beauty and prosperity.

To those who believe that a city should be an ideal city of homes in that respect, the spread of the apartment house craze is heartrending. Every opportunity that is given them they protest against the tendency, ever growing on the American people, to crowd themselves into flats, where they will never have the shade of a tree, where their children must play in the streets and where father must give up his bed for the chance visitor.

They would have every man own his own home, but if he is not fortunate enough to own a home, they maintain that he should at least rent a home—a real home, not a few rooms, where his wife may toil in the day and where he may hang his hat at night. They believe that the peace, contentment and conveniences of home can come only in a separate house, free from the jangle of the piano next door, the noise of the tipsy gentleman upstairs coming home in the early morning hours, the discomforts of backing out of rooms to turn around, and the ever-present fear that the children playing in the street will get in front of a street car or an automobile.

That class is very numerous in Duluth. Duluth is growing fast, and as it grows the building of apartment houses becomes more general. The movement has not reached its greatest height, for people with money to invest have not yet realized its great possibilities. But it is growing, nevertheless, and the opposition class is frowning upon it.

If Duluth is to grow, it must grow not only by filling out the vacant spaces in the central district and the building of substantial buildings to replace the ramshackle structures that are relics of earlier and less prosperous days, but it must grow by reaching out and taking in more territory, by the building of homes—the modest homes of the workingman and the salary-earner of the middle class.

If that growth is to come, those people believe, it can come only by the curtailing of the number of apartment houses erected. They say that if flats could not be obtained, people would build houses of their own, or rent houses from those who have them to rent. On the other hand, if the people could be educated to shun the apartment house, they would refuse to rent flats, prospective large profits would disappear, and people who now put their money into apartment houses would build separate houses as a more profitable form of investment.

There is a certain area in every large city which is suitable only for apartment houses. That comprises the area near the downtown district, too near to the noise of the city to be desirable as residence property by those who want home comforts. On that class of property apartment houses are the proper thing, for there is a certain class of people who must live near to the business district and who would just as soon live in apartments. Then there are the migratory individuals, who are here today and gone tomorrow, and for them there is nobody who would deny that the apartment house is a blessing. But for the stable citizen, who has settled down for all time or for a period of years, the opponents of the apartment house say the separate house is the only thing for himself, for his family, and for the community.

When the apartment house building movement gets outside of the center of the city there is a protest. The owners of property on resident streets resent its erection in "their midst." They say it depreciates the value of property, especially if it is larger than a two-family house. The advocates of civic beauty protest, for they say it is out of place in the general scheme of things and is a discordant note in the symphony of symmetry. The anti-race suicide throngs protest, for they say that the family can grow only when its limits are unrestricted, or when there is room for all that might come.

In certain districts in Duluth, the apartment house is absolutely under the ban. Deeds carry the provision that none but single houses shall be built on the property. Those are the districts of beautiful homes, where the people who believe in the home as the only true unit of civilization reside. They do not want crowded apartment houses where they are living comfortably and happily and they will not have them. They hope to set a good example to others, who will perhaps follow the lead they have laid out and come to be home owners and home lovers.

Real estate men and builders do not encourage the apartment house. If the people are crowded into apartments, the number of houses in the city will be necessarily smaller than it would be if each family occupied a separate building. Real estate men and builders want to see the city grow, not only in commercial and industrial prosperity, but also in its limits. They want to see the vast unplatted tracts now included within the corporate limits of the city laid out into streets and built up with beautiful homes. They want every man to own his own little plot of ground and his own little house, modest as it may be, for the home owners are the city builders and the real estate men and builders, who make a study of city building know it.

The apartment house is convenient, for those who do not want to take up the responsibility of heating, lighting and conducting the affairs of a house. It is also expensive, for the heating, lighting and conducting is paid for now at much higher prices than it would be if those who pay rent for

GOOD YEAR IN PROSPECT

Architects Are Busy on the Sketches for New Buildings.

Fidelity Block Only Large Business Structure in Sight Yet.

The building work to be done during the coming year is still under cover, but the architects say they are busy making sketches for prospective work and no men will be idle in the building trades in Duluth during the summer season.

Most of the building in prospect consists of residences and apartment houses, though there will be a few business buildings on the avenues and on East Superior and First streets. The Fidelity building will be erected on Superior street in the central part of the city, but with that exception, no new building for the main business district has been announced.

It is not so very many years ago that one was accustomed to speak of the building season. There is no such thing as a building season now. Architecture and building have progressed until now work goes on uninterrupted all the year around. In regard to it, the Improvement Bulletin says:

"It is interesting to observe how builders are more and more shaking their fists in the face of Jack Frost and carrying on their work in defiance of his majesty's whims. On one corner may be seen the sixteenth story of a sky-scraper hooded in canvas canopy within which construction goes on whether the thermometer registers 30 above or below. On another corner an elaborate temporary wooden structure houses comfortably the workmen, while they lay the foundations for another lofty structure to blossom in the gentle spring. It is not so very long since for three or four months builders had nothing to do but figure up their losses or go to California and squander their profits. The world do move."

Bray & Nystrom are preparing plans for a residence for Dr. W. A. Kaake on the corner of Sixth street and Twenty-seventh avenue east. It will be a modern structure, a combination of brick, frame and stucco and will be a valuable addition to the beautiful East end residence district.

REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING NEWS

DULUTH REALTY OWNERS ARE "SITTING TIGHT"

All Central Business Property Is Being Very Closely Held.

West Duluth Land Company Reorganized---Transfers of the Week.

Though there have been no big developments in the real estate market this week, nothing has occurred to disturb the optimism which prevails generally among those interested in Duluth property. The opinion is general that Duluth is entering one one of the greatest years in its history and the man who gets into the market now at prevailing prices on well situated property, is making no mistake.

Most of the attention given the market at the present time is to acres and property in the outlying districts. Really, property in the center of the city is so closely held that it is almost futile for a man to go into the market for business property unless he is willing to allow the seller to anticipate his profits for some time to come, as the prices at which business property is held if it is on the market at all, amounts to such anticipation.

Acres are getting close also. There has been such trading in that class of property in the past year that owners are beginning to realize its speculative worth and they are holding on to get the profits prospective buyers expect if they secure title. Acres are a good buy around Duluth now at prevailing prices. Shrewd investors, who are able to look to the future, are buyers of acres wherever they can get them within reasonable distance of the city. New railroad building and prospective street railway extensions will bring outlying acres nearer to the city and the results will be appreciation in value and better adaption for truck farming and country homes.

James Cromwell was elected secretary of the West Duluth Land company to succeed the late Omar H. Simons at a meeting of the stockholders during the past week. Judge J. D. Ensign was again elected president; B. B. Meyers, vice president, and Victor Stearns, treasurer. M. Mier was elected asistant secretary and D. B. McDonald and John A. Stephenson were elected directors to succeed J. L. Washburn and Mr. Peters.

The present organization will hold until May 1, when there may be some changes, both in organization and policy. Heretofore, the company has not been very active in a public sense, but in the future it is expected it will get into business in a more active way among the general public. Its holdings are large and its power for good in West Duluth is great. It has already paid about $500,000 in dividends and the stockholders look for large returns in the next few years.

The company adopted appropriate resolutions on the death of Omar H. Simons, who was secretary and manager of the company since its organizatin. He was responsible for much of its prosperity and his loss will be keenly felt in the future life of the company, for his counsel was always wise and his judgment sound.

BOND ISSUE WILL HELP

It Means the Development of Many of Duluth's Outlying Districts.

Amendment Regarding Storm Sewers Also Pleases Property Owners.

The only developments of the week having any effect on the real estate market came in the city election. The approval of the bond issue of $200,000 for the water and light department, the adoption of the first, second and third amendmens, and the defeat of the three Chan Smith amendments, mean much to every property owner and prospective purchaser of Duluth real estate.

The bond issue of the water and light department means a good deal more to the property holder and home owner than most people realize. It not only means that large extensions, such as one to the steel plant ultimately will be made, but it means that many short extensions, which were not possible with only the earnings of the department to finance them, will now be possible.

People who live in the outlying districts will soon begin to realize the importance of the bond issue. Extensions, for which petitions have been on file for a long time, will be made, and property will be accordingly benefitted.

The issue was determined upon in anticipation of a Greater Duluth. The earnings of the department are large and are able to take care of most of the ordinary extensions in the main part of the city, but they are not so large that the extensions can keep pace with the growth of the city with only the earnings of the department to finance them. The extension of water and gas to property means a great appreciation in value for property and owners will soon begin to realize the beneficient effects which will come from the bond issue.

Under the old system of building storm sewers, Duluth certainly has not an adequate storm sewer system. If it had, the havoc which attended the heavy rains last July could not have come about. The adoption of the first amendment to the city charter providing for the payment of the cost of paving street intersections and the cost of storms by general taxation, means considerable initial expense, to be paid by general taxation, but it means that there will be great ultimate benefits.

Storm sewers should start away up on the hill, where they will catch the flow of water before it strikes improved property. Under the old system, the storm sewers were supposed to be assessed as special assessments againt the property benefitted. The theory was followed out on a false basis, for the cost was usually assessed against the property immediately adjacent to the sewers—property that derived little or no benefit from them. The real benefit came to the property lower down on the hill, which would be saved from the floods if the storm sewers were adequate.

Under that unfair system, it was almost impossible to get petitions for storm sewers and the consequence was that Duluth has not the system of storm sewers a city clinging to the side of a hill should have. Under the amendment, it will be possible for the council to order the construction of storm sewers without consulting the property owners. The initial cost of the sewers will be great, but it will be spread over the city, which benefits as a whole and not assessed against property under a false notion of benefits. Given time, the council will be able to make it impossible for such damage as followed the storm of last July to recur, the city will not be put to great expense in repairing damaged pavements and the whole city will benefit from the expenditures, as the cost of repairs had come out of funds raised by general taxation.

APARTMENT HOUSE IS UNDER THE BAN IN DULUTH

apartments were paying the bills. The American flat has added materially to the cost of living for those who have the flat-habit. "Own Your Own Home" is the cry in Duluth and by the cry is meant, not own your furniture, nor own your flat, but own your home, a separate unit in the collection of units which makes the city a real home on a resident street, with a little lawn, a space in front of the house on which the children may play, a few shade trees for the pleasant summer evenings and perhaps a little garden in the rear.

NOTES OF BOYS' DEPARTMENT

Mrs. Lulu Tyler Gates of Chicago, reader, gave the monthly entertainment at the Boys' Department Y. M. C. A. last evening.

Her number last evening was Margaret Mayo's "Polly of the Circus." Her impersonation of each character was perfect, and showed a wonderful aptitude. One of her other numbers gave a description of a young lady at a baseball game. This is one of Mrs. Gates' own composition, and it kept the audience in a continual roar of laughter. The other number was a comedy sketch on "The Baby." Mrs. Gates has been on the Lyceum platform for several years, but now is devoting only a portion of her time to that work, having a large school for voice expression in Chicago. This evening Mrs. Gates will appear at the Central department Y. M. C. A.

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Pirate club, Marcus Bates will be the speaker. All boys under 15 years are invited.

At 4:30, the older boys will meet and Dr. Milne will be the speaker. There will be a musical program and luncheon. All boys of the city, 15 years or over are invited.

ACTION ON FRANCHISE

Canadian Northern Dispute May Be Settled Monday Night.

Majority of Aldermen Said to Favor the Amended Measure.

The council meeting Monday night promises to be lively. The matter of the Canadian Northern franchise will likely come to a head, Alderman Shartel giving notice to West Duluthians at the last meeting that the aldermen will be prepared to vote upon it Monday.

The delegation which has protested so violently against the proposed route will be present again. But their objections will likely be in vain. The franchise will undoubtedly be passed. The majority of the aldermen have been asked to express their sentiments on the matter, and they have favored granting the franchise to the railroad.

The rate clause was dropped last Monday night. In the form it now stands it is stated that the franchise is acceptable to the railroad company, with one or two minor differences, which, however, may be the cause of postponing action for some time. Whether the final vote is taken Monday night or later, there is no reason to doubt that the franchise will not be passed.

Had the rate clause remained, the road would absolutely have refused the franchise, as it would have involved them in trouble with the Canadian government, who has guaranteed their big issues of bonds.

The council will also canvass the election returns. Every precinct will be read, which will take considerable time. The returns will undoubtedly be the same as those received by H. W. Cheadle, the only difference being that until ratified by the council they are not official.

The civics class of the industrial high school at West Duluth will attend the meeting Monday night. Their instructor wishes them to see how legislation is enacted, and they will be present in a body.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS
AZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 50c.

TEACHERS WILL MEET IN DULUTH

Northeastern Minnesota Educational Association to Hold Annual Convention Here.

The sessions of the ninth annual meeting of the Northeastern Minnesota Educational association will be held in Duluth Friday and Saturday, Feb. 11 and 12.

The public schools of Duluth and the state normal school will be visited Friday morning. The first session will be held at 2 o'clock in the afternoon in the Central high school. The high school choir will sing. Dr. S. H. Boyer, a member of the Duluth school board, will speak on "Efficiency of the Public Schools as Related to Health of Teachers and Pupils." The speech will be based on results of medical inspection in the Duluth schools. Miss Maude Mattison will sing and William Iler Crane, formerly superintendent of schools at Marshalltown, Iowa, will talk on "Efficiency of the Public Schools as Related to the Teachers' Understanding of Boys and Girls."

A reception will be given the teachers by the Duluth Commercial club at the club's quarters on Friday evening. A musical program will be given, followed by informal dancing.

Sectional meetings will be held Saturday morning, followed by a meeting in the high school assembly room at 10:30 o'clock. Charles S. Mitchell, editor of the News Tribune, will discuss "Efficiency of Our Schools from a Layman's Standpoint." A general discussion on this topic will be led by R. E. Denfeld, superintendent of the Duluth public schools. L. C. Lord, president of the Eastern Illinois normal school, will speak on "Wastes in Recitation." Music will be given by the state normal glee club.

THE WORKING WOMEN OF A CITY

PITTSBURG'S 22,000 WOMEN WORKERS PROBABLY TYPICAL OF TOILERS OF OTHER LARGE COMMERCIAL CENTERS—RESULTS OF ELABORATE STUDY IN "SMOKY CITY."

By PAUL U. KELLOGG : : : Director of the Pittsburg Survey

(Exclusive Service The Survey Press Bureau.)

A study of 22 000 in four hundred factories—the first general survey of the women-employing trades ever conducted in an American city—has been made public. This elaborate investigation of the working women of the steel district resulted from the "Pittsburg survey" of a year ago, and the findings of that survey are now being collected into six volumes whose purpose is to gauge the trend of modern industry.

Elizabeth B. Butler, who made the inquiry as to women and the trades, lived in what is known as the "hill district" of Pittsburg, but her investigations carried her everywhere from the candy factories of "the Point," to the glass factories and metal works in the outskirts, and to the homes of miners' wives who do outwork for the garment manufacturers. The major elements in the conditions described are probably true of every other commercial center of the size of Pittsburg.

She does not merely picture the worst sweatshops or the "model factories," which are so familiar in magazine articles, but presents a general view of the possibilities which work at wages opens up to this generation of working girls in Pittsburg.

These women range in years from 14 to 50. Ten per cent of them (2,300 women) live away from their homes. Less than 2 per cent are in touch with social agencies for recreation—such agencies as Jane Addams has proclaimed indispensable. English-speaking girls hold the positions for which a few months' training and some intelligence are needed. Italian girls, hindered by tradition, scarcely figure, though in a limited circle of industries; immigrant Jewesses hold positions beside girls of native birth. Inferior and unpleasant work is yielded to Slavonic immigrants, and these newcomers, sometimes by sheer physical strength and sometimes by personal indifference and a low standard, compete on a basis of lower wages for men's work, which otherwise would never have been given girls to do. The place of the Slav is that of the woman who is fighting her way.

Women workers in Pittsburg fall into great groups of occupations—food production, needle industries, stogy making, lamp and glassmaking and the metal trades. Little by little as industries passed out from the home, the women followed them. Others have gone farther into industries which had left the home so long that the line of descent seemed broken, if it ever existed. They have gone into cork and soap and paint factories. They have learned to grind and melt and paint the edges of glassware, to bore and rivet metal, to sort the corn for brooms, to put the threads on screws and bolts on nuts, to wind coils for electric motors and to tear apart the sheets of tin still faint red from the furnace heat. Into these industries Miss Butler followed them.

In an exclusive sense, these women make up a new labor force such as employers of an earlier generation would not have hired, for they had not the instruments to use it economically nor would they have had social sanction for doing so. This report brings together for the first time the experience of employers in many Pittsburg industries. It supplies a record of labor adjustments and technique in factory work such as neither mechanical nor business training affords the individual manager. It is a long step in advance in supplying the need for an interchange of such working knowledge. For, if a conference were called of those who have dealings with working girls in Pittsburg, there are in the city pickle canners, cracker makers, electrical manufacturers, laundry owners, department store managers, a good company of them, who could contribute methods and experience which, if combined into a standard, would put a new meaning into the day's work—a standard which physicians, educators and social economists no less than the general public could set their seal upon; as today they cannot in conscience nor in thrift.

The report states that many of these women are put at work at wages below the cost of subsistence, for hours longer than the measure of their strength, at ill-constructed machines which cannot but injure their health, at processes which must handicap the development of both body and mind. Something over three-fifths earn less than $7.00 a week; one-fifth are earning $7.00 to $8.00; and the remaining fifth $8.00 or over. From mid-August to the 1st of December in the stogy trade, they work from two to three evenings a week; laundries customarily work Friday nights until 10, 11 and 12 o'clock, in order to return goods to customers Saturday, and overtime in all departments before every holiday. Cases of ironers are cited who worked until 1:30 and 3 a. m. The Christmas trade involves night work in the paper box factories for three months; and in the confectionery trades from Oct. 15 to Dec. 15; and the women are known to work seventy-five to eighty hours a week, which is in excess of the Pennsylvania legal limit. Such overtime not only affects health, but lessens productivity.

Again take the matter of insanitary workrooms. In the rapid development of the factory trades in America, manufacturers have only begun to devise plants with reference to the health of the workers as well as with reference to output. In but two of the twenty-eight commercial laundries in Pittsburg, is the washroom on the upper floor. In twenty-six rising steam and excessive heat not only cause discomfort in the other departments, but tend to induce diseases of respiratory organs. Tobacco dried in racks in many of the stogy sweatshops, makes the air heavy with nicotine, fills the room with fine dust and increases the danger, always present in the tobacco trades, from tuberculosis. In the core rooms of foundries and machine shops, the custom of placing annealing ovens in the rooms where the cores are made, causes excessive heat in the workroom and fills the air with black dust.

The progressive manufacturer who rearranges his old building or builds his new one on the basis of what we already know in safeguarding against trade dangers, sets a standard for his industry and for like industries which should be incorporated in the laws of the state. The manufacturer who keeps a health record for his employes and tries to eradicate the causes of disease it may indicate, is a signal contributor to industrial science.

THE BOY AND THE LAW

A Review of Ten Years of the Juvenile Court in America Shows That the State Is Becoming Protector of the Delinquent Child.

Before a pretentious bar of justice and a begowned and frowning judge, stands a 10-year-old "criminal" charged with crap shooting. A burly policeman is at his side, and behind him with attentive ears, sits a courtroom half filled with listeners, eager to see what "the kid will get." Another half dozen frightened boys are waiting their turn on the docket. The prisoner pleads "not guilty," and after every small detail of the child's story is told to the listening idlers, sentence is suspended on the ground of insufficient evidence. Next time the court may not be so lenient. Through the courtroom the boy is led, and outside he meets the rest of the gang. Most of them have been through the mill before, and all have learned to hate and fear the judge and the court as much as they hate and fear the policeman on the beat. This is a daily scene in the children's court at Manhattan, New York city.

Across the bridge in Brooklyn, another boy is being tried for a similar offense. In a plainly furnished room sit the judge and the boy, a plea of "guilty" or "not guilty" is not entered, and there are no spectators, excepting perhaps a probation officer and the child's parents. The judge talks over the case with the boy, tries to show him that it will be much better to tell the whole truth, convinces him, if possible that he is his friend and adviser, and then when the prisoner is discharged without an overhanging sentence, places him in the care of a probation officer, who visits the home and endeavors to get the boy's regard and confidence, to start "a process of education by constructive friendship," as one probation officer puts it.

These are two examples of the two juvenile courts, that have developed in this country within the past ten years, the former still clinging to the old idea of punishment and the latter going a little further and becoming counselor, instead of inquisitor.

A special number of The Survey, New York, out today, reviews for the first time, the work of this "kid's court." Judge Lindsey of Denver, Judge Mack of Chicago, Judge Baker of Boston, Bernard Flexner of Louisville, Henry W. Thurston of Chicago, Homer Folks of New York and Victor Von Borosini of Berlin, tell what this new court is doing for the delinquent child.

Ten years of life has by no means made the juvenile court in the United States a perfect institution, but in a good many states, it has changed the entire procedure against the boy. The state has stepped in as a guardian, because of the inability or unwillingness of natural parents to assume the responsibility and is applying the judicial "slipper," mixed with wholesome advice that means a lot more to a boy than a trip in "the wagon" alongside a clever crook.

Before the time of the juvenile court, the criminal law did not differentiate between the adult and the minor, who had reached the age of "criminal responsibility"—7 at the common law in some of the states, and 10 in others, with a possible chance of escape up to 12, if the child were lacking in mentality. The whole idea of the old method was, to punish wrongdoing. The child was arrested, clapped into jail, indicted by a grand jury, tried by a petit jury, and if found guilty, sentenced to prison with adult offenders, from whom advanced lessons in crime were easily learned, if the boy happened to be ready to learn, as most boys are.

Since the first court was established in Chicago, in 1899, about 80 per cent of the boys put on probation in that city have not returned to the court. Of the delinquent girls, only 55 per cent have not shown up again in court, a pretty plain evidence that the social agencies of the cities are not filling the girls' wants. But taking the situation as a whole, the evidence is strong, not onl yin Chicago, but in every city where the juvenile court legislation has been introduced, that neglected, dependent and delinquent children are better and more rationally cared for under the new method.

Just what sort of procedure is it, that the youngster goes through in a modern juvenile court? Take the case of a truant, whose hard working mother has lost hold on her boy who has been running wild for weeks, finally is brought to the juvenile court by a truant officer. The judge sends the boy to the "detention home," where he is kept until the time for the hearing. In this home, preferably apart from the courthouse or jail, the boy is put at some congenial work, with opportunity for some recreation, or perhaps sent to school, if the detention home is run on the right principles. In Chicago's detention home, not only are school facilities provided, but vocational training in the public schools would present delinquency. In Chicago, the average period of detention is six days, in Cleveland five days, and less in other cities. In New York, all children taken into custody within the boroughs of Manhattan and Bronx, are held in the building of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, for periods varying from a day to several months, before they are brought to the children's court. And notwithstanding this large period of detention, no real effort is made to provide rational occupation for the leisure time. Pittsburg has the distinction of holding its children in the county jail, where they are fed on jail fare served by trusties.

In connection with the court, the clinic or child study department has justified itself. Here the boy or girl is given a medical examination, for experience has shown that juvenile delinquency and physical defect are closely related. The examination has beeen limited, except in unusual cases, to certain measurements and weight that may throw light on the condition of the child, and to the eyes, ears, nose, throat, teeth and skin.

While the boy is in the detention home awaiting a hearing, a probation officer visits his home, looks up the history of the lad, his heredity, his environment, his associations, how he came to be a truant, and what can be done to get him started right. And so when the boy is brought before the judge, that official is able to take him in charge, not so much to punish as to reform, not to degrade, but to uplift, not to crush, but to develop, to make him a worthy citizen, but not a criminal.

When the English children's bill was under debate in the house of commons, this defense was made by a supporter of the measure: "We want to say to the child that if the world or the world's law has not been his friend in the past, it shall be now. We say that it is the duty of this parliament and that this parliament is determined to lift, if possible, and rescue him, to shut the prison door, and to open the door of hope."

At best, the work of the juvenile is palliative. Here, as in all modern work for the social betterment, prevention is the vital thing. Judge Mack, formerly o fthe Chicago juvenile court, says that we are not "opening the door of hope" to the delinquent child when "we fail not merely to uproot the wrong, but to implant in place of it the positive good. We must study thoroughly the underlying causes of juvenile delinquency, in order to apply these preventive and positive measures."

MINING IN THE BLACK HILLS

Homestake Resumes Mining and Owners' Pact to Employ No Union Labor Enforced---Funds for Work on Hidden Fortune---Columbus Consolidated.

Lead, S. D., Feb. 3.—The Homestake Mining company has actively resumed operations in mill and mine and is gradually working up to its full capacity of 4,000 tons a day. The company is now handling about one-fourth of that amount. The cyanide No. 1 Amicus mill of 240 stamps, regrinding plant and slime plant, which has a capacity of 2,000 tons a day, have all been started and within a few days the Homestake mill with 200 stamps will also be reopened. The Ellison and Star hoists are being used. None but non-union men are employed, some of them coming from Joplin and the Couer d'Alene district.

Interest is being taken in securing funds to resume work in the spring on the old Hidden Fortune-Columbus Consolidated ground near here. The settlement of all legal difficulties has removed the largest obstacle in the way of financing, as large Eastern capitalists who have regarded the ground favorably and been impressed with the numerous reports made by experts have withheld their support while the internal wrangling was in progress. The acreage of the company is about equal to that of the Homestake and the formations are not vitally different. It is strictly a low grade proposition like the Homestake and it is not reasonable to suppose that the immense bodies of ore running in regular veins end abruptly within the Homestake workings and do not contine north. In fact every indication is that they continue for some miles, reappearing at intervals on the surface. On the Columbus, which was merged with the Hidden Fortune, the grade of ore is somewhat higher, one of its claims, the old Roderick Dhu, having in early days produced much rich free milling ore. The company still has its sixty stamp mill below Deadwood that originally cost over a quarter of a million. With comparatively trifling improvements it will make an effective treatment plant.

Deadwood, S. D., Feb. 5.—Mining men in this section are paying attention during the temporary period of inactivity to the Bear Lodge district northwest of here. This country has had a steady but quiet growth for many years. It never experienced any boom, although some rich gold ore has at times been uncovered, but the Bear Lodge men have gone ahead quietly. One company is now pushing work vigorously is the Bear Lodge Gold Mining company. The principal work is done on the Daisy group, where several veins carrying good values have beeen opened up. The gold is very fine and well adapted for cyaniding. On the Last Chance, west of the Daisy, the company is working in a vein of iron or hematite ore, which has been opened up to a depth of 160 feet and crosscut sixty feet. This vein varies in thickness from five to ten feet and its width is still undetermined. Assays from ore taken along the vein average $2.88 a ton. President L. R. Davis is negotiating for a cyanide plant.

Pending the settlement of the labor troubles and the approach of spring little is being done in the Maitland district. Among the larger companies, like the Minnesota and North Homestake, that are in the mine owners' agreement not to employ union labor, no move is being made. But some of the smaller companies not in the agreement, like the Echo, Gold Eagle and Fortunate, are figuring on resuming work just as soon as the weather will permit. The Gold Eagle is planning to install larger machinery.

THE IDA-MONTANA PROPERTY

Stockholders Decide to Reorganize Company With Capital Stock of $3,000,000 to Pay Debts and Provide Fund for Winter Development.

Butte, Mont., Feb. 5.—At a special meeting of the stockholders of the Ida-Montana Mining company, held in the office of McBride & McBride in Butte this week, a resolution was adopted authoriing the directors to transfer all the property of the company to a new corporation to be organized later, with a capital stock of $3,000,000. Practically all of the stock of the old company, amounting to 400,000 shares, was voted in favor of the proposition. There are some local shareholders, but the stock is held chiefly in Calumet, Mich., and was voted by proxy. The details of the plans of the company are not known, but it is said that the purpose of organizing a new company is to procure funds with which to pay off the obligations of the present company and provide a fund for further development work.

The Ida-Montana company is the owner of the Ida and A B quartz lode claims, southeast of the city of Butte and adjoining on the east the property of the Amazon-Butte company. The property was originally developed by the Ida-Montana Development company, with a capitalization of $800,000, in shares of $1 par. A shaft, three compartments, was sunk to a depth of 480 feet and at the 250-foot level was opened, disclosing a good body of commercial ore. It was then decided to organize a mining company and finance it for more extensive work, and the Ida-Montana Mining company, with a capital of 400,000 shares of the par value of $5 per share, was organized. About that time the 1907 panic struck the country and the company has since lain dormant. It is evident that the officers of the company see prospects of raising funds under a new organization. At one time there were negotiations to consolidate with the Amazon-Butte, but that deal, it is understood, has been entirely abandoned. The Ida-Montana property is well equipped, including a hoist good for 1,500 feet, a twenty-drill air compressor and several small mine buildings. The officers of the present company are: P. D. McNaughton, president; Capt. J. S. Milligan, vice president; W. J. McDonald, secretary, and the preceding and W. H. Thielman, E. P. Rugee, Victor Nordberg, Edward Ulseth, Angus McDonald and J. E. O'Neill, directors. M. J. Evans has been superintendent of the company.

lode and drilling in solid rock there is now in progress. Over on the Pewabic lode shaft, sinking continues on to points and excellent progress is being made. The No. 1 shaft is sinking for the twenty-eighth level. Drifting is in progress both ways in this shaft at all of the deeper levels and some excellent runs of copper ground are being developed, particularly so at the twenty-sixth and twenty-seventh levels. The fifteenth level drift south driving to connect with the No. 3 shaft is expected to hole through in another month. The No. 3 shaft is sinking steadily for the fifteenth level, and has been in and out of copper ground continuously. No lateral openings above the fifteenth are being made in this shaft.

venture. Operations at present are confined to drill explorations.

The Butte-Milwaukee company, the operating concern for the Butte & New York, capitalized for $3,000,000, reports an indebtedness of $10,735. The Raven Mining company, with an issued capital of $630,000, reports a debt of $65,000, and the Butte & Superior company, with an outstanding capital of $5,595,185, has an indebtedness of $579,857.81.

The Pittsmont.

The Pittsmont Copper company, now owned by the East Butte Copper Mining company, which has taken up the indebtedness, reports liabilities to the amount of $4,903,007.12, against a capitalization of $6,000,000. The Pittsburg & Montana Copper company, which was the operating concern for the Pittsmont Copper company, is capitalized for $30,000,000, and has an indebtedness of $3,774,860, but the operating company has been practically wiped out of existence.

The Rarus mine of the Butte Coalition company, the West Colusa of the Boston & Montana, the Parrot mine of of the Parrot company, and the Moonlight mine of the Washoe company, are still idle. Some changes are being made in the shaft of the West Colusa and it will be several months before that mine is operated again.

exploratory work at the Chicagon tract, midway in the territory between Crystal Falls and Iron River and it is stated positively that sufficient ore has already been found to warrant classing the property as a mine of no small proportions. The present operators have gone 300 feet deeper than did any of the other interests that tested the lands, and a large amount of money has been expended in the work. The results have well repaid the efforts. The Chicagon will now be equipped for permanent production, and it is not unlikely that shipments will be made even this year. The developments have attracted renewed attention to the district, with the result that it is expected that various desirable tracts will now be aken up and tested. The Steel corporation already has drilling apparatus on the ground and is preparing to conduct extensive exploratory operations. The Munro Mining company is at work in the Keyes Lake field, in the Wisconsin portion of the Menominee range, where it recently took over under option a large acreage of mineral lands. Test-pitting is in progress, and diamond drilling will follow. It is understood that 100 men will be at work by the opening of the summer season. There is no question that the lands contain ore, but whether in commercial quantities and qualities is something that remains to be determined.

Iron River District.

Two more diamond drilling concerns have entered the Iron River district, where the most important Menominee range discoveries of the past few years have been made, and where a great many tracts are still to be trusted. The first contractors of the kind to engage in work in the western Menominee range region where Cole & MacDonald of Virginia, Minn., and Duluth. They were followed by Longyear & Hodge of Marquette and the George H. St. Clair Exploration company of Virginia. The McPherson Drilling company recently organized under the presidency of C. A. Sands, a well-known lumberman and capitalist of Grand Rapids, Mich., has now launched itself in the Iron River field, and so, too, has the Powers & Gary Exploring Company of Hibbing, Minn. This latter concern has been awarded a contract to test the lands of Charles Bellstrom of Escanaba, Mich. The first work will be done in section 16, 43-35, to the north of the village of Iron River. This is the territory in which the James mines has been opened and is a most promising field. The St. Clair company has a drill at work in section 22, 43-35, for Jones & Laughlin of Pittsburg, and it has another one in commission in section 10, 43-35 for the Niagara Mining company, a Buffalo & Susquehanna subsidiary. Operations at these two tracts have been started within the past fortnight. A prospective exploration is the farm of Clarence McDermott, east of the village of Iron River. Mr. McDermott has purchased a diamond drill outfit and plans to begin the work of testing his lands early in the spring. He is sanguine he has ore in the tract. The Cleveland Cliffs Iron company, which is conducting explorations on a considerable number of western Menominee range properties, has taken option on Benjamin Clement's homestead, near Saunders, and already has a diamond drill at work there. Other lands in the vicinity have been taken over by the same concern.

The Huron Mining company is installing a Gates' ore crusher at its Youngs mine in section 12, 43-34. The Youngs is one of the newer properties in the Iron River region, having made its first shipment in 1905, and it has developed into an excellent proposition. Its production this year will come very close to the 200,000-ton mark. The Huron people have three explorations in progress, all in 43-35. Tracts in sections 15, 21 and 26 are being given attention. Pickands, Mather & Co.'s Stambaugh group, comprising the Baltic, Caspian and Fogarty properties, are being made ready for a record-breaking outgo this year. Good-sized stockpiles have already been accumulated. It will be no particular surprise, should as much as 700,000 tons be forwarded from the three mines the coming season. Mining operations have been resumed on a small scale at the Millie mine at Iron Mountain, in the central portion of the Menominee. This property is under lease to the Lake Superior Corporation and its ore goes to the Algoma Steel Works at the Canadian Sault. The corporate life of the Beaver Iron company has been extended for a period of thirty years. The company is not an operating concern—has not been as yet, at least—but owns several thousand acres of Menominee range lands in Dickinson county, Mich. Edward N. Breitung of Marquette is president, and W. D. Rees of Cleveland is a director of the corporation. Some of the lands are now being explored.

Iron Belt Being Dismantled.

The Cleveland Cliffs Iron company, which some time ago decided to discontinue operations at the Iron Belt mine, on the Wisconsin side of the Montreal river, a few miles from Hurley, is rapidly dismantling that Gogebic range property. The hoisting machinery, air compressor, pumps, boilers and other equipment have been removed, and the last of the surface outfit will be on cars, ready for shipment, within a few days. The pumps have been taken out of the workings, and the shafts and stopes are now filling with water. Part of the equipment is being shipped to the Marquette range and the remainder will be stored at the company's Ashland mine, in the Gogebic country until it is needed. Notwithstanding that the adjacent Atlantic mine of the Steel corporation is a fine property, with large deposits, the Iron Belt did not prove a success for the Cleveland Cliffs company. It was generally classed as a "scram" when the company took it over four years ago, but it was considered that exploratory work might reveal new deposits. The finds were not important, however, and at the time of the shutdown there was little ore in sight. The work the past year was largely confined to exploring and the shipments were only about 40,000 tons. That part of the Iron Belt equipment which is going to the Marquette range will be installed at the Dexter property, west of Ishpeming, where the Cleveland Cliffs company has found ore and where it will open a mine of extensive proportions.

Beer vs. Other Tonics

The government's ruling compelling manufacturers of medicines to state on their labels the constituents of their products, has revealed the fact that most tonics contain a very large percentage of alcohol, often 50% and more.

Beer on the other hand contains but little alcohol, (about 3½%), and its medicinal properties are derived from two of nature's products—hops and barley.

Fitger's Beer

The best by 25 year's test is brewed from the best materials obtainable—selected Minnesota Barley, Bohemian Hops and Lake Superior water, recognized as the best for brewing purposes—a beer of delicious flavor and genuine healthfulness. Keep a case in your cellar and drink a glass or two with your meals.

BETTER TONE TO MARKET

But Rally at Opening Was Not Sustained Through Session.

Some Issues Score Advance But Majority Sag Back at Close.

The copper market experienced a fair rally after the opening today, when shorts tried to close some of their commitments. Their covering forced the market upward, but toward the close, when they abandoned their efforts, the maket sagged and prices closed about on a level with the opening except in some of the specialties which recorded advances of about one point. The shorts took on a few commitments today and the market thus was free from assault.

The outlook is not good for a bull market although occasional rallies, such as occurred today may be expected.

Politics has come in for a share of denunciation as a permanent source of financial uneasiness, and the uniformity of reports in the trade journals of a lull in the iron and steel trade has been made much of by the bears. The continued weakness of the stock market, beginning early in January, is having an effect on the business world. It has induced caution on the part of business men in extending their ventures or assuming new responsibilities of any kind. However temporary such a condition may be, yet there is no shutting of one's eyes to the fact of its existence.

One truth about the present market that is very clear, is that the decline in prices has not been stayed in any measurable degree by that large, concentrated and powerful buying of stocks, which usually betokens the re-entrance into the market of financial interests of the first rank. These people have apparently left the market to itself. On days when pressure against the values has been most intense, there has been a certain amount of buying by individual investors. This buying increases as prices fall, but thus far it has been scattered and has presented no substantial obstruction to the fall in values.

It is probable that the present feeling of discouragement and pessimism would not be as great as it is if it were not for the fact that the anxiously awaited decision of the United States supreme court construing the anti-trust law in the American Tobacco case cannot be reasonably expected for several weeks and possibly for several months. It is logical to believe that the larger financial interests feel like adopting a highly conservative policy in all business operations until this decision has been handed down and the advice of counsel has been given as to its exact meaning and its application. This decision is holding back the organization of the merger of Butte copper propertes, the formation of which would strengthen greatly the condition of the copper market as well as the metal market.

The action on the Duluth Stock exchange today was mixed. About 13,000 shares of Rawhide Royal changed hands at 6 cents. Outside of this stock the activity was limited. Holders do not seem anxious to dispose of their collateral at prevailing prices although there are a sufficient number of disappointed investors feeding out stocks to give the market an exceedingly weak appearance. In this market the specialties are almost abandoned.

Greene Cananea sold here at $9.12½ and in the East at $9 up to $9.12½. Live Oak was traded in at $20. Shattuck at $19.12½. Red Warrior at $12, Calumet & Sonora at $22.50, Keating at $2, Rawhide Royal at 6 cents and St. Mary at 30 cents.

Amalgamated sold at the opening at $77.75, up ¼ point and down to $77.50. Calumet & Arizona gained one point from opening sales at $71. Giroux sold at $9.75. Lake at $72.25 up to $74.62½ and down to $73. North Butte at $34 up to $35.25 and down to $35. Superior & Pittsburg at $14 up ¼ point. Indiana at $35 up to $36 and down ¾ point. Steel common at $80.25 down to $19.75, up to $80.87½ and down to $80.37½.

The stock exchanges throughout the country will be closed Feb. 12 in honor of the anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln. The local exchange will not be in session.

The officers of the Central Vermilion Mining company recently visited the holdings of the company in section 15, township 62, range 11, this county. They found the camps completed and considerable test pitting done.

William Besson is in charge of developments which will soon consist principally of diamond drilling preparatory to putting down a shaft.

The Macomber mine, recently secured under option by George A. St. Clair, is is one-half mile east of the Central Vermilion property.

AWARDS ARE BEING MADE

Judge Tucker Has Difficulty Choosing Between Chickens on Display.

Over 800 Entries in Big Exhibit of Duluth Poultry Association.

Judging of breeds at the Duluth poultry show began this morning. White Wyandottes, white leghorns and white Plymouth rocks were the breeds started on this morning by Judge Tucker. The competition in these classes is especially close, as there are a large number of entries, and the judge will probably have difficulty in selecting the recipients of the first prize and the special prize offered by the association.

Every cage is in place and every fowl, even the most fastidious, has settled down in comfort. Even some of the less nervous hens have begun to lay. Judging of the different breeds will be held every day next week as well as this afternoon.

The present show is by far the best that has ever been held in this part of the state. With the entry lists closed, it is found that there are over 800 fowls, including pigeons, ducks and geese, in the show.

Although there is a very strong showing from outside, the largest number of fowls that have ever been shown in this city, the chickens from Duluth are expected to make a very good showing. Some of the best looking of the different breeds have the name "Duluth" marked on the cages, and if the opinion of experienced judges counts for anything, the local hen colony will make a most excellent showing at the show and will be in the running for first honors in the class events.

A Common Cold.

We claim that if catching cold could be avoided some of the most dangerous and fatal diseases would never be heard of. A cold often forms a culture bed for germs of infectious diseases. Consumption, pneumonia, diphtheria and scarlet fever, four of the most dangerous and fatal diseases, are of this class. The culture bed formed by the cold favors the development of the germs of these diseases, that would not otherwise find lodgment. There is little danger, however, of any of these diseases being contracted when a good expectorant cough medicine like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. It cleans out these culture beds that favor the development of the germs of these diseases. That is why this remedy has proved so universally successful in preventing pneumonia. It not only cures your cold quickly, but minimizes the risk of contracting these dangerous diseases. For sale by all druggists.

INCREASE IN COST OF LIVING SINCE 1899

Washington, Feb. 5.—That there has been a very general increase in wholesale and retail articles of food between the years of 1899 and 1908, is indicated by a report sent to the senate by the department of commerce and labor in response to a resolution introduced by Senator Crawford of South Dakota calling for a statement on the trend of prices. For purposes of comparison, the prices in 1899 are used as normal, and the percentages of increases were about as follows:

Bread, wholesale, 25.10; retail, 4.9. Butter, wholesale, Elgin, 29.8; creamery extra, 27.5; dairy, 24.6; retail, 39.6; no quality indicated. Cheese, wholesale, 26.9; retail, 20.3. Coffee, wholesale, 3.9; retail, 5.0. Eggs, new laid, wholesale, 39.8; retail, 36.2. Wheat flour, wholesale, spring, 43.6; winter, 26.8; retail, 24.4; no quality indicated. Lard, wholesale, 63.3; retail, 38.2. Beef, wholesale, fresh, 11.8; salt, 41.9; retail, fresh, 14.9; salt, 10.0. Dressed mutton, wholesale, 21.1; retail, 26.8. Bacon, wholesale, 54.5; retail, 52.9. Hams, wholesale, 21.9; retail, 31.8. Milk, wholesale, 30.0; retail, 18.1. Potatoes, wholesale, 70.6; retail, 25.5.

The report shows prices on sugar, tea, spices and soda crackers have been slightly reduced.

LACK CENSUS ELIGIBLES.

New Examination to Be Held for Office Jobs.

Washington, Feb. 5.—A second special examination will be held March 5 throughout the country by the civil service commission to fill appointments on the additional office force of the censusu bureau, authorized by congress in connection with the work of the thirteenth biennial census. A scarcity of eligibles from the prior examination exists chiefly in some of the Southern and Western states.

This examination relates exclusively to the office force at Washington and has nothing to do with the appointments of supervisors, special agents or enumerators. No further examinations for positions of that character are in contemplation.

Persons who attained an eligible average in the examinations held Oct. 23 last will not be permitted to take the second examination, but those who failed to reach such an average can be re-examined on March 5. The approximate number of additional appointments to be made during the three-year decennial period ending June 30, 1912, is 3,000 and all the appointments will be temporary.

BELLS RANG MANY TIMES.

Duluth Conductors Took Up More Than 15,000,000 Nickels in 1909.

The gross earnings of the Duluth Street Car company were $754,553.26 last year, according to the annual report filed yesterday with W. S. McCormick, city comptroller. The cost of furnishing service was $633,650.52. The value of the equipment is placed at $3,624,924.34 and the incumbrances and debts at $3,041,822.53. During the year the conductors rang up over 15,000,000 fares.

DECISIVE BATTLE IS IMMINENT

Forces of Madriz and Estrada Face Each Other at Many Points.

Managua, Feb. 5.—All indications point to the imminence of a decisive battle for supremacy in Nicaragua between the government forces and the revolutionists under Gen. Estrada. The insurgents are spreading the conflict over a wide area in the mountainous districts to the eastward of Managua, and also are holding forth in considerable numbers about Greytown. Everywhere they are confronted by the troops of President Madriz, however. Fighting is of almost daily occurrence.

Details received here of a fight at Santo Tomaso show that the insurgents lost 100 killed. There was an artillery duel from the heights, during which one Maxim gun of the revolutionists was disabled, and much of their equipment and many of their beasts of conveyance were captured by the government forces. The insurgents had 600 men engaged in the battle and the government 1,100.

The insurgent gunboat Ometepe appeared off Greytown Thursday and bombarded the city for twenty minutes. Nine houses were set on fire by the shells from the gunboat. The shore batteries replied vigorously to the onslaught and succeeded in disabling the Ometepe, which was forced to retire.

The United States cruiser Des Moines sailed for Greytown the following morning.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the Most Popular Because It Is the Best.

"I have sold Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for the past eight years and find it to be one of the best selling medicines on the market. For babies and young children there is nothing better in the line of cough syrups," says Paul Allen, Plain Dealing, La. This remedy not only cures the coughs, colds and croup so common among young children, but is pleasant and safe for them to take. For sale by all druggists.

There's always a chance ahead for ambitious persons if they read Herald "Want Ads."

ENGINEERS GET RAISE IN SALARY

Lake Carriers' Association Grants Them a Substantial Increase.

The marine engineers will have an increase in salary.

The fleet engineers of the Lake Carriers' association have recommended a general advance in the wages of the first and second assistant engineers. The recommendation was promptly approved by the executive committee of the association.

The advance for the first assistants ranges from $10 to $16 a month. Hereafter the second assistants wil receive $80 a month.

NO SUPPORT TO MARKET

Wheat Sells Off on Prospect of Big Receipts Next Week.

Flax Advances in Duluth on Some Light Speculative Buying.

Duluth Board of Trade, Feb. 5.—The wheat and flax markets were dull today and received little support. Wheat prices declined in all American markets except New York where the near option closed ⅛c higher than yesterday's close. Both the bears and the bulls held aloof from the market on account of the holiday tomorrow, the longs fearing to enter the market and the shorts hesitating to make new commitments.

May wheat opened at $1.10¼ bid and sold at $1.10⅜, down to $1.10¼, and then at $1.09⅞, up to $1.10¼@⅜ and down again to $1.09⅞, the closing quotation. May flax opened at $2.16½ and declined to $2.15¼, advanced on slight buying which seemed to be of a speculative nature to $2.18, and lost 1c. The close was $2.16½ bid, unchanged from yesterday.

Cash premiums eased off today in Chicago despite the closely held available supplies there which are at a low level. Cash premiums declined ½@1c. Cash here equaled May and in Minneapolis the premiums were unchanged. The cash market was easy, the demand being only moderate. The mills bought sparingly and prices slumped when there was no support, especially that class of support which has been accorded to the market in recent weeks.

Receipts in the Northwest were curtailed today by the congested condition of the railroads. Transportation service is in a bad condition and several million bushels of wheat are said to be on track headed toward the two big markets. The fact that receipts were lighter than the daily run lately did not cause any bullish talk as every one conceded that a large amount of grain was in transit and that by Monday or Tuesday the markets in the Northwest would be flooded with it.

Cables were unchanged to slightly lower, the large shipments from other countries, easier spot markets and the prospect of increased exports from the countries now sending out grain, being conducive to an easy feeling. At midday the foreign market steadied, but became softer toward the close. The export trade is small. Manitobas showed a slightly better demand today. Australian shipments for the week amounted to 2,336,000 bu against 2,608,000 bu last week and 1,960,000 bu a year ago. The shipments were not as large as expected.

Millers generally report a restricted demand. Most of the orders are coming from buyers who had been holding back for a break and are content to come in at prevailing levels. The country mills are not doing much business compared with the trade in recent weeks, although in comparison with this season in other years they do not have much to complain of.

Durum closed ¼c off, rye and barley were unchanged, cash equalled May. High durum was 97¾c.

MARKET GOSSIP

Wheat stocks at the Head of the Lakes in the last six days have increased 417,000 bu. The increase was not as large as had been expected owing to a falling off in receipts due to the congested condition of most railroads in the Northwest.

* * *

Minneapolis stocks increased 150,000 bu. for one day. That market received 20 cars of flax against 33 last year, 44 cars of corn and 14 of oats. Total wheat stocks there are 5,069,000 bu. Flour shipments were 63,760 bbls.

Minneapolis puts were $1.08⅝; calls, $1.10⅛@¼.

Primary receipts of wheat: Today, 489,000 bu; last year, 546,000 bu; shipments, 286,000 bu; last year, 191,000 bu; clearances, wheat, 64,000 bu; oats, none, flour, 8,000 bbl; wheat and flour, 100,000 bu.

Primary receipts of corn:, 880,000 bu; last year, 516,000 bu; shipments, 45,900 bu; last year, 437,000 bu; clearances of corn, 45,000 bu.

| Car receipts of wheat— | Today. | Last year. |
|---|---|---|
| Duluth | 45 | 40 |
| Minneapolis | 246 | 304 |
| Winnipeg | 178 | 116 |
| Total Northwest | 469 | 460 |
| Chicago | 8 | 12 |
| Kansas City | 72 | 101 |
| St. Louis, bu | 42,000 | 28,000 |

The Commercial West said: "For the first five months of the milling or crop year, or from Sept. 1 to Jan. 31, the Minneapolis mills shipped 8,273,000 bbl of flour. This is a remarkable showing, and with a normal flour business during the remaining seven months of the season a new record for the Minneapolis flour output will be made. The highest total for a season's output will doubtless be equalled, in any event. During the five months ending on Jan. 31 the receipts of wheat in this market amounted to 55,064,000 bu. Of this amount but 10,640,000 was shipped, and there remained in store on the 31st but 4,500,000 bu. The mills had ground over 40,000,000 bu of wheat in the five months."

* * *

Bartlett-Patten wired: "Chicago—Heavy run of primary receipts compared with last year is having its weight on the market. We see nothing to advance prices. Would use caution in selling short on breaks, as we are liable to get a rally at any time, but price must sell lower ultimately, provided the winter wheat crop passes through the winter without any damage. Receipts of corn are heavy and will continue so for some weeks. Shipping demand is poor. Stocks are accumulating rapidly in Chicago and at other points. We think prices are too high and must seek a lower level."

* * *

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Following the opening, the market developed a steady undertone and most of the decline was recovered, with offerings lighter and some early sellers covering. Fears are expressed regarding the attitude of the American longs. There was an improved demand for parcels at the decline, and the early strength in continental markets, with an improvement in the demand from this source, led to some week-end covering. At the close the undertone was steady with prices unchanged to ¼d lower than yesterday. Corn was steady at the start and unchanged. Later, pressure developed on the cheaper offerings of new La Plata parcels, and with large stocks here and the demand poor, profit taking developed and prices lost ⅜d. Wheat cargoes arrived off coast, one and awaiting orders three. Wheat cargoes in distant positions, slow: no bidding. Corn is quiet but steady. Spot wheat is quiet, unchanged. Spot corn quiet, unchanged."

Minneapolis wired—"Wheat receipts at Minneapolis this week, 2,388 cars; last week, 2,509 cars; last year, 1,254 cars. Flour shipments, 387,000 bu; 388,000 bu last week; 267,000 bu last year. Wheat receipts this week, 530,000 bu in excess of wheat and flour shipments."

Minneapolis wired—"Great Northern only brought in 16 cars, Milwaukee 59. They were badly blocked. Milwaukee road has 4,000,000 bu more grain on their line than they had a year ago."

* * *

Bartlett-Patten's Liverpool cable read—"Wheat opened weak and closed firm, advance caused by short covering. Rather more demand for Manitobas. Corn affected downward by advices from your side."

* * *

Foreign market closed today as follows: Liverpool—Wheat steady unchanged to ¼d lower; corn dull, ⅜d lower. Antwerp, wheat, ⅝c lower.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Prices Move Upward and Grow Steady at the Advance.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—Light receipts in the Northwest caused wheat to show an upward tendency in the early trading today after starting a shade lower to ¼c lower. In the first hour prices crept up generally ⅛c and steadied there with May at $1.09½. Compared with last night's figures, the opening of May was a shade lower to ⅛@¼c higher at $1.09¼@1.09½.

Later in the session the market lost firmness and prices sagged ¼ to ½. May dropping to $1.09. The close weak at nearly the low point for the day, with May at $1.09⅛, ⅛@¼c lower than yesterday's final figures.

Corn opened generally firm but weakened slightly in the first hour under the pressure of large arrivals. Fluctuations did not exceed ⅛c in the early trading. May opened at 66@66⅛c, and rested at 66c.

The market continued weak through the session, the decline varying from ¼@⅝c. The close was at the low point with May at 65⅝@65¾c, a price ⅜c lower than the last quotation yesterday.

Oats showed much the same character as corn. In the first hour the decline was limited to a drop of ⅛c. May opened ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher at 46⅛@46⅜c.

Active buying, principally from shorts seeking to cover, caused an advance all around in the provisions pit, pork leading in the climb with an advance of from 10 to 32½c at the outset. Lard and ribs advanced 2½ to 17½c. During the first hour prices kept close to the opening figures. May products at the start were: Pork, $21.90 to 21.85; lard, $12.05; ribs, $11.62@11.75.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Opens Firmer, But May Closes Below First Prices.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 5.—The wheat market opened firmer today on account of continued light local receipts of spring wheat. For the first time in over a month the primary movement was less than a year ago. Local elevator stocks of wheat increased 150,000 bu for the first day of the week, starting today. May opened ⅜c higher than yesterday's close and after fluctuating in a range of ¾c closed ½@⅝c below the opening.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Feb. 5.—The cotton market opened firm at an advance of 1@12 points in response to the firm showing of the Liverpool market, the larger spot business reported late yesterday in leading Southern markets, assertions of improved trade conditions generally and overnight buying orders. Brokers who were among yesterday's prominent buyers sold considerable cotton during the first few minutes, evidently with the purpose of reducing lines at a profit, and there was some bear pressure, but after a reaction from 14.84 to 14.81 for May, the market stiffened upon a renewal of bull support, and was firm during the middle of the morning at a net advance of about 11@16 points on the old crop months. The new crop was quiet but steady, and about 4@5 points net lower.

Futures, closed steady; closing bids: February, 14.78; March, 14.86; April, 14.84; May, 18.88; June, 14.77; July, 14.76; August, 14.22; September, 13.30; October, 12.85; November, 12.70; December, 12.68. Spot, closed quiet; 20 points higher; middling uplands, 15.10; middling gulf, 15.35; sales, 900 bales.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Opened With Buoyant Rise and Whole Market Moved Upward.

Slight Reaction Checked and Close Was Above Friday's Level.

New York, Feb. 4.—The opening dealings in stocks today saw a buoyant rise in prices over last night's closing level. The demand from uncovered shorts played a part in this result, which was foreshadowed by the previous rise in Americans in London. American Smelting ran up 2¾, Denver & Rio Grande, American Locomotive and Consolidated Gas 1¼, Atchison and Union Pacific preferred 1 and a considerable list of active speculative stocks a large fraction.

Amalgamated Copper, American Smelting and Consolidated Gas reacted a point after the opening. The rest of the list was well sustained and a later vigorous rise in Reading and the Hill stocks carried the whole market up smartly. Great Northern preferred advanced 1¾, the ore certificates 2, Northern Pacific, 1⅝; Reading, 1½ and a score or more of other stocks a point or over.

The market closed rather easy. Some profit-taking sales met a renewed rise in prices and fractional recessions followed. Pullman sold at an advance of 4¾, Missouri Pacific 2½ and American Hide & Leather preferred, 2. The reaction was checked while prices still ruled above yesterday's closing level.

SATURDAY, FEB. 5, 1910.

Butte Brokers say the Scott is now a steady shipper. Watch this mine begin earning money. Big vein on 1,400-foot level of high grade ore means something when shipments start on heavy scale. Remember only 100,000 shares. If you deal in copper shares, figure it out for yourself. What will the price of these shares do from now on. On the present showing they are worth three or four times the present quotations or some of the rest are certainly a sale.

Calumet & Sonora closed $24.25 bid, although the general market is slow.

St. Mary's hangs about the same, it is almost impossible to buy under 30 cents.

We are taking a crowd of investors to the Central Vermilion iron mine this afternoon. This mine located only a short distance from the Macomber property and is on the Soudan formation. The stock is going fast and only 25,000 shares are to be issued. The property is held in fee so it is the most attractive of the new companies on the Vermilion.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 5TH.

Good recoveries were made in all of the Eastern stocks today under the lead of the Lake issues and North Butte, and from the indications at the close of the market, it would appear that the last few days have seen the bottom price recorded, and that from now on, prices will work to higher levels. We are especially friendly to Lake, North Lake, Indiana and believe that these stocks present an opportunity which is seldom offered in mining business to make good profits. Lake is absolutely safe and is one of the best investments which has ever been offered and presents possibilities of $150.00 a share within a year's time. Indiana on the other hand, is purely a speculation and if the next drill hole should show good ore, it will sell undoubtedly in the fifties. North Lake on account of its location between Lake and Indiana, also presents good speculative possibilities and the action of all of these three stocks in the market confirms our idea of higher prices for them. The local list is undoubtedly grounded on the bottom and purchases made at present levels will return good profits within a very short time. In our opinion, purchases of Live Oak, Red Warrior, Calumet & Montana and Calumet & Corbin, will show good profits within a short time. These stocks have had a big break and should undoubtedly show a good advance from the present level. It should not be forgotten that the development at the properties are as favorable as never and that the mine developments are of the most encouraging nature. The possibilities are as good as when the stocks were selling at higher prices and although the selling movement which has been going on in these issues for the last three weeks, has carried them to exceedingly low levels, nevertheless this does not in any way affect their intrinsic value. It has always been hard for Duluth to learn that stocks should be bought when they are quiet and sold when they are strong and everybody climbing for them. We believe that now is the time to buy and strongly advise purchases of any of the best stocks of the Duluth list.

PRIVATE WIRES TO IRON RANGE, COPPER COUNTRY, AND ALL STOCK EXCHANGES, BOTH EAST AND WEST.

Both 'Phones, 2093. 410 W. Superior St., Duluth, Minn.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 5TH.

As predicted, general feeling is much better today, with optimism taking the place of pessimism on a break such as we have had the past week. Stocks should be bought either for investment or a quick turn.

We are particularly friendly to Butte Ballaklava, Calumet & Sonora, Butte Alex Scott and Shattuck in the higher priced issues. Only the panic in the East, kept these issues from much higher levels this week. Ballaklava, Sonora and Shattuck, new regular shipper, and Scott has opened up some of the richest ore bodies so far shown in the Butte camp, and is now preparing to enter the shipping list in a big way.

In the lower priced issues, I think Calumet & Montana especially attractive at present quotations, and from information in hand, feel confident it will sell at twice present quotations in fifteen days.

St. Mary's is another one that's safe. See how firm this one has been through all the slump. They have the goods and stock should be bought.

With our own private wire connections with New York, Boston and the copper countries of Michigan, Montana, Nevada, Utah, Arizona and Mexico, we are the best equipped to give you quick executions on all the leading local stocks of any brokerage house in the city.

HELP WANTED—MALE.

WANTED—OLIVER OPERATORS, AS well as other stenographers, to register at Oliver office. W. M. Edmont, 116 West Superior street.

Learn barber trade. Write for free illus catalog. Moler Barber College, 27 E. Nicollet av., Minneapolis. Est. 1893.

WANTED—IF YOU DON'T LIKE YOUR work, read this advertisement clear through. You can't lose your position in the navy if you behave. Pay day always comes in good or bad times. No strikes. No lay-offs. You always get the same splendid things to eat and plenty of it whether the cost of food is high or low. You always have warm clothes and a clean, warm, comfortable bed, and a warm living room in day time. In fact, the fleet spends most winter days in tropical waters. If sick, you have the finest medical care free. If disabled you get a pension. If you stay in the navy thirty years, you can retire on three-fourths pay for the balance of your life. Work isn't hard and average pay of enlisted men is $35.00 per month. At the end of the month you have about $35.00 left, as navy pays nearly all your living expenses. In civil life do you have $35.00 left each month? And there's splendid chance for promotion to chief petty officer at $77.00 per month, or to warrant officer at $2,400.00 per year, with nearly all expenses paid. Some save enough money while in the navy to start in business for themselves. Others have stayed in thirty years, saved small fortunes, and retired on three-fourths pay. Should you return to civil life, you'll find yourself an able fighter in the great game of life, for navy physical training makes you strong, erect, athletic. And navy life educates you by showing you some of the United States—maybe some of the world; by throwing you into the company of educated officers and fine young men; by teaching you a trade, perhaps, and by giving you much time for study. Four navy years are better than four college years, many think. Go to a recruiting officer today. Have a private talk with the officers and bluejackets there. You'll find them glad to see you and ready to tell you everything. If you don't join that makes no difference. They won't urge you to. Go and see them today—not tomorrow—today. You'll be glad you did. Nearest recruiting office to you is Postoffice Building, Duluth, Minn. If you can't go, write for a free booklet which tells everything about a bluejacket's life, in a simple, interesting way, and is full of pictures. Just think what a small bit of trouble it is for you to get a pencil and post card and write for this book. Then think what this small bit of trouble may do for you. It may put you on the road to your life's success. Don't put it off. You'll forget it if you do. Send for it now. Also send names and addresses of four or five boys you'd like to have join the navy with you. We'll send them books, too. Bureau of Navigation, Box 204, Navy Department, Washington, D. C.

EAST AGAIN SUFFERS FROM INTENSE COLD AND WINTRY BLASTS

Great Suffering Results From Drop in Temperature in New York.

Mercury Is 24 Below Zero at Utica and 20 at Plattsburg.

Two Freeze to Death in Pennsylvania and One in West Virginia.

New York, Feb. 7.—New York city struck the minimum today in winter temperature and just about the maximum of cold weather suffering.

Records for the season were broken with the mercury 2 deg. above zero at 8 a. m. The lowest point previously reported by the officials was 5 deg. above on Jan. 5.

These cold facts tell but inadequately, however, the tale of the day's severity as measured by the effects upon the shivering millions. The cold was ushered in by a gale reaching at times forty miles an hour in velocity. The icy blast pierced pedestrians to the marrow and only the warmest of dwellings were equal to resisting the discomforting penetration.

Cold Lends to Explosion.

The cold weather today was responsible for an explosion and fire and the injury of three persons, one of whom will die. Frozen during the night, the boiler in Max Herzke's restaurant in shortly after a fire was built today. The explosion wrecked the restaurant and threw the proprietor, his wife Annie, and the woman cook, un-

GETTING READY FOR COAL STRIKE

Railroads in Illinois Are Beginning to Hoard Fuel for Themselves.

Danville, Ill., Feb. 7.—In anticipation of a coal strike in this sub-district on April 1, the Chicago & Eastern Illinois and Chicago, Indiana & Southern railroads are beginning to hoard coal, and as a result dealers are having difficulty in placing contracts.

Sunday the Chicago & Eastern Illinois sent 900 cars of coal to Chicago for the railway company's own consumption. The Chicago, Indiana & Southern did likewise with ten special trains of seventy-five cars each.

Local dealers have been informed that they cannot contract for coal for more than two weeks in advance, as the railroads are taking the entire output of the mines.

It is understood that the Illinois Steel company is having coal rushed to South Chicago in anticipation of a miners' strike in April. A large part of the coal consumed by the steel company is mined here.

WOMAN'S BODY UNDER FLOOR

Murder Mystery in New York Is Discovered By Carpenters.

New York, Feb. 7.—A murder was developed today with the finding of the body of Mrs. Agnes Anderson concealed beneath the basement floor of her home in West Ninety-fourth street. The police seek her husband.

The owner of the house had called in a carpenter to discover the source of a bad smell that filled the place. The body was found carefully packed under the boards of the basement floor.

The house had been vacant since last Friday. Mrs. Anderson had been dead for several days.

DRINKS AND THEN USES REVOLVER

Bricklayer Kills Mother-in-Law and Shoots Wife---Suicide Ends Tragedy.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 7.—Homer C. Cope, a bricklayer, today shot and killed his mother-in-law, Mrs. Louisa C. George, shot his wife in the head and then turned the weapon on himself, falling dead at his wife's feet.

The wife was living with her mother. Cope, after calling at the home today and asking to see his wife and child, pulled a revolver from his pocket and began firing. Mrs. George tried to take the revolver from him, and she was killed. Cope then shot his wife and killed himself. He had been drinking.

Dr. Smith Better.

Toronto, Ont., Feb. 7.—Dr. Goldwin Smith, who was injured Saturday by a fall, passed a fairly good night and is resting easily today, his condition showing improvement. Hopes are now entertained for his ultimate recovery.

WILL TESTIFY FOR HER FIANCE IN NAVY COURT

MISS DOROTHY HESLER.

Miss Hesler is the heroine of the naval epic that has been rending Boston navy yard society. The case is proving a graveyard of reputations. Dr. Cowles' standing as a physician has been assailed. Miss Hesler has been placed in an unenviable position, and the accused officers are in danger of severe punishment.

It was Miss Hesler whose photograph Dr. Cowles took from her home and kept until she insisted on its return. Paymaster Auld went to Dr. Cowles at the navy hop and requested him to retire. Dr. Robnett, Miss Hesler's fiance, was a witness to the affair, which resulted in a scuffle between Auld and Cowles.

ONCE NOTED JURIST DEAD

Judge Dubose, Famous in Alaskan Litigation, Passes Away at Seattle.

Was Sent to Prison for Contempt, With McKenzie of North Dakota.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 7.—Judge Dudley Dubose, who came into national prominence a few years ago in connection with scandals growing out of litigation over mining ground near Nome, Alaska, died here Saturday. Judge Dubose was a relative of Robert Toombs, the famous Georgian of antebellum days, who made the historic threat he would call the roll of his slaves at the foot of Bunker Hill monument.

About twenty years ago the deceased came West to Helena, Mont., where he was later appointed by Governor Toole to be district judge, a position he held several years, being re-elected in a strong Republican district over all opposition. When the wealth of the diggings around Nome first became known Judge Dubose resigned his Montana position and followed the fortune hunters to the new El Dorado, where he soon became attorney for Charles Lane, a wealthy Californian, in litigation over valuable claims.

It was while in that capacity that he was adjudged guilty of contempt of court by the United States circuit court

NO MORE HUNTING ON RURAL ROUTES

Carriers Must Leave Guns Behind While Carrying the Mails.

Washington, Feb. 7.—The shooting and hunting of game by rural mail carriers while officially employed on their routes or the carrying of guns for that purpose, is now formally forbidden. An order to this effect has been issued by the postoffice department. Complaints were received that delays in the delivery and collection of mail were caused at certain places by the practice of carriers becoming nimrods.

OVER 2,500 MEN IN THE FLEET CANNOT SWIM.

Washington, Feb. 7.—Attention is directed in an official report by Admiral Schroeder, in command of the Atlantic fleet, now engaged in practice maneuvers in Guantanamo bay, Cuba, to the remarkable fact that more than 2,500 men in the fleet cannot swim. In a brief report of the fleet's operations during the last week, made by Admiral Schroeder, the commander says instructions were held for the men who are not at home in the water.

DR. ROBNETT IS ON TRIAL

Second "Woman's Court-Martial" Begins at Navy Yard.

Fiancee of the Defendant Will Testify During the Proceedings.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 7.—The second of the "woman's court-martials" was opened at the Charlestown navy yard today, when Past Assistant Surgeon Ansey Hamilton Robnett was put on trial for his alleged participation in the expulsion of Dr. Edward S. Cowles of Boston from a dance at the yard on the night of Dec. 11. The verdict in the case of George P. Auld, which was tried last week, has been forwarded to the navy department at Washington for review.

There are two charges against Surgeon Robnett, the first "that he did aid abet Paymaster Auld in the expulsion of Dr. Cowles from the navy yard dance Dec. 11 last, Cowles being a properly invited guest and the action being unauthorized and unwarranted; second, that he subsequently used insulting language to Dr. Cowles over the telephone."

Has Been Reprimanded.

Like Paymaster Auld, Surgeon Robnett received a reprimand from the secretary of the navy following the first complaint of Dr. Cowles. The latter's wife then pressed the charges to the officials in Washington, and

GAYNOR'S MAN IS WARRING ON GERMS

Open Windows and New Draperies Are Ordered in Finance Offices.

New York, Feb. 7.—To put an end to the ravages of tuberculosis among the clerks employed in the city's department of finance, an alarming percentage of whom have been found to be suffering from that disease, Mayor Gaynor's new controller has ordered a thorough-going war on germs. Windows are to be kept open in the department's offices day and night, and the offices are to have a house cleaning which will strike terror to the heart of all bacteria. Carpets and draperies which have been in use for more than twelve years have been destroyed, and all the furniture and wood work will be treated to antiseptic baths at frequent intervals.

Raise For Railway Clerks.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 7.—Five hundred clerks, employed in the general offices of the Boston & Maine railroad, received notice of a 10 per cent raise in wages today.

Kenmare Carpenter Killed.

Kenmare, N. D., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—While working on a scaffold of a new ice house, twenty feet from the ground, Will Watts, a carpenter, was thrown from his place, and sustained such injuries as may result in his permanent disability.

IS ATTACKED BY RAYNER

Postal Savings Bank Plan Is Scouted as Being Unconstitutional.

Maryland Senator Paints Roosevelt as Assailant of National Charter.

Washington, Feb. 7.—Admitting that he had given no consideration to the merits of the postal savings bank bill and declaring that he was not influenced by the banking interests, Senator Rayner of Maryland today addressed the senate in opposition to the measure on pure constitutional reasons.

"I have not," he said, "been able to find any constitutional ground whatever for this measure. No one who has read the Constitution of the United States will contend for a moment that it comes under any of the express powers of the instrument, and the utmost that will be claimed for it, I suppose, is that under the eighteenth clause of Section 8 of Article 1, is necessary and proper law to carry into execution the delegated powers. I have searched in vain for any decision sustaining this contention. It is not a law necessary and proper to carry into execution the clause which gives congress the power to borrow money on the credit of the United States, because this enactment does not purport to be for any such purpose."

Not Bank Organization.

Conceding that the government has a right to organize a bank as an instrumentality of government, he contended that no such purpose was embraced in the pending legislation. He also argued against any possible contention that the proposed law was au-

MAKES PLEA FOR BUREAU OF MINES

Callbreath Says Repeated Disasters Prove Need of Such a Step.

Washington, Feb. 7.—Pointing to each new mine disaster as an additional reason why a national bureau of mines should be created, J. F. Callbreath, Jr., secretary of the American mining congress, declared here today that an investigation of the causes of these disasters by the Federal government was urgent.

"It is the state's task to inspect the mines, and issue regulations that ought to be enforced," said Mr. Callbreath, "but it is surely within the function of the government to conduct the scientific research into the mysterious causes that are hurling so many men into eternity."

The bill which Mr. Callbreath desires to see enacted into law has already passed the house. The measure has the indorsement of the United Mine Workers, the mine owners, leading science societies, state mine inspectors, and state geologists.

Mr. Callbreath said that the bill would pass the senate as easily as the house if the senators realized the importance of the results.

GERMANY IS IN THE FOLD

Her Exports to This Country Will Get the Lowest Tariff Rates.

President Issues Proclamation to That Effect---France Off the List.

Washington, Feb. 7.—The president today issued a proclamation under the provisions of the tariff act of Aug. 5, 1909, in which he declared that after March 31, 1910, all articles imported into the United States or any of its possessions, except the Philippine islands and the islands of Guam and Tutuila, from Germany are entitled to be admitted at minimum rates of duty prescribed by Section 1 of the present tariff act.

The proclamation, however, does not include the German colonial possessions, for the reason that the department of the state has not yet had sufficient time in which to investigate the question as to whether such colonies unduly discriminate against importations from the United States.

Inasmuch as the maximum rates of the United States do not go into effect until after March 3, next, ample time will be afforded to determine that question. There is a reason to believe that before that date the president will take action including the German colonies in the list of countries entitled to minimum rates.

France Not Yet Included.

The proclamation today is identical with that published some days ago with respect to Italy and several other countries.

The question of undue discrimination against American goods is yet to be determined with respect to a number of other countries, including France, Canada, Japan and China and the colonial possessions of several European countries.

KAW INDIANS CALL ON TAFT

Eight Gaily Dressed Braves Are Introduced By Curtiss of Kansas.

Washington, Feb. 7.—Senator Curtiss of Kansas today introduced to President Taft eight Kaw Indians. In honor of the occasion the braves were attired in gorgeous native costumes. One carried a shining tomahawk, while another fanned himself vigorously with an eagle feather fan. Altogether the Indians made the gayest picture seen at the White House for some time.

TWO MAIL CLERKS AND PORTER HURT.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—Two mail clerks and a porter were injured in a wreck near De Soto, Wis., according to information received at the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy headquarters today. The clerks were only slightly injured. The porter suffered a broken leg.

AMERICAN BUILDING ROUNDLY DENOUNCED IN FEDERAL REPORT

Extravagance and Waste and Lax Law Enforcement Are Declared to Prevail.

"Fire Tax" Nearly Million and a Half Every Day in the Year.

Officials Point Out How to Avoid Big Losses of Money and Lives.

Washington, Feb. 7.—Fire, stolen from heaven by Prometheus, according to ancient Greek mythology, and as a blessing brought by him to earth in a hollow reed after Zeus had deprived mankind of it, levies upon Americans each year an enormous tax calculated by United States government officials at almost a million and a half dollars a day and 1,449 lives a year.

As the result of an investigation just concluded by officials of the United States geological survey, it has been ascertained:

That cheaper fireproof materials can be used to advantage in construction.

That three to six times the necessary amount of material is habitually used in structural work in the United States.

That the building codes are laxly enforced; that the fire loss in the United States is eight times as much per capita as in any country in Europe.

That the great fire waste in the United States is due principally to the predominance of frame buildings and to defective construction and equipment.

Contrast in Losses.

Contrast between the small losses by fire to government buildings and the immense losses reported from the

STILL AFTER MYSTERY OF THE ORIGIN OF LIFE

DR. JACQUES LOEB.

A department of experimental biology has been created by the board of directors of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, and Dr. Jacques Loeb of the University of California has been appointed its head. He will assume charge of the department in July of this year. Prof. Loeb's researches into the origin of animal life and his announcement that he has produced life in infertilized eggs of marine animals have made him famous.

BILL GOES TO BOTH HOUSES

Federal Incorporation Measure in Hands of Congressmen.

Shows Some Changes From the Original Draft of the Plan.

Washington, Feb. 7.—The administration bill providing for federal incorporation of corporations engaged in interstate commerce was presented in both branches of congress today. The introductions were made by Senator Clark of Wyoming and Representative Parker of New Jersey, chairmen respectively of the senate and house committees on judiciary.

In the house reference of the bill to the judiciary committee was made without objection, but in the senate Mr. Newlands opposed the second reading of the bill and gave notice that on tomorrow he would ask to have it referred to the committee on interstate commerce. Mr. Clark stated that the measure involved legal points which only the judiciary committee could deal with properly.

Differs From First Draft.

The final draft of the corporation license measure, an outline of which follows, differs materially from the earlier drafts and represents several months of study by the president and his cabinet.

No corporation formed under the terms of the proposed act will be permitted to purchase, acquire or hold stock in any other corporation, nor can any corporation organized under the act, or under the laws of any state or foreign country for the purpose of, or engaging in, any like business, ac-

FOOD PRICE WAR IS WAITING GAME

New York Battle Has Assumed Nature of an Endurance Test.

New York, Feb. 7.—With extreme cold weather tending to drive quotations up and the first wave of enthusiasm in the crusade against high food prices receding, the campaign in metropolitan territory settled down today to something like an endurance contest.

The week opened, however, with prospects of trouble for the combines alleged to be illegally keeping up rates for necessaries of life through misuse of cold storage and by other means. New York and New Jersey renewed activities in the campaign.

Attorney General O'Malley of New York state, is credited with the intention to invoke an old injunction against the packing companies, granted in the supreme court in 1902 and forbidding them from fixing meat prices and preventing competition by agreement as to rates and supply. This is said to be still in force.

Aldermen May Act.

Regulative ordinances introduced in the New York board of aldermen and aimed particularly at alleged cold storage evils, are to be pressed for passage.

In New Jersey, the Hudson county grand jury continued inquiry into the business of the great storage warehouses of Jersey City.

ELEVEN SHOTS IN BRAIN NOT FATAL

Persistent Would-be Suicide Finally Has to Hang Himself to Die.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 7.—After firing eleven bullets into his brain from a 22-caliber six-chamber revolver, reloading the weapon to accomplish the feat, Roman Pritschoff hanged himself at his home in Alameda Saturday night to make the suicidal work thorough. Six of the bullets entered his brain, and the fact that he was afterwards able to fasten a clothesline about his neck and strangle himself puzzled the coroner and physicians who examined the body yesterday.

FIFTEEN ARRESTS IN MURDER CASE

Chicago Has Another Crime to Solve in Its Italian Colony.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—Another murder was added today to a long list in the Italian colony here. Joseph Laverdi, a 26-year-old Italian, was shot and instantly killed while in the basement of his home.

According to Mrs. Laverdi, who is a bride of a year, the victim had no trouble with any one. The police believe that the murderers were members of the Black Hand. Laverdi had gone to get a bucket of coal in the basement, where it is said his assailants were hiding. Two shots were soon heard by the young woman, who called to the neighbors and hurried to the scene. They found the murdered man with two bullet holes in his back. Fifteen men were arrested on suspicion.

Laverdi was a cousin of Tony Dugo, who was shot and killed under equally mysterious circumstances in the same neighborhood last December. One theory is that both men had incurred the enmity of members of an Italian secret society and that the two were killed as the result of a plot.

GIRL SHOT SEVEN TIMES A SUICIDE?

Oneonta Coroner Having Trouble to Settle Question of Her Death.

Oneonta, N. Y., Feb. 7.—Whether a girl could fire seven successive shots into her breast before expiring is the question which must be settled before the authorities can determine whether Bessie Wheeler committed suicide or was murdered. She was found dead in her room at Davenport, near here. The coroner's physician maintains that she could not have fired the shots herself; Dr. H. W. Gates, testifying as an expert, holds otherwise.

SPENT WIFE'S EARNINGS

Sigurd Olson Is Sent to Jail on Non-Support Charge.

Wife Claims He Took Her Money to Buy Drink.

Because he came home and spent his wife's earnings and refused to provide for her support or that of the children, Sigurd Olson, 48 years old, arrested Saturday night for non-support, will spend the next thirty days as the guest of the sheriff.

Olson was arraigned this morning in the West Duluth justice court before Judge J. B. Flack. His wife appeared against him and told the court of the destitute condition of the family, brought about by his unwillingness to work.

It was claimed that the neighbors had supplied Mrs. Olson with food and money and that Olson took the money away from her to spend for liquor. Olson could not furnish any excuse for his actions and he was given the limit.

Bonds to the extent of $100 were demanded by the court and Olson was also ordered to provide $15 a month to the support of his wife, or go to jail. Olson could not produce the cash and he was taken to the jail this morning.

The warrant for his arrest was issued last Tuesday and he managed to evade the officers until Saturday night, when he came home. An officer was called and he was taken to the station.

The Olsons reside on Elinor street, between Sixty-fourth and Sixty-fifth avenues west. There are three children in the family.

THE FORCE OF THE CROSS

It Is the Magnetic Center of the World, Says Pastor.

Rev. Daniel George Cole, missionary at Plymouth Congregational church, Fifty-fourth avenue west and Bristol street, spoke yesterday morning on "The Attracting Force of the Cross," from the text John xii, 32, "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me."

Rev. Mr. Cole said in effect: "The cross is the magnetic center of the world and the center of the spiritual universe. By its heavenly attraction and gravitation the ebb and flow of society are governed. Jesus is the greatest attraction we can possibly know, and He is that to the exclusion of the creeds, dogmas and systems that have been built about Him. The personality of the Christ attracts toward noble lives and lofty ideals. Knowledge of Him gives us the secret of His type of life.

"Men are attracted to Jesus because of His heroism and self-sacrificing love. A scientist claims that the magnetism of the earth is decreasing. He says, 'That mystic power which holds the needle to the pole is waning.' Some venture the opinion that the compass will eventually be useless. They suggest that wireless telegraphy must be relied upon to guide our vessels. Intense interest has been awakened since 1843 about the claimed loss of magnetism in the earth.

The mysterious attraction of the Cross is increasing, however.

Jesus is gradually drawing all poetry, art, scholarship and theology to Him. The worlds move on in their majestic round with no visible connection between them, although the spaces between are full of threads finer than gossamer and stronger than steel. God has designed it so that the universe may remain intact. The sympathy between Christians should be as enduring. We all have so many things in common that a kindly knowledge of each other's ways and customs cannot but be helpful. Men are attracted to Jesus because He executed His plans in spite of insulting opposition, crafty conspiracy and apparent defeat.

"Facing each other on opposite sides of Long Island are two forts, Schuyler and Todden. At the latter may be found the largest and strongest magnet in the world. One of the cannons which is eighteen feet long and ten high has eight miles of cable wound about it and requires a force of 25,000 pounds to pull off the armature. The combined strength of four men was needed to remove a crowbar that had been attached to this magnet. This marvelous magnetic power is overshadowed by the proved words of our Lord as found in the text. Who can resist the magnetic force of old scenes? Think of the good ones and never look back. Let the possibilities of a happy future be the magnet to draw others. St. Andrew became magnetized by contact with Jesus and proceeded to draw others. A splendid brotherhood has since been built upon the idea. If Christ has touched your heart He will want you to draw closer to Him until it shall separate you from defilement and secret sin and make you pure and clean. As you are magnetized you will want to draw others."

HOME BUILDERS WILL BE ACTIVE

Home building will be active at West Duluth this spring, according to the real estate men, who claim to be in touch with the situation at West Duluth.

Already several new houses have been started on the hillside in the vicinity of Tacony street and Fifty-ninth avenue west. On Eighth street ground has also been broken for a number of new homes.

On Grand avenue property is being held very closely at prices much in advance of what was asked last spring. Many residences have gone up in the year just passed, and many are planned for the coming spring.

Albert Hanson has broken ground for the erection of a residence at 5810 West Eighth street, and J. Anderson has excavated for a residence at Fifty-ninth and Elinor.

On Tacony and Fifty-ninth J. C. Shober will erect a dwelling house this summer. Andrew Bergstrom has started the construction of a large ten-room house on Tacony street.

CASE IS DISMISSED.

Husband Fails to Prove That His Wife Was Intoxicated.

John Wolensky, who late Saturday evening had his wife arrested, claiming that she became intoxicated, was obliged to pay the costs in the case this morning, when the woman was brought up in the West Duluth justice court before Judge J. B. Flack.

Wolensky had a warrant sworn out Saturday afternoon and Saturday night she was arrested and taken to the police station, where she was kept all day yesterday. When the case came up in court today, it was dismissed and Wolensky was assessed for the costs.

The Wolensky family lives on Sixty-fourth avenue west, near Elinor street.

THE DATE IS SET FOR ANNUAL BANQUET.

April 7, has been named as the date for the annual banquet of the West Duluth Commercial club. The affair will probably be held this year in Wade's hall. This year the ladies of the St. James Catholic church will prepare and serve the supper.

The program is in course of preparation by a committee of nine. It is planned to have a number of prominent speakers for the occasion. When the club meets, Friday evening, it is expected that the committee will have something to report in regard to the speakers.

With the Curlers.

Playing in the West Duluth Commercial club event is almost over in the curling club at West Duluth. Saturday night McAuley's rink defeated Olson's aggregation, 14 to 11. The lineup follows:

|---|---|
| Smith, | Judson, |
| Hoag, | Kriedler, |
| Ashley, | Nygren, |
| MacAuley, skip—14 | Olson, skip—11. |

Tonight in the Buckley event, Miller will be matched against Evered. Methold will oppose Keyes, Meldahl will line up against Rockwell and Holland will play Olson.

SUNDBERG TELLS HIS RATE STORY

Minnesota Complainant Is Examined in Hearing on Express Charges.

New York, Feb. 7.—State Senator Sundberg of Minnesota was a witness for himself for a few moments today in the hearing before an interstate commerce commission examiner on his complaint of a combination between four of the big express companies to maintain high rates. Senator Sundberg declared that he had been repeatedly overcharged on express shipments. He had paid seven times the freight rates, he said, on agricultural machinery sent from Minneapolis by express for his farm.

In answer to a question, the senator testified that George S. Loftus of Loftus, Hubbard & Co., commission merchants of St. Paul and Minneapolis, was the rate man from whom the witness procured the information on which the allegations were based.

Calls Rates Reasonable.

Traffic Manager Ludlow of the Wells-Fargo Express company was examined regarding Western express rates. He denied that rates were being continually raised, and he declared his belief that the rates established were reasonable. He expressed the opinion that express rates should be about three times the first-class freight rates. Rates were kept at a point where the business could be handled efficiently and promptly, he declared.

HOSPITAL COMPLETED

Will Be Ready to Receive Patients Next Week.

Physicians Will Inspect It Thursday and Public Friday and Saturday.

The new city detention hospital at Fourteenth avenue west will be opened for the first case next Monday.

Wednesday, the members of the city council and city officials are invited by the health department to make a tour of inspection and Thursday the physicians and surgeons of the city will be asked to visit the institution. Friday, Saturday and Sunday will be given over to the public.

The opening of the detention ward fills a long-felt want in the city. In the past there have been no adequate facilities in Duluth for caring for contagious diseases except smallpox. As a consequence the health of the city has been impaired, and scores of families put to unnecessary hardship and expense because of the strict quarantine which has been necessary.

The city has a large piece of property on the hill, and the detention ward is but the first installment of what will later be a general city hospital, suitable for all kinds of work. The detention ward is fitted throughout with cots and a complete set of surgical instruments. If the occasion should arise, other cases than contagious diseases could be given temporary relief at the institution.

The public can reach the new detention hospital by taking the incline to Third street and walking west several blocks. There will be no trouble in locating it as it stands forth prominently.

DECIDE TUESDAY ABOUT SOUTH POLE

Geographic Society Will Consider Proposition Made By Peary.

Washington, Feb. 7.—Whether the National Geographic society will accept the offer of the Peary Arctic Club of New York and join it in a joint expedition for the discovery of the South Pole with the steamer Roosevelt will be decided tomorrow afternoon by the board of directors of the society at a special meeting which President Henry Gannett will call today.

At the meeting the directors will listen to a report by the committee to which was referred the proposition of the Arctic club that the Geographic society furnish $50,000 in cash against the club's steamer Roosevelt, and that all other expenses be divided.

They Injure Children

Ordinary Cathartics and Pills and Harsh Physic Cause Distressing Complaints.

You cannot be over-careful in the selection of medicine for children. Only the very gentlest bowel medicine should ever be given, except in emergency cases. Ordinary pills, cathartics and purgatives are apt to do more harm than good. They cause griping, nausea and other distressing after-effects that are frequently health-destroying and a life-lasting annoyance.

We personally recommend and guarantee Rexall Orderlies as the safest and most dependable remedy for constipation and associate bowel disorders. We have such absolute faith in the virtues of this remedy that we sell it on our guarantee or money back in every instance where it fails to give entire satisfaction, and we urge all in need of such medicine to try it at our risk.

Rexall Orderlies contain an entirely new ingredient which is odorless, tasteless and colorless. As an active agent, it embraces the valuable qualities of the best known intestinal regulator tonics.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy. They are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night; do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness or other undesirable effects. They have a very natural action upon the glands and organs with which they come in contact, act as a positive and regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel and its dry mucous lining; remove irritation, overcome weakness, tone and strengthen the nerves and muscles, and restore the bowels and associate organs to more vigorous and healthy activity.

Rexall Orderlies completely relieve constipation, except when of a surgical character. They also tend to overcome the necessity of constantly taking laxatives to keep the bowels in normal condition.

There is really no medicine for this purpose so good as Rexall Orderlies, especially for children, aged and delicate persons. They are prepared in tablet form, in two sizes of packages; twelve tablets 10 cents, and 36 tablets 25 cents. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Duluth only at our store—The Rexall Store—E. # MURDER OF HOWARD SEXTON MOST BRUTAL OF CRIMES

Shot Down as He Stood With Arms Above Head.

Brother and Mother Return to Duluth With the Body.

Rivaling the stories of the days of the Western bad man, when every man had his hand on his gun and the quickest to draw was the longest to live, the story of the cruel murder of Howard T. Sexton of Duluth by Walter McDonald in the little town of Walker, Minn., last Thursday, is filled with horrible details that lead one to believe that the tales of pioneer days in the West were not overdrawn.

Glorying in his reputation as a "bad man," quick with a gun and ready to shoot, boasting that he had killed two men and would add other notches to the handle of his death-dealing weapon, bullying the little town in which he was a foreign and a hated element, and delighting in the strange prominence it gave him, Walter McDonald held human life cheaply. When the noose dangled over him and the law was calling for him to show why his own life should not be taken in expiation of his crime, he held that life cheaply also and snuffed it out to take his bravado before God.

The little town has not yet recovered from the shock it received when Howard Sexton fell to the floor in the barroom of the Chase hotel with three bullets in his body. It will not recover for many a long day. Crime was not unknown in Walker, but never had it been called upon to witness such crime as that. McDonald's reputation was bad, but while he was avoided, he was partially held in contempt. Only when he had shot down a defenseless man and had reveled in lawless defiance of the officers charged with his capture, did the people realize that they had been harboring a viper ready to strike. When the news went out that he had saved organized government the duty of sending him to judgment, a sigh of relief went up, and Walker settled back to wonder that such things may happen in this day of civilization.

The Story of the Shooting.

The first detailed and authentic story of the killing of Howard Sexton was brought to Duluth when James Sexton, a brother, and Mrs. Thomas Sexton, the mother of the murdered man, arrived here with the body yesterday. The press reports, gathered by correspondents in the hysteria which assailed the town, were garbled and lacking in the details whicih make the crime stand out as a cold-blooded, foul murder in this day in which crime is far from unknown. One cannot but be thrilled with horror and filled with Thanksgiving that the bad men of the West are dying out, and that Walter McDonald is among those who have passed.

With his hands over his head and his eyes looking into the muzzle of a 45-caliber Colt's revolver, Howard Sexton met his death without being given a chance to stay its onrush. "My God, Mac, don't shoot!" he cried as he realized the awful determination written on the face of the man who held the gun, but the appeal was unheeded and three messengers of death were sent crashing into his body. Falling forward, he grasped a revolver lying under the bar, but he was too late. A fourth bullet glanced from the revolver in his own hand, as he fell to the floor never to rise again.

Thirst for blood is the only motive that can be ascribed for McDonald's act. Why he chose the Duluth boy as the object on which to satiate it, will always remain a mystery. McDonald is the only one who could tell and McDonald is dead. No man living can say that the few words that passed between them on the day of the murder was sufficient provocation for the taking of a human life, but McDonald's standards were not those of other living men.

Thursday afternoon about 2:30 o'clock, McDonald sauntered into the bar of the Chase hotel. Bert Chase, the proprietor of the hotel, had stepped out and he had asked Sexton, who was clerk to attend to the bar while he was gone. Sexton was serving drinks when McDonald entered. McDonald leaned over the bar and sneeringly said, "Say, bar-boy, can a gentleman get a drink here if he pays for it?"

"I guess so," Sexton answered.

"Well, hurry up about it," said McDonald.

Sexton told him to wait until he had served the men with whom he was engaged and he would wait on him. McDonald began cursing and swearing in a loud voice and fearing that ladies in the lobby might hear, Sexton told him to keep quiet.

"You mean that do you?" asked McDonald.

"Yes, I mean it," said Sexton.

"Say, have you got a gun?" McDonald asked.

"No," said Sexton. "If I had I wouldn't know how to use it."

"Well, you get one," McDonald said, "and I'm going to get mine and we'll settle this when I come back."

McDonald Returns.

He went out and Sexton didn't pay any more attention to the matter. When he came back in five minutes, Sexton was alone in the bar. He greeted McDonald affably and asked him what he wanted.

"A bottle of beer and get it quick," said McDonald.

Sexton turned around to the back bar and got the bottle of beer and a glass. He turned around with one in each hand and looked into the threatening muzzle of the revolver in McDonald's hand. Then he made the futile appeal for his life. The first shot entered his hand and the next two penetrated his abdomen. He never had a chance to fire the revolver he picked up after three shots had been fired. He fell to the floor and the murderer walked over to where he lay. "I guess you've got enough," he said. "I won't give you any more."

James Valentine, who was in the lobby and had heard the talk between the two men rushed into the barroom when he heard the shots. McDonald turned the gun on him, but didn't fire. "I won't kill you, Jim, you're a friend of mine," he said. Removing the empty shells from his revolver he reloaded the gun and walked to his house, where he barricaded himself and defied the officers.

During his vigil, McDonald sat in the dining room in his house, where he could command a view of all the doors and windows. A rush on the house meant death to someone, for McDonald was a dead shot and nobody doubted that he would sell his life dearly. A strong cordon of deputies was formed around the house, nobody was allowed to use the streets at the corner on which the house stood, and the officers waited. When he saw the undertaker going to the hospital, where Sexton lay dying and where another man had died, it is believed McDonall thought Sexton had died and decided to kill himself. When the sheriff and McDonald's brother-in-law broke into the house, they found his body lying in the bathroom. He had fired a bullet through his head with the same gun that had claimed Sexton as a victim.

In the house were found three rifles and two revolvers fully loaded and five boxes of shells, so it is certain that if an attempt had been made to take McDonald, lives would have been paid for the capture, and no man cares to rush into the jaws of death.

McDonald is said to have killed a man in Montana several years ago, and also to have killed a man at Bemidji. He openly boasted of the fact. Often he walked down the street in Walker, with a revolver hanging from his belt. Pointing to it, he would say, "that's for three men in this town." Some took the threats seriously, while others looked upon him as a bullying coward, but he finally proved that he was capable of expressing his lust for blood in more than words.

Everything possible was done for young Sexton. Specialists were secured, but they could do nothing, for the bullets had penetrated vital parts. He was conscious when his mother arrived at the hospital early Saturday morning, but he sank into unconsciousness shortly after 4 o'clock Saturday morning and died at 11:15.

The body was brought to Duluth yesterday morning and the funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 from the family residence, 616 East Fourth street, with interment at Forest Hill cemetery. Thomas Sexton, a brother of the dead man, arrived in Duluth this morning from Huntington, W. Va., to attend the funeral.

President Helps Orphans.

Hundreds of orphans have been helped by the President of the Industrial Orphans' Home at Macon, Ga., who writes: "We have used Electric Bitters in this institution for nine years. It has proved a most excellent medicine for Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles. We regard it as one of the best family medicines on earth." It invigorates all vital organs, purifies the blood, aids digestion, creates appetite. To strengthen and build up pale, thin, weak children or rundown people it has no equal. Best for female complaints. Only 50c at all druggists.

MAX FIGMAN TAKES BRIDE

Popular Comedian Weds His Former Leading Lady in "The Substitute".

During the time he was in Duluth rehearsing for "Mary Jane's Pa," Max Figman made many friends here, who will be interested in the following clipping from the San Francisco Call:

"When Max Figman sauntered on the stage at the Savoy theater last evening in the first act of 'Mary Jane's Pa' the orchestra struck up Mendelssohn's wedding march and a storm of rice broke over the footlights. A pretty San Francisco girl, known theretofore as Miss Lolita Robertson, blushed furiously. The secret was out.

"Miss Robertson, who was formerly a popular actress at the Alcazar theater, known as 'the girl with the tomboy smile,' arrived in San Francisco Friday night. She innocently strolled up to the Savoy theater, and as she was Figman's leading woman in "The Substitute' earlier in the season and knew many of the company, the visit was looked upon merely as a fraternal one.

"It had a deeper meainng. Yesterday morning at an hour when all good actors are supposed not to be around, Miss Robertson, Figman, Mr. Mooney, the bride's grandfather, and Arthur F. Warde, Figman's business manager, took a train for Redwood City.

Justice Performs Ceremony.

"Arriving there Figman said his age was 41 and Miss Robertson said she was 22, and then Justice of the Peace James Hannon was found. The justice said he would be delighted and would the couple please stand there, join hands and look pleasant and repeat after him as he read.

"'I now pronounce you man and wife,' said the justice.

"Then there was a rush for the depot and the couple returned to the city. There was a wedding breakfast attended only by the bride and groom and Warde, the best man, and Figman went to the theater to fill his part in the matinee performance.

"Mrs. Figman has retired permanently from the stage; she is going to keep house,' said Figman. 'Anyway, it was a quiet wedding, and that is all there is to it.'

"Mrs. Figman, clad in a dark suit and furs, was detected near the theater in the afternoon and was captured by Manager Fred Busey and congratulated.

Corroborates Retirement.

"'But I'll have to hurry now and make a home for my husband,' said the bride, smiling her famous smile. 'I intend to retire from the stage.' Mrs. Figman added, corroborating her husband's declaration.

"Mrs. Figman is the daughter of Mrs. H. A. Robertson, now living at 345 Lennox avenue, New York. Her mother was unable to come west with her on account of ill health. Her father is Frank H. Robertson, editor of the Democratic Register at Redding.

"The handsome and talented young woman made her first appearance at the Alcazar theater here. She made a popular hit. Later she played with Henry Miller in 'The Great Divide.' Figman met her a year ago, when he was selecting a company for John Cort's production of 'Commencement Day.' Later Miss Robertson joined him in 'The Substitute' as leading woman. She left the company when Figman took up 'Mary Jane's Pa.'"

Will Tell About Beef Trust.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—Frederick Joseph, president of the New York Butchers' Dressed Beef association, arrived here today to testify before the federal grand jury in the investigation as to the methods of the "beef trust." Arthur Block and Aaron Buchbaum, organizers of the New York association, arrived on a later train.

WALKER ON THE METAL

Outlook Is for Fifteen Cent Copper Before Next Year.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 7.—Walker's copper letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial said:

"The metal market is quiet and steady, with prices a shade lower. Lake is 13⅞ @14 cents and electrolytic is 13⅝@13¾ cents per pound. The liquidation of foreign speculative accounts on the London metal exchange is resulting in irregular and sagging quotations there, and this is to some extent responsible for the easier tone of the domestic market. American producers have every confidence in the situation, however, and are firmly maintaining their selling prices.

"The domestic consumption of copper, already at high-water mark, is steadily increasing. The outlook for the coming year is very satisfactory. Undoubtedly considerable more copper will go into consumption in 1910 than in any previous year in the history of the trade. The belief is quite generally held in producing circles that consumption will sufficiently exceed production to absorb the existing surplus and force prices well above 15 cents in the closing months of the year.

"A very great deal depends, of course, upon the state of domestic business confidence. The belief is entertained in some quarters that the popular agitation of trusts, aggravated by the high cost of living; the government investigations of corruptions and the activity of the so-called insurgent faction in congress, may unsettled confidence and cause a temporary check to our industrial expansion. Other leading business and financial interests, however, who have given this matter very careful attention, feel that agitation of this character, having been kept up for three years past, is gradually wearing itself out, that the crisis has already been passed, and that it is altogether improbable that the country will again be called upon to face such severe shocks as it received from the banking scandals of 1907 and the more recent exposures in connection with the American sugar investigation, etc.

"The country has entered upon what promises to be a long period of great prosperity, and it is better that business and industrial expansion should not go ahead too rapidly at first. Among the most important work to be done in the coming few years is the revolution of power generation and its application. Local steam plants will be replaced very generally by large central power plants to generate and distribute electricity, and more steam railroads will be electrified. The prospect is that copper consumption in electrical fields will continue to show a very great increase from year to year, and, notwithstanding the tremendous growth of production, there is every reason to believe that metal prices will rule fully as high in the coming ten years as in the past decade."

SWOPE JURY IS AGAIN IN SESSION

Much Depends on the Verdict That Will Complete the Inquest.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 7.—After an interval of almost a month the jury called to determine the cause of the death of Millionaire Thomas H. Swope resumed sessions at Independence, Mo., today.

It is believed that the inquest will do much to straighten out the legal tangle which has developed since the investigation of Col. Swope's death began. If a verdict declaring that death came under unnatural circumstances is returned, it is said indictments will follow. If an opposite verdict is reached, the criminal aspect of the case will vanish, and only the civil suit will be heard.

The attorneys who have been prominent in the case as counsel for the various interested parties were present today to hear the testimony, but took no part in the proceedings.

All the members of the Swope family were among the witnesses. The estrangement of Mrs. Swope and her daughter, Mrs. Hyde was emphasized by their attitude toward each other today, the first time they have met in weeks.

John G. Paxton, executor of the Swope estate, and one of the defendants in the civil suit, filed by Dr. Hyde, was also among the witnesses.

ITALIAN GETS DROP ON CALLERS

Arrests Two Black Hand Suspects After Parleying With Them Over Wine.

New York, Feb. 7.—Two alleged agents of the Black Hand were arraigned today in an East New York police court as the result of the resourcefulness and bravery of an old-time Italian gendarme, Antonio Impastato, who lives near his friend, Joseph Ferraro, a well-to-do East New Yorker who recently has been bombarded with letters threatening that his house would be blown up, his business ruined and his daughter carried off unless he paid $500 to the Black Hand.

His house was found to be under surveillance by shady-looking characters; his wife collapsed under the strain, and his daughter went into hiding. Ferraro, in desperation, consulted Impastato.

"Let them meet you at my house," advised Impastato.

Ferraro made the appointment. Last night two men called. Ferraro and Impastato greeted them cordially and treated them to wine. Ferraro gave one of them a marked $20 bill, promising to pay all later. The health of the Black Hand was drunk.

As the men turned to leave they met Impastato's leveled revolver. The former gendarme marched them at the pistol point to the police station, where they were locked up and held for a hearing today.

PRESTON TO LEAVE BOARD

President of Board of Public Works Said to Have Resigned.

R. E. Patterson Believed to Be Mayor's Choice to Fill Vacancy.

James Preston, president of the board of public works, has tendered his resignation to Mayor Haven, it is reported at the city hall. He has another year to serve of a three-year term.

The resignation, it is claimed, is to take effect as soon as a successor is appointed. Robert E. Patterson of the Fifth ward is said to be slated for Preston's place on the board. The board president was appointed two years ago by Mayor Haven and a year ago was chosen president to succeed O. G. Olson, Democrat. Mr. Olson's term expires this spring, but it looks as though he would be reappointed by Dr. Cullum when he takes up his duties as mayor. This would leave the personnel of the board composed of Mr. Patterson, Mr. Olson and A. J. Meldahl, who was appointed by the mayor a year ago.

Under the charter the council has nothing to do with confirming appointments to the board of public works and any action that the mayor takes in this direction will be final. In the retirement of Mr. Preston the city loses one of the most valuable men who has ever been in the public's employ. He was a contractor before he accepted the place on the board and he accepted the appointment at a sacrifice. He was familiar with the duties of the place and conducted the work of the department on a business-like basis. It was largely under his direction that the improvements in street cleaning were made. He was on the job with the men in the morning and was the last to quit at night. Many other improvements and several money-saving methods were originated by Mr. Preston. Mr. Preston will go back to his contracting work.

SUCCESSOR TO MISS POIRIER

Miss Frances Earhart Will Be Appointed to Position Temporarily.

The regular meeting of the library board was held this afternoon at the library. The principal business to be considered was the appointment of a librarian to succeed Miss Lydia Poirier, who resigned her charge last month. It is probable that the administration committee will recommend the temporary appointment of the first assistant, Miss Frances Earhart, as the librarian in charge, until all applications received by the board may be carefully considered.

Miss Poirier leaves her position after years of most satisfactory service, and there is much regret throughout the city at her departure. Under her administration the library has been a place where the public has been most graciously and gladly served and the needs and wishes of every citizen who could be induced to make use of what he was made to feel was his equipment, were thoughtfully provided for. The library has been added to wisely, every department receiving a due and not unbalanced share of attention. Her service has been efficient and gracious and the library has been made to answer the purpose for which it is maintained in admirable manner.

Other routine matters were considered at the meeting.

ITALIANS USELESS IN WORK AT CHERRY

They Refuse to Get Near Corpses of Men Killed in the Disaster.

Cherry, Ill., Feb. 7.—Orders were issued today by the managers of the St. Paul mine to work at higher speed to clear the mine of the 166 victims of last November's fire that were still in the underground workings.

Italian miners are backward in the work of discovering bodies, as they seem to have as great a horror of corpses as of the "evil eye." Several Italian miners have struck because it was reported that dead men were about to be uncovered near them.

Every man who can find room to wield a pick or assist those who do is at work in the mine clearing the passageway. It is thought now that victims may be found almost any place under falls of rock. Yesterday five bodies were seen at an unexpected point, but as the workmen were about to remove the corpses the roof of the passageway fell with a crash on the dead men. It is uncertain now when the miners will be removed.

Eleven Lives Lost.

Indiana, Pa., Feb. 7.—Ten Hungarians and one American is the death toll of the gas explosion Saturday in the Farnest mine of the Jefferson & Clearfield Coal company, five miles north of this place.

THE FREE CONCERT.

Miss Florence Hyland, Soloist, Delights Audience at Entertainment.

Miss Florence Hyland was the soloist at the free concert given at the Masonic temple yesterday afternoon and her selections pleased the large audience.

The first was by Sans Souci entitled "Where Flowers Grow," in which the rich mezzo-soprano of the singer showed up to good advantage and in all her songs, including the two encores, she demonstrated her efficiency, especially in the sostenuto passages. Her phrasing was good and her efforts were much appreciated. The first encore brought out one of the oldest Irish melodies, "The Little Red Lark," a very pretty folk song. Miss Hyland's second number on the program was by Frederick Knight Logan, a song writer now coming to the front. The words of his songs are written by his mother and the music by himself, and they are of such a class as to be frequently heard in concert programs in America and England. This song proved itself worthy of a place as did the deserved encore by Myra A. Chisholm, "Slumber Sea," a lullaby. It was a charming, dainty, sympathetic piece, splendidly sung and accompanied.

For the organ the "Priest's March," from "Athalia" by Mendelssohn, carried off the honors for volume and inspiring music. The Schubert symphony in "B" minor, gave the lovers of music an opportunity to hear one of that composer's typical compositions. In the four movements the listener is carried through the several moods of grave, gay, tender, playful and admiration of the wonderful interweaving of the several themes.

The musical and always popular overture to "Mignon," by Thomas, was well received and its several parts with its brilliant technique was satisfactorily brought out by the organ. The program was brought to a close with an arrangement of "Auld Lang Syne" by Tobani, which while pleasing and well played, like all other attempts at rearrangement of grand old melodies, was not much improved by the arrangement. There were a couple of harsh, abrupt passages which the bass solos did not entirely hide.

TAFT MAKING DATES.

He Will Be Guest of Irish in Chicago on March 17.

Washington, Feb. 7.—President Taft will cleebrate St. Patrick's day at Chicago, having definitely accepted an invitation from the Irish Fellowship club of that city. The president today requested Representative Madden of Chicago to arrange the details of the visit.

President Taft today accepted an invitation to make the opening address at the world's Sunday school convention to be held in this city May 19. John Wanamaker also will be one of the speakers. Delegates from Sunday schools all over the world will be in attendance.

DEAD WOMAN MAY BE HIS DAUGHTER

Kansas Man Says She Was Planning to Go as Missionary.

Topeka, Kas., Feb. 7.—Green Cavender, believes that the body of a woman found on Mount Tamalpais, near San Francisco, on Friday is that of his daughter, Miss Lena Cavender, who went to the coast last September from St. Joseph, Mo.

Miss Cavender's father heard from her on Sept. 25, and she then wrote from Seattle that she was going away, and asked the family not to write to her. She had $1,000 in money when she left Topeka, and intended to go to Africa as a missionary.

The description of the body found in California tallies exactly with that of Miss Cavender. She was 40 years old and had been a teacher in Nebraska.

For Atkinson Postmaster.

Washington, Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Miller today recommended W. H. Wilcox to be postmaster at Atkinson, Minn., to succeed O. P. Anderson, resigned.

WILL BUILD NEW CHURCH

St. Paul Congregation to Erect New Building in the East End.

Four Members Have Pledged $40,000 Toward the Building Fund.

If satisfactory arrangements can be made with the bishop, with whom a committee from the congregation will soon consult, the members of St. Paul's Episcopal church will build a handsome edifice in the East end, probably at the southeast corner of Seventeenth avenue east and Superior street.

Four men who hold an option on the vacant property which may be the site of the new church have pledged $40,000 toward a suitable edifice. As soon as it is known definitely where the new church will be erected, a committee from the congregation will devote itself to the consideration of plans and neither effort nor money will be spared in making the structure beautiful architecturally and adequate in every respect for a temple of worship. The cost of the building will be determined when plans are agreed upon and all doubt as to the building site is removed.

Rev. A. W. Ryan, rector of St. Paul's in announcing the project at a reception at the rectory Saturday afternoon said:

"It has been the cherished object of the congregation for the past twenty years to have a fine building, and according to the present plans the building will be of a thoroughly modern type of stone construction, with a seating capacity of about 600. We will have a large modern pipe organ. The architect is to take into consideration all that should go into such an edifice, providing an interior that will be well suited for temple worship.

"The new structure will be close to the pro-cathedral, but it is in no way our intention to trespass on its ground or draw on its attendance. The majority of our members are now living in the East end and it is but natural for the church to move with them.

"It is hoped that a mutual and satisfactory arrangement will be reached so that there will be a cordial co-operation between the two churches which will then be near each other, but will in no way interfere."

UNION CHURCH IS ORGANIZED

Rev. Bruce V. Black Formally Brings His Flock Together.

The Union church was organized here yesterday in the Knights of Pythias hall by Rev. B. V. Black, formerly pastor of the First Christian church. Rev. F. S. Atwood of Sleepy Eye, the "blind optimist," preached the dedicatory sermon.

Taking as his text "Ye Shall Know the Truth and the Truth Shall Make You Free," he described the new organization as different from any now in Duluth, "an organization of faith and works, of surrender and service, of possibilities and limitations." He said in part:

"To many of you here present this morning, this occasion is one of tremendous importance. We are here to dedicate to the glory of God and to the service of humanity a new organization: an organization differing from any organization now fulfilling its mission in this city of Duluth.

"Your faith is large because your possibilities of service are large. Your watchword is "Back to Christ and His Teachings," and that is a good watchword. But I would have you remember that this watchword implies discipleship, and this brings me to my text, 'If ye continue in My Word then are ye my disciples indeed, and ye shall know the Truth and the Truth shall make you free.'

"What then, we ask, is the liberty spoken of in the text? First of all let me say that it is not license. There are people who do not believe the doctrine of 'Assurance' or 'once saved always saved' because they say 'If I am saved for all eternity and can never be lost, then I may sin all I please and live the kind of life I want to.' To such I would say that they have no real knowledge of Christ's salvation.

"How then, does the truth make free? First of all by revealing the truth about our old master, Sin. This is the Shylock of the ages. He will not release a debtor till the last ounce of the pound of flesh has been paid. 'Fools make a mock at sin,' but God doesn't. We hear evil men say that they don't like the Bible because it tells in such plain language all about sin. Yes and it reveals the sins of its best characters, but you never once find God passing lightly over sin.

"Let me say that the year of Jubilee is here. Your old master has no power to hold you longer. Your emancipation proclamation was signed and sealed in blood 2,000 years ago and today you are free by virtue of that proclamation. Realise your freedom, reckon yourselves dead to sin and alive to God. Go out to live the pure, true, strong life of the sons of the king and as you reckon it so will it become true in your experience."

CHILD'S BURNS FATAL.

Burning of Girl Near Jenkins Results in Her Death.

Brainerd, Minn., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The burns of Nina, the 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Wilcox of Jenkins, Crow Wing county, received Friday, as told in Saturday's Herald, proved fatal. Deputy Coroner Mooney has returned from investigating the case and finds the facts substantially as reported in The Herald.

The child and a sister a little older, were left alone in the house while the mother went to the home of a neighbor. When she returned she found little Nina on the floor near the door, dead, her clothing still in flames.

From the other little one it was gathered that they got a jug of kerosene and spilled some of it on their clothes and also tried to pour some of it onto the fire, when it caught and set fire to little Nina's clothes. She apparently crawled into bed and then got out and started to the door to find her mother, when she dropped on the floor and expired.

PRAYER VS. THE SALOON

"Hell Cannot Prevail Against a Kneeling Woman," Says Howard.

"The Little Giant" Delights Two Audiences With Addresses.

Clinton N. Howard of Rochester, N. Y., "the little giant," addressed two large audiences in Duluth yesterday. In the afternoon, he spoke at the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A., his subject being, "How to Fill the Dinner Pail." In the evening at Grace M. E. church, he gave a section of his famous speech, "A Joy Ride on the Waterwagon."

In speaking at the church of the war on the saloon, he said:

"All the prayers are on our side and all piled up machinations of hell cannot gain the day against a kneeling woman."

Mr. Howard is a Prohibitionist politically, and believes that the final settlement of the question can come only through a government united against the saloon and a party in power that will stand back of the law that closes the brewery and distillery.

"The tremendous fact that womanhood and motherhood, youth and old age, young men and boys and the manhood of the country are praying for the prohibition of this evil and none are found lifting a voice in prayer for more saloons or for the life of those already in existence, is that deep underlying reason for the water wagon rushing along faster than any other moving thing and it will move through Minnesota on towards Washington, its destination," said Mr. Howard.

The crowd at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon, was one of the largest of the winter and the lecture was one of the most enjoyable of the series. Mr. Howard's address was teeming with good humor. As he later explained, he kept their mouths open with laughter, so that he could hurl the truth in.

He said that the problem of the overworked and the underfed is as yet unsolved. He stated that despite all the progress of the world, the great problem of the underfed remains a stumbling block for the entire nation. Mr. Howard said that pig had taken the place of turkey on the working man's Thanksgiving table and that instead of a large dinner pail, the working man carries a small lunch done up in a newspaper. This he says is because they have no longer the food with which to fill a dinner pail.

Mr. Howard said that times had changed greatly. Once the whistle at the noon hour was the signal for the men to gather together and eat, smoke and talk. Now each one steals away to his own corner so that his fellow workers will not see what a miserable lunch is under the string and newspaper.

"Who fills the dinner pail?" he asked. "The workingman doesn't, never did and never will fill that pail. Who, then, does fill it?

"Everything in that pail from bottom to lid comes out of the soil, comes from the farmer and the farmer fills the pail.

"Every occupation on earth can go on a strike and we can live," he continued, "but let the farmer go on strike and we go into the grave. We've been neglecting the soil from which we all come, and whither we must all go. Back to the soil we must go, and that is the solution of how to fill the dinner pail.

"The farmer and the soil are the foundation of all our industrial prosperity in this country. In Wall street there isn't a stock that does not fluctuate with the corn crop of Missouri and Kansas, and the wheat crop of Minnesota and the Dakotas.

"Why are we a prosperous people? It isn't because we have Duluth, Rochester and Chicago. I tell you the big cities of the country would have put us in the poor house long ago, if it had not been for the farmers.

"There was $414,000,000 of gold coined in the world last year, but it would only buy one-fourth of American's corn crop during the year. Take all the world's mineral wealth of the year, and it would buy only one-fourth of the wheat the American farmer took from the soil last year. A prosperous farmer means a full dinner pail."

HILL CITY GETS AN ARMOUR PLANT

Hill City, Minn., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The citizens of this growing young town are elated over the good news that Armour & Co. of Chicago have closed a deal which means the establishment at this place of large factories for the manufacture of lard pails and other packages for their own use.

This part of their business has been carried on at Ithaca and Marble, Mich., but the supply of hardwood having been about exhausted in Michigan they have been looking about for several months for a new location where the quantity of hardwood needed for their business was satisfactory. They have found such a body of timber around this village, sufficient for their needs for twenty-five years, and will at once remove their factories from Michigan and consolidate them here.

As a part of the deal they acquire a large part of the townsite of Hill City and all the property of the Hill City Woodenware company. They will remove their entire factory from the Michigan factories, consisting of about 175 men with their families. Work on the erection of factories and the building of at least 100 new houses will be commenced at once.

STATE WILL CARE FOR HIS SIX CHILDREN.

Judge Ensign in juvenile court Saturday afternoon, made the six children of John Sapan of Eveleth, wards of the state of Minnesota. They were sent to the state school at Owatonna. Sapan has disappeared with the savings of the family, amounting to about $800. It is thought that he has gone to Austria. There were eight children in all. The mother will care for the youngest which is 2 years old and the oldest which is 14.

Seeks Damages For Blow.

St. Cloud, Minn., Feb. 7.—Paul Pierskalla of Avon, Minn., has commenced an action in district court against Fred Postweiler of the same place for the recovery of $10,600 damages which the plaintiff claims to have sustained from injuries on his head inflicted by Postweiler.

SEALED DOOM OF THE GODS

Advent of Science Ended Many Old Religious Superstitions, Says Pastor.

"Theologies Come and Go, But Religion Goes on Forever."

"Only with the advent of science there begins the real doom of the gods," said Rev. George R. Gebauer, in a sermon preached at the First Unitarian church, yesterday morning. "Not only was the doom of the gods of heathendom sealed, but also the cruder God conception of Christendom. When Newton made known his law of gravitation the angels in Heaven lost their job of trundling about Jupiter and Venus and Mars and of looking after the constellations. There seemed no reason for even the exsitence of such beings in a world of automatic contrivances. And indeed to many, it seemed perhaps as if the Lord God himself had become a supernumerary. The simple natural law to them became sufficient to explain everything.

In our own day the one great discovery which above all else has turned men from conventional theology, was the law of evolution proclaimed by the great thinkers of the last century. If the Copernican system and the law of gravitation ousted gods and angels and made the earth like a speck of dust in an infinite world, this new theory appeared to make an end of man's position as the darling of Jehovah fashioned after his own likeness. It is hardly to be wondered at that the church looked at this doctrine with unqualified horror. The God of Eden was no more; no longer was there even a Heavenly Father watching from his dwelling above the fall of a sparrow; yes for heaven itself there seemed to be no place in the infinite heavens. To modern man as to Faust, science in its search for truth had destroyed the beautiful world. But this beautiful world of the childhood of humanity after all passed only away to make room for a greater, grander world, for a greater, and grander God, for a spiritual world in which no angels are needed. After all, while theologies may come and go, religion goes on forever and new religious conceptions arise to take the place of those which were destroyed. Gods may come and go, and one God even may become obsolete, but God, the spiritual essence and conception of the universe lives on forever. Yes out of man's soul, enlightened by reason, a new God has arisen. It is no longer the God who whirls the world about his fingers. It is not the God who needs angelic hosts to do his work. It is not even the God in whom we live and move and have our being, but it is God who lives and moves and has his being in us, as well as we in him. It is not the God who in loving care watches the sparrows fall and sees with tender look the lily grow, but it is God, who grows in the lily and falls in the sparrow. It is not the God who demands our sacrifice and eagerly waits for our prayer and praise, but it is God who is in our prayer, praise and sacrifice. It is in man that God beholds himself; it is in man that spirit with spirit can speak, little matter if there be angels or no. And God above all is in those highest aspirations after what is true and good and noble, in every whispering of love, in every law and institution that serves to lift man on high. Yes infinitely more secred to us should be the dictates of our divine conscience, enlightened by a divine reason, than laws on tablets of stone that scripture tells were handed to Moses by the Almighty Jehovah. In hearts of men, God has written his statutes and woe be to him who transgresses the law of God in the heart, and pity for him who has to look for the divine laws in holy scripture and sacred catechisms. Too often the mistake is made, that because our morality is a thing of natural growth, therefore it has no more sacredness than a fashion which changes with the season. No, just because it is natural, just because it has developed through countless ages, therefore it is divine and it is our duty not to treat it lightly, but with holy hands raise it higher and higher. He who has found the law of God in his own heart and obeys its dictates, such a one alone is free, is a son of God. He can say with Saint Augustine, 'love God and do as you please'; do as you please, as with the love of God in your heart, you will please to do what is lovely and good and godlike."

BURY LIGHTNING VICTIMS.

Bodies of North Dakotans, Who Perished in Canada, Interred.

Mohall, N. D., Feb. 7.—The bodies of Ben Thompson and Ed. Thompson, who were killed by lightning at Willow Bunch, Can., July 7 last, have just been brought to this city and Saturday were buried in the Mohall cemetery. The fatal stroke of lightning descended upon the two men while they were en route to their claim with a third man named Mason. The two Thompson brothers were instantly killed, but Mason was only stunned. When he revived he took the bodies of the Thompson brothers a distance of twenty-five miles, thinking that there was some hope of restoring life.

STANLEY MAN KILLED.

Walking Beside Wagon Loaded With Coal When It Falls on Him.

Stanley, N. D., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—While walking at the side of a wagon loaded with coal, John Soreide of this place was almost instantly killed when the wagon slewed around on a sliding grade. It caught him in such a manner as to pin him underneath the load of coal, which was tipped over when the wagon slewed around. A young nephew was with him at the time, but scaped unhurt. Soreide was about 40. The remains were taken to Clarksfield, Minn., for burial.

COOK COUNTY VOTES DOWN COURTHOUSE.

Grand Marais, Minn., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The voters of Cook county decided Saturday they did not want a new courthouse at this time; at least, they voted down the proposition at the special election Saturday of issuing bonds for that purpose. The proposition was lost by fourteen votes.

RATS FIRE A HOUSE.

Marinette, Wis., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The home of John Hess was totally destroyed by a fire caused by rats carrying matches into the walls of the building and igniting them.

AMERICAN BUILDING ROUNDLY DENOUNCED IN FEDERAL REPORT

country as a whole led the geological survey to make an inquiry as to fire losses in the United States and as to their exact cost to the people. Tests to determine the strength and fire resistance of building materials still are being made by the survey and, although these tests are resigned primarily to meet the needs of the government, as the largest consumer, their results are available to anyone for general use.

Not one person in a thousand knows that the United States government owns buildings that cost more than $300,000,000 and is spending $20,000,000 a year for new buildings. It will be a surprise to everyone, too, to learn that not one cent of insurance against loss by fire is carried on these valuable buildings. Insurance at the ordinary rate would cost more than half a million dollars a year, and the government avoids this great tax by constructing buildings that are securely fireproof.

Security From Fire.

To attain this degree of security from fire for government buildings the government has gone to considerable expense, and the results obtained fully repay the outlay. From these tests to determine the strength and fire resistance of building materials it has been determined that American builders can with safety use cheaper fireproof materials than they do. It has been learned that the difference in cost between fireproof and inflammable buildings is less than generally supposed, and the officials predict that this difference will soon become so small that it will cease to encourage the construction of flimsy buildings. It has been found that three to six times the necessary amount of material is habitually used by American builders in structural work.

The necessity also is shown for better building codes in cities, and especially of a better enforcement of the codes already enacted if the present enormous fire losses are to be diminished.

Cost $456,485,000 in 1907.

After a careful investigation it has been determined that the total cost of fires in the United States in 1907, excluding that of forest fires and the marine losses (in themselves extensive) but including excess cost of fire protection due to bad construction and excess premiums over insurance paid, amounted to the enormous sum of over $456,485,000, a tax on the American people exceeding the total value of all the gold, silver, copper and petroleum produced in the United States in that year.

The cost of building construction in 1907 in forty-nine leading cities of the United States reporting a total population of less than 18,000,000, amounted to $661,976,286, and the cost of building construction for the entire country is conservatively estimated at $1,000,000,000.

Thus it will be seen that nearly one-half of the value of all the new buildings constructed within one year is destroyed by fire. The annual fire cost is greater than the value of the real property and improvements in either Maine, West Virginia, North Carolina, North Dakota, South Dakota, Alabama, Louisiana or Montana.

In addition to this waste of wealth and natural resources, 1,449 persons were killed and 5,654 were injured in fires in the United States in 1907.

Embodied in Report.

The geological survey's inquiry, which is embodied in a report entitled, "The Fire Tax and Waste of Structural Materials in the United States," prepared by H. M. Wilson and J. L. Cochrane of the survey, covered not only the value of property destroyed but also the cost of maintaining fire departments, the amount of insurance premiums paid less the amount returned, the cost of protective agencies, the additional cost of water supplies, and other elements of the fire loss.

The report gives the method of gathering the statistics collected, makes an analysis of the fire loss in city and country and on frame and brick buildings, and contains tables showing the increased cost of fire protection due to faulty construction.

The actual fire loss in the United States due to the destruction of buildings and their contents amounted to $215,084,709 in 1907. This was $2.51 loss per capita.

The per capita loss in the cities of the six leading European countries amounted to but 33 cents. Comparisons of the total cost of fires, which includes the items already stated, show that if buildings in the United States were as nearly fireproof as those in Europe the annual fire cost would be $90,000,000 instead of $456,000,000.

IS ATTACKED BY RAYNER

thorized by the constitutional provisions regarding postoffices.

Mr. Rayner took up a statement made by Mr. Burkett that the authority is found for the legislation under the general welfare clause. He declared that there is no general welfare clause in the Constitution as an independent grant of power, and that no text writer, no commentator and no court ever has announced the proposition that Senator Burkett contended for.

Refers to Roosevelt.

"I know the constitution under the last administration was in a state of collapse," said Mr. Rayner. "Upon a number of occasions upon this floor I attempted to show how it received blow after blow until it was almost sent staggering to its grave. The predecessor of our present president, whatever else may he may have been, was not a student of the constitution; he did not care for its restrictions, did not consider himself bound by its limitations. We have an occupant of that office now who is thoroughly familiar with the landmarks of his power; who, with his judicial temperament, will not only hold himself in equilibrium, but purposes to hold in proper balance the checks and safeguards of governmental power.

"He has never said in his messages to us under what grant of constitutional power he has proposed this important legislation. One thing I feel sure of, and that is that he will never regard the general welfare clause of the constitution as an independent grant of power. . .

Would Convert Government.

"Such an interpretation as this would convert us into a centralized government of inherent and unlimited functions; would sweep to oblivion the reserved rights of the state; would render the enumerated powers of the charter absolutely superfluous and unneccesary; would give congress the right to pass any legislation whatever that, in its arbitrary discretion or from political motives, it may determine upon; and, in my opinion, destroy the autonomy of the states and obliterate the inviolable declaration of the tenth amendment; would make such a gaping wound in the heart of the constitution that the blood that gave it life would wither in its veins."

EAST AGAIN SUFFERS FROM INTENSE COLD AND WINDY BLASTS

conscious to the floor. Before firemen could rescue them, all three had been burned, Mrs. Herzke fatally. Several waitresses were injured.

In the houses of the poor the suffering was intense throughout the night. More than 500 persons were sheltered last night in municipal lodging houses.

Hordes Seek Shelter.

In addition greater numbers than were driven to ask aid even during the great blizzard of twenty years ago were accommodated in the various charitable institutions.

Indications were for a continuance of the cold wave in its severest form. Along the Atlantic coast the wave of frigidity was felt to an extent not experienced for perhaps a decade, the combination of zero temperature with a gale so high not often being recorded.

New England Shivering.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 7.—All New England is shivering in the cold wave which blew down upon it yesterday from the Northwest. In this city from midnight until 8 o'clock the temperature was 3 deg. below zero. At sunrise the thermometer at Eastport, Me., marked 8 above; Nantucket, 2 above; Northfield, Vt., 14 below; Greenville, Me., 16 below; Portland, 2 below; Concord, N. H., 6 below; Hartford, 3 below, and Block Island, zero.

Two Frozen to Death.

Philadelphia, Feb. 7.—Extremely cold weather prevails today throughout Eastern Pennsylvania, New Yersey and Delaware. The bodies of two men were found on the street here during the night, both frozen to death. In the anthracite regions the temperature is under zero, and in some of the mountain sections the mercury fell to 10 degrees below. The minimum temperature in Philadelphia was 5 above zero at 7 a. m., the coldest here since Feb. 5, 1908.

Forty Mile Wind.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 7.—Pittsburg today experienced the coldest weather of the winter. The official thermometer recorded 2 above zero for eight hours. Outlying suburbs report an average of 10 degrees below zero. A forty-mile wind accompanied the cold.

Farmer Frozen to Death.

Wheeling, W. Va., Feb. 7.—In West Virginia official temperatures range from 2 degrees above zero to 10 below. At Morgantown a farmer was frozen to death on the road. The man's wagon tipped over and he was buried under heavy sacks. He could not move, and when found today he was frozen stiff.

Whole Atlantic Coast Affected.

Washington, Feb. 7.—Almost every state on the Atlantic seaboard from Maine to Florida is today experiencing the coldest weather they have had during the winter, while the temperature in the West and Northwest is growing warmer.

Canton, N. Y., at 8 o'clock this morning had a temperature that more nearly approximated the weather which exists at the North Pole than did any other place in the United States. At Canton the official thermometer of the weather bureau indicated 22 deg. below zero. The cold extends deep into the South, where tonight frost will be felt as far as Northern Florida.

Warmer weather is promised for tomorrow throughout this section, which today is wrapped in furs as never before this winter.

ONCE NOTED JURIST DEAD

of appeals sitting at San Francisco in instructing his client to disobey an injunction against working certain mining ground, and was sentenced to the Alameda county Cal., county jail along with Alex McKenzie of North Dakota, who also had run afoul of the court's wrath. Dubose and McKenzie subsequently were pardoned.

Refused to Be Pardoned.

Judge Dubose demurred to accepting a pardon which would be admitting he had done wrong in telling his client to ignore a court order, and expressed his willingness to serve his sentence.

Since those stirring days the deceased has figured prominently in Alaskan litigation and was considered one of the best lawyers in the Far North, dividing his time between Nome, Seattle and New York.

Rex Beach's story, "The Spoilers," tells of the Alaskan mining litigation and contains characters carefully veiled but intended for the deceased, McKenzie and other figures prominent in those stirring times.

Judge Dubose once gave a Montana horse thief a dose of justice that attracted wide attention. He had sentenced the man in the district court at Choteau for a term of several years in the penitentiary. As the sheriff was leading the horse thief from the courtroom the new candidate for Deer Lodge yelled back to the judge: "I'll get you, you —— white-headed —— when I get out." The court ordered the sheriff to bring the prisoner back and then proceeded to add several years to his term, remarking, "You'll not get out quite as soon now to carry out your threat."

BRIQUETTING PLANT PROMISED KENMARE.

Kenmare, N. D., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—H. H. Soule of Minneapolis is here for the purpose of interesting Kenmare citizens in the establishment of a $100,000 briquetting plant. Kenmare is in the center of a rich lignite coal mining section, and the erection of a factory to briquet the lignite has been considered from time to time. Tests have been made of the lignite coal in several sections of the state and it is generally understood that the results obtained in the Kenmare coal has been the most satisfactory.

If the proposed factory is erected it will have a capacity of 250 tons of merchantable coal every day in the year.

Great Masticator Coming.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Horace Fletcher of New York, the author of "Fletcherizing" food in eating, will be the principal speaker at the seventh annual gathering of the Minnesota Health league in the parlors of the Wesley M. E. church here next Wednesday. The sessions will commence at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon and conclude with Mr. Fletcher's lecture in the evening.

"LITTLE GIANT" PRESCRIPTION
Cures Rheumatism and Backache in a Hurry.

Doctors gave this its nick-name from its quick and powerful action on rheumatism and backache. It is said to be a positive cure. "Get one ounce of syrup of Sarsaparilla compound and one ounce of Toris compound. Then get half a pint of good whisky and put the other two ingredients into it. Take a tablespoonful of this mixture before each meal and at bed time. Shake the bottle before using." The good effects are felt immediately. This has cured hundreds here. Any druggist has these ingredients on hand or will quickly get them from his wholesale house.

GIN FOR THE KIDNEYS

Doctors agree that good, pure gin, when properly prescribed, is wonderful medicine for kidneys, liver and bladder. The one best prescription in which gin is used is given: "Six ounces good, pure gin, one-half ounce Murax compound, one-half ounce fluid extract Buchu." (Be sure to get the genuine Murax compound in original sealed package.) Any good druggist has it or can quickly get it. Shake bottle well each time and take one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal.

This should be taken at first sign of kidney trouble, pain in the back, frequent or highly colored urination, scalding urine, rheumatic pains in the joints, puffiness under the eyes, dimmed vision. The serious forms of kidney trouble are thus prevented.

WILL BUILD NEW CHURCH

St. Paul Congregation to Erect New Building in the East End.

Four Members Have Pledged $40,000 Toward the Building Fund.

If satisfactory arrangements can be made with the bishop, with whom a committee from the congregation will soon consult, the members of St. Paul's Episcopal church will build a handsome edifice in the East end, probably at the southeast corner of Seventeenth avenue east and Superior street.

Four men who hold an option on the vacant property which may be the site of the new church have pledged $40,000 toward a suitable edifice. As soon as it is known definitely where the new church will be erected, a committee from the congregation will devote itself to the consideration of plans and neither effort nor money will be spared in making the structure beautiful architecturally and adequate in every respect for a temple of worship. The cost of the building will be determined when plans are agreed upon and all doubt as to the building site is removed.

Rev. A. W. Ryan, rector of St. Paul's in announcing the project at a reception at the rectory Saturday afternoon said:

"It has been the cherished object of the congregation for the past twenty years to have a fine building, and according to the present plans the building will be of a thoroughly modern type of stone construction, with a seating capacity of about 600. We will have a large modern pipe organ. The architect is to take into consideration all that should go into such an edifice, providing an interior that will be well suited for temple worship.

"The new structure will be close to the pro-cathedral, but it is in no way our intention to trespass on its ground or draw on its attendance. The majority of our members are now living in the East end and it is but natural for the church to move with them.

"It is hoped that a mutual and satisfactory arrangement will be reached so that there will be a cordial co-operation between the two churches which will then be near each other, but will in no way interfere."

UNION CHURCH IS ORGANIZED

Rev. Bruce V. Black Formally Brings His Flock Together.

The Union church was organized here yesterday in the Knights of Pythias hall by Rev. B. V. Black, formerly pastor of the First Christian church. Rev. F. S. Atwood of Sleepy Eye, the "blind optimist," preached the dedicatory sermon.

Taking as his text "Ye Shall Know the Truth and the Truth Shall Make You Free," he described the new organization as different from any now in Duluth, "an organization of faith and works, of surrender and service, of possibilities and limitations." He said in part:

"To many of you here present this morning, this occasion is one of tremendous importance. We are here to dedicate to the glory of God and to the service of humanity a new organization; an organization differing from any organization now fulfilling its mission in this city of Duluth.

"Your faith is large because your possibilities of service are large. Your watchword is "Back to Christ and His Teachings," and that is a good watchword. But I would have you remember that this watchword implies discipleship, and this brings me to my text, 'If ye continue in My Word then are ye my disciples indeed, and ye shall know the Truth and the Truth shall make you free.'

"What then, we ask, is the liberty spoken of in the text? First of all let me say that it is not license. There are people who do not believe the doctrine of 'Assurance' or 'once saved always saved' because they say 'If I am saved for all eternity and can never be lost, then I may sin all I please and live the kind of life I want to.' To such I would say that they have no real knowledge of Christ's salvation.

"How then, does the truth make free? First of all by revealing the truth about our old master, Sin. This is the Shylock of the ages. He will not release a debtor till the last ounce of the pound of flesh has been paid. 'Fools make a mock at sin,' but God doesn't. We hear even men say that they don't like the Bible because it tells in such plain language all about sin. Yes and it reveals the sins of its best characters, but you never once find God passing lightly over sin.

"Let me say that the year of Jubilee is here. Your old master has no power to hold you longer. Your emancipation proclamation was signed and sealed in blood 2,000 years ago and today you are free by virtue of that proclamation. Realise your freedom, reckon yourselves dead to sin and alive to God. Go out to live the pure, true, strong life of the sons of the king and as you reckon it so will it become true in your experience."

CHILD'S BURNS FATAL.

Burning of Girl Near Jenkins Results in Her Death.

Brainerd, Minn., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The burns of Nina, the 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Wilcox of Jenkins, Crow Wing county, received Friday, as told in Saturday's Herald, proved fatal. Deputy Coroner Mooney has returned from investigating the case and finds the facts substantially as reported in The Herald.

The child and a sister a little older, were left alone in the house while the mother went to the home of a neighbor. When she returned she found little Nina on the floor near the door, dead, her clothing still in flames.

From the other little one it was gathered that they got a jug of kerosene and spilled some of it on their clothes and also tried to pour some of it onto the fire, when it caught and set fire to little Nina's clothes. She apparently crawled into bed and then got out and started to the door to find her mother, when she dropped on the floor and expired.

PRAYER VS. THE SALOON

"Hell Cannot Prevail Against a Kneeling Woman," Says Howard.

"The Little Giant" Delights Two Audiences With Addresses.

Clinton N. Howard of Rochester, N. Y., "the little giant," addressed two large audiences in Duluth yesterday. In the afternoon, he spoke at the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A., his subject being, "How to Fill the Dinner Pail." In the evening at Grace M. E. church, he gave a section of his famous speech, "A Joy Ride on the Waterwagon."

In speaking at the church of the war on the saloon, he said:

"All the prayers are on our side and all piled up machinations of hell cannot gain the day against a kneeling woman."

Mr. Howard is a Prohibitionist politically, and believes that the final settlement of the question can come only through a government united against the saloon and a party in power that will stand back of the law that closes the brewery and distillery.

"The tremendous fact that womanhood and motherhood, youth and old age, young men and boys and the manhood of the country are praying for the prohibition of this evil and none are found lifting a voice in prayer for more saloons or for the life of those already in existence, is that deep underlying reason for the water wagon rushing along faster than any other moving thing and it will move through Minnesota on towards Washington, its destination," said Mr. Howard.

The crowd at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon, was one of the largest of the winter and the lecture was one of the most enjoyable of the series. Mr. Howard's address was teeming with good humor. As he later explained, he kept their mouths open with laughter, so that he could hurl the truth in.

He said that the problem of the overworked and the underfed is as yet unsolved. He stated that despite all the progress of the world, the great problem of the underfed remains a stumbling block for the entire nation. Mr. Howard said that pig had taken the place of turkey on the working man's Thanksgiving table and that instead of a large dinner pail, the working man carries a small lunch done up in a newspaper. This he says is because they have no longer the food with which to fill a dinner pail.

Mr. Howard said that times had changed greatly. Once the whistle at the noon hour was the signal for the men to gather together and eat, smoke and talk. Now each one steals away to his own corner so that his fellow workers will not see what a miserable lunch is under the string and newspaper.

"Who fills the dinner pail?" he asked. "The workingman doesn't, never did and never will fill that pail. Who, then, does fill it?

"Everything in that pail from bottom to lid comes out of the soil, comes from the farmer and the farmer fills the pail.

"Every occupation on earth can go on a strike and we can live," he continued, "but let the farmer go on strike and we go into the grave. We've been neglecting the soil from which we all come, and whither we must all go. Back to the soil we must go, and that is the solution of how to fill the dinner pail.

"The farmer and the soil are the foundation of all our industrial prosperity in this country. In Wall street there isn't a stock that does not fluctuate with the corn crop of Missouri and Kansas, and the wheat crop of Minnesota and the Dakotas.

"Why are we a prosperous people? It isn't because we have Duluth, Rochester and Chicago. I tell you the big cities of the country would have put us in the poor house long ago, if it had not been for the farmers.

"There was $111,000,000 of gold coined in the world last year, but it would only buy one-fourth of America's corn crop during the year. Take all the world's mineral wealth of the year, and it would buy only one-fourth of the wheat the American farmer took from the soil last year. A prosperous farmer means a full dinner pail."

HILL CITY GETS AN ARMOUR PLANT

Hill City, Minn., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The citizens of this growing young town are elated over the good news that Armour & Co. of Chicago have closed a deal which means the establishment at this place of large factories for the manufacture of lard pails and other packages for their own use.

This part of their business has been carried on at Ithaca and Marble, Mich., but the supply of hardwood having been about exhausted in Michigan they have been looking about for several months for a new location where the quantity of hardwood needed for their business was satisfactory. They have found such a body of timber around this village, sufficient for their needs for twenty-five years, and will at once remove their factories from Michigan and consolidate them here.

As a part of the deal they acquire a large part of the townsite of Hill City and all the property of the Hill City Woodenware company. They will remove their entire factory from the Michigan factories, consisting of about 175 men with their families. Work on the erection of factories and the building of at least 100 new houses will be commenced at once.

STATE WILL CARE FOR HIS SIX CHILDREN.

Judge Ensign in juvenile court Saturday afternoon, made the six children of John Sapan of Eveleth, wards of the state of Minnesota. They were sent to the state school at Owatonna. Sapan has disappeared with the savings of the family, amounting to about $800. It is thought that he has gone to Austria. There were eight children in all. The mother will care for the youngest which is 2 years old and the oldest which is 11.

Seeks Damages For Blow.

St. Cloud, Minn., Feb. 7.—Paul Pierskalla of Avon, Minn., has commenced an action in district court against Fred Postweiler of the same place for the recovery of $10,600 damages which the plaintiff claims to have sustained from injuries on his head inflicted by Postweiler.

SEALED DOOM OF THE GODS

Advent of Science Ended Many Old Religious Superstitions, Says Pastor.

"Theologies Come and Go, But Religion Goes on Forever."

"Only with the advent of science there begins the real doom of the gods," said Rev. George R. Gebauer, in a sermon preached at the First Unitarian church, yesterday morning. "Not only was the doom of the gods of heathendom sealed, but also the cruder God conception of Christendom. When Newton made known his law of gravitation the angels in Heaven lost their job of trundling about Jupiter and Venus and Mars and of looking after the constellations. There seemed no reason for even the exsitence of such beings in a world of automatic contrivances. And indeed to many, it seemed perhaps as if the Lord God himself had become a supernumerary. The simple natural law to them became sufficient to explain everything.

In our own day the one great discovery which above all else has turned men from conventional theology, was the law of evolution proclaimed by the great thinkers of the last century. It the Copernican system and the law of gravitation ousted gods and angels and made the earth like a speck of dust in an infinite world, this new theory appeared to make an end of man's position as the darling of Jehovah fashioned after his own likeness. It is hardly to be wondered at that the church looked at this doctrine with unqualified horror. The God of Eden was no more; no longer was there even a Heavenly Father watching from his dwelling above the fall of a sparrow; yes for heaven itself there seemed to be no place in the infinite heavens. To modern man as to Faust, science in its search for truth had destroyed the beautiful world. But this beautiful world of the childhood of humanity after all passed only away to make room for a greater, grander world, for a greater, and grander God, for a spiritual world in which no angels are needed. After all, while theologies may come and go, religion goes on forever and new religious conceptions arise to take the place of those which were destroyed. Gods may come and go, and one God even may become obsolete, but God, the spiritual essence and conception of the universe lives on forever. Yes out of man's soul, enlightened by reason, a new God has arisen. It is no longer the God who whirls the world about his fingers. It is not the God who needs angelic hosts to do his work. It is not even the God in whom we live and move and have our being, but it is God who lives and moves and has his being in us, as well as we in him. It is not the God who in loving care watches the sparrows fall and sees with tender look the lily grow, but it is God, who grows in the lily and falls in the sparrow. It is not the God who demands our sacrifice and eagerly waits for our prayer and praise, but it is God who is in our prayer, praise and sacrifice. It is in man that God beholds himself; it is in man that spirit with spirit can speak, little matter if there be angels or no. And God above all is in those highest aspirations after what is true and good and noble, in every whispering of love, in every law and institution that serves to lift man on high. Yes infinitely more secred to us should be the dictates of our divine conscience, enlightened by a divine reason, than laws on tablets of stone that scripture tells were handed to Moses by the Almighty Jehovah. In hearts of men, God has written his statutes and woe be to him who transgresses the law of God in the heart, and pity for him who has to look for the divine laws in holy scripture and sacred catechisms. Too often the mistake is made, that because our morality is a thing of natural growth, therefore it has no more sacredness than a fashion which changes with the season. No, just because it is natural, just because it has developed through countless ages, therefore it is divine and it is our duty not to treat it lightly, but with holy hands raise it higher and higher. He who has found the law of God in his own heart and obeys its dictates, such a one alone is free, is a son of God. He can say with Saint Augustine, 'love God and do as you please'; do as you please, as with the love of God in your heart you will please to do what is lovely and good and godlike."

BURY LIGHTNING VICTIMS.

Bodies of North Dakotans, Who Perished in Canada, Interred.

Mohall, N. D., Feb. 7.—The bodies of Ben Thompson and Ed. Thompson, who were killed by lightning at Willow Bunch, Can., July 7 last, have just been brought to this city and Saturday were buried in the Mohall cemetery. The fatal stroke of lightning descended upon the two men while they were en route to their claim with a third man named Mason. The two Thompson brothers were instantly killed, but Mason was only stunned. When he revived he took the bodies of the Thompson brothers a distance of twenty-five miles, thinking that there was some hope of restoring life.

STANLEY MAN KILLED.

Walking Beside Wagon Loaded With Coal When It Falls on Him.

Stanley, N. D., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—While walking at the side of a wagon loaded with coal, John Soreide of this place was almost instantly killed when the wagon slewed around on a sliding grade. It caught him in such a manner as to pin him underneath the load of coal, which was tipped over when the wagon slewed around. A young nephew was with him at the time, but scaped unhurt. Soreide was about 40. The remains were taken to Clarksfield, Minn., for burial.

COOK COUNTY VOTES DOWN COURTHOUSE.

Grand Marais, Minn., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The voters of Cook county decided Saturday they did not want a new courthouse at this time; at least, they voted down the proposition at the special election Saturday of issuing bonds for that purpose. The proposition was lost by fourteen votes.

RATS FIRE A HOUSE.

Marinette, Wis., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The home of John Hess was totally destroyed by a fire caused by rats carrying matches into the walls of the building and igniting them.

AMERICAN BUILDING ROUNDLY DENOUNCED IN FEDERAL REPORT

country as a whole led the geological survey to make an inquiry as to fire losses in the United States and as to their exact cost to the people. Tests to determine the strength and fire resistance of building materials still are being made by the survey and, although these tests are resigned primarily to meet the needs of the government, as the largest consumer, their results are available to anyone for general use.

Not one person in a thousand knows that the United States government owns buildings that cost more than $300,000,000 and is spending $20,000,000 a year for new buildings. It will be a surprise to everyone, too, to learn that not one cent of insurance against loss by fire is carried on these valuable buildings. Insurance at the ordinary rate would cost more than half a million dollars a year, and the government avoids this great tax by constructing buildings that are securely fireproof.

Security From Fire.

To attain this degree of security from fire for government buildings the government has gone to considerable expense, and the results obtained fully repay the outlay. From these tests to determine the strength and fire resistance of building materials it has been determined that American builders can with safety use cheaper fireproof materials than they do. It has been learned that the difference in cost between fireproof and inflammable buildings is less than generally supposed, and the officials predict that this difference will soon become so small that it will cease to encourage the construction of flimsy buildings. It has been found that three to six times the necessary amount of material is habitually used by American builders in structural work.

The necessity also is shown for better building codes in cities, and especially of a better enforcement of the codes already enacted if the present enormous fire losses are to be diminished.

Cost $456,485,000 in 1907.

After a careful investigation it has been determined that the total cost of fires in the United States in 1907, excluding that of forest fires and the marine losses (in themselves extensive) but including excess cost of fire protection due to bad construction and excess premiums over insurance paid, amounted to the enormous sum of over $456,485,000, a tax on the American people exceeding the total value of all the gold, silver, copper and petroleum produced in the United States in that year.

The cost of building construction in 1907 in forty-nine leading cities of the United States reporting a total population of less than 18,000,000, amounted to $661,976,286, and the cost of building construction for the entire country is conservatively estimated at $1,000,000,000.

Thus it will be seen that nearly one-half of the value of all the new buildings constructed within one year is destroyed by fire. The annual fire cost is greater than the value of the real property and improvements in either Maine, West Virginia, North Carolina, North Dakota, South Dakota, Alabama, Louisiana or Montana.

In addition to this waste of wealth and natural resources, 1,449 persons were killed and 5,654 were injured in fires in the United States in 1907.

Embodied In Report.

The geological survey's inquiry, which is embodied in a report entitled, "The Fire Tax and Waste of Structural Materials in the United States," prepared by H. M. Wilson and J. L. Cochrane of the survey, covered not only the value of property destroyed but also the cost of maintaining fire departments, the amount of insurance premiums paid less the amount returned, the cost of protective agencies, the additional cost of water supplies, and other elements of the fire loss.

The report gives the method of gathering the statistics collected, makes an analysis of the fire loss in city and country and on frame and brick buildings, and contains tables showing the increased cost of fire protection due to faulty construction.

The actual fire loss in the United States due to the destruction of buildings and their contents amounted to $215,084,709 in 1907. This was $2.51 loss per capita.

The per capita loss in the cities of the six leading European countries amounted to but 33 cents. Comparisons of the total cost of fires, which includes the items already stated, show that if buildings in the United States were as nearly fireproof as those in Europe the annual fire cost would be $90,000,000 instead of $456,000,000.

IS ATTACKED BY RAYNER

thorized by the constitutional provisions regarding postoffices.

Mr. Rayner took up a statement made by Mr. Burkett that the authority is found for the legislation under the general welfare clause. He declared that there is no general welfare clause in the Constitution as an independent grant of power, and that no text writer, no commentator and no court ever has announced the proposition that Senator Burkett contended for.

Refers to Roosevelt.

"I know the constitution under the last administration was in a state of collapse," said Mr. Rayner. "Upon a number of occasions upon this floor I attempted to show how it received blow after blow until it was almost sent staggering to its grave. The predecessor of our present president, whatever else may he may have been, was not a student of the constitution; he did not care for its restrictions, did not consider himself bound by its limitations. We have an occupant of that office now who is thoroughly familiar with the landmarks of his power; who, with his judicial temperament, will not only hold himself in equilibrium, but purposes to hold in proper balance the checks and safeguards of governmental power.

"He has never said in his messages to us under what grant of constitutional power he has proposed this important legislation. One thing I feel sure of, and that is that he will never regard the general welfare clause of the constitution as an independent grant of power.

Would Convert Government.

"Such an interpretation as this would convert us into a centralized government of inherent and unlimited functions; would sweep to oblivion the reserved rights of the state; would render the enumerated powers of the charter absolutely superfluous and unnecessary; would give congress the right to pass any legislation whatever that, in its arbitrary discretion or from political motives, it may determine upon; and, in my opinion, destroy the autonomy of the states and obliterate the inviolable declaration of the tenth amendment; would make such a gaping wound in the heart of the constitution that the blood that gave it life would wither in its veins."

EAST AGAIN SUFFERS FROM INTENSE COLD AND WINDY BLASTS

conscious to the floor. Before firemen could rescue them, all three had been burned, Mrs. Herzke fatally. Several waitresses were injured.

In the houses of the poor the suffering was intense throughout the night. More than 500 persons were sheltered last night in municipal lodging houses.

Hordes Seek Shelter.

In addition greater numbers than were driven to ask aid even during the great blizzard of twenty years ago were accommodated in the various charitable institutions.

Indications were for a continuance of the cold wave in its severest form. Along the Atlantic coast the wave of frigidity was felt to an extent not experienced for perhaps a decade, the combination of zero temperature with a gale so high not often being recorded.

New England Shivering.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 7.—All New England is shivering in the cold wave which blew down upon it yesterday from the Northwest. In this city from midnight until 8 o'clock the temperature was 3 deg. below zero. At sunrise the thermometer at Eastport, Me., marked 8 above; Nantucket, 2 above; Northfield, Vt., 14 below; Greenville, Me., 16 below; Portland, 2 below; Concord, N. H., 6 below; Hartford, 3 below, and Block Island, zero.

Two Frozen to Death.

Philadelphia, Feb. 7.—Extremely cold weather prevails today throughout Eastern Pennsylvania, New Yersey and Delaware. The bodies of two men were found on the street here during the night, both frozen to death. In the anthracite regions the temperature is under zero, and in some of the mountain sections the mercury fell to 10 degrees below. The minimum temperature in Philadelphia was 5 above zero at 7 a. m., the coldest here since Feb. 5, 1908.

Forty Mile Wind.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 7.—Pittsburg today experienced the coldest weather of the winter. The official thermometer recorded 2 above zero for eight hours. Outlying suburbs report an average of 10 degrees below zero. A forty-mile wind accompanied the cold.

Farmer Frozen to Death.

Wheeling, W. Va., Feb. 7.—In West Virginia official temperatures range from 2 degrees above zero to 10 below. At Morgantown a farmer was frozen to death on the road. The man's wagon tipped over and he was buried under heavy sacks. He could not move, and when found today he was frozen stiff.

Whole Atlantic Coast Affected.

Washington, Feb. 7.—Almost every state on the Atlantic seaboard from Maine to Florida is today experiencing the coldest weather they have had during the winter, while the temperature in the West and Northwest is growing warmer.

Canton, N. Y., at 8 o'clock this morning had a temperature that more nearly approximated the weather which exists at the North Pole than did any other place in the United States. At Canton the official thermometer of the weather bureau indicated 22 deg. below zero. The cold extends deep into the South, where tonight frost will be felt as far as Northern Florida.

Warmer weather is promised for tomorrow throughout this section, which today is wrapped in furs as never before this winter.

"LITTLE GIANT" PRESCRIPTION

Cures Rheumatism and Backache in a Hurry.

Doctors gave this its nick-name from its quick and powerful action on rheumatism and backache. It is said to be a positive cure. "Get one ounce of syrup of Sarsaparilla compound and one ounce of Toris compound. Then get half a pint of good whisky and put the other two ingredients into it. Take a tablespoonful of this mixture before each meal and at bed time. Shake the bottle before using." The good effects are felt immediately. This has cured hundreds here. Any druggist has these ingredients on hand or will quickly get them from his wholesale house.

ONCE NOTED JURIST DEAD

of appeals sitting at San Francisco in instructing his client to disobey an injunction against working certain mining ground, and was sentenced to the Alameda county Cal., county jail along with Alex McKenzie of North Dakota, who also had run afoul of the court's wrath. Dubose and McKenzie subsequently were pardoned.

Refused to Be Pardoned.

Judge Dubose demurred to accepting a pardon which would be admitting he had done wrong in telling his client to ignore a court order, and expressed his willingness to serve his sentence.

Since those stirring days the deceased has figured prominently in Alaskan litigation and was considered one of the best lawyers in the Far North, dividing his time between Nome, Seattle and New York.

Rex Beach's story, "The Spoilers," tells of the Alaskan mining litigation and contains characters carefully veiled but intended for the deceased, McKenzie and other figures prominent in those stirring times.

Judge Dubose once gave a Montana horse thief a dose of justice that attracted wide attention. He had sentenced the man in the district court at Choteau for a term of several years in the penitentiary. As the sheriff was leading the horse thief from the courtroom the new candidate for Deer Lodge yelled back to the judge: "I'll get you, you — — white-headed —— when I get out." The court ordered the sheriff to bring the prisoner back and then proceeded to add several years to his term, remarking, "You'll not get out quite as soon now to carry out your threat."

BRIQUETTING PLANT PROMISED KENMARE.

Kenmare, N. D., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—H. H. Soule of Minneapolis is here for the purpose of interesting Kenmare citizens in the establishment of a $100,000 briquetting plant. Kenmare is in the center of a rich lignite coal mining section, and the erection of a factory to briquet the lignite has been considered from time to time. Tests have been made of the lignite coal in several sections of the state and it is generally understood that the results obtained in the Kenmare coal has been the most satisfactory.

If the proposed factory is erected it will have a capacity of 250 tons of merchantable coal every day in the year.

Great Masticator Coming.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Horace Fletcher of New York, the author of "Fletcherizing" food in eating, will be the principal speaker at the seventh annual gathering of the Minnesota Health league in the parlors of the Wesley M. E. church here next Wednesday. The sessions will commence at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon and conclude with Mr. Fletcher's lecture in the evening.

GIN FOR THE KIDNEYS

Doctors agree that good, pure gin, when properly prescribed, is wonderful medicine for kidneys, liver and bladder. The one best prescription in which gin is used is given: "Six ounces good, pure gin, one-half ounce Murax compound, one-half ounce fluid extract Buchu." (Be sure to get the genuine Murax compound in original sealed package.) Any good druggist has it or can quickly get it. Shake bottle well each time and take one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal.

This should be taken at first sign of kidney trouble, pain in the back, frequent or highly colored urination, scalding urine, rheumatic pains in the joints, puffiness under the eyes, dimmed vision. The serious forms of kidney trouble are thus prevented.

Associated Charities to Join in War on White Slave Traffic.

May Have Next Conference of Corrections and Charities in Duluth.

The Associated Charities, at its meeting this morning at the courthouse, decided to take up the white slave question and do all in its power to assist the county attorney and others engaged in keeping the evil out of Duluth.

The agents of the organization will distribute circulars sent them from outside and will investigate all cases that come to their notice, besides gathering evidence against those accused.

A communication concerning the traffic in girls and women was received from the Women's federation and read before the meeting this morning. It called to the attention of the local organization the need of organized war, and asked co-operation in the work. A committee was appointed to compile a pamphlet containing the general laws of the state covering desertion, drunkenness and other common forms of lawbreaking. These will later be distributed throughout the city.

A communication was received asking the local society to send representatives to the conference of corrections and charities, to be held in Mankato. Miss Jean Poirier will attend the meeting and she was authorized to invite the delegates to the conference to hold their next year's meeting in Duluth. An effort will be made to bring the conference here when the annual convention of the Northeastern Teachers' association is held.

A protest was made against such old structures as the old Stewart livery barn on Second avenue east. A committee will protest to the council, the owners themselves and the board of public works and ask that the buildings be removed.

A number of cases were reported which have been investigated and found deserving of help.

A special meeting will be held in two weeks. At that time an effort will be made to have A. P. Cook, county poor superintendent to deliver an address.

The committee now in New York for the purpose of selecting a secretary for the Associated Charities has not yet made a report. It is likely that some one will be selected for the position, however, and that he will assume the duties of the office in about six weeks. The committee is composed of Bishop James McGolrick, Mrs. O. C. Hartman and E. A. Silberstein.

BARTENDER AN ACCOMPLICE?

Woodsman Claims He Was Held Up By Two Men in Saloon.

Steve A. Coughlan, a bartender in the Conley saloon on Broadway, who was arrested yesterday morning in connection with an alleged hold-up in the saloon Saturday night, pleaded not guilty of being an accomplice to the robber, when arraigned in police court today.

The case was adjourned and Coughlin is held at the county jail in default of $500 bail. Coughlin, according to the story told in court today, did not actually take the money from him, but acted as an accessory. The man claiming to be robbed is E. Erickson, a woodsman.

Erickson claims to have been relieved of a pocket book containing $25 in money and a railroad ticket to Minneapolis, by a stranger whom he met in another saloon. He described the man as being about 40 years old, with a dark moustache and a broken nose.

After the men had imbibed freely at the first saloon the stranger suggested that the proceed to Conley's place, which met with the approval of Erickson. Coughlin is said to have casually asked Erickson if he carried a gun, when he first came into the saloon. Erickson replied that he did not.

While Coughlin attracted his attention by leaning over his shoulder the other man extracted his wad, he claims. Erickson stated that he knew that with the odds of two to one against him, submission would be better than resistance. Erickson saw an opportunity to escape a few minutes later and took advantage of it. He hurried to the station and notified the police of the affair.

Coughlin was arrested soon afterwards.

FAILED TO SEND CHILDREN TO SCHOOL.

The first warrant charging a violation of the state compulsory education law, to be issued in Douglas county, was sworn out today by H. P. Peterson, state factory inspector, for the arrest of H. D. Annet of Hawthorne. The arrest followed.

It is claimed that Annet has children who should be attending school, but who who are not made to go, as required by law. Annet works in Superior, but has a home at Hawthorne. When arraigned in municipal court this morning, he pleaded not guilty.

BURGLAR DID NOT FINISH HIS WORK.

The attempt of a lone burglar to rob the residence of T. H. Sutherland of 1625 Hughitt avenue was frustrated last evening by the appearance of the housekeeper, Mrs. Jugberg, who has been taking care of the house during the absence of the Sunderland family.

The woman was called out during afternoon. When she returned in the evening, she heard someone upstairs. She called to the party who made no answer. The burglar started down the front stairway to make his escape. He lighted a match, giving the housekeeper a chance to see that he was not a member of the family.

The frightened woman ran across the street and called for assistance. When the police arrived the man had escaped. No losses were reported although the intruder had turned things upside town upstairs in a hurried search for valuables.

TWO ARE INJURED AT SUPERIOR SHIPYARDS.

John Wick, laborer at the shipyards, who was injured Saturday by a flying piece of broken emery wheel, will probably recover from his injuries. He was knocked insensible and severely lacerated about the face and hands. At the time of the accident, the man was sharpening a chisel on a grindstone.

Archie McKellar of 1110 North Fourth street, a blacksmith at the shipyards, slipped and fell on the frozen ground Saturday afternoon breaking his leg above the knee. He was taken to the hospital also. The accident happened shortly after the Wick accident.

Van Hise Will Lecture.

Charles R. Van Hise, president of the University of Wisconsin, is scheduled to give an address in Superior on "Conservatism" when he will be the guest of the local university society, March 18. It is probable that a banquet will be tendered the visiting educator.

LOCAL HORSEMEN PLAN SERIES OF ICE RACES.

Superior horsemen have arranged a series of ice races to be held on the bay track between Duluth and Superior, the first of the series to take place next Sunday. Three trophies are offered for the winners. A handsome loving cup, valued at $200, donated by the Union Nail company of Chicago, is the first prize. It must be won twice by the same horse before it becomes the permanent property of the owner.

BIG DELEGATION TO THE NATIONAL SKI TOURNEY.

It is expected that about twenty riders and other members of the Superior Ski club will attend the national tournament which will be held at Coleraine. Ten of the Superior riders are entered in the national event. The local ski enthusiasts are confident that either Ole or Gust Nordby and possibly some of the other riders will get away with some of the big prizes.

Conley-Perry Wedding.

The marriage of Miss Mary Conley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Conley of the East end to T. R. Perry of Seattle was solemnized Saturday at the St. Frances Zavier Catholic church, Rev. Father Eustace officiating. They left on a wedding tour to a number of the Western cities, and will be at home after April 1 at Seattle.

Accounts Satisfactory.

State Treasurer A. H. Dahl has completed the inspection of the accounts of the local office of the Wisconsin Grain and Warehouse commission. According to the state official all of the disbursements have been properly accounted for and the books are in good shape. Mr. Dahl returned to Madison yesterday.

Miss M. Hodge Resigns.

Miss Mary Hodge, superintendent of the Superior district of the Children's Home Finding association, who came to Superior from Oshkosh a few months ago, has resigned and the association is without a superintendent. State Supt. J. P. Dysart has not yet named her successor.

Cooper Will Talk.

A meeting, which will probably be largely attended by the Superior business men and a large number of Douglas county farmers, is scheduled for tomorrow evening at the Commercial club. Means of advancing the city's interest, by developing the surrounding sections will be discussed.

Among the speakers are George C. Cooper, owner of the finest herd of thoroughbred Guernsey cattle in this part of the county and William Knight of Bayfield county, who is an expert on fruit raising.

INSANE OVER LOVE AFFAIR

Disappointment Is Believed to Have Unbalanced Peter Walsh's Mind.

Peter Walsh will be examined in probate court this afternoon as to his sanity. He is 50 years old and is a native of Ireland although he has lived in the United States for a great number of years. He is said to be very filthy in his habits. The insanity is said to have been the result of disappointment in love.

Mrs. Liisa Maria Sukanen will also be examined. She has been a resident of Biwabik for a number of years and was brought to Duluth some days ago for an examination. The information was filed by her husband.

She threatens to shoot her husband, has tried a number of times to commit suicide and will do no cooking or attend properly to her children. She is 21 years old. Her affliction is supposed to be the result of overdoses of medicine.

Roosevelt on the Move.

Nimule, Uganda, Feb. 7.—The ten days' march to Gondokoro was begun by the Smithsonian African scientific expedition today. The first camp will be at the Assa river, twelve miles north of this place. The location of the camp site is good and it is well adapted to convenience of the explorers, but the path lies through an unpeopled district.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

AMERICAN WOMAN'S HUSBAND MAY BE ENGLAND'S NEXT PREMIER

MRS. L. V. HARCOURT AND CHILDREN.

It looks as though the American woman was to have another signal honor conferred on her indirectly. An American may be the wife of the next Premier of England. Asquith is dissatisfied with the uncertainty of party control in the newly elected Parliament and it is reported that he will withdraw and that Rt. Hon. Lewis Vernon Harcourt may take his place. Harcourt's wife was Mary Ethel Burns, daughter of the late Walter Burns of New York. Harcourt is 47 years old and is a son of the late Sir Wm. Harcourt. He is related to the Earl of Clarendon.

The only thrill equal to choosing the first valentine that is ever sent is the one that palpitates through your being as you unfold the first one that is ever sent to you. These two first pleasures are to be enjoyed this year by many people and there will be more who will endeavor to bring back the ecstacy of other days by repeating the fond and foolish performance, but the pleasure will not be as it was many years ago.

The custom of sending delicious bits of pale blue silk and frothy lace, floated over by unclad cherubs prodigally casting pink roses about—the whole very delicatessen—is an ancient and honorable one but the custom is about all that is ancient for the particular valentines that are offered for choice during 1910 are right up to the minute.

The alleged poetry that accompanies the valentines is about as poetical as it ever was and as for sentiment and kindly feeling and sweet appreciation, why—

"The rose is red, the violet's blue
Honey's sweet and so are you."

Is just as good today as it was when the great poetical genius who, as nearly as the official files assist, has gone to his grave unwept and unhonored to more or less extent, but not unsung if mere repetition is any sign to the contrary.

St. Valentine, the dear, pudgy old saint, is all right in his way, but one's enthusiasm fairly gallops along when one thinks of the unknown author of these two classic lines. He was a man who understood the common people. He did not couch his love in terms that only a Greek scholar would know. For his similes he did not go to things little known and less understood; he took the simple flowers of the florist's shop. He did not weary one with long drawn out harangues and arguments, but with exquisite brevity he came to the point. One can imagine the gulp of pleasure that clutched the breathing apparatus of the maiden who first received that tender valentine. Not but that many thousands will receive it again this year.

Valentine's day is not until Monday of next week, but choosing one is such vast importance that everyone who expects to be a messenger of Valentine on that day would better be about it.

A GREAT ADVANCE

Has Been Made for Suffrage, Says Mrs. Potter.

Mrs. Frances Squire Potter, the corresponding secretary of the National Women's Suffrage association, lectured in Chicago last week. Mrs. Potter will lecture Thursday and Friday evenings of this week at the assembly room of the Young Women's Christian association before the members of the Twentieth Century club:

"The movement is progressing splendidly," said Mrs. Potter, in an interview last Friday, speaking on the suffrage question. "The formation of a political party based on the equal suffrage platform in New York is but a hint of our strength. This was done almost entirely by women.

"One of the big politicians of New York declared that, so far as he could see, the preliminary work, dividing New York into wards was impossible. It was done in eight weeks, and within a fortnight the headquarters will open. The suffrage party is very independent financially.

"We are getting more support every day. The men are coming to our aid. This is true especially in the case of college men, who have been lecturing in our behalf. The objection of honest men toward giving women the power to vote is, I believe, founded merely on the fact that so much dirty work is met with in politics. New York's latest election was an excellent example of this.

"A point of great interest in the 'shirtwaist strike' is the drawing together of the suffrage and labor movements. American women have shown their strength in the hearty way they have taken the fight."

There is much interest in the local lectures as Mrs. Potter has come to be one of the leading speakers and writers for the cause. Her subject Thursday evening will be "Woman and Economics," and Friday evening she will talk on "The Boys and Girls of America."

JUNIOR BALL.

Laird Goodman Leads the March at University Party.

The junior ball, the most important event of the year, socially, at the state university was danced last Friday evening at the ballroom of the Masonic temple at Minneapolis. A Duluth student, Laird Goodman, was president of the ball association this year. The following notice from the Minneapolis Journal will be of interest to many Duluthians:

After a short musical program, a march was played and the long line formed under the balcony and, led by Laird Goodman, president of the Junior Ball association, and Miss Florence Winterer, wound its way over the large floor in the beautiful figures of the grand march. The silver of the class colors was carried out in the programs, the men receiving small silver match cases, in which were the program, names of the patrons and patronesses and the chairmen of the various committees and officers of the Junior Ball association. For the girls were small silver-bound booklets, engraved with the letters J. B. A. and the initials of the girl's name, and containing a small packet of powder papers.

Supper was served in the dining room, decorated in maroon and gold binding, which was hung from the corners to the large chandeliers. On the small tables were crimson and white tapers in crystal candlesticks. The guests retired to the dining room in two sets, one after the ninth and one after the fourteenth dance.

As it is the largest and most elaborate of university functions, the junior ball attracted many out-of-town guests, alumni and young people who have been students at the institution, and who have not lost their interest in college society.

A Waist Once More.

A black velvet coat with black satin belt is one of the newest styles, the coat fitted like a waist and much shorter than has been fashionable for the last year or two. This style is much more becoming to the woman with a small, round waist, but it is quite evident that small waists are once more to be desired, and if not provided by nature then the belt must be arranged to give the effect. This is done by the belt showing only at the back, then being slipped under the side pieces to show again just in front.

It is really remarkable how many inches are apparently done away with by this means; then the skirts of the coat are proportionately wide, and a band of fur, also immensely fashionable, adds again to the width and makes the waist line smaller by contrast. It is even rumored that hips are to be once more in evidence, but the rumor has not yet received such credence as will lead to having different corsets made, the hipless figure being altogether too popular to be dismissed so curtly.

THE EVENING STORY

AT THE HEEL OF THE D. A. & B.

By F. H. Lancaster.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

Walking east through Chestnut street, Brand had passed Independence hall and the custom house, and now stopped at a corner. A block or so to the south lay the freight depot of the D. A. & B. railroad, and also the office of the man who had sent for him. Brand was not quite sure that he was in any hurry to see this man. While he was a product of twentieth century commercialism, he was still young, and he was in love with a girl who had high ideals; moreover, he believed that he had a few ideals himself where honesty and fair play were concerned.

If Brand had been positive about his position on such fine drawn questions, he would not have had to stop at the corner. As it was, he did stop to think it over, forgetting that Independence hall was already behind him, had been behind him ever since he became second assistant freight agent with a yearning for promotion. And promotion was the biggest word in his directory. Not only because he was in love with a girl whose father recognized the value of promotion—and no other values—but because his yearning was fast becoming a keen hunger for the high places.

If Matthews wanted to see him about what he thought he wanted, it might mean an ugly squall in the prospects dawning on his horizon. It is one thing to shut your eyes and ears and say soothingly to your inmost self: "All right, all right;" it is another thing to stand up before a jury of your peers and say clearly: "I swear it is right." Brand, pausing, considered these things—then he walked on southward to meet the man waiting for him in the freight agent's office.

"You wanted to see me?" he said, easily.

"Yes." Matthews pushed aside some schedules, clapped both hands on the arms of his chair, and swung round. "I am instructed to send a man from this office to testify before that committee. I am going to send you; you are up on the rebate laws, and you'll know how to testify. You'll get your passes and leave tomorrow, and Chidsey will take care of you when you get there." He swung back to his desk, picked up a tariff sheet, and added: "It's a splendid chance; the D. A. & B. never forgets a friend. Go in and win."

And Brand thanked him and walked out.

It was true that he knew all about rebates, also true that he knew nothing good of them, but he knew that he had been selected because he would know just what not to know—and that the D. A. & B. would reward him for his ignorance.

But Brand was not yet ready to admit that he had been bought. He would go to Washington and look over the ground—and he would not say anything to her about it until he came back.

Brand went aboard the car, feeling genially sure that he would do the right thing by the D. A. & B. and everybody else. He meant, moveover, to have a double seat to himself as a deadhead should, but in this last he was disappointed. The train was crowded and he had to share seats with a mild, chin-whiskered little man, who smelled of good tobacco, and who politely tried to take up no more room than was necessary in the seat he had secured before Brand came in.

"Going far?" Brand asked. He was always ready to be civil.

"Only to Washington,' sir," the other answered, and then, as though feeling this rather curt, added: "I just ran up to Philadelphia for the day."

"Well,' Brand said, kindly, stooping from his heights, "I'm bound for Washington myself."

"Yes," the little man said, politely, and then with leisurely convictions and utterly without heat: "Well, sir, there will be a good many men going to Washington this week. To accomplish nothing, sir. To be brushed aside like gnats that may hum but cannot sting. Cannot sting, sir."

Brand looked alert: "You mean the committee?"

"Yes, sir; the committee that is going to put the railroads on a feather bed, sir."

"You think that the railroads have a good case?"

"No, sir; they have no case; they have a certainty, a dead certainty, sir."

Brand felt an unexplained relief. His testimony might not be needed. He considered the little man's emotionless summing up and said cheerfully:

"I suppose you are for the railroads?"

"On the contrary, sir. I am against them heart and hand."

"Why? You think that they do not play fair? You must admit that railroad men understand their business better than outsiders."

The other waved this aside with a slight motion of a very thin hand. "They are not gentlemen, sir. Not gentlemen," he replied, with perfect quietude.

Brand was astonished. He had heard all sorts of charges made against the railroads, but—"What part of the country are you from?" he asked, abruptly.

"From the South, sir. The cost of chartering a car has been recently jumped from $50 to $100. A syndicate of small shippers asked me to come on and see if anything could be done about it. I told them nothing could be done. I said: 'Gentlemen, a man may be tried justly by a jury of his peers; he can never be tried justly by himself.' "

"Still," Brand caught up quickly, "you came on."

"At my own expense, sir," the other returned, gently, "at my own expense."

Brand took the reproof with a protest: "Times are changing," he said, briefly.

"They are; yes, sir; in a way times are changing, very fast. But, sir, there never was, and there never will be a time that will refute the saying: 'The public is an ass and the sharpest rascal ride it.' The ass brays sometimes, and kicks sometimes, but the rascal rides on. No gentleman, sir," added the old man, quaintly; "no gentleman ever rides an ass."

Brand winced at the covert thrust. "Well,' he said, brusquely, "the gentleman is going out of fashion. What we ask of a man today is: How much money have you made? And if he can't answer that question satisfactorily, may the Lord have mercy on his soul."

"And if he can answer it satisfactorily," the other took up, with quiet humor, "you infer that he has no soul left for the Lord to bestow mercy upon? Pardon me, sir, but I think you are mistaken. I think a large per cent of our business men are honest gentlemen. This talk about universal corruption is cant, sir. All cant. And, my son, when a man begins to tell you that all men are rogues, set him down for a ready-made rascal, sir. A ready-made rascal." And having paused to see whether or not Brand had any resentment to indulge, the old gentleman made courteous excuse and retired to the smoker.

Brand had no resentment to indulge; in fact, he had not caught the flavor of the fine, old-vintaged insult he had swallowed

"Old fogy," he reflected. "But I guess he's right about the railroads having stacked the cards. The chances are that the only instructions that Chidsey will have for me will be to come chasing home. And I will have proved my good will to serve—"

But Chidsey had other orders. A man from Minnesota had been making trouble. What the D. A. & B. wanted was straightforward testimony to prove that it had not been discrinminating against the small shippers, and Brand, as first assistant freight agent, was to get in this testimony.

"But it's ridiculous," he said, rebelliously, to Chidsey "You know as well as I do how it is done."

"That's nothing," Chidsey said, cheerfully. "You are a D. A. & B. man, and you've got to stand by the D. A. & B. if you expect the D. A. & B. to stand by you. Go in and win."

And having calculated the profit and loss Brand went in—and won. He was a smart man, keen witted, and his testimony was all that the D. A. & B. could have asked for. When he stepped down he saw recognition of his ability in all men's faces; and in the recognition lay mirrored a home in Walnut street, with servants whose mere names he could not remember; autos and yachts and country seats, and everywhere mahogany and brass, mahogany and brass. Suddenly his gaze snapped and shrank back. It had encountered the slow smiling of a mild little man with chin whiskers, who seemed to be trying, politely, to take up no more room than was necessary. For an instant Brand seemed to hear a quiet voice saying: "A ready-made rascal, sir. A ready-made rascal," then he lifted his head and walked on, seeing long vistas of mahogany and brass, mahogany and brass.

WEST END

ASHLAND MINISTER TO HOLD REVIVAL SERIES.

Rev. Hjalmer Sodergren of Ashland, Wis., will be the principal speaker this week at a series of revival meetings which will be held every evening, except Saturday, at the First Swedish M. E. church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street. The first of the series will be held tomorrow evening.

CONCERT BY THE LADIES' AID SOCIETY.

A meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, will be held Wednesday forenoon at the church parlors, when Mrs. Emil Bjorlin will be the hostess. Arrangements for the twenty-fifth anniversary celebration to be held Thursday will be made at this time.

A good program has been arranged for the affair. A chorus of sixty voices, all members of the society, will give several selections. Only members of the society will take part on the program.

Lecture on Sweden.

Miss Hedwig Peterson, Scandinavian lecturer of Stockholm, Sweden, who is touring this country giving lectures, will be in Duluth this week.

While here, she will give two addresses under the auspices of the choir of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church and of the Orpheus Singing society. Both will be given at the Bethany church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street.

On Thursday evening Miss Peterson will give an illustrated lecture on "The Swedish-American in Sweden," and on the following night, she will give a pictured talk on "The Old and the New Stockholm."

The speaker has gained considerable prominence as a lecturer in her native land and it is expected that many will be attracted to hear her this week.

Alumni Will Meet.

A program will be given tomorrow evening by the Lincoln school alumni, at the school building, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Sixth street. It will include a recitation by Walter Emerson; piano duet by Harold Hanson and George Johnson; piano solo by Miss Theresa Fossum; vocal solo, Sidney Morterud; piano solo, Lucelle Gilbert. The committee preparing the entertainment is: Lucelle Hoar, Sadie Stevens and Cecil Gilleland.

Missionary Festival.

Illustrated lectures were given yesterday afternoon at the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street by representatives of the State Baptist Missionary society. Addresses were given by Rev. Frank Peterson, secretary for the State Missionary Union and Home Missions of America; Rev. B. R. Pope, superintendent of the Baptist missions for Minnesota; and Rev. W. E. Risinger of St. Paul, state Sunday school missionary. The men, who are making a tour of the state, left today for Brainerd, where they will speak tonight.

Officers Elected.

At the annual election of officers of the Grace M. E. church Sunday school yesterday, the following were named to serve during the ensuing year: R. R Forward, superintendent; W. L. Redgrove, assistant; Peter Gorman, secretary; Alexander Kennedy, treasurer; Miss Eva Adams, chorister; Miss Francis Berg and Ruby Gorman, pianists, and Mrs. R. D. Haven, organist.

West End Shortrails.

FAMILY COUGH SYRUP

Cures Any Cough in Five Hours. NEW PRESCRIPTION HERE.

Here is given the most effective cough prescription known to the medical world. It is a mild laxative, too, and this is what a body needs when suffering with cough and cold on the lungs. A cough or cold indicates poisons in the system, causing inflammation and congestion. Nearly all cough syrups relieve, but make the trouble worse by their constipating effects. This prescription not only relieves quickly, but it cures any cough that is curable. Get one-half ounce fluid wild cherry bark, one ounce compound essence cardiol and three ounces syrup white pine compound. Mix in a bottle. Take for acute cough or bronchitis twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then one-half to one teaspoonful every three or four times daily. Give children less according to age. A few hours' treatment will cure and heal the throat and lungs of all but consumptives. Cut this out and give it to some friend who may need it to be saved from an early death by consumption.

COMMERCIAL CLUB ACTIVITIES

FRESH FISH ARE SCARCE

Easier to Buy Product of Lake in Inland Towns Than in Duluth.

Rents and Product Prices Causes of High Cost of Living.

Why is it that Dulth cannot get fish cheaply, when it is located on the greatest body of fresh water in the world?

"If you go to the manager of a big wholesale fish firm, show him you are a thirty-second degree Mason, wig-wag him the lodge sign, and hand him the full price, he may slip you a fish when the office force isn't looking," said a facetious member of the Commercial club today. "But if you are just a plain citizen and go into the market trying to buy a fish for dinner, you won't be able to get a fresh one, or at least a fresh white fish. It is easier to buy fresh white fish in Podunk Center, Iowa, or down in Pittsburg, Pa., or almost any inland town, than it is right here in Duluth. Why is that the case? I believe that it is a fair subject for the public affairs committee to take up, in connection with this cost of living problem."

The committee which is at work on the cost of living statistics, has not yet presented its report, and will probably not do so for several weeks to come.

The statistics gathered, it is claimed, show that about the only difference between Duluth and other cities is in rents and farm produce, such as butter, eggs, poultry, vegetables and green stuff, Duluth is paying more than other cities. It is hoped that the proposed garden company will solve this problem and give Duluth farm produce fresh and as cheap as any other city can secure it.

WILL MODIFY ORIGINAL PLAN

Market Garden Project May Yet Be Made Attractive Investment.

At the next meeting of the public affairs committee of the Commercial club, a modified plan for the construction of a suburban electric railroad and the establishment of a market garden "unit" in the district north of Woodland, will probably be adopted.

A committee has been at work on the plan for shortening the road to approximately four miles and to serve only the lands owned by the garden company. If the owners of land beyond the proposed terminus want it extended, they will have to guarantee the owners against loss for a certain length of time.

It is believed that the modified plan will present an attractive investment and can be financed.

The date for the meeting has not yet been set, but it is not likely it will be held this week, owing to the many meetings planned for Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the club.

ORGANIZATION TO BE EFFECTED

Co-operative Market Association Will Be Formed at Meeting Thursday

On Thursday, Feb. 10, the permanent organization of the Producers' Co-operative Market Association of Duluth, will be effected at a meeting to be held at the Commercial club.

At the last meeting of the County club held here last month, a temporary organization was formed, and the delegates from the various farmers' clubs were instructed to return to their homes and secure the approval of the clubs to plan suggested, or recommend changes to it. These delegates, or others, will return to Duluth Thursday authorized to act for their respective clubs, and the permanent organization of the market association will be made.

The plan of the organization has already been outlined in The Herald and it is not believed there will be many changes in it.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR VISITORS

Big Crowd Is Expected on Excursion Over Brooten Branch of Soo.

At least 500 future customers of Duluth jobbing houses and manufacturers are expected in Duluth Friday at noon, when the excursion from Brooten over the new branch of the Soo railroad will reach the city.

All the territory along the newly completed line is directly tributary to Duluth, and Duluth jobbers are anxious to cover it. Every effort will be made to make the stay of the visitors enjoyable. They will be met at the train by a band, and a reception will be held for them in the afternoon at the Commercial club.

The jobbers will entertain the visitors at he ski tournament Saturday afternoon, and they will return to their homes at 6 o'clock Saturday evening.

LECTURE BY McGUIRE.

Superintendent of State Experiment Station to Speak at the Y. M. C. A.

The next lecture in the course being given by the Commercial club and the Y. M. C. A. will be by Prof. A. J. McGuire of the Grand Rapids experiment station. It will be delivered next Friday evening at the lecture room of the Y. M. C. A., and the subject will be "Land Clearing and Stump Blowing."

These lectures are free and are open to the public. Admission is by ticket, but the tickets may be secured either at the Y. M. C. A. or the Commercial club.

Meetings at the Club.

The Jobbers' Credit association will hold its regular monthly meeting and dinner tomorrow evening at the Commercial club.

* * *

The St. Louis County Medical sosiety will hold its monthly meeting and dinner Thursday evening at the Commercial club.

* * *

The Northwestern Paint club will meet Friday evening at the Commercial club.

OBITUARY

Rev. Dr. Edward Lord Clark, divine and Egyptologist, died suddenly at his home in Boston, Mass., Feb. 5. He was 72 years old. Charles P. Clark, late president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, was his brother.

Rev. G. D. Lee, L. L. D., for thirty-four years pastor of Vermont avenue Baptist church in Washington, one of the largest negro congregations in the United States, died in Washington, Feb. 6. He was a member of the National Baptist convention.

J. F. Barnard, well known for many years as a railroad executive, died in Los Angeles, Feb. 6. Until 1886 Mr. Barnard was general manager of the Burlington & Southwestern railroad and later president of the Ohio & Mississippi Railroad company. He was 81 years old.

Simon Burns, a widely known labor leader, died in Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 6. The exact nature of this illness has not been determined. He was 54 years old.

W. G. Cameron, editor of the Winona Republican Herald dropped dead Saturday night while seated in the opera house during a concert of the Winona Symphony orchestra. The coroner pronounced death due to heart failure. It is believed the death Saturday of William H. Laird in Baltimore, one of his staunchest friends, came as such a shock that it brought on his death. He wrote the editorial in Saturday's paper on Mr. Laird's death. He was 75 years old and is survived only by his wife.

Mr. Cameron was one of the prominent newspaper editors of the Northwest. For the past five years he was editor of the Republican-Herald. He came here fifteen years ago from Saginaw, Mich., where he held the editorial chair on the Saginaw Courier-Herald. He had also been editor of the old Winona Herald and the Austin, Minn., Herald. For a brief period, a number of years back, he was publisher of the Arcadia, Wis., Leader.

Prof. Martin E. Kenburg, the Swedish scientist who, on being arrested in London last fall, charged with complicity in several bomb outrages in Sweden, became temporarily insane but was later committed for extradition to Sweden, died suddenly in Brixton jail, London, Feb. 7. The cause of his death is officially attributed to apoplexy.

Miss Laura Allen, at one time well-known in the West as an author, and whose father presented Central park to Decatur, Ill., is dead of starvation in the asylum on Ward's Island, N. Y. She had been in the hospital for a year but of late had persistently refused to eat. She was 67 years old.

Mrs. John H. Given, 81 years old, mother of Mrs. Eugene Bryan of St. Paul, died at Des Moines, Iowa, Feb. 5. She was a pioneer resident, having come to Des Moines when it was a small village. She was also the mother of the wife of Col. Al W. Swalm, United States consul at Southampton, Eng.

Saved From Awful Peril.

"I never felt so near my grave," writes Lewis Chamblin, of Manchester, Ohio, R. R. No. 3, "as when a frightful cough and lung trouble pulled me down to 115 pounds in spite of many remedies and the best doctors. And that I am alive today is due solely to Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me. Now I weigh 160 pounds and can work hard. It also cured my four children of croup." Infallible for Coughs and Colds, its the most certain remedy for La Grippe, Asthma, desperate lung trouble and all bronchial affections, 50c and $1.00. A trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all druggists.

IMPUDENCE REBUKED.

The by-election of a congressman in the Sixth Missouri district, which took place the other day, didn't attract widespread notice, and it deserves more attention than it got.

This is the district unhappily made vacant by the death of the patriotic and valuable David DeArmond, Democrat. Though he stood high in the councils of his party and in the confidence of the nation, DeArmond never had been elected by large pluralities, and the district is only nominally Democratic. Knowing this, the Republican organization plucked up courage—too much courage for its own good, as the result showed—and nominated a man devoted to Aldrich and Cannon; a man who swore with Taft that the new tariff law is a triumph of democracy and the best law ever devised in all the history of civilization, a law that in its achievements for humanity put Magna Charta and the Declaration of Independence in obscurity. That was the kind of congressman the Republican organization wished to add to its forces in congress, and that was the kind of candidate the local organization put up.

The Democrats, on the other hand, put up a progressive candidate; and by the way, that is the label that counts, these days, more than the older labels of "Republican" or "Democrat"; and the fact that it counts so much is the rosiest sign of promise upon the political horizon. The people want results, not party prestige; they want relief, not personal or party glory: so they are voting, and will continue to vote, for the men that will gain results that will give the people relief, no matter whether these men happen to bear one party label or the other.

The outcome in the Sixth congressional district of Missouri showed how earnest the people are in that desire and that purpose. The Cannon Republican was beaten overwhelmingly, and the progressive Democrat won by an abnormally large plurality. Another aspiring statesman who wished to add his vote to the organization upon whose subserviency the power of Cannon is based was requested to stay at home, and another citizen who wishes to do his best for the common good was added to the roll call of congress.

The issue in that election was squarely and directly national. It was progress against reaction, and progress won; it was democracy against the Cannon despotism, and democracy won; it was government by and for the people against government by and for Special Privilege, and government by and for the people won.

This result opens the year most auspiciously. Before it is closed there will be an election in every congressional district in the country. There will be fights in both parties for the nominations between progressives and reactionaries. If the reactionaries win in either party, there will be fights for election between reactionaries and progressives. In many districts the party bosses control nominations, but in every district the people control the elections. If they vote squarely for progressives, whatever their party labels, progress will win the house away from despotism and reaction. Only through blind voting of a party ticket can the reactionaries hope to win.

The Herald hopes that in every district the progressives of both parties win the nominations, and where they do, that the better man of the two is elected, whatever his party. It hopes that where one party nominates a reactionary and the other a progressive, the progressive will win. It believes that this expresses the hope of the vast majority of the people of both parties; and it believes that when it says that it is not at all important whether the progressives call themselves Republicans or Democrats, it again voices the sentiment of the people.

THE CRIME OF NEGLECT.

The other day The Herald published on this page a story about how grandma fell down the well and how everybody talked about what an outrage it was that grandma wasn't taken out but passed the job on to somebody else until grandma nearly died of old age—still in the well.

Details from a bulletin of the United States geological survey, showing the extent of the fire tax and the waste of structural materials in the United States, are published elsewhere in The Herald tonight, and they make up a case decidedly in point.

Fire in this country levies a tax of almost a million and a half dollars a day and 1,449 lives a year. If this tax were caused by the stupid neglect of a public official, he would be compelled to fly from the country for his life. But it is caused by the stupid neglect of the entire nation, so everybody tells about how terrible it is, and nothing much is done about it. Meanwhile, grandma is still in the well.

A very large proportion of this terrible tax upon wealth and human life is due solely to neglect of one sort or another. That neglect is confined to this country, for the figures show that the fire loss in this country is eight times as much per capita as it is in any country in Europe.

The geological survey also states that cheaper fireproof materials can be used to advantage in construction; that three to six times the necessary amount of material habitually is used in structural work in this country; that the building codes are laxly enforced; and that the great fire loss in this country is due principally to the predominance of frame buildings and to defective construction and equipment. These are unquestioned facts, and in all the years that F. W. Fitzpatrick, formerly of Duluth but now of Washington, has devoted to educating the public along these lines, nobody has questioned them. Everybody has submitted to being duly shocked, and has remarked mildly how terrible it all is; but nothing much is done about it, and grandma remains in the well.

It is interesting to note from this report that the United States government sets a good example. If it carried insurance, it would pay half a million dollars a year for it; but it builds fireproof buildings and thus saves the insurance, not to speak of the inevitable loss over and above the insurance policies in the waste and loss of time involved in replacing burned buildings with new. On the other hand few besides the government show so much sense; and the result is that in 1907, the year covered by the report, the cost of fires in this country, exclusive of forest and marine fires but inclusive of the excess cost of fire protection due to bad construction and excess premiums over insurance paid, amounted to the enormous sum of $456,485,000, a tax on the American people exceeding the total value of all the gold, silver, copper and petroleum produced in the United States in that year. The loss amounts to nearly half the value of all the new buildings constructed in a year. The actual fire loss in 1907 was $2.51 per capita, and in the cities of the six leading European countries the per capita loss was but 33 cents.

THE COMMON INTEREST.

The spirit that will keep Northern Minnesota forging ahead, that will overcome all obstacles and overthrow all handicaps, is the spirit of a common interest such as that displayed by W. R. Mackenzie of Bemidji, chairman of the Northern Minnesota Development association, when he said in an interview telegraphed to The Herald Saturday: "I believe that the time is not far distant when it will be shown that the ultimate market of Northern Minnesota is Duluth. The interests of Duluth are identical with those of this entire northern section. Her sympathies are with us, and we owe it to the Zenith City to co-operate for our mutual benefit." If that typifies the spirit of the gathering to be held Feb. 17 and 18 at Bemidji, it will crystalize Northern Minnesota sentiment into an effective force that will make it historic.

A FINE PUBLIC SERVICE.

Those who make it possible for the people to see good pictures, like those who make it possible for the people to hear good music, are doing a splendid public service. Therefore, warmest congratulations to Bishop McGolrick and those who are, with him, arranging an art exhibition to be held the last of March in the halls and rooms of the upper floor of the new courthouse.

Some time Duluth may have an art gallery in which some of the world's best pictures will be enshrined. Then the growth of mind and soul that comes from the inspiration of good pictures will be a common and delightful experience. That time, however, is probably far away; and in the meantime the people may have only fleeting glimpses of good pictures. In the average home good pictures are, of course, very rare; though there is no reason why every average home should not contain one or more good prints, copies of pictures whose high value places the originals beyond the reach of all but a few. But no matter how far society may go with its proposed equalization of prosperity, the time never will come when the ordinary household can afford to illuminate its walls with masterpieces. The time may come, however, when every community will have its art gallery, and when it will be as grievous a public offense to horde Titians and Rembrandts and Corots and Correggios as it is now to horde wheat in times of famine.

Success, therefore, to the coming art exhibition. It deserves the best efforts of all who may be called upon to contribute to its promotion.

THE VOTE ON THE AMENDMENTS.

Analyses of the vote at the recent election that are more or less ingenious, more or less disingenuous, and more or less well informed, are being made to show two things: first, that the Chan Smith amendment failed of adoption because of the neglect of the voters; second, that it is impossible to get proper results when amendments are submitted to a general election, and that they should be considered only at special elections.

The Chan Smith amendments were rejected decisively because the people didn't want them. The statement of the morning paper that 1,408 voters failed to vote upon them is an error. In point of fact, 1,408 people failed to vote on the lavender ballot at all, while 1,790 failed to vote on any of the charter amendments, nearly 400 having voted only on the bond issue. On amendment No. 8, second of the Chan Smith amendments, 2,858 failed to vote, and on the ninth amendment 2,979 failed to vote. But had every one of those who voted at the election and failed to vote on amendment No. 8 voted "yes" on that amendment, it still would have failed of adoption. If all who failed to vote on amendment No. 9 had voted "yes" it would have carried by thirty-six votes; yet there were 3,456 votes against it and only 2,295 for it, and if every one had voted upon it and the same proportion had held good, the result would have been 3,492 for and 5,238 against.

The friends of the Chan Smith amendments, the brave and faint-hearted alike, have no cause for criticism of the intelligence exercised by the voters. There is nothing in the result discreditable to the public spirit of the citizens of Duluth. Three of the best amendments were adopted, and the worst three were defeated; and that, with a ballot so long and co complicated, is a very creditable showing. Except in cases of great emergency, the general election is the proper place to submit charter amendments. At special elections, if the public is as unintelligent as present critics would have us believe, all the amendments, good and bad alike, would be adopted without proper discrimination.

As to the Chan Smith amendments, the last should have been heard of them by this time. The good there was in them has been brought into fruition by the adoption of the charter commission's amendment requiring the city to pave street intersections. The other provisions have been decisively beaten twice, and while full credit for good intentions may freely be given to their outspoken advocates, the city has shown plainly enough that it has no idea of experimenting with them, and they should be dropped.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about live topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

REPLIES TO MR. YOUNG.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Please allow me a small space in the open court in reply to Mr. Young's article in The Herald the other night.

I think it is by far the poorest excuse for the present high cost of living I have seen and should not weigh very heavily on the minds of already burdened people.

If Mr. Young knew about cheap stews and soup bones as poor people do, he'd likely regard even those as luxuries, for we cannot have them every day in our home. We are five in the family, and I am earning an average laborer's wages. It is a bit amusing, too, to hear how you can live so well and still so cheaply. Why, it comes almost next to nothing except for the hot air that is in it. Guess the packers don't pay any refrigerator charges on that. It brings to poor people a mixed feeling (mostly anger) to be shown what they have missed, until seeing Mr. Young's article on saving, cooking and mixing. The latter I should judge is the most important of all. You can mix leftovers or anything with something and have a swell dish. As to the original meal in the first place, O well, all you have to do is to go to the nearest "market," ask for two pounds of nice meat, (no, that's wrong) two pounds of nice ribs or two of nice stew or two pounds of nice boiling beef for about 6 cents per pound. Two pounds are more than enough for any good-sized family, providing you know how to select your vegetables. Hence the left-overs. Now I don't know how those two pounds of meat for 6 or 8 cents per pound, according to Mr. Young, is going to be "nice" unless The Herald uses those colored types, such as they use about Christmas time. They cheer, you know.

DO AS ROMANS DO.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I don't think the Y. M. C. A. has been given a fair show on all this talk about cigarette smokers. I live at the Y. M. C. A. and I smoke cigarettes—outside the building—when I want to. When I want to smoke in the building, I use a pipe in my room. Against this there is no complaint. If I don't want to live up to the rules made by the association, I can move out, but as long as I stay in the building, I intend to live up to the rules. The Y. M. C. A. officers could not do anything else but enforce this rule. There is a state law against the sale of cigarettes, and the Y. M. C. A. could not afford to countenance any violation of the state law, even indirectly, in the building. It is all very well to shout about personal liberty and all that sort of thing, but when you are in Rome you should try to do as Romans do. The Y. M. C. A. officers were perfectly right in the stand they took, from their standpoint, and while I fail to see the harm in cigarette smoking for a man who is of the age of discretion—provided he ever reaches that age, of course—I intend to obey the house rules at the building. The only thing for the men who don't feel that way to do, is to get out, and quit a rather foolish agitation.

The Lady.

Life: The lady of the establishment was getting ready to go out.

Word was passed out to the garage, and the chauffeur saw that the clock in the car was wound up, that the electric heating apparatus was in condition and ready to turn on, that the writing pad was in place, and that not a particle of dust was on the seats.

The head butler, the under butler, the grooms and the hall maid were all notified.

Two ladies' maids passed upstairs. One put on the lady's shoes. The other hooked her up. They ran back and forth bringing her things. Flowers, delicate perfumes, laces, plumes, jewels—everything that a lady needs when she goes out—were all there.

The investment, including these articles of value, amounted to $200,000.

The cost of having the lady go out, including fixed charges, wear and tear, labor, interest account and a proper sum charged off to the sinking fund, amounted to $100.04.

The head butler went back into his province and lighted his pipe. The maids refreshed themselves with tea. The others settled back and read the afternoon papers—waiting for her to come back.

The lady herself was the only object in the whole transaction who was absolutely valueless. She couldn't have earned $6 a month at any occupation. She had no market value. From every standpoint she was useless.

That is, from every standpoint except one—she furnished a vacuum around which money circulated.

The Millennium Maybe.

Bang! goes the price of milk,
Down go eggs;
Pork and lamb, beef and ham
Are shaking on their legs.
Zip! goes the butcher's knife
And chops his bills in two,
But the wise ones smile. "Let's wait awhile
And see if it is true."

"Help!" cries the Butter Trust,
"Don't shoot, please;
We are just about to bu'st,
See us on our knees."
"Wow" wails the Gas Trust,
"We stand on ruin's brink;
With low-priced gas we'll smash, alas!"
But the Common People wink.

"See," moans the Packing Trust,
"All meat is very low.
Your bills are more than e'er before!
Er—well—er—maybe so.
But just to make you satisfied,
The price still more we'll cut."
But the People grin; it sounds too thin,
Their answer is "Tut, tut!"

Oho! It all sounds lovely,
But Trusts are wily kine:
When signs appear that trouble's near
They always act benign.
It's great to hear their promises,
Their contrite, cringing tune;
But 'ware their guile; let's wait awhile;
We'd best not crow too soon.
—Paul West in New York World.

The New Woman.

Edwin Bjorkman in Collier's: We are, as always, in a period of transition; the old forms are falling away from us on every side. Concerning the new ones we are still uncertain and divided. Whether woman shall vote or not is not the main issue—she will do so sooner or later if it suits her. No, the imperative question confronting us is this: What are we to do that her life once more may be full and useful as it used to be? That question cannot be answered by anybody but herself. Furthermore, it can only be answered on the basis of actual experience. And urged onward by her never-failing power of intuition, woman has for once taken to experimenting. She has, if you please, become temporarily catabolic. But it means merely that she is seeking for new means to fulfill her nature, not for ways of violating it. And the best thing—nay, the only thing—man can do to help her is to stand aside and keep his faith, both in her and in life. Whether it be the franchise, or the running of railroads, or public offices, that her eager hands and still more eager soul should happen to reach out for, he must give her free way. All she wants is to find herself, and for this purpose she must try everything that once was foreign to her being; the trial over, she will instinctively and unfailingly pick out the right new things to do, and do them.

"Late, Late, Too Late."

Philadelphia North American: It would be interesting to get Mr. Bryan's opinion on the proposal to change the presidential inaugural to a later date. But no doubt Mr. Bryan thinks that the date is late enough already.

THE WEATHER.

Beautiful weather conditions still prevail, and any man, woman or child who is not glad to be living in Duluth is not normal. Snow is lacking for perfect winter weather, but Duluth can well dispense with the snow while the sun is shining brightly and the air is crisp and clear.

A year ago today was cold, with the temperature rising.

The sun rose this morning at 7:25 and it will set at 5:20, giving nine hours and fifty-five minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"A cold wave of considerable intensity attends a high pressure area central over Middle Atlantic states and the Ohio valley. Zero temperatures prevail in New England and freezing weather extends southward to and including the Carolinas, Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee. The barometer continues high over Wyoming attended by zero temperature in that state. A depression central over Western Mexico has caused rain throughout Eastern Texas. Another disturbance which overlies Manitoba has caused milder weather in the western lake region and Upper Mississippi and Lower Missouri valleys.

"Indications favor a continuance of fair weather and only slight changes in temperature at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

Following are the maximum temperatures for the twenty-four hours and the minimum for twelve, ending at 7 a. m. today:

The Key to Heaven.

F. J. Leuriet in Atlantic Monthly: "Bill," said Jansen, "I'm goin' to ask you something." He closed the little book over one finger, and leaned towards the bunk. "Do you remember how you come to be hurted this way?"

"The spare spar that was lashed starboard fetched loose, an' I tried to stop it," answered the dying sailor readily. "I see it comin'."

"Why did you try to stop it?"

"Well, a big sea had just washed the Old Man down in the ice scuppers, an' if the spar had struck him it would ha' killed him."

"It's killed you, Bill," said Jansen. "Didn't you think o' that?"

"Me!" exclaimed Bill scornfully, "Who's me?"

"But why did you want to save his life?" insisted Jansen.

"The ship 'ud stand a likely chance in a blow like this without a skipper, wouldn't she?"

"Then you thought—"

"Thought nothin'! There was no time to think. I see the spar comin' an' I says, 'Blazes! That'll kill the skipper!' an' I tried to stop it.

"You ain't sorry you did it?"

"Sorry nothin'. What's done's done."

"See here, Bill," said old Jansen earnestly. "I'll tell you what you did. You did your duty! An' you laid down your life for another. You saved the captain's life, an' mebbe the ship an' all our lives through him. An' you did it without thought o' reward. Don't you s'pose you'll get a little credit for that?"

"I'm thinkin'," said Bill. He lay silent for a minute. "Read that again," he requested.

Old Jansen did so, and after a pause he added, "Now, if I was you I wouldn't worry no more about hell. Just make your mind as easy as you can. That's a better way to go."

"I've got that," said Bill. "It's all right. Go on; read to me some more."

Jansen lifted the book and resumed his reading. He turned the pages frequently, choosing passages with which he was familiar. The other moaned at intervals. With every roll of the ship, water splashed faintly underneath the bunks. The lantern swung unwearied and sodden clothing slapped against the walls. Dark shadows rose and stooped and rose again as if longing and afraid to peer into the narrow berth. The sound of the storm outside was grave and insistent.

The reader came to the end of a passage, and laid the book on his knee. Suddenly he realized that the moans had ceased. He leaned over and looked at the man in the bunk. He was dead.

The Boycott.

Take back those chops! I will not eat
One single ounce of trust-owned meat.
As for those eggs, I like them much,
But trust-owned eggs I will not touch.
Bread? Tempt me not; with bread I'm through,
For that a trust produces, too.
Potatoes? No, I cast them off;
At trust-owned vegetables I scoff.
A has the butter! That is made
By Standard Oil, I've heard it said.
Chicken? How dare you offer it!
'Tis all trust-owned, you must admit.
Tea? Well—but no; some trust, I think,
Controls each cup of tea we drink.
Besides, unsugared tea is flat,
And O, the Sugar Trust owns that!
Milk? No, I canot drink a drop;
The Milk Trust I must help to stop.
Water? No, not a single drab;
I'll help put down the water-grab.
Yea, though it kill me I'll refrain
From eating trust-owned food again.
Yet, what's the use? For if I die,
In trust-made casket must I lie.
And sleep my sleep, forever sound,
All lonesome, in the trust-owned
ground.
Still, my reward shall splendid be
If future folks shall speak of me
And say, with sobs that come in gusts:
"It killed him, but he beat the trusts!"
—Paul West in New York World.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

An option for the entire rights of the St. Louis River Water Power company, its lands, surveys and holdings of corporate gifts, given some time ago to leading New York and other capitalists interested by real estate holdings around Duluth, which expired Jan. 10 last, has been renewed. The option is for $1,000,000. Engineers have recently made surveys for the water power company. Among them is John Birkinbine of Philadelphia, who estimates the total available power, at lowest stages known, at 100,000-horse power. It is expected that the option will be taken up and the work of development begun at an early date.

The Duluth Boat club's reception and dance will take place at the Spalding next week. The committees are: Arrangements, L. J. Hopkins, George A. French, A. W. Fimple, A. S. Morgan and H. D. Pearsen; floor management, C. H. Eldridge, C. J. Kershaw, O. C. Hartman, H. F. Chandler and H. F. Totman.

The Young Men's club gave one of the most enjoyable dances of the series at Ingalls hall last night. Among those present were: Misses Stewart, Henry, Shick, Patterson, R. Patterson, Chitley, Jones, Krelwitz, Bowen, Mallman, Emerson, Pray, Coleman, Gilbert, Ralston, Butchart, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Sealey, Mrs. Henry, Mrs. Brown and Messrs. Speed, Barker, Ginder, Bowler, Ziegler, Brown, Laux, Siewert, Sherwood, Parker, Whittington, Henry, Strothman, Whitmore, Starkey, Butchart, Mallman, Ralston, Lint, Crombie, Harper, Jennings and Farrington.

Austin Terryberry, the architect, was married at St. Thomas, Ont., to Miss Hattie Hooper of that city.

The engagement is announced of W. W. Sanford and Miss Hall, sister of Miss C. H. Clague, both of Duluth. The marriage will take place in Hudson, Wis., Miss Hall's old home, in a short time.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

The Eternal Issue.

Albert Lea Standard: It was the eternal issue in the English elections—the people against privilege, and the liberal party, with the help of the Irish, will dominate. Thus English democracy wins a splendid triumph, and one which puts it far in advance of our boasted American democracy. Here privilege is enthroned and is seemingly invincible, but it is not. Its overthrow is as certain as destiny, but not soon. Through evolution and in natural order of human affairs it will only be accomplished.

What About the People?

Albert Lea Times-Enterprise: Some political writers state that pins for the control of the legislature are being set up early this year. The anti-saloon league is said to be at work getting candidates in every legislative district where there is any assurance that they can be elected. The liquor interests are just as busy looking for men to bring out who will be friendly to their interests and so block the county option movement. Then the friends of Senator Clapp are alleged to be picking out candidates favorable to him in the various senatorial and legislative districts. In the meantime, who is looking after the interests of the people?

No Sympathy With County Option.

Anoka Union: The movement for county option is not gaining popularity, although its advocates are exceedingly busy. County option would produce a mighty number of blind pigs, a situation most deplorable, and one burdened with much that is disgusting and undesirable.

A Bjoquet for Bjorge.

Warren Sheaf: H. Bjorge of Lake Park, has announced himself as a candidate for congress, to contest with Halvor Steenerson, for the Republican nomination. He has seen some service in the legislature, but we do not know of a single sound, practical and useful piece of legislation that stands to his credit. All his efforts have been visionary, and immature.

Some More Decayed Ones.

Waverly Star and Tribune: Puck recently published a list of jokes that are worn out, and which they will have no further use for. They forgot to include these, hoever, which the Star and Tribune believes are getting old enough to draw pensions:

The Bryan-for-President joke.
The Wifey's-Xmas-Cigars joke.
The Tariff-Revision joke.
The Warm-Lake-Superior-Breezes joke.
The Minneapolis-Armour-Plant joke.
The Editor-Getting-Pumpkins-on-Subscription joke.
The Young-Fellow-driving-with-one-hand joke.
The Hobson-Jap-War-Scare joke.

A Puzzle for Republicans.

Long Prairie Argus: It seems to be the general opinion that Eberhart will be nominated by the Republicans to succeed himself, and no other candidate has entered the field against him. It seems smooth sailing in all respects, except on the issue of county option. The county optionists are going to get their plank in the platform of both parties if they can, but since there is no prospects of the Democrats adopting this measure, it puts Republican candidates in a tight place. In some sections prospective legislative candidates are vociferously declaring against county option, while in other localities, they are just as strenuously in favor of it. It will require both kinds of Republicans to elect a governor.

Instead of Uncle Mose.

Albert Lea Tribune: In view of the continued rise in country produce, it's about time for some of the Smart Alecks of the city to seek their fortune with their Uncle Reuben.

Should Share Their Prosperity.

Warren Register: If the statistics published, purporting to show the net earnings of the railroads of the Northwest during the past year in comparison with their earnings in former years are to be relied upon, then there is absolutely nothing in the claim of the railroads that they cannot grant a small increase in the pay of their employes, unless they increase freight rates. Having made the biggest profits in their history, the railroads should be willing for their employes to reap at least a portion of the benefit. If they will not and cannot be compelled to share their prosperity with their employes, then means should be found to compel them to reduce rates of transportation.

The Man Who Waits for Orders.

The man who waits for orders
Is the man who holds a job.
You seldom see him climbing
Very much above the mob;
He's the man who sits and wonders
Why it is his brothers rise
And he misses much of glory
Just because he never tries.

The man who waits for orders
Seldom gets a raise in pay,
And he never wins distinction,
Though he works from day to day.
Though he never makes a failure,
He will ne'er achieve success.
He will never be a leader
Through the world's great wilderness.

The man who waits for orders
Lets another think for him,
He admits his power to reason
Is a faculty that's dim.
He admits he has no courage,
And from every crisis shrinks.
Yes, the man who waits for orders
Is the man who never thinks.

Go ahead, young man, find labor;
Face the problem that you find.
Work it out your way and never
Wait upon another's mind.
Make a path yourself and tread it,
Trust yourself in the unknown;
Win or lose, how great the credit
If you fought the fight alone!
—Detroit Free Press.

The Limit of Heroism.

Puck: Mighty Napoleon, hands clasped behind him, feet wide apart, trembled as he spoke.

"Is there no way to check the onslaught?" he asked.

"Not even the Tenth legion could do it!" rejoined Caesar.

"The Macedonian phalanx would crumble before it like a sand wall before a tidal wave," declared Alexander.

"Worse than useless would be the dusky cavalry of Carthage," muttered the swarthy Hannibal.

"In such a war as this there lies no virtue in a wooden horse," Achilles remarked, more to himself than to the others.

"Let come who may, I'll hold the bridge!" thundered Horatius.

"Not much!" exclaimed Leonidas, "they're suffragettes!"

And they all sat down and wept, for they saw the day was lost.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Tattler. Vicar—I'm sorry to hear you've been so poorly. You must pray for a good heart, Thomas.

Thomas—Yaas, zur; but it's my liver wot is wrong, ye know, zur.

Buffalo Express: MacGregor—I hope they don't take to joy riding in these airships?

MacBride—Why?

MacGregor—We'd all have to wear steel helmets to protect us from falling beer bottles.

Tit-Bits: Little Willie—Say, pa, what is a hypocrite?

Pa—A hypocrite, my son, is a man who publicly thanks Providence for his success, then gets mad every time anybody insinuates that he isn't mainly responsible for it himself.

Chicago Tribune: Head Waiter—What's the matter with that dyspeptic looking old chap over there at the fourth table?

Assistant—He's got a grouch. He was getting all ready to make a kick about that cantaloupe, and he found it was a good one.

Chicago Record-Herald: "Why is it that novels are so much more popular with the women than with the men?"

"In a novel the fellow invariably asks the girl to be his wife."

Houston Post: "The railroads are discharging all men with gray hair."

"Most of the married men will be safe."

"How so?"

"The majority of them are bald."

St. Louis Post-Dispatch: "Is he broke?"

"Broke! Why, his assets rattle around his liabilities like a pea in a coal bucket."

Boston Herald: Hank Stubbs—They say Jed Martin's closed up his well 'cuz he's afeared o' typhoid.

Bige Miller—Yaas, Jed says he's goin' to let "well enough alone," ez long ez his cider hol's out.

Washington Star: "That speaker tries to be accurate."

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum, "He really over-exerts himself. After saying 'there is little more to be said on this subject' he will talk for an hour to prove it."

Sunday Magazine: Post—I'm trying to get a first-class chauffeur to run my car.

Parker—Can't you find a good one?

Post—No. All the fine ones have made so much money that they now own and operate their own machines.

Pittsburg Post: "We got our cook and our housemaid to take opposite sides on this polar question."

"And that means?"

"That they'll both stay with us until it is settled."

Illustrated Bits: Tom: So little Amy is married. Did she make a good match?

Gladys—Excellent! Heaps of money, good social position, country house, yacht and all that. In fact, the only drawback is the man.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Common sense is more uncommon than otherwise.

Many a great hope is erected on a small foundation.

Mixed drinks are responsible for a lot of mixed ideas.

One way to flatter a woman is to tell her that you can't.

A woman can go to church three times a week and enjoy it.

Does any one really understand you? Do you understand yourself?

A talkative man is apt to be as good natured as he is foolish.

When a man buys groceries he likes to begin at the cigar case.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: The more relatives a man has the happier he could be without any.

A man thinks he is reforming people when he is only nagging them.

A woman can get control of a man by making him think no woman can.

Nearly all men have a twist in their brains; all men have a twist in their morals.

The friend who shows a lot of enthusiasm when you don't need him doesn't show any at all when you do.

Overlapping Crops.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: All Europe, as never before, is getting ready for the oncoming season of gardening, and in many parts European gardeners are to give a tryout to the so-called French system of "intensive culture," which consists not in a rotation or succession of garden stuff, but in an over-lapping of crops like shingles on a roof or clapboards on a barn. In most cases, under the French system, as one crop is ripening another is on the way, and still another is being planted. A garden of about two acres has yielded no less than six crops in one season.

CHANTICLEER, UNIQUE IN DRAMATIC HISTORY, GIVEN

SIMONE LEBARGY,
Who Plays the Role of the Pheasant in Rostand's Famous Animal Play,

Paris, Feb. 7.—The dress rehearsal of Edmund Rostand's "Chanticleer" at the St. Martin theater last night in the presence of a remarkable audience, comprising the elite of the literary, artistic and dramatic world of Paris as well as other European capitals, was an artistic success of the first magnitued, the exquisite verse being up to the finest traditions of Rostand's poetic genius.

The brilliancy of the first act, which was preceded by a charming prologue, delivered by Jean Coquelin, preparing the audience for the atmosphere of the piece, fairly set the theater mad with enthusiasm. The second and third acts, which were somewhat tedious, were less favorably received. In the last act, however, enthusiasm was revived to the boiling point. There were five calls after the curtain fell.

The critics generally consider that the brilliancy of the verse surpasses even "Cyrano," if that is possible, but the artistic note struck it so high that they doubt whether the play will be a popular success, after curiosity has worn off. It is rumored that Rostand himself will play the role of Chanticleer at the benefit to be given for the flood sufferers.

Is Unique Production.

Rostand's Chanticleer probably is absolutely unique among pieces ever presented on the stage. No human character appears in the cast. The dramatis personae are fowls, birds and animals, and as they are necessarily as large as the men and women who act the parts, everything which appears on the stage is upon a corresponding scale. Chanticleer, the hero (Guitry) is filled with illusions about his place in the world. He imagines he is master of the sun; that the sun rises at the end of night because Chanticleer has awakened and crowed. The play dispels this illusion in the heart of Chanticleer alone.

The first act opens with the sun rising on a barnyard. A mountainous manure pile is on one side of the stage. A fence, which seems immense because it is in proportion, separates the yard from a road beyond which is a forest background. To the right a wooden shoe, forgotten by the farmer's wife, is of the size it would appear to the chickens, and nearby a chair completes the scale illusion, its legs, which alone are seen, being eight yards high.

Chanticleer Hails the Sun.

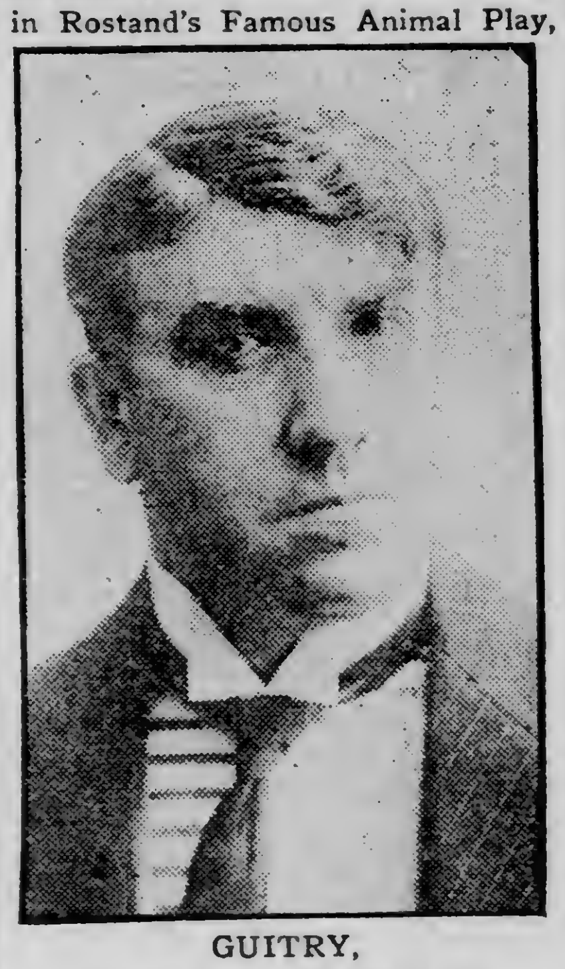
In the center of the stage, with his companions of the barnyard grouped around him, Chanticleer hails the sun, whose first rays gild the scene, in a hymn full of the poet's lyric magnificence. On the manure pile perches the blackbird Gillipaux, who, jealous of the cock, breaks into his noble sentiment with jibes and puns after the manner of Cyrano.



GUITRY,
In the Role of the Cock.

The dog (Jean Coquelin), is the droll moralizer of the piece. Chanticleer falls in love with a beautiful hen pheasant (Simonne), who is wooed by a fighting cock.

The second act is the scenic gem of the piece, showing the upper branches of a blasted pine in the heart of the forest, the human sized birds perched in the branches.

The owl calls the roll of the birds of the night, each, as his name is called answering and opening two luminous eyes, which shine in the semi-obscurity of the stage green, yellow or blood red. These birds declaim the hymn of the night and afterward conspire together to rid themselves of their acrh-enemy, Chanticleer. With him dead, they believe, the sunlight would be forever quenched and they would be masters forevermore.

Conspiracy of Night Birds.

In the third act Chanticleer learns of the conspiracy of the night birds and fights a duel with his false friend, the game cock, killing him despite his steel gaffs and redoubtable skill. This is the beginning of the end for Chanticleer. The treachery of his friends poisons his optimism. The hen pheasant, the prize of the combat, offers the consolation of her love in a fine outburst, and then draws his head under her wing and bids him "sleep."

When the fourth and last act opens, Chanticleer, wooed by love, has slept so long as the sun has risen without him.

"And I have not crowed," he cries. The dream of his life, his wonderful power, crumbles. He was not the ruler of the sun. All the tenderness of the hen pheasant cannot bring him back the lost illusion. His hens do not know it. The birds of the night still believe in him. He has his followers and his enemies as before. The sun still rises when he crows. If the dog doubts, he is silent. But the iron which has entered his soul is the death of the glorious Chanticleer.

Story of Its Conception.

Rostand, in an interview, explains the history of his conception of Chanticleer.

"In 1901," said he, "while walking in the outskirts of Cambro, I was passing a humble farm, when I suddenly stopped before the barnyard.

It was just an ordinary barnyard, containing the usual pigeon loft, wire nettings, manure pile and within the animals, hens, ducks, guinea fowl, geese, turkeys, a cat asleep, a dog wandering about; in brief, a very common spectacle.

"I watched with interest, when suddenly in stalked the cock. He entered proudly, boldly, like a ruler, with disdain in his eye and a certain rythmic movement of the head which produced the irrisistible impression of a hero. He advanced like a buccaneer, like a man in quest of adventure, a king among his subjects. In a flash I saw in this spectacle a play. I returned to the barnyard many times, and rapidly the framework of the play was constructed in my mind."

Give Your Stomach A Vacation

By Using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Which Digest Food Without Any Aid.

A Trial Package Sent Free.

The stomach should have a rest when it is tried out and irritated from dyspepsia and indigestion. One should not call upon the stomach in this condition to do its full and complete duty. What the stomach needs is natural assistance and when this is given it the stomach responds quickly to the needed rest and comes back to its duties refreshed and invigorated.

When you feel as though your stomach were a piece of lead, when gases or foul odor issue from your throat, when your tongue is coated and your appetite gone, it is high time to send your stomach on a vacation.

The stomach is constantly coming in contact with foreign substances, which it must reduce in form to give strength and health to the other organs of the body. It is the commissary department of the human system and must furnish from such supplies as come to it all that such a system demands.

If the stomach becomes deranged and cannot furnish all that is necessary, it weakens the entire machinery of man and is itself placed out of commission. It cannot cure itself because the curative powers of Nature receive their force from the stomach, so that if the stomach issues imperfect nourishment it cannot receive perfect curative means for its own benefit.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets impart all the power, vigor and strength necessary to the stomach. They do the stomach's work and without calling on this organ for assistance.

If you would put your meal in a glass jar and with it place the correct amount of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets you could sit down and watch these little tablets digest the meal as perfectly as the most healthy stomach. This demonstration has been made in almost every stat in the Union by these tablets, one grain of a single ingredient being capable of digesting 3,000 grains of food.

If you have the slightest doubt about your stomach, go to the nearest drug store and buy a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, price 50c, or send us your name and address and we will immediately send you by mail a trial package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

Racing Horse Kills Merchant.

Jackson, Mich., Feb. 7.—Norris H. Branch, a merchant of this city and formerly a member of the Michigan legislature, was knocked down and killed Sunday afternoon by a race horse on the ice courses at Vandercook lake. The race, a 2:30 pace had four horses entered. Three had finished when Branch, wanting a better view, stepped on the track directly in the path of Greenmore driven by Fred Hanlon, and was killed.

Cornell Men "Busted."

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 7.—One hundred students have been dropped from Cornell university by the weeding out process of the mid-winter examinations. One student from Chicago collapsed almost utterly after three weeks grind, followed by the announcement from the faculty that he was "busted."

JUDGE STANTON AND THE CONTEST OF THE HALLS

Good Story of Celebrated Fight in Old Third District.

Attorney General's Report on Timber Trespasses Claims Too Much.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The retirement of Senator Darius S. Hall of Renville county from the state fair management, which event occurred at the recent annual meeting of the society, recalls a good story told of the famous contest for a seat in congress between Mr. Hall of Renville and O. M. Hall of Red Wing, now a member of the Minnesota state tax commission. It involved C. W. Stanton, then an editor at Appleton, Swift county, and now judge of the district court with his home at Bemidji. D. S. Hall was making a desperate effort to retain his seat in congress, which was being contested by his Red Wing namesake. At a meeting in one of the smaller towns in Swift county, Stanton presided and introduced his friend and fellow Democrat, Mr. Hall of Red Wing. The story goes that after speaking briefly for the principles represented by the Democratic standard bearer, he turned his attention to the candidate. "He represents the best in American politics," Stanton said, in referring to Judge O. M. Hall, "and aside from that fact a change is in order. His older brother has had it long enough. It is all right to keep it in the family, but it is time that the little fellow had a chance at the job." The Halls represent different families as well as different political parties, but the Swift county audience was not informed as to the first-mentioned fact and they evidently believed that it was no more than right for the younger brother to have a try at the place, for the Red Wing Hall was triumphantly elected. That was back in 1892 and a short time ago all three principals in the incident met in St. Paul and laughed heartily as they recalled the incident. "Yes," chuckled Senator Hall, "you did it to me, all right, but you will remember that you were postmaster at Appleton at the time and you were the first Democratic postmaster removed in the district upon the return to power of the Republicans. Perhaps I had something to do with that action, though no longer a member of congress." Time heals nearly any kind of a wound and all three are now the warmest kind of political friends. Senator Hall very cheerfully voted at the last session of the legislature to create a judgeship for Judge Stanton and he and Mr. Hall of the tax commission are the best of friends.

Timber Trespasses.

The recent report of the attorney general, in which it was pointed out that that department had collected during the past year something over $300,000 from trespassers on state timber lands, set someone looking up the records as disclosed by the books in the state auditor's office. The result does not dispute the figures but it is a long distance from what was to be expected from the report itself. It appears that when the state has sold a tract of timber, upon the report of the state's cruisers as to the amount of timber cut the auditor places in the hands of the state treasurer a draft to cover the amount due the state. The law gives the lumberman thirty days in which to pay the amount of the draft and attaches a penalty in the shape of interest upon the unpaid amount. Often the lumbermen are unable to make financial arrangements immediately, and permit the drafts to go to protest and cheerfully pay the state's claim to interest until payment is made. It perhaps makes little difference whether they pay interest to the state or to banks. Upon payment being made of the undisputed claims, which in the meanwhile have, in accordance with the provisions of the law been turned over to the attorney general's department for adjudication, the attorney general apparently now puts in a claim for credit for these collections as enforced against alleged trespassers on state lands. The actual number of cases in which the state has been engaged as plaintiff against real trespassers in which collections have been made are said to be small indeed and the penalties imposed, over the value of the timber taken from the state lands, are still more rare. The man making the examination of the auditor's books insists that the total is made up of claims of this character, to the almost total exclusion of those which the public had been led to believe exist from the attorney general's report.

Olsen for Senator.

The story goes that J. W. Olsen, late dean of the agricultural college and former state superintendent of instruction, plans to return to his former home at Albert Lea and become a candidate in the Republican primaries for the state senate. Mr. Olsen, prior to his appointment by Governor Van Sant as state superintendent, was the undisputed Republican boss of his county and should he enter the field will doubtless receive strong support from his old friends and admirers. It may be expected, in the event of his election to the senate, that he will pay off sundry political debts contracted when a number of the regents of the state university succeeded in getting his scalp as dean of the agricultural college. Olsen is a splendid organizer and is said to stand an excellent chance of getting the nomination which in recent years has been equivalent to an election from Freeborn county. Senator B. N. Anderson is understood to have alienated strong support when at the last session of the legislature he refused to stand for legislation greatly desired by Albert Lea to secure a county hospital, but opposed in some of the rural districts of the county.

The St. Paul City Election.

St. Paul Republicans at this writing have found no one with the temerity to become a candidate for the mayoralty against Henry G. Haas, who it is conceded will have the Democratic nomination. No other Democrat has filed against Haas and in fact the "regular" candidates for city treasurer and comptroller are likewise unopposed. Dr. Justus Ohage, famous for the public baths, was first importuned by the Republican leaders to become a candidate for the mayoralty, but said he was a friend of Alderman Haas. Assemblyman Herbert P. Keller was next asked to make the run and the Second ward organization formally appealed to him. Keller's ambitions run in another direction and he did not want to take the chances of a defeat for mayor while waiting for them to be gratified, and a defeat would be fatal to them. A. H. Lindeke, a rich and powerful jobber, is now nibbling at the hooks and may become a candidate. He is a representative business man and would probably make as good a run against Haas as anyone else. He has not, however, yielded to the point of becoming an avowed candidate. Mayor Lawler has gone away for a rest and, before leaving, attached his signature to a number of papers by which act he settled the long-drawn controversy with the health department and several of its allied departments. The mayor promises to be back in plenty of time to assist in the campaign for Alderman Haas' election.

SEVEN BLOWN TO BITS BY DYNAMITE BLAST.

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 7.—Heedless of the warning of a foreman in charge of excavating operations along the lines of the private motor road from Kelvin to the Ray Copper mines, the motorman of a gasoline car containing six passengers, ran his car close to a sputtering fuse of heavy charge of dynamite today, and the car and its seven occupants were blown to atoms. The dead are:

J. B. Boyce, A. S. Bieber, J. C. Griffin, civil engineers employed by the Ray Copper company; R. P. Coleman of Salt Lake City; W. P. Freeland, Walter C. Frenz, mining engineers employed by Henry Krumb, and engaged in sampling the development work at the Ray mines, and W. H. Lyall, motorman of the car.

Hays Back in San Francisco.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 7.—Returning from Memphis, Tenn., at his own expense to face charges brought against him, William C. Hays, former manager and vice president of the defunct Union State bank of this city, was arrested Sunday on two complaints. He is accused of overdrawing his account in the bank to the amount of $1,200 and obtaining $1,000 under false pretenses. He is being held in default of $23,000 bail. He denies the charges.

Knowledge is Power

There is one kind of knowledge that is power and prestige in the hands of a woman. It is the knowledge of her own nature, her own physical make-up and the home-treatment of diseases peculiar to her sex. There is a great home medical book that teaches all this. It is Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a book of 1008 pages and over 700 wood-cuts and colored plates. Over 2,300,000 American homes contain copies of this work. It used to cost $1.50; now it is free. For a paper covered copy send 21 one-cent stamps, to cover mailing only, to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.; French cloth binding, 31 stamps. A new, revised up-to-date Edition, now ready.

This great book tells all about a medicine that is a cure for all weakness and disease of the delicate organs distinctly feminine. That medicine is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. During the past 40 years many thousands of women have used it with marvelous results.

It imparts health, vigor, virility, strength and elasticity to the organs that bear the burdens of maternity. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. Taken during the period of gestation, it makes the coming of baby easy and almost painless. It completely banishes the pain and misery that are the result of a woman's neglecting her womanly health.

An honest medicine dealer will give you what you ask for, and not try to persuade you to take some inferior-secret-nostrum substitute for the little added profit he may make thereon.

"Favorite Prescription" is so perfect and so good in its make-up that its makers feel warranted to print its every ingredient on its bottle-wrappers. Is that not a significant fact? As will be seen from its list of ingredients, it contains neither alcohol nor habit-forming drugs.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

DULUTH FIGHT FANS WILL BE GIVEN A CHANCE TO JUDGE OF JEFFRIES' TRUE CONDITION

Duluth and Hibbing Last Two Cities Visited—"Duke's" First Adventure in Athletic Circles.

(BY BRUCE)

James J. Jeffries will appear before a Duluth audience the present week and show in just what kind of condition he is in. The very fact that Duluth and Hibbing will be the last two places the champion will show in before he goes into preliminary conditioning for the fight with Johnson, will give fans in this part of the country a very good opportunity to form an opinion as to whether Jeff can "come back."

The querry seems to be the all important question of the hour. Political questions of grave portent have been shelved for the time being, and the various perverse antics performed by Uncle Joseph down Washington way have been forgotten while a curious public has been speculating, worrying and eagerly questioning as to whether the hope of the white fight fans of the country can get into anything like his old condition.

Never before in the history of the world has a prize fight attracted so much attention as the coming fight has attracted to date. Years ago there was a great fight in Merrie England between John C. Heenan, the American, and Tom Sawyer, the Englishman. That fight attracted the attention of two countries. It even attracted the serious attention of the house of lords. Royalty attended the fight and the ears of the civilized world were strained to hear the first news of the result.

There will not be a country in the world that will not await the outcome of the Jeffries-Johnson fight with a deep interest. Even into the interior of the dark continent the news of the fight will be carried.

Viewing the prospective fight from all sides, it is the most picturesque battle that has ever been arranged in this country. If Jeff had been matched with Johnson when he was in his prime, the fight would have been considered a joke. The negro would have been given little chance in the minds of those who were familiar with the records of the two men. Now the whole situation has undergone a great and unexpected change.

Through his fighting ability the negro has simply forced recognition upon an unwilling fight public. His three victories over Burns, Kauffmann and Ketchel, each of which he won with comparative ease and an artistic ease that surprised the fight fans at the ringside, have established him as a fast, clever fighter.

The public is divided as to the chance of Jeff beating the negro. Two very well-known sporting men have informed the writer that they do not believe the former holder of the title can come back.

Harry Tuthill a man, who has handled many fighters, and J. H. Herman, who is also familiar with things pugilistically, have stated while in this city, that they believe Johnson will give Jeffries a bad beating. They both declare that Jeff has gone too far to come back in time for a presentable appearance, as it were.

On the other hand men equally competent to judge have declared that Jeff can enter the ring and be almost as good as he was when he fought his second fight with Jim Corbett at San Francisco.

Jeff will be here and there will be the opportunity to see in what condition the man appears. It will really never be known until the fight begins whether Jeff is right or not. The history of fighting proves that statement. A man never knows until he has faced his adversary, until blows are struck, until the strength of both fighters have been tried.

But at least the appearance of the men will count much with those who will see him, and it is very certain that if Jeffries looks as good as he has been reported as looking, there will be many in this city who will pick the Californian as the winner of the coming battle.

Brother Ritchie of the Minneapolis Journal warbles of how he will go to the national ski tournament at Coleraine, but be darned if he will take a chance on the new steel slide.

One of the best stunts on the program would be to have "Empty" Caine and "O'Loughlin" do one of those twin jumps. Fervently and firmly clasping each other's hands they would be sent on the precipitous journey down the steep incline. Those who knew the love of the two boys for each other, know full well that they would be delighted at the prospect of thus being thrown violently in each other's company.

As to Brother Ritchie's suggestion that Bill Rigg be sent down the slide, it is too good to be true. That suggestion is a better one than any press agent could have invented. If Mr. Rigg could be persuaded to slide and the fact could be advertised over the iron range and through the central portion of the state, the Itasca Ski club would have to build larger to care for the teeming thousands who would come to see Bill perform.

Quite a few people from Duluth would go to see the Rigg party cut up. The idea has already been suggested to the press agent of the Coleraine people.

Saturday "Duke" wandered unconcernedly into the gymnasium of the Duluth Athletic club. He looked around inquiringly and then his bright little eyes were attracted to two well-known business men, who were struggling on the mat in some kind of embrace that is new and quite original.

JAMES J. JEFFRIES.

Instantly the ears of the dog were raised in eager anticipation. He let loose a couple of barks, sharp and to the point. Then he drew nearer the wrestlers. Suddenly "Duke" let out a growl and jumped for one of the fat calves of one of the wrestlers. He landed fairly and held on.

That is as far as the story can go. Suffice it to say that "Duke" was requested to leave the club.

Down in the coke oven district they are thinking of starting a political reform. They have heard of the pernicious activity of Uncle Joe, and how he has throttled legislation that was devised for the benefit of the great and growing poorer middle class of the country. They have hit upon a man whom they think will speedily set things to rights.

The man the steel workers, not the dividend collectors, would send to congress is no other than our old friend Honus Wagner.

It is no matter that Honus cannot talk without treading on both feet and becoming crimson like a girl—or some girls; that he does not always handle the mother tongue as surely and as accurately as he does the goods that have come from the factory of Mr. Spalding; or it is little to the burning question that Honus is neither barrister, business man or a claw of the octopus—he is the greatest baseball player in the world, and that is more than the usual quota of fame handed out to any man who is in the lower house at the present time.

In the past there have been several athletes who have aspired to congressional dignity. John L. Sullivan once sought the office. James J. Corbett was mentioned as a possible candidate. Silk O'Loughlin, the baseball umpire, was suggested. Hans does not want the place. His friends want him to have it. It is improbable that Hans would have the nerve to make one single loud sound, were he sent down to the national capitol.

FINE DISPLAY OF AUTOS IN DULUTH

Duluth Automobile Club Will Hold Show in the Spring.

Duluth is to have a real, up to the scratch automobile show. The Armory has been secured for the purpose and shortly the definite dates of the show will be announced. Local dealers believe the show will compare favorably with the show that opens in Minneapolis this week.

Duluth has reached the stage where it has as many autos as any city of its size in the country. The growth in popular favor of the auto here has been very rapid. The coming season promises to be the greatest in the history of the automobile in this part of the state. Officers of the Duluth Automobile club have decided that the time is ripe for the giving of a show that will be interesting to the public as well as the owner and dealer, and every effort will be made to assure the success of the exhibition.

ULRICH PLEASE NOTICE.

Another Fight Challenge Hurled From Direction of Twin Cities.

H. McFadden of St. Paul writes to the sporting editor of The Herald that he has a fighter, Mike Gibbons, who will meet any welterweight in the world. Mr. McFadden probably has Curley Ulrich in mind in sending his challenge here. Curley has already indicated a desire to meet Gibbons, if the money for his efforts is forthcoming, so all that the Capital City pugs' manager will have to do is to find some club that will offer a purse that will meet the fancy of the fastidious Curley.

McFadden claims that Gibbons is one of the best in the country, just missing beating Jimmy Clabbey of Milwaukee. If the McFadden protege is as good as McFadden believes, added complications will result to the confused situation of the welterweight class.

As Curley is just aching for a fight, if his conversation is any criterion, it would be very well for Manager McFadden to seek out the boy with the curling locks and dare him to scrap.

Ulrich has answered the latest defi of James Ebenezer Potts. He announces that he will fight the Minneapolis fighter for lunch money, straight rules to govern, and that any club offering a purse can have the battle.

S.S.S. REMOVES THE CAUSE OF CATARRH

S. S. S. cures Catarrh by removing the cause from the blood. It so thoroughly purifies the circulation that there is nothing left to inflame and irritate the mucous linings of the body, which is the most prominent and dangerous effect of Catarrh. As long as the mucous membranes and tissues are kept in a state of inflammation and irritation by an impure and infected condition of the circulation, Catarrh will remain. Its disagreeable symptoms of ringing noises in the ears, mucous dropping back into the throat, headaches, watery eyes, difficult breathing, and even stomach disorders and weakened health, cannot be permanently relieved until the blood is purified. Local applications alone can have no real curative value, because such treatment does not reach the blood. Sprays, inhalations, lotions, etc., are valuable only for their cleansing and antiseptic effect, but if depended on alone Catarrh sufferers will find a cure impossible. Nothing equals S. S. S. for curing Catarrh. It goes down into the circulation, gets at the root of the trouble, and removes every particle of catarrhal matter from the blood and enriches this vital fluid so that instead of irritating the different mucous portions of the body, it nourishes them with rich, health-giving properties. Then the symptoms begin to pass away, and Catarrh is permanently cured. Book on Catarrh and any medical advice free.

RILEY HAS HATED RIVAL

Sigrud Karlson Will Attempt to Win Ski Laurels From Hibernian.

Competition Between Amateurs at Ski Tourneys Will Be Interesting.

One of the most interesting events of the meet of the Duluth Ski club, which will be held on the Chester Park hill next Saturday, will be the contest between Barney Riley and Sigrud Karlson of the Itasca Ski club. These two jumpers are the greatest of rivals, and the present season they are both out for the amateur national championship.

Some of the Coleraine enthusiasts are of the opinion that Karlson will beat Riley at both the Duluth and Coleraine meets. Officers of the Itasca Ski club pick Karlson as the winner of the two meets this month.

However, officers of the Duluth Ski club says that there is a number of amateurs of the local club who will have to be considered before the awarding of the championship to either of the Coleraine jumpers. Then there is Arnold Olson, who so far the present season, has shown the best form of any of the amateur jumpers.

Yesterday on the Chester Park hill, John Mangseth made a practice jump of 138 feet, which is very near the American record of 144 feet. Conditions on the big slide are almost perfect for record breaking. If the slide is in as good condition next Saturday afternoon as it was yesterday, officials of the club look for a new American record.

President Hovde of the Duluth Ski club has received further assurance of a large attendance of riders at the meet of Saturday. Practically every rider of the Chippewa Falls club will be here. Ole Gunderson, one of the greatest jumpers in the Northwest, will make a great effort to beat out John Evenson and Ole Fiering.

BLAINE WINS FROM CENTRAL

High School Basket Ball Team Defeated by Score of 26 to 25.

Central high school basket ball team went down to defeat Saturday afternoon, before the quint of Blaine high school of Superior, the score being 26 to 25 at the end of a hard contest. Nelson Dewey had previously defeated Central by one point, and if the championship is lost the present season, it will be by the narrowest of margins.

Blaine had the better team work and seemed more accurate in basket shooting. At one time in the second half the visitors had a lead of four baskets. Capt. Larry Boyle retired in favor of Kelly and Central seemed to play a stronger game for the lead was reduced to the margin of one basket.

The second team of Central secured some measure of revenge by easily defeating the Blaine second squad by the score of 28 to 10. The game was well played throughout, Kelly, Osman and Jeronimus playing stellar games. The lineup of the two teams follows:

First Teams.

| Blaine | Position | Duluth |
|---|---|---|
| Clarke | c | Waldron |
| W. Bradley | g | Johnson |
| Hansen | g | Solheim |
| Holman | f | Boyle, Kelly |
| R. Bradley | f | Harris |

Ten-mile, special handicap event—Oldfield, Knox, first; De Palma, Fiat, second. Time, 9:47. Handicap, Oldfield, 28 seconds.

Swim in Icy Water.

New York, Feb. 7.—Nine young men spurning the almost zero temperature, took a swim yesterday in the icy waters off Sheepshead bay. Five of the swimmers are members of the so-called Arctic Swimming club. All remained in the water more than three minutes, and apparently suffered no ill effects from their dip.

FIERING FIRST AT RED WING

Duluth Rider Wins Ski Tournament From Field of Noted Jumpers.

Red Wing, Minn., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Seven thousand people yesterday witnessed one of the most spectacular ski performances of the season at Tumble Valley slide. Fifty experts, representing every club in the ski belt participated. The slide was steep and treacherous.

GOT HIS SKIS CROSSED.

Cass Lake Jumper Knocked Unconscious During Tournament Sunday.

Cass Lake, Minn., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The ski tournament here Sunday afternoon, between Grand Rapids and Cass Lake was a very successful affair, witnessed by several hundred people.

In consideration of the size of the slide, some very good jumps were made, Jake Holm of Cass Lake carried off first honors in the standing jump. His best jump was 61 feet. Mr. Holm was seriously injured while making a second try. In coming down the jump his skis got crossed and he fell on his face, rendering him unconscious and spraining his arm. William Whalen of Grand Rapids and Joseph Fennessy of Cass Lake were tied for second place. Ed Whalen of Grand Rapids carried off first honors in the straight jump. Whalen jumped 62 feet. Bert Lafreniere also made several good jumps.

Several of these ski enthusiasts will take part in the national tournament at Coleraine this month. Holm, who took first place in the tournament yesterday, won twelfth place at the national tournament last year, defeating Ole Fiering by a close margin.

MINNY LEAGUE CANDIDATES.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., and Ashland Being Considered for Membership.

Word received here from President John Elliott of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league, is to the ffect that two more towns will be considered by him before coming to any decision as to the new towns of the circuit. Chippewa Falls, Wis., and Ashland are being considered at the present time by Mr. Elliott.

Mankato has made formal application for entrance to the league and there are many of the magnates who are in favor of the Southern Minnesota town and Red Wing as the two new members of the league.

Rochester is also being considered by Elliott, according to the information that has been received here. The fight for admission to the league promises to be a lively one.

It is expected that the meeting will be called for St. Paul some day next week. At this meeting it is expected that a definite decision will be made in regard to the towns that will compose the circuit the coming season.

A letter from Darby O'Brien brings word that the orator has lined up a series of games with Jimmy Callahan's Logan Squares of the Chicago semi-professional league. He is also at work on other dates and has a long spring training trip planned.

ALL STARS ARE WINNERS.

Newt Randall's Aggregation Win Indoor Baseball Game From Co. A.

At the Armory Saturday night the All Stars defeated the Company A team of the Military league by the score of 10 to 5. The veterans played a better all-around game than the pennant-winning militia team, though the fielding on both sides was ragged at times. The game was very interesting.

Lee and Foster were the opposing heavers. Lee in Company A struck out fifteen men, but at times failed to locate the territory of the plate. Foster was steady and effective throughout.

The lineup and score:

All Stars—C. Foster, third base; Irving, right short; Meniece, second base; Randall, first base; Taylor, left field; Marion, right field; Stearns, left short; Owens, catcher; H. Foster, pitcher.

| | | R. | H. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| All Stars | 0 0 0 2 3 2 1 0 1 | 10 | 8 | 4 |
| Company A. | 2 0 0 0 1 0 1 0 1 | 5 | 7 | 5 |

Double plays—Bennett to Schaeffer. Two-base hits — Lee and Meniece. Struck out —By Lee, 15, by Foster, 10. Bases on balls—Off Lee, 8; off Foster, 0. Umpires—Fitzmeyer and Miller.

Keeping Jeff Busy.

Manager Marshall of the Lyceum announced toaday that Jeffries and Gotch would in all probability play three engagements next Saturday. The show may play at Cloquet in the morning, will play at Superior in the afternoon and will appear at the Lyceum in the evening. According to Mr. Marshall the Jeffries combination has broken all records as far as the number of performances in a given time, is concerned.

Duluth Dates Received.

Dates upon which the Duluth bowlers will roll at the national tournament to be held in St. Paul, were received yesterday by the local pin rollers. The Duluth men will roll Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 20, 21 and 22. The Duluth teams are confident of making a good showing at the tournament.

Turkish Grapplers Coming.

Constantinople, Feb. 7.—Three champion Turkish wrestlers, Ali Ahmed, Izza and Halil Podja, have started from here to make a tour of America.

MINNESOTA SOCIETY IN IDAHO

Fifty Present at Organization Meeting and Membership Is Expected to Reach Five Hundred.

Boise, Idaho, Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The youngest of the Eastern state organizations in Boise, is the Minnesota society, which was organized last week amid outbursts of enthusiasm at a gathering of former residents of the Gopher State. The society differs from the several others here representative of other states in that it includes former Minnesotans from nearly every section of Southern Idaho. There were fifty present at the organization meeting, but it is believed the membership will reach 500. Committees on entertainment to arrange for the next meeting and to prepare a constitution and bylaws were named. After the business was disposed of, a pleasant social time was enjoyed, which permitted of all getting better acquainted. Expressions strongly suggesting the success of the organization were heard on all sides.

Charles M. Crandell, a former banker and attorney of Minnesota and now practicing law in Boise, was selected as president of the society, and in accepting, delivered a short complimentary address, stating that he believed the time was at hand when all former residents of Minnesota should unite to organize a strong and permanent society, the object of which should be to allow present residents of this section of the state to become better acquainted and make it easier for incoming residents from the Gopher State to establish their homes here. During his talk, he predicted that the present year would see a larger influx of Minnesotans than any previous one in the history of the state.

Dr. H. N. Titus was selected as the secretary and George Fletcher, treasurer. Committees were chosen as follows: Organization, E. R. Dampier, F. J. Gove, Dr. Titus, G. W. Fletcher, and W. H. Savidge; entertainment, J. A. Ewing, Mrs. W. H. Savidge, Miss Emma Davis, Miss Clara Steffen and G. Brigger.

Judge Hawthorne of Seattle, formerly of St. Paul, was an honored guest at the meeting and spoke entertainingly of the strength and usefulness of Minnesota societies elsewhere in the West. He stated that it was largely through the efforts and influence of the Western Washington Minnesota society, that the beautiful granite statue of James J. Hill, the pioneer railroad builder and most prominent of all Minnesota residents, was erected in Seattle.

IRON AND STEEL REVIEW

New York, Feb. 7.—The most interesting feature in pig iron last week was the aggressive position of the Virginia furnaces seeking business in the Eastern territory. With a drop of 50 cents to 76 cents per ton at the furnaces and a reduction of 25 per ton on freight rates, effective March 10, Virginia producers have been able to secure contracts in the Eastern district aggregating about 50,000 tons for shipment beginning in March and running through the third quarter of the year. Some of this business was placed the latter part of January. Two-thirds of the contracts were for New England delivery. Eastern Pennsylvania producers were benefited by the reduction of freight rates into New England and have taken a fair tonnage for shipment beginning in February and extending forward four to six months.

In finished steel products interest has been centered in rails and structural material. Railroads have placed contracts for 90,000 tons of heavy rails, including 65,000 tons of open hearth. The Harriman and Hawley lines and the Philadelphia & Reading have placed additional orders with the steel corporation mills while the Baltimore & Ohio has ordered 25,100 tons from the Pennsylvania Steel company.

Railroads have also placed orders for 4,000 more cars and several more bridge orders calling for 3,000 tons of structural shapes. Numerous additional small orders have been placed for manufacturing plants and mercantile building aggregating 13,000 tons of fabricated steel.

MEETING OF TEACHERS

Northeastern Minnesota Educators in Duluth Two Days This Week.

"Efficiency of the Public Schools" Theme of the Discussions.

The program for the two days' meeting of the Northeastern Minnesota Educational association, which will be held here next Friday and Saturday, has been issued. ### COMMERCE THROUGH PORTAGE LAKE CANALS.

The annual report of the Portage lake ship canals, as compiled by the government engineers in charge, show that the total vessel freight up and down the last season amounted to 2,544,073 tons, with a total value of $85,266,001. About half this freight, or 1,271,130 tons, valued at $32,473,796, was what is classified as local commerce. The increase over 1908 was 12.4 per cent, while the increase of the tonnage over ten years ago, or 1899, is 60.8 per cent. In addition to the tonnage, 9,619,000 feet of logs were towed through the canals. The navigation season lasted 226 days, from May 4 to Dec. 15. The opening was later than usual, while the closing was the latest since 1892.

COPPERS IN THE DUMPS

Bear Raid on Eastern Markets Continues With Undimished Force.

Copper stocks declined sharply today, the acceleration being swifter on the average, than on any day since the present bear pool began its operations. There is no doubt that the bear interests now manipulating the market, form one of the strongest coalitions in recent years. The efforts of the pool have met with success at every stage and the market seems due for further recessions.

A pertinent statement sent out by a New York broker today said: "Confidence has been shaken and until it is regained the market will be in the dumps." There is no doubt that the confidence of the public has been given a severe jolt by some of the recent market actions, and the accompanying scandals, such as the collapse of the Hocking pool and the fiasco in Rock Island common. The message seemed to indicate, however, that the big interests are inclined to view with alarm the possible progressive legislation by congress. The president's federal incorporation bill was introduced into congress at noon today and the action of the stock market may be taken as a manifestation of the displeasure of certain interests which are able to control the money reserves of New York city and consequently the stock market.

Many scattered holders liquidated today and the bears were aggressive from the beginning. Sensational drives were made on Steel common and Amalgamated and all coppers except a few insignificant specialties, acted as if the bottom had fallen out. Some financial interests who regard the federal incorporation measure in a favorable light bought shortly after the opening but their support was unavailing and they soon withdrew from the market. Scattered buying of low priced issues which at their present market valuation pay excellent returns to shareholders, caused occasional slight reactions but the pressure on values was so strong that only the most concerted movement of the strongest financial interests could have stopped the general recession. The market is in an excellent position from the standpoint of the investor but it is in a ticklish position from the viewpoint of the marginal speculator.

The local market was active and trading was of a high class although a weak undertone pervaded the operations except in Calumet & Sonora, which closed stronger and was in demand. Purchasers for investment purposes apparently were more numerous than for some time, although some of the buying appeared to be professional.

Amalgamated opened with sales at $74.37½, declined to $74.87½, rallied to $75.25, slumped sharply to $71.62½, rallied to $72.50 and then to $73 and toward the close declined to $72.62½, when the shorts, who endeavored to take profits, had ceased buying. Superior & Pittsburg sold at $13.87½ and gained ⅛ point. Calumet & Arizona sold at $71 down to $69 and then at $70; Giroux sold at $9.62½, down ⅛ point and then at $9.37½. Report was received here today of the sinking of the new Giroux shaft to a depth of 1,050 feet. The shaft is in hard blue limestone. More than 300 men are employed.

North Butte sold at $35 down to $32.50 and back to $33, Greene at $9.25 down ¼ point and Steel common at $79.50 down to $75.62½ and up to $76.37½ and down again toward the close to $75.75. The preferred sold at $120 to $116.75 and back to $118.

The part paid Butte-Alex Scott changed hands at $4.87½, Butte-Ballaklava at $10.75 and then at $11, Calumet & Arizona on the local exchange at $70.25, the full paid Cordova at $3, Keweenaw at $4.50, Live Oak at $20.43¾ down to $19.87½, Red Warrior at $2.75 and then at $2.81¼ asked, North Butte at $33.12½, Shattuck at $19.62½. Warrior at $11.75, Zenith Lead & Zinc at $1.12½, Black Mountain at 35 cents, Butte & Superior at $2.62½@2.68¾, Calumet & Montana at $1.37½ down to $1.25, Calumet & Sonora at $24.50 down to $24 and then back to $24 and at $24.37½ and then at $24.50, Chief at $2.25, Duluth Sonora at $4.50, Keating at $2, National at 52 cents, Rawhide at 6 cents, St. Mary's at 30, 31 and then at 25 cents, Sierra at $4.12½ and North American at $2.75.

About 13,000 shares changed hands on the local exchange.

In response to numerous inquiries by stockholders the secretary of the North Butte Mining company has issued the following:

"It is true that on the 2,000 and 2,200-foot levels of the two principal veins of our mines, the rich ore values such as encountered on the 1,600 and 1,800-foot levels were not developed, but commercial ore of a good grade was shown and large stopes opened up which insured the continuance of the mines.

"The cost of manufacturing copper from this lower grade ore is increased. This increased cost of production, together with the low price and unsettled condition of the copper metal during the last year, necessarily has reduced the earning capacity, and probably will cause a reduction in the dividend rate unless the price of copper advances. The latest advices from the mine show that a much better grade of ore is now being found. The company has maintained a good production and at a profit. It has carried on development work well ahead of extraction. At present it has one operating shaft, and work is now under way toward sinking a second shaft. There is under consideration a new smelting contract, which will be upon much more favorable terms than the one now in existence.

"The cash surplus is not large, as it has never been the policy to accumulate a large surplus, but to distribute it to stockholders as earned. There are no debts except for current operations. We trust this information will satisfy and reassure you that the North Butte mines are not as represented by rumors afloat."

A party of investors in the Central Vermilion Iron company visited the property near Tower yesterday. The visitors included W. P. Heimbach, L. L. Culbertson, M. W. Lee, Eugene Bunker and Martin Rosendahl.

They found that one test pit had been put down to a depth of thirty feet and that even at this shallow distance there were favorable indications of iron. The characteristic Ely greenstone and jasper had been encountered. In the formation were intrusions of hematite. Several other test pits have been started and the stockholders were greatly pleased with the showing. They believe that indications are excellent for making a producing mine.

An outcropping of hematite is covered by snow and the stockholders did not see it. Most of them had visited the property before, however. The vein will be uncovered and developed if it shows up at depth with values and sufficient extent to make mining worth while. Contracts are being made for diamond drilling. Holes will be put down in sufficient number to explore the property thoroughly. A shaft will be sunk as soon as the trend and extent of the formation is determined.

The visitors saw the Macomber mine nearby, where George A. St. Clair is working. Boilers and heavy timbers have been unloaded at the property and Mr. St. Clair is preparing for active development and mining.

ONCE ENTERTAINED MARQUIS OF LORNE.

Helena, Mont., Feb. 7.—Samuel Schwab, one of the pioneer hotel men of Helena and Montana, is dead here aged 73. In the early days of Helena he ran the Cosmopolitan hotel, a famous hostelry in its time, where many notables were entertained including the marquis of Lorne, then governor general of Canada. It was at this hotel that Thomas Cruse, a Helena millionaire, was married in 1886, to a sister of T. H. Carter, the presetn senior United States senator from this state, the celebration being conducted on a scale that rivaled Coal Oil John's famous stunts, champagne and high priced cigars being served for twenty-four hours free to all who asked for them, Col. Cruse footing the bill which required a check of five figures.

GEN. WOOD MAY BE SEVERELY INJURED.

Washington, Feb. 7.—Seriously injured in the head, it is believed, as the result of a fall from his horse recently in this city, Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, commander of the Department of the East, is lying in Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore. His condition is reported to be such that the advisability of an operation is being considered.

GRAIN MEN MEET.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—The first annual meeting of the Council of North American Grain Exchanges was held here today. The constitution and by-laws were discussed, and officers will be elected later. Delegates from fourteen trading exchanges in the United States and Canada were present.

PRIZE WINNERS AT THE DULUTH POULTRY SHOW ARE ANNOUNCED

THE DULUTH POULTRY SHOW.

PRIZE WINNING SINGLE COMB BLACK MINORCAS.

Judging of the prize winners at the Duluth poulty show has been practically completed and by this evening all the ribbons received by the winning pens will decorate the cages of the prize winners. The local entries have done very well in securing a very fair per cent of the prizes.

In the competition for the Interstate cup, Bert Williams, mayor of Ashland, won a prize, which is offered for the best display from Wisconsin. Mr. Williams had some very fine white crested, black Polish chickens, as well as some other breeds that were above the standard.

Mrs. John ruse of Minneapolis, won the Orpington cup, which is offered by Porter Markell for the highest scoring pen of single comb Buff Orpingtons.

The Minneapolis lady who has some of the very finest chickens of this breed in the Northwest, carried off this prize in the Minneapolis show also. Mrs. Kruse's chickens are of fine breed and also show the excellent care they have had.

Nell L. Clark of Duluth won the "Best Trio's" special trophy, which is open only to chickens that have been raised by persons employed under the civil service regulations. Mr. Clark is employed at the postoffice. He has been a chicken raiser for the past few years and has some of the very finest chickens in the city.

The show so far has been most successful. The competitions in every class have been very close. There are so many breeders represented at the show that every class has a large number of birds. There is hardly a weak class at the exhibition.

Breeders represented at the show say the Duluth show is fully up to the standard of the shows given in the Twin Cities. It is by far the best show ever given by the association and is receiving praises from both spectators and from the breeders.

CITY BRIEFS

Notice!

Cowen & Zimmerman, furniture dealers and interior decorators at 531 East Superior street, wish to announce to the public that our Mr. Zimmerman, together with our artist, Mr. Egner, has just returned from a trip through the largest cities, where they have been looking up new ideas and furnishings, and now feel prepared to give estimates and take contracts for any and all high-class work along our lines. New wall papers and fabrics are arriving daily. Call in and look them over.

Duluth Made Blank Books.

Thwing-Stewart Co. Phone 114.

For a Sane Fourth.

The National Society for the Suppression of Unnecessary Noises will receive the support of Duluth city officials for a safe and sane Fourth. Mayor Haven has signed a petition asking support, which he received Saturday. The national movement is supposed to have more effect than the proclamations issued by local authorities every year.

No Exercises in Schools.

No special exercises will be held in the schools of the city on either Lincoln's birthday, Feb. 12, or Washington's birthday, Feb. 22. Lincoln's birthday falls on Saturday, so there will be no interruption in the work of the schools, but there will be no sessions on Washington's birthday.

Case Goes to Jury.

The suit of Betty Nelson against Jacob Nelson, her former husband, for $700, has gone to the jury in Judge Ensign's room in district court. Mrs. Nelson is suing for $350 she claimed to have loaned her former husband and for wages she asserts are due her as housekeeper, she having gone to live with Nelson in that capacity after a divorce was granted her several years ago.

Lecture on Rugs.

M. J. Alexander will deliver an address to the members of the Twentieth Century club and their friends at 10:15 tomorrow morning in the club room of the library. His subject will be "Origin and Significance of Design on Antique Rugs." The lecture is open to the public.

Suit for Damages.

The suit of J. M. Michols against M. W. Lee for $2,000 damages for injuries Michols alleges he sustained at the hands of Lee, Nov. 30, is on trial in district court today. Mr. Michols claims that Mr. Lee assaulted him without provocation on the floor of the Duluth stock exchange, inflicting injuries for which he asks damages.

Prize Masquerade

Will be held by the Danish Sisterhood, Feb. 10, at Kalamazoo hall.

Prisoner Dies at County Jail.

Harry Newell, 35 years old, who was serving forty days for vagrancy, died suddenly at the county jail Saturday afternoon. He had eaten his dinner and was back in his cell when he was taken with a fit. He expired before medical aid could be secured. Coroner McCuen performed an autopsy from which it was learned that death was caused by a dilation of the heart.

James A. Wharton

has moved his law offices to 909-10 Torrey building. Zenith 2348-D.

Friedman Goes East.

J. J. Friedman of Friedman's Cloak and Suit House, left this afternoon for New York to complete the spring and summer purchases for his store. Mr. Friedman will spend a month in the Eastern markets.

Lincoln Day Services.

The First Church of Christ Scientist, Ninth avenue east and Superior street, will hold services in honor of Abraham Lincoln at 10:45 a. m., Saturday, Feb. 12.

PERSONAL

D. A. Willard of the Board of Trade, left last evening for New York, where he will be joined by his brother, a noted archaeologist, for a trip to inspect the ruins of Yucatan and Guatemala.

Bishop James McGolrick of the Catholic diocese of Duluth left yesterday for New York on business connected with his plan for the colonization of land in Becker, Hubbard and Clearwater counties.

Harry A. Dinham will leave tomorrow for a month's trip to the Pacific coast.

Mrs. A. C. Voek and son, Colton of 2026 East First street left this afternoon for Los Angeles, Cal., to remain the balance of the winter.

J. Collard of Deer River is at the McKay.

Peter McHarley of Hibbing is at the St. Louis.

Peter Johnson of Eveleth is at the St. Louis.

E. H. Dea of Bemidji is at the St. Louis.

A. C. Schmidt of Cloquet, spent Sunday in Duluth.

TO HAVE CURLING GAME IN THE OPEN

Curling as it was in the old days will take place on the St. Louis river at Fond du Lac Saturday afternoon.

Cameron Hewitt and T. F. McGilvary have long had a standing dispute as to which is the better old fashioned curler. Hewitt admits that McGilvary could maybe possibly get the better of him in a rink fitted up with modern conveniences, but insists that if he succeeds in getting Mr. McGilvary out on the open ice the said McGilvary will walk wearily back to the city with the small end of the score.

Today Hewitt issued his ultimatum. "Play me on the St. Louis river Saturday afternoon," he said to Mr. McGilvary over the telephone and Mr. McGilvary said he would do it. Neither Mr. Hewitt or Mr. McGilvary will give out the members of their rink.

This afternoon Mr. Hewitt and his lead, second and third got out on the river and were busily engaged in shoveling snow to the wonderment of the small boys of the neighborhood who thought they were cleaning a place for them to skate. They were enthusiastic in their work and they claim that by Saturday if the weather remains cold they will have the best sheet of curling ice in the city. It is going to be a curling bonspiel with the entries limited to two.

Both skips are enthusiastic over having a real old fashioned curling game in the open and they promise that if the weather is good there will be things doing.

Passes Extradition Bill.

Washington, Feb. 7.—The senate today passed the bill providing for the extradition of criminals from one state to another on "information" as well as indictment proceedings.

FORMER MINOT MAN CUTS HIS THROAT

Moorhead, Minn., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—August Anderson, between 50 and 60 years of age, was found dead in a room here this morning.

His throat was cut and a bloody razor lay by his side, pointing to suicide.

Twenty or more empty bottles of liquor on the floor gave evidence of a prolonged debauch.

He formerly lived at Minot.

HAIL REX AS KING.

Mardi Gras Crowds Greet Ruler of Their Gaieties.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 7.—Hailing Rex "King of the Carnival," New Orleans today approached the climax of Mardi Gras festivities. The sirens of the river craft and the cheering of thousands on shore welcomed the approaching monarch, as he came up the Mississippi river and landed from his royal yacht. The formality of turning over the keys of the city to him and his parade followed.

Every train into the city, including many specials, brought hundreds of visitors today. It is believed today that the Mardi Gras attendance today is the largest on record.

The pageant and ball of Proteus will take place tonight. Tomorrow the parade and ball of Rex will be given, followed at night by the pageant and ball of Comus.

SLUMP NOT ENDED YET

New York, Feb. 7.—Another exhibition of weakness in the stock market, with the resumption of business for the week, set conjecture to work in the financial market. Commission houses found themselves in receipt of large selling orders over the week end. The buying demand, on the other hand, proved languid.

Selling orders in many cases were for execution at the market or without restriction on the price. Values crumbled rapidly under these conditions, without any very large volume of transactions. Some stress was laid on the news from Washington as to the intention to introduce today the administration bill for federal corporations.

A round of banks and other institutions failed to elicit any news dealing with the further sensational declines in stocks. There was general discussion regarding the trust bill introduced in congress this afternoon, but conservative financiers saw no cause for uneasiness in that measure.

Liquidation of the industrial issues, as well as of the standard railway stocks continued throughout the morning session, many of these securities being offered "at the market," or for what they could bring. There was especial pressure against United States Steel, American Smelting and kindred issues.

During the noon hour new low prices were registered for many of the speculative stocks. In some instances the quotations were the lowest for more than half a year.

Such support as was in evidence was far too feeble to arrest the general selling movement which gathered momentum from the extensive operations of the short interest.

The severity of the day's liquidation was indicated by the extent of the decline. By the middle of the afternoon Amalgamated Copper had fallen 6 below Saturday's close, American Smelting 5¾, Reading 5 and United States Steel, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Interborough Metropolitan preferred, Consolidated Gas, Great Northern ore certificates between 4 and 5.

There was no news bearing on the decline, aside from the renewed professions of anxiety over the relations of corporations to the law. The outpouring of stocks was practically unchanged by an ineffective rally, although there was an occasional pause in the selling.

RAILROADS DO NOT EXPECT A STRIKE

Chicago, Feb. 7.—The local roads do not feel any concern over the possibility of the switchmen of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen voting in favor of a strike, according to a statement issued by the general managers' association today.

"Our reason for this assumption is that the executive officers of the various companies have met the men every day for more than two weeks and discussed the questions on an equal footing," says the statement, which continues:

"We have yielded many things for the sake of harmony which we did not think should be granted. In this way we reached an amicable agreement on twenty-seven of the forty rules; two others were withdrawn by the men, and the railroads have offered to submit those that could not be agreed upon to arbitration.

"When the railroads are willing to have a third party, elected government, decided the case under a law that was passed at the instigation of organized labor, it is not likely the men will fail to see the fairness of their attitude."

NEW LIBEL SUIT FILED.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 7.—A suit demanding $100,000 for alleged libel was filed today by the attorneys of Dr. B. C. Hyde against John G. Paxton, executor of the estate of Col. Thomas H. Swope. The charge of libel is based upon a letter written by Mr. Paxton to Stewart R. Fleming of Columbia, Tenn., also an executor of the Swope eestate, and real last Thursday by Mr. Paxton in a deposition given in another suit brought by Mr. Hyde demanding $600,000 from Mr. Paxton and other defendants for alleged libel.

FRANCO-AMERICANS UNITE TO HONOR FLYER.

New Orleans, Feb. 7.—Preceding the expected flights of Louis Paulhan today, the Franco-American citizens of New Orleans united in paying further tribute to the aviator in receptions and other social gatherings.

Announceng that he was anxious to appear in New Orleans without any guarantee of purse, because this city was one of the strongest French elements in the United States, Paulhan probably will undertake flights intended to add still further to his name as an international record breaker.

The promise of a cross-country run today drew thousands of spectators to the city park track, the origin of the prospective flight. Official announcement was made that the flights would be extended until next Sunday with the possible elimination of Thursday and Friday. Today Paulhan announced that he would use a large Farman biplane and also a Bleriot machine.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

SPEND MUCH IN DITCHES

Large Amount Expended in Northwestern Minnesota in Reclaiming Land.

About $2,000,000 Has Been Expended in the County of Polk Alone.

Crookston, Minn., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Few realize the enormous amount of money that has been spent in Northwestern Minnesota for drainage.

Polk county, the former home of George A. Ralph, now engineer of the state drainage board, and ex-county surveyor, began a comprehensive drainage system considerably in advance of most of the other counties. More money has been spent in this county than in any other in proportion to its size, although Marshall county has done an immense amount of drainage work during the past few years and has many other projects on foot.

Beltrami county will reclaim an immense amount of land with the big judicial ditch that is now being surveyed for the biggest drainage project in the history of the state.

In Polk county alone, County Surveyor Steener Steenerson, estimated that approximately $2,000,000 had already been spent with considerable work in prospect for this year.

He has just prepared a report which goes to State Engineer Ralph, which shows that there are 591.5 miles of county and judicial ditch in Polk county, which necessitated the removal of 5,233,000 cubic yards of dirt and cost $776,000.

Vast Territory Is Assessed.

For this work 972,000 acres of land were assessed for benefits and much more than that was benefited directly or indirectly. In addition there are several large state drainage ditches in Pike county, including the Snake river ditch, the Lost river ditch, the San Hill river state ditch and State Ditch No. 61, which is now being constructed and which will be finished next year. Mr. Steenerson estimates that the state ditches in this county have cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000, making a total of close to $2,000,000.

With the exception of one or two of the first ditches constructed, the entire system has been the result of a comprehensive plan, which, when completed, will be as near a perfect drainage system as the engineers could figure out. With few exceptions the main ditches have been constructed much larger than at first needed in order to take care of the water from the laterals, which will be constructed later. The individual farmers have constructed smaller private drainage ditches on their farms, so that a very short time after a heavy rainfall little water remains on the fields, preventing much delay during seeding time in the spring and saving crops which formerly were ruined or badly damaged in the low places. Among the larger drainage projects which will be completed this year is Judicial Ditch No. 17, between Polk and Marshall counties, which Messrs. Steenerson and Hines with crews have been working on. County Surveyor Steenerson has also completed the survey of Judicial Ditch No. 21 in Marshall county and County Ditches Nos. 24 and 28 in Marshall county.

NEW WARROAD PLANT.

Sawmill and Wood Alcohol Plant to Be Located There.

Warroad, Minn., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Oscar C. Olson, and other Warren men have been looking over this town with a view to selecting it as a location for a 30,000 feet daily capacity sawmill, a wood alcohol distillery, a two-ton per hour smelting capacity foundry, and a wood alcohol engine factory—all in one plant; but located in different buildings, covering an area of several acres.

After a thorough investigation, Mr. Olson, who is the principal stockholder of the concern, decided to locate his plant here, and will commence building operations as soon as a suitable site can be secured. The building and plant will cost not less than $50,000 when completed, the buildings to be constructed of concrete. A conservative estimate places the number of men to be employed in this plant at sixty-five to seventy-five the year around, warranting the belief that the population of the city will be increased to within the neighborhood of 300 people.

BIG DITCHING JOB ATTRACTS

Contractors Looking Over Gigantic Work in Marshall and Beltrami Counties.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—This city has been the Mecca for ditch contracts for a week. For the purpose of outfitting for the trip into the territory northeast of Thief River Falls in Marshall and Beltrami counties, where are located the great drainage projects which have been given much prominence by dailies during the winter. The contracts for the digging of these ditches will soon be let, and it is necessary that contractors view the location of the ditch as well as know what it will cost to move a cubic yard of the dirt. The immensity of one or two of the propositions can only be compared with the removal of surface dirt from the iron mines on the range, or with the construction of the Panama canal.

Judicial Ditch No. 11, is the greatest ditch project ever undertaken in the Northwest, includes about 500 miles of mains and laterials. It will drain over 260,000 acres in the two counties mentioned, and benefit as many more adjoining districts which are not exclusively lowlands. More than 5,540,000 cubic yards of dirt will be moved at a cost of $540,000 and it must be completed within three years. This great reclamation project will make available for homes, great tracts of the richest lands in the world.

ELECT DELEGATE TO DULUTH MEET

Progressive Farmers' Club of Sandstone Likes Producers' Co-operative Market.

Sandstone, Minn., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The monthly meeting of the Progressive Farmers' club here Saturday along with the examination held here for census enumerators brought many people to town.

The farmers' club meeting proved to be one of the liveliest held this winter and harmony and uniformity was the watchword. The object of the meeting was for each member of the club to state the amount of seed needed by him for spring planting so the officers of the club could place their order with a reliable house for seed of a uniform kind. All agreed to raise chiefly potatoes, onions and cabbage the coming season, as the soil here is well adapted for those vegetables—and some of Duluth's commission men will agree to that. Other vegetables will also be grown, but not so extensively as those mentioned.

Join Duluth Organization.

The subject of joining the Producers' Co-operative Market Association of Duluth was also discussed and gained favor at once by allowing the membership fee of $10 and delegating the secretary of the club, Louis Christensen, to attend the first annual meeting of that association to be held at Duluth next Thursday. Mr. Christensen is already affiliated with the new association, being one of its directors.

The building of a warehouse for storing vegetables was also considered and an effort will be made to interest the Sandstone Commercial club in the matter. This would be of great advantage to the former, as this town is without a storehouse for vegetables.

The Progressive Farmers' club will hold its next regular meeting on Saturday, March 5. Frank Gibbs of Merriam Park is expected to be present to give another of his instructive talks on what can be successfully raised on Pine county soil and in the "land of the big red clover."

GIVE WAY TO SETTLERS.

Big Shoe-Bar Cattle Outfit Sells Its Holdings.

Shafer, N. D., Feb. 7.—When the Shoe-Bar Percheron Horse company of thisplace sold to the Horse Sale Company of Dickinson recently another big ranching outfit of the slope country acknowledged defeat at the hands of the homesteaders.

The Shoe-Bar company, so called because of its brand, with G. M. Frye and W. Chase of Elk River, Minn., as proprietors, came into McKenzie county twenty years ago and ranged many thousand head of horses on public land. The company maintained headquarters on Seven-Mile creek, four miles south of Schafer, and until the county was organized five years ago and settlers began to file upon the land, ranged its herds over the present site of Schafer in summer and back into the "breaks" along the Little Missouri in winter.

The settlers have curtailed the range so rapidly that practically all the land north of the "breaks" is taken—several homesteaders' stakes standing within sight of the ranchhouse. This has brought the company's range down to the few hundred acres which it owns and the rough country in the hills. The herd at present numbers 400. When the deal is closed, a consideration of $40,000, it is expected, will be involved. The ranch property will be put on the market later.

NEW HANCOCK CHURCH DEDICATED ON SUNDAY.

Hancock, Mich., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Impressive exercises marked the dedication yesterday of the new Finnish Lutheran church.

Rev. Dr. J. K. Nikander, president of the Suomi college, delivered the dedicatory address and conducted the ceremonies with the assistance of other divines.

The pulpit was occupied by Rev. Albin Savola of Ishpeming, and the communion sermon was delivered by Rev. V. Rautanen, pastor of the Finnish Bethlehem church of Calumet, while Rev. Otto Stadius of Atlantic, with the pastor, Rev. John Back, performed the altar services.

A large choir organized for the occasion sang several numbers adapted to the day during the ceremonies, and the ladies of the church served refreshments at the conclusion of the services.

The first house of worship, a frame structure, was erected on the present site about twenty-five years ago. Six years ago [illegible] basement, walled with red Portage entry sandstone was [illegible]. The original building was destroyed by fire last March at an almost total loss. The walls of the basement remained intact, however, and provided an excellent foundation for the new structure, work upon which was commenced by Charles Lakso & Co. last May.

DEAN WOODS PAYS OFFICIAL VISIT

Inspects Crookston School of Agriculture for First Time.

Crookston, Minn., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dean Woods of the college of agriculture and Secretary Nye of the board of regents spent Saturday at the school of agriculture and the state experiment farm here. This was the first time a dean had ever visited the local school.

Dean Woods expressed much gratification over the class of work, the equipment of the school, the large attendance and the enthusiastic interest displayed by the students. He addressed the students, referring to the great work before them and promised his hearty support in every way. He was invited to be present at the commencement exercises and present the diplomas, and promised to do so if possible. The two visitors were entertained at luncheon at the school, inspected the buildings in the afternoon and returned to the city.

In the evening a reception was tendered them in the rooms of the Commercial club, Dean Woods, Secretary Nye and Senator Stephens speaking. Every business and professional man in the city was present.

TWO POLICE CHIEFS.

Larimore, N. D., Is Especially Well Provided Just at Present.

Larimore, N. D., Feb. 7.—This city is well provided with chiefs of police as two men are now acting in that capacity. Last summer when Dick Fadden was obliged to give up the work, Theodore Holton was appointed to the position. Recently the former chief recovered and when able to again take up his work, demanded that the keys, star, etc., be turned over to him. This Mr. Holton refused to do with the result that there are now two chiefs of police doing duty in Larimore. When Mayor Pifer returns to Larimore from the West, where he is on business, it is expected that the trouble will be settled.

NURSE ABUSED PATIENT.

Sensational Charge Against Employe of State Insane Asylum.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 7.—Charges of mistreatment of patients at the state hospital for the insane at Rochester are contained in a report submitted to the governor by the state board of visitors and turned over by the governor to the board of control for action.

The complaints were first made to the board of visitors by a man named Clifty, a nurse at the hospital, who was discharged two or three months ago.

J. T. Schain of Browns Valley, a member of the board, and J. C. Matchitt, the secretary, went to Rochester, two weeks ago and took testimnoy from Clifty.

He told of a number of instances where patients had been abused by the nurses but most of the instances were from six months to two or three years ago. One instance was cited where a male nurse, since discharged, had thrown a patient to the ground and kicked him and it was said that this man was seen abusing other patients and was not punished promptly.

The visitors made a transcript of their evidence, which they submitted to Dr. S. G. Smith, president of the board, and it was first intended to make a further investigation before making a report, but later it was decided to give the evidence to the governor. Members of the board refused to give out anything regarding their findings because they had only heard the discharged employe and had not given the management a chance to explain the charges.

Dickinson Seeks Candidate.

Dickinson, N. D., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The voters of Dickinson are beginning to cast about for mayoralty candidates, but so far without success. A petition by over 200 citizens was presented to Dr. V. H. Stickney requesting that he enter the field, but he was compelled to refuse to do so because of business reasons. There are some prospects of the commission plan of municipal government being brought up for consideration as there is a great deal of sentiment in the city favorable to it.

Arrest Milwaukee Collector.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 7.—According to Frederick H. Mohr, local manager of the Western Union Telegraph company, Elmer H. Westphal, aged 22, appropriated $725 while employed as a collector for the company. The shortage was discovered several months ago but the young man was not prosecuted. Having failed to make up any part of his shortage, he was arrested by Detectives Sullivan and Burns. He furnished bail for $800. His case was adjourned until Feb. 16.

BAD BANK MANAGEMENT.

Some Sensational Disclosures Are Expected at Lakota, N. D.

Lakota, N. D., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—No bank failure in North Dakota in recent years appears so complete as that of the Peoples' State bank here. A shortage of about $90,000 has been revealed, and the reckless methods of management are said to be responsible for this condition of affairs. State Bank Examiner Knudson is taking action looking to the appointmeent of a receiver for the institution.

The great shortage existing in the bank had not been generally known of until after the arrest of S. A. Floren, the cashier, and President Rahders on charges of falsifying reports to the state examiner. It is believed that there will be further developments when a receiver is named.

NEW JUDGE PRESIDING.

Judge Flannigan Holds His First Court at Menominee.

Menominee, Mich., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The February term of the circuit court of Menominee county opened this morning with Judge Richard C. Flannigan presiding, for the first time since his elevation to the bench.

The calendar which is one of the smallest terms, opens with the case of the People vs. August Schwartz, who shot and killed Anton Braderski at Cedar River on Christmas eve.

Tonight the members of the Menominee Bar association will tender a banquet to Judge Flannigan at the Hotel Menominee. The cities of the Twenty-fifth judicial circuit of Michigan, which includes the counties of Marquette, Iron, Dickinson, Delta and Menominee, will be largely represented.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Janesville—Walter Barnes, wanted in Chicago, for the murder of Mrs. Mary Servos, is believed to be the man under the name of King, who visited here three weeks ago and secured $60 from a hotel man on a bogus check. King was represented to be an advance agent for a theatrical company which has no existence.

Racine—C. S. Harris, once proprietor of the leading saloon in Racine, died Saturday at the county house, aged 75. He came originally from Canada, and has been a resident here for fifty years. He was considered one of the wealthiest men in the city at one time, but gave away a fortune to poor people, and also loaned money enough to make another fortune.

Marshfield—By economic management of the city water, electric light and power plant, the commission announced a reduction of 20 per cent in the charge of electricity to the public, making the price 12 cents per 1,000 watt hours, instead of 15 cents. Since under municipal ownership, six years ago, the plant has been entirely remodeled and improved.

Oshkosh—Charles McGoorty, brother of Eddie McGoorty, the pugilist, who is now in Ireland, was seriously injured Friday afternoon, while attempting to board a train. He intended going to Milwaukee, arrived at the depot a little late, and tried to get aboard while the train was moving. He was dragged some distance and his scalp was cut, one of his toes was crushed and he received other injuries.

Ashland—At the annual meeting of the Advancement association directors were elected as follows: A. P. Andrus, Van Dooser, C. H. Clark, T. B. Culver, M. S. Hosmer, C. A. Lamoreux, C. A. Rudquist. The annual report of Dr. Dodd made a good showing.

Waukesha—Clark Smith, aged 73 years, one of the oldest locomotive engineers in Wisconsin in years of service, committed suicide at his home by shooting himself in the left temple with a 32-caliber revolver.

Madison—The case of William Collins of Richland Center, University of Wisconsin freshman who is charged with having passed forged checks, was postponed by agreement of attorneys to Wednesday morning next. Friends of young Collins are still doing everything possible to save him from prison.

Manitowoc—Lieut. Gov. John Strange of Neenah and Neal Brown of Wausau will debate on the subject of taxing water powers and state ownership and control at Two Rivers Feb. 15 upon invitation of the Century club.

Fond du Lac—Joseph E. Murray, a clerk in the postoffice, was taken into custody by Postoffice Inspector Reidenbach, Green Bay, charged with opening letters from which he is alleged to have taken money. He was a trusted employe.

Madison—James J. Lyons, a milkman, was found hanging by a rope from a rafter in his barn.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Menominee—Joseph Wanek has been retained by Robert Beutel, who has become the sole owner of the interests formerly controlled by the Beutel Fish company, as the manager of the local branch of the business.

Greenland—Mrs. Anton Wellman died at her home here Feb. 1. She was born in Germany, July 2, 1848, and came to America at the age of 4 years, and came here thirty-six years ago.

Menominee—The mangled body of Charles Anderson was found by the crew of a Northwestern freight train between Daggett and Stephenson. The unfortunate man was walking along the track and he was struck by the train and killed.

Houghton—Joseph Croze, the Houghton tugboatman and shipyard owner, is working on a plan for the installation on Portage lake of a series of wireless telephone stations to be used in communication with the tugs in harbor here when there is a boat in distress on Lake Superior.

Hancock—An announcement has been received of the marriage of Chief Boatswains Mate Fred Nelson, shipkeeper of the Yantic. Mr. Nelson's bride is a Sturgeon Bay girl and the wedding took place at Green Bay.

Hancock—John Salmu, proprietor of the Cafe Du Nord has offered to donate to the Finnish Lutheran church a percentage of all his receipts upon the day of the church fair, to be given Saturday, Feb. 19, for the benefit of the building fund. The offer has been gratefully accepted.

Houghton—Laird Bagsley and Walter Brown of the mining school have left for Mexico City. Mr. Brown has accepted a position with a mining company in that city and Mr. Bagley goes to look over some matters he has in view in Mexico.

Calumet — The local letter carriers have elected the following officers: President, John Nekervis, Jr.; vice president, W. L. Martin; secretary, W. J. Allen; treasurer, C. G. Strand; sergeant-at-arms, Will Forster; trustee for three years, Armour Arnold.

Marquette—Timothy Nester, a former mayor of Marquette, is suing Thomas G. Sullivan, former president of Munising, in a Detroit court, for a share of the profits of an Ontonagon timber deal, in which he claims they were to share and share alike.

Houghton—Articles of association for the Bohemia Mining company have been filed and recorded in the office of County Clerk Richardson. The new concern is to be incorporated with a capital stock of $2,500,000, divided into 100,000 shares of a par value of $25 each. Seven Houghton men are the incorporators of the new concern and their property is in Ontonagon county.

Calumet — The body of the late Thomas Brown, who passed away in Butte, Mont., arrived here Sunday. The funeral will be held Monday afternoon from the residence of Mrs. Willian Gray, Amygdaloid street. Mrs. Gray is a sister of the deceased.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Warroad—The village council at its regular monthly meeting passed an ordinance whereby the Warroad Telephone company is granted the privilege of operating its system in the village for ten years more.

International Falls—The directors of the Koochiching County Agricultural society at a recent meeting held at Northome, appropriated $101.25 to be paid out in prizes in the industrial contest for school children and for school exhibits at the 1910 fair.

Detroit—The lack of cars and switching facilities on the Northern Pacific forced the Fargo-Detroit Ice company to resort to teams for the purpose of filling their uptown icehouses. The task is now nearly completed.

Walker—A debating society has been organized at the schoolhouse with Ely Wright as chairman, Miss Kinkele secretary and G. Nordquist treasurer. At the regular meeting for next Wednesday the following will form the subject of a debate; "Resolved, That the policy of the national forestry bureau should be continued."

Warren—C. Wittensten and L. M. Olson have returned from Missoula, Mont., where with other Minnesota capitalists they organized a bank, which opened its doors for business Dec. 22. The new bank's deposits on the first day aggregated over $50,000, although there were already three banks in that city.

Hinckley—William Russell sold this week his house to J. S. Drake, who takes possession March 1. He also sold his blacksmith shop to Albert Zimbrick, who takes immediate possession. Mr. Russell will probably move to St. Paul, but may go to Omaha. He will work for the Austin-Western Manufacturing company selling their line of machinery on the road.

Pine City—A double wedding took place at St. Joseph's Catholic church at Beroun Tuesday morning last. The contracting parties were Martin Lahada and Miss Mary Slama and Philip Lahada and Miss Mary Zbytovsky. The brides resided with their parents at Beroun and the grooms are residents of Canada. Both couple will go to Canada to reside.

St. Hilaire—The St. Hilaire Co-operative creamery has elected the following officers: President, E. A. Aubol; vice president, O. L. Larson; secretary, J. S. Roy; treasurer, Charles Gustafson; director, A. Anderson. The total of business one year ago shows a total of $64,556.47; last year a total of $74,356.57, or a material increase of about $10,000.

Red Lake Falls—The Red Lake Falls band has elected these officers: Manager, Vern Healy; secretary-treasurer, Harry Garceau; directors, F. F. Frennd, A. L. Brunelle, Omer Hall and J. P. Harren.

Blackduck—L. F. Parker has been elected captain of the running team which is to participate in the races at the next firemen's tournament which meets at Bemidji July 4, 5, and 6.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Lansford, N. D.—Lansford boasts of having the cheapest gas of any city in North Dakota, the charge being only 25 cents per thousand feet. The natural gas wells near the city, from which the supply is obtained, are still showing up in splendid shape, and it is thought that the city has a permanent supply.

Edinburg, N. D.—The Walsh County Law and Order league, having for its purpose the strict enforcement of the prohibition law, was organized at a mass meeting here. The plan of the league is to secure members all over the county who will be on a continued lookout for violators of the prohibition law.

Fargo, N. D.—M. J. O'Connor, superintendent for Contractor Kennedy at Salt Lake, wires that he has just secured a $170,000 contract for sewer extensions in the Mormon City. Contractor Kennedy is just completing a $90,000 job, and the work was so well done it made it easy for him to secure the additional work.

Grand Forks, N. D.—A Washington dispatch says that the president and the postmaster general have under advisement Congressman Hanna's recommendation that Frank V. Kent be appointed postmaster at Grand Forks, but no action is expected for a few days.

Bismarck, N. D.—Miss Bessie Gilbert of this city received a telegram Thursday informing her of the death of her twin sister, Mrs. Jessie Gilbert Sanders, at her home in North Yakima, Wash., of tuberculosis Wednesday morning. Mrs. Sanders was well known in this city, having been born here and graduating from the public schools in 1905.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Norman Kauffman, 9 years old, was struck in the forehead with a good sized chunk of ice Friday and the bruise will be a very painful one. The lad was passing the Y. M. C. A. building on Fifth street when the sharp piece of ice struck him.

Langdon, N. D.—B. E. Groom filed his resignation as superintendent of the Cavalier county schools, to take effect immediately. The board of county commissioners appointed Dan Ridlington, superintendent of the Langdon city schools to fill the vacancy.

Fargo, N. D.—The program for the commencement exercises of the farm husbandy class at the agricultural college March 23 is now complete. These exercises constitute one of the big events of the year of the agricultural college.

Osnabrock, N. D.—Charles A. Olson has entered the field as a candidate for representative from the Fortieth district.

Cooperstown, N. D.—A Rural Improvement league has been organized by the farmers residing in this district, the purpose of which is to improve conditions on the farm.

Larimore, N. D.—The Commercial club has elected the following officers: President, O. H. Phillips; vice president, Dr. A. T. Rowe; treasurer, A. P. Lord; secretary, J. Dexter Pierce. After the election, A. Stonehouse, the outgoing president, and O. H. Phillips, president-elect, each gave a short and interesting informal talk.

Jamestown, N. D.—R. G. Gust, aged 50 years, died at the state hospital and the remains were shipped to Hankinson for burial, accompanied by his wife and son. Deceased had been a patient at the hospital for over a year.

Minot, N. D.—After an interesting preliminary hearing held in county court, Ed. Hall, a deputy sheriff from McLean county, was bound over to the next term of the county court on the charge of assault and battery, the charge being preferred by Mrs. Mary Sanborn, the wife of a Russian farmer living near Max.

WORTH MOUNTAINS OF GOLD

During Change of Life, says Mrs. Chas. Barclay

Graniteville, Vt. — "I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter." — MRS. CHAS. BARCLAY, R.F.D., Graniteville, Vt.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures of female ills as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been the standard remedy for female complaints such as inflammation, ulceration, local weaknesses, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life. It costs but little to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and, as Mrs. Barclay says, it is "worth mountains of gold" to suffering women.

ON THE IRON RANGES

COLERAINE READY FOR TOURNAMENT

Great Steel Slide in Place for Big Doings Saturday and Sunday.

Coleraine, Minn., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The big steel ski slide erected on Trout lake hill for the national ski tournament to be held here next Saturday and Sunday is completed and is ready for the ski jumpers.

All of the prominent ski riders of America, both professional and amateurs as well as several from foreign lands, have been entered for the contests.

Provision is being made by the committees to entertain all visitors to the tournament in a most hospitable manner, and besides plenty to eat and drink and places to sleep, divers methods of entertainment are planned.

Special Train from Duluth.

Arrangements have been completed with the Great Northern to run a special train from Virginia, Hibbing and intermediate points, and negotiations are being made with the Missabe road for a special from Duluth.

In the tournament Saturday, the amateurs' class and the boys' class will compete for special prizes, commencing at 2.30 o'clock in the afternoon.

The cross country run will be held Sunday morning.

The expert class will compete on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock sharp for cash prizes aggregating $500, and in addition there will be competitive jumps for the national association medal, the Nor trophy cup and the Hartley cup.

VIRGINIA WILL VOTE TUESDAY

Friends of Mayor Hawkinson Are Predicting His Re-election.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tomorrow's election and the friends of the present administration predict its retention in office, although numerous bets are being made that Former Mayor Eaton will come out a winner

Mayor Hankinson's supporters predict that he will carry the city by at least 300. Two to one bets are being offered that Judge Carey will carry the city by 500 against his opponent, Louis M. Osborn. The polls of election will open at 6 o'clock and close at 7 o'clock in the evening and the places for voting in the several wards are as follows:

First ward, fire hall; Second ward, Finnish Temperance hall; Third ward, Northern hotel; Fourth ward, city hall; Fifth ward, Mitchell hotel; Sixth ward, Bell's sales stable.

HIBBING SKI CLUB POSTPONES MEET

Tournament Planned for Next Sunday Gives Way to National Affair.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the meeting of the local ski club Sunday afternoon in the municipal courtroom it was decided to postpone the tournament to be held here next Sunday indefinitely. It was decided to send Oscar Melgaard as representative of the club to the national tournament to be held at Coleraine Feb. 19 and 20. It was also decided to enter as the club's representative in the amateur class Messrs. Munter Jackson and Capp.

President Martin Imbertson who has done so much in the interest of skiing in Hibbing has been selected as the club's delegate to the national convention in Coleraine in conjunction with the tournament.

This evening the newly elected officers of the Commercial club will hold their first meeting and decide on who to send to the meeting of the Northern Minnesota Commercial clubs. The meeting will, as usual, be held in the council chambers and President McEachen desires a full attendance so as to make the meeting more representative than usual.

The local Knights of Pythias entertained their neighboring brothers from Nashwauk right royally Saturday evening. After the initiations in which both lodges assisted a lunch was served.

HIBBING CHILD BURNS TO DEATH

Two-Year-Old Son of Tony Rosich Gets Too Near Stove.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.—The 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Rosich of the French location, was burned to death Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Rosich left the little one for a few minutes playing on the kitchen floor while she went after some water. In some manner the clothing of the little one was caught on fire and when the mother returned the clothes had been entirely burned off the child and nothing remained, but a charred and blackened little heap of human flesh.

The funeral will be held today.

GILBERT VOTING ON WATER BONDS

Question of Issuing $15,000 Is Being Decided Today.

Gilbert, Minn., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gilbert is voting today on the proposition of issuing $15,500 in bonds to defray the cost of building the water works system.

It is necessary to issue the bonds to complete the plant, as the village treasury is without funds.

At the Sparta end of the village the Steel corporation has spent about $50,000 installing water and sewer works as a concession to the Sparta people for moving over here and also plans to spend about $25,000 to complete the work.

EVELETH FORESTERS INSTALL

DON'T TRY PRESSURE

Trust to Intelligence.

You cannot by process of law prevent any one from drugging themselves to death. We must meet the evil by an appeal to the intelligence.

One of the drugs that does the most harm to Americans, because of its widespread use and apparent innocence, is coffee.

Ask any regular coffee drinker if he or she is perfectly well. At least one-half are not.

Only those with extra vigor can keep well against the daily attack of caffeine (in coffee.) The heart and pulse gradually lose strength; dyspepsia, kidney troubles and nervous diseases of some sort set in and the clearly marked effects of coffee poisoning are shown.

These are facts and worth any one's thought. The reasonable and sensible thing is to leave it off and shift to Postum. The poison that has been secretly killing is thus withdrawn and a powerful rebuilding agent put to work.

The good effects generally begin to show inside of ten days. If health and comfort are worth anything to you, try it.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE

"A Stubborn Cinderella" Better Than on Its First Appearance Here.

"A Stubborn Cinderella" proved a most refreshing surprise.

Ordinarily a second year musical comedy road company is somewhat frayed out at the heels, and suffers from a plethora of chorus antiques, voiceless song birds, and sad libels on the profession of comedian.

But fortunately Homer B. Mason has a reputation to sustain as a comedian, and Mr. Mason wisely refused to travel with anything but a first-class company, or to lend his name to any musical comedy that is not right up to the minute in supporting members and chorus. Mort H. Singer, the producer, also has a good reputation in the West, and he has good business sense enough not to send out any company that would damage this reputation. In fact, the critics all through the Middle West have been giving "A Stubborn Cinderella" notices just a little better than Mr. Singer's later productions.

While not as pretentious as some other musical productions that have been seen in Duluth this year, such as "The Merry Widow," "The Yankee Prince," "In Hayti" and "The Three Twins," it is doubtful if any of these furnish a better evening's entertainment. "A Stubborn Cinderella" may lack some of the glitter and show, but its music is tuneful, its comedy clean, its chorus well trained, and its cast thoroughly capable. On the whole it is better than on its first appearance here.

Homer B. Mason, is featured as "Mac." The comedian who can get away from the stereotyped antics of the comic Dutchman, or the funny Irishman, or the burlesque Hebrew, is a benefactor of the race, and deserves the thanks of a long suffering public. Mr. Mason doesn't use any makeup on his clean, wholesome looking features, and he is funny every minute he is on the stage. He has the rare faculty of getting the audience laughing with him, instead of merely at his antics.

A dainty, graceful little dancer is Miss Bessie Merriell, who appears as Lois. She has a passably good voice, and her numbers were thoroughly enjoyable. Miss Grace Kennicott in the title role, is also fully up to the standard, and fits into the role of Lady Leslie in a most acceptable manner.

The company boasts of many good dancers, and probably the best of them is Frank Carter as "Skeeter." He is a very strenuous, athletic young man, and his number "I'm in Love With All the Girls I Know" is one of the best in the production.

Among the others, who deserve special mention, are Charles Wilson as the lugubrious engineer; Don McMillan as "Fat"; George Romain as Col. Hunt, and Margaret Keeler as Lady Evelyn.

"A Stubborn Cinderella" will be repeated at the Lyceum tonight, and at the Grand in Superior on Tuesday.

Melodrama at Lyceum.

Tomorrow night at the Lyceum, George V. Haliday will present for the first time in Duluth his Franklin Stock company, recently organized.

The offering will be a melodrama entitled "Chinatown Charlie" in four acts. Seats are now on sale. Prices 15, 25, 35 and 50 cents.

WANT DAM REMOVED.

Pine County Farmers Hope to Reclaim 10,000 Acres of Land.

Claiming that the Munch dam on the Snake river is of no further use and that it should be destroyed so that 10,000 acres of land covered by the stream on account of it may be reclaimed, fifty farmers living on the river have brought suit in Pine county district court to secure an order for the removal of the dam. The case will be tried in the Pine county court Feb. 21, Joseph W. Reynolds of Duluth appearing for the plaintiffs.

The dam is owned by the Munch estate in St. Paul and the farmers claim that it was built with the permission of the state to aid lumbering operations fifty years ago. The industry having died out, they claim that the dam is of no further use and should be removed. If the plaintiffs prevail, they will come into possession of the land which now lies under the water.

HORSE ON THE PILOT.

Body of Animal, Killed By Locomotive, Carried Three Miles.

Oakes, N. D., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—A team owned by Moore Bros., local liverymen, was killed by a passenger train engine at Ludden, this county, in a peculiar manner. The horses were attached to a sleigh, one of the runners of which became caught in the railroad track just as a train was coming along.

The driver was unable to get the sleigh out of the way and as the train bore down on him, he jumped. The horses became frightened and one jumped to either side of the engine with the result that both were killed. One of the horses was carried on the pilot of the engine a distance of three miles, the engineer not knowing that he had struck anything.

CAN'T AGREE ON VERDICT

Jury Trying Mrs. Ford in Blackmail Case Is Finally Discharged.

Charges Against Woman in Big Four Affair May Be Dropped.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 7.—After twenty-four hours' deliberation, the jury in the case of Mrs. Jeanette Stewart Ford, charged with blackmailing Charles L. Warriner, the defaulting treasurer of the Big Four railroad, was unable to reach an agreement and was discharged. Judge Swing stated after he dismissed the jury that he had been informed that on the last ballot eight jurors had stood for acquittal and four for conviction.

The unexpected end to the sensational case was explained by two of the jurymen as due to the fact that a majority of their colleagues refused to give any credit to the testimony of Warriner. They asserted that a man who had confessed to embezzling for twenty-five years would not hesitate to perjure himself against a woman who, he believed, had been the cause of his exposure.

Prosecutor Hunt announced that he expected to bring the woman to trial again within the next three weeks. At the same time, he intimated that he might abandon the case.

MRS. JEANETTE STEWART FORD.

"Like Evelyn Thaw."

He asserted that the result of the trial was due to a "species of diseased mentality which seemed to affect American jurors and prevent them from convicting a woman on any charge." He declared the same process of reasoning was evident in the sympathy displayed for Evelyn Nesbit Thaw and Nan Patterson, to both of whom he compared Mrs. Ford.

Pending her new trial, Mrs. Ford was released under $2,500 bond, furnished by a holding company.

Attorney Thorndyke, who has conducted Mrs. Ford's defense, tonight stated that if his client was placed on trial again, he would go to Columbus and demand an investigation by the legislature into the Big Four shortage. Mr. Thorndyke declares he has sufficient information to persuade Governor Harmon to take up the matter.

Rumors have been persistently circulated, to the effect that there was much more involved in the Warriner defalcation than the convicted treasurer's individual embezzlements.

BILL GOES TO BOTH HOUSES

quire or hold the stock of a corporation formed under this act; and no such corporation will be permitted to have banking powers.

Forfeiture for Monopoly.

Forfeiture of charter may result if any corporation organized under the act shall enter into any contract, combination or conspiracy against interstate or foreign trade, or shall monopolize or attempt to monopolize any part thereof contrary to the provisions of the Sherman act, or shall otherwise violate the laws of the United States. The charters of all corporations are made subject to alterations, suspension or repeal by congress; the attorney general is given power to bring firfeiture proceedings, and the court may appoint a receiver.

Annual reports must be filed with the bureau of corporations and the commissioner of the bureau may call for special reports. Ten days after the declaration of any dividend of a financial statement showing the amount of net earnings, must be filed with the commissioner of corporations.

Americans as Directors.

At least a majority of the directors are required at all times to be citizens of the United States and bona-fide residents therein.

Stock may be paid for in cash or in property, but every certificate of stock issued in payment for property must state that it is so issued, and before any stock is so issued, a full statement sworn to by a majority of the board of directors must be filed in the bureau of corporations.

This statement must describe the property and set forth the price, the number of shares to be issued in payment, and whether such shares are to have a par value or not; the names and addresses of the vendors of the property, their connection, if any, with the company, the terms of any agreement with respect to the transfer of the property; all amounts paid or payable to each vendor; and if the vendors are directors of the corporation, or stockholders, a statement of the price paid or agreed to be paid by them for the property to be sold to the corporation.

Appraisement of Property.

Where the stock so to be issued has a par value, there must be filed an appraisement of the value of the property, approved in writing by the commissioner who may also appoint other appraisers. No stock with a par value may be issued in payment for property acquired by the corporation to an amount exceeding the value approved by the commissioner after such appraisement.

Provision is made for the increase or decrease of the capital stock and for other amendments to the articles of association by vote of two-thirds of the stockholders of the corporatin. On similar vote the corporation may borrow money, issue bonds and mortgage property or confer upon the holder of any bond or obligation the right to convert the principal after five years from date of the bonds into stock of the corporation of a designated class.

The approval of the commissioner of corporations must be secured before the capital stock can be increased to the amount necessary to provide for such conversion, and this right shall not be given unless the bonds are issued or sold at par or upwards, or if for less than par, then for not less than their reasonable market value as ascertained by the commissioner.

Meeting of Obligations.

When a corporation shall fail to pay any written obligation at maturity, or if any execution against its property shall be returned unsatisfied, the commissioner of corporations shall appoint a special agent to examine into its condition. If this agent reports that the corporation's condition is so unsound as to make its continuance in business contrary to public welfare, the commissioner may appoint a receiver. Within thirty days the corporation may apply to the nearest United States court to enjoin proceedings and the court may discharge the receiver and enjoin the corporation's interests from further proceedings.

The real and personal property of corporations are to be subject to state, county and municipal tax. Incorporation fees are to be amounting to one-tenth of 1 per cent of the total capital up to $10,000,000, one-twentieth of 1 per cent from $10,000,000 to $20,000,000 and $250 on every million dollars of capital in excess of $20,000.

HERE IS A REAL DYSPEPSIA CURE

No Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn or Headache Five Minutes Later.

The question as to how long you are going to continue a sufferer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia or out-of-order stomach is merely a matter of how soon you begin taking some Diapepsin.

If your Stomach is lacking in digestive power, why not help the stomach to do its work, not with drastic drugs, but a re-enforcement of digestive agents, such as are naturally at work in the stomach.

People with weak Stomachs should take a little Diapepsin occasionally, and there will be no more Indigestion, no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, no heartburn, Sour risings, Gas on Stomach or Belching of undigested food Headaches, Dizziness or Sick Stomach, and besides, what you eat will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors. All these symptoms resulting from a sour, out-of-order stomach and dyspepsia are generally relieved five minutes after taking a little Diapepsin.

Go to your druggist and get a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin now, and you will always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and what you eat will taste good, because your stomach and intestines will be clean and fresh, and you will know there are not going to be any more bad nights and miserable days for you. They freshen you and make you feel like life is worth living.

Several People Badly Bruised When N. P. Train Is Derailed.

Breaking of Wheel Causes Wreck Which Has No Serious Results.

The breaking of a wheel threw the rear coach of the northbound Northern Pacific passenger train due in Duluth at 6.25 p. m. last evening into the ditch four miles west of McGregor yesterday afternoon, injuring a dozen passengers, a few of them seriously.

The car rolled over. The smoker also left the tracks, but remained upright. Thirty other passengers on board escaped unscratched. Conductor Reed was in charge of the train.

Among those injured were C. R. Brandt, traveling man, left hand, head and back hurt; E. R. Miller of Wadena, produce merchant, left leg and side injured; Miss Bessie Nickander of Aitkin, teacher, left leg and elbow injured; Miss Alice O'Neil of Aitkin, teacher, back and shoulder hurt, and a small child, whose parents reside in Aitkin, was badly bruised. Dr. Braden of Duluth and Dr. Watkins of Carlton dressed the injured.

Mr. Miller and the child were placed in the hospital at Brainerd. Miss Nickander, Miss O'Nell and Mr. Brandt were taken to St. Mary's hospital in this city. The two women were ready to leave this morning and Mr. Brandt will be out in a few days.

the court-martial of the two officers was ordered.

Included in the list of witnesses for the defense is Miss Dorothy Hesler of Evanston, Ill., who is engaged to be married to the young surgeon. Paymaster Auld also is a witness. Much of the same evidence presented in the trial of Auld is expected to be used in the proceedings against Robnett.

May Go to Civil Courts.

Washington, Feb. 7.—In case Paymaster George P. Auld is convicted as a result of the court-martial held in Boston, the case may be carried to the civil courts. His father, Joseph Auld, who is in this city, declares that he will not hesitate to carry the case to the supreme court of the United States if he should think his son the victim of injustice.

"I have engaged no counsel here," he said, "but have received sound legal advice and am certain the general principle of law that a man cannot be punished twice for the same offense will hold good in this case. My son already has been reprimanded by Secretary Meyer, and we accept that as sufficient punishment. The court-martial came afterwards when we least expected it. I am here to see that my son receives fair play."

MARKET IS STRONGER

Buying By Shorts and Decrease in Visible Send Prices Up.

Flax Prices Jump, But Sag Back and Close Unchanged.

Duluth Board of Trade, Feb. 7.—The wheat market was stronger today on account of covering by shorts, accumulation of scattered lines by longs and buying on account of the decrease in the world's visible.

May wheat opened at $1.09⅞, sold at $1.09½@1.09⅝ up to $1.09¾, up to $1.10⅞ and then at $1.10⅞@1.10¾ and closed at $1.10⅞ bid. May flax opened weak at $2.15½ bid and sold at $2.17¼ and down to $2.17 on light buying and then at $2.16 and closed at $2.15½ bid, unchanged from the opening.

Wheat opened soft and weaker today on account of lower cables, continued large receipts in the Northwest and large world's shipments. The foreign market was off, Liverpool closing ⅜-¼c lower than Saturday's close. The foreign market opened weaker on account of lower American cables but became firmer toward midday because of an expected American upturn which occurred toward noon today. The Liverpool market declined toward the close, however, on account of heavy shipments and the increase of wheat on passage to the United Kingdom and the continent. Such shipments aggregated 6,592,000 bu against 3,962,000 bu last year. Offerings were made at ½@2d lower and buyers held aloof, causing a sagging market.

The American markets at the opening were easy and values sagged, but soon a buying movement from professional sources developed on account of the decrease in the world's visible supply, which was given at 939,000 bu. Corn decreased 265,000 bu and oats decreased 48,000 bu. The accumulations were made chiefly at Chicago, although the buying spread to the other American markets. At the same time the shorts were endeavoring to cover and the market became slightly congested. A few scattered longs added to the bullishness of a situation which seemed temporary, however, by taking on additional commitments.

Receipts in the Northwest were smaller than estimated Saturday. That receipts were not up to expectations was due to the congestion of traffic on Northwestern railroads. There are several million bushels of grain on track bound for the leading Northwestern markets, but the railroads are experiencing great difficulty in moving shipments. The switching situation is badly congested, the strike of switchmen being an important factor, despite statements to the contrary. The railroads are making efforts to keep terminals clear, but they are not meeting with much success. The railroads are getting out all of the grain that they can, and hope to make more headway as the week progresses. Some traders think the movement from the interior will increase, as the winter wheat crop is showing up in excellent shape, and farmers, they believe, will be less inclined to hold back their supplies. Country elevators have good stocks on hand, and there has been considerable feeding out of scattered lines.

Western North Dakota is said to be sold out, as farmers were not in as good condition to hold their wheat as the agriculturists in the older regions. In the latter sections farmers are not influenced by waves of hysteria, and if wheat prices seek much lower levels, some traders think they will shut off selling altogether. Others look for feeding out of supplies on a further decline. In the Southwest farmers are holding back and refuse to sell on the present break. It was reported that the largest receiving house in St. Louis got only four cars last week.

Millers have cancelled some wheat lately and the sales to mills have been small. Business with interior mills is slow although the city mills report a moderate business. Cash wheat today was in better demand than the latter part of last week, except that soft No. 1 northern was rather slow. In the Southwest the feature of the cash market is No. 2 red which has been selling at around $1.30. Cash here was on a parity with May.

The most important factor in the receipts at the Head of the Lakes is oats. The farmers appear to be feeding out liberal lines compared with several days ago. The supply of oats here increased 252,687 bu. last week, making total stocks 1,988,617 bu.

Wheat stocks at the Head of the Lakes last week increased 454,693 bu., total stocks aggregating 3,982,693 bu. compared with 6,906,468 bu. a year ago. Minneapolis stocks increased 275,000 bu. in the last two days.

Some traders look for further declines, as they point out that prices are only around 2c lower than December's closing values in the face of a multiplicity of bearish factors.

* * *

The short interest in corn is said to be larger than for some time. Prices have had a big break. The farmers do not appear to be selling and elevator men do not know which way to turn because their supplies of corn will need constant attention to keep in good condition as soon as the weather moderates.

* * *

A report from Kansas City said that there has been a large demand for money from farmers who have not disposed of their supplies.

* * *

So long as the farmer is not a free seller of cash grain and buys futures in the pit on breaks the speculator has to content himself with small profits on the turns spread over a day or two.

* * *

From Edgar, Neb., Kinyon wired Finley, Barrel & Co.—"Old wheat 80 per cent marketed. Elevators have no stocks of either wheat or corn on hand."

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Bearish Sentiment Predominates in Early Wheat Trading.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—Bearish sentiment predominated in the early transactions in the wheat pit today, and opening figures showed a general decline of ⅛@⅝c. The volume of trade was not large. Weakness in the Liverpool market and lower prices for La Plata cargoes contributed to the downward movement here. Some covering trades later gave a tinge of strength, May creeping up to $1.09⅛, even with Saturday's close. The record at that price, however, was only momentary, and in the first hour the greater part of the trading was at about the opening figures which for May were $1.08¾@1.09.

The smallest visible supply of wheat in the United States in twenty years at this date was the cause of a sharp advance later in the day. May went up to $1.10¼ from $1.08⅝. The close was strong with May at $1.09⅞, which was ¾c higher than Saturday's final.

Corn also fell off, the opening being a shade to ⅜c lower, under the influence of large receipts and a slow demand for cash corn.

The market continued generally weak, rallying slightly late in the day, influenced by the strength of wheat. The close was firm with May at 65⅜@65½c, a price ¼c lower than Saturday's final.

The low levels held the bulk of trade in the first hour, fluctuations not exceeding ⅜c. May fell off from 65⅝@65¼c. Opening prices for that month were 65⅝@65⅜c.

In sympathy with other grain, oats showed a downward trend, opening figures being ⅛@¼c lower. In the first hour May touched 45¾@45⅞c and rested at the low level. Opening figures for that option were ⅛c off at 46⅛c.

Contrary to the course of grain, provisions developed strength under the influence of a fair demand and higher prices for live hogs. At the opening the prices were unchanged to 10c higher, and in the first hour advanced 5@15c, steadying at the high point. Opening figures for May: Pork, $22.10@22.12; lard, $12.10, and ribs, $11.75.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

May Wheat Opens Steady and Closes at an Advance.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 7—May wheat opened steady with Saturday's close. The big increase in the world's shipments made the market fall off ⅜c early, but the falling off of 939,000 bu in the United States visible made the situation stronger. The near option advanced 1⅜c above the low point and closed ¾@⅞c higher than the opening. Local elevator stocks of wheat increased 275,000 bu for two days. Sentiment among the local trade was mixed. Minneapolis today received 574 cars of wheat as compared with 526 cars a year ago; Duluth, 26 cars against 21, and Winnipeg 129 against 64. May opened at $1.09½, high, $1.10⅛@1.10⅝, low $1.09¼; close $1.10¼@1.10⅜; July opened at $1.09, high $1.10⅛@1.10¼, low $1.08¾, close $1.09⅞@1.10. Cash wheat was about steady. Demand was strong for the good grades, especially those cars that could be reloaded for shipment. Soft Minnesota wheat met slow inquiry. No. 1 northern sold for 1¼@2c above May and No. 2 northern for ¼c under to the even May price. Closing prices on track: No. 1 northern $1.11@1.12, to arrive $1.10¾@1.12; No. 2 northern $1.09@1.10, to arrive $1.08¾@1.10; No. 3 wheat, $1.04@1.09; No. 3 yellow corn, 57¾@58¼c; No. 3 white oats, 44⅛@44⅜c; No. 2 rye, 74¾@76¾c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,137 tons. There was no change in the situation today. Demand continued strong, shipments heavy and prices firm. Bran in 100-pound sacks, $23.00@23.50.

The flour market was about steady, demand fair to good. Nearly all the local mills are running full on accumulated orders. Shipments, 67,651 bbl. Prices unchanged. First patents in wood f. o. b. Minneapolis, $5.40@5.60; second patents, $5.20@5.40; first clears, $4.35@4.45; second clears, $3.10@3.40.

Flax—Receipts, 42 cars; year ago, 31 cars; shipments, 3 cars. Demand strong for spot and to arrive at ½c above the Duluth May option. Cash offerings light, as nearly all the cars received arrived on sale. Closing price, $2.16¼.

Barley—Receipts, 111 cars; year ago, 99 cars; shipments, 64 cars. The market was easier today. Prices were unchanged to 1c lower, according to weight and quality. Demand only fair for both feeding and malting grades. Closing prices were off 1c. Closing range, 57@64c.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 7.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Receipts for the week have been abnormally heavy and while the outgoing movement has been of good proportions it left a large number of offerings to be carried over to the big Wednesday auction, when the consignment will equal 600 head of farm mares and horses. Mules met with fair inquiry. Dakota and Montana buyers dominate the market and heavy shipments to those states are expected the coming week.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Feb. 7.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 7@13 points, in response to very bullish cables, the bigger spot business reported from the South and reports of an increasing demand for manufactured goods. There was heavy realizing on the basis of 15 cents for May, but offerings were absorbed on a reaction of 5 or 6 points. The market soon firmed up again on covering and bull support, with prices during the middle of the morning showing a net gain of 9@15 points.

Futures closed firm; closing bids: February, 14.95; March, 14.96; April, 14.94; May, 15.05; June, 14.96; July, 14.95; August, 14.38; September, 13.42; October, 12.96; November, 12.84; December, 12.79.

DOWNWARD GO STOCKS

Many Selling Orders, Without Restriction on Prices, Flood Market.

New York, Feb. 7.—Prices of stocks started at sharp recessions from last week's closing, losses running to a point or more in a number of the speculative issues. Four thousand shares of United States Steel sold at 79½ and 78⅞ compared with 80 on Saturday. Chespeake & Ohio fell 1⅜, Amalgamated Copper 1¼, St. Paul 1⅛, Reading, Rock Island, American Smelting and United States Rubber 1 and Southern Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, Wabash preferred and American Car large fractions.

A precipitate decline brought the level of the market from 1 to 3 points below Saturday's closing. Covering of shorts accompanied strong support and caused a recovery of about half this loss, but another break carried prices to a lower basis than before. The metal group and the high-priced railroad stocks were the weak features. American Smelting dropped 3⅝, Westinghouse Electric 3, Southern Pacific and Amalgamated Copper 2¾, Reading, Laclede Gas, Rock Island and American Sugar 2½, Chesapeake & Ohio 2⅜, and Union Pacific, St. Paul, United States Steel and American Car 2.

There was a brief pause in the decline but it was renewed and losses were widely extended. Reading, Southern Railway preferred, Utah Copper and Westinghouse Electric fell four, Amalgamated Copper 3¾, United States Steel, 3½, Chesapeake & Ohio, 3⅜, Southern Pacific, 3¼, Rock Island 3⅛; Union Pacific 3 and Delaware & Hudson, Northern Pacific, Great Northern preferred, Denver & Rio Grande, St. Louis & San Francisco second preferred, Consolidated Gas, International Pump, Colorado Fuel and Pacific Mail, 2 to 2¼. Bonds were irregular.

There was no letup in the stream of liquidation, each successive dip uncovering stop-loss orders which drove prices down further. United States Steel went down 4½ to 75½ and Union Pacific 4¼ to 179½. Other large declines were, Amalgamated Copper, 6; American Smelting, 5⅜; Reading, 5; National Lead, 4⅜; Chesapeake & Ohio, 4⅜; Great Northern ore certificates, 4; Wabash preferred, 3⅝; American Car, 3½; Chicago Great Western preferred and Pittsburg Coal preferred, 3½, Anaconda, 3¼; Northwestern, Great Northern preferred and Colorado Fuel, 3, and Brooklyn Transit, 2¾.

The market closed excited and feverish. The bears covered their shorts towards the end of the day and rallied prices between 1 and 2 points from the lowest. Buying was in large volume on the recovery but it was not fully held. There were some abrupt reactions at the last.

NO MOVE YET IN PROPOSED INQUIRY

Neither Senate Nor House Has Report on Cost of Living Resolutions.

Washington, Feb. 7.—No report was made today by Chairman Kean of the senate committee on contingent expenses on either of the resolutions before the members providing for an investigation of the increased cost of living. Action was delayed in order that the senate leaders might confer with reference to formulating some form for thorough inquiry and to determine at once just what the scope the investigation shall be.

Some senators think that the executive departments, including the newly organized tariff board, will be able to supply much of the data desired. The departments will be called upon for statements of what may be expected from them.

Indications are that an agreement will be reached in time to report a resolution for an investigation with a statement of the probable cost thereof tomorrow, or Wednesday at the latest.

The rules committee of the house spent some time today considering the Payne-Clark resolution providing for a food inquiry by the house ways and means committee, but no action was taken. Some of the house leaders are in favor of joint action by the senate and house.

IRON RIVER WINNERS.

Basket Ball Team Too Strong for the Mason Five.

Iron River, Wis., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the basket ball game here Saturday night, between the school teams of Mason and Iron River, the Mason boys were outclassed in every point of the game. While the game was too one-sided to be exciting, the Iron River boys held the interest of the spectators by their fast team work and skillful basket shooting. The score at the end of the first half was 28 to 7, and at the end of the game 58 to 11.

Representatives Are Told That White House Meat Was Far Under Grade.

Washington, Feb. 7.—That bad beef, some of it ready to fall to pieces, was served at the White House during ex-President Roosevelt's occupancy, was the testimony of District Food Inspector Dodge today before the house committee engaged in investigating the high cost of living in the District of Columbia.

Dr. Dodge stated that it was the custom of a steward at the White Hoouse to buy a quarter of beef and hang it up until it was ripe, or "ready to fall to pieces' as the inspector described it, when it would be cut up and served on the White House table. Members of the committee expressed disgust over Mr. Dodge's revelations.

Further, Inspector Dodge testified many of the wealthy people of the national capital were accustomed to eat from choice meat that had turned black and was well on the road to decomposition, because it was more tender.

Bought Condemned Meat.

He related an incident of one of his visits to a fashionable Washington market where he found a quarter of beef, black and apparently unfit for human food. He condemned it, and was about to pour kerosene over it and burn it when the proprietor interfered and told him that they had many wealthy customers who always ordered from such pieces of meat. While the inspector was present a footman for a wealthy family came in and ordered a cut from the piece which had been condemned.

"Gratification of canine appetites," commented Representative Johnson of Kentucky, who asked Inspector Dodge if this class of meat was kept in the same coolers with beef intended for "civilized people." The inspector replied that it was.

THE POLICE COURT GRIST

Gust Engstrom Had $1,000 But Stole Box of Snuff.

Punishment Meted Out to Many Guilty of Petty Offenses.

Worshippers at the shrine of Bacchus became unusually strenuous Saturday night, the fluids of the flowing bowl inflaming their spirits until they could no longer tread peaceable paths. Strenuous action was required to work off the superfluous energy.

Gust Peterson went into a small restaurant on West Superior street near Seventh avenue. Becoming dissatisfied he cleaned the place out with a big pocket knife. No one was hurt, thanks to the policeman who took a hand and put him behind the bars. This morning he pleaded guilty to being drunk and disorderly and drew a fine of $40 and costs or thirty days.

George St. Arnold and William Peterson made themselves at home in John Peterson's saloon at 2008 West Superior street after the proprietor had gone to bed. They tried to consume all the liquor in the place and also got a 16-year-old boy drunk. This morning both admitted that they had been drunk. It was shown that St. Arnold had gone to the place on Peterson's invitation. He got off with $3 or three days, while Peterson got $10 and costs or ten days. Both men said they have families.

* * *

The case of Gust Engstrom was strange. He stole a cartoon of snuff from the Wright-Clarkson Mercantile company Sunday night, although he has nearly $1,000 saved up in the bank. He has been in the employ of the company two years and was trusted. Engstrom said that his friends have been constantly asking him "Har du snuss?" adding that he ought to have plenty as he worked in a wholesale house where there's plenty of it. He evidently decided to supply the demand and Sunday when he went to do some work he placed a package outside. When he came to get it about 10 o'clock he was caught by Patrolman Honnold. He pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs.

* * *

Frank Gardner, bartender at the Buffalo saloon on East Superior street, was arrested this morning charged with selling liquor to George Drennan and Norman McPherson, two minors, a week ago today. The alleged sale was disclosed with the arrest Saturday morning of the McPherson boy. He had stolen some jewelry from his folks to get money enough to take him out of the city. He was apprehended in the Union station shortly before he took the train. Gardner entered a plea of not guilty.

* * *

Mike Sagan was arrested Saturday evening charged with stealing a watch and some clothing from a boarding house at 701 West Superior street. Up to noon no one had appeared at headquarters to make a complaint, and it looked as though he would be released for want of evidence.

* * *

John Saarinen, the man who filled his pockets with $3 worth of stuff in the Five and Ten Cent store Saturday, pleaded guilty to petty larceny and was fined $50 and costs or 50 days. He had trinkets in his hat, his boots and in every pocket.

RAILROADS

THROUGH FREIGHT SERVICE BEGINS

First Train Arrives in Duluth Under New Arrangement on Soo.

Through freight service between Duluth and Chicago over the Chicago division of the Soo, has been established.

The announcement was made at the office of the company today. The first train reached Duluth this morning and will leave this evening for Chicago.

Before the arrival of the through train from Chicago this morning there was service between the two cities over the Chicago division of the Soo, but it was local service and way freight. The new service is on a fast schedule, and the train makes the trip right through to Chicago.

The placing in operation of the new service is the result of an increase of freight tonnage in the local service along the new Chicago-Duluth line. There has been a constantly increasing traffic on the line, so great that it was deemed advisable to put on the through service to handle it.

The new train will arrive at Duluth every second morning and will leave upon the same evening for the return trip.

ROADS CANNOT FURNISH CARS

Much Rolling Stock Is Frozen In and Shippers Plead in Vain.

Demands of shippers for cars are unavailing on certain railroads of the West. Both the Omaha and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul at the present time are very much in need of cars, owing to the fact that many of their cars are frozen in and will be of no use to the companies until they are dug out of the snow banks.

Cars are very much in demand at the present time and there are 4,000 men employed on the Omaha in digging out the cars. The Milwaukee has also a large force of men attempting to free its cars.

There are many loaded cars destined for Duluth that are snowbound somewhere in the West. There are also many empties frozen in. The result of the freeze-in has been to tie up traffic and cause a temporary car shortage that is worrying the local shippers as well as shippers in other parts of the country.

Railroad Notes.

P. D. Lyon, Northwestern passenger agent for the Rock Island, is in the city today.

Homer Gray, traveling passenger agent for the Illinois Central, is in the city today.

McPHERSON IS ON TRIAL

Sailor Must Answer for Killing of Shipmate on North Lake.

Self-Defense Will Be Urged to Secure an Acquittal.

Charles E. Maittison, lineman, Duluth Telephone company.
A. M. Johnson, clerk, Northern Pacific railroad office.
James Bourestom, dealer in rugs.
Samuel Kitto, furrier, Tower, Minn.

At the noon hour today but four jurors had been secured in the case of the state of Minnesota against Jackson McPherson, for the murder of Otto Frey, aboard the steamer North Lake of the Mutual Transit line on Sept. 22 last. The charge is murder in the second degree and conviction, carries with it a penalty of life imprisonment.

Many jurors were examined and but few retained. Nearly all the men had heard of the case and discussed it and had made up their minds as to the guilt or innocence of the accused man. It is probable that the entire day will be given over to the task of securing a jury.

There seems to be but little interest in the case, and those that were in attendance this morning found the proceedings extremely dull and uninteresting. The taking of testimony will begin tomorrow, if the jury is complete when court opens.

McPherson's plea will undoubtedy be self-defense, and it is more than probable that he will go on the stand in his own behalf.

The shooting happened about noon, Sept. 22. The men were both employed on the boat and the fight occurred in the bunk room. McPherson claimed that Frey had taken some wearing apparel, and Frey had denied knowledge of the missing property. One word led to another and there was was a struggle. During the mix-up McPherson reached into his bunk and drew out the revolver. It is claimed that he then said: "Look out or I will shoot." Frey, it is claimed, said: "Shoot and be damned." The shots were fired and Frey died almost instantly.

McPherson took a keen interest this morning in the selection of the jury and frequently consulted with his attorney in whispers. He is alive to the situation and frequently signified his approval and disapproval of those being examined.

The accused man appears to be between 35 and 40 years old. He is about medium size, has brown hair and a mustache of the same color. This morning he was neatly attired in a gray business suit, tan shoes, white collar and a brown tie. The only marks by which his occupation could be guessed are the tatoo marks that adorn his hands.

The case is on before Judge Ensign.

FAIRBANKS NOT RECEIVED BY POPE

Affair at Rome Is Subject of Animated Discussion in That City.

Rome, Feb. 7.—The unhappy incident which marred the visit here of Former Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks has been since the subject of animated discussion, particularly among members of the American colony.

Mr. Fairbanks had expressed a wish to pay his respects to the pope and it had been announced that an audience would be granted the distinguished American. Subsequently it was learned that he had promised to address the local society of the American Methodist Episcopal church, and following the receipt of this information at the Vatican, it was announced that Mr. Fairbanks would not be received by the pontiff unless his purpose to address the church society was abandoned. Mr. Fairbanks elected to keep his engagement with the Methodists.

Congratulated by Protestants.

Today the Protestants generally warmly congratulaed the former vice president upon what they termed his dignified attitude in the matter. The Catholics, on the other hand, express regret that what was intended to be in the nature of a homage to the pontiff should have given rise to a cause for friction. Each party accuses the other of having assumed an irreconcilable attitude. The Catholics place the responsibility for the unpleasantness upon what they describe as the offensive Methodist propaganda being conducted in Rome.

MAY TAKE LAKE TRIP.

North Dakota Editors Considering Coming This Way Next Summer.

Fargo, N. D., Feb. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—When the North Dakota Editorial association meets here Friday it is expected between seventy-five and 100 editors will be in attendance. Each county is entitled to two delegates, but all those present will participate and have a vote. Some of the more easterly counties will have a stronger representation.

In the evening the visitors will be given a banquet under the auspices of the Fargo Press club, at which Manager Plumley of the Forum will be toastmaster. Later they will be guests of a vaudeville house.

In the forenoon resident Wright of Oakes will make the annual address. In the afternoon there will be speeches by Messrs. Theis of St. Paul, Jordan of Cogswell and Baker of Fargo, followed by business sessions.

There is nothing definite regarding a summer excursion. Some editors favor a trip down the lakes from Duluth and others going to the National Park.

BEFORE ADVERTISING FOR "HELP"

ALWAYS READ THE "SITUATIONS WANTED"

In THE HERALD. This will save you time and money, as the very man or woman you are seeking may be trying to find you through a "Situation Wanted" ad. Only live, aggressive workers advertise for jobs. You can generally depend upon it that they can hold a good job, or they wouldn't spend money going after it.

READ THEM OVER

See if you need any of these people before using the "Help Wanted."
